THE PREFACE

TO THE READER.

WE have at length, through the Divine assistance, finished the Annotations upon the Bible, begun and carried on by Mr. Pool in the First Volume; whose discerning Judgement, great Industry, and pious Spirit are conspicuous in that very useful work. Our sincere design, and endeavours have been to search, and unfold the meaning of the Sacred Oracles; abhorring the impious arts of those who pervert the Scriptures from their Pure and native sense, to give colour and countenance to their private fancies. Wherem we have mistaken their genuine sense (for who in the present state of infirmity, and imperfection fully knows the mind of the Lord in them) it has not been for want of Love to the Truth, nor of using the best helps within our compass for the clearing the difficulties found in them. There remains no more for us to do, but to recommend the work to the blessing of Heaven, and to the Study of Christians, that they would diligently Read the Scriptures to understand them, and understand to practise them, and be happy for ever. It may seem needless to urge this duty upon those, who profess to Believe this Divine Book to be the sole and infallible guide to blessedness. But alas! many, who in Title are Christians, are careless of it. Some are captivated by charming lusts, and would go on in a voluptuous course of sinning without disturbance: all such have an Antipathy to the true Glass that reflects upon Conscience their foul deformity. And by their wretched neglect they not only deserve, but inflict upon themselves that severe doom, their sins shall not be purged away, till they dye: for the clear streams of the Spirit flowing in the Scriptures, both discover the spots of the Soul, and are efficacious to wash them off. Others are so deeply engaged in the business of the World, that they have no leisure to attend to the Counsels and Call of God in the Bible: if Rules were laid down therein how to obtain secular Riches and Honours, they would intently apply themselves to consider them, and treasure them up in their Minds and Memories, and diligently practise them: but since it propounds a Spiritual and future blessedness to be obtained by persevering diligence, they count it mispent time to be studious of it. Thus the worldly Wise are guilty of folly above admiration: for to gain the trifles of Time, they lose the pearl of price, that enriches the possessors for ever. Besides these Carnalists that live without God in the World; how many that pretend a veneration for the Scriptures, do but seldom or superficially regard them. 'Tis not the bare Reading of them that is profitable, but with a disposition and frame of Heart suitable to them. An humble reverence of the Majesty of God appearing in his Word makes the Heart tender and teachable, and receptive of Holy impressions: sincere aims to be instructed in the Will of God, with a resolution to obey it, prepares for the receiving spiritual benefit. The study of the Scriptures from vain curiosity, and a desire of knowledge to please our selves, and to be valued by others; is to foment pride (the universal disease of the humane mind) by the remedy that should cure it. And none are in such danger of being ignorant of the Mysteries of Godliness, as the presumptuous. But he that seeks for Salvation in the Word shall find it, and the most sublime and satisfactory knowledge with it. And to this must be joyned fervent Prayer, that the Divine Spirit, who indited the Scriptures would interpret them to us, that his concomitant Virtue, and effectual Grace may make them to be Light to the Blind, a Remedy to the Diseased, Life to the Dead, and Strength to the Living, the Conversion, and the Consolation of lost Souls. Now since the Word of God hath such a blessed influence upon all, that cordially apply it, shall we be negligent in conversing with it? How does the Example of David upbraid Christians? His superlative Esteem, and Affections were set upon the Word of God. It was his unvaluable Treasure, the most precious Gold lost its lustre and was faint in the comparison with it: it was his dearest delight the sweetest things were disrelishing and ungrateful to his palate set against it. Thus he expresses himself, The judgments of the Law are True and Righteous altogether, more to be desired are they then Gold, yea then much fine Gold, sweeter also then honey or the honey comb. Into what an ecstasy of Affection does he break forth in another Psalm? O how I love thy Law; it is my Meditation all the day. He was encumbered with the affairs of a Kingdom, yet the Divine Law was the continual attractive of his thoughts, as the needle toucht by the Loadstone always pointed to its beloved Spot. And what a small portion of the Divine Word did he enjoy to what is richly communicated to us? We have the blessed Gospel brought down from Heaven by the Son of God, wherein his Eternal Counsels are clearly revealed, to satisfy his injured Justice by the Sacrifice of the Mediatour, that his Mercy might be glorified in our Redemption. We have represented to us in the Gospel the Life of Christ so glorious in Holiness, so exemplary and persuasive to make us Holy, and Heavenly: for all the Temptations of the World are either from the desire of those things that he despised, or from the fear of the evils that he voluntarily suffered. In short Christians that profess themselves the Children, and Disciples of Christ cannot without renouncing the dignity of those Relations, neglect that Book that contains the Divine Instructions of their Master, and the Testament of their Father, disposing and assuring the heavenly inheritance to them. Let us then every day Redeem Time from the vanities, and business of the World to Read with solemnity of Spirit this Blessed Book in our Families and Closets, that we and all ours may partake of its sanctifying and saving Virtue. Let us come to the Word, as those in the Gospel to our Saviour, to Hear Him, and to be Healed of their Infirmities. And in these times of dangerous seduction from the Truth, let us with the aid of the Apostle address our selves to Christ, Lord to whom shall we go thou hast the words of Eternal Life.

ANNOTATIONS ON JEREMIAH.

The ARGUMENT.

IT was the great unhappiness of this Prophet to be a Physician to, but could not save a dying State, their Disease still prevailing against the Remedy, and indeed no wonder that all things were so much out of order, when the Book of the Law had been wanting above sixty years. He was called to be a Teacher in his youth in the days of good Josiah being Sanctified, and Ordained by God to his Propheticall Office from his Mothers Womb, Chap. 1. 5. in a very evil time, though the people afterward proved much worse upon the death of that good King. He setting himself against the Torrent of the Corruptions of the Times, was always opposed, and unkindly treated by his ungrateful Country-men, as also by false Prophets, and the Priests, Princes and People, who encouraged all their impieties, and unrighteousness: At length he threatened their Destruction and Captivity by the Chaldeans, which he lived to see, but foretold their return after Seventy years: All which accordingly came to pass: He doth also, notwithstanding his dreadful threatenings, intermix diverse comfortable promises of the Messiah, and the days of the Gospel, he denounceth also heavy judgments against the Heathen Nations, that had afflicted Gods People, both such as were near, and also more remote, as Egypt the Philistines, Moab, Edomites, Ammonites, Damascus, Kedar, Hazor, Elam, but especially Babylon herself that is made so great a Type of the Anti-Christiann Babylon in the New Testament. Upon the Murder of Gedaliah, whom the Chaldeans had made Governour of Judea, he was forcibly against his will carried into Egypt, where, (after he had prophesied from first to last between Forty and Fifty years) probably he died; some say he was stoned. Whatever else we hear mentioned of his writings, they are either counterfeits as the Prophecies of Baruch, &c. or it is likely we have the sum of them in this Book, though possibly some of his Sermons might have had some enlargements in that Roll which, by his appointment, was written by Baruch, chap. 36. 2. &c.

CHAP. I.

THE words of Jeremiah the son of Hilkiah b, of the priests that were in Anathoth in the land of Benjamin.

a i. e. Sermons, or Prophecies, which he received from God, as being his mouth to declare them unto the people, and comprising all in the volume of this Book going under his Name, as the matter, and substance of it, see on Isa. 2. 1. b As this serves to distinguish him from other Priests, for his being of Anathoth raises him among the common Priests; not that High Priest mentioned, 2 King. 2. 8. under whose Progeny Jeremiah is not named, 1 Chron. 6. 13. Who, it is probable, would have been named being one of so much note, and who always lived at Jerusalem, not at Anathoth, which was a City three Miles from Jerusalem located out of the Tribe of Benjamin for the Priests, Jer. 21. 18. Of an ordinary Teacher he was made a Prophet, not for of the rest. c i. e. That part of Canaan that fell to Benjamin there.

2 To whom the word of the LORD d came in the days e of Josiah king of Ammon f king of Judah, in the thirteenth year g of his reign.

d Either that Commission from God that did authorize him to his Propheticall work, as it may probably be taken, Jer. 10. 35. was actually given unto him vers 10. or, command of God as is used, 1 Kings 12. 22. Or, rather the materials, of which his Prophecies were to consist, for the space of 41 years successively in Judea, viz. from the 13th. year of Josiah to the 11th. year of Zedekiah, besides the time that he prophesied in Egypt, see chap. 43. and 44. 33. Isa. 2. 1. e i. e. During the Reign, and corrupt state of Religion f Who corrupted again the Religion by those Idolatries, that his Father Manasse had in the latter part of his Reign so well reformed by rooting of them out, 2 Chron. 33. 21, 22, 23. g By which it appears that Jeremiah prophesied the last 18 years of Josiah's Reign, for he reigned 31 years, 2 Kings 22. 1.

h It came also in the days of: Jehoiakim, the son of Josiah king of Judah, unto the end of the eleventh year of Zedekiah k, the son of Josiah king of Judah, unto l the carrying away of Jerusalem m captive n * in the fifth month n.

i Viz. The word of the Lord, as vers 2. j Called at first by chap. 52. 12. Jer. 41. Jer. 23. 34. Jehoiakim, and Jehoiakim where of the former reigned before him, 2 King. 23. 31. the latter succeeded, 2 King. 24. 8. are conceived not to be mentioned, because they reigned but each of them three months, and therefore not considerable, the Scripture often taking little notice of a small time, as of six months, compare 2 Sam. 5. 5. with 1 King. 2. 11. k See vers 2. of whom read 1 Chron. 3. 16. 16. l i. e. The inhabitants of Jerusalem mainly under Zedekiah, 2 King 24. 11. during all which time, things hanging in that state and condition, Jer. 39. 1. m Doth not terminate the time of his Prophecies, for he prophesied also both in Judea, and in Egypt afterwards; but only relates to what he prophesied while the City and Temple were standing, the rest seeming rather to be added, as a supplement, then to be reduced unto this general Title of his Prophecies. n Viz. Of that present year; for, though the year end not at the fifth month, yet it might end the year of Zedekiah's Reign, because he might begin his reign at the fifth month of the year.

23 But this people hath a revolting and a rebellious heart; they are revolted, and are gone.

c They are not only revolted from me, and gone back, but they continue obdurate, and will not return, Psalm 78. 8. as the next clause intimates, where God shewes their obduracy by the effect of it. d Viz. From me, they persist in their courses no reclaiming of them, for they are not only revolted, but they are gone quite away, and are irreclaimable.

24 Neither say they in their e heart, Let us now f fear the LORD our God, that giveth g rain, both the * former and the h latter in his season: he reserveth unto us the appointed weeks of the i harvest.

they are to be careless, that they never trouble themselves about it; or to obdurate, and fill, that they never lay it to heart, or consider that it is God that disposeth of all things according to his own pleasure, both in the Earth and in the great deep. ¶ For verse 6, and, all service to God being both performed in, and proceeding from it. ¶ And the thing that should fault. By this fault, the thing that is distinguished from the thing that is good, and in this appears not only his power in decreeing, Job 28. 25. and preparing it, Psalm 147. 8. His Sovereignty in withholding it, Amos 4. 7. but his general goodness in bestowing it Dan 28. 12. Math 5. 45. and his special providence in the seasonable disposal of it, according as there is need, and which he gives to the just, Job 42. 10. Psalm 147. 8. Psalm 147. 9. Psalm 147. 10. Psalm 147. 11. Psalm 147. 12. Psalm 147. 13. Psalm 147. 14. Psalm 147. 15. Psalm 147. 16. Psalm 147. 17. Psalm 147. 18. Psalm 147. 19. Psalm 147. 20. Psalm 147. 21. Psalm 147. 22. Psalm 147. 23. Psalm 147. 24. Psalm 147. 25. Psalm 147. 26. Psalm 147. 27. Psalm 147. 28. Psalm 147. 29. Psalm 147. 30. Psalm 147. 31. Psalm 147. 32. Psalm 147. 33. Psalm 147. 34. Psalm 147. 35. Psalm 147. 36. Psalm 147. 37. Psalm 147. 38. Psalm 147. 39. Psalm 147. 40. Psalm 147. 41. Psalm 147. 42. Psalm 147. 43. Psalm 147. 44. Psalm 147. 45. Psalm 147. 46. Psalm 147. 47. Psalm 147. 48. Psalm 147. 49. Psalm 147. 50. Psalm 147. 51. Psalm 147. 52. Psalm 147. 53. Psalm 147. 54. Psalm 147. 55. Psalm 147. 56. Psalm 147. 57. Psalm 147. 58. Psalm 147. 59. Psalm 147. 60. Psalm 147. 61. Psalm 147. 62. Psalm 147. 63. Psalm 147. 64. Psalm 147. 65. Psalm 147. 66. Psalm 147. 67. Psalm 147. 68. Psalm 147. 69. Psalm 147. 70. Psalm 147. 71. Psalm 147. 72. Psalm 147. 73. Psalm 147. 74. Psalm 147. 75. Psalm 147. 76. Psalm 147. 77. Psalm 147. 78. Psalm 147. 79. Psalm 147. 80. Psalm 147. 81. Psalm 147. 82. Psalm 147. 83. Psalm 147. 84. Psalm 147. 85. Psalm 147. 86. Psalm 147. 87. Psalm 147. 88. Psalm 147. 89. Psalm 147. 90. Psalm 147. 91. Psalm 147. 92. Psalm 147. 93. Psalm 147. 94. Psalm 147. 95. Psalm 147. 96. Psalm 147. 97. Psalm 147. 98. Psalm 147. 99. Psalm 147. 100. Psalm 147. 101. Psalm 147. 102. Psalm 147. 103. Psalm 147. 104. Psalm 147. 105. Psalm 147. 106. Psalm 147. 107. Psalm 147. 108. Psalm 147. 109. Psalm 147. 110. Psalm 147. 111. Psalm 147. 112. Psalm 147. 113. Psalm 147. 114. Psalm 147. 115. Psalm 147. 116. Psalm 147. 117. Psalm 147. 118. Psalm 147. 119. Psalm 147. 120. Psalm 147. 121. Psalm 147. 122. Psalm 147. 123. Psalm 147. 124. Psalm 147. 125. Psalm 147. 126. Psalm 147. 127. Psalm 147. 128. Psalm 147. 129. Psalm 147. 130. Psalm 147. 131. Psalm 147. 132. Psalm 147. 133. Psalm 147. 134. Psalm 147. 135. Psalm 147. 136. Psalm 147. 137. Psalm 147. 138. Psalm 147. 139. Psalm 147. 140. Psalm 147. 141. Psalm 147. 142. Psalm 147. 143. Psalm 147. 144. Psalm 147. 145. Psalm 147. 146. Psalm 147. 147. Psalm 147. 148. Psalm 147. 149. Psalm 147. 150. Psalm 147. 151. Psalm 147. 152. Psalm 147. 153. Psalm 147. 154. Psalm 147. 155. Psalm 147. 156. Psalm 147. 157. Psalm 147. 158. Psalm 147. 159. Psalm 147. 160. Psalm 147. 161. Psalm 147. 162. Psalm 147. 163. Psalm 147. 164. Psalm 147. 165. Psalm 147. 166. Psalm 147. 167. Psalm 147. 168. Psalm 147. 169. Psalm 147. 170. Psalm 147. 171. Psalm 147. 172. Psalm 147. 173. Psalm 147. 174. Psalm 147. 175. Psalm 147. 176. Psalm 147. 177. Psalm 147. 178. Psalm 147. 179. Psalm 147. 180. Psalm 147. 181. Psalm 147. 182. Psalm 147. 183. Psalm 147. 184. Psalm 147. 185. Psalm 147. 186. Psalm 147. 187. Psalm 147. 188. Psalm 147. 189. Psalm 147. 190. Psalm 147. 191. Psalm 147. 192. Psalm 147. 193. Psalm 147. 194. Psalm 147. 195. Psalm 147. 196. Psalm 147. 197. Psalm 147. 198. Psalm 147. 199. Psalm 147. 200. Psalm 147. 201. Psalm 147. 202. Psalm 147. 203. Psalm 147. 204. Psalm 147. 205. Psalm 147. 206. Psalm 147. 207. Psalm 147. 208. Psalm 147. 209. Psalm 147. 210. Psalm 147. 211. Psalm 147. 212. Psalm 147. 213. Psalm 147. 214. Psalm 147. 215. Psalm 147. 216. Psalm 147. 217. Psalm 147. 218. Psalm 147. 219. Psalm 147. 220. Psalm 147. 221. Psalm 147. 222. Psalm 147. 223. Psalm 147. 224. Psalm 147.

CHAP. VIII.

1 A T that time, saith the LORD they shall bring out the a bones of the kings of Judah, and the bones of his princes, and the bones of the priests, and the bones of the prophets, and the bones of the inhabitants of Jerusalem out of their graves.

a This Chapter being a continuation of the former, he proceeds in carrying on the threatening with higher aggravations of the Judgment, viz. that when the time shall come (spoken of chap. 7. 23.) the Chaldeans rage shall reach, not only to the living, but even against those, that are in their graves, and that spurring none of any degree, or quality. b Of the Nobs and Priests as Malachi, and others; possibly too it out of greenfields, supposing to find great treasure in their Sepulchres; c of the Priests, and Prophets, principally the false ones, as a just judgment of God against them for deceiving the People; d of the Soldiers, out of their spirit and fury kindled against them, as Joel, or in contempt, and indignation; and this notes the utter desolation of the City, not only razing the walls but turning up the very Sepulchres which were accounted sacred, and not to be violated.

2 And they shall b spread them before the sun, and the moon, and all the host of c heaven, whom they have d loved, and whom they have served, and after whom they have walked, and whom they have sought, and whom they have worshipped: they shall not be gathered, nor be buried; they shall be for dung upon the face of the e earth.

b Not gather them together into charnel houses as we usually do out of humanity, but scatter them about as it were to be turned into dust and dung. c viz. All the rest of the Stars, to shew that they should not lie out in the time only, but night also, before the Moon and Stars chap. 35. 30. their Carcasses shall be cast to their faces, Lev. 24. 20. 2 Kings 23. 14. 20. a kind of Lex talionis, that as they had served, and worshipped their Creatures, God doth as it were appoint them as spectators, and witnesses of his vengeance, and what contempt he pours upon them, their Carcasses being brought before their Idols, which will be to their confusion, as if one should draw forth the Adulterers, with the Adulteress into open view, and expose them together, and it also intimates the inability that is in these dumb Idols to help them in their misery. d This and the following terms serve to express the greatness and variety of their affection and zeal in their worshipping of them, Deut. 4. 19. 2 Kings 23. 5. chap. 18. he multiplies words, as it were implying, that there can hardly be words enough to express their folly and madness, the Gentiles worshipping these Creatures, not only for their beauteous looks, but for their wisdom, Philosophy apprehending them to have been living Creatures, and that all events were ordered by them. e On the superficies of it, there shall be no care taken of them, but they shall lie in the open Country in the Air, all they not dug up or dry into dust, as in the beginning of the verse, Isa. 47. 10. chap. 9. 32. they shall be ignominious even after death.

3 And death shall be chosen rather than f life, by all the residue of them that remain of this evil family, which remain in all the places whither I have g driven them, saith the LORD of h hols.

f A description of the unexpressedness of their misery, that notwithstanding all the barbarism of the Chaldeans executed, both upon the living, and the dead, yet a small number in comparison of what the living would be, of the excesses of which misery there was a double cause, not only their being led into Captivity, but Gods displeasure following them, even in their banishment, being forely expressed, one of these warnings, Lev. 25. 35. 36. see Job 3. 20. 21. Rev. 9. 6. g Some dispersed among the Mountains, and hiding places of Judas, others in the Desert of Arabia and Idumæa, whither they fled for the Chaldeans and all other places, where God would scatter them, an Hyperbole, h He that hath all the Creatures as an Army at his Command, can do this against those, with whom he is displeased.

4 Moreover, thou shalt say i unto them, thus saith the LORD, hath they fall, and not k arise? shall he turn again, and not l return?

i Though possibly it be all in vain, yet thou shalt keep in thy words. k An interrogation that hath the force of a negative, i. e. surely none, or will men, is there no hope? and are they upon this ground desperate? Or rather will men fall and not arise? If they fall, they shall not arise, for they shall be fallen, and be forever all that is coming, that they will not accept of a remedy, chap. 7. 27. Job. 14. 1. l A metaphor taken from one that is out of his way, can any imagine, that if one tell him of it, and direct him aright, that he will not hearken to him, and turn back? It is even against nature it self for a man not to seek his own good.

m Either a universal backsliding, Or, rather continually resolved to hold on, though they see they are out of the way, not out of levity or inconsiderateness, the Hib. word signifies dragging, the same used, Psal. 13. 1. and translated for ever, implying a strong, stiff, insatiable, Isa. 57. 17. chap. 5. 3. either their Impiety and concupiscence in circumventing one another, which was so frequent among them, chap. 6. 4. 5. 6. Mic. 7. 3. 4. or their hypocrisy whereby they think to deceive God, but they do indeed deceive themselves the great impediment of their Repentance, Isa. 44. 20. or rather their sticking close to their false Prophets who did deceive them, these men imagining themselves in their wickedness, and pleasing themselves, that their miseries should not come upon them. See on Isa. 30. 10. chap. 5. 21. and 14. 13. 14. 18.

y Or, the false pen of the Scribes for Jerusalem. z The things considered where is your Wisdom? When you say the very Fowls of the Air are not so stupid, as you are; he speaks either to Princes and Priests, or to the whole body of the people. a This may be understood either more general of all, or may have a more special Eye to the Priests, with whom it was intruded, Deut. 33. 10. Psal. 2. 7. b They were wont to boast much of the Law, as well as of their Temple, chap. 18. Rom. 2. 17. 23. a q. d. for any eye made of it, they had as good have been without it, God needed not to have given them a Law, Job. 8. 12. b Neither need it ever have been copied out, divulged and conveyed down to them by the Scribes, Deut. 17. 18. or the predictions, and collations these Lawyers used in the false interpretation of the Law, wherein they sided with the false Prophets, should be in vain. A Scribe was a Traveller one well versed in the Scripture or esteemed so.

* || They trusted to their refuges of lies, but when God shall bring the judgment threatened the wisdom among them will fail, that they shall be confounded among themselves, not knowing what to do for all their wisdom, but shall be taken with the rest, chap. 4. 7. by wisdom he means the Scribes in the former verse, Isa. 47. 10. d Or what is wisdom to them? how can they say they are wise, when they have no fear of God, which is the beginning of wisdom, Prov. 1. 7. when they have no respect at all to the Word of God, as to any holy practice which is the fountain of all wisdom, *Deut. 4. 6. A Paraphrastic description of the miseries of War; God doth here intimate that their misery shall not be for a short time, but so long, as that strangers, viz. The Chaldeans shall enjoy their Land by inheritance, so far should they be from possessing their Land for ever, f So greedily after their own private gain, that they took no care of equity or justice, in which word is comprized all their fraudulent dealings one among another. g Of this and the two next verses, see on chap. 6. 13. 14. 15.

The fury of the Chaldeans march is described by the snorting of their Horses, which is a noise they make through their Nostrils, when they are chafed, and frenzied. s i. e. Even to Jerusalem, q. d. the dreadfulness of the noise shall be so loud, as if, or rather, though Jerusalem seem to be secure, yet the fiercest Coasts of the Land are in great consternation, viz. the Chaldean Army was to march, see chap. 4. 15. or it is said to be heard, either the noise it self, or the time of it, chap. 6. 24. the voice of Ignorance, and expressions of their brutish fierceness, and courage in the word might properly be applied to Horses, undervaluing the chief of men, and the word for bringing us is applied to any thing, that excels, as to man, Job 34. 20. to Isaiah, Psal. 18. 25. A gift food or the head of the might, and for Hebrews here, and chap. 22. chap. 47. 2. a Hib. the fallow of it, the Trees, and Fruits, and wealth of the land, they are entered upon their spoil, and will leave nothing in the Land, chap. 4. 20. It is spoken in a prophetic style, who use to express the certainty of what shall be, as if it actually were already. x viz. Jerusalem, or rather the Cities with all their inhabitants, as well as the Country, the singular manner, being put for the plural, as Isa. 27. 10.

17 Thus saith the LORD of hosts; m consider ye, and call for the mourning n women, that they may come; and send for o cunning women that they may come.

m Either in how dad a condition they are, what circumstances they are under, or rather, betwixth your selves what course to take, and therefore puts upon mourning and bewailing their condition, intimated by the words, And they and their parents, and originally mourning, as more apt for Fathers sons in this kind, which they had among a Cleane, 35: 25 whole work was, either to compile Funeral Elegies, or to make use of the same in a more private manner, and in a negligent manner, as tearing their hair, and beating their breasts with other mourning pofures, or to fing them in some delectable tone, thereby artificially to provoke, and to move to grief, and to lamentation, as the Deced'd, rather than wringing out Tears, than fcedding them, in which probably they made greater (being Lamentations, than those that are really mourning, as being more moving, and more to grief, and to lamentation, as the Deced'd, rather than Custom had obtained in most Ages and Countries) any more than other Customs that were made use of by way of Illustration of the Mourner's grief, as the Carion, and the Carion, and the Carion, 1 Cor. 15: 29, but make use of it, as being customary and to Carion, 15: 29, but make use of it, as being customary them, intimating hereby that he would give them occasion for the most unfeigned weeping and Lamentation, as such as most difficult in it, Amos 5: 16, and being taken for still

18 And let them make p halfe, and take up wailing q for us, that our eyes may run down with tears, and our eye-lids guff out with r waters.

p As by the calling for their Artificial Mourners, he did intimate the greatness of the Sinners, that was coming upon them, that with all their Art they could not sufficiently bewail it, and here by making hiss, he intimates the near approach of that which it was even at the doors. q Pitch upon some form of Mourning that may be suitable to our condition. r This is the former are each of them an hyperbolical expression, and yet are too little to bewail the greatness of the Judgment, which suits with the Prophets Lamentation, ver. 10. The Prophet would herein intimate that they that were so stupid, as to hearken to the Prophets denouncing their Judgments with dry eyes, though he wifld them that they had been pitiful, ver. 11 (though he feel), that they shall have been enough to send for the helps, not only real, but Artificial to stir up their Mourning.

19 For a voice of wailing is heard out of Zion, How are we spoiled? We are greatly confounded, because we have forsaken the land: because our dwellings have cast us out.

i. i. Jafudim, spoken in the present tense after the Prophetic life, being a frequent use of the Prophets expressing the certainty of what they said. How great is our Misery? or how come to be in such a deplorable condition? possibly expressive of the Artificial Manners, or rather their real fence off it, nor is it all too late. x Whether this be the complaints of the country people forced to fly from their habitation to Jafudim for shelter, or of Jafudim itself, that could expect no less, filled them with great confederation; so that they who thought their houses bound up with grief, should have their hearts promoted by it. 13. v. 16. 17. 18. 19. 20. must now forsake them, Lxx. 21. Y Or, therefore, 1. c. Do not think I speak words out of mine own mind, or fancy, but what I speak is from the Lord. A Word that those birds were mentioned before, or rather the Womans of the Land, for God would have it not a mercenary, but real mourning; and he mentioneth Womans. 2. To upbraid the men with their stupidity. 2. As being more apt to grieve thereby to express the readiness, that he would have the Land to be in for mourning. 3. Because of the decay and want that would be of men, as is expressed in the next verse, by reason partly of the slaughter. and partly of the Captivity, therefore here is mention of Wives with reference to Children in the next verse, and whom they bewail: yern and daughters, and sons, and young men, mourning Women, and children, with children, and sons, unto whom they might be given in Marriage: 1. Because the female Sex is least able to equip themselves in common calamity. Or 2. Because they were thought less foliicitous, and yern to indige their delicacies, pride, froth, and wantonness. Eccl. 32. 9. 16 Heb. A woman her Friend, namely that the grief might spread the farther and become deeper, for Afflictions and pailions, of what kind soever are augmented by company: it notes how large, and universal the mourning should be. Amos 6. 16.

21 For death is come up & into our windows, and is entered into our palaces, to cut off the children from without & the young men from the streets.

c The unavailability of the ruine is expressed metaphorically.

23 ¶ Thus saith the LORD; Let not the wife man glory in his wisdom, neither let the mighty man glory in his might, let not the rich man glory in his riches.

If the Jews did glory in the counsel of their wife men, the strength of the Soldiers, and the wealth of their Cities, but here God takes them off from their vain confidences, that neither their Councils, and Policy, Eccl. 9. 11. nor their Forts and Arms, Psal. 33. 16, 17. nor their Wealth, or Riches, Prov. 11. 4. Eccl. 7. 19. should be able to deliver them from being either destroyed, or carried Captive by the Chaldeans, in the case of some of these, men are apt to put their confidences, and neglect God their only succour in distress, and there he puts them upon that in the next verse.

Kings. 10. 22.* Chrys. 2. 21. yet where the most proper commodities of it are mentioned, we read of no Gold, Exod. 27. 12. unless what seems rather to be brought thither, Gen. 2. 11. probably the best Gold, coming from thence in those days, as the best Silver from Tarshish; and that here was the best Gold is probable from Isa. 60. 9. there are various conjectures as to what place this points at, whether the same with Phaz, or Per, being an Aphrodisia, or Uphaz place far from Tarshish and divers other places are conjectured, and some think it refers to no place at all, but to point at the excellency of the Gold only; but it is not the design that this Comment should dwell with things rather conjectural, then profitable; it is enough to know, that this place intends the purest Gold; p Thus faith he, the Artificer takes it, and each, according to his Art, shapes it, and adorns it; fits the Silver and the Gold for it. q Expenses differing about the materials, out of which they were died, do differ also in the colours, which here are called Blue and Purple, the dispute is not worth the while in a vulgar Comment, that they may confute the Affinitas Argument. ## CHAP. XIII.

1 THUS saith the LORD unto me, Go, and get thee a linen girdle, and put it upon thy loins, and put it not in water.

<sup>a</sup> Gods design by what is recorded in this chapter is by two Types, as in two Glasses to let the people understand by the Prophet, how he looked upon them, and what they were in his Eyes, and also what he would do unto them, and they might expect from him, to this purpose he directeth the Prophet to procure himself a Girdle, not woollen but flax made of Flax or the like, and to put it not upon his clothes but upon his loins, to signify (as some think) that this people were a people whom God had made near to him. He commands him not to put it in water, to fatten it, as some think; linen newly made, before it is wetted in water, being rough; and this they conceive the Prophet was forbidden, for a further Type of the stiffness and roughness, and stubbornness of this people. Others think, to typify that God was no cause of this peoples rotting, and growing corrupt.

2 So I got a girdle according to the word of the LORD <sup>b</sup>, and put it on my loins.

<sup>b</sup> That is according to Gods command. <sup>c</sup> And wiled it as God commanded me, never disputing the reason, why God bid me do such a thing.

3 And the word of the LORD came unto me the second time, saying,

4 Take the girdle that thou hast got, which is upon thy loins, and arise, go to Euphrates, and hide it there in an hole of the rock.

<sup>a</sup> God having commanded the Prophet to procure such a girdle as was before mentioned, and to tie it upon his loins, he a second time comes to him and commandeth him to take this girdle and carry it to Euphrates. This was one of the four great Rivers that the River out of the Garden of Eden divided it self into. Gen. 2. 10, 14. It was the border of the promised land, Gen. 15. 18. Deut. 1. 7, 11, 24. 1 Chron. 5. 9. Andes Let was bounded by it. The Prophet was commanded to hide his girdle, in the hole of a Rock in that River. But why there? were there not other places nearer, where the Prophet might have hid it? It is judged by some, that this command was also to signify unto them, that they should be carried out of their own borders into Captivity, or rather that they had corrupted, and were become rotten by doing after the fashions and manners of the Heathens, who lived on the other side of Euphrates always, but having (an hundred years before this) captivated the ten tribes, lived also on this side of it.

5 So I went and hid it by Euphrates as the LORD commanded me.

<sup>a</sup> Most think that Jeremiah did this but in a vision, for it was a very long journey for the Prophet to take to go from Anathoth, or Hierusalem as far as Euphrates. Jeremiah was obedient to Gods command, without any disputing or asking God the meaning of this injunction to him.

6 And it came to pass after many dayes that the LORD said unto me, Arise, go to Euphrates, and take the girdle from thence, which I commanded thee to hide there.

<sup>a</sup> God who had bidden the Prophet go and hide the linen Girdle, after some considerable time speaks again to him to go and take it away from the place where he had lodged it.

7 Then I went to Euphrates and digged, and took the girdle from the place where I had hid it, & behold the girdle was marred, it was profitable for nothing.

<sup>a</sup> Whether the Prophet really made such a journey, or all this was but a Vision is very uncertain. <sup>b</sup> When he came to the place, or in his Vision, he thought when he came to the place, that he saw all the girdle rotted, and good for nothing but to be thrown upon a dunghill.

8 Then the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

9 Thus saith the LORD, After this manner will I mar the pride of Judah, and the great pride of Jerusalem.

<sup>a</sup> By this it appears that God commanded Jeremiah to do this, not only as a representation of the rotten and corrupt fate of this people, but of his Vengeance which should suddenly be brought upon them. tho they were a proud people lifted up and reared in the opinion of themselves, from the favour which God had shewed them, in making them a people near unto him, and as it were wearing them upon his Loins, yet they having corrupted themselves by mixing their dreams with the dreams of Euphrates, corrupting themselves with the superstitions, corruptions and idolatries of Heathens, God would make use of some of those Nations to abate their Pride, and pluck their teeth, and they should roar amongst those people and in face of those nations with whom, and by whose Example they had sinned against the Lord. This tenet of these words is much confirmed by the following words.

10 This evil people which refuse to hear my words, which walk in the imagination of their heart, and walk after other gods to serve them, and to worship them shall even be as this girdle, which is good for nothing.

<sup>a</sup> Hitherto the Prophet had yielded a blind obedience to God, doing what he commanded him though he possibly knew no other reason for it, but because God bade him do so (which is an homage we owe unto God, though to none but him) now God expounds himself what he meant to teach the Jews by this viz. That he did intend that they should be consumed by the people beyond the River Euphrates, as that girdle was there marred, and he also shews them, that their own sins in disobedience to his words, and following the imaginations of their own hearts, particularly their Idolatry was what had brought this loss judgement upon them.

11 For as the girdle cleaveth to the loins of a man, so have I caused to cleave unto me the whole house of Israel, and the whole house of Judah saith the LORD, that they might be unto me for a people, and for a name, and for a praise, and for a glory: but they would not hear me.

<sup>a</sup> Here God openeth to the Prophet, why he commanded him to put the girdle about his loins, viz. to shew that he of his singular favour, had wiled the Jews as a man wiled his girdle which he fasteneth about his loins, and as a man wiled his girdle, made up of some costly materials for an honour and praise to him, so Gods design in honouring this people, wearing them as a girdle was that they might bring him honour and glory, living to his praise, in the obedience of his commands especially such commands as related to his worship. <sup>b</sup> But they would not answer Gods designs, nor hearken to any counsels of that nature which he gave them, and therefore he was resolved to pluck them from his loins, and to suffer them to rot, and consume as that girdle was rotted. See Field, 82. from verse 8. to the end, which the Author of the English Annotations faith well, is an excellent Comment on this Text.

12 ¶ Therefore thou shalt speak unto this word. Thus saith the LORD the God of Israel, Every bottle shall be filled with wine, And they shall say unto thee, Do we not certainly know that every bottle shall be filled with wine?

<sup>a</sup> God by his Prophet sheweth them their ruin in another glass, he biddeth the Prophet tell them, that every bottle shall be filled with wine. Wine was what they delighted in, Mich. 3. 1. They loved flasks of wine, and were for those Prophets that would prophesie to them of wine and strong drink, Mich. 2. 11. God therefore sendeth them a Prophesie about Wine, bids the Prophet tell them, that every bottle should be filled with wine. (Glad news to the Drunkards among them!) but no very strange thing to them who often enough were wont both to fill, and to empty bottles of Wine; but they little understood the Wine which God and his Prophet intended, God therefore openeth it to them.

13 Then shalt thou say unto them, Thus saith the LORD, Behold, I will fill all the inhabitants of this land, even the kings that sit upon Davids throne, and the priests, and the Prophets, and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem with drunkenness.

<sup>a</sup> There is a Wine of affliction and confusion, Psal. 60. 3. A Wine that inebriates and inflames and fluppieth, as well as a Wine that refresheth, faith God, with that Wine I will fill all orders of persons, Kings, Priests, Prophets, and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem. Shall the Iron of David be a protection to your Kings, I will have no regard to them upon that account, nor to the Priests though they be persons consecrated to me.

14 And I will dash them to pieces against another, & Heb. a man them, even the fathers, and the sons together, against the LORD: I will not pity, nor spare, nor have mercy, & but destroy them.

<sup>a</sup> And I will set them one against another, raising up the Spirit of division amongst them, that they shall be like earthen bottles dashed one against another, which are easily broken in pieces. I will have no pity on them, therefore let them not presume upon my mercy, and pity, and compassion, for I am resolved to shew them no mercy, but to bring them to utter ruin, and destruction.

15 ¶ Hear ye and give ear, be not proud: for the LORD hath spoken.

<sup>a</sup> God ordinarily furieth exhortation and counsel to his reproof, for peradventure people will change their hearts and ways, having threatened them, the Prophet therefore (speaking) to them, that they would yet hear, and that not formally but give ear exalting them against God, and nourishing a vain confidence or presumptuous hopes, and going on in their rebellious courses despising him, and others who were but the Lords Prophets and his Messengers unto them, the word which we bring is not ours, it is the Lord that hath spoken by us.

16 Give glory to the LORD your God <sup>a</sup>, before he cause darkness, and before your feet stumble upon the dark mountains, and while ye look for light, he turn it into the shadow of death, and make it gross darkness.

<sup>a</sup> Glorify God, by an humble confession of your sins, Jed. 7. 19. 20. by submitting your selves to God, Jam. 4. 7. humbling your selves under his Word, Jam. 4. 10. and under his mighty hand, 1 Pet. 5. 6. Before God brings upon you his great and heavy judgments before threatened. As a state of prosperity is set out often in Scripture by the Notion of Light, which is a pleasant and clearing thing, so a state of affliction is often set out in Scripture under the Notion of Darkness, Jed. 8. 22. Jed. 2. 2. Amos 5. 18. and as in the want of light, which is directive to our feet, men are prone to stumble at any thing that lies in their way, so as they know not how to direct their feet or take their steps, so in times of affliction, especially great afflictions, men are ordinarily perplexed and know not what course to take. In the latter part of the verse he seemeth to threaten Gods disappointment of their expectations, the Jews to the last appeared highly confident looking for light, but they met with great disappointment, even gross darkness.

17 But if ye will not hear it, my soul shall weep in secret places for your pride, and mine eye shall weep low, and run down with tears, because the Lords flock is carried away captive.

<sup>a</sup> That is, if ye will not listen to what I say, take heed to what I say, and obey the counsel which I give you. I shall seriously and fervently mourn for your rebellion and obstinacy which is rooted in your pride, and lifting up your selves against the Lords Motions and Counsels. ¶ And I shall also mourn for your calamity when it comes upon you, I shall have a personal and family concern with you, but that will not so much trouble me as to consider that you who are the Church and People of God should be led into Captivity.

18 Say unto the King and to the Queen, Humble your selves as come down, even the crown of your glory.

<sup>a</sup> The Author of holy Writ is discernable by this as by other things, that the Scripture equally speaks to greatness persons, as to persons of meaner rank. God here calls to the King of Judah, whether it was at this time Jehoiakim or his Son Jehoiachin, is uncertain. <sup>b</sup> By Principallities he means both their dignity, and their liberty that which he often calleth the Crown of their glory. Some expound it bad-nays, because the word deriveth from a word which signifies the head.

19 The cities of the fouth shall be shut up, and none shall open them, y, Judah shall be carried away captive all of it, it shall be wholly carried away captive.

<sup>a</sup> Either the Cities of Judah which lay Southward from Chaldea, and therefore their Enemies in the next verse are said to come from the North, and this great evil shall come from the North, or (as some would have it) the Cities of Egypt, which lay yet more Southward, so as the Egyptians should neither come with sufficient force to raise the Siege, nor should there be any Sanctuary or refuge for them in Egypt, but they should certainly be wholly carried into Captivity.

20 Lift up your eyes, and behold them that come from the north: where is the flock that I have given thee thy beautiful flock.

<sup>a</sup> He speaks to them as if their Enemy was even then upon their March, that if they did but look they might see him coming. The Prophet either speaks to the King, or to the Rulers, or chief of the Congregation of Judah. Prov. 14. 28. In the multitude of the people is the Kings honour. So in the multitude of Subjects or of Members, lies much of the honour of a Church or State.

21 What wilt thou say when he shall put thee? (for thou hast taught them to be captains, and as chief over thee) shall not sorrow take thee as a woman in travail.

found and affamed when God shall visit thee with this fore judgement, or when Nabuchodonosors Army sent by God, shall visit thee; for thou, either by thy commerce and trading with them, or by thy often calling them to thy assistance, or by thy Idolatry borrowed from them, and other Nations, hast taught them to be Captains over thee; thy sorrows and affliction will come upon thee suddenly and terribly as pain cometh upon a woman in travail, yea and as certainly also.

22 And if thou say in thine heart: wherefore come these things upon me? for the greatness of thine iniquity are thy skirts discovered, and thy heels made bare.

<sup>a</sup> Hypocrites will rarely confess their own shame and Gods righteousness, but are ready to expostulate and dispute with God, and to call him to account why he hath dealt so with them, as if God had dealt unjustly. But (faith God) if thou shouldst have any such thoughts in thine heart do but remember thine iniquities, how many and how great they have been, thy nakedness is discovered because of these, and for these thou art exposed to contempt and shame; probably these phrases are fetched from the usual practice of Soldiers when they have conquered a place and taken Prisoners to strip them, and leave them of either sex, either no clothes to cover their nakedness, or nothing but their own rags, not sufficient to cover their nakedness. By Akris is meant the lower part of their bodies covered with the lower part of their garment.

23 Can the Ethiopian change his skin, or the leopard his spots? then may ye also do good, that are accustomed to do evil.

<sup>a</sup> In the Hebrew it is, can the Calbis, &c. from whence it is well concluded, as learned men judge that the Ethiopian is the posterity of Cain the son of Adam, brother to Abel, the father of the Egyptians, Jam. 10. 6. For these were the only people of old noted for their black colour in Scripture, as the Ethiops are now. ¶ God sheweth that the Jews by their continued customary sinning had so insured themselves to wicked practices, that it was as much labour in vain to endeavour to reclaim them, as to go about to wash a Blacksmore, or to take out the natural spots of the beards called Leprosy.

24 Therefore will I scatter them as the stubble that passeth away by the wind of the wilderness.

25 This is thy lot, the portion of thy measures from me, saith the LORD; because thou hast forgotten me, and trusted in falsehood.

<sup>a</sup> This is what thou shalt have as the Lords hand, the dispersion which thou shalt meet with, and thou mayest thank thy self for it, for hadst thou remembered either my former kindness to thee, or the Law that I gave thee, this had not come unto thee, but thou hast forgotten me, and trusted in lies, or in idle vain and presumptuous hopes, therefore I have given thee but a just lot, and measured to thee a just measure.

26 Therefore will I discover thy skirts upon thy face: that thy shame may appear.

<sup>a</sup> Therefore I will expose thee to all manner of shame and blot. 27. on thy face that thou shalt not be able to maintain thy own honour.

27 I have seen thy adulteries, and thy wickedness, and thine abominations: so on the hills, in the fields: wo to thee, O Jerusalem, wilt thou not be made clean? when shall it once be?

<sup>a</sup> Some think the Prophet here reflects upon them for their corporal Adulteries, and their madnes upon them, which he compares to the whoredoms of harlots, but these words on the hills in the field in the next clause seem to inform us, that he means here only their Idolatry which are in holy Writ often compared to Adulteries, which are the greatest sins in their kind, the greatest violations of the Marriage Covenant, and the only provocations of persons in conjugal Relation, and the only cause of lawful divorce. I conclude with pathetic interrogations, intimating that yet there was hope if they would reform, but yet giving over their case almost as desperate and what would not be, yet he leaves no means untried but asks them if it was not yet time, or what shall a thing might be hoped for at their hands?

CHAP. XIV.

THE word of the LORD that came to Jeremiah concerning the dearth.

<sup>a</sup> What dearth we are not told, nor when it happened; some of the deaths think that it was in the time of the Siege of Hierusalem, others that it was in the time of the Siege of Babylon, others that it was in the time of the Siege of Tyre.

that it was in the beginning of the Reign of Zedekiah but they judge most probably, that think it was in the time of Josiah, for we read chap. 25, p. of an extraordinary fast by him proclaimed, which many judge was upon this occasion: The Heb. phrase which is here used, ignifying, The matter of the Righteous, gives interpreters some liberty to abound in their fancies of this Text, but the following words make it evident, see A. 5, that the Advocate here mentioned were Gods refraining of water from them, so that the dissatis was occasioned from a great drought, which is elegantly described in the five next verses, and deplored, see 7, 8, 9, which make indeed, but a preface to the Revelation of the mind, and will of God in this Prophetic.

b By Judahs meant the men, and women in the whole country of Judah. The gates put for their Cities, or the men of their Cities languished, for want of moisture for themselves or their beasts. They are all in the habit of Mourners or the faces looked forward, and starved, for want of due and wholesome nourishment, and the cry of Hierusalem is gone up, their cry unto God by their Prayers in his Temple, or by the reason of their Misery and Grief is gone up to Heaven.

3 And their nobles have sent their little ones to the waters, they came to the pits and found no water, they returned with their vessels empty: they were ashamed and confounded, and covered their heads c.

c The scarcity of water, afflicted not mean persons only, who have not so good means to supply their necessities as others, but their greatest Persons, as they sent their little ones (it were better translated Servants for they are meant) to the places made to receive and retain Water, but finding no water in the pits, they came back again with their Vessels empty like men ashamed and confounded, and troubled upon the seeing their expectations frustrated.

4 Because the ground is chapt d, for there was no rain in the earth, the plowmen were ashamed, they covered their heads e.

d The Heb. word signifies more largely than chapt, broken, spoiled, turn'd into dust, as is usual in great droughts. e The word also which we translate plowmen, doth not strictly signify Plowmen, but husbandmen, there having been no rain upon the Earth, it brought forth little or no grass for the stock, they employed themselves in breeding or feeding Cattel, and it was no flow, and so much wanted moisture, that they could not plow nor sow, but were like men ashamed and confounded, who knew not what to do.

5 Yea, the hind also calved in the field and forsook f, because there is no grass f.

f Hinds use not to get their food in Fields, but upon the mountains and in Wildernesses but the drought was such, that these wild Creatures came into the lower grounds nearer the Habitations of men, than they were wont, and there brought forth their young. The Hinds are loving Creatures, and as all Creatures by a natural instinct love their young, so the Hinds especially, but their moisture being dried up, they could not suckle them, but were forced to leave them running about here and there to seek grass to eat.

6 And the wild asses did stand in the high places, they snuffed up the wind like dragons g: their eyes did fail because there was no grass h.

g The wild Asses wanting water, got upon high places, where was the freest and coolest air, and sucked in the Wind, and this it is said they did like Dragons of whom Avirola and others report, that by reason of the great heat of their bodies, they ordinarily stand upon high places sucking in the cool Air, and they tell us those Creatures will live upon it for some time. The Prophet describing this great drought, tells us, the wild Asses did like h. But for want of Grass their eyes were either dim, or they being almost starved, or else almost blind, the phrase signifies the frustration of their expectation, which this phrase also sometimes signifies in Scripture, Psalm 69, 3.

7 O LORD! though our iniquities testify against us, do thou it i for thy names sake i: for our backslidings are many, we have sinned against thee m.

i The Prophet having described their misery, both in the cause of it, the drought for want of rain, and the effects of it, he appeals himself to that God, who he knew was he who alone could give the former and the latter rain: confessing that their sin and backslidings were very many, and testified against them, that they had deserved Gods severe scourge, and God was Righteous in what of this nature he had done against them. But yet faith he i do thou it i for thy name sake i and what we thus in need of i give us rain. i Though not for our sake, we deserve no such kindness from thee, yet for thy names sake: thy word or promise, or rather near for time honour and glory sake. So Psalm 43, 25. & 43. 1. where God promisseth them to then their kindness for his names sake, so as Jeremiah Prayer is but a pleading of Gods promises, that he would fulfill his word. m For here signifies though, and might have been better so interpreted.

8 O the hope of Israel n, the Saviour thereof in time of trouble o, why shouldst thou be as a stranger in the land, and as a wayfaring man, that turneth aside to tarry for a night p?

n That is the object of Israels hope, he in whom alone they people Israel have been wont to hope, or he in whom alone Israel hath just reason to hope. o Thou who hast formerly been their Saviour in the times of their trouble, or who alone canst save them in such times of trouble, as thou hast now brought them into, see Psalm 93, 25. & 45. 1. p Why shouldst thou be as that regardst thy ancient people no more than a Stranger, or a Traveller, who taketh no farther care for the place, or the house where he lodgeth, than for the short time that he is to stay or abide in it.

q The Hebrew word here used being found in no place of Holy Writ but this, hath given interpreters a liberty to translate it vainously, flapp, weak, affronted, frighted, like a man in such disorder from some great passions, that he is able to do nothing.

r Like a man who in his own nature is strong and mighty enough, but through sickness or passion is so weakened that he cannot put forth his strength for the succour and relief of his friends. s Yet (saith the Prophet) thou art in the midst of us, that is we have thy Temple to which thou hast promised thy special presence, or rather it is to be understood of the whole Land, according to what God had declared, Numb. 5, 3. and 35. 34. Deut. 12, the Lord which ye shall inhabit, whereto I dwell: Jer. 1, the Lord dwell among the Children of Israel, I dwell: Jer. 13, the Lord dwell among the Children of Israel, I dwell: as if we whom we have that repaire, but by thy self. God often calleth this people in Scripture, his people, his portion. t Therefore he begs that God would not leave them, he means as that special providence; by which he had formerly watched over them, and cared for them, and been a protection to them, as to his Ordinance, and his special gracious presence with them in his Temple.

10 Thus saith the LORD unto this people, u thus have they loved to wander v, they have not refrained their feet w, therefore the LORD doth not accept them x, y he will now remember their iniquity, and visit their sins z.

u Here beginneth that divine Revelation mentioned 1, as an answer to the Prophets complaint, and prayer in the nine first verses. The substance of which is, that for their manifold sins, he was resolved to punish them, and therefore would not be any more sollicitous on their behalf. v They have gone aside out of the way of my precepts, and that out of principle of love and delight, they have been fond of their Idols. w And they have perished in those devotions and sinful courses, notwithstanding all counsels, and arguments used with them to the contrary, nothing could keep their feet to the way of my testimonies. x Therefore though they pray and cry, and fast, God will not accept them. y But by his punishment of them for their sins, he will let them know that as he hath seen and taken notice of, so he hath not forgot what they have done.

11 Then said the LORD unto me a. Pray b Exod. 32. 11 not for this people for their good a.

a Twice before God had given the Prophet this charge, chap. 7, 25. & chap. 11, 14. how he could comfort with the pious of Jeremiah, after those charges to put up the Prayer we have in the beginning of this chapter, the notes on chap. 11, 14.

12 * When they fast, I will not hear their cry b, c and * when they offer burnt-offering and d, e an oblation, I will not accept them, c but * f chap. 6, 16 will consume them by the sword and by the flame, chap. 9, 1 and by the pestilence d.

b The like threatening we have, Prov. 2, 28. Psalm 1, 19. chap. 11, 11. Ezech. 8, 18. Micha. 3, 4. Men may so long despite Gods calls, exhortations and counsels as their case may be desperate as to the prevention of temporal judgments by such Religious application to God as ordinarily have their effect, to prevent and remove judgments, see Psalm 15, 1. Ezech. 14, 20. d He threatneth to add to their Plague, three fore judgments, ordinarily accompanying one another both in Gods threatnings, chap. 29, 17, 18, and 34, 17, 18c.

13 Then said I Ah Lord God! Behold the prophets say unto them, Ye shall not see the sword, sword, neither shall ye have famine, but I will give you † assured peace in this place e.

e We have many complaints of this Prophet against false prophets that contradicted his Prophecies, chap. 10, 2. & 13. 2. and we shall hereafter meet with the names of some of them corrupt Prophecies never want Prophets to their honour, though a bolder unbelief can hardly be imagined, then for men to impute God to their own imaginations and fancies, and we shall ver. 15. meet with the usual wages of such works.

14 Then the LORD said unto me. The prophets prophetic lies in my name m, n I sent them not, neither have I commanded them, neither spake unto them: they prophesie to you a false vision and divination, and a thing of nought, and the deceit of their heart.

m They did not only prophesy falsehoods, but lies, what they knew to be false, for they perceived, that God had revealed such things to them, for admit the things they spake (as to men) but future contingencies, which might be true or false, yet it was a lie for them to pretend that God had told them any such things. The things were certainly false in themselves, being contrary to Gods revelation, but seeing they ascribed them to pretend God had revealed that to them which he had not revealed was a formed lie, God denieth that he ever commanded them to speak any such things, or sent them upon any such errands, they prophesied what came in their own foolish heads, and the deceit of their own heart.

15 Therefore thus saith the LORD, concerning the prophets that prophesie in my name and I sent them not, yet they say, Sword and famine shall not be in this land, by sword and famine shall those prophets be consumed n.

n It is a most dangerous thing for Ecclesiastical Ministers to deliver that to people as the will of God, which is not so: God here threatneth that these Prophets in testimony of the truth of the Word of God delivered by Jeremiah should dye by these very judgments, which they falsely prophesied to this people as from Gods immunity from, vide chap. 6, 15. and 20, 6. 1 Kings 22, 25.

16 And the people to whom they prophesie, shall be cast out in the streets of Jerusalem, because of the famine, and the sword, and they shall have none to bury them, their wives, nor their sons nor their daughters; for I will pour their wickedness upon them o.

o The severity promised by these false Prophets, shall be no excuse to the people for giving credit to them, the Prophets shall perish for prophesying falsely in my name, and the people that hearken to and believe what they say, and practice according shall perish for their light and vain credulity. As the sinful commands of superiors in things civil, will not free those from guilt that execute their commands: so the lies and false teachings of Ministers, will not excuse those that run into error upon the credit of their words; both the one and the other owe their first home and Allegiance to God, by whose word they ought to examine the precepts of the one, and the prophesyings of the other.

17 ¶ Therefore thou shalt say this word unto them p. Let mine eyes run down with tears night and day, and let them not cease, for the virgin daughter of my people is broken: with a great breach with a very grievous blow.

18 If I go forth into the field, then behold the slain with the sword, and if I enter into the city, then behold them that are sick with famine, q yea both the prophet, and the priest ¶ go about into a land that they know not q.

q The Prophet is by God directed to speak full of the calamities of this people as a thing past though yet to come, according to the usual file of Prophetic writings, and to tell them that what soever their false Prophets told them, yet he too certainly knew the contrary, that he could even with himself melted into tears for them, and had even already before his Eyes the doleful spectacle of their miseries. Some in the Field slain by the Enemies sword, others within the walls almost starved to death. q The word in the Hebrew ¶ which we translate go about, signifies to primarily, and in a second sense to Merchandise, because Merchants go about Countries to Trade, this hath made that variety of sense which the margins of our Bible have, but our translation is true enough and the sense seems to be, that Prophets and Priests, (though accounted sacred persons) should be made Captives also, and wander in a Land, whereto they were strangers. This is thought to relate to the first Captivity in the time of Zedekiah, when the people of the best favour were carried into Captivity.

19 Haft thou utterly rejected Judah? hath thy soul loathed Zion? why hast thou smitten us, and there is no healing for us? r * we looked for peace, and there is no good, and for the time of healing, and behold trouble r.

r The Prophet again returns to God, expostulating with him, and humbly imploring mercy for his people, which lets us know that he did not understand Gods words, chap. 10, 1. as an absolute prohibition of him to pray for this people. r Zion was a place whose gates God loved, and Jerusalem was his pleasant portion. Lord hath the Prophet, it is possible that thou shouldst loathe a place which thou so much lovest, and ordain of a people which thou hast so much loved? r He acknowledgeth Gods love to be that had smitten them, and their condition without him, to be helpless and hopeless. r And that all their hopes and expectations were frustrated.

20 We acknowledge, O LORD, our wickedness, and the iniquity of our fathers, for s * we have sinned against thee s.

s That is both we and our Fathers have sinned against thee, and thus have thee a right to punish and destroy us, we desire not to cover or cloak our sin, we own and acknowledge it.

t The thing which the Prophet deprecates is, the judgments come already, and further coming upon this people, the famine, sword and pestilence, under the sad consequences of which they at present laboured, but he prays for the removal of these judgments, and the prevention of such as were yet to come, in this phrase, Do not abhor us; noting to us, that the love of God to a people is the root of all good which they can expect, and his hatred or displeasure, the root of all the evil that can befall them. Here are diverse Arguments brought to back this Petition. 1 For thy names sake, that is thine honour and glory sake, an Argument often made use of in Holy Writ, in the Prayers of Gods people, Psalm 76, 7. Psalm 138, 1. and upon a very good Foundation, whether we consider Gods concern for his own glory, or the tenure of Gods promises, promising mercy for his own names sake. 2 He also argues with God, from his former love and kindness to this people, which he had made the Throne of his glory, the words are either to be understood of the Throne of the House of David, called the Lords Throne, 1 Chron. 29, 23. or else the Temple and the ark in it, therefore special symbol of Gods presence; hence he is to be desired to withdraw the Clouds, Psalm 80, 1. to chap. 17, 12. the Prophet saith, 1 Kings 19, 10. 2 Kings 19, 10. the beginning is our Sanctuary. Lords, (saith the Prophet) we have deserved all the disgrace thou canst throw upon us, but do not thus disgrace the Throne of thine own glory. 3 Remember, break not thy Covenant with us. 4 Jeremiah then knew that God could not break his Covenant? 5 He did know it, but he also knew that it is our duty to pray to God to fulfill it, or possibly he would extend it a little further, and for Gods covenant sake made with the faithful in Israel, he would have desired mercy for the whole body of the Nation.

22 Are there any among the vanities of the Gentiles that can cause rain to w, or can the heavens give showers? a * Art not thou he, O LORD † our God? b therefore we will wait upon thee, c for thou hast made all these things c.

a The present Judgment under which they groined, was a drought, which he had described in the six first verses, the Prophet imploring God for the removal of it, argues from the impossibility of help in this case from any other way, none of the idols of the Heathens, which he calls vanities, nothing of the kind, or of no use or profit to those that ran after them, could give Rain. a The Heavens indeed give it, but in the order of second causes, if God stoppeth those borders they cannot run. b Lord art not thou able to do it (saith the Prophet) may, are not thou he who is sole to do it (forasmuch the phrase doth import) The Scripture constantly gives God the honour of giving Rain, Gen. 2, 5. Deut. 28, 12. 1 Kings 8, 35. 2 Chron. 6, 27. Job 5, 10. and 38. 25. Psalm 147, 8. chap. 5, 22. and 51. Jos. 23, 23. Psalm 104, 1. Matt. 5, 45. Mat. 11, 14. 1 Peter 3, 12. therefore faith the Prophet, yet they people will wait upon thee by Prayer, and the payment of those homages thou requirest, for thou hast made all these things, that is, (if we may) thou hast caused all these judgments, or effective dispensations, or rather, thou hast made the Rain, I say mentioned.

verse, they seem rather Gods words unto the Prophet, rebuking his diffidence, and distrust in God, and promising him that if he did return from that diffidence and distrust in Gods Promise and Providence, he would restore him to the former favour he had had with him, and he should be his Prophet to reveal his mind to the people. And if he would separate the precious Truths of God, from the vile Conceits of men, or rather preach to us as distinguishing good and bad men one from another, then God would continue him as his Prophet, to speak in his name unto the people. He charged the Prophet to keep his ground, and not to go over unto wicked men, but to use his endeavour to reduce them to that obedience which he yielded to him.

10 And I will make thee unto this people a fenced brazen wall, &c. They shall fight against thee, but they shall not prevail against thee, for I am with thee, to save thee, and to deliver thee, faith the LORD.

x These words are expounded by those that follow. y Look as men may throw stones or flite at a brazen wall, but do not hurt, so faith God, though thou shalt have Enemies that will be offering at thee, yet if thou continest steady in the doing of thy duty, they shall do thee no harm. z For thou shalt have my power engaged for thee to deliver and save thee from their malice.

21 And I will deliver thee out of the hand of the wicked, &c. I will redeem thee out of the hand of the terrible.

a The wicked Jews. b And the power of the terrible Caldeans, into whose hands thou shalt come, but be preserved from any harm, by the workings of my Providence for thee.

CHAP. XVI.

1 THE word of the LORD came also unto me, saying,

2 Thou shalt not take thee a wife, neither shalt thou have sons nor daughters in this place.

a It is uncertain whether what we have in this Chapter, be a new Revelation, or a continuance of his former Prophetic God commandeth the Prophet in to under certain Types, to foretell their utter ruin and destruction. b First he commandeth him to have no wife, nor have sons or daughters. He expoundeth this command. cap. 3. 4.

3 For thus faith the LORD concerning the sons, and concerning the daughters that are born in this place, and concerning their mothers that bare them, and concerning their fathers that beget them in this land.

4 They shall die of c grievous deaths, they shall not be d lamented, neither shall they be buried; but they shall be as dung upon the face of the earth, and they shall be consumed by the sword, and by famine, and their carcasses shall be meat for the fowls of heaven, and for the beasts of the earth.

b God in these verses opens the reason why he would not have the Prophet marry nor multiply Relations. In civil and calamitous times, those who multiply Relations do but multiply sorrows and afflictions to themselves; the Apostle in evil times tells the Corinthians that married persons should have trouble in the flesh, 1 Cor. 7. 28. and Christ pronounceth a woe to those that should be with Child, and to those that gave suck at the time when Hierusalem should be besieged. God tells the Prophet, he was resolved that the people of this land, both young and old should die miserable deaths, and die so fast that there should be none to bury them. They should die by the sword, and the Famine, and be devoured by the fowls and the beasts, and therefore it was better for him to slide free from Relations, for whose Miserie he would be as much concerned as for his own affliction.

5 For thus faith the LORD, Enter not into the house of e mourning, neither go to lament, nor bemoan them: for I have taken away my peace from this people, faith the LORD, even loving kindness and mercies.

e There is a great difference in the Translation of this word, that Amos 6. 7. the very same word signifies banquets, and is so translated; yet there is no contradiction for banquets are now, (and probably anciently were) in the Houses of mourning, as well as in the Houses of those that rejoice. It is appeareth plainly by the words that follow, that the Apostle was here forbidden to go to funeral Feasts, or to lament and bemoan any. d For (faith God) I have, that is, I will take away peace from this people. Possibly the meaning of God might be this, do not go to comfort such as mourn for any Relations dead, (for their feelings upon those occasions were up on a consoling account; 1 Thess. 4. 13. you read of a cup of consolation) for faith God, they have no need of it, for those that die most happy, for I will take away the peace of this people, and deprive them of all my Mercy, and Loving kindness which I have hitherto blessed them.

6 Both the great and the small, shall die in this land: they shall not be buried, neither shall f men lament for them, nor g cut themselves, nor h make themselves bald for them.

f There shall so many of all ranks and sizes die in this land, that men shall have no time to bury them, or there shall not be enough left living to bury the dead, nor shall men, for their own miseries have leisure to lament for the miseries of other men. g Cutting themselves in their flesh, and cutting off their hair were Pagan Customs, which God forbade his own people, but yet it should seem they practised these barbarous Customs, but faith God, I will put an end to that practice, men shall die so fast and in such multitudes, as they shall have no leisure to cut themselves for such as are dead, they shall not have such solemn mourning as they have had.

g If we allow our Translation here of the word DR with the word supplied themselves, it will be hard to give a tolerable sense of these words, for then tearing is the same with the cutting themselves mentioned in the former verse, which though it might be as a puerile expression of the persons sorrow that did it, yet how it should comfort the friends of the deceased, will be very hard to conceive. But the Truth is, the word hath but two significations, and we have here given it what doth worst suit this Text. It signifies to Divide, and to Tear or Rend. Both in Kal the first conjugation, and in Piel the third conjugation it is used to signify dividing; in the former, Isa. 58. 7. where we interpret it did to deal, that is, divide they bread to the hungry, which is the only sense (excepting this) where it is used in this conjugation. In the other conjugation it is so used in many texts, Lev. 11. 4. 5. Exod. 24. 14. 7. so certainly it might have been translated here, *Neither shall men divide bread for them in mourning to comfort them for the dead, and fetcheth to him to use a custom in use amongst them, when they had any friend, that had lost his, or her Relations to feed them some meat or victuals (for amongst the Hebrews all things that they were called Bread) and then to go and dine or sup with them, to have opportunity to speak comfortably to them. This doubtless is the sense of the words, and it is plain enough and this is confirmed by the next phrase. k Neither shall men drink the cup of consolation for their fathers, &c. in such cases they were wont to have something to eat, for they were also wont to feed Bottles of Wine, or other cheering Liquor to drink, that they might forget their sorrows, this is called, The cup of consolation, from the end for which the feeding, and drinking of it was intended. God tells them that the time should come that so many should die, and so fast, and the rest should be so much upon the brink of the Grave, that they should have no leisure for, or heart to these Ceremonies.*

8 Thou shalt not also go into the house of feasting, to sit with them to eat and to drink. i God did not only forbid his Prophet, to go into houses of mourning, to eat and to drink according to their Custom, to comfort those who had lost their friends, but he forbade him also to go into houses, where they were wont to eat, and to drink upon a more cheerful account.

9 For thus faith the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, Behold j I will cause to cease out of this place in your eyes, and in your days, the voice of mirth, and the voice of gladness, the voice of the bridegroom, and the voice of the bride.

k And he declares that he did this injunction upon him as a sign that his countrymen by such his forbearance, might understand, that God in his Providence was about to put an end to all their Civil mirth in their days.

10 And it shall come to pass when thou shalt shew this people all these words, l and they shall say unto thee, m Wherefore hath the LORD pronounced all this great evil against us? or what is our iniquity? or what is our sin that we have committed against the LORD our God?

l Or all these things, when thou shalt be observed by this people to refuse Marriage, and to go to the houses of Mourning, according to the Custom, to eat, or to drink with mourners, to make them to forget their sorrows, or to go into the house of feasting for jollity and mirth, and they shall ask the reason of thy singularity in this behaviour, and thou shalt give them the reason of it, according as I have instructed thee, and they shall pretend to be at a loss, to know the reason why God is so severe against them, for what sin or iniquity it is, thinking perhaps that Manasse or Jehoiachin's committing them to worship idols would excuse them, and only leave plain Idolatry amongst them, which while there was such cause sufficient that God had, considering the multiplied threats in the Law.

11 Then shalt thou say unto them, Because your fathers n, have forsaken me, faith the LORD, and have walked after other gods, and served them, and have worshipped them, and have forsaken me, and have not kept my Law.

a The Idolatrous Kings of Judah that were before Manasse his times, since whose time there were hardly forty years yet elapsed.

12 And ye have done o worse than your fathers (for behold ye walk every one after the p imagination of his evil heart, that they might not hearken unto me.)

q Ye in later ages, in the time of Manasse, have done worse than your Fathers did, and now in the time of Jehoiachin, you run on much in the same course of Idolatry and superstition, which in this is worse in you, because for thirty years together you had the better Example of good Jehoiachin, the father of your present King, together with what his Authority could do to reduce you, yet hath not been gone now above five years, and you are returned to your old vomit, and are all of you serving me according to your own fancies, so stubborn are you, and resolved against obedience to me.

13 Therefore will I call you out of this land, unto a land that ye know not, neither ye, nor your fathers r, and there ye shall serve other Gods day and night, where I will shew you no favour.

r You would not hearken to me to obey my voice in that good land, which I gave you and which you have known, and inherited now many years; therefore I will throw you out into a land which you know not, and which your fathers knew not. s You would not serve me in this land, but chose to serve other gods in my Land, you shall serve other gods in a strange land; ye shall there have to such opportunities as you have here at Hierusalem, to worship me the true God according to the prescription and direction of my Word, ye shall there have no Gods else but idols to worship, and what is now matter of choice to you, shall then be forced upon you, the Governors of those countries into which you shall be carried, shall force you to fall down, and to worship their Idols, which was verified afterward by Nebuchadnezzar, Daniel 3. 8.

14 ¶ Therefore behold the t dayes come, faith the LORD, that it shall no more be said, The LORD liveth that brought up the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt.

u It were better translated Notwithstanding, for that is manifestly the sense. God wicetheth the dreadful threatnings preceding, with a comfortable promise of their Resurrection.

15 But the LORD liveth that brought up the children of Israel from the land of the north, and from all the lands whither he had driven them v, and I will bring them again into their land that I gave unto their fathers.

w Which he should be to graunt a Mercy to them, that in regard of the novelty of this deliverance, or in regard of the great Misery they should be enduring the Captivity of Babel, when they should be delivered from it they should not so much remember their deliverance from the house of Bondage in Egypt, and magnify God for that Salvation, as this new deliverance of them out of this Captivity. x For he would certainly bring them again into the land of Canaan, a land which he had given unto their Fathers.

16 ¶ Behold I will fend many fishers, faith the LORD, and they shall fish them; and I will fend for many hunters, and they shall hunt them from every mountain, and from every hill, and out of the holes of the rocks y.

z Though some Interpreters make these words a promise either of Gods reparation of this people, and making use of Cyrus who as a Fishman or Hunter, by his Proclamation fetched the Jews out of all parts of his dominions, to return to Hierusalem; or of the Calling of Gods Elect by the Apostles, who were Gods Fishermen, and went up and down preaching the Gospel in all places: yet the next verse rather guideth us to interpret it as a threatening, and by these Fishermen and Hunters, to understand all those Enemies whom God made use of to destroy these Jews, hunting them out of all holes and covers whereof they should fly, and take Sanctuary.

y God is of purer eyes than that he can behold iniquity in any as to approve it, and therefore though he be long patient, yet he will at last punish evil-doers, for his Eyes behold them, their fins are open in his sight, and he particularly observeth mens actions, that he may render unto every one according to his works.

18 And first I will recompense their iniquity, and then I will double x: because they have defiled my land y, they have filled mine inheritance with the carcases of their detestable and abominable things z.

a Before I will restore them and return in my wonted favour to them, I will punish them for their ways which I have seen, which are ways of iniquity, and will plentifully punish them (for I double their iniquity, nor the double of what their sins deserve). y Because by their Idolatry, blood and cruelty and other sins they have defiled the land which I own, and which I have given them. z And have filled the Country which I have chosen for, and named my habitation, with their detestable things, that is practices, or unclean beasts offered to their Idols in Sacrifices, or innocent persons slain by them.

19 O LORD, my strength and my fortrefs, and b my Refuge in the day of affliction, c the Gentiles shall come unto thee from the ends of the earth, and shall say, Surely our fathers have inherited lies and vanity, and things wherein there is no profit d.

e The Prophet hearing Gods resolution before he shewed this people any mercy to be avenged on them for their sins, leaves off speaking to him upon that argument, but applieth himself to God for mercy for himself, and to confirm his Faith in him, gives him names suited to his hopes in him, and which might declare his Faith in him for the obtaining favour from him in an evil day. f And comforteth himself with the thoughts of those good days that were coming, when not only the Jews should be again restored to their Country, but the Gentiles also from all parts of the world (whom also many of the Jews should accompany) should apply themselves to God, confessing that both they and their fathers, in their worshipping dumb Idols, had but inherited lies and Vanity, and things that were unprofitable.

g It is doubtful whether this be to be understood as the words of God, shewing the unreasonableness of the Sin of Idolatry, or as others who make them the continued speech of the Gentiles who after their Conversion, should see the unreasonableness of worshipping the works of their own hands. Whoso owneth a God, owneth an idol being, a first Cause and mover, and Creator of all things. Now can any man be so foolishly proud as to think that a finite being, should give a being to an infinite Being, that he who is a Creature, should make his Creator, that he should be a Cause to the first Cause? (things which are all contradictions to the common sense of men). A man is no God himself, how can he communicate a Divine nature which himself hath not to another?

21 Therefore behold, I will this once cause them to know, I will cause them to know mine hand, and my might h, and they shall know that my name is the LORD i.

j Because all the goodness and mercy that I have shewed them, will not learn them to know me, my power and might, I will once for all make them to understand it, by the dreadful strokes of my Vengeance. k They shall know, that my name is Jehovah. That I am not such a one as their Idols, but one who have my being from my self, and give life and being to all other things, and have all might, and power in my hand, and can do whatsoever I please; and one that will make good whatsoever I have spoken concerning it, as a way of promise or threatening.

CHAP. XVII.

1 THE sin of Judah is written with a pen a of iron, and with the point of a diamond b; it is graven upon the table of their heart c, and upon the horns of their altars d.

There is much arising amongst those that are critical about the true signification of words, what is here signified by שִׁטְרָה which we translate a Diamond, I do not agree that it doth not signify a Diamond (not used in engraving), but that by the Pen of Iron, and the point of a Diamond, are meant some pen or point which they were wont to engrave things upon hard substances, it may be made in a figure resembling the claw of a Bird, as the word seemeth to import. It is given in their hearts they are so accustomed to sin, so inured to Idolatry, that there is no hope of any reclaiming them. For how can they that are accustomed to do evil do well? Now is it a thing done in secret, but it is written or painted, or engraved upon the horns of their Altars, Gods Altar was four-square, and at each corner there was a rising part made of Brass (something high) were called the corners of the Altar. See Exod. 27. 2. Ezek. 43. 15, 16. Now their sin is either said to be engraved, or published, upon the horns of the Altar, because the blood of the Sacrifices which they offered to idols was sprinkled there, or because their Altars had some inscription upon them, declaring to what Idol that Altar was consecrated, as the Altar of Ashim had.

4 This flew how inveterate they were in this sin of idolatry, that they taught in their Children, and their Children remembered their idolatrous Altars, and the Groves, where they were wont to worship Idols by the green Trees, as they did also upon the High Hills, for their sin was derived from one age to another. Others think that the phrase rather expresseth their fondness of their Idols, as if they thought it as easy, as their Children, they remember, &c. that is they loved their children, and their idolatrous services, as they loved their children, which also was true, yet that they made their Children pass through the fire to Moloch, loved them better than their Children.

3 O my mountain in the field, I will give thy substance, and all thy treasures to the spoil, and thy high places for sin, throughout all thy borders.

O Mount Zion, for though Jerusalem stood in a plain, yet it was at the foot of an Hill, and part of it was built upon the side of the Hill, upon the top of which Hills, were many pleasant Fields. Or O Jah which was a Country full of Mountains, God calls it his Mountain, because of the partridge (as he had to this Country). It is threatened to give all the riches of the Inhabitants of Jah (as Jah was a Country full of pleasant Fields) where they had committed Idolatry throughout all their Country into the Enemies hands.

4 And thou, even thou shalt discontinue from thine heritage which I gave thee, and I will cause thee to serve thine enemies, in the land which thou knowest not: for ye have kindled a fire in my anger, which shall burn for ever.

In the word discontinue there is a secret promise, that they should again come and possess and inherit their Land, they should not lose their inheritance, but only discontinue their possession and occupation of it. Some learned Authors considering that the same word is here used, which is used Exod. 23. 11, to make leagues with, and flee to foreign Idolatrous Nations to help and succour them, and to repose confidence in them, and to bolster up themselves in their wicked and sinful courses promising themselves deliverance from the dangers that threatened them, by the power of their Idols, and their Allies. This sin the Prophet here reflecteth upon. That while their hearts departed from God they would yet encourage themselves from the hope of help from men: The Prophet from God declares that such are and shall be cursed, and men of sin, under the notion of Idols, to show his frailty, and impotence, to help against the mighty power and wrath of God, withal blessing us. That God alone is the true object of our Faith and Confidence, as well for the things of this Life, as those of another Life, and that none who have departed from God, can have any security for any help from the Creature.

5 Thus saith the LORD, Curled be the man, that trusteth in man, and maketh flesh his arm, and whose heart departeth from the LORD.

It was the great sin of this people for which they were often taxed in Holy Writ, 2 Chron. 16. 7, and 28. 26. Ira. 33. 1, 2, and 31. 1, 2, when any danger threatened them for their sins, to make leagues with, and flee to foreign Idolatrous Nations to help and succour them, and to repose confidence in them, and to bolster up themselves in their wicked and sinful courses promising themselves deliverance from the dangers that threatened them, by the power of their Idols, and their Allies. This sin the Prophet here reflecteth upon. That while their hearts departed from God they would yet encourage themselves from the hope of help from men: The Prophet from God declares that such are and shall be cursed, and men of sin, under the notion of Idols, to show his frailty, and impotence, to help against the mighty power and wrath of God, withal blessing us. That God alone is the true object of our Faith and Confidence, as well for the things of this Life, as those of another Life, and that none who have departed from God, can have any security for any help from the Creature.

6 For he shall be like the heath in the desert, and shall not see when good cometh, but shall inhabit the parched places in the wilderness, in a salt land and not inhabited.

The sum is he shall not thrive, nor prosper but be like the heath, by which is meant some barren Shrub or Tree, about which the various guests of Interpreters (which the Reader that is curious may find in the English Annotations) are but uncertainties, and this planned in the Wilderness too which is a barren soil, which Tree or Plant is never the better for all the moisture that comes from heaven, nor for all the beauty of the Sun's rays, but stands in a dry and false place, not inhabited by people. The scope is to let us know, that sinners who depart from God, and do not place their confidence in him in times of danger, but trust in creature aids and alliances, shall miss of those very good things which they might have had if they had expected them from him, from whom alone they could have been obtained.

Trusting in the Lord necessarily implies also a walking close with him, and not in heart departing from him, for it is naturally impossible, that one should repose confidence in another for any good things, which that other hath promised under any condition, without some disposition in himself, that he hath some measure fulfilled the condition upon which the promises is made. But that man that truly trusteth and hopeth in the Lord is, and shall be a blessed man.

8 For he shall be as a tree planted by the waters, and shall spread out her roots by the river, and shall not see when heat cometh, but her leaf shall be green, and shall not be careful in the year of drought, neither shall cease from yielding fruit.

The sum is, he shall be prosperous and successful in his counsels, and undertakings like a Tree planted, by the side of a River, which is not affected with drought, but in a time when the leaves of Trees standing in dry mountainous places parch and wither, its leaves hold their greens, and its colour is not altered by drought, neither doth it cease from yielding fruit, but brings forth much fruit when other Trees are wholly unfruitful.

9 The heart is deceitful above all things, and desperately wicked, who can know it.

The words translated deceitful, and desperately wicked, are very variously translated, deceitful, perverse, supplicating, he speaks to the Jews, that they might not lean too much to their own counsels, fancies, or understandings, but it is a proposition true concerning the hearts of all the Sons, and Daughters of men; there is nothing so false and deceitful as the heart of man, deceitful in its apprehensions of things, in the hopes and promises which it nourishes, in the assurances that it gives us, like uncharitably by others, deceitful with reference to our selves, and abominably wicked, for that neither can a man know his own heart, neither can any other know his heart.

10 I the LORD search the heart, I try the reins, even to give every man according to his ways, and according to the fruit of his doings.

I left these Hypocrites should pretend that their hearts were not departed from God, or should say how they could see, or how they knew the heart of another fellow creature, yet I know the hearts of all creatures, I search the secret thoughts, and counsels and designs of all my creatures, for I will judge them according to their thoughts and the secret motions and affections of their souls according to all their ways, and the fruit of their doings. You cannot therefore mock me, and tell me your hearts are not departed from me.

It is no wonder if we cannot be certain as to the sense of these words so far as they concern natural History, when we are not certain what bird it is to which it doth relate, we translate it Partridge. Others will have it the Cuckoo; but certain it is that in the same word which we translate Partridge, 1 Sam. 17. 20, and Cuckoo is used not to be much named after, for the Partridge is said to sit on eggs, and hatch them not, is yet a greater question. It may be occasioned to many ways, yet either sitting upon Widows eggs, or being killed before the Eggs are hatched, or having its Eggs destroyed by the male Partridge or by some Dog, or other Vermin, or by itself being caught by a net, or by the Partridge taken from her, that it is hard to determine which the Prophet means, of all other I left approve of that which Hieronymus makes the sense, though the true is, (if we may believe Cassiodorus and Isidore natural Historians, Idolaters, &c.) That Partridge have such a love and desire to hatch the Eggs of other Partridges and hatch them, which Birds being hatched the young ones knowing the cry of their proper dams, hearing the young ones that hatched them, (which is one of them call, leave the Partridge to show the faculty of that Bird) but if this were the sense the words would be as the Partridge that in Egypt, and hatcheth them, but hatcheth them not, whereas they are, hatcheth them not; that is having lost them either by some man that hath taken them from her, or by some Vermin or wild Beast, &c. So that getteth an estate by oppression or any counsel or unrighteous actions, shall lose it again, before he cometh to dye, and when he comes to dye, shall understand what a fool he was to take so much pains to no more purpose.

It is much more hard to give an account of the connexion of these words with the former, than of their sense considered absolutely in themselves. Some would have them the words of the people, reckoning up another vain ground of their confidence, because they had amongst them the Temple of the Lord, which we know was what they mightily gloried in. Others would have them the words of the Prophet owning his and the good Jews confidence to be only in God, and themselves to worship God not in Groves or High places, but only in that place which he had chosen to be worshipped in, even in his sanctuary or Temple, many other senses have been given, but these two seem to me the most probable.

13 O LORD! the hope of Israel, all they that forsake thee shall be ashamed, y, all they that depart from me shall be written in the earth, because they have forsaken the LORD, the fountain of living waters.

That is, he in whom alone the true Gift of God can hope. Those who forsake thy Law, and that rule thou hast given them whereby to direct their conversations, first or last will be ashamed of their disobedience. And those that depart from what I have, as thy Prophet, revealed to them as thy will, shall have no portion beyond the Earth which they seem to possess of. Or their names, and memories shall vanish, and perish, and be presently extinct like words written in dust. Because they have forsaken thee who art the alone certain relief and comfort of people, the fountain and original of all that good that people can hope.

14 Heal me, O LORD, and I shall be healed; save me, and I shall be saved: for thou art my prayer.

Most Interpreters here understand the Prophet speaking in these words to God for himself, he represents himself to God as a person wounded or sick, either with his sense of Gods dishonour by the sins of the people, or with their reproaches, or threatenings, and begeth of God to heal him, he being himself whole hand or power it was to heal him, and who could certainly do it. The argument is in those words for thou art my prayer, he whom alone I have reason to pray for mercies already received, to whom alone I owe all my good things.

Scorning at me as if I had threatened them in my name without any order or direction from thee as the foolish mentioned by Peter, said 2 Pet. 3. 4, where is the promise of his coming. This hath been the practice of all wicked men hardened in their sinful courses and resolved to go on, to pick the evil day for their thoughts, and to feed all denunciations of Gods judgments, Isa. 5. 19, Amos 9. 18. During the vengeance of God, and challenging God to damn them, or to execute the vengeance with which he threateneth them.

16 As for me, I have not hastened from being a pastor to follow thee, neither have I deferred the word of day thou knowest, or that which came out of my lips was right before thee.

That the words contain the Prophets appeal to God upon some reproaches call upon him by this wicked people, as if he had thrust himself into the Prophetic Office is evident, and reasonably well argued by his reproaches, but they are divided about the sense of the word YIS, which yet always in Scripture signifies to make haste, or to urge, or press, the sense seemeth to be this. Lord! as I did not feel the call of a Prophet, so when thou wert pleased to call me to it, I did not decline to be a Pastor after thee. Neither (think he) have I deferred to be a Prophet of thee did I forget, those foolish miseries which thou hast made me thy messenger to foretell, I have spoken nothing but what was right in thy sight: being what thou commanded me to deliver as from thee, and so I know was right in thy sight.

17 Be not a terror unto me, y, thou art my hope in the day of evil.

Though their rebellious wicked men frighten and terrify me, yet Lord be not thou a terror to me, own and defend me as thy Prophet, for I know thou alone art he in whom I place my hope and trust in a day of trouble.

18 Let them be confounded that persecute thee, but let not me be confounded: let them be ashamed that diminish thee, but let not me be diminished: bring down upon them the day of evil, and I will destroy them with double destruction.

That is with abundant destruction, concerning the prayers of the Prophet against his Enemies, see the Notes on chap. 11. 20.

19 Thus saith the LORD unto me, Go and stand in the gate of the children of the people, whereby the kings of Judah come in, and by the which they go out, and in all the gates of Jerusalem.

Most think that here begins a new prophetic, and therefore this verse should have been a new chapter. The Prophet were often commanded to publish such Revelations as they had from God, either at the gates of the City or the gates of the Temple, Isa. 2. 2, and Isa. 2. 2. It is not agreed what particular gate was, at which the kings of Judah were wont ordinarily to come in, and go out, but the Prophet was also commanded to publish it in all the gates of Jerusalem, that all might take notice of it.

20 And say unto them, Hear ye the word of the LORD, ye kings of Judah, and all Judah, and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem, that enter in by their gates.

The word of the Lord equally concerned the highest, and the lowest, the greatest Princes as well as the meanest subjects.

21 Thus saith the LORD, Take heed to your selves, & bear no burden on the sabbath day, nor bring it in by the gates of Jerusalem.

The Hebrew is, take heed to your selves, intimating to us that the sanctification of the Sabbath is a great thing, wherein the welfare of our Souls is concerned.

22 Neither carry forth a burden out of your houses on the sabbath day, neither do ye any work, but hallow ye the sabbath day, as I commanded your fathers.

This command for the sanctification of the Sabbath, was given Exod. 20. 8, repeated Exod. 23. 12, and Isa. 58. 13, Levit. 19. 3, and 23. 3. Deut. 5. 12, Isa. 58. 13, the bearing of burdens forbidden was such as was for profit, for in some cases it was lawful to carry burdens for the saving the lives of men, or Beasts, and some learned men justify the poor sick man carrying his bed when he was cured, not only from the command of Christ alone who could authorize him to do so, though against the rule of the Law, but because he had no further occasion himself to be there, and was not obliged by the Law of the Sabbath to leave his bed behind him, himself going away, but no unnecessary burdens, no trading burdens might on the Sabbath day, be either carried out of the gates of the City, or out of the gates of any of their private houses.

The Jews were a very covetous people, and their covetousness as well as their other lusts, were temptations to them to prophane the Lords Sabbaths, Isa. 13. 15, Ezek. 20. 21.

24 And it shall come to pass, if ye diligently hearken unto me, saith the LORD, to bring in no burden through the gates of this city on the sabbath day, but hallow the sabbath day to do no work therein.

Then shall there enter into the gates of this city, kings and princes sitting upon the throne of David, riding in chariots, and on horses, they and their princes, the men of Judah, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and this city shall remain for ever.

25 And they shall come from the cities of Judah, and from the places about Jerusalem, and from the land of Benjamin, and from the plain, and from the mountains, and from the south, bringing burnt-offerings, and sacrifices, and meat-offerings, and incense, and bringing sacrifices of praise unto the house of the LORD.

The sum of all these three verses is, that if they would not forsake the Lords Sabbath, they should either continue in, or be restored unto their ancient Civil, and Ecclesiastical order, and should have Kings and Princes in their former order and splendour, and men should come from all parts of the Country bringing their usual Sacrifices and Offerings to the Temple, and thence of all sorts. Some think this promise is to be understood Syncretically one principal part of the Law of God, and which Law is in one power to obey, being put for the fulfilment of God. Those who desire to be faithful in the niceties as to the terms and places here mentioned may find satisfaction in the English Annotations upon this verse. The general sense is no more, than that both their Civil and their Temple, their Civil and Ecclesiastical State should continue, and flourish in that order wherein it was.

27 But if you will not hearken unto me to hallow the sabbath day, and not to bear a burden, even entering in at the gates of Jerusalem on the sabbath day, then will I kindle a fire in the gates thereof, and it shall devour the palaces of Jerusalem, and it shall not be quenched.

a threatening quite contrary to the former promise upon their doing contrary to the law to which that promise annexed. God would destroy their City, it should be burned with fire, and the highest and noblest structures should be burned, and though the hand of the Enemy should do this, yet it should be as if it were done by him, so as it should be a fire of his kindling, and therefore not likely to be quenched, till it had effected that thing for which God so kindled it.

C H A P. XVIII.

THE word which came to Jeremiah from the LORD, saying,
2 Arise, and go down to the potters house, and there I will cause thee to hear my words.

a It is likely there was but one Potter near the place, or at least that there was one more noted, and eminent than the rest to whose house the Lord here sends the Prophet intending there, farther to tell him his mind when he would have him publish as his mind and will to this people.

3 Then I went down to the potters house, and behold, he wrought a work on the wheels. b b Turny being a present and free Obsequence to the command of God, though he did not know Gods meaning in it, and finding the Potter at work, upon wheels or frames which he formed his Clay upon, to bring it into that form which he desired. For the true form of those frames or instruments it is hard to alter any thing, such kind of instruments differing not only according to several Countries, but according to the several fancies of workmen, getting frames or engines made fitted to their own fancies and purposes.

4 And the vessel ll that he made of clay c, was marred in the hand of the potter, so he † made it again another vessel as seemed good to the potter to make it d.

e That which we read of Clay may be read (as our margin tell us) Clay; that is, what it was yet Clay it was spoiled in the Potters hand, so as he did not think it fit to go on with his design as to the form of the vessel, but made it into another form such as he liked best.

6 O house of Israel cannot I do with you as this potter e? faith the LORD: behold * as ye in the potters hand, so are ye in mine hand, O house of Israel f.

a God now expounded to the Prophet his design in bidding him go to the Potters house, it was to instruct or confirm him, in the power that he had over his creatures. f For faith is as is the clay to the Potter, so is the house of Israel (and indeed also all the Sons and Daughters of men) unto God, God had the same power over them, that a Potter hath over the clay and a greater right to do what he pleased with them, than any Potter hath relating to the clay; the clay is but the Potters purchase not his creature, but man is Gods creature. God by his Prophet Isaiah made use of the same simile. Isa. 45. 9. So doth the Apostle, Rom. 9. 20. That God hath an absolute sovereignty power to do what he pleased with the work of his hands, can be denied by no men of sense, whether God wields this sovereignty in the eternal punishment of sinners, that is, another thing, he hath a sovereign power, but he acts as a just judge rendering to every man according to his works.

7 At what instant I shall speak concerning a nation, and concerning a kingdom to pluck up, and to pull down, and to destroy u g.

g God thus speaks concerning Nations, and Kingdoms more immediately in his word, or more mediately by his Prophets and Ministers, he told Jeremiah, Chap. 1. 10. that he had let him see Nations, to root out, and to build again.

8 * If that nation against whom I have pronounced, turn from their evil h, I will repent of the evil that I thought to do unto them i.

h If that Nation leaveth off those sinful courses, which I have sworn by my Prophets threatened with judgments. i I will also turn from the methods of my severe Providence which I had resolved in case of their impenitency to proceed in against them. There is a difference between Repentance in man, and Repentance in God, as it is attributed to God, Repentance in man must be, not only a change in action, but a change of Heart; Repentance ascribed to God, never signifies a change of Heart, or purpose or counsel, but only a change in action, an alteration of the course of his Providence. Hence God in Scripture is said to Repent as it is in this Text, and Isaiah 37. 30. And it is also said of him that he is not as man that he should be repented, Isa. 37. 30. 1 Sam. 15. 29. God never changeth his counsels, or purposes, though he often varieth his actions of Providence, according to the behaviours of his creatures.

9 And as what instant I shall speak concerning a nation, and concerning a kingdom to build, and to pluck up.

to pluck up, to do evil in my sight, that it obey not my voice, then I will repent of the good which I thought I said that I would bring them.

Spreading verse 9, and spreading verse 10, must be understood in the same sense as in the two former verses. The reason of this is because in all Gods threatenings and promises of this nature there is a condition either expressed or understood, Gods threatenings of evil must be understood with this condition, unless men and women repent and turn from their evil ways; and his promises of good must be understood with this condition, if those to whom they are made be a willing and obedient people, and keep in the way of the Lords Statutes.

11 ¶ Now therefore go up, to speak to the men of Judah, and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem, saying, Thus faith the LORD, Behold I frame evil against you, and devise a device against you: * return ye now every one from his evil * a Kings way, and make your ways, and your doings k.

l The Lord fixes a particular application to the more general doctrine which he had before delivered. God had told this people, that though he had by his Prophet denounced his wrath, and anger, and threatened to pluck them up and destroy them, yet if they turned from their sinful courses, he would show mercy to them, and after the curse of his Providence.

Now he tells them, that this was their case, God had a work up on the wheel against them, and was framing evil against them, and bringing ruin upon them, therefore it was their wisdom, now to return from their evil ways, and to make their doings good; those who think that these exhortations are vain if man hath not a power in himself to turn from his evil way, ought to consider, that none denieth, that man hath a power in himself by virtue of that common grace of God which be denieth to no man, to turn from such evil courses as were before mentioned, viz. not to carry out burdens upon the Sabbath day, nor to bow down to, and worship idols, but to worship the true and living God according to the precept of his Word. In there is no man but hath a power to do much more than he doth do, and so much as may serve to avert temporal judgments, and although no man without special Grace, beyond the outward means of grace, hath a power to do whatsoever God requireth in order to his Salvation, yet he hath a power to do much more, as if he doth, no influence can be given of any to whom, for doing God denied his special Grace, enabling him to do whatsoever God requireth of him in order to Eternal Life.

12 And they said * There is no hope p, r * we will walk after our own devices, and we will every one do the imagination of his evil heart s.

t There is no hope of us, thou dost labour in vain in talking to us. r For we are resolved to run on in our former race. It cannot be imagined that they should call the imaginations of their own hearts evil, unless it were in derision. The sum of what they said was this, They thought that as good they do nothing, as talk to us, we are resolved upon our course, and if thou callest our hearts evil we cannot help that, according to the purposes, counsels and thoughts of those our evil hearts we are resolved to steer our courses, we will not be guided by thee.

13 Therefore thus faith the LORD, * Ask ye now amongst the heathen, Who hath heard such things? The virgin of Israel, hath done a very horrible thing u.

v God was moved at this desperate obstinacy and hardness of this peoples hearts, he appeals to the World whether ever any Heathens behaved themselves so toward their Gods which were no Gods, as this people had behaved themselves toward theirs. He calls Israel a Virgin, it is a term given to Isaiah, Isaiah 23. 12. and to Isaiah, Isa. 47. 1. The horrible thing which they had done, was their forsaking God, their God a thing not usual amongst the Heathens, as God tells them, chap. 2. 11.

o The Margins of four Bibles will let us know, that there is from variety in the opinions of the most learned Interpreters as to the sense of these words, the general sense is plain, and obvious, that it is a foolish thing for men to forsake God who is the author of all goods, and redemption, and what men do not use to do with reference to poor creatures, comforts not to be named with God, but for the Grammatical sense of the words it is not so obvious. The vulgar Latin Translates them, Shall the Snow of Lebanon fall from the Rock of the Field? The Syriac, Shall the Snow fall from the Rock? Or the Snow from Lebanon. The Syriac follows them. The Arabic Version Translates it, Shall the Snow fall from the mountain of Babel, and from Lebanon. The Chaldee paraphrase thus glosses, Shall it ever be, that the Snow water should fall from Lebanon. Pagius seems to take the Latin for the Nominative case, and renders the sense thus, Shall Lebanon leave the Snow from the rock of the Field. Our Translators supply these words a man and o make that the Nominative case, and make Lebanon the Genitive case. Lebanon was a mountainous place in which were rocks, it had also fruitful Valleys. Snow fell upon those Rocks, and upon a thaw ran down into the lower places and was grateful to them as it melted them, and made them more fruitful. p The latter part of the verse seems as hard, Pagius Translates them, Shall the cold flowing waters be forsaken? The vulgar Latine, or the other cold flowing waters be forsaken? The 70 and the Syriac, or shall the water fall, suddenly fastened up, or taken away with the wind? The Arabic, or should the frozen cold waters defile? The Chaldee paraphrase glosses, Shall the rain waters that come down, and the waters of the fountain that spring that fall. In this great variety it is very hard certainly to affect the particular sense of these phrases, the knowledge of which depends upon some assistance, or comments of those places which we are not so well acquainted with. The next verse is the best guide we have, where the sin laid to the charge of this people, is their forsaking God, which sin is here aggravated by this Topic. That reason teacheth men not to forsake a greater good for a lesser, though that greater good were but a poor creature comfort, as to be compared with God. This is the general sense of the scope and summe of this verse. So as we shall not need be very solicitous to be able to affect the particular Grammatical sense.

15 Because my people hath forgotten * me, they have burnt incense to vanity r, and they have caused them to stumble in their ways from ll the ancient paths s / to walk in paths, in a way not cast up t.

u Forgets and forgets are much the same thing differing only as the cause and the effect, for if men remembered God as they ought to do they would not forsake him. r By Vanity he means Idols, which are called vanity, not only because they are in themselves nothing of what they are pretended to be, and because the worshiping of them is an high degree of sin which is often called vanity in Scripture, but because the service of them is of no use nor profit, or advantage, and any expectations from them are idle, and vain for which there is no ground at all. f Whether the false prophets or the idols are here said to cause them to stumble by receding from the ancient paths is uncertain. The words may either be translated paths of Enmity or paths of Antiquity the most and best translated as we do our own paths the way of truth are the most ancient way. The ways wherein Isaiah, Isaiah, Isaiah, and Isaiah all the ancient Patriarchs did walk. t To walk in paths in or a way not cast up not fitted for Gods people to walk in. Prov. 15. 19. The way of the Righteous is said to be a way made plain, Hos. talked up as a cauley, wicked men in opposition to these ways are said to walk in a way not cast up.

16 To make their land * desolate, and a perpetual hiding u: every one that passeth thereby shall be astonished, and wag his head w.

x That that this was Isaiah against the end which they aimed at, none without ill or doth any thing designedly to bring evil upon himself, but it was Isaiah against the end their courses would certainly issue in, they would bring the land of Isaiah to desolation, and to be a reproach. w So as strangers that were wont to admire at the prosperity of this people, above any other people, should find astonished, and wag their heads at them in scorn and derision.

17 I will flatter them as with an east-wind * chap. 13. 24 before the enemy x: I will shew them the back and not the face in the day of their calamity y.

z The East-wind is (or was at least in those parts) the fierce wind; as the East-wind flatters the Chaff, so shall God I will flatter them. y And when they shall be in great calamity and misery I will not hearken to them, I will not turn my ear to them, or then them my face, but I will turn my back upon them, I will not regard them crying, nor hear their Prayers.

18 ¶ Then said they, * Come, let us devise devices against Jeremiah z: * for the law shall not perish from the priest, nor counsel from the John 7. 48. 49. wits, nor the word from the prophet a: Come, and let us smite him ll with the tongue b, and let us not give heed to any of his words c.

d This faithful denials of the Prophet with them, did only incense them the more against the Prophet, they plot against the Prophet, how to be revenged on him, because he would cross their humours, and would not prophesy as they would have had him. a We have the Church on our side, the Angels, Princes, and the Prophets, they know Gods mind as well as we, for there is a promise that the Law shall not perish from the Priest, nor the word from the Prophet: a We have Priests and Prophets, they tell us other things than this Isaiah doth. b Let us smite him with the Tongue, expose him, by railing on him, telling lies about him, and reproaching him to be what we know the people hate, abusing him to his face, informing against him, or in the Targum, let us silence him, command him to speak no more, or for his Tongue, for prophesying at this rate. c And for his words let us not value them as a truth, nor at all regard them.

e The several following verses to the end of this Chapter, contain the Prophets Prayer by way of appeal to God against these wicked men, (Lord hear him) though they are referred to need to need to words, yet do thou give heed to me, and do thou take notice of those men that contend with me. Take notice of what they say, and do not confirm, but to cross their desires, and to be revenged on them for them.

20 Shall evil be recompensed for good e? For they have digged a pit for my soul f: Remember that I stood before thee to speak good for them g, and to turn away thy wrath from them h.

i To require good for evil is divine; God maketh his Sun to shine, and his Rain to fall upon the just and unjust. To require evil for evil, or good for good, is but human, what the Nature of reasonable men prompt them to: But to require evil for good is diabolical, and the character of those that are the children of the evil one. j Lord faith the Prophet, these men have done thus, they have laid snares for my life, f. G. Though thou knowest, that as a Prophet I stood before thee, both preaching and praying for their good. b. Their business is kindled to a great height against me, and thou knowest my kindness was both in my preachings to them, and prayers for them, to turn away thy wrath from them. Lord remember this both for good to me, and for vengeance upon them.

m A dreadful imprecation, we met with more of the same nature, chap. 11. 20. and 15. 15. 17. 18. We find also several fierce imprecations in the Psalms, Psal. 35. 4. and 40. 14. and 69. 23. 24. 25. 26. 27. 28. and 109. 6. 7. 8. 9. 10. &c. Hence a translation is raised, whether it be lawful for Christians to pray for evil against their Enemies. That which makes the doubt is Christs command to us, to pray for them that persecute us, Matth. 5. 43. 44. His own example, and Stephens, Acts 7. 60. See the notes upon the aforementioned Texts. It is doubtful, our duty to pray for the conversion, forgiveness, and Eternal Salvation of our worst Enemies; to Christ pray, and Stephens but neither of them prayed for their outward prosperity in their persecution and rage, and without doubt we may pray against God enemies, that God would give their hands, weaken their power, confound their devices. k For such particulars as are mentioned in this verse, and the beginning of the following verse, and such as David mentions, Psal. 69. We must know they were both Prophets, and did but pray to God to do such thing which God had revealed to them he would do.

came to him, so as it was some time before the City was taken. The final Siege had about a year and half as appears by chap. 39. 12. The Phar mentioned here, was a sister from him mentioned ch. 20. 1, he was the son of Immer of the 15th course of the Priests; and of a more rugged ill temper; this was the Son of Muthal, and so of the fifth course, Vid. 1 Chron. 24. 9. 14.

2 Enquire I pray thee of the LORD for us, (for Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon maketh war against us) if so be that the LORD will deal with us according to all his wondrous works, that he may go up from us d. e Zedekiah, as he was none of the best to he was none of the worst of the Kings of Judah, he had some convictions, and impressions (positively from his conscience) not worn off, and having long reverence of God, he sends to the Prophet to enquire of the Lord. d Because the King of Babylon was come up to make war against them. It is true the greatest Contents of God and his faithful Ministers, will sometimes, in great straits, chafe to tend for them rather than those who in their prosperity pleased them. Hence we read of Saul when he went to the Witch at Endor, desiring that Samuel might be raised up; but in Zedekiah whole story we read no such chafing contempt of God, but a disobedience to commands of God, proceeding rather from his selfishness to be ruled by his corrupt Court, than from a stubbornness in himself. d By mentioning Gods former wondrous works, possibly he may have a respect to God raising Jerusalem Siege in the time of his Grandfather Zedekiah. The remembering of Gods former wondrous works, is of use to raise in us hope and confidence in God for further deliverances, supposing our selves under the same circumstances of Obedience to Gods Will, otherwise not, as we shall see in the case of Judah and its King, at this time; therefore Zedekiah saith, if I live. Guilt of sin hinders Confidence, and holy boldness in the best; but as the guilt is greater, so the hope or confidence of any is justly less.

3 Then said Jeremiah unto them, Thus saith ye say to Zedekiah,

4 Thus saith the Lord GOD of Israel e, Behold, I will turn back the weapons of war that are in your hands, wherewith ye fight against the king of Babylon, and against the Chaldeans, which besiege you without the walls f, and I will assemble them into the midst of this city g.

The Honour that the King of Judah had put upon the Prophet, in feeding these special Messages to him, is no temptation to this good Prophet, to promise smooth and pleasant things, for which he had no warrant from God. The Prophet faith God the God of Israel, because the whole posterity of Israel were in covenant with God, notwithstanding which, ten parts of twelve were at that time as Captives from which they never returned, yet God was the God of Israel, for all were not that were defended from Israel, but those only who were Israelites indeed, without guilt, so that the Prophet by this same given to God doth both assert Gods faithfulness to his Covenant, and also the constancy of that faithfulness, with those judgments, which he was now bringing upon that remnant of Israel which yet were in their own land. f The message which God by the Prophet sendeth to Zedekiah is exceeding terrible. The sum of it is, That as they had not dealt with God according to the works of Israel, and the former generation that defended from him, or those at least who were the true Israel of God, so they must not expect that God should deal with them according to his former wondrous works but that as he with the Jews had bewitched himself against, so with the Jews he should now himself forward. For God had determined to turn into their own bowels, and against themselves, the weapons they had in their hands taken up against the King of Babylon and the Chaldeans that were now besieging them. (By which we may learn that this Message was first during the time of the Siege, probably about the beginning of it, for it lasted 18 months.) g God threatneth to bring the Chaldeans into the midst of the Holy City; that their City should be broken up, their Armour taken from them, and they killed with their own swords. There is a great Expositio in the Pronoun Th. It is not an Enemy that is to be feared, but Gods being our Enemy.

5 And I myself will fight against you with an out-stretched hand, and with a strong arm, even in anger, and in fury, and in great wrath i.

h I will fight against you, as a Prince is said to fight against a Nation, whole Captains fight against it, though himself flourish not from his Royal Palace: yet more than so, animating and encouraging the Babylonians and Chaldeans, whom I have sent to fight against you, and discouraging and dispersing your Armies. i With such an hand, and power as I manifested for my ancient Israel, Exod. 6. 6. God is here spoken of in a Dialect which maketh him more intelligible to us. He hath no hands, no arms, neither is any and any in him considered as turbulent Passions, as they are in us; but as men flourish out their hands and arms when they intend to give smart, and terrible strokes, and are edged to such blows from their passions and excessive wrath, so God is set out to us by expressions proper to men, and in him significant only of his just Will to be revenged severely upon a sinful people. The sense is no more, than that an end was now come, and God was resolved no longer to bear with such a profligate people, but to bring his utmost wrath upon them, and to deal with them no longer according to his wondrous works of Mercy, but in wondrous works of Justice which in men would look like the effects of Wrath and Fury.

6 And I will fill the inhabitants of this city, both man and beast: they shall die of a great pestilence k.

k Still God proclaimeth himself this Peoples Enemy, Pestilences are but the usual consequences of long sieges, through the scarceness, and unwholesomeness of food, but God is the first cause of such fore judgments, though there be other second causes. The Murrain of Beasts bears proportion to the Pestilence amongst men, and the Beasts are threatened as well as men, not because of any in them, but because men are punished in them, they being part of their Substance, and this is a part of that Bondage of Corruption from which the Creature grown to be delivered, of that Vanity to which they are subject, which maketh the irrational part of the Creation to be subject in by the Appetite, Rom. 8. 20, 21, 22, like as a woman travelling in pain, and desiring the day of judgment.

7 And afterwards I, saith the LORD, I will deliver Zedekiah king of Judah, and his servants, and the people, and such as are left in this city from the pestilence, from the sword, and from the famine, into the hand of Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon, and into the hand of their enemies, and into the hand of those that seek their life m, and he shall smite them with the edge of the sword: he shall not spare them, neither have pity, nor have mercy n.

l After that many of the People of this City, shall be destroyed, come by the Enemy assaulting, and slaying with them; others by the Famine, that shall be amongst them through a want of Victuals, being all spent with the long Siege; others by the Pestilence. m Zedekiah, who shall escape these three judgments, together with his Courtiers, and the residue of the People, shall be delivered into the power of the King of Babylon, and into the power of such as will not be content with the plunder of their houses, but thirst for their blood, and these Enemies (set on by Nebuchadrezzar) shall smite them with the sword, without shewing them any Mercy or Pity. This is not to be understood of King Zedekiah himself, for God let him know, chap. 34. 4, that he should not die by the sword but in prison, as he did afterward in Babylon, though in Prison but it was true of his Sons, and Courtiers, and a great part of the People, chap. 39. 6, 8, & 52. 10. Those who went into Captivity, were only such as had revolted during the Siege, and many of those that were of the poor of the Land, for the rest there was little pity had of them, or mercy shewed to them; as may be seen chap. 39. & 52. 1 Chron. 36. 17.

8 ¶ And unto this people thou shalt say, Thus saith the LORD, Behold, I set before you the way of life, and the way of death o.

o I tell you the way that you should take, if you would save your lives, and the course, which if you take, you will certainly lose your lives.

9 He that abideth in this city, shall die by the sword, and by the famine, and by the pestilence: but he that goeth out, and falleth to the Chaldeans that besiege you, he shall live p, and his life shall be unto him for a prey q.

r But certainly if ever any man spake Hebrew, this Prophet now did it, when there was an Enemy besieging them, telling them, that if they would save their lives, they must revolt from their King, and join with their Enemies, all that can be said in excuse for the Prophet is, that this was a Divine Revelation to him, and a Message sent to the King himself, q His life shall be given him for a prey appeareth to have been a proverbial Expression, either signifying a mans Possession of his life, as a prey, or booty recovered from death, or the hand of the Enemy. 2. Or a mans enjoying in the saving of his life, as if he had got some notable booty.

10 For I have set my face against this city, for evil, and not for good r, saith the LORD; it shall be given into the hand of the king of Babylon, and he shall burn it with fire f.

r That is, I will set my face against it, I will be an Enemy to it. See the like phrase Lev. 17. 10. & 20. 9. It is a phrase signifying not only Gods availing him of them, and taking his affection off them, but his determination to bring ruin upon them, and chusing methods of Providence tender and conducive thereunto; and so it is opened in the following words, which are rather to be understood of the structure of the City, than of the inhabitants, for that, not the people were to burn with fire, though probably many of the people perished in its great burnings.

11 ¶ And touching the house of the king of Judah s, say, Hear ye the word of the LORD t.

s By the house of the King of Judah he means the house of Zedekiah, the King, or those (as appears by the next verse) who were the Magistrate, t Thou, how great soever, are not excused from the common obligation upon all to listen to, and to obey the Revelations of the Divine Will.

12 O house of David u, thus saith the LORD, v Execute judgment in the morning w, and deliver him that is spoiled, out of the hand of the oppressor x, lest my fury go out like fire, and burn that none can quench it z, because of the evil of your doings a.

u He calls their house of David, either checking them, who were indeed to be in a fiscal descent, or reminding them who they ought to be in imitation of their Father David. x The only way they had to keep off those Divine Judgments which now hang'd over their heads, was to execute judgment, that is, without partiality, the prophet advice to them to execute judgment in the morning, either less than they know they must do it quickly, or else that respect to the time when the Courts of Justice were to be opened, which was the deliverance of the Oppressed from the hands that is from the power and malice of the Oppressor, which if it were not done, z God threatneth certain ruin, and destruction to them, which none should be able to hinder, or avoid. a The cause of which was their wicked doings, for that God who doth people good and sheweth them favour not for their sake, but for his own name sake, yet never punisheth them, but for a cause found in them.

13 Behold, I am against thee, † O inhabitant of the valley b, and rock of the plain c, saith the LORD; who say, Who shall come down against us? or which hall enter into our habitations d.

b The inhabitants of the City of Jerusalem are those here intended, Psalm. 125. 2. The mountains were round about Jerusalem, yet Jerusalem itself was built in a part upon the Rocky Mountain of Zion, but a great part was in the valley and the higher mountains, about Mount Sion, made that mountain to be in comparison with them as a Valley. c Though also a Rock of the plain, that is, near to the plain. Which situation of this place made the Jews think it to be impregnable, and to mock at dangers, or threats of Enemies, saying, who shall, that is, who can, say, who will dare to come against us? Or who will be able to enter into our City? f saith the LORD, I am against you. I will come down against you, and I by such as I shall employ will enter into your habitations. No natural position or situation of places, no Artificial Fortifications, are sufficient against an Almighty God.

14 But I will † punish you e according to the fruit of your doings, saith the LORD f; and I will kindle a fire in the forest thereof g, and it shall devour all things round about it h.

i In the Hebrew it is, I will visit you you i Gods Visitation means a judgment, Psalm. 80. 12. & 136. 4. Or of Jehovah, that is, therefore the sense is here rightly given by our Translators, visit. j The fruit of mens doings is the product of their Actions, God punisheth the fruit of our doings. In shewing Mercy, he acts from Preteritive; in Punishments, he doth but fill men with their own ways, and give them according to the fruit of their doings k Isa. 32. 12. g By the Forest he either meant the Forest of Labanon, or their Houses made up of wood cut out of that Forest, or their Idolatrous Groves, h And this fire he saith should not determine in the destruction only of this City but in the Total Destruction of all the Country adjacent to Jerusalem.

C H A P. XXII.

1 Thus saith the LORD, Go down to the house of the king of Judah, and speak there this word a.

b Some by the King of Judah here mentioned, understand Jehoiakim, made King upon the death of Jehoiachin by the people (being the second Son of Jehoiachin) 2 Kings. 23. 30. Others understand Jehoiakim whom Pharaoh Necho made King, carrying his Elder Brother Jehoiachin, after a short reign of three months with him into Egypt, 2 Chron. 36. 4.

2 And say, Hear the word of the LORD, O king of Judah, that sitteth upon the throne of David b, thou, and thy servants, and thy people that enter in by their gates c;

d None is so great but he is obliged to hear the word of the Lord, the Prophet mentioning him under the notion of him that sat upon the throne of David; both minds him of Gods faithfulness, who had promised, that David should not want one to sit on his Throne and his duty to walk in the steps of him upon whose throne he sat, and his duty to his errors, he not walking in Davids steps, though he sat upon his throne. e The word of the Lord concerned not the king alone, but all his instruments in places of Magistrates; and also all the people of Jerusalem and Judah.

d That is administer justice to all your subjects, the Stranger, the Fatherless, the Widow are particularly named, as persons who have fewest Friends, and so are most exposed to the lusts of great men; who have a power to oppress them, things are observable. 1. That the terms upon which God prometh mercy to them, as such as were in their power to perform. They are the due performance of relative duties, to reach us how much we stand upon mens just performance of the duties of their Relations, and more particularly, how much God loveth justice and judgment, without the impartial execution of which, no Princes, no Magistrates can promise themselves security from temporal judgments, which much commendeth the love of God to humane society, justice being the greatest Enemy to it, and justice the great foundation and pillar of it.

4 For if ye do this thing indeed, † then shall I † chap. 17. 25, there enter in by the gates of this house, fitting together upon the throne of David, riding in chariots, and on horses, he, and his servants, and his people f.

g If ye will not pretendably, but really give to every one their due, and look that inferior Magistrates acting under you do so. h Then, he doth not say, you shall be saved, the promise is only of a secular, temporal nature of all prosperity, and continuance of the family of David, with great honour and dignity, expressed by those phrases of riding in Chariots and on Horses. Though the performance of moral acts, of justice, and mercy which men may perform without any special grace of God be not enough to induce them to the hopes of spiritual, and eternal goods; yet it may entitle them to the hopes of outward prosperity, and happiness in this Life, Dan. 2. 27, which is sufficient to demonstrate, that mens outward infelicities, and sufferings under the grievous judgments of God upon themselves is from their felices it may be in a great measure avoid them, by doing such acts, as are in their power to do.

5 But if ye will not hear these words g, I swear by myself, saith the LORD, that this house shall become a desolation h.

i By having the Prophet meaneth hearkning to, and obeying, God accounteth us to hear no more than we practice. h If (saith the Prophet) you will not execute judgments, &c. Give you the greatest assurance imaginable, that this noble house of David shall become a desolation. The Apostle saith, that God, because he could swear by no greater, swore by himself. The end of an Oath is the confirmation of a thing where any doubt of the truth of it, or have any little about it, sinners hiding in themselves a difficulty to believe Gods word, revealing his will against the interests of their lusts, the Lord is brought in as swearing, not by a creature (that is impossible) but by himself, that the house of David or the house of Israel, or his own house, the Temple, though the first seems most probable to be here meant, which seemeth to be the house mentioned ver. 4, through the gates of which Kings should enter riding in Chariots and on Horses; should be made desolate.

6 For thus saith the LORD unto the kings house of Judah, Thou art Gilead unto me i, and the head of Lebanon k: yet surely I will make thee a wilderness, and cities which are not inhabited l.

m Interpreters are not agreed in what sense God saith, that the Kings house of Judah was unto him as Gilead. k Or the head of Lebanon, Gilead was a Country fertile for Pastures, upon which account the Rabbinists and Galilees, being men whose Estates lay in Cattle legged it of Abels for their portion, Gen. 32. 2, and Abels gave to the Son of Manasse ver. 40, it was also famous for Spices, Balm, and Morrh. Gen. 37. 25, it was in it a famous Mountain. Libanon also was a very pleasant place,

<sup>5</sup> People are under no Religious Obligation to hear any thing but the Revealed Will of God, and are not to obey those that call to them for what that doth not call to them. <sup>6</sup> Nor to listen to them, the Scope of whose teaching is but to make them vain, foolishly vain; or to deceive their Souls, no Man is under an Obligation to deceive himself. <sup>7</sup> They pretend to Visions, that God hath revealed his Mind to them, in the same way as he useth to reveal himself to true Prophets; but there is no such thing, it is but a fiction of their own; Our Lord, Matt. 7. 15. gives us the same way to know false Prophets, ver. 20. By their fruits ye shall know them. Let their External Mission be what, and which way it will, if what they preach agree not with the Revealed Will of God, they are false Prophets. Many of these Priests were regularly enough defended, and the Prophet regularly enough educated and confirmed; yet by this heaved themselves false Prophets, that what they published was not from God, nor agreed with his revealed Will; therefore the people were under no Religious Obligation to listen to them.

<sup>11</sup> Lead and corrupt Ministers, are an hatred and abomination in the house of the Lord, to all serious good People, and are therefore obliged to make themselves a Party of those that are like themselves, whose favour they cannot have without endangering them in their Souls. Hence the perpetual wars of the wicked and world of men, who have no patience of being daily alarmed with hearing of the wrath of God due, and like to come upon them for their sins. <sup>12</sup> Hence they promise evil to those that walk according to the Councils of their own hearts, that is initially, for Gen. 6. Every imagination of the thoughts of man's heart is evil continually: Hence a sinful counsel is very often expressed in Scripture, under this Notion of walking after the Imaginations of our own hearts; as Deut. 29. 19. but it is most in prophetic Ysa. chap. 3. 17. R. 7. 24. Eccl. 13. 10. Eccl. 15. 12. Eccl. 18. 12. Hence a Religious walking is called a Self-denial. None have a worse guide for their actions in their lupid state, before Regeneration, than their own hearts.

<sup>16</sup> Who besides us hath known the counsel of the Lord? arrogating to themselves a fellowship, and acquaintance with the Mind and Will of God. Or (which I should rather judge the one) which of those Prophets, that Prophesie false terrible things against this City is a Privy Counsellor to God? The words from rather to be the words of the false Prophets, either arrogating to themselves a peculiar acquaintance with God and Fellowship with him, from whence they knew his Mind, or mocking at Jerem. and other true Prophets, as arrogating to themselves such a knowledge of the Mind and Councils of God as indeed they had not, then (as some think) the words of Jeremiah denoting them to have stood in Gods Councils, or to have known his Mind and Will. This in all Ages hath been the practice of corrupt Prophets and Ministers to charge those Servants of God, who have faithfully published the Will of God against Sinners, as making too bold with Gods Secret Councils, though they publish nothing but Gods revealed Will.

<sup>20</sup> A severe judgment of God, that should resemble a Whirlwind, for the sudden and utter destruction of it, that bringeth down, Sec. chap. 29. 24. The word of the LORD is elsewhere translated a storm, Psal. 81. 15. Amos 1. 14. Ysa. 1. 4. It is called a whirlwind of the Lord's; either to denote the greatness of it, as Psal. 55. 6. or to let us know that the Judgment came forth from God and was of his sending. <sup>21</sup> And whatever these flattering Teachers said, it should fall upon wicked men, for as they flatter, have no peace, but evil should most certainly come upon them.

<sup>25</sup> It is therefore called a continuing whirlwind, chap. 30. 23. The Prophet speaks of the judgment as of a Messenger, which coming from God, should not return till it had done its Errand and Executed what came for, even whatever God had resolved should effect. Men are ready to flatter themselves, that they shall either out-ride or out-live the storms of Divine Vengeance, nor (saith the Prophet) the anger of the Lord shall bring to pass whatsoever the just Will of God is. <sup>26</sup> I and though you will not now believe it, but flatter your selves with idle, vain hopes, yet hereafter when it shall be too late (which is the usual folly of Sinners) then you shall consider it perfectly.

<sup>38</sup> Atheism is generally the foundation of ill Life, men say, God sees them none, the Almighty doth not regard them. By a God at hand many understand Heaven, do you think that my eyes are limited like yours that I cannot see their practices though far off from me? that is from the place of my glorious Residence. Others interpret the particle with respect to time: Am I a God of Yesterday, like the Idols, am I not the ancient of days? The Eternal God whose Majesty and Omnipotence, you ought to have taken notice of?

<sup>47</sup> What do these Atheistical Priests, and Prophets, and People think? do they think that I who am a God of pure eyes then to behold iniquity, see and take notice of what Doctrine they preach, and what lives they live? if they did, surely they would not dare to do as they do. Do they think that I do not see, or take notice of them? Can any hide themselves out of my sight, I fill heaven and earth, not only with my influence, but with my Essence; with the immensity of my Being; which as it cannot be circumscribed by the Air, so it is shut out of no place.

<sup>50</sup> Visions and Dreams, were two usual ways by which under the Law God made himself known of old to his Prophets, making them sometimes, being awake, to hear a voice; sometimes attended with, and proceeding upon, some visible appearance, sometimes not: at other times causing them, being asleep, to dream; and in their sleep revealing to them as in a dream, what his will was they should declare and publish to his people. These false Prophets speaking what came into their own heads, and suited their own Lufts, or the Lufts of a debauched people to whom they spoke; would pretend that God had revealed to them what they so published, in a dream; not in the mean time considering God took notice of these their little Arts, by which they cheated the people. But faith God, I am a God that know afar off, as well as at hand, and I have heard what they say, Prophesie lies as from me, and pretending that I had in dreams revealed to them.

<sup>54</sup> Will these Prophets never have done? Have they not deceived people long enough with their lies, and the deceit of their own hearts? and that not unwarily, and by involuntarily mistake, but of set purpose to being in their heart, their purpose and design to do it. Some join in to the following Verse, and make the sense this: Do these Prophets that publish lies, and the deceits of their hearts, for my revealed Will, think to cheat my people always, and to cause my people to forget my name? as it followeth in the next verse.

<sup>123</sup> Not in scorn and derision, as not believing there were any such judgments, as they threaten, nor hardly as if I sent you no other messages but burdens. <sup>124</sup>  $\gamma$  These false and irreverent speeches which are in every mans mouth, shall be burdensome to them, being such, as shall bring down divine Vengeance upon them, because you have derided, or misinterpreted the words of God, the living God. <sup>125</sup>  $\gamma$  The sin of which is the more aggravated against you, because he is the living, mighty God, and because he hath been our God.

<sup>142</sup> I will forget you as to my Affection, and that is more than all your friends forget you. <sup>143</sup>  $\gamma$  There is a great Emphasis in the doubling of the Pronoun, I cast L. <sup>144</sup>  $\gamma$  I will forsake you as to the presence of my special gracious Providence. <sup>145</sup>  $\gamma$  And do not flatter your selves that I will not do it, because of your fathers, or because I gave this City to your fathers, for that very City I will withdraw my special Providence from, and that land which heretofore was called, The land which the Lord his God careth for, you within the gate of the Land are accused from the beginning of the year, even to the end of the year. Deut. 11. 12. <sup>146</sup>  $\gamma$  And I will cast both City, and people out of my gracious Presence. So as I will no longer do them good as I have done.

C H A P. XXVI.

IN the beginning of the reign of Jehoiachin the son of Josiah king of Judah, came this word from the LORD, saying 4.

<sup>a</sup> The Prophetic, chap. 25. is laid to have been revealed in the fourth year of Jehoiachin, in the beginning of his Reign, which makes learned men think, it ought to have been placed before that. The affairs of the Jews were then in a very desperate condition, Pharaoh Necho King of Egypt, had overcome Josiah and killed him in Battle, Jehoiachin or Shallum, being made King in his stead, 2 King 23. 30. he had reigned but three Months, and Pharaoh Necho took him and imprisoned him, and layes a Tribute upon the Land of 300 Talents of Silver and a Talent of Gold, and makes Eliakim King changing his name to Jehoiachin, vers. 33. 34. Now in the beginning of this Kings Reign cometh this word of God to Jeremiah, the people being full hardened and going on in their sinful practices.

<sup>d</sup> In the largest Court of the Temple, where the most may hear what thou sayest, and there speak to all those that dwell in any of the Cities of Judah, from whence they were wont to come up, more especially thrice in a year to the Temple to Worship, Psal. 122. 4. In the Gate or Court of that house wherein they have such a Confidence, do thou stand. So chap. 7. 2. and declare unto them what I command thee. <sup>e</sup> Neither smothering what may appear rough, nor suppressing what may offend them, inwardly delivering my Will unto them, nor wanting to declare unto them the whole Counsel of God, as Paul, Acts 20. 27.

<sup>f</sup> Not that God was ignorant of their obduracy and the hardening of their hearts, which was the future evil; but to let us know, that their destruction would be of themselves, he would give them both a time and space, and also means for Repentance, and the prevention of the judgments of God coming on them; he did give them space, for it was after this eleven years before the Captivity of Jehoiachin, two and twenty before that of Zedekiah; and for Means, God afforded them the Ministry of this Prophet. <sup>g</sup> Repentance applied to man, signifies a change of Heart and Conscience, as well as of his course of Actions; In the unchangeable God it only signifies the turning of the course of his Providence, not bringing that evil upon them for the evil of their doings, which upholding their Projects and obduracy in their sinful courses, he had fully resolved to bring upon them.

<sup>h</sup> A course of Actions in Scripture, is ordinarily call'd a way; in which sense we often read of the way of the Lord, the way of the wicked, the way of the Righteous, &c. and a motion in this Course is usually call'd walking. Psal. 1. 1. Ezek. 18. 9. and applied both to God and Men. To walk in Gods Laws is expressed by hearkening unto them, or (as in other places) by observing, keeping and doing them. <sup>i</sup> God is said to have set his Laws before them, both in respect of their first promulgation to them at Sinai, and writing them in Tables; and the daily Expositions and urging of them upon their practice by his servants the Prophets, as it follows.

<sup>5</sup> To hearken to the words of my servants the prophets <sup>h</sup>, whom I sent unto you, both rising up early, and sending them <sup>i</sup>; (but ye have not hearkened.)

<sup>j</sup> Those Prophets who in prophesying were my servants, revealing my Will unto you, which is the same with hearkening unto Gods Laws mentioned, ver. 14. <sup>k</sup> Whom I have made my business to send unto you: and to whom you ought therefore to have hearkened, as unto me, but you have not done it hitherto, 2 Chros. 36. 12. 16.

<sup>m</sup> Shiloh was the City where the Tabernacle was pitched, and the Ark the symbol of Gods presence was, Jud. 18. 31. & 21. 19. 1 Sam. 1. 3. 9. 24. & 4. 21. Out of it the Ark was carried, 1 Sam. 4. 3. when it was taken by the Philistines, and was carried no more thither, but rested in Kirjath-jearim. 1 Sam. 7. 2. where it rested 20 years. David fetched it from thence, a Sam. 6. 2. So that as the Psalmist tells us, Psal. 78. 60. 61. God forsook the Tabernacle in Shiloh, here he threatens to do the like as to the Temple, because of which they had such a confidence. Jeremiah, chap. 7. 12. had spoken much the same thing, it is a threatening that God would deprive them of his Ordinances. 1 To which he addeth a threatening of destruction to the City, to that degree that when men should curse any place, they should say, God do unto thee as he did to Jerusalem. We had the like phrase, chap. 24. 9. and here it again, chap. 29. 18, 23. &c.

<sup>n</sup> All the People present at that time heard the Prophet, who according to the command of God came into the Court of the Lords house, and discharged his office, speaking these words.

<sup>8</sup> ¶ Now it came to pass, that when Jeremiah had made an end of speaking all that the LORD had commanded him to speak <sup>n</sup> unto all the people, that the priests, and the prophets, and all the people took him, saying, Thou shalt surely die <sup>o</sup>.

<sup>p</sup> Either they had a reverence for the Prophet, or the terror of God fell upon them, so as they did not interrupt him till he had fully dispatched his errand. <sup>q</sup> Then the chief of the Priests with the assistance of the People apprehend him, and tell him he should be put to death.

<sup>r</sup> They charge him with being a false Prophet, speaking false things in the name of God, their pretence fetched to have been from the Promises of God; such as that, Psal. 132. 13. 14. For the Lord hath chosen Zion, he hath desired it for his habitation. This is my rest for ever, here will I dwell, for I have desired it. Which they interpreted into that a false say; they could not by their sin drive God away from them, and therefore Jeremiah must prophesie falsely, against the Will of God before revealed. <sup>s</sup> This caused a furious Tumult of the People in the Temple, which alarmed the Civil Magistrates.

+ Heb. As it is said, and right is your eye.

power to take cognizance of seditious Persons and false Prophets, and doth not deny but such persons deserved to die, but denieth that he was a false prophet, or guilty of any design to stir up sedition, for he had said nothing but what God had sent him to speak; and therefore could not prophesie what was false, nor was to be charged with any seditious design.

<sup>d</sup> It is not that I have pronounced Evil against you, but the Lord who made both you and me: You rage against me, who am but Gods Instrument by whom he lets you know his Mind and Will, it were more advisable for you to reform your wicked Lives and Practices. <sup>e</sup> And that by a full obedience to what the Lord hath commanded you in his Law, and by me (spoken) to you. <sup>f</sup> If you will do this, the Lord will change the course of his Providence, and do that which in men is called a repenting, and not bring those evil things upon you, which he by me his servant hath pronounced against you.

<sup>f</sup> That is, I am in your power (as hands often signify in Scripture) Jeremiahs doth not by this acknowledge any power they had justly, thus to restrain, and question him. <sup>g</sup> Nor doth he dare them, to do what they had a natural power to do, by saying, do with me what seemeth good unto you, the phrase imports no more than that he could not hinder their doing with him what they pleased. The hands in which it was, were the hands of Violence, not of Justice, for though they had a just power against false prophets, yet they had no such power against any Prophet sent by God, let the matter of his Prophesie be never so threatening and ungrateful to them. Therefore he addeth,

<sup>g</sup> If you make this sedition, and put me to death for it, ye have a natural power to do it, but you will get nothing by it, but further bring down the Vengeance of God upon you by shedding my blood without a cause, the guilt of which will be added to your other guils, and lie upon you, and upon your City. <sup>h</sup> For you may think, and talk what you please, if it be certain truth, that I spake nothing out of any evil design, nor of my own head; but only what the Lord sent me to speak.

<sup>j</sup> Probably they Elders were some of the Court, or else Advisors, for they were wont to rise up, either to plead or to advise. Job. 3. 12. Acts. 5. 24. They rise up and apply themselves to the people to justify their absolute sentence.

unto all the people of Judah, saying <sup>l</sup>, Thus saith the LORD of host: Zion shall be plowed like a field, and Jerusalem shall become heaps, and the mountain of the house, as the high places of the forest <sup>l</sup>.

<sup>m</sup> This was that Micah, whose prophesies are part of holy Writ as appeareth by Micah. 1. 1. and 3. 12. where are the very words of the Prophesie here mentioned. 1 The influence of that Prophesie was the same with this of Jeremiahs, that Zion should be plowed up, and the place where the Temple stood should become to desolate that Trees should grow there, as in a Wood or Forest.

<sup>h</sup> This is a piece of story which we have recorded in no other part of Scripture. Some judge these words were the words of the same that spake before, but that is not likely, for then they had brought one instance for acquitting him, another, for the condemning of him. They are therefore rather to be interpreted as the words of some others, either of the Court who were Enemies to Jeremiahs, or of his Accusers, or their Council, urging a later president, in the time of Jehoiachin the King that at this time reigned, who also pretended to speak in the name of the Lord, and whose prophesie was the same in substance with this of Jeremiahs.

<sup>s</sup> When Jehoiachin our present King, and all his great men heard of it, probably by the information of others, they judged it a capital crime, and used means to apprehend him, in order to the putting him to death, upon which the Prophet being advertised of it, and fearing the ill use, fled into Egypt.

<sup>v</sup> These persons sent by Jeremiahs, brought back the Prophet by force, he was tried and cast, judged worthy to die, and put to death, and ignominiously buried, not in the Sepulchres of the Prophets, or any men of Repute and Honour, but amongst the vulgar People. Which, as also his diligence to send for Urijah (fled into a foreign Country to save his life) shewed the great Malice of this Prince against the Lords true Prophets; though it had but very ill effects. The summe is (if we take these words as the speech of Jeremiahs Enemies) what do you tell us of what Hezekiah did, you have a later instance of it in our present Kings time, the cases of Urijah and of Jeremiahs were fully parallel. So as the cities is a judged case.

should not give him into the hands of the people to put him to death.

Though Jerusalem's Enemies pleaded this instance of Orish's which had this advantage of the other, because it was matter of fact done lately, and a case judged in this very Kings Reign yet the hand, that is, the power and interest of one Ailem who as appears from a King, 22. 12. was one of Jahsh's Counsellors, and the father of Gidshah's, chap. 32. 14. who upon the taking of the City was made Governor, chap. 40. 5. was with Jeremiah. So as through the good Providence of God, Jerusalem was not delivered into the hands of the people, some of whom were mutable, and malicious enough, ready to do any thing the Pharisees put them upon. And the after advancement of the Son of this Ailem to be Governor of Judah, may justly be interpreted a reward in this life, which God gave him for his kindness to his Prophet.

CHAP. XXVII.

IN the beginning of the reign of Jehoiahim the son of Josiah king of Judah, came this word unto Jeremiah from the LORD, saying,

Here is a difficulty arising from this verse, which there have been various attempts to relieve, and whether any hath been fully satisfactory I doubt. It is said this word of the Lord came to Jeremiah in the beginning of the reign of Jehoiahim, and ver. 3. the Prophet is bid to fend the bonds and yokes, the hand of the Mulemen which came to Hierusalem unto Zedekiah King of Judah, who began not to reign till about eleven years after the beginning of the Reign of Jehoiahim. To solve this difficulty, I Some think Jehoiahim was a common name to all the sons of Jahsh and that Zedekiah is here called Jehoiahim, but I see no foundation for that conjecture from Holy Writ. Others think it is an error in those that copied out the Prophet, but it is dangerous to admit that. Others think that the Prophet came in the beginning of the Reign of Jehoiahim, but was to be concealed until the Reign of Hierusalem. I had rather agree with those who think that this command came to the Prophet first in the time of Jehoiahim, but was to be repeated by the Prophet often, and accordingly was to fulfil, and in the time of Zedekiah; nor that he always went about with Bonds and Yokes about his neck, but that by times, he put them on, and went about with them, as a Type of that Bondage, which the Jews were fuddenly to endure.

2 Thus saith the LORD to me, Make thee bonds and yokes, and put them upon thy neck b.

God commandeth the Prophet to procure, either by his own labour or with his Money, some Yokes with Bonds to make them more fast; and to put some one of them upon his own neck, that therein he might be a Type both to his own people and also the people afterward mentioned, that they should be in bondage to the King of Babylon, and their yoke should be so fastened with bonds, that they should not be able to slip them, or get them off from off their Necks.

3 And fend them to the king of Edom, and to the king of Moab, and to the king of the Ammonites, and to the king of Tyrus, and to the king of Zidon, by the hand of the messengers, which come to Jerusalem unto Zedekiah king of Judah c.

It was and is the custom of neighbour Princes, to send Embassadors into each others Countries to reside there and maintain correspondence on the behalf of their Masters. These Nations were Neighbours to the Jews, and their Princes had their Embassadors resident at Hierusalem. Jeremiah is directed to carry each of these Embassadors a Yoke with a Bond, as a present from God to their Masters, the meaning he is also ordered to tell them in the following words.

4 And command them || to say unto their masters, Thus saith the LORD of hosts the God of Israel d, Thus shall ye say unto your masters.

The Lord of Hosts, who hath therefore a power over all the Creatures, who though he is in a special sense the God of Israel, yet his dominion is extended to your Masters Countries as well as unto Israel.

5 I have made the earth, the man and the beast that are upon the ground by my great power, and by my out-stretched arm, and * have given it unto whom it seemed meet unto me e.

To evince to them that his dominion extendeth to them, he mindeth them, that he was the first efficient cause of all the Creatures, and made both all men, and all beasts that are upon the Earth, and therefore had a special property in them, and an universal power over them, it being in his power to dispose of what was at first the work of his hands, and accordingly in the methods and workings of his Providence he did daily dispose of Kingdoms, and Nations according to his pleasure without being for such disposal of them accountable unto any Person.

6 And now have I given all these lands into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon my servant f, and the * beats of the field have I given him also to serve him g.

By the former words God gave the Prophet Authority to alter his dominion, and right to dispose of all Creatures, by these he authorizeth him to reveal his Will concerning the disposal of the lands of Edom, Moab, Ammon, Tyre and Sidon, viz. that he had disposed of them to Nebuchadnezzar the King of Babylon whom he calleth his servant. f Because he did the work which he would have him to do; though as God said of the Pharisees, Ex. 10. 7. he minded not his; he had nothing led in his thoughts then to obey any command of God. Wicked men being Gods Servants, as the Hawk is the prudent Falconers servant, who maketh use of the Ravenous quality of the Hawk to get game for him. Twice more at least we find Nebuchadnezzar thus called, chap. 23. 5. & 43. 10. & God further adds that the Jews should serve him, by which he knew that the Cattel which were in the possession of the men of these Nations should also come into his power; or that God had also given the Horses and Oxen and other beasts which he should use in his Wars for Carriages, or conveyance, to him so as they should be really servicable to him in his Conquests of those Countries.

7 And all nations shall serve him b and his son and his sons for ever, * until the very time of his land come k: and then many nations and great Kings shall serve themselves of him l.

That is, all these Nations, and some think that is expressed in the Article used here demonstratively, though not taken notice of by our Translators. I And Esau-Melech his Son, who succeeded him, chap. 21. 21. and Balthazar his Grandchild, Dan. 5. 1. 11. & Until the period of his Kingdom shall come, (for Nations have their periods) which was after seventy years, according to chap. 29. 10. during which years some say four Princes ruled in Babylon, the Scripture mentions but three. After that he shall himself be Conquered, as it came to pass in Babylonia time, Dan. 5. 30. Darius the Emperor of the Medes taking his Kingdom.

8 And it shall come to pass, that the nation and kingdom which will not serve the fame Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon m, and that will not put their neck under the yoke of the king of Babylon, that nation will I punish, saith the LORD, with the sword, and with the famine, and with the pestilence, until I have consumed them by his hand n.

That is, that will not upon Nebuchadnezzar's coming against them freely submit to his power, and yield themselves to his Subjection. I will humble them by my fore judgments of Sword, Pestilence, and Famine; and make them yield, and they shall not avoid what through their stubbornness they study to avoid, but shall at last be brought under by his Power.

9 Therefore hearken not ye to your prophets o, nor to your diviners p, nor to your dreamers q, nor to your enchanters, nor to your sorcerers r, which speak unto you, saying, Ye shall not serve the king of Babylon f.

It is uncertain whether these words were part of the message which Jeremiah by command from God, sent to the Kings above mentioned, or the Prophets words to the Jews, for as those Pagan Nations, had diviners, dreamers, enchanters and sorcerers; so the Jews had them also, Jer. 47. 12. 13. the meaning is, hearken not to those of them that pretend to come from God to (free) your escape from this judgment, and not be brought in a servitude to the King of Babylon, for you shall serve the King of Babylon. By Prophets he means such as pretended to some Divine Revelations. By Diviners, he means Souldiviners, of which were several sorts. By Dreamers, such as pretend to Revelations in their sleep. By Enchanters and sorcerers, he means their Astrologers, and such as used Astrology, or by any unlawful ways and means; pretended to know the Mind and Will of God.

10 For they prophesie a lie unto you r, to remove you far from your land, and that I should drive you out, and ye should perish u.

Let them know by their pretended knowledge which way they will, what they say is false. v And the issue of your belie of what they say, will be nothing but your carrying into Captivity out of your own country, and your ruine and destruction.

11 But the nations that bring their neck under the yoke of the king of Babylon, and serve him, those will I let remain still in their own land, saith the LORD, and they shall till it, and dwell therein w.

Those that upon the first summons, or without making any hostile opposition shall yield themselves servants to the King of Babylon, shall remain still, and be left in the land to till the ground, and shall dwell therein. It is the time when God is resolved to put an end to the Kingdom of Judah for a time, and to the other Nations mentioned for ever: There is therefore no refusing of Gods Councils; those that most quietly yield will be in the best condition.

12 ¶ I spake also to Zedekiah king of Judah according to all these words, saying, Bring your necks under the yoke of the king of Babylon, and serve him, and his people, and live x.

Some think this was at another time but it is most probable it was the same time.

13 Why will ye die, thou and thy people, by the sword, by the famine, and by the pestilence, as the LORD hath spoken against the nation that will not serve the king of Babylon y.

That is, why wilt thou wilfully not obey mine thy felt, but thy innocent people by the Sword, the Famine, and the Pestilence? The word is spoken by the Lord, that all Nations who will not willingly yield to the King of Babylon shall be thus destroyed.

14 Therefore hearken not unto the words of the prophets that speak unto you, saying, Ye shall not serve the King of Babylon: for they prophesie * a lie unto you z:

We shall find throughout all the Jewish story, that wicked Princes never wanted false Prophets, Ecclesiastical Ministers who would entice God to what they spoke in humour to their Governors. Such Ministers they would have, and usually they proved fatal to them, so did Isaiah Prophets, that encouraged him to go up to Ramoth-Gilead, and Zedekiah's Prophets, who persuaded him not to submit to the King of Babylon; Jeremy believed them, not to hearken to them, that is, not to a good reason, because what they said was false.

15 For I have not sent them faith the LORD, yet they prophesie f a lie in my name a, that I might drive you out, and that ye might perish b, ye, and the prophets that prophesie unto you c.

They make use of my name, and pretend to say what they say by commission from me, saith the LORD, but there is no such thing, I never gave them authority to speak any such things. b And though possibly they do not design your Ruine by these practices, for none can be thought to design their own Ruine, that will be the end of it, for by this means your hearts are hardened against the Revelations of my Will, by which I shall be provoked to give you up to Ruine, nor shall they escape, for they shall be ruined with you.

16 Also I spake to the priests, and to all this people, saying, Thus saith the LORD, Hearken not to the words of your Prophets that prophesie unto you, saying, Behold the * vessels of the LORDS house shall now shortly be brought again from Babylon; for they prophesie a lie unto you d.

The Prophet, like Gods faithful servants, spared none, but faithfully gave warning to all sorts, to take heed of the false Prophets, that undertook to foretell that the Vessels of the Temple carried away in the time of Jehoiachin, and his Son Jehoiachin's or Jehoiachin's, of which we read 2 Chron. 36. 7. 10. should be brought back again to Hierusalem, in a short time.

17 Hearken not unto them, serve the king of Babylon and live: wherefore should this city be laid waste e?

Believe them not, but falsifie your selves as to Gods Providence with respect to you, and be content to be subject to the King of Babylon, so may you have your lives for a prey; though you be strained as to your accommodations and piteous and splendid way of life, if you do not, your City will certainly be laid waste, and why should you pull such a judgment upon your own heads?

18 But if they be prophets, and if the word of the LORD be with them f, let them now make intercession to the LORD of hosts, that the vessels which are left in the house of the LORD, and in the house of the king of Judah, and at Jerusalem go not to Babylon g.

If they be true Prophets, and have any communion with God instead of foretelling the bringing back of the Vessels carried away, & Let them apply themselves to hinder the carrying away of what Vessels yet remain, and that either in the house of the Lord, or the Kings house, or in Hierusalem, which is to be done no other way, than by pleading with God to turn his Wrath, and not to bring those Sore Judgments which he is most certainly bringing upon you.

19 ¶ For thus saith the LORD of hosts concerning the pillars, and concerning the sea and concerning the basins, and concerning the residue of the vessels that remain in this city h.

These were all parts of the Temple or Vessels used in it. Vid. 1 King. 7.

20 Which Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon took not, when he carried away * captive Je- * chap. 24. 1. Joniah the son of Jehoiachin king of Judah, from Jerusalem to Babylon, and all the nobles of Judah and Jerusalem i.

Concerning the persons and things which the King of Babylon then carried away. See 2 Kings 24. 13. 14. 15.

21 Ye, thus saith the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, concerning the vessels that remain in the house of the LORD, and in the house of the king of Judah, and of Jerusalem k.

The Prophet enlargeth his prophetic threatenings, and makes it extend to all other Vessels of price, in the houses of the King, the Nobles or more wealthy Citizens.

22 They shall be carried to Babylon, and there shall they be l until the day that * I visit them, * 2 Chron. 36. and reform them, to this place n.

See the fulfilling of this Prophecy, 2 Kin. 25. 13. 14. 15. 2 Chron. 36. 18. and that they abode in Babylon till the end of the Captivity appeareth from Dan. 5. 2. where we read of Balthazar's tending for them to drink Wine at, his fatal Feast. In that is until the expiration of the time of the Jewish Captivity, which was 70 years. o The fulfilling of that part of the Prophecy, we have Eyes 1. 7. 8. 9. in these words *Also Cyrus the King brought forth the vessels of the house of the LORD, which Nebuchadnezzar had brought forth out of Hierusalem; and had put them in the house of Mithradath the Treasurer, and numbered them out Sheshar, the Prince of Judah. And this is the number of them, thirty chargers of gold, a thousand chargers of silver, mix and twenty kintars, thirty kintars of gold, a thousand chargers of silver, mix and twenty kintars, ten, and other vessels a thousand. All these things Sheshar brought up with him of the captivity, that were brought up from Babylon to Hierusalem. So punctually was Jeremiah's Prophecy in this place fulfilled, and so exactly doth one part of holy writ agree with another, which are great arguments to prove the Divine Authority of the Holy Scriptures.*

CHAP. XXVIII.

AND it came to pass the same year, in the beginning of the reign of Zedekiah king of Judah, in the fourth year a, and in the fifth month, that Hananiah the son of Azur the prophet which was of Gileon b, spake unto me, in the house of the LORD, in the presence of the priests, and of all the people, saying c,

Here is a great appearing difficulty, viz. how the fourth year could be called the beginning of Zedekiah's Reign, who reigned in all but eleven years, yet they are divided into three parts, the fourth year can hardly be in any proper call the beginning of his Reign. Many things are said to be true that are by such as are curious may be read both in the English Annotations, and in Mr. Poets Synopses, I shall only repeat what seemed to both them, and seemeth also to me the best solution. Though it be said in the fourth year, yet it is not said, in the fourth year of Zedekiah's reign; they therefore think, that in the fourth year of the sublunary course is here intended. The Jews had a kind of jubilee every 7th. year, it was a year when the land was to rest and not be tilled, Lev. 25. 1. 2. 3. 4. and in that year they were to release their Debtors and Servants, Dan. 5. 1. wherein the City was besieged was a Sublunary year or year of rest. For if Zedekiah's first year were the fourth of the seven that made the Sublunary circle, his third year was gold and silver. b

barical year, and his tenth another, presently after which the City was taken. b Of this Harshai we read no more. c Harshai is, it is probable from the place where he lived, which was one of the Cities of the Priests, that he was a Priest, but no more then a pretended Prophet. e He comes to Jerem in the Temple, where he was wont to deliver his Prophecies to confront him in the presence both of the Priests and the people, saying—

2 Thus speaketh the LORD of hosts the God of Israel, saying, I have broken the yoke of the king of Babylon d.

3 The false Prophet counterfeited the file of the true Prophets, both in the names which he gave, unto God, and in speaking of what God would do as if already done.

4 And I will bring again to this place, Jeconiah the son of Jehoiakim king of Judah, with all the captives of Judah, that went into Babylon, faith the LORD; for I will break the yoke of the king of Babylon f.

5 Only it is admirable, that for joining the Kings Court he should mention the return of Jeconiah or Jehoiachin, which had been true, must have been to the prejudice of Zedekiah, for Jeconiah was the right heir to the Crown, being the Son of Jehoiakim, Zedekiah his Uncle was put in by the Conqueror, but it is probable, he saw Jeconiah was more acceptable to the people, and that the favour for the Nephew was greater than for the Uncle. False Teachers are always on the greater side, either for number, or for power.

6 Then the prophet Jeremiah said unto the prophet Hananiah in the presence of the priests, and in the presence of all the people that stood in the house of the LORD.

7 Even the prophet Jeremiah said, Amen g; the LORD do, the LORD perform thy words; thou hast prophesied, to bring again the vessels of the LORDS house, and all that is carried away captive, from Babylon into this place.

8 The true Prophet Jeremiah, speaks to this false Prophet with as much boldness as he had spoke to him with impudence, and in the same presence of the Priests, and of the people, but with a pretence of great Charity and Modesty. Amen, (faith he) which particle is used in Holy Writ, either as a particle of affirmation, as it is most ordinarily used both in this single form, and doubled by our Saviour in the Gospel. Or as a particle of rejoicing and praying, upon which account was used in the Lords Prayer, though there it signifies more then here, viz, a Faith or Belief, that God will grant the Petitions, as well as a desire that he would grant them; here it signifies no more then the latter, and is expounded by the next words: Nor indeed doth it, or can it here signify so much as an absolute heavy desire, for Jeremiah could not so heartily pray for that which God had told him he would not do. Jerem therefore must be understood here, either to have spoken only as a man, testifying the kindness he had by his Country, then the sense is; If it be the will of God, or may it be the will of God; I wish that thou hast said might come to pass, or else in thy compliance. The Lord give unto this people an heart to reform and amend their ways, that the words which thou hast spoken may come to pass.

9 Nevertheless, hear thou now this word that I speak in thine ears, and in the ears of all the people h.

10 The word which I am now about to speak concerneth thee, and not thee alone, but all the people, therefore do thou mark it well, and let them mark it also.

11 The Prophets that have been before me, and before thee of old, prophesied both against many countreys, and against great kingdoms, of war, and of evil, and of pestilence i.

12 That is, thou and I are not the first Prophets, that have foretold to Countreys and Nations the great Judgments of God coming upon them, Wars, pestilence, by evil, some think is to be understood famine, but it is not much material.

9 The prophet which prophesieth of peace k, when the word of the prophet shall come to pass, then shall the prophet be known that the LORD hath truly sent him l.

10 By Pateis here meant Propheits, all good, being by the Hebrews usually understood under the notion of Peace. The Prophets either prophesied evil or good, according as God revealed his will unto them; what way was for them to discover whether the Prophets were truly sent of God y or no? It was known by the Event, this was the Rule God set Dant. 18. 22. When a Prophet speaketh in the name of the Lord, if the thing follow not, nor come to pass, that is the thing which the Lord hath not spoken. But this was not on the contrary part, for a Prophet might speak a thing, which might come to pass, and yet he be none of the Lords Prophets, nor to be hearkened to, as appeareth from Dant. 13. 1. 2. Some have thought, that Prophecies concerning good things always were brought to pass; if the Prophet were a true Prophet, but it appeareth otherwise from chap. 18. 9. 10. Prophecies both concerning good and evil, might not come to pass, and yet the Prophet be a true Prophet, in case the manners of the people altered, for in all promises or threatnings of temporal good or evil, there is a condition to be understood, God neither by his promises bindeth himself to do good to wicked men, nor by his threatnings threateneth them with evil, unless they amend their ways; so that if a Prophet prophesied up his own hands from fleeing mercy to such as turn good, but some observe yet this difference, that good things are in Scripture never absolutely promised, but they come certainly to pass, and are fulfilled, but God for terror often threatneth evil things, without expecting any condition, when notwithstanding a condition is understood, upon the fulfilling of which the threatening cometh not to pass, as it was in the case of Ninive, upon the prophesie of Yahai. But the greater difficulty is to determine by what rule they could judge one a true or false Prophet, if they might not always judge by the event, the coming, or not coming to pass of what he prophesied. I answer, that they were to judge from the word of God, as well as from the event. Yahai 8. 20. therefore Dant. 13. 1. 2. the people were commanded not to hearken to that Prophet, which should condemn what he said by a sign or wonder, if his scope were by it to pervert people to idolatry. So that if a Prophet prophesied good, and prosperity to any people, the people were to consider what his scope was, and whether what he prophesied was according to the Law of God, which speaketh no good to a wicked impudent people, and though what he said came to pass, yet he was to be determined no true Prophet, if what he spoke were contrary to Gods revealed will, or his scope in speaking of it was to harden people in their courses, or to seduce them from the right wayes of God. Jeremiah here, as to the end of the truth of his, and Hananiah contrary prophecies appealeth to the Event, telling him, that he as a man, heartily wished that his words might prove true.

11 The Prophet Jeremias coming into the Temple, with a yoke upon his neck, as a type of the Yoke of the King of Babylon, which the Jews were to come, gave occasion to the affront given him by the false Prophet, in a farther degree of impudence, being thus confronted by Jeremiah, he pulls the yoke off Jeremiahs neck, and breaketh it in an high and impudent contempt of God, and his will revealed by this Prophet, and confirmed by this yoke as a sign, adding also the following words.

12 And Hananiah spoke in the presence of all the people, saying, Thus saith the LORD, Even so will I break the yoke of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon * from the neck of all nations which * chap. 27. 1. in the space of two full years n. And the prophet Jeremiah went his way o.

13 As God hath his Sacraments to confirm the truth of his word, of which his Ministers are the Stewards and Administrators; So the Deity hath his Sacraments, of which his Prophets are the Administrators. God by his Prophet Jerem had revealed his will, as to the King of Babylon's success against many Nations, and bringing them into his servitude, as a Sacrament or sign of this, he had commanded Jeremias to put on a yoke of God, and declares the contrary, that within two years God would break the King of Babylon, and free the Nations in subjection to him; and as a Sacrament or sign to gain credit to this falsehood, he plucks off Jeremiahs yoke, and breaketh it, and expounds himself, that God would to break the King of Babylon, yoke from the neck of all Nations, and presents him with a commission from God to say this. Jeremias not able to endure to hear such lyes, goeth away in testimony of his dissent from him, and adherence to what he had said.

12 Then the word of the LORD came unto Jeremiah the prophet after that Hananiah the prophet had broken the yoke from off the neck of the prophet Jeremiah saying p.

Some time after this, God taking notice of the affront put upon his Prophet Jeremias, for faithfully discharging the message which he had entrusted him, revealeth his mind unto Jeremias, that he might declare it unto the people, and particularly to this false Prophet.

14 Jeremias being the impudence of Hananiah, and that his further discourse with him would do no good, but it may have caused more danger to himself, prophesying what was more ingratul to the people, then what the false Prophet prophesied, and possibly desirous further to know the will of God withreth himself. Soon after God sends him back to the people, and to Hananiah with this message; That he by his false Prophecies had done the people no good, but much hurt, further incensed God against them, and provoked him to make their judgment heavier, giving them iron yokes, instead of those of wood.

15 For thus saith the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, * I have put a yoke of iron upon the neck of all these nations, that they may serve Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, and they shall serve him, and * I have given him the beasts of the field also r.

16 For notwithstanding all he had said, God was resolved to justify his word, and to bring them under subjection to Nebuchadnezzar, and to give all they had also into his power.

17 Then said the prophet Jeremiah unto Hananiah the Prophet, Hear now Hananiah, The Lord hath not sent thee, but thou makest this people to trust in a lye s.

18 Jeremias being a second time confirmed in the truth of his Revelation, and having likewise a special Revelation relating to this false Prophet, comes now and tells him his doom, viz, that he should die within a year, because he had taught people to believe, and to hope for, and trust to what was false, and they were never like to see.

19 And seek the peace of the city, whither I have caused you to be carried away captives t, and pray unto the LORD for it, for in the peace thereof shall ye have peace u.

20 That is, seek to God for it, or rather, live peaceably in it, and by all lawful means seek the welfare of it, do not raise any tumults or seditions, nor take part with those that do. g And while your Captivity lasts do you pray for it, (from whence those who think that Christ hath added new moral precepts, and reckon this precept of praying for enemies as one, may understand, that praying for enemies was but a branch of that love, to our Neighbours, which God required under the Old Testament.) for it was lawful for them to pray against Babylon as their enemies, though they were to pray for it, as for a city in other times, Psal. 127. 8. Jer. 51. 35. but when God hath put a yoke upon our necks, we must patiently wait until he takes it off. The Lawyers say that Prostitution requirit Allegiance to Jeremias; The Text less us know also that it requirith our prayers for them; though they be Conquerors and Tyrants. b For God having by his providence call us under their power, our peace dependeth upon theirs.

22 That is within the compass of a year after that Jeremias had spoken these words, within 2 months after that Jeremias had thus prophesied, as appeareth from ver. 1. so dangerous a thing it is for Ministers to teach people contrary to the revealed will of God.

CHAP. XXIX.

1 NOW these are the words of the letter, that Jeremias the prophet sent from Jerusalem unto the residue of the elders, which were carried away captives, and to the priests, and to the prophets, and to all the people whom Nebuchadnezzar had carried away captive from Jerusalem to Babylon w.

2 There were two carryings into the captivity of Babylon, the latter about 11 or 12 years after the former, the first within the time of Jehoiachin, of which we read in 2 Kings 24. 14. When the princes, and all the mighty men of valor, run thee thousand captives, and all the craftsmen and smiths were carried away, as we read there, amongst whom were some Priests and Prophets.

3 After that * Jeconiah the king, and the queen, and all the eunuchs, the princes of Judah and Jerusalem, and the carpenters, and the smiths were departed from Jerusalem b.

4 By the hand of Elasah the son of Shaphan, and Gemariah the son of Hilkiah, whom Jeconiah king of Judah sent unto Babylon to Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, saying c.

5 Zedekiah the King of Judah having leave occasion to send two messengers, named Eliak and Gemariah to Babylon, whether to carry his tribute money, or upon what other errand is not expressed. Jeremias knowing that as there were some false Prophets at Jerusalem, who fed people with hopes of a speedy return, so there were some with them in Babylon, who did the like, (two of which he afterwards in this Chapter reflecteth upon) which the following letter, and lends is by their two messengers, to quiet the peoples minds, and to help to comfort their spirits, disturbed by these false Prophets, and raised up to vain and idle hopes for which there was no ground at all.

6 Thus saith the LORD of hosts the God of Israel, unto all that are carried away captives, whom I have caused to be carried away from Jerusalem to Babylon d.

7 So as this Letter was not procured from himself advising them charitably, but he had commission from God, by whom he minded them, as the principal efficient cause they were ordered to be carried away, though their own sins were the meritorious cause, and Nebuchadnezzar with his Captains and Soldiers were the instrumental cause.

9 Take ye wives, and beget sons and daughters, and take wives for your sons, and give your daughters to husbands, that they may bear sons and daughters, that ye may be increased there, and not diminished e.

10 That is, be not uneasie in your minds, nor resolving what to do, through the prophecies of the false Prophets, that tell of the Captivity shall be but two years, or at least very short; But do all things which you would do, if Babylon were to be your fixed habitation, (as it is like to be for seventy years, say the Prophets, what they please) Marry, and give, and take in Marriage, do whatsoever it becometh prudent men to do, who would accommodate themselves in a place, where they are like to abide, and preserve their Families, that they might not be utterly extinguished. The words must not be understood as a precept, obliging all in the Captivity to do every of these things, which it may be they were not all able to do, but as a counsel and advice not to forbear any thing of this nature, which they would do, if they did fully believe they were to abide in a place seventy years.

11 And seek the peace of the city, whither I have caused you to be carried away captives f, and pray unto the LORD for it, for in the peace thereof shall ye have peace h.

12 That is, seek to God for it, or rather, live peaceably in it, and by all lawful means seek the welfare of it, do not raise any tumults or seditions, nor take part with those that do. g And while your Captivity lasts do you pray for it, (from whence those who think that Christ hath added new moral precepts, and reckon this precept of praying for enemies as one, may understand, that praying for enemies was but a branch of that love, to our Neighbours, which God required under the Old Testament.) for it was lawful for them to pray against Babylon as their enemies, though they were to pray for it, as for a city in other times, Psal. 127. 8. Jer. 51. 35. but when God hath put a yoke upon our necks, we must patiently wait until he takes it off. The Lawyers say that Prostitution requirit Allegiance to Jeremias; The Text less us know also that it requirith our prayers for them; though they be Conquerors and Tyrants. b For God having by his providence call us under their power, our peace dependeth upon theirs.

13 ¶ For thus saith the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, Let not your prophets, and your diviners that be in the midst of you, * deceive * chap. 14. 14; cause to be dreamed i.

14 The Lord knows that you have a company of false Prophets, that tell you other things, and promising you a sudden return out of your Captivity, pretending to know it by Revelation from God, or by divination, &c. or to have it discovered to them in dreams. It is the will of God that you should not hearken to them, for they do deceive you, and ye are accursed to your own ruine, they see you are pleased to hear fleshly flattery, and that causeth them to dream, as chap. 5. 31. Thou shalt not have it so, thus Jas. 30. 10. Thou shalt not have it, for, and to the prophets, prophesy not to us right things, speak us as smooth things, prophesy deceit. False teachers and guides of peoples souls are the greatest plague can befall a Nation, people from them expecting to have the mind of God, and for the most part, people are accursed to their own ruine, in them it can indeed hardly be imagined, what other temptation, persons whole office it is to reveal the mind of God, should have to do otherwise, but the humouring and pleasing of a corrupt people, who through their fondness of their lulls are not patient of found Doctrine, so as though the Church of God hath in all Ages been troubled with dreamers, yet it is a wicked people that causeth them to dream.

15 For they prophesie † falsely unto you in my † Heb. is a false name; I have not sent them, faith the LORD.

A Book in the Heb. Diactyl signifies any parchment or roll; God would have them directed to refigure his Truth, and the truth of the Prophet when they should see the things accomplished.

3 For lo, the dayes come, saith the LORD, that I will bring again the captivity of my people Israel and Judah c, saith the LORD, and I will cause them to return to the land that I gave to their fathers, and they shall possess it d.

e The reason why God would have the prophetic written was for a memorial of Gods Truth in his promises. f First never returned as to the body of the people, but those of the ten Tribes which were Gods People did return; we read Luk. 2-35, of one Anna who was of the Tribe of Asher, and many more doubtless did return according to the Promises, chap. 3. 12. 14. & 31. 6. & 31. 1. 6. & 37. 21. 22. d It is uncertain whether this promise of returning to their own lands was fulfilled in those few of the ten Tribes who joined themselves with those of Judah after they were returned from Babylon, or remaineth yet in part to be fulfilled. The former is most probable, and that there shall be no such time when the Jews shall return again to Jerusalem, and possess their own land, for it is hard now to give an account where the posterity of the ten Tribes be, by whose return, the promise should be justified. Besides that the Phrase in the beginning of this verse. For lo, the dayes come, seem to import a more speedy fulfilling of the promise, then after some thousands of years, though it is certain the Jews feed themselves with some such expectations.

4 ¶ And these are the words, that the LORD spake, concerning Israel, and concerning Judah.

5 For thus saith the LORD, We have heard a voice of trembling, || of fear, and not of peace e.

f God here speaketh, but whether personating other Nations, or the Jews Nation is not agreed, nor yet whether this Text refers to the times of the Messiah when the Nations should tremble, or to the times when Jerusalem or the times of Chanaan and Megiddo (of which read Ezek. 38. 39.) or the times when the Chaldeans invaded Judah, this last seemeth most probable, and that God by this intended only to rouse the Jews out of their security, and put them off from expecting peace according to the flatteries of the false Prophets, assuring them that the times that were coming were not times of peace, but such as should make them tremble.

6 Ask ye now, and see whether † a man doth travail with child? wherefore do I see every man with his hands on his loins, * as a woman in travail f, and all faces are turned into pale-ness g.

h The voice which I hear is not the voice of women, but of men, and those the strongest and stoutest men, yet it is a voice like the voice of Women in travail, roaring out through their pains, and the posture I see the generality of men are in, is like the posture of Women in travail, who hold their hands upon their loins, hoping thereby to abate their pain. Was it ever heard that Maids had the pains that use to attend Child-bearing Women? i And all mens faces look as if they had the yellow jaundice, or are of the colour of blasted Corn as the word signifies, Drut. 28. 22.

* Amos 5. 18. 7 * Alas, for that day is great, so that none is like it b: it is even the time of Jacobs trouble c, but he shall be saved out of it d.

e It is no wonder that there is such a trembling upon all hearts, such a consternation and great complaining, for it will be a time of no ordinary calamity, but of great evil and misery, in the same kind as it is called a great day, Mat. 24. 11. great and terrible; and Zeph. 1. 14. &c. there never was such a day before. f It will be a day of trouble to those that are the posterity of Isaac, both good and bad, they shall not be delivered from it, but they shall be delivered out of it.

8 For it shall come to pass in that day i, saith the LORD of hosts, that I will break his yoke from off thy neck m, and I will burst thy bonds n, and strangers shall no more serve themselves of him o.

p Not in that great day before mentioned, but in the day when God should deliver the seed of Isaac out of trouble. q God threatens to break the yoke of the King of Babylon, that is to break that power of his which for 70 years he should exercise in keeping the Jews under. r And he would break the bonds in which they should be kept. s And foreign Nations should no more serve themselves upon the Jews.

9 But they shall serve the LORD their God,

r Who is here meant by David is not well agreed. Some think this promise was fulfilled in the rule of Zorobabel, and those after the Captivity of Babylon, of the family of David who ruled over the Jews, though not under the title of Kings, others think that Christ is intended as in the other Parallels Isaiah. 44. 23. & 47. 22. & 48. 3. &c. and that the deliverance here promised was spiritual, and indeed unless we so understand it, it will be hard to assign a time when the promise of the former and this verse was made good, for upon the return from the Captivity to the coming of Christ, and from his time to this day, other Nations have served themselves upon the Jews, and they have been in perpetual servitude, first to the Parthians, then to the Greeks, then to the Romans, in a servitude to whom they were at the coming of Christ, and soon after miserably subdued by them, and since that time almost all Nations have served themselves of the Jews. Either, therefore, this prophetic must be understood in a spiritual sense of the Kingdom of Christ under which the Jews that received him were made spiritually free. Or else there is a time yet to come, when this ancient people of God shall be restored to further Civil liberty, than they have enjoyed, ever since the Captivity of Babylon, and be more fully converted to Christ, than they yet are; towards which some may Texts of Scripture, besides this, look; particularly Rom. 11. 25. 26.

10 ¶ Therefore * fear thou not, O my servant Jacob r, saith the LORD, neither be dismayed, O Israel: for lo, I will have thee from afar, and thy seed from the land of their captivity s, and Jacob shall return, and shall be in rest and quiet, and none shall make him afraid t.

u You that are my servants, and the posterity of Jacob, though your Captivity be three score and ten years, yet I am not afraid that I have quite forgotten you, or my promise made to your Fathers. v For I will assure you though I have for your sins sent you afar off, yet you are not beyond the reach of my saving Arm. w You shall return out of the Captivity of Babylon, and be at rest, as they were for 150 years during the time of the Phariss Amos. 9. 14. A short History of which we have in the Books of Ezra and Nehemiah.

11 For I am with thee saith the LORD; to save thee x: * though I make a full end of all * Amos 9. 8. nations whither I have scattered thee, yet will I not make a full end of thee y: but I will correct thee z in measure z, and will not leave thee * Psalm 6. 1. altogether unpunished y.

a I save thee, with a Temporal Salvation, and deliverance, and those of thee who are Phariss in heart, with a spiritual, and those of thee who are Phariss in heart, with a spiritual, and eternal Salvation, but the first is, what is here principally intended. b God puts a difference betwixt the chastisement of his People, and the punishment of their Enemies, the latter he doeth with an utter, and total destruction, to make an end of them, but he chastens his People like a father for their profit, and will not bring them to utter ruin. c He corrects them in measure: the Hebrew word signifies in judgment; that is, not in Equity only, but in Wisdom, or with Moderation, whereas he is said to punish his Enemies in fury. d There are many Texts of Scripture that mention this difference which God puts betwixt his punishing his People, and his punishing their Enemies. e Psalm 26. 14. & 27. 7. 6. f But yet God will not let his own people go altogether unpunished, that by it they may be reclaimed, and the World may take notice that God is of purer eyes than that he can in any persons behold iniquity.

i Interpreters generally understand by bruise or wound here, the state that the Jews should be in, in the Captivity of Babylon, which would be miserable and so miserable that it would be incurable from any hand except the hand of God, but I do not understand why it may not as well be interpreted by their sinful state, with reference to Gods purpose, and interpreted by 2 Chron. 36. 16. where it is said the wrath of God arose against them till there was no remedy. They had sinned to that degree that God had resolved upon Captivity they should go, and there should abide till the determination of 70 years.

b Concerning the general design of the Prophet in these words, all Interpreters seem agreed that the Prophets Office is to bring their unuseful thoughts to a rest, and make them rest satisfied with the Providence of God, for there was no resistance of the Will of God which he metaphorically expresseth under the notion of one miserably and incurably wounded, whom no Physician

Physician or Chirurgeon could heal, and for whom there was no effectual Plaster, but concerning the particular sense of the Hebrew words, which is critically laid, which I conceive not my word to repeat, nor is it of much moment to us to know, whom the word more properly signifies being medicines, or casts of cords, or plasters; those who are curious may read sufficiently about it in the English Annotations upon the Text. It may be more material to consider whether the Prophets meaning be, there was none would do it, or there was none could do it, or there was none should do it, that is, whom God would admit at present to do it, be it elsewhere Isaiah. 48. 12. &c. and they should have none but their own Souls; the Prophets design doubtless was to satisfy this people, that there was no present remedy for them but Patience, though their false Prophets might promise a cure, yet in very deed God would admit now of no plea for them, and all means that could be used for their more speedy reformation, would prove no healing medicines, but the medicines that make the Patience worse, and irritate, instead of allaying the distemper.

14 All thy lovers have forgotten thee b: they seek thee not, for I have wounded thee with the wound c of an enemy, with the chastisement of a cruel one c, for the multitude of thine iniquities, * because thy sins were increased d.

e In the time of thy prosperity thou hadst many friends, but now they have forgotten thee, very probably the Egyptians and Affians, which help the Jews made often use of, are the lovers here intended, 2 Chron. 28. 21. & 35. 12. indeed the Egyptians were before conquered, or very much brought low, by the King of Babylon. f They see the miserable state they are in, and now do not cover thee as formerly, they discern that I have wounded thee with such a wound, as cruel men use to give their enemies. g Though it be in me no act of cruelty, for it is but in a just punishment of your iniquities, which were increased to a very great multitude.

g Why complainest thou of my dealings with thee? or as chap. 15. 18. The cause of thy sorrow is incurable, or as others, why complainest thou that thy sorrow is incurable? h Though it be so, yet thou hast no reason to complain of my dealings, for thy disorder is of thy self; I am just in what I have done, for I have but given thee that death which is the wages of thy work of sin, nor was I suddenly provoked, it is for the multitude of thine iniquities, and in that case the living man hath no just reason to complain, Lam. 3. 39.

16 Therefore g all they that devour thee * shall be devoured, and all thine adversaries; every one of them shall go into captivity, and they that spoil thee shall be a spoil, and all that prey upon thee shall I give for a prey h.

i The particle ¶ is thought here to be ill Translated therefore, for manifestly it is not a causal or illative, and those who interpret therefore, refer it to what went before, vers. 10. 21. It were better Translated nevertheless, or notwithstanding yes, to the learned Author of the English Annotations thinks it should be Translated, Isa. 7. 14. and 30. 18. and in many other Texts. j So this Text is a declaration of Gods free mercy, though this people had justly provoked the Lord by their iniquities to punish them, yet he would at length revenge them of their enemies, and those that spoiled them should feel his justice, and be themselves spoiled, Isa. 10. 12. and 33. 1. God ordinarily punisheth those that have been punished by them, the reason are, because though they serve God in chastising his people, yet they do it not designedly; Ez. 10. 7. and commonly they exceed a measure in their executing Gods vengeance.

17 For I will restore health i unto thee, and I will heal thee of thy wounds, saith the LORD, because they called thee an Outcast, saying, This is Zion, whom no man seeketh after k.

l As the miserable state of this people was by the Prophet vers. 12. 13. described under the figure of a man wounded, and bruised, and sick, so their more prosperous state is described under the notion of health, and Gods action in restoring them, express under the notion of healing, both here, and in many other Texts, Isa. 6. 10. and 19. 22. and 55. 12. 19. k The particle here Translated because may signify here, for the fear and contempt of Gods people enemies, causing God to make haste to their salvation, and deliverance, but many think that it were better Translated although, as it is, Isa. 47. 18. though the Heathens call thee one that I have cast off, as a man doth his Wife; yet they shall see the contrary, for I will heal thee of thy wounds, l Though they deriding say, this Zion whom none cares for: Some think that in this they alluded to the original signification of the word Zion, which is a dry or wast place.

18 ¶ Thus saith the LORD, Behold, I will bring again the captivity of Jacobs tents, and have mercy on his dwelling places m, and the city shall be builded upon her own n heap, and the palace shall remain after the manner thereof o.

p This verse manifestly is a promise of the rebuilding of the City, and was fulfilled in the times of Ezra, and the term captivity, which in its proper sense relates to persons, not to places, being here applied to places, signifies the miserable state of Jerusalem, upon the taking it by Nebuchadnezzar, which God promised to change or alter under the notion of bringing again: So we read of the captivity of Jehoiachin, who yet shortly was never a captive, Isa. 42. 10. Whether by the term bring be meant the healing of the rabbi, into which the City was turned upon the taking of it by the King of Babylon, or the hill upon which the City was builded, is not much material; by the Palaces meant either the Kings house, or the Temple; So the verse is a promise of the building again of the City, the Temple, and the chief Governors house, all which was fulfilled by Ezra, Nehemiah and Zorobabel, the History of which we read in the books wrote by Ezra and Nehemiah.

19 And * out of them shall proceed thanks q, giving r, and the voice of them that make merr-y s, and I will multiply them, and they shall not be few p; I will also glorify them q, and they shall not be small q.

r Thanksgiving to God, as chap. 17. 26. either thank-offerings, Lam. 7. 12. 13. or vocal Thankgivings, o Either in a religious sense, or in a civil sense, if it be taken in the former, it signifies their mirth at their Religious Festivals, of which we read much in Scripture, Psalm. 124. 4. and 118. 24. &c. if in the latter, it signifies their happy and joyful life after their reformation. p Though they be diminished in the captivity, yet I will return to them in my wonted providences, and multiply them according to my promise to Abraham, so as they shall be for number many. q And as to their quality r shall be honourable, though during those 70 years they shall be a people of mean, and no reputation, yet after that time they shall recover their ancient reputation, and again be a people great for honour and glory.

u Their posterity also shall be as happy, and in as much respect, as they were before this carrying into Babylon. v Their Church, or the body of the people of the Jews, shall from Generation to Generation be established. w And though in those times there will be some that will oppress them, yet they shall not escape my vengeance that do so, for I will protect and defend them.

21 And their nobles shall be of themselves, and their governour shall proceed from the midst of them x, and I will cause him to draw near, and he shall approach unto me y: for who z this that engaged his heart to approach unto me? saith the LORD p.

q This promise was made good in Zorobabel, and other Governors of the Jews after their return out of captivity, till they came to be subdued by the Romans. Some restrain this to Christ, and make it a prophetic of Christ, being born of the Jews Nation, it is he they say that was meant by David, Isa. 9. 6. and it is not improbable that the sense of the Text may reach unto Christ, but it seems literally to be understood of Zorobabel, and to be applied to strangers ruling over them, which was no small piece of their calamity, while they were in captivity. r That is he shall serve me, and I will favour him, or this people shall serve me, and I will favour them, and not be as one at distance, or far off from them. Some understand this of the civil Governour that should be after the Captivity, some understand it of the people, some understand it of Christ; those that understand it of the Governour, make it to signify the special favour that Governour should be in with God, and his Religion. Those that understand it of the people, make it to signify the Religion of the people, and the favour they should be in with God. Those who understand it of Christ, interpret it of his favour with God, by whom all the Saints have their access. s Interpreters are yet more divided about this phrase; some apply it to Christ, either as an admiration of his excellency, or as denoting that none but he could draw near to God in that manner as he did, nor had any such delight in the fons of men as he; so as for him to be a Mediator betwixt offenders, and an offended God; None but he nature prompts him to watch all opportunities of doing hurt, to the person against whom he is let. There is no fury nor revenge in God; but what he doth is just; he hath an angry God is set out, as taking all opportunities to punish sinners as if he had watched for them; whereas he never slumbereth nor sleepeth; But the time of their reformation, and his favour being come, God promitteth to be as diligent to do them good, which is here exprest by the metaphorical notions of planting and building them; as he was before to execute his justice upon them.

29 In those days they shall say no more; The fathers have eaten a fowre grape, and the childrens teeth are set on edge g.

g That is, we are punished for our Fathers sins, which yet God may justly do, and none questioneth the justice of him in the case, depriving children of their paternal Estates for the sins of their Parents, nor more then God had threatened in the second Commandment. God indeed Exh. 18. 2. seemeth displeased at their use of this Proverb, but the reason is, because they so used it, as to accuse themselves, imitating they were guilty, and suffered only for the sins of their Parents, whereas that was false, otherwise the punishment of children for the sins of their Parents was no more then God had threatened, Exh. 20. 5. and 34. 7. ch 15. 4. But faith God your captivity shall, as you, expiate your Parents guilt, and you shall no more say so.

LORD, that I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel, and with the house of Judah f.

f The Apostles application of this, Hib. 8. 2. p. 10. puts us out of doubt, that this promise referred to the Gospel-union, it was not only made with the Jews, but all those who should be ingrafted into that olive, but it is said to be made with them, either as those two terms signify the whole Church, with whom that Covenant was made, (they being the whole Church, with whom God had upon the Earth at that time) or because they were the only people that had broken the first Covenant, the Gentiles being strangers at that time to the covenant of promise, Eph. 2. 12. Covenants being usually renewed upon one parties violation of them, or because it was at first made with the Jews, though it concerned also those that were after, ch 31. 31. as the Lord himself saith, Acts 2. 39. Neither is it called the new Covenant, because it was as the substance new, for it was made with Abraham, Gen. 17. 7. and with the Jews, Deut. 26. 17, 18. And it was then confirmed by the blood of Christ, though not actually then, yet as he was the Lamb slain from the beginning of the world, whose blood was typified by the blood of the Paschal Lamb, and of all those living Creatures killed for Sacrifice, but upon many other accounts, thus enumerated by Divines. 1. Because it was new in the notion of a Testament, not confirmed by the actual death of Christ till Gospel times. 2. Because it was revealed and preached after a new manner, more fully and particularly, plainly and clearly. 3. Because it had no such mixture of promises of temporal blessings, as it had when first made with the Jews. 4. Nor was the Ceremonial Law any part of it, as it was to the Jews, who were obliged to approve themselves Gods people by a strict observance of that. 5. It was in the publication extended both to Jews and Gentiles, which the former was not. 6. In regard of the efficacy of the Spirit attending the publication of it, in a much fuller and larger manner, with the distribution of its gifts and graces, enabling souls to fulfill it. See more in the English Annotations upon this Subject.

32 Not according to the covenant that I made with their fathers in the day that I took them by the hand to bring them out of the land of Egypt, I which my covenant they brake m, although I was an husband to them, faith the LORD w.

m Not in substance differing from it, but in circumstances vastly differing, as was shewed before, and is further declared afterward. The Covenant which God made with the Jews, which he came out of the Land of Egypt, was an old Covenant, the Law which he gave them, with the promises annexed to their observance of it; on their part (which made it a formal Covenant) their promise of obedience to it, of which Exh. 24. 7, 8. Deut. 26. 17, 18. This Covenant God faith he made with them, when they were an impotent weak people, ready to be led by the hand. None must imagine that this Covenant did not contain the promise of pardon, through the blood of the Messiah, upon their application to him, for to what purpose else was it confirmed by blood, Exh. 24. 8. Which Covenant they are said to have broken, not because of every disobedience to the Law of God, for every one daily breaketh it, but by their gross and eminent sinfulness, so repeated, and continued in without repentance, and more particularly by their Idolatry, which is compared to whoredom, which breaketh the Covenant, and bond of Marriage, and causeth God to say unto a people, *As I have sworn to my people. *y And this Covenant breaking is aggravated from Gods kindness to them, and care of them; who had for them the love, and declared the care of an husband, and gave them no temptation to go a whoring from him.

33 But this shall be the covenant that I will make with the house of Israel y. After those days, faith the LORD, y I will put my law in their inward parts, and write it in their hearts x, and will be their God, and they shall be my people y.

y That is, with those Israelites indeed who shall be without guile, (as Christ faith of Matthew. 5. 1. 47.) with those who are (as the Apostle speaks Rom. 2. 29.) Jews inwardly, by the circumcision of the heart and spirit, (spoken of, and promised by God, Deut. 10. 6. x In the times of the Gospel, Gods Law is not abrogated and made void, Christ himself came not to destroy the Law, but to fulfill it; but is written in the hearts of Gods true Israel, by the finger of the Spirit, not in tables of stone only, and they become obedient to it, not from compulsion and force, but from their secret approbation of it, and acknowledgment of it, as Isa. 54. 13 and 14. the delight to take in it, *as the Apostle saith, *Phil. 3. 3. But some may object, how was this a new Covenant? I did not God of old write his law in the hearts of his people? I did not David, and other the servants of God, (of whom we read in the Old Testament) serve God out of a principle of love, and delight in his Law? Ans. Undoubtedly David and others did so, and the Law of God was wrote in their hearts, but it was by virtue of this new Covenant, from the free and efficacious grace of God. Mr. Calvin I think judgeth right, that the Prophets design here is to express the difference between the Law and the Gospel. The first sheweth duty, the latter bringeth along with it the grace of Regeneration, by which the heart is changed, fitted, and enabled for, and unto duty. All under the law of the Law that came to Salvation were saved, not from the Law, or by that, but by the Gospel, and this new Covenant, but this was not evidently evident, neither was the regenerating grace of God to common under the time of the Law, as it hath been under the Gospel, which it look like a new Covenant with men, though it was the same Covenant which God was always in with his people, for what difference is there between the terms of the Covenant as recited here, chap. 24. 7. and 30. 22. and as made with Abraham, Gen. 17. 7. Deut. 30. 6. It is further observable, that God maketh the writing the Law in peoples hearts, his own work. There were no need of Gods putting his Law into mens inward parts, if they had such an inward power (as some talk of) of themselves to do it, and could write it there with a pen of their own making. The Prophets allow God a share in this work, only give man himself the greater share. Others indeed give God nothing but the honour of giving man a reasonable soul, furnished with such a power, and that he hath done to Heavens, as well as those within the pale of the Church, and the Preaching of the Gospel, to those within the Church, as a further aid and assistance to them then Heavens have, to use their natural power well. But let any understanding person judge whether this is probably the sense of this Text, or comprehensive of all within the Covenant which God hath made with his people, or supposing these were true, what that is which differeth, one man living under the Gospel from another, but himself, and whether by this Difference, one man is a God to himself, that is the principal cause of all spiritual and eternal good, which how it cometh with the honour and glory of God, or with this Text, and many others of like nature, I do not understand.

34 And they shall teach no more every man his neighbour, and every man his brother, saying, Know the LORD z; for z they shall all know me, from the least of them unto the greatest of them, faith the LORD a, for a I will forgive their iniquity, and I will remember their sin no more b.

z This must not be so interpreted as if under the gospel, there should be no more need of ministerial teaching, for Christ himself sent out his Apostles to preach; nor yet as if there should be no more need of brotherly teachings, by instruction or correction; the contrary is commanded, Col. 3. 16. It is only an expression signifying the increase of knowledge, and of the fear of the Lord, that should be after the pouring out of the Spirit. We have such expressions, 1 Joh. 2. 27. The Learned Author of our English Annotations thinks this phrase signifies, that under the gospel there should be a greater 35 Thus faith the LORD, which giveth the moon and the stars for a light by day, and the ordinances of the moon and of the stars for a light by night, which divideth the sea when the waves thereof roar, the LORD of hosts is his Name.

a The word divides is here ill translated divides, which hath led some Interpreters to think that God here hath a respect to his dividing the Red Sea, that the Israelites might pass over, which seemeth not at all here to be intended. The word indeed signifieth to divide, but also signifieth to quiet and bring to rest, and is so interpreted, ch. 50. 34. Is. 34. 14. and in this very chap. 50. 2. and doubtless were better here translated, which quieteth the sea when the waves thereof roar. All the sea mentioned, are as speaking the Divine Almighty power, of him who is the Lord of all the Regiments in the Heavens of the Creation.

36 If those ordinances depart from before me, faith the LORD, then the seed of Israel shall also cease, from being a Nation before me for ever.

b There are ordinances of Worship, which are Gods Laws relating to his Worship, and Ordinances of Justice, which are Gods laws, for the executing civil Justice, and Ordinances of Nature, which are Gods establishments for the working of natural causes in their order; these are those here spoken of, which shall hold and continue to the dissolution of the world, the continuance of which God setteth as a pledge of the continuance of Israel as a Nation all the days (so it is in the Hebrews) that is many days, or all the days they shall keep close with me, or which I have appointed, if we interpret it (as in our version) for ever must be understood not of Israel according to the flesh, but of the Church, the true Israel of God, which shall never fail.

37 Thus faith the LORD, If heaven above can be measured, and the foundations of the earth searched out beneath, I will also cast off all the seed of Israel for that they have done, faith the LORD f.

f That is, I will never cast off all the seed of Israel, (which promise the Apostle, Rom. 11. 1. 2. proveth to have been) by Gods good good, notwithstanding the rejection of the great body of that people for none but God can either measure the heavens, or pierce to the center of the Earth.

38 Behold the dayes come, faith the LORD, that the city shall be built to the LORD from the tower of Haneanel, unto the gate of the corner g.

g That is, it shall be built round, as largely as ever, we read of this Tower of Haneanel, Neh. 3. 1. and 12. 39. Ezek. 14. 10. it was in the South, or rather the Eastern part of the City. We read of the gate of the corner, 2 Kings 14. 13. 2 Kings 14. 10. most agree that it is in the North-East part of the City.

39 And the measuring line shall yet go forth, over against it, upon the hill Gareb, and shall compass about to Goah b.

b That is, it shall be built round about upon its old foundations, ch. 48. 3. We are ignorant of the Ancient Situation of the City, so are the Jews themselves, therefore it is vain to pretend to an exact skill in these names of places, (some say, Gareb, signifies a fish, and the Hill had its name from Leprous persons lying there).

40 And the whole valley of the dead bodies, and of the ashes, and all the fields unto the brook of Kidron, unto the corner of the horse-gate towards the east, shall be holy, unto the LORD m, it shall not be plucked up, nor thrown down any more for ever n.

n A Valley so called (as some think) from the multitude of Sarkophagi (Army slain there; or (as others think) from the Lodges of balladists put to death at Gethsemane (which was near) built or buried there, Ex. 30 called (as is thought) from the ashes of the sacrifices carried thither. I some think that the horse-gate had its name from the Kings horses led out at it. The city is, the whole City shall be built. n All these places shall be parts of the Holy City, and Gods Name shall be sanctified upon it, and he shall be worshipped in them all. m And the City for a knowledge of Gods Christians should not need be taught the first Rudiments, but the Apostle speaks otherwise, Hib. 5. 12. Others by knowledge understand the fear of the Lord. a God faith, they should all know him, but it must not be understood of the same degree, and measure but in a degree of sufficiency for the Duties which God expected from them upon their religion and apprehension of God. b God makes the root of all this Grace to be the free pardon, and remission of their sins.

THE word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD, in the tenth year of Zedekiah king of Judah, which was the eighteenth year of Nebuchadrezzar a.

a That is something more than a year before the City was taken, for it was taken in the fourth month of the 11th. year of this Kings Reign, chap. 39. 2. This tenth year concerned with the eighteenth year of the King of Babylon absolute Reign, which began to Reign in the third and fourth year of Jehoiachin, Dan. 2. 1. so as Jehoiachin last year was the seventh and eighth of Nebuchadrezzar, who is also sometimes called Nebuchadnezzar and Nabuchodonosor.

2 For then the king of Babylonys army besieged Jerusalem b; and Jeremiah the prophet was shut up in the court of the prison, which was in the King of Judahs house c.

b The King of Babylon (as appears from 2 Kings 24. 1. and chap. 39. 1.) besieged Jehoiachin in the tenth month of the ninth year of Zedekiah, so as he had besieged it some time before: the Revelation of this Prophetic came to Jehoiachin c Jehoiachin was at that time a prisoner, in a prison within the Kings house. The King could keep him from revealing Gods will to the people, but he could not keep God from revealing himself to him. Prisoners hinder us from communion with men, but often contribute to Gods people, freer and sweeter communion with him. In the mean time the desperate hardness of this Prince, and these peoples hearts appear, that the fear of an enemy besieging them could not awe them from such outrageous acts of persecution.

3 For Zedekiah king of Judah had shut him up, saying, d Wherefore dost thou prophesie, say, Thus faith the LORD, Behold I will give this city into the hand of the king of Babylon, and he shall take it.

d We no where read that Zedekiah immediately commanded Jehoiachin to be imprisoned, he seemeth rather to have been favourable to Jehoiachin, and judicious interpreters think his present prison was a favourable prison, but God accounted him preposterous to do that which their Ministers or subordinate Magistrates do with their convenience, and without their hindrance. Though it be wild Divinity for any to say, that inferior Ministers or Subjects are executed by the command of the superior, and the guilt lyeth only on them; yet it is as wild to say, they contract no guilt by the extravagant acts of subordinate Magistrates whom they put in place, and can punish, and remove from their places.

4 And Zedekiah king of Judah shall not escape out of the hand of the Chaldeans, but shall surely be delivered into the hand of the king of Babylon, and shall speak with him mouth to mouth, and his eyes shall behold his eyes.

5 And he shall lead Zedekiah to Babylon e, and there shall he be until I visit him, faith the LORD f. Though ye fight with the Chaldeans, ye shall not prosper g.

e Here the cause of the Prophets imprisonment is exprest. The things were true which Jehoiachin prophesied, and fulfilled, chap. 39. 5, 6, 7. and Jehoiachin could not forbear speaking them, because he was intent of God upon the errand, chap. 39. 2. yet the King and Court could not bear his words. f Interpreters are divided, whether the visit here mentioned were a visitation of judgment, and the same with visit 10. 10. or mercy; it is certain Zedekiah was not put to death, only his eyes put out, and he carried into Babylon, chap. 39. 7. where some think he afterward found favour with the King of Babylon, certain it is that he visited Babylon, and had an honourable burial, but whether he met with any other favour, or no, the Scripture faith not; some will have the words read, until I visit this people, and think that Zedekiah lived in prison in Babylon till the reformation; But he was 21 years old when he began to Reign, and reigned eleven years, so as he was 32 years old when he was carried into Babylon; 2 Chron. 36. 11. and must be then 25 years old when he died, which is hardly probable, considering the delicate education, and life of Princes, that have 8 So Hanameel my uncle's son came to me in the court of the prison, according to the word of the LORD <sup>1</sup>, and said unto me, Buy my field, I pray thee, that is in Anathoth, which is in the country of Benjamin, for the right of inheritance is thine, and the redemption is thine, buy it for thyself: then I knew that this was the word of the LORD <sup>2</sup>.

promise relating to, and to be fulfilled under the Gospel by expiations, and terms proper to the Old Testament, as Isa. 26. 23. and in this sense, must be expounded, or referred to the times immediately following the Captivity, but it is generally understood, as a promise for a Gospel Ministry to succeed the Ministry in the Jewish Church, and to abide to the end of the World.

19 ¶ And the word of the LORD came unto Jeremiah, saying, * Isa. 54. 7. 20 Thus faith the LORD * If you can break my covenant of the day, and my covenant of the night, & that there should not be day, and night in their season.

4 By the Continuity of day and night here is meant the same with the Ordinances mentioned, chap. 31. 35. Gods Law established in the course of natural causes, by virtue of which the day, and night orderly succeeded one another. These verses are but a further confirmation of what was said before, and the sense of them no more than this. That the succession of the Gospel Ministry in the Church of God to abide for ever, should be as certain as the succession of darkness and light, God had established the latter in a necessary course of natural causes, and he would by his Providence take care for the other, that the effect should be every what as certain. Though the several causes are widely different, yet God who is the first cause of both is the same, and would as certainly bring the one to pass as the other.

21 Thou may also my covenant be broken with David my servant, that he should not have a son to reign upon his throne, and with the Levites the priests, my ministers.

* Gen. 13. 15. and 19. 5. and 22. 17. chap. 31. 37. 22 As the * host of heaven cannot be numbered, neither the sand of the sea measured, so will I multiply the seed of David my servant, and the Levites that minister unto me.

¶ The former promise was for the stability, this for the multiplication of the Church, which is here expressed under the notion of the Seed of David, that is the members of Christ, the Jews were ordinarily called the seed of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, but it do not remember they are any where called the seed of David, unless it be in 1 Kings 11. 39. where it seems all to be understood only of the Princes that came from David, nor indeed could they be so called in any proper sense, David being no common head to the whole Jewish Nation, as both Abraham, Isaac and Jacob were, but Christ is often called the Seed of David, John 7. 42. Acts 13. 23. Rom. 1. 3. 2 Tim. 2. 8. and Christ is himself called David, whole Seed and whole Levites are multiplied in the multiplying of Christ, and of faithful Ministers under the Gospel, which certainly are the things here promised.

24 Considerest thou not what this people have spoken, saying, ¶ The two families which the LORD hath chosen, he hath even cast them off? thus they have despised my people, that they should be no more a nation before me.

¶ This people, that is (say some) the Enemies of the Jews, but it may be well interpreted either of the wicked Jews, wicked men being always full of groundless presumptuous hopes or sunk in despair. Or of such amongst them as were better, but weak in faith, that knew not how to give any firm assent to promises, the fulfilling of which seemed to the Eyes of flesh and reason to be improbable. As by the two Families here mentioned the Prophet meant the Kingdoms of Israel and Judah, or which seemed to me much more probable the Families of David and Ahas, mentioned before. ¶ Thus faith God they have spoken scornfully of my people, as if they should never be a nation more having Rulers of themselves, and a Ministry.

25 Thus faith the LORD, If my covenant be not with day, and night, and if I have not appointed the ordinances of heaven and earth.

26 Then will I cast away the seed of Jacob, ¶ and David my servant, ¶ so that I will not take any of his seed to be rulers over the seed of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, for * I will cause their captivity to return and have mercy on them.

¶ By the seed of Jacob, and of Abraham and Isaac are meant the Body of the Jews, when their three Patriarchs were common heads, ¶ By the Seed of David persons finally descended from David who should rule over the Israel of God. The sum of these two verses is plainly no more than God had said before, that a reformation of them to their own Land should as certainly succeed their Captivity, as the night succeeded the day, or the day succeeded the night. God had as certainly established, and ordained the one as the other, though not as yet established the one in the order of natural causes as the other, God would certainly have mercy on them, and in flowing his mercy would take care that one of the seed of David should be their Ruler which was fulfilled in the Messiah.

C H A P. XXXIV.

1 THE word which came unto Jeremiah from the LORD, ¶ (* when Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, and all his army, and all the kingdoms of the earth, ¶ of his dominion, and all the people fought against Jerusalem, and against all the cities thereof) saying,

2 The Revelation of the will of God to Jeremiah to be published to the people, during the time of the siege. The seven first verses are plainly ¶ Jer. 31. 31. prophetic from that in the latter part of the chapter. 1. As (as some think) for this prophetic that the Prophet was imprisoned (for in this prophetic the Sermons are much disordered in the placing of them) so as this prophetic showing the cause for which the king imprisoned him is (as after others chap. 32. which were during the time of his imprisonment.

2 Thus faith the LORD, the God of Israel, Go, and speak to Zedekiah king of Judah and tell him, Thus faith the LORD, Behold, I will give this city into the hand of the king of Babylon, and * he shall burn it with fire.

3 And thou shalt not escape out of his hands, but shalt surely be taken, and delivered into his hand, and thine eyes shall behold the eyes of the king of Babylon, ¶ and he shall speak with thee mouth to mouth, and thou shalt go to Babylon ¶ Heb. 1. 10. 11.

4 Yet hear the word of the LORD, O Zedekiah king of Judah, Thus faith the LORD of thee, Thou shalt not die by the sword;

5 But thou shalt die in peace, & with the burnings of thy fathers the former kings which were before thee: so shall they burn odours for thee, and they will lament thee saying, Ah lord! for I have pronounced the word faith the LORD.

¶ This only place informeth us concerning the manner of Zedekiah's Death, and that both negatively and positively. Negatively, That he did not die by the sword, the king of Babylon took him, killed his sons before his Eyes, then put out his eyes, and bound him in chains, chap. 39. 7. but killed him not, as we learn from this Text, but he died a natural death, which is here meant by die in peace, and had an honourable burial, which the King of Babylon would not allow Jerusalem, as we read chap. 22. 18. he was buried with the burial of an Ass, and his Body was cast out of the gates of Jerusalem, and no man lamented for him; but as to Zedekiah's they burned odours for him, after the manner of the burial of Kings 2 Chron. 16. 14. and made Isaiah's Lamentation for him. The Jews in their Chronology, called by them Seder Olam, give us the form of their Lamentation thus. Asa's Zedekiah is dead, who drank the drugs of all ages, That is, who was punished for the sins of all former ages.

¶ The Prophet was not afraid to go and do the message God had intrusted him with to the king, upon which he was imprisoned as we read before chap. 32. the time it should seem was after that the King of Babylon had invaded the Country, and taken the greatest part of its most strongly fortified places remaining, which he was besieging, viz. Jerusalem, which was the chief City of that Country, and Lachish of the conquest of which we read Jer. 34. 13. disposed of to the Tribe of Judah, Jer. 15. 33. and Azkeah, which was a City of Judah, of which we read in the same chapters.

8 ¶ This is the word that came unto Jeremiah from the LORD, after that the king Zedekiah had made a covenant with all the people which were at Jerusalem to proclaim liberty unto them.

¶ This verse plainly beginneth a new Prophecy, but at what particular time, this Revelation, or the publication of it was, is not

we are not told only the occasion of it is recorded. God had made a particular Law respecting the Jewish Nation. That if any man had bought an Hebrew servant, he should preserve him, and in the seventh should go out free, Exod. 21. 2. Deut. 15. 12. it is in this seventh should make a Proclamation for the execution of this Law, what moved him to it we have not recorded. The learned Author of the English Annotations, observeth well that it was his usual course when they were to come to some great to make some partial Reformation, Jud. 10. 15. 16. 17. 18. 34. 35. 36. 1.

9 ¶ That every man should let his man-servant, and every man his maid-servant being an Hebrew, or an Hebrews go free, that none should serve himself of them, ¶ to wit, of a few his brother's.

¶ This was the tenour of Gods Law mentioned in the above-mentioned Texts, and it seemeth Zedekiah taking notice of the common violation of this Law, and the Jews ordinary oppressing those of their own nation this way, judging that this might be one of those fins for which the wrath of God was at this time kindled against them, he caused the people to make a Covenant, that they would give that liberty to their Servants, either Sex, which the Law of God required of which he made Proclamation.

10 Now when all the princes, and all the people which had entered into the covenant heard that every one should let his man-servant, and every one his maid-servant go free, that none should serve themselves of them any more, then they obeyed and let them go.

¶ The Princes and the people, having first with the King agreed to the thing, upon the issuing out of his Proclamation, they at first yielded obedience to it.

11 But afterwards they turned, and caused the servants, and the handmaids, whom they had let go free, to return, and brought them into subjection for servants and for hand-maids.

¶ Like a company of wretched hypocrites they reformed this abuse, only to serve a turn which when it was served, they returned again to their old oppression, and in this thing not the people alone, but the Government was to be blamed for their Judges in their Courts of Justice ought to have executed the Law of the Lord, and to have restrained the covetous and oppressive humour of the people. The learned Author of the English Annotations thinketh that that which altered their minds was a little alteration of their state, during the siege for chap. 37. 5. we read that the Babylonians and Chaldeans hearing of an army coming out of Egypt, to relieve the City, left the siege for a time, and that the Prophet, Jer. 21. of this chapter relates to that, when he prophesied, that the King of Babylon's Army should return. But these wretched men, seeing the Babylonian Army raised from the siege, concluded they were now out of Gods hands, and repented of their Repentance in this particular, and would make all their servants return into their former servitude.

13 Thus faith the LORD the God of Israel, I made a covenant ¶ with your fathers, in the day that I brought them forth out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of bondmen, ¶ saying,

¶ The Law of God is called often a Covenant, because it contains the will of God which he would have them to do (whether they express their consent or no) they are bound to consent, and agree. But to the 7 Jews all Gods Lawes given on Mount Sinai were a formal explicit Covenant, God explicitly telling them what he would have them to do, and they as explicitly promising they would do it, Exod. 24. 3. I it was a double aggravation of their sin, that this Covenant was made twice. God, and then in consideration of his kindness in bringing them out of Egypt, and from the consideration that they were bondmen in Egypt, and so ought to have taught them the hearts of Bondmen, so as they should have compassionated them whom they kept in the like distress in which they had been themselves, and from which God had delivered them. We stand concerned to remember the Vowes we make to God in our distress, for God will not forget them, Gen. 28. 1. as also to compassionate them, who fall into the like distresses that we have been in, and out of which God hath freed us, God expecteth that we should flow the same compassion to others, Math. 18. 33.

14 At the end of seven years, let ye go every man his brother ¶ an Hebrew, which hath been sold unto thee; and when he hath served thee six years, thou shalt let him go free from thee ¶ but your fathers hearkened not unto me, neither inclined their ear.

¶ This is but a Repetition of the Law, Exod. 21. 7. Deut. 15. 12. which concerned such persons as were sold by others, or had sold themselves, God would not have his People take advantage of the sudden and rash acts of their brethren, which were the effects of pallium. ¶ Notwithstanding this law the 7 Jews who were always a very covetous gripping people, did otherwise.

15 And ye were ¶ now turned, and had done right in my sight, in proclaiming liberty every man to his neighbour, ¶ and ye had made a covenant before me in the house ¶ which is called by my name.

¶ That is, reformed in this particular, in which you had done the thing which I commanded you, proclaiming liberty to your Servants. ¶ And you made a Covenant in my Presence to that purpose, and that in the Temple, where it seemeth this Covenant was made.

16 But ye turned, and polluted my name, and caused every man his servant and every man his handmaid, whom he had let at liberty at their pleasure to return, and brought them into subjection, to be unto you for servants and for hand-maids.

¶ You again licked up your vomit, and profaned my name, swearing by it to do that which you have not done, and forced your servants, though diminished, to return again unto their former bondage and subjection to you.

17 Therefore thus faith the LORD, Ye have not hearkened unto me in proclaiming liberty every one to his brother, and every man to his neighbour: behold, I proclaim a liberty for you, faith the LORD, to the sword, and to the pestilence, and to the famine, and I will make you ¶ to be removed, into all the kingdoms of the earth.

¶ They had turned and given a liberty, Jer. 20. 10. how doth and 25. 21. God say they had not? So God accuseth them to have done those good acts, which they do in a fit, or merely to serve themselves of God; he faith, they had not done it, because they did not persist to do it, in such a case men Righteousness shall by God never be remembered, but they shall die in the sin they have committed. ¶ Seeing you have refused to manumit your Servants at my command, I will manumit you, and let you free from my Protection and care. You shall perish by the sword, Famine and Pestilence, and those of you who escape them, shall see how pleasant a thing it is to be Slaves, and in servitude, for you shall be dispersed in many Nations; and he servants to the Rulers of them.

18 And I will give the men that have transgressed my covenant, which have not performed the words of the covenant, which they had made before me, when they cut the calf in twain, and passed between the parts thereof.

¶ This was a Ceremony which they used in making of Covenants, not without something of a warrant from a Divine Precept, Gen. 15. 9. 10. it is said Gen. 15. 10. That time day the Lord made a Covenant with Abraham (that Covenant was a promise that Abraham's seed should possess the land of Canaan) Gen. 8. 10. Abraham laid upon God whereby I know that I shall inherit it. Gen. 9. 9. God bids him take an heir of three years old, and at the age of three years old, and a ram of three years old, Gen. 10. 10. is said, that he took them, and divided them in the middle, and laid each piece on against another. Indeed we read nothing there of the Parties covenanting, passing between the parts of the Beasts to divide, but this was afterwards used in making Covenants between men, which had in it a secret importation or warning that they might be cut in pieces like those Beasts, if they did not keep the Covenants which they made. It should seem that these 7 Jews in the making of their solemn Promise or Covenant with God about releasing their Servants used this rite, they cut a calf, or heifer to cut in pieces, and the parts to lie in the Temple right over one another, then they recited this Covenant, and in the way of a solemn promise or confirmation of their resolution to make their promise good, they passed between the parts of the Calf, or heifer to cut, solemnly agreeing that God should cut them in pieces like that Beast if they did not make their words good. Hence is the Heb. phrase of cutting a covenant, for making it. This was a Ceremony ordinarily used also amongst the Heathens, as we are informed by Cicero, Livy, and others.

19 The princes of Judah, and the princes of Jerusalem, the eunuchs, and the priests, and all the people of the land, which passed betwixt the parts of the calf.

20 I will even give them into the hand of their enemies, and into the hand of them that seek their life, and their * dead bodies shall be for meat unto the fowles of the heaven, and to the beasts of the earth &c.

x God doth not threaten all the Jews; but those only, who had made this Covenant, and formally confirmed it, by killing a Beaf, and passing through the parts of it thus divided, and laid opposite one to another. Of these he speaketh now but threatens both the King and Nobles and great Courtiers, as well as the People. That he would give them into the hand of their Enemies that thirsted after their blood, they should be slain, and their dead bodies should not be buried. Herein the Righteousness of God appeared, by doing to them as they deserved (for passing betwixt the Calf) that God would do in case they did not keep to the Promise they had made, and called God to witness, and challenging him to destroy them if they did not fulfil what they covenanted for.

21 And Zedekiah king of Judah, and his princes will I give into the hand of their enemies, and into the hand of them that seek their life; and into the hand of the king of Babylons army * which are gone up from you y.

y Here is nothing in this Verse, but what was said before, only in the last clause, where mention is made of the King of Babylons Army which was gone up from them the occasion of which we shall meet with chap. 37. 5, because there was an Army came out of Egypt to assist the Jews.

22 Behold, I will command, saith the LORD, and cause them to return to this city &, and they shall fight against it, and take it, and burn it with fire; and I will make the cities of Judah a desolation without an inhabitant.

z I will put it into their hearts to return faith the Lord, and they shall come back again to the siege, and shall rise up no more till they have taken the City and burned it with fire, and made the whole country desolate. The motions of Armies are under the Government of Divine Providence; they are at Gods command; when he bids them come they come, and when he bids them do they do, and shall certainly effect what God hath determined. When we come to chap. 39. we shall read of the fulfilling of this Prophecy.

CHAP. XXXV.

1 THE word which came unto Jeremiah from the LORD, in the days of Jehoiakim, the son of Josiah king of Judah, saying &.

a This is another evidence that the Prophecies of this book are not left us in that order wherein they were delivered, for those which we had in the two or three foregoing Chapters being in the time of Zedekiah must needs be ten or eleven years after this.

b These Rechabites had their name from Rechaab their Father who as appears from 1 Chron. 2. 55. descended from Hamah, who was a Kenite, who is also called Hobab, Jud. 4. 11. (unless it may be Hushai who was the Son of Hachai, 2 Sam. 15. 24.) who was the Father in law of David, as appears from Jud. 4. 11. we read Jud. 1. 16. That his children went up out of the City of Palm-tract, with the children of Judah, which lieth in the South of Asah, and they went, and dwelt among the people. The Rechabites here mentioned descended from this Sooth. Jonathan mentioned 2 Kings. 10. 15. was of this Family; a man of good note, as appears by Jshas his taking him there into his Chariot. God commanded the Prophet to bring some of this Family into the Temple, into some of the chambers (for in and about the Temple were several Chambers, for the Priests and where they disposed of the Holy Garments and several Offerings, 1 Kings. 6. 5. 10. 1 Chron. 28. 11, 12.) God commands Jeremiah to bring these Rechabites into some of these chambers and to let wine before them. This was either for the more publickness of the thing, or it may be for the reproof of the Priests who drank too much Wine.

3 Then I took Jazaniah, the son of Jeremiah, the son of Habaziah, and his brethren, and all his sons, and the whole house of the Rechabites.

4 And I brought them into the house of the LORD, into the chamber of the sons of Hanan, the son of Igdaiah a man of God &, which was by the chamber of the princes, which was above the chamber of Maaleiah the son of Shallum, the keeper of the door d.

e This term, the man of God doth in Scripture signify a Prophet sometimes, but whether it is significant here, and if it doth, whether it relate to Igdaiah or Hanan is a question. A probably by the chamber of the Princes is meant some chamber where the Princes were wont to meet in a Court, or for Council. Thither Jeremiah brings these Rechabites, and lets wine before them, not commanding them to drink it, but only inviting them.

5 And I set before the sons of the house of the Rechabites pots full of wine, and cups, and I said unto them, Drink ye wine.

6 But they said, We will drink no wine: for Jonadab the son of Rechababur father & commanded us, saying, Ye shall drink no wine, neither ye nor your sons for ever f.

f It is uncertain whether father here signifies their immediate Parent, or (which is more probable) their Progenitor; it is most likely it referreth to that Jonadab of whom we read 2 Kings. 10. 15. who was the father (that is the progenitor of this Family of the Rechabites, at 300 years distance.) The reason why he left his Posterity this charge is uncertain, probably to warn them against the Luxury which he saw began to abound in Israel, and being desirous, that they should make themselves to a more hardy and laborious life, being originally Kenites, and used to Husbandry, and keeping of sheep and other Cattel, he desired they should live according to their quality.

g The last words of the verse probably give us a reason of the former, they were no Native Jews, but strangers amongst them who commonly are envied, when they are observed to thrive too much, or to live splendidly; and that envy of the Natives of the place where they sojourn, exposteth them to their hatred and Malice, so is their lives are made unquiet to them, Jonadab therefore cautions his Sons to avoid these inconveniences by a thrifty, sober, laborious life, to which they had been bred, in keeping Flocks, and to avoid any thing might expose them to Envy or Hatred or Malice of the People amongst whom they were come to sojourn.

8 Thus have we obeyed the voice of Jonadab the son of Rechab our father, in all that he hath charged us, to drink no wine all our days, we, our wives, nor our sons, nor our daughters.

9 Nor to build houses for us to dwell in: neither have we vineyard, nor field, nor feed.

10 But we have dwelt in tents b, and have obeyed, and done according to all that Jonadab our father commanded us.

b Moveable Habitations, which they could with little labour remove from place to place, as they had convenience to feed their Flocks, this was their ordinary way of living until necessity compelled them to come and live in Jerusalem.

11 But it came to pass when Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon came up into the land i, that we said, Come, and let us go to Jerusalem, for fear of the army of the Chaldeans, and for fear of the army of the Syrians; So we dwell at Jerusalem.

i When the Chaldean Army came into the land, they saw there would be no quiet abode for them any where but in some fortified place. The Syrians joined with the Chaldeans in this War, as we read 2 Kings. 24. 23. This they tell the Prophet was the reason why they who never used to dwell in Cities, nor fixed Houses, came to dwell at Jerusalem, to prevent being destroyed by the foragers for these Armies.

12 ¶ Then came the word of the LORD unto Jeremiah, saying,

13 Thus saith the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, Go, and tell the men of Judah, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, Will ye not receive instruction to hearken to my words? saith the LORD.

14 The words of Jonadab the son of Rechab, that he commanded his sons not to drink wine, are performed; for unto this day they drink none, but obey their fathers commandment: notwithstanding I have spoken unto you, * rising early, and speaking, but ye hearkened not unto me.

15 I have sent also unto you all my servants the prophets, rising up early and sending them, saying, Return ye now every man from his evil way, and amend your doings, and go not after other gods to serve them, and ye shall dwell in the land, which I have given to you, and to your fathers: but ye have not inclined your ear, nor hearkened to me k.

k God in this Revelation of his Mind to the Prophet expounded to him, why he had fed him to bring the Rechabites into the Temple, and commanded him to let Wine before them, and invite them to drink of it, that by their refusal of doing according to the invitation, in obedience to their Father Jonadab; he might convince the Jews of their disobedience to his commands, yet Gods commands were more advanced, then the commands of Jonadab in that, 1. Jonadab was but an earthly Parent, and so had no absolute universal sovereignty over his children, but God was the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel. 2. Jonadab's command was not for the performance of a moral duty, but the doing of a thing which they might do, or leave undone. God required of them what was better than their duty, and for God the highest reason. 3. Jonadab's command had no promise annexed, Gods precept had a promise annexed, yet they had not yielded him that obedience which the sons of Jonadab had yielded him: He was their Father, but where was his honour.

16 Because the sons of Jonadab the son of Rechab have performed the commandment of their Father, which he commanded them, but this people hath not hearkened unto me l.

l Therefore thus saith the LORD God of hosts, the God of Israel, Behold, I will bring up on Judah, and upon all the inhabitants of Jerusalem, all the evil that I have pronounced against them: because I have spoken unto them, and they have not heard, I have called unto them, and they have not answered.

m This is but the same threatening confirmed, which we have often met with before, concerning the ruin of this people, only the meritorious cause of it is further amplified, their not paying that homage to God which these Rechabites paid to an earthly parent, and had been steady in the payment of, now for three hundred years together.

18 And Jeremiah said to the house of the Rechabites, Thus saith the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, Because you have obeyed the command of Jonadab your father, and kept all his precepts, and done according to all that he hath commanded you.

19 Therefore thus saith the LORD of hosts the God of Israel, I Jonadab the son of Rechab shall not want a man to stand before me for ever n.

n For here signifies the rest of the Jewish State, or Church, which the promise relates to the abiding of Jonadab's Family, when many Families of the Jews were quite rooted out, cut off, and extinct, or to some place of Office, they should have in, or about the Temple (as some judge because 1 Chron. 2. 55. it appears they were Scribes) is uncertain: but it is a question of more moment.

How God promitteth a reward to their sons of Jonadab for obeying the command of their Father, and whether they had indeed if they had not obeyed this command of Jonadab, which brings in another question: Whether Parents have a power to oblige their children to do what God hath left at liberty. To which I answer, 1. God might reward their Rechabites, for their Reverence and Obedience to Jonadab their Father, though they were not bound by the Divine Law, obliged thus far to have obeyed him: as he rewarded David for his thoughts in his heart to build him an house, though it was not God's will that he should do it, so to God's promise of the reward doth not prove their obedience in this particular to have been their Duty. Admit that it remained still a matter of Liberty, yet the General Honour, and Reverence they testified might be rewarded by God. 2. Unquestionably Parents have not a power to determine Children in all things as to what God hath left them at liberty, for then they have a power to make their children slaves, and to take away all their natural Liberty. To marry or not, and to this, or that person, is matter of Liberty. Parents cannot in this case determine their Children, Behold Gen. 24. 58. when Rebekah did we let go with Abraham's servants before he would consent, 2. In matters of civil concernment they have a far greater power than matters of Religion, All Souls are God's, and Conscience can be under no other dominion than that of God. 3. In civil things Parents have a great power, during the minority of Children, and after, also in matters which concern their Parents goods, as to command them to assist them, to help to supply their necessities, &c. 4. Parents being yet more Children, and subject of God to them as it is their Duty to assist their Children to the best of their ability he, and their god: so it is the Duty of Children to respect their Parents, and not to depart from it, until they see circumstances fit to justify by Parents, or to be altered by the Providence of God, as they may reasonably judge, their Parents, had they known or foreseen it, would not have so advised. But that Parents have an absolute power to determine Children in all things as to what God hath not forbidden them, and that Children by the Law of God are obliged to an Obedience to all such Commands, however, they may live their Parents mistakes, or God by his Providence may have altered circumstances, I see no reason to conclude. Jonadab had prudently advised his Sons as before mentioned, they were things they might do, and because by experience they found not hurtful to them, but of great profit and advantage, and that with reference to all the ends of mans life: Herein they shew Obedience, and paya Reverence to their Parent, this pleases God, he promitteth to reward them with the continuance of their Family; according to what he had said Exod. 20. 12. in the Fifth Commandment, which the Apostle calleth the First Commandment with promise.

CHAP. XXXVI.

1 AND it came to pass in the fourth year of Jehoiakim, the son of Josiah king of Judah, that this word came unto Jeremiah, from the LORD, saying &.

a Jehoiakim was three years a Tributary to Nebuchadrezzar, as we read, 2 Kings. 24. 1. then he rebelled, which three years are judged to be the 6, 7, and 8 years of his Reign, for Pharaoh Necho set him up, to whom he was first a Tributary as we read 2 Kings 23. 35. Pharaoh Necho having conquered him, Jehoiakim became Servant to the Conqueror 3 years, then rebelled, upon which the Armies of the Chaldeans with the Syrians, &c. came up against him; and carried him away. This word of the Lord came to Jeremiah the first year that he was Tributary to the King of Babylon, which was the fourth year of his Reign.

2 Take thee a * roll of a book b and * write therein all the words that I have spoken unto thee, against Israel, and against Judah, and against all the nations from the day I spake unto thee, from the days of * Josiah even unto this day c.

d By a roll of a book is to be understood parchment, which anciently were their books, the art of binding books being not then known. e The precept is for recording all the Revelations he had from God for 22 years last past, for he began to prophesie in the thirtieth year of Josiah, who reigned one and thirty years, so he prophesied 18 years, during Josiah's life, this was the fourth year of the Reign of Jehoiakim, God would have them recorded, that there might be a memorial of them, that to the truth of them might appear, when God should bring them to pass, the time of which now drew very near.

3 It may be that the house of Judah will hear all the evil d which I purpoe to do unto them, that they may return every man from his evil way, that I may forgive their iniquity, and their sin e.

f What we translate it may be others translate I purpose which better expresseth the sense. God knew what would be, but yet he would not be wanting in means by which they might be informed in his will, and to believe the thing, for believing and reforming are here meant by hearing, as the next words in part expound this term here. g Forgiveness of sin in Scripture sometimes signifies the acquitting of a sinner from the obligation layeth the sinner under to Eternal death, sometimes the remission of a temporal punishment, it may here well be understood as comprehending both, though I think the latter to be what is here principally intended.

4 Then Jeremiah called Baruch the son of Neriah, and * Baruch wrote from the mouth of * Jeremiah, all the words of the LORD, which he had spoken unto him, upon a roll of a book f.

h We will find this Baruch being one of Jeremiah's Disciples, more than once thus employed as Jeremiah's Secretary or amanuensis. None shall need ask how Jeremiah could remember all the prophecies he had prophesied for 22 years before past that could testify who it was that commanded him to do this. God undoubtedly revived the Prophets memory, or he could not have called all to mind.

5 And Jeremiah commanded Baruch, saying, I saw that up, I cannot go into the house of the LORD.

6 Therefore go thou and read in the roll which thou hast written from my mouth, the words of the LORD in the ears of the people in the LORDS house upon the fasting day: and also thou shalt read them in the ears of all Judah, that come out of their Cities.

7 We do not read that Jeremiah was a prisoner in the fourth year of Jehoiachin, and therefore it is very uncertainly guessed in what sense he here saith he was but not yet, some think Jehoiachin had imprisoned him, or at least restrained him to his house, tho' we do not read of it. Others think he restrained himself, but in what sense he was shut up, is not certain, that he was so, is certain, he knew that God had not commanded his prophesies to be written for any other end, but that the people might have them recalled to their memories, he being not in a capacity himself at present to speak any thing to the people in to public a place, fenseth Baruch to do it in his stead, chusing for it a day of public fast, not the day of the yearly fast mentioned Levit. 23. 27. But on a fast day (of which we shall read more err. 9.) proclaimed by Jehoiachin, probably to avert the vengeance hanging over them from the Chaldeans, or rather from the drought. It was undoubtedly because of the concurrence of people which the Prophet knew would that day be in the Temple that he chose that day, when some would be present from all parts of Judah.

7 It may be  $\dagger$  they will present their supplication before the LORD, and will return every one from his evil way, for great is the anger, and the fury, that the LORD hath pronounced against this people b.

b We had an expression like this, err. 3. it teacheth us that the only means to turn away God's fierce anger ready to fall upon people is Prayer and Reformation.

8 And Baruch the son of Neriaih, did according to all that Jeremiah the prophet commanded him, reading in the book the words of the LORD, in the LORDS house.

9 And it came to pass in the fifth year of Jehoiachin, the son of Josiah king of Judah, in the ninth month, that they proclaimed a fast before the LORD to all the people in Jerusalem, and to all the people that came from the Cities of Judah unto Jerusalem.

i This fast was appointed upon a particular emergency, to wit: that it was for a famine which was then in the Land, or to avert the ruin which they justly feared from the king of Babylon, who had lately brought them under his servitude (we are certain: the yearly fast, Levit. 23. 27 was to be kept in the seventh month, nor did God ever ordain any fast to be kept in the ninth month).

10 Then read Baruch in the book the words of Jeremiah in the house of the LORD, in the chamber of Gemariah, the son of Shaphan the scribe, in the higher court, at the \*  $\parallel$  entry of the new gate, of the LORDS house in the ears of all the people k.

k This verse only attesteth Baruch's obedience to the command of the Prophet Jeremy not only as to the thing, his reading it in the Temple, but as to the circumstance in as publick a manner as he could in the chamber of Gemariah, &c. most likely out of some window, or in some Balcony, the people being below, and hearing it.

11 When Micaiah the son of Gemariah, the son of Shaphan had heard out of the book all the words of the LORD.

12 Then he went down into the kings house, into the scribes chamber, and so all the princes fast there, even Elihasha the scribe, and Delaiash the son of Sheamiah, and Elanathan the son of Achibor, and Gemariah the son of Shaphan, and Zedekiah the son of Hannaniah, and all the princes l.

l It is uncertain whether this Micaiah went to make this relation to the Princes who siteth the Secretaries Chamber, as a piece of news only, or out of a malicious design to accuse the Prophet, and Baruch for what was done as a seditious practice.

13 Then Micaiah declared unto them all the words that he had heard when Baruch read the book in the ears of the people m.

m That is, the substance of all the words, for none can imagine that an hearer could remember every word, which thence the vanity of those who overstrain such universal parities to signify every particular word or person.

14 Therefore all the princes  $\neq$  foot Jehudi the son of Nethaniah, the son of Shelemiah the son of Cassi unto Baruch, saying, Take in thy hand the roll, wherein thou hast read in the ears of the people, and come. So Baruch the son of Neriaih, took the roll in his hand, and came unto them a.

a That is, all the Princes that at that time fate there in Council, sent a messenger with a command to Baruch to appear before them, and to bring the roll which he had read in the Ears of the people.

15 And they said unto him, Sit down now, and read it in our ears, So Baruch read it in their ears p.

p The courage of Baruch is admirable, he was now before the Council, in the Kings house, the substance of the Prophesies, were threatening both to the King, and Court, and to all the people. The King as appears by all history, was of no good temper, we read *Ch. 25. *err. 23. of his fasting for Drayin the Prophet out of Egypt, when he had led thither for fear of the King, and saying him, and we shall find that at this time, the Princes advised both Jeremy and Baruch to hide themselves, yet Baruch is not afraid, but reads the Prophecy in their ears.

q It is hardly to be imagined that all these Counsellors should sit still till they had heard all the prophesies for 22 years read, but 22 signifies many, or the force and substance of all the prophesies. r They were all of them afraid, Jeremiah had now been above twenty years a Prophet to this people, and doubtless in great esteem for 18 years of it, while Jeremiah was alive, and one whose prophesies they could not but observe had been accomplished, therefore they could not but be afraid that they should fee these words also fulfilled, and took themselves bound in duty to acquaint the king with them. Some if not all of these probab y had been great men in Jeremiah's time, which was but four or five years before, and from him sucked in some good and religious principles which begat some awe of God in them.

17 And they asked Baruch, saying, Tell us now, How didst thou write all these words at his mouth s?

s This now seemed but a reasonable question, considering they were the substance of what he had been prophesying for so many years. The thing seemed strange to the Princes, Prophesies being not used to study and pen their discourses, but to speak them extempore.

18 Then Baruch answered them, He pronounced all these words unto me with his mouth, and I wrote them with ink in the book t.

t This could not but add to the Princes fear and amazement. They must conceive that the thing was done from God, for without a special influence of God, it had been a thing impossible, that Baruch should have called to mind all that he had spoken at several times in so many years, and proceeding from the God of truth, they must needs fear, that they would have their certain and just accomplishment in their season.

19 Then said the Princes unto Baruch, Go, hide thee, thou, and Jeremiah, and let no man know where ye be u.

u This speaketh these Princes to have been men, of a much gentler temper, and better disposition, than those who succeeded them in Zedekiah's time, they were not willing that any harm should come to the Prophet, nor to Baruch, and knew the fierce temper of Jehoiachin, and therefore advised Baruch, that both he, and the Prophet should hide themselves.

20 And they went in to the king, into the court, but they laid up the roll in the chamber of Elihasha the scribe, and told all the words in the ears of the king w.

w They were obliged by their Office as Counsellors to the King, to acquaint him with what they heard, which might be prejudicial to him, and his Nation, and indeed this was the very end, why God had commanded the enrolling of these Prophesies, that both the King, and Princes, and People might take notice of them, but they did not carry the book with them, but laid it up in the Secretaries Chamber.

21 So the king sent Jehudi to set the roll, And he took it out of Elihasha the scribes chamber, And Jehudi read it in the ears of the king, and in the ears of all the princes which stood beside the king x.

x It appeareth by v. 14. that this Jeremi was a Messenger commonly employed by the king, and Council, him the King sends to fetch the Roll (before called a book), then he employeth him to read it.

22 Now the king fate in the winter-house in the ninth month, and there was a fire on the hearth burning before him y.

y The ninth month with them, answered part of our November and December, which was a time of the year called for fires.

23 And it came to pass that when Jehudi had read three or four leaves, he  $\neq$  cut it with the pen-knife, and cast it into the fire, that was on the hearth, until all the roll was consumed in the fire that was on the hearth.

z That is the king, not having patience to hear above three or four columns, or periods, or titles took the pen-knife, that the fire that was before him, not considering that it was the Revelation of the will of God, but exalting himself above all that was called God. This flew both the wickedness, and passionate temper of this Prince, and his high contempt of God and his Prophesies.

a So hardened were this peoples hearts that though they knew that Jeremiah was a Prophet of the Lord, upon the experience now of more than twenty years, and the whole scope of his prophesies had been to denounce the just judgments of God, that now were coming upon this people, and they could not but understand, that God must be greatly afflited to Jeremiah in writing this Roll; all the manner of which he could not otherwise have kept in mind for many years, yet they had no serious fear of God upon their hearts working upon the hearing the dreadful matter of these prophesies, nor feared any sign of remorie, or fence of their sins, or God's judgments coming upon them as indications of his wrath.

25 Nevertheless Elanathan, and Delaiash, and Gemariah, had made intercession to the king, that he would not burn the roll, but he would not hear them b.

b These three Princes seemed to have had a greater dread of God upon their hearts than the rest, for so far as they durst, they interposed, and besought the king not to burn the Roll, but he would not hearken to their advice.

26 But the king commanded Jerahmeel the son of  $\parallel$  Hammelech and Seraiah the son of Azriel, and Shelemiah the son of Abdeel, to take Baruch the scribe, and Jeremiah the prophet c: But the LORD hid them d.

c The King was not satisfied with burning the Roll, but gave order to apprehend both Jeremiah and Baruch, and commanded the three persons named in this verse to do it: d But God by his providence kept them both out of their hands; how the LORD hid them we are not told, the Princes (as we read before) advised Baruch that they should both hide themselves. This phrase (probably) imports no more, than that God directed them to find such a place of recess as the Kings messengers could by no means find out, nor understand where they were, till the Kings passion was a little over.

27 Then the word of the LORD came to Jerahmeel after that the king had burnt the roll, and the words which Baruch wrote at the mouth of Jeremiah saying,

28 Take thee again another roll, and write in it all the former words that were in the first roll which Jehoiakim the king of Judah hath burnt.

29 And thou shalt say to Jehoiakim, king of Judah, Thus saith the LORD, Thou hast burnt this roll, saying, Why hast thou written therein, saying, The king of Babylon shall certainly come, and destroy this land, and shall cause to cease from thence man and beast e.

e It speaketh nothing but the impotency, and passion, and debauchery of humane Nature to swell against any Revelations of the Divine Will, the Councils of the Lord shall stand, and men only further entangle themselves by struggling in the Lords net. f Jehoiakim burns one Roll, God will have the same thing wrote in another. f We learn here both what was the matter of Jeremiah's prophesy, and the cause of the Kings anger: he had prophesied that the king of Babylon, should come, take Jerusalem, and lay the country waste, which as to Jeremiah's time, part, was fulfilled within six years after this, more fully in 18 years, but corrupt Princes can endure nothing that shall make their lives uneasy.

30 Therefore thus saith the LORD of Jehoiakim the king of Judah, He shall have none to sit upon the throne of David,  $\dagger$  and his dead body shall be \* cast out in the day to the heat, and \* chap. 22. 19. in the night to the frost g.

g That is, none that shall be king any considerable time, Jehoiakim, or Jehoiachin his son was let up, but kept his Throne but three months, 2 Kings 24. 18. 5. 10. g We no where read of the time, or manner of this Kings Death, but had an ignominious Burial, Ch. 22. 19. like the Burial of an Adulterer, none accompanying his Corps, none mourning for him, and it appears from this Text, that wherever he dyed, his Body lay for a time unburied.

31 And I will  $\dagger$  punish him, and his seed, and  $\dagger$  Heb. 22. 19. his servants, for their iniquity, and I will bring  $\dagger$  upon them, and upon the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and upon the men of Judah, all the evil that I have pronounced against them, but they hearkened not h.

h As to the people God threateneth, they should feel, what they were not willing to hear, even all the evil which God by his Prophet had pronounced against them.

32 Then took Jeremiah another roll, and gave it to Baruch, the scribe, the son of Neriaih, who wrote therein from the mouth of Jeremiah all the words of the book, which Jehoiakim the king of Judah, had burnt in the fire, and there were added besides unto them many  $\dagger$  like words i. † Heb. 22. 19.

i Wicked men get nothing by opposing themselves to the revealed will of God, how ungrateful forever it be to them, but the addition of guilt to their souls, and the increase of Divine Wrath, God's counsels shall stand, and what he saith shall most certainly be accomplished. Here is another roll written with additional threatnings confirmative of what God had before said.

C H A P. XXXVII.

AND king * Zedekiah the son of Josiah a, reigned in stead of Goniah b the son of Jehoiakim, whom Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon made king in the Land of Judah c.

a The History of this Succession we have 2 Kings 24. 17. 2 Chron. 36. 10. Zedekiah's name was Mattaniah, the King of Babylon changed his name to Zedekiah. b He reigned in stead of Jehoiachin, the son of Jehoiakim who reigned but 3 months, 2 Kings 24. 18. his name was Jehoiachin, 1 Chron. 3. 16. and in a way of derision, or contempt he here called Goniah, d. The King of Babylon made this Zedekiah King, who is here called the son of Josiah, and 2 Kings 24. 17. Jehoiakim's Fathers Brother, as distinguish him from another Zedekiah son of Jehoiachin, as appears from 1 Chron. 3. 16.

2 But neither he, nor his servants, nor the people of the land, did hearken to the words of the LORD which he spake by  $\dagger$  the prophet Jeremiah d. † Heb. by the hand of the Prophet.

d Zedekiah was little better than Jehoiakim, he seemeth by his story to be of a little better temper, not so cruel, and bloody, but he no more regarded God's word by his Prophet than Jehoiakim had done.

3 And Zedekiah the king sent Jehucal, the son of Shelemiah, and * Zephaniah the son of Maa * chap. 29. 25. seith the priest, to the prophet Jeremiah, saying, and 52. 24. Pray now unto the LORD our God for us e.

e This was apparently in the time of the siege for v. 5. we read of Pharash's Army being come to relieve the besieged, whether it was before the Babylonians were departed, or no, is uncertain, but it is plain if they were departed, the King was afraid they would comeback again. That which is most observable for us from hence is this, That wicked men of all ranks are delirious of the Prayers of those Ministers in their distresses, whose Counsels and Admonitions they never regard, while they are in a time of prosperity, which is an evidence of their acting contrary to the convictions of their Consciences, in obedience to their lusts, in their contempt of their instructions and admonitions. When Affliction hath cooled their Lusts, then their consciences can be heard in dictating their duty to them.

4 Now Jeremiah came in, and went out amongst the people, for they had not put him into prison f. f We know that Baalis the king of the Ammonites hath sent Ishmael the son of Nethaniah to slay thee? But Gedaliah the son of Ahikam believed them not.

15 Then Johanan the ſon of Kareah ſpoke to Gedaliah in Mizpah ſecretly, ſaying, Let me go, I pray thee, and I will ſlay Iſhmael the ſon of Nethaniah, and no man ſhall know it: wherefore ſhould he ſlay thee, that all the Jews which are gathered unto thee ſhould be ſcattered, and the remnant of Judah periſh.

<sup>a</sup> Diſcerning that Gedaliah took no great notice of his words ſpoken to him in the preſence of other Captains, he goes to him ſecretly, ſo that he ſhould not be ſeen, if he might have commiſſion from him; mindeth him that if he did not value his own life, yet he ought to conſider, in what a condition the people would be, in caſe he ſhould be cut off, they were now but a ſmall remnant, and then that remnant alſo would periſh.

16 But Gedaliah the ſon of Ahikam, ſaid unto Johanan the ſon of Kareah, Thou ſhalt not do this thing, for thou ſpeakeſt fallſly of Iſhmael.

<sup>a</sup> Thus God demerits thoſe whom he deſigneth to deſtroy. Gedaliah in this ſheweth an excellent temper, not to be over credulous and ſuſpicious. Chariſty ſays he is, but not that Prudence which becauſe a chief Magiſtrate, he ought to have been watchful againſt one againſt whom he had received ſuch an information, which we ſhall in the next chapter find he was not, but was ſlain by him.

C H A P. XLII.

<sup>a</sup> King. 25. 25. <sup>b</sup> Now it came to paſs in the ſeventh month, that Iſhmael the ſon of Nethaniah the ſon of Eliſhama of the ſeed royal, & the princes of the king, even ten men with him, came unto Gedaliah the ſon of Ahikam in Mizpah, and there they did eat bread together in Mizpah.

<sup>a</sup> That is three months after the City was taken, chap. 39. <sup>b</sup> The ſame Iſhmael that came to Gedaliah, ver. 8. to whom he ſware protection, only here we are told that he was of the Royal blood, which might both raiſe his ſpirits, as having a more legal preference to the Government, and rendered him a ſitter in judgment, for Baſis the King or Queen of the Ammonites to make uſe of; & ſome of the Princes, who had eſcaped the Army of the King of Babylon, and their Retinue came in pretended compliance to Gedaliah. <sup>c</sup> Who treated them kindly, they dinied or ſtipped with him.

2 Then aroſe Iſhmael the ſon of Nethaniah, and the ten men that were with him, and ſmote Gedaliah the ſon of Ahikam, the ſon of Shaphan with the ſword, and ſlew him, & ſmote the king of Babylon had made governor over the land.

<sup>a</sup> Theſe ten men with their retinue fall upon Gedaliah and barbarouſly murder him. <sup>b</sup> Their quarrel againſt him was, that he was Deputy-Governor to the King of Babylon, ſo deſperately hardened were theſe Jews, they would not yet ſee that God had given their Country into the hand of the King of Babylon, who having now a right of conqueſt over them, had authority to ſee whom he pleaſed as his Viceroy or Deputy Governor over them, to whom they ought to have yielded all ſubjection and obedience.

3 Iſhmael alſo ſlew all the Jews that were with him, & even with Gedaliah at Mizpah, and the Chaldeans that were found there, and the men of war.

<sup>a</sup> It appeareth from ver. 10. that by all the Jews here muſt be underſtood only thoſe who were about the Court of Gedaliah, for it is there ſaid that he carried away many that were with him.

4 And it came to paſs the ſecond day after he had ſlain Gedaliah and no man knew it.

<sup>a</sup> That is, no man who lived at any great diſtance from Mizpah, for Iſhmael was concerned what in him lay to keep this ſlaughter private for fear the news of it ſhould have reached the ears of the King of Babylon, or the Commanders of ſome of his Forces, ſo as he ſhould not have had time to make his eſcape.

5 That there came certain from Shechem, from Shilo, and from Samaria, even fourſcore men, having their beards ſhaven, and their clothes rent, and having cut themſelves, with offerings and incenſe in their hands to bring them to the houſe of the LORD.

<sup>a</sup> Samaria was the name both of a City and a Province. Shechem was a City within that Province, within the limits of the Tribe of Ephraim, Jer. 20. 7. Theſe places were now inhabited by a mixt people, partly Jews, partly ſuch as the King of Aſſyria had upon his Conqueſt of the Ten Tribes brought to inhabit there; from thence came 80 men, who poſſibly had not heard of the Temple being burnt, at leaſt when they came out, if they had heard of it, they thought, hearing ſome Jews were left, that they might have erected ſome Altar for Sacrifices, or it may be they brought no beaſts. <sup>b</sup> For the Text ſpeaks only of incenſe and offerings, they came with all indications of mourning uſed in thoſe Countries, ſhaved beards, cloths rent, and having cut themſelves in a barbarous ſiſion uſed by the heathens, and forbidden the Jews, but yet practiſed by many of them.

6 And Iſhmael the ſon of Nethaniah, went forth from Mizpah to meet them, & weeping all along, as he went: and it came to paſs as he met them, he ſaid unto them, come to Gedaliah the ſon of Ahikam.

<sup>a</sup> He cometh out weeping, the better to deceive them into his trap, that they might believe he was as they equally affected with God's diſpenſations, and inviteth them to the new Governor for protection; as if he had been one of his Countrymen, and Friends; by thoſe arts he concealth his bloody deſign againſt them.

7 And it was ſo when they came into the midſt of the city that Iſhmael the ſon of Nethaniah ſlew them, and caſt them into the midſt of the pit, he, and the men that were with him.

<sup>a</sup> When he had thus enticed them into Mizpah, he, and his followers ſlay them, and throw their dead bodies into a pit, with the aſſiſtance of thoſe bloody men that were with him.

8 But ten men were found amongſt them, that ſaid unto Iſhmael, Slay us not, for we have treaſures in the field, of wheat, and of barley, and of oyl, and of honey: So he forbore, and ſlew them not amongſt their brethren.

<sup>a</sup> He ſlew 70 of them, but ten of them pleading for their lives urged that they had Eſtates in the Country, both of Corn, Oyl and Honey. His covetouſneſs prevailed over his cruelty, he ſpared their lives to become maſter of what they had.

9 Now the pit wherein Iſhmael had caſt all the dead bodies of the men (whom he had ſlain) <sup>a</sup> Heb. by the cauſe of Gedaliah <sup>b</sup> was it which Aſa the king had made for fear of Baſha king of Iſrael, and Iſhmael had or in the ſon of Nethaniah, filled it with them that were ſlain of Gedaliah.

<sup>a</sup> The word which we tranſlate breast of Jer. 22. 17. ſignifieth in the hand of Gedaliah, which hath given Criticks a ſcope to vary in their notion of it, and to tranſlate it, in the power of, by accuſation, &c. But the learned Author of our English Annotations, ſaith the ſenſe of the place is plain enough, chap. 28. 10. we have the ſame term twice, where we have tranſlated it, with the, here it doubtleſs ſignifies thoſe who were with Gedaliah under his power or charge. <sup>b</sup> What pit this was is not ſo well agreed, that upon what occaſion made, the Text telleth us it was digged by Aſa King of Juſab, and that it was made for fear of Baſha the King of Iſrael, but whether it was to receive waters, or to hinder Baſha's coming near ſome weak part of the City we are not told, and it is but vain to gueſs. We read 1 Kings 15. 22. of Aſa's fortifying Mizpah with the ſtones of Ramoth, but of this pit ſaid nothing.

10 Then Iſhmael carried away captive all the reſidue of the people, that were in Mizpah, even the kings daughters, and all the people that remained in Mizpah, whom Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard, had committed to Gedaliah the ſon of Ahikam, and Iſhmael the ſon of Nethaniah, carried them away captive, and departed to go over to the Ammonites.

<sup>a</sup> By this verſe appeareth that all the Jews, ver. 2. muſt be underſtood in a reſtrained ſenſe concerning all thoſe about Gedaliah. For he carried many away as Priſoners, as alſo Zidkiah's daughters, who either had concealed themſelves at the taking of the City, or were left behind by the Conquerors, as not like much to hurt them, and having done this he knew there was no abiding for him long there, he to haſteth away to the Ammonites, who (as we had it before) employed him in this murder.

11 ¶ But when Johanan the ſon of Kareah, and all the captains of the forces that were with him, heard of all the evil that Iſhmael the ſon of Nethaniah had done.

12 Then they took all the men, and went to fight with Iſhmael the ſon of Nethaniah, and found him by the great waters that are in Gibeon.

<sup>a</sup> Theſe great waters are ſuppoſed to be a Lake or ſome great Pool in Gibeon, the very fame that is mentioned, a Sam. 2. 13. where Jotham and the Servants of David met, the one keeping on one ſide of the Pool, the other on the other ſide.

13 Now it came to paſs, that when all the people which were with Iſhmael ſaw Johanan the ſon of Kareah, and all the captains of the forces that were with him, then they were glad.

14 So all the people that Iſhmael had carried away captive from Mizpah, caſt about and returned, and went unto Johanan the ſon of Kareah.

15 But Iſhmael the ſon of Nethaniah eſcaped from Johanan with eight men, and went to the Ammonites.

<sup>a</sup> When the people whom Iſhmael had carried away Priſoners ſaw Iſhmael coming with greater Forces, they contrived and wheeled about and went to him, only Iſhmael and eight men which eſcaped and went to the Land of Ammon.

16 Then took Johanan the ſon of Kareah, and all the captains of the forces that were with him, all the remnant of the people whom he had recovered from Iſhmael the ſon of Nethaniah, from Mizpah, (after that he had ſlain Gedaliah the ſon of Ahikam) even mighty men of war, and the women and the children, and the eunuchs whom he had brought again from Gibeon.

17 And they departed, and dwelt in the habitation of Chimham, which is by Bethlehem, to go to enter into Egypt.

<sup>a</sup> When Jehoiachin had (as was before expreſſed) recovered the Jews whom Iſhmael had carried away Priſoners, he came and dwelt with them in the habitation of Chimham, concerning this Chimham alſo that we read in Scriptures, 2 Sam. 19. 37. 38. who was the ſon of Baſſah, whom David would have had to have gone along with him to his Court, but he being 80 years old excuſed himſelf, and deſired that his ſon Chimham might be accepted in his ſtead. <sup>b</sup> David ſaid agreeably, and promiſed him, and promiſed to do for him, whatever his Father ſhould deſire on his behalf, poſſibly David having an eſtate near thereabouts might give a portion of it to him, which though it returned to the Family of David in the year of Jubilee, yet from Chimham's Houſe there, might retain the name of the habitation of Chimham, into thoſe years Jehoiachin retired with a further deſign to go into Egypt.

18 Becauſe of the Chaldeans; for they were afraid of them, becauſe Iſhmael the ſon of Nethaniah had ſlain Gedaliah the ſon of Ahikam, whom the king of Babylon had made governor in the land.

<sup>a</sup> Here was one ſlain whom the Conquerour Nebuchadnezzar had made Governor in the Land of Juſab, and it was but reaſonable for them to think that Nebuchadnezzar would take the affront done to himſelf, he being conſtituted Governor by him, and though Jehoiachin had nothing to do in that murder, yet he did not know but that the King of Babylon being ignorant of any parties amongſt the Jews, might look upon them all as guilty who were Jews, and revenge Iſhmael's blood upon all the remnant of that Nation, he therefore chuſeth them an habitation far from thence, from whence they might in a ſhort time go down into Egypt, which was Jehoiachin's deſign as we ſhall read in the next Chapter.

C H A P. XLIII.

THEſe three following Chapters give us an account of what happened to Jehoiachin the ſon of Jehoiakim, and the reſt after the ſlaughter of Iſhmael, and their going to dwell in the habitation of Chimham in order to their going into the Land of Egypt. Their coming to Jericho to go and enquire of the Lord for them, his enquiry of God, with the Revelation of the Divine will unto him; that they ſhould not go into Egypt, promiſing Gods protection of them, if they did not go, threatening their deſtruction if they did go. Their proud answer to Jehoiachin's reſolution to go, which they accordingly did, and there fell in with the Idolatry of the Egyptians, for which God by his Prophet threatened them with an utter ruine.

1 Then all the captains of the forces, and Johanan the ſon of Kareah, and Jeſaniah the ſon of Holiah, and all the people from the leaſt even to the greateſt came near.

<sup>a</sup> After that this Captain Jehoiachin (who now had made himſelf head of the Jews) had fixed their abode in the habitation of Chimham in the way to Egypt, with thoughts of going down to inhabit there for fear of the Chaldeans, coming to revenge the death of Gedaliah upon all the remnant of the Jews, both the Captains and many of the people, or ſome of all forſ of the people, (for it cannot be imagined that every particular perſon came) made their addreſs to the Prophet Jeremiah who probably was with them, carried away by Iſhmael and reſcued by this Captain.

2 And ſaid unto Jeremiah the prophet, ¶ Let us beſeech thee our ſupplication be accepted before thee, & pray for us, unto the LORD thy God, even for all this remnant, (for we are left but a few of many as thine eyes do behold us.)

<sup>a</sup> Theſe men (though wretched Hypocrites) yet come to the Prophet with great reſpect, and reverence, ſtill deſiring that he would allow them to make their request to him, probably the evidence they had had to late of his being a Prophet of the Lord, by the ſucceding of all that he had foretold againſt the City and the Temple might in ſome meaſure convince this. Their request was that he would put up his prayer to God for the remnant, for now there was but a ſmall remnant of Jews left, a few of many.

3 That the LORD thy God may ſhew us the way wherein we may walk, and the thing that we may do.

<sup>a</sup> The thing they would have him pray to God for was direction, what they ſhould do in this deſolate ſtate into which God had brought them. What could be more pious? A praſure founded upon a divine precept, and encouraged by a promiſe, Prov. 3. 6. Acknowledging him in all thy ways, and he will direct thy ſteps. But we may well apply here what God had ſaid to their forefathers, Deut. 5. 29. when they had ſo freely promiſed their obedience to the Law of God. O that thou wert ſuch as hear in them, &c.

4 Then Jeremiah the Prophet ſaid unto them, I have heard you, & behold, I will pray unto the LORD your God, according to your words, and it ſhall come to paſs that whatever thing the LORD ſhall answer you, I will declare it unto you, I will keep nothing back from you.

<sup>a</sup> That is I will do for you according as you deſire. <sup>b</sup> I will be faithful giving you an account of what God ſhall reveal to me to be his will on your behalf. They called God Jehoiachin's God, Jehoiachin calls him their God both to mind them of Gods relation to them and their duty towards him. <sup>c</sup> 1 Sam. 18. 20. 20.

5 Then they ſaid to Jeremiah, The LORD be a true and faithful witneſs between us, if we do not according to all things, for the which the LORD thy God ſhall ſend thee to us.

6 Whether it be good, or whether it be evil, we will obey the voice of the LORD our God to whom we ſend thee: * that it may be well with us, when we obey the voice of the LORD our God.

<sup>a</sup> The preceding words are a perfect Oath, the form of which lies in a calling of God to witneſs the ſincerity of heart of thoſe that ſwear, for a ſecurity to thoſe to whom the Oath is given, which alſo includeth a ſerious challenging God, to take vengeance upon the perſons that give that ſecurity, if they ſhould not do accordingly as they promiſe, which ſpeaketh the Atheiſm or fear of ſome falſe ſwearers, for did man believe that there is a God, and that the divine being is infinite in power and truth, and faithful witneſs, it were impoſſible that he ſhould challenge him to be revenged on him for not doing what he never ſeriously intends to do, which was the caſe of thoſe wicked men. <sup>b</sup> The thing they promiſe is a perfect obedience to Gods will, whether grateful or ingratul to them, and they further declare a conviction, that if they did it, it ſhould be well with them according to that, Deut. 5. 29. which ſheweth the mighty power of luſts in unregenerate hearts, and the mighty operations of the evil ſpirit in the children of diſobedience. Eph. 2. 3. That although they be convinced that if they did obey the voice of God it would be well with them, yet they will not do it in things which they have a power to do.

7 ¶ And it came to paſs after ten days, that the word of the LORD came unto Jeremiah.

<sup>a</sup> The word mentioned chap. 40. 1. To which all that we have met with from the beginning of chap. 43. is but an hiſtorical preface.

8 Then called he Johanan the ſon of Kareah, and all the captains of the forces which were with him.

him, and all the people from the least even to the greatest.

9 And said unto them, Thus saith the LORD, the God of Israel, unto whom ye sent me to present your supplication before him.

1 The Prophet after ten days, all which time some (but upon what ground I know not) think he spent in Prayer, received an answer from God, which he presently communicates to the Princes and People, with a preface that containeth in it many arguments to have induced this compliance with it. Because it came from the Lord. 2. From that God who as he is in Covenant with Israel in all the course of his Providence had carried himself to them, as they had no just reason to suspect either his kindness or his power. 3. From their employing of him to seek God upon their behalf.

10 If ye will still abide in this land, then will I build you and not pull you down, and I will plant you, and not pluck you up: for I repeat me of the evil that I have done unto you.

1 That is if you will not go into the Land of Egypt, as you are thinking, but abide where you are, or in any part of Judah, under subjection to the King of Babylon into whose power I have given you. I then I will see to your security, and prosperity, and make you a happy people, by the happiness and prosperity of people is in Scripture often set out under the notion of building, and planting, as on the contrary their misery or destruction is expressed under the metaphorical notions of pulling down, and plucking up. 2 For I am furnished with the punishment which I have undergone, and as to the remainder, if they do not desert themselves by new disobedience, I will change the course of my providence.

11 Be not afraid of the king of Babylon, of whom ye are afraid: be not afraid of him, saith the LORD: for I am with you to save you, and to deliver you from his hand.

1 I know whom you are afraid of, you fear that the King of Babylon will come, and utterly root you out, because one of your Nation hath murdered his Vice-Roy Gedaliah, suffer not your passion or fear to rise too high in this case, and to make you fly into Egypt. 2 For you shall have my presence with you, to preserve and deliver you from his power: it shall not be in his power to do you any harm.

12 And I will * show mercies unto you, that he may and mercy upon you, and cause you to return from own land.

1 We are beholden to God for all the pity, and compassion which we meet with from men, God inclineth their Hearts, through we receive the kindness from their hands. 2 The mercy which God here promitteth these men, is that the King of Babylon, should give them a liberty to go every one of them to their own inheritances, for at present they were banished by their own fear, from their own houses, though not from their own Country.

13 But if ye say, we will not dwell in this land, neither obey the voice of the LORD your God.

1 Their Translation a little darkens the sense, translating the Heb. participle וְיָצֵא which signifies no more than not by us means, Num. 14. 15. 1 Sam. 2. 2. and 26. 10. 13. 4. and it is certain here is but one thing spoken of, for the thing wherein they disobeyed the voice of the Lord, was not continuing in their own land, but going into the Land of Egypt.

14 Saying, No, but we will go into the land of Egypt, where we shall see no war, nor hear the sound of the trumpet, nor have hunger of bread, and there will we dwell.

1 The sense of the words is obvious, they thought that their life in the Land of Judah, would be but an uneasy life, where they should be continually alarmed, with the noise of War, and though they could not fear the sword of the enemy, yet they should live with milk and honey, yet they also considered, that Egypt was a very fruitful Country, by the overflowing of Nile, and the prospect of this made them quit that usual fondness which people have of their Native Country. From whence appears that their great sin was volunt, they would not take the promise of God for a security to them for a quiet, and peaceable abode in Judah, but would fancy noises of Drums, and Trumpets, and fear where no fear was: the Prophet saw they were resolved into Egypt they would go to live a more certain ease life (as they fancied) he therefore tells them, that if after their sending him to God to inquire for them, and promising a compliance with his will, and hearing now what that will was, this were their resolution he had another word from God to them.

15 (And now therefore hear the word of the LORD, ye remnant of Judah, Thus saith the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, if ye * wholly set your faces to enter into Egypt, and go to sojourn there.)

1 This verse is wholly prefatory to what followeth. If, faith God, all your mind be upon Egypt, and you be resolved thither you will go.

16 Then it shall come to pass, that the sword which ye feared shall overtake you there, in the land of Egypt, and the famine whereof ye are afraid shall follow close after you there in Egypt, and there ye shall die.

1 In the general the Prophet threatneth them, that in Egypt they should meet with the very same evils the fear of which made them flee out of their own Country, the sword and famine. The sword of Nebuchadnezzar who, after this, fully conquered Egypt, and a famine through want of bread, for although Egypt was a fruitful Country, yet we know there was a famine there, against which Joseph provided, besides that scarcity of victuals commonly followeth great Armies. Those who thus dangers or think to shun them by acts of disobedience to God, ordinarily are suffered by God to take such courses as they fall into the same or worse dangers than what they labour to avoid.

17 So shall it be with all the men that set their faces to go into Egypt to sojourn there, they shall die by the sword, by the famine, and by the pestilence, and none of them shall remain, or escape from thence, that I will bring upon them.

1 Those words that fit their case to go may reasonably be interpreted as an allimation of the universal particle all, for as essentially we can hardly conceive that every individual person that went into Egypt did thus perish, so it can hardly be thought that the just God should order an equal punishment to those who were the ringleaders in this design, and those who were forced or overruled by them, or perhaps knew not how to live when the rest were gone, but faith God for those who drive on this design, and go with their whole heart resolutely against the contrary Revelation of my will, there shall none of them escape, one or other of my fore judgements, sword, pestilence or famine. They shall not be the lot of one or two, but of all such persons.

18 For thus saith the LORD of hosts the God of Israel, As mine anger and my fury hath been poured forth upon the inhabitants of Jerusalem; so shall my fury be * poured forth upon you, when ye shall enter into Egypt: and ye shall have an execution, and an affliction, and a curse, and a reproach, and ye shall see this place no more.

1 If you would see your doom in a glass look upon Jerusalem, whom according to my word I have dealt so severely with, that amongst men it would be called fury, though in me it was but deliberate Justice, that my wrath declared against them, like liquid things melted diffused it self into all the parts of it: I will deal so with you soon after you shall have entered into that Land, where you promise your selves so much ease, rest, and prosperity, and as I threatened to make Jerusalem a curse, an affliction, and a reproach, chap. 24. 9. and 25. 18. so I will deal with you, and in this I will (saith God) deal worse with you, than whereas those of your Brethren, that were carried from Jerusalem to Babylon, shall some of them come back again after 60 years, you shall see this place no more. There was this aggravation of the Jews to whom God was now by his Prophet speaking. They had lately been the words of the Lord spoken by the same Prophet verified, and yet would take no warning, but ran into the same sin of Unbelief.

19 The LORD hath said concerning you, O ye remnant of Judah, Go ye not into Egypt: know certainly that I have * admonished you this day.

1 The good Prophet knowing how much it concerned this people to listen unto him, and to believe and obey what he said repeated again the same thing which he had said before affirming them that it was the Lord commanded him to say this to them, Enthusi note that the word which we translate admonish, in this form, signifies to admonish before witnesses.

20 For ye * dissembled in your hearts, ye sent me unto the LORD your God, saying, Pray for us unto the LORD our God, and according to that the LORD our God shall say, so declare unto us, and we will do it.

1 Or ye have said deceit, either towards God, dealing falsely with him, calling him to be a witness to your sincerity in what you never intended any sincerity in or towards me, sending me to enquire of God for you, and promising to do according to what I should reveal to you from God as his Will, when as you never intended it. Or towards your own Souls, as every sinner doth but deceive his own Soul. You made a pretence of what was not in your hearts. 2 When you sent me to pray Gods direction for you and made me such a firm promise to do whatsoever I should reveal to you from God as his will in this case.

21 And now I have this day declared it to you, but ye have not obeyed the voice of the LORD your God, nor any thing for the which he hath sent me unto you.

1 I have been faithful to you, I went according to your desire to enquire of God for you, I had his will revealed to me in your case, and now I have as faithfully told you what it is. 2 But ye have not obeyed. How did Jeremiah know this, for they had now yet declared their minds to him? 3 he had either learned it from their discourses, during the ten days which God had made him to wait for the Revelation, or he had learned it from some contemptuous behaviour of them, when he delivered it, or (which is most probable) God had foretold told it to him.

1 The Prophet ascertained that doom unto them, which ver. 14. 15. 16. he had threatened them with, in case they were resolved to go into Egypt, we must expect nothing but utmost disappointments upon actions done in disobedience to the revealed will of God: you think to avoid death by going thither for a little time to sojourn, but you shall die there, and that by those very deaths which by going thither you seek to avoid.

C H A P. XLIII.

AND it came to pass, that when Jeremiah had made an end of speaking to all the people all the words of the LORD their God, for which the LORD their God had sent him to them even all those words.

1 The Hebrew word, which we translate words signifies all things. The Prophet is very exact in letting us know that he had from the LORD what he delivered to them, he therefore twice repeats, the words of the LORD their God, and for which the LORD had sent him to them, that the Prophets always limited themselves to those faithful words which he had revealed to them, but the matter only of the Revelation which every Minister of the Gospel is still bound to do, delivering to people only what they have received from the Lord, as 1 Cor. 11. 23. as to the matter and substance of what they deliver, though they clothe it with words and phrases of their own.

2 Then spake Azariah the son of Hoiahiab, and Johanan the son of Kareah, and all the proud men, saying unto Jeremiah, Thou speakest falsely: the LORD our God hath not sent thee to say, Go not into Egypt to sojourn there.

1 Of Jahaz we have before heard, but not of Azariah, unless under the name of Jeriah, chap. 42. 1. but that is uncertain. These men are called proud men, either because they were the great men, or because their conceit of themselves, led them into this false error. Pride is nothing else but a mans mind swelling in an opinion of himself, and always takes its rise from some higher ground the person possessed of it thinks he stands upon, and a very little hillock will serve the turn, those who have nothing else of pretence will make a silk Coat, or a piece of Silver lace serve their turn. One mans spirit swells upon account of his descent, another upon account of his riches, a third upon the account of his or her beauty; these men are called proud men positively upon the count of their greatness, they were Captains, and the chief of the Jews now left; but chiefly upon account of the good opinion they had of their own Reason and Wit, by which they judged they knew better how to guide themselves for their own security, then Jeremiah could teach them; which Pride or good opinion men have of themselves, is a great root of disobedience, all men sin either through passion or Pride, or both, either gratify their passive appetite or their rational appetite as it is in man since the fall. 2 Because it had been down right Atheism, and a declining of the heart, to have said, they knew better what to do, then God could tell them, they only tell the Prophet God had not sent him. As in these times Hypocrites, whose Lufts will not allow them to do the Will of God, think to secure themselves by denying that they be the Will of God, and finding out other senses to put upon Scripture texts are according to truth.

3 But Baruch the son of Neriah setteth thee on against us, for to deliver us into the hand of the Caldeans, that they might put us to death, and carry us away captives into Babylon.

1 Baruch was but a Clerk or Secretary to Jeremiah, so not very probable to overrule the Prophet to a falsifying of his truth, and a betraying of his Countrymen into the hands of their Enemies, but so fond are wicked men of their Lufts, that they will say any thing in justification of them rather than deny themselves in them, and become obedient to the will of God.

4 So Johanan the son of Kareah, and all the captains of the forces, and all the people obeyed not the voice of the LORD, to dwell in the land of Judah.

1 That is they refused not to obey the message God had sent them by Jeremiah.

5 But Johanan the son of Kareah, and all the captains of the forces, took all the remnant of Judah that were returned from all nations whither they had been driven, to dwell in the land of Judah.

1 This resolution they presently put in practice. Though it is certain that Jeremiah and Baruch were not willing to go along with them, and probably that many of the people were not willing, yet these rebellious Captains, forced them all along with them. So as many of them were now a kind of Prisoners to their own Conscience.

6 Even men, and women, and children, and the kings daughters, and every person that Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard had left with Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, the son of Shaphan, and Jeremiah the Prophet, and Baruch the son of Neriah.

1 Of the Kings Daughters here mentioned, see chap. 41. 10.

7 So they came into the land of Egypt, for they obeyed not the voice of the LORD, thus came they even to * Tahpanhes.

1 Egypt at this time though it was humbled by the King of Babylon, by an inroad he made into it, of which we read, King 21. 2. yet it was a distinct Kingdom, and being near to Canaan, the Jews often fled thither for Sanctuary, and borrowed assistance against their Enemies from them. 1 Of this City we read little but in Holy Writ, 1 Kings 11. 19. we read of a Queen of Egypt called Tahpenes in honour to whom probably this City was built, after whose name this City was called, of which the Scripture saith nothing, but in this Prophet chap. 2. 16. in this chapter and chap. 44. and 46. 14. it appears by ver. 9. that it was at this time the place where the King of Egypt made his residence, or at least had a Palace. Thither these Captains and the Jews came; forcing Jeremiah and Baruch along with them.

9 Take great stones in thy hand, and hide them in the clay in the brick-kin, which is at the entry of Pharaohs house, in Tahpanhes, in the sight of the men of Judah.

1 God commandeth the Prophet to take these Stones, and to place them in the Clay, &c. for a sign of what we shall meet with expounded in the next verse, it is plain from hence that the King of Egypt, called Pharaoh, either reigned, or at least had a Royal Palace in Tahpanhes, Jeremiah is directed to hide these Stones at the entrance into this Palace. This hath made Interpreters divided as to the true sense of the word, which is here translated Brick-kin. That the word so signifies is out of doubt and is so translated, 2 Sam. 12. 31. All that troubleth come, is that they fancy there Learned men do not enough consider the difference of times and places. Great Princes Sons and Daughters, do not use in our age to keep sleep, which yet we know Jews from Lulus daughters did, the Grandeur of Princes was not so great, but it might admit of as plain a thing as this. Others say the Palaces of the Princes were very high, so that the Brick-kin might be at a distance from the entry into the dwelling house, though it was the entry of the place called by the name of the Palace. Others think it might be a house used not for making, but polishing Earthen ware. But the most offensiveness of such Lufts with us, from the smoke of which they had none, drying their Bricks in the Sun. But it is a nicey not worth so many guesses.

10 And say unto them, Thus saith the LORD of hosts the God of Israel, Behold, I will send and take Nebuchadrezzar the king of Babylon * my servant 18, and will let his throne upon their stones.

1 I have hid my, and he shall spread his royal pavilion over them.

1 Now God expounds his meaning in his former command, he ordered Jeremiah to take stones and hide them in a place near for a sign that Nebuchadrezzar should let his Throne, and spread his pavilion in that place. This Nebuchadrezzar God calls his Servant, because he was to obey him in what he should do, though he intended not so. Thus Affria is called the King of the Egyptians, 11. 10. 5. and Nebuchadrezzar is so called, chap. 25. 9. and 27. 6. but so fond are wicked men of their Lufts, that they will say any

11 And when he cometh, he shall smite the land of Egypt, <sup>1</sup> and deliver <sup>2</sup> such as are for death, death, and such as are for captivity to captivity, and such as are for the sword to the sword.

12 And I will kindle a fire in the houses of the gods of Egypt, and he shall burn them, and carry them away captives, and he shall array himself with the land of Egypt, as a shepherd putteth on his garments, and he shall go forth from thence in peace.

13 He shall break also the images of Bethshemesh, that is in the land of Egypt; and the houses of the gods of the Egyptians shall burn with fire.

<sup>1</sup> Beth-shemesh signifies the house of the Sun, and it is also the name of a City in Egypt, so must take it here as the name of a City, which had its name from a famous Temple, worshiped in it to the honour of the Sun. This Idol is called Os. 17: 25. By this it appears that the Egyptians, as well as other Pagans paid divine adoration to the Creature. <sup>2</sup> God threatens not only the destruction of the Idolatrous Temples, but the houses of the inhabitants of Egypt, by the King of Babylon, from whence these Jews would have believed might have understood, that they would not have the security which they promised themselves in the land of Egypt.

CHAP. XLIV.

THE word which came to Jeremiah concerning all the Jews, which dwell in the land of Egypt, 4, which dwell at Migdol, and at Tahpanhes, and at Noph, and in the country of Pathros, saying, 6, <sup>1</sup> The Remnant and Remnant of God to this remnant of his, or people is very remarkable, he leaveth them not, even in their Rebellion, but sendeth Jeremiah, whom he had before sent to prevent their going into this Idolatrous Country, to try if in Egypt they would be brought to a better mind. <sup>2</sup> It should seem that the generality of the Jews that went into Egypt had planted themselves at these four places, of Migdol we read Ez. 14: 2, 19: 13, 23: 2, 15, and 45: 14, Ez. 30: 13, 15. The Gravels and Lutias called Cairo, Is. 19: 13, Ez. 30: 13. Pathros was a Region or Province, some think it derived its name from Pathros the son of Amos, Gen. 10: 14. It is the same (as some think) which is since called Thebes.

2 Thus saith the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel. Ye have seen all the evil that I have brought upon Jerusalem, and upon all the cities of Judah; and behold, this day, I will do a desolation, and no man dwell therein.

<sup>1</sup> He alludes to the late destruction of it by the King of Babylon, the remnant of the people, was a brand plucked out of that fire, and their cities had been Wines, to the desolations that God had wrought.

3 Because of their wickedness which they have committed to provoke me to anger, in that they went to burn incense, and to serve other Gods, whom they knew not, neither they, you, nor your fathers.

<sup>1</sup> A they were excusable to the effect so it was nothing but their unbelief made them strangers to the cause, for God by his Prophet, as he told them that the great moving cause was their paying a divine homage to Idols. <sup>2</sup> The sin of which is aggravated from this, that they were as much strangers to the Idols, as to the people with whom they joined in the worship of them, neither they nor any of their Fathers having had any experimental knowledge of what they had done or could do for such as adored them.

4 Howbeit I sent unto you all my servants the prophets, rising early and sending them, saying, Oh do not this abominable thing that I hate.

5 But they hearkened not, nor inclined their ear to turn from their wickedness, to burn no incense unto other gods.

<sup>1</sup> These two verses contain another aggravation of this peoples sin, viz. That they did this against light, and admonition to the contrary, God had by his Prophets let them know that this was an abominable thing, a thing which he hated, and that not with an ordinary degree of hatred, yet they would not hear, so as to yield obedience to God, but went on in their iniquities.

6 Wherefore I will be angry, and my anger will be poured forth, and was kindled in the cities of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem, and they are wasted and desolate as this day.

<sup>1</sup> For their very reason their Idolatry and contempt of my word, by my Prophets, the very sins you are now committing, I gave Jehoiakim and Jehoiachin into the hand of the King of Babylon, and it is (as you at this day see it) waste and desolate.

7 Therefore now thus saith the LORD, the God of hosts, the God of Israel, Wherefore commit ye this great evil against your souls? to cut off from you man and woman, child and sucking, out of Judah, to leave you none to remain.

<sup>1</sup> What providence can guide you to do such actions as these, by which you cannot hurt God, but your selves only are hurt, now but a few of many, what love have you for your country, in taking counsels which will certainly tend to the utter destruction of those few, so as there shall be neither Man, nor Woman, nor child, nor sucking remaining of all the Jews.

8 In that ye provoke me unto wrath, with the works of your hands, burning incense unto other gods in the land of Egypt, whither ye are gone to dwell, that ye might cut your selves off, and that ye might be a curse, and a reproach amongst all the nations of the earth.

<sup>1</sup> Idols are usually thus defamed, and indeed nothing can argue a greater stupidity than for any to pay an homage (confessedly due to the supreme being) to the work of mens hands, and therefore must be made by one Superior to that order of beings in which Idols are. But how doth the Prophet say, that they worshipped the works of mens hands? for it is apparent from ver. 17, that they paid this homage to the Queen of Heaven, which is not the work of mens hands. Sol. It was before Images which are but the works of mens hands. And this certainly was the Idolatry of the generality of the Heathens, they worshipped an unknown Divine Being before a Creature, either as representing it, or rather putting them in mind of it. The term that doth not denote the Idolaters end of intention, for none ever did any act intentionally to ruin themselves, it only signifies the end of their work that their utter ruin would be the certain consequence of their work.

9 Have ye forgotten the wickedness of your fathers, and the wickedness of the kings of Judah, and the wickedness of their wives and your own wickedness, and the wickedness of your wives, which they have committed in the land of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem?

<sup>1</sup> God accounteth men and women to have forgotten that the sight and reflection upon which hath made no such impression upon them, as to produce a practice durable to those notices, according to the conduct of a reasonable foul, which respect every man, having notice of a great evil brought upon a man by such or such practices, to avoid running into the like danger. It was the aggravation of this Peoples sin, that they were committed in the holy land, and in a City which God had more favoured than any other place, to have done these things in any place had been evil enough, but more to do it in the land of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem.

10 They are not humbled even to this day, neither have they feared me, nor walked in my law, nor in my statutes that I set before you, and before your fathers.

what he spake as well of them to whom he spake, as of them concerning whom he speaks from, whence we also learn, that Reformation and obedience is the first fruit of conviction or true humiliation, God accounteth those not humbled, but hardened who are not reformed, and become obedient to his Will let their pretexts, ambition, contrivance, or humiliation be in outward appearance what it will.

11 ¶ Therefore thus saith the LORD of hosts the God of Israel, Behold I will set my face against you for evil, and to cut off all Judah.

<sup>1</sup> These names are frequently given to God, in threatening prophecies, partly to let this people know that God is able to make good his word, and to bring the threatened Evil upon them: and partly to let them know that the dealing thus with them would not make him quit his relation to Israel, but he was and still would approve himself the God of those who were his true Israel. <sup>2</sup> The approve himself my full defence against you is to bring Evil upon you, this is expressed under the notion of fitting his face and Amos 9: 4, fitting his eye against them.

12 And I will take the remnant of Judah, that have set their faces to go into the land of Egypt, to sojourn there, and they shall all be consumed, and fall in the land of Egypt, they shall even be consumed by the sword, and by the famine: and they shall die from the least even unto the greatest, by the sword, and by the famine: and they shall be an execration, and an astonishment, and a curse, and a reproach.

13 For I will punish them that dwell in the land of Egypt, as I have punished Jerusalem, by the sword, by the famine, and by the pestilence.

14 So that none of the remnant of Judah, which are gone into the land of Egypt to sojourn there, shall escape or remain, that they should return into the land of Judah, to the which they shall have a desire to return, to dwell there: for none shall return but such as shall escape.

<sup>1</sup> There is a great variety in the reading of the words, ver. 14, some reading judah such as have a desire to return. Others, that they have a desire to return. Others, For they have a desire to return. The words seem to hint that these Jews went into the Land of Egypt not with a design to live there always, but to stay for a while till the heat of the Chaldeans in conquering after the blood of Gedaliah should be over, then thinking to return into their own Country, which one would think were true, considering it not only as their Native Soil, but also a place where was now room enough, and they might live in much greater plenty than they could in Egypt. The only difficulty is in the last words, compared with what in the same Verse went before, it is said in the beginning of the verse that none of them should escape, and in the close, none shall return but such as shall escape. But reason will guide us to interpret the first note in a restrained sense, i. e. none of those who have been the Authors of this Council and Rebellion against God, and who went into Egypt willingly, for none can think that God involved Jeremiah and Baruch who were in Egypt, have burnt incense to Idols, and defiled themselves with the Idolatry of Egypt, but there shall some escape, such as have been forced into Egypt against their Wills, and such as being so forced when they came thence did not fall in with the Idolatry of the Egyptians (for we may gather from the next verse, that all of them did not) these men shall again return into the Land of Judah. This to me seemeth the fairest and most probable sense of the words.

15 ¶ Then all the men which knew that their wives had burnt incense to other Gods, and all the women that stood by, a great multitude, even all the people that dwell in the land of Egypt, in Pathros, answered Jeremiah, saying,

16 As for the word which thou hast spoken unto us in the name of the LORD, we will not hearken unto thee.

<sup>1</sup> We read chap. 43: 5, Jehoiakim and the rest only denied that God had spoken such words and told Jeremiah, he had spoken falsely, but now these women and men rise higher, they acknowledge Jeremiah had spoken to them in the name of the Lord, but tell him in plain and direct terms they would not obey it. And indeed this is in the hearts of all sinners that are ruled by their Lusts, though they will sometimes pretend, that what they hear is not the Will of God, but spoken out of Malice and prejudice; yet they are pre-resolved they will not do it, let their understandings be never so well informed.

17 But we will certainly do whatsoever thing goeth forth out of our own mouth, to burn incense unto the queen of heaven, and to pour out drink-offerings unto her, as we have done, ye, and our fathers, our kings and our princes, in the cities of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem: for then had we plenty of victuals, and were well, and saw no evil.

20 ¶ Then Jeremiah said unto all the people, to the men, and to the women, and to all the people which had given him that answer, saying,

21 The incense that ye burnt in the cities of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem, ye and your fathers, your kings and your princes, and the people of the land, did not the LORD remember them, and came it not into his mind?

22 So that the LORD could no longer bear, because of the evil of your doings, and because of the abominations which ye have committed: therefore is your land a desolation, and an astonishment, and a curse without an inhabitant as at this day.

23 Because you have burnt incense, and because ye have sinned against the LORD, and have not obeyed the voice of the LORD, nor walked in his law, nor in his statutes, nor in his testimonies, therefore this evil is happened unto you, as at this day.

<sup>1</sup> There is in these verses nothing of difficulty, nor any new phrases to be opened. That which is observable is, that though the Prophet was but one against many, yet he search not their faces: The substance of what he said is this; That they interpreted Gods voice in his Providences towards their Country directly contrary to the true sense of it. They concluded that their omission of law to burn incense to the Sun, Moon and Stars was the cause why he was so ill with them: as if these were animate beings, and the supreme Being, whereas they were but Creatures. Or as if it were the will of the supreme Being to be adored and worshipped in them, or before Statues and Images represented by them, whereas the Will of God was directly contrary,

11 And when he cometh, he shall smite the land of Egypt, and deliver * such as are for death, death, and such as are for captivity to captivity, and such as are for the sword to the sword.

* He prophesied the certain ruin of the Egyptians by the King of Babel, some of whom the King of Babel should slay, others of them he should lead into Captivity as Prisoners of War. See the like phrases, chap. 14. 2.

12 And I will kindle a fire in the houses of the gods of Egypt, and he shall burn them, and carry them away captives, and he shall array himself with the land of Egypt, as a shepherd putteth on his garments, and he shall go forth from thence in peace.

¶ And as his Prophet declares a particular hatred to the Idols of Egypt, that he would burn up their Temples, i. e. by the hands of his Angels, he shall carry away both the Idols and the inhabitants of Egypt Captives. ¶ That is, the King and planner of the land of Egypt, the King of Babel shall clothe his Army. ¶ Our unapparentness with the Followers of Shepherds cannot divers quieten the mind of this phrase: that which the best Interpreters fix in as the best is, That as a shepherd that while he hath been attending his Flock goes in any Rags, and is careless of his Cloths, but when he goes home at night he puts on his Coat, so the King of Babel when they have finished his work in the conquest of Egypt, shall go home clothed in the better habits of the Egyptians. ¶ And the Armies shall go home in peace, as Conquerors not forced in their undertakings.

13 He shall break also + the images of + Bethshemesh, that is in the land of Egypt; and the houses of the gods of the Egyptians shall be burnt with fire.

¶ Bethshemesh signifies the Temple of the Sun, and it is also the name of a City in Egypt, so must take it here as the name of a City, which had its name from a famous Temple builded in it to the honour of the Sun. This Idol is called On, Gen. 41. 35. By this it appears that the Egyptians, as well as other Pagans put their adoration to the Creatures. ¶ A God thence not only the destruction of the Idolatry Temples, but the houses of the inhabitants of Egypt, by the King of Babel, from whence these Jews would they have believed might have understood, that they would not have the security which they promised themselves in the land of Egypt.

C H A P. XLIV.

THE word which came to Jeremiah concerning all the Jews, which dwell in the land of Egypt, 4, which dwell at Migdol, and at Tappah, and at Noph, and in the country of Pathros, saying,

1 The Presence and Goodness of God to this remnant of his ancient people is very remarkable, he leaveth them not even in their Rebellion, nor sendeth Jeremiah, whom he had before sent to comfort them, to go into this Idolatrous Country, to try if in Egypt they would be brought to a better mind. ¶ It should seem that the generality of the Jews that went into Egypt had planted themselves at their four places. Of Migdol we read Exod. 12. 2. and Exod. 13. 1. from which places we may learn, it was a City or Town upon the borders of the Red Sea. We shall read of it again, chap. 45. 13. It was a place which might have minded them better of their duty and obligations to God, for upon their removal from thence, God directed the Red Sea for their journey. ¶ It was another City in Egypt, of which we read, Isa. 19. 12. 13. 14. 15. and Isa. 30. 13. 15. The Prophets and Laws call it Misraim; it is thought to be that City, which is now called Cairo, Isa. 19. 13. Exod. 30. 13. Pathros was a Region or Province, some think it derived its name from Pathros, the son of Misraim, Gen. 10. 14. It is the same (as some think) which is since called Fodyat.

2 Thus saith the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel. Ye have seen all the evil that I have brought upon Jerusalem, and upon all the cities of Judah; and behold, this day, they are a desolation, and no man dwelleth therein.

¶ The allusion to the late destruction of it by the King of Babel, the remnant of the people, was a brand plucked out of that fire, and their eyes had been Witnesses to the desolations that God had wrought.

3 Because of their wickedness which they have committed to provoke me to anger, in that they went to burn incense, and to serve other Gods, whom they knew not, neither they, you, nor your fathers.

¶ As they were so conversant to the effect to do it was nothing but their own fault, made them strangers to the cause. For God by his Prophets had told them that the great moving cause was their paying a divine homage to Idols: the sin of which is aggravated from this, that they were such strangers to the Idols, as to the people with whom they joined in the worship of them, neither they nor any of their Fathers having had any experimental knowledge of what they had done or could do for such as adored them.

4 Howbeit * I sent unto you all my servants the prophets, rising early and sending them, saying, Oh do not this abominable thing that I hate.

5 But they hearkened not, nor inclined their ear to turn from their wickedness, to burn no incense unto other gods.

¶ These two verses contain another aggravation of this peoples sin, i. e. That they did this against light, and admonitions to the contrary. God had by his Prophets let them know that this was an abominable thing, a thing which he hated, and that as with an ordinary degree of hatred, yet they would not hear, so as to yield obedience to God, but went on in their idolatries.

6 Wherefore * my fury and my anger was poured forth, and was kindled in the cities of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem, and they are waited and desolate as at this day.

¶ For their very reason their Idolatry and contempt of my word by my Prophets, the very sins you are now committing, I have given Judah, and Jerusalem into the hand of the King of Babel, and it is (as you at this day see it) waste and desolate.

7 Therefore now thus saith the LORD, the God of Israel, the God of hosts, Wherefore commit ye this great evil against your souls? to cut off from you man and woman, child and sucking + out of Judah, to leave you none to remain.

¶ What providence can guide you to do such actions as these, by which you cannot hurt God, but your selves only? you are now but a few of many, what love have you for your country, in taking counsel which will certainly tend to the utter extirpation of that few, so as there shall be neither Man, nor Woman, nor child, nor sucking remaining of all the Jews.

8 In that ye provoke me unto wrath, with the works of your hands, burning incense unto other gods in the land of Egypt, whether ye be gone to dwell, that ye might cut your selves off, and that ye might be a curse, and a reproach amongst all the nations of the earth.

¶ Idols are usually thus defamed, and indeed nothing can argue a greater stupidity than for any to pay an homage (consecrated by due to the Supreme being) to the work of mens hands, and therefore must be made by one Superior to that order of Beings in which Idols are. But how doth the Prophet say, that they worshipped the works of mens hands? for it appears from Exod. 17. that they paid this homage to the Queen of Heaven, which is not the work of mens hands. ¶ So, it was before I came, which are but the works of mens hands. And this certainly was the Idolatry of the generality of the Heathens, they worshipped an unknown Divine Being before a Creature, either as representing it, or rather putting them in mind of it. ¶ The term Red Sea doth not denote the Idolaters end of intention, for none ever did so intentionally to ruin themselves, it only signifies the end of their work that their utter ruin would be the certain consequent of their work.

9 Have ye forgotten the + wickedness of your fathers, and the wickedness of the kings of Judah, and the wickedness of their wives and your own wickedness, and the wickedness of your wives, which they have committed in the land of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem?

¶ God accounteth men and women to have forgotten that, the sight and reflection upon which hath made no such impression upon them, as to produce a practiceisable to those notions, according to the conduct of a reasonable soul, which respect every man, having notice of a great evil brought upon a man by such practices, to avoid running into the like danger. It was the aggravation of this Peoples sins, that they were committed in the holy land, and in a City which God had more favoured than any other place, to have done these things in any place had been guilt enough, but more to do it in the land of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem.

10 They are not + humbled even to this day, neither have they feared + me, nor walked in my law, nor in my statutes that I set before you, and before your fathers.

¶ Neither they nor you are humbled, for the Prophets passing from the second person to the third, and by and by from the third Person again to the second, lets us know, that he intendeth what

what he spake as well of them to whom he spake, as of them concerning whom he speaks from, 2. whence we also learn, that Reformation and obedience is the first fruits of contrition or true humiliation. God accounteth those not humble, but hardened, who are not reformed, and become obedient to his Will let their present contrition, contrition, or humiliation be in outward appearance what it will.

¶ These names are frequently given to God, in threatening purposes, partly to let this people know that God is able to make good his word, and to bring the threatened evils upon them: and partly to let them know that the dealing thus with them would not make him quit his relation to Israel, but he was and still would approve himself the God of those who were his true Israel. ¶ The meaning is my full design against you is to bring evil upon you, this is expressed under the notion of setting his face and Anger 4. setting his eyes against them.

12 And I will take the remnant of Judah, that have set their faces to go into the land of Egypt, to sojourn there, and they shall all be consumed, and fall in the land of Egypt, they shall even be consumed by the sword, and by the famine: they shall die from the least even unto the greatest, by the sword, and by the famine: and they shall be an execration, and an astonishment, and a curse, and a reproach.

¶ This is no more than the Prophet had told twice very perform before they went into Egypt, chap. 42. 15. 17. here he doubteth his words for the confirmation of the truth of them to them now that they were there.

14 So that none of the remnant of Judah, which are gone into the land of Egypt to sojourn there, shall escape or remain, that they should return into the land of Judah, to the which they + have a desire to return, to dwell there: for none shall return but such as shall escape.

¶ There is a great variety in the reading of the words, 14. 14. some reading shall return, others shall not return. They have a desire to return. Others, For they have a desire to return. The words seem to hint that these Jews went into the Land of Egypt not with a design to live there always, but to stay for a while till the heat of the Chaldeans in conquering after the blood of Gedaliah should be over, then thinking to return into their own Country, which some think were true, considering it was not only as their Native Soil, but also a place where was now room enough, and they might live in much greater plenty than they could in Egypt. The only difficulty is in the last words, compared with what in the same Verse went before: it is in the beginning of the verse that none of them shall return, and in the close, none shall return but such as shall escape. But reason will guide us to interpret the first none in a restrained sense, i. e. none of those who have been the Authors of this Counsel and Rebellion against God, and who went into Egypt willingly, for none can think that God involved Jeremiah and Baruch who were in Egypt (at least the first of them) in the same punishment with which he punished the rebellious Jews. Or none of those who in Egypt have burnt incense to Idols, and defiled themselves with the Idolatry of Egypt, but there shall some escape, such as have been forced into Egypt against their wills; and such as being forced when they came here did not in the Land of Egypt, the Egyptians (for we may gather from the next verse, that all of them did not) these men shall again return into the Land of Judah. This to me seemeth the fairest and most probable sense of the words.

15 ¶ Then all the men which knew that their wives had burnt incense to other Gods, and all the women that stood by, a great multitude, even all the people that dwell in the land of Egypt, in Pathros, answered Jeremiah, saying,

¶ The burning of incense was a religious Rite, which God had appointed the Jews as a piece of Divine Homage to be paid to him alone, and by an ordinary figure is put for Worship. So as burning incense to other gods, is the same with worshipping other Gods. ¶ It should seem that all the Jews had not been so far guilty, and those that did it were mostly Women, or at least they were the Leaders in this Idolatry, and one would think the phrase implicitly, that those who were thus culpable did it with some privacy, so as all their husbands did not know of it, but those that did were as bad as their wives, coming at them, and justifying them in their Idolatry, and joining with them in the following peremptory answer to, and contempt of the Prophet.

to us in the name of the LORD, we will not hearken unto thee.

¶ We read chap. 43. 5. Jehoiakin and the rest only denied that God had spoken such things, but Jeremiah, he had spoken faithfully, but now these women and men rise higher, they acknowledge Jeremiah had spoken to them in the name of the Lord, but tell him in plain and direct terms they would not obey it. And indeed this is in the hearts of all sinners that are ruled by their Lusts, though they will sometimes pretend, that what they hear is not the Will of God, but spoken out of Malice and prejudice; yet they are pre-occupied they will not do it, let their understandings be never so well informed.

17 But we will certainly do * whatsoever thing goeth forth out of our own mouth, to burn incense unto the + queen of heaven, and to pour out drink-offerings unto her, as we have done, ye, we and our fathers, our kings and our princes, in the cities of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem: 2. for then had we plenty of + victuals, and were well, and saw no evil.

¶ Here is the root of all sinners disobedience, their resolution to please and humour themselves, not knowing how in any thing to deny themselves, hence it is that denying our selves is by Christ made the first law or condition of his Disciples. ¶ By the Queen of Heaven some here understand the Sun, which notion is favoured from the words being of the Feminine gender, which signifies the Sun in Heb. others reading it not the Queen, but the Stars of heaven, by it understanding the Sun, Moon and Stars. ¶ Drink-offerings were a Divine Homage which God had commanded to be paid to him, Lev. 23. 13. Num. 6. 17. They refused to do it was Custom and Antiquity, they and their Fathers had used to do it. 2. The Example of their Kings and Princes. A Plenty and prosperity they had while they did so, as if their Idolatry had been the cause of it.

19 * And when we burnt incense to the queen + of heaven, and poured out drink-offerings unto her, did we make her cakes to worship + her, and pour out drink-offerings unto her without our + Or, Husbands, men?

¶ Their last Argument is drawn from the evils that had befallen them since they had left worshipping the Sun, Moon and Stars; thus strangely their omission of that, the cause of their sufferings, their former doing of which was indeed the true cause, they had lost their Husbands in the Siege, and in Battels, and had suffered Famine and Hunger, and all because they had burnt incense to other Gods. They interpret these Providences into a punishment for their not doing it as they had formerly used to do. So bad Interpreters are those of Gods Providences, who indulge their lusts in opposition to Gods Law.

20 ¶ Then Jeremiah said unto all the people, to the men, and to the women, and to all the people which had given him that answer, saying,

21 The incense that ye burnt in the cities of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem, ye and your fathers, your kings and your princes, and the people of the land, did not the LORD remember them, and came it not into his mind?

22 So that the LORD could no longer bear, because of the evil of your doings, and because of the abominations which ye have committed: therefore is your land a desolation, and an astonishment, and a curse without an inhabitant as at this day.

¶ There is in these verses nothing of difficulty, nor any new phrases to be opened. That which is observable is, that though the Prophet was but one against many, yet he searcheth not their faces: The substance of what he saith is this: That they interpreted Gods voice in his Providences toward their Country directly contrary to the true sense of it. They concluded that their omission of late to burn incense to the Sun, Moon and Stars was the cause why it was so ill with them: as if these were animate beings, and the Supreme Being, whereas they were but Creatures. Or as if it were the will of the Supreme Being to be adored and worshipped in them, or before Stars and Images represented by them, whereas the Will of God was directly contrary, trary, and as he in the second Commandment had forbidden any such worship, because he was a jealous God; so he had for the breach of that Commandment by their burning Incense to these Creatures, burned up their Houses and Temple and brought their Nation into that misery into which they were come: From whence may be observed how ill an Argument for any Religious Worship Idolatry is, unless we by it mean what is most ancient; as also that Prophesie in that which is false, in the Worship of God justifieth none. Nor is it a good conclusion that those who lived nearest to the primitive Institution are most likely to have done best, as having the best means to know what is truly Primitive. Idolatry was as old as Adam, and the worst of idolatry (suffering Children to Belshazzar) was older than the Testament Law, if not as old as Song. In matters of Worship the Word of God is a sufficient rule, we need not plead antiquity nor the prædicta of antiquity. Error is not capable of being justified by Tradition or Prescription.

24 Moreover, Jeremiah said to all the people, and to all the women, Hear the word of the LORD, all Judah that are in the land of Egypt d.

e That is all ye men and women that belong to Judah, and are now come to inhabit in the land of Egypt.

25 Thus faith the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, saying, * Ye and your wives have both spoken with your mouths, and fulfilled with your hand, saying, We will surely perform our vows e that we have vowed, to burn incense to the queen of heaven, and to pour out drink-offerings unto her: ye will surely accomplish your vows, and surely perform your vows f.

g Those words have spoken are in the History of the feminine Gender which giveth good reason to some interpreters to conclude the Women were first and principal in this Idolatry, and the mens guilt lay in coniving at them, and suffering themselves to be seduced by them. Ye faith the Prophet, have spoken it and ye have been as big as your words, and have made the Religion of a law, as if a law could be a bond of iniquity, and it were possible by a vow to oblige your selves to a forfaking of the true God and a committing of Idolatry. f The later words from Isaiah as to have this fence, you are resolved upon it, and there is no moving you from your resolution, God hath relieved too.

26 Therefore hear ye the word of the LORD, all Judah that dwell in the land of Egypt, Behold I have sworn by my great name, faith the LORD g, that my name shall no more be named in the mouth of any man of Judah, in all the land of Egypt, saying, the LORD God liveth h.

i Seeing you are so fixed and peremptory, God is as resolved as you are, and as you think you must be Religious to your wicked vows, so be assured God will be as Religious to his Oath, because he can treat by no greater, he hath sworn by himself, Heb. 5. 12. 15. (to be named signifieth here). h There shall not any be left of the Jews that are in Egypt, to swear The Lord God liveth, (for it should seem, that the Jews yet retained something of the Religion of their Country, and swore by the Name of the living God, according to the Precept, Deut. 5. 12. and 20.) God therefore there should be none of them left alive to do it, he would not have his holy Name polluted by those mouths that had been used to blasphemous Idols.

27 Behold, * I will watch over them for evil, and not for good i, and all the men of Judah that are in the land of Egypt shall be consumed by the sword, and by the famine, until there be an end of them k.

l God here either sets out himself as one who would be industrious and solicitous to bring evil upon them, as men who are so in any unbelief such opportunities to do it, or else he desires their vain confidence as to his protection of them, and care for them (faith God) I will watch over them, but not to build and to plant as chap. 31. 28. but in the former part of this verse, to pluck up, and to throw down, and to destroy, and to afflict. k For so it follows, they shall be consumed by the sword and by the famine.

28 Ver. 14. * A small number that escape the sword, shall return out of the land of Egypt into the land of Judah l; and all the remnant of Judah that are gone into the land of Egypt to sojourn there, shall know whose word shall stand, † mine or theirs m.

n This justifieth the restrained interpretation of name of the remnant, viz. 14. for here it is plainly said, that some should escape and return. n But for the rest they should there perishing by that it would appear whether Gods word or theirs should stand, and have its accomplishment, they promising themselves security, God threatening them with utter ruin and destruction.

29 ¶ And this shall be a sign n unto you, faith

the LORD, that I will punish you in this place, that ye may know that my words shall surely stand against you for evil, o Signs are usually antecedent to the thing signified, but the word is taken in a larger notion in this place for that which should attend the thing signified by it, as Exod. 3. 12. because of their defraction, and the destruction of Jerusalem were things immediately following one another, yet the latter was in order before the other.

30 Thus faith the LORD, Behold, I will give Pharaoh-hophra king of Egypt o into the hand of his enemies, and into the hand of them that seek his life, as I gave Zedekiah king of Judah into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon his enemy that fought his life p.

q Pharaoh was a name common to all the Egyptian Kings, as may be learned from Gen. 12. 15. and 41. 1. Exod. 1. 8. 11. but they had besides that name another peculiar to them, whether this Hophra was Vaphres or Aprius, is not much material, nor is there any certainty when this Prophecy was fulfilled. Whether Pharaoh Hophra were (as Herodotus hath) slain by Ambli, one of his Subjects who rebelled against him and slew him (as the afore-mentioned Author tells us) or Nebuchadnezzar who Jerusalem faith came about five years after he had taken Jerusalem, and over-ran Egypt, and slew this Pharaoh Hophra, whose overthrow was a certain sign of the Jews destruction, it being not like that the King of Babylon should take these Jews who had fled to this King of Egypt for shelter, considering also that the Jews had slain  Gedaliah his Deputy Governour in Judah. How God delivered Zedekiah into the hand of the King of Babylon, we read chap. 9. here now ends the story of their Jews that had fled into Egypt.

C H A P. XLV.

THE word that Jeremiah the prophet spake unto Baruch the son of Neriah, * when he had written these words in a book at the mouth of Jeremiah i, in the fourth year of Jehoiakim, the son of Josiah king of Judah, saying, b.

a This Chapter ought to have been annexed to the 25. chap. or immediately to have followed it for the writing of Jeremiah's prophecies we read of there, b it was 15 years before this time that the Prophet that spake to Baruch upon the written Prophecies which as we read there brought both Jeremiah and Baruch into a great deal of danger which probably gave Baruch the occasion of the complaint we shall read of, chap. 3.

2 Thus faith the LORD the God of Israel unto thee, O Baruch c.

d Jeremiah had in his former discourses revealed the Will of God, concerning Nations, here he reveals it as to Baruch his Secretary or Clerk, upon which account some compare him to Paul writing to Philemon as well as to Churiches.

3 Thou didst say, Wo is me now, for the LORD hath added grief to my sorrow, I fainted in my sighing, and I find no rest d.

e Upon Baruch's reading the Prophecies after he had wrote them from the mouth of Jeremiah, both he and Jeremiah were feared for before the Princes, and advised to hide themselves, as we read chap. 38. 15. 16. This probably diffused Baruch, and made him lament his condition in such like expressions, of which the Prophet had heard, probably by Revelation from God.

4 ¶ Thus shalt thou say unto him, The LORD faith thus, Behold, that which I have built will I break down, and that which I have planted I will pluck up, even this whole land.

5 And seekest thou great things for thy self? seek them not e: for behold, I will bring evil upon all flesh, faith the LORD f: but thy life will I give unto thee * for a prey, in all places, whither thou goest g.

h What great things Baruch was feeling is not expressed, and impossible to be determined with any certainty; they could not be honour, or riches; the time of Jehoiakim's reign was no time for any pious Rational Man, to expect any thing of that nature: he might expect to have been a Prophet, as Elphaz was, who first was but a servant to Eliphaz. Or as if he might expect rest and protection, when others met with disturbance, but it may be the meaning is no more than, dost thou expect what none meeteth with, or is like to meet with who feareth God? never think of it. f I am bringing Calamities, and misery upon the whole Nation wherein thou livest. g I will pervert thy life, that is all thou art to expect, and that shall live to the time, that thou wilt judge that a great Booby, that thou shalt have less than, what the Wind of my Providence shall happen to drive thee. This message of God to Baruch teaches us that God expects from his People a spirit fixed to his dispensations: and that they should keep their spirits low in a time of public Judgments, not making making to themselves any great promises of freedom from their share in the public calamities of that Nation or Kingdom in which they are, but concealing themselves with such allowance as God proportioneth to them at such a time without discontent or murmuring, but blessing God, for any marks of gracious Providence which God in such times will please to set upon them, and being thankful for them and satisfied with them.

C H A P. XLVI.

THE word of the LORD which came to Jeremiah the prophet against the Gentiles a.

b This verse contains the Title to all the ensuing discourses of this Prophet, for though there be some particular verses in these chapters that relate to the Jews, yet they are all concerning their restoration. The Prophecies of Judgments from the beginning of this chapter to the 22. chapter are all against foreign Nations which are called Gentiles. As to whom God revealed his Will for the punishment of them for the relief and satisfaction of his people to whom the most of them had been bitter Enemies. The 22. chapter is by most concluded not to have been wrote by Jeremiah, who it is not probable would have repeated what he had related before chap. 35. but it was wrote (as it is supported) by some of the Captives, as Isaiah is a proof to the same of Isaiah's mutations. This particular chapter containeth the Revelation of the Will of God, concerning Egypt whether some of the Jews fled for refuge after this time, and which had been a great occasion of sin to the Jews before not only through the Jews too many meaning their Idolatry to them, Jer. 2. 16. The children of Noph and Tapanes, broke the crown of their head.

c Pharaoh Necho was King of Egypt in Jehoiakim's time, it was by his Army that Jehoiakim was killed at Abdo, a King 23. chap. it was he that made Jehoiakim King of Judah taking away Jehoiakim, chap. 24. but though he prevailed at that time, and that was one year when he came out against Carchemish, a Chron. 35. 20. yet he was overthrown by Nebuchadnezzar in a Battle with him afterwards appears from a King 22. 29. and Jehoiakim was made Tributary to Nebuchadnezzar as we read a King 24. 1. and the King of Egypt was brought low by that victory that he Isaiah on chap. 19. for the King of Babylon had taken from him all from Nile, the great River of Egypt to Euphrates, and this his victory was in the 4th. year of Jehoiakim. This prophete must be before that time. Carchemish's appearance from Isa. 10. 20. to have been a place in Syria where the Egyptian Army had been in Jehoiakim's time and then went away conquerors as appears from a Chron. 35. 20. &c.

3 Order ye the buckler, and the field, and draw near to battel.

4 Harness the horses, and get up ye horsemen and stand forth with your helmets, furnish the spears, and put on the brigandines c.

e Arr hath so much improved all things, in latter ages, that it is very hard to determine of what form the several weapons, and pieces of Armour, whether offensive or defensive in use at this time were, the most here mentioned seem to have been defensive, and the whole speech of the Prophet directed to the Egyptians, seems to be defensive, calling to this Army of Pharaoh Necho to get ready to defend themselves, for they were to encounter with an Enemy would turn very hard to it, so as they had need, to have their Helmets and Bucklers and Shields, and Brigandines in a readiness, and know the use of them well, the horses for War had need be harnessed, the Spears furnished, and the riders got up.

5 Wherefore have I seen them dismayed, and turned away back? and their mighty ones † are beaten down and are † fled apace, and look not back for fear was round about, faith the LORD d.

f God had either in a vision showed Jeremiah this Army of the Egyptians flying, or else had revealed to them that they should be put to flight, which the Prophet here publisheth, God made a scout fall upon the Egyptians, so as when the King of Babylon came to join Battle with them, they were not able at all to stand, but turned their backs and their greatest commanders, were either killed, or fled away as fast as they could.

6 Let not the swift flee away, nor the mighty man escape, they shall stumble and fall toward the north by the river Euphrates e.

g That is, it is in vain for the swift to flee away, the mighty men shall not escape, but they shall stumble, and fall at Carchemish which was near the River Euphrates and Northward from Egypt.

7 Who is it this that cometh up as a flood, whose waters are moved as the rivers f.

f The next verse expoundeth this.

8 Egypt riseth up like a flood, and his waters are moved like the rivers, and he saith I will go up, and will cover the earth, I will destroy the city and the inhabitants thereof g.

h The Prophet compareth the Egyptians flooded with their former victory obtained against Jehoiakim at Abdo, and now preparing to another expedition, to a flood (with allusion probably to the River Nile, whose waters used to rise to a great height) both for the multitude of their Soldiers, and for their rage, as they were resolved to carry such numbers as should cover the Earth, and to take Carchemish, or some other City which they design was to gainst. It should seem both by this Text and that Isaiah. 19. 9. 10. That the Egyptians were a people much given to vaunt and boast of their greatness; they would so, because when they were pursuing on their Harbours as if they were playing it off, were confiding how incertain the events of War were, nor yet that wherein they talked proudly there was one that could be above them.

9 Come up ye horses, and rage ye chariots, and let the mighty men come forth b, † the Ethiopians, † the Libyans, and the Libyans that handle the bow k, and the Libyans * that handle the bow k.

l Their ancient way of fighting was with Chariots, and Horses, the Prophet calls in the name of the Commander of the Egyptian Army, to the Horses and Chariots to come on, and engage in the fight. i The Ethiopians were the Cushites who were neighbours to the Egyptians, so were the Libyans both of them should seem were famous for handling the Shield, the Libyans were the Libyans descended from Put, both the Cushites and the Putians or Libyans were defended from Ham, Gen. 10. 6. k The Libyans were as famous for the use of the Bow in War, they were descended from Nimrod or Shem, Gen. 10. 12. 22. the Libyans here meant are thought as to be those descended from Mizraim, and some think that were Ethiopian. They were all available to the Egyptians in this expedition.

10 For this is the day of the Lord GOD of hosts, a day of vengeance, that he may avenge him of his adversaries l: and the sword shall devour, and it shall be fatal, and made drunk with their blood m: for the Lord GOD of hosts * hath a sacrifice in the north country, by the river Euphrates n.

o Or, But this is the day of the Lord, Gen. 18. is mistaken in forcing this day of his own, because of the multitude of his holiness, it is the day of the Lord, who as he is the Lord of all the holiness of his Creatures, so hath a particular rule and government over hosts of men; this is further explained by the next words, a day of vengeance, which God hath left apart, in it to be avenged upon his Enemies. n These phrases only metaphorically signify, the great slaughter God would make that day amongst the Egyptians. h This the Prophet declares that God would do for his honour and glory, therefore he calls it justice by which also he declares his Justice in this punishment of the Egyptians, and for the further repute and credit of his Prophecies, telleth them to whom he spake and the place it should be in, viz. near the River Euphrates, where Jehoiakim was slain by him, a King 23. 29.

11 Go up into Gilead and take * balm, O virgin, the daughter of Egypt †: in vain shalt thou use many medicines: for † thou shalt not be cured p.

q Great states are ordinarily in Scripture called Virgins for their beauty, and pleasant state; Gilead was a most famous place for Balm. The Prophet ironically calls to the Egyptians to go to Gilead for Balm. p But tells them it would be to no purpose, God was about to wound them beyond all help of medicines.

12 The nations have heard of thy theme q, and thy cry hath filled the land, for the mighty man hath stumbled against the mighty, and they are fallen both together r.

s The Prophet keepeth to his old prophetic stile, speaking of things that were to come to pass some years after, as if they were already past, because of the certainty of them, in this sense he faith other Nations had seen, because they should see the flame and confusion of the Egyptians upon their overthrow, and the cry of their slain and wounded men would fill other Lands. r For the Egyptians should certainly be overthrown, either by the Chaldeans (humble upon the Babylonians) or the Babylonians (them, or they) (lying) for strife humbling one upon another, so as both those that were before, and those who followed after, should both fall together.

13 ¶ The word that the LORD spake to Jeremiah the Prophet, how Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon should come and * smite the land of Egypt f.

f A Revelation different from the former in this, that the former only foretold the overthrow of the King of Egypt in a particular battle in Carchemish near Egypt, of which we read that the thing was done, 2 Kings 24, 7. This foretells the Kings of Babylon overthrowing all the Land of Egypt, and was not fulfilled till some years after Zedekiah was carried away Captive, but prophesied of chap. 43, 10, and 44, 30, to come to pass in the time of Pharaoh Hophra as we heard before, and more largely foretold by the Prophet Ezekiel, Ezekiel 29, 10, 20, and 32, to happen at the overthrow of Tyrrus, Ezekiel 29, 18, 19.

14 Declare ye in Egypt, and publish in Migdol, and publish in Noph, and in Talphanes : say ye Stand fast, and prepare ye, for the sword shall devour round about thee.

Concerning these three Cities of Egypt, see the Notes on chap. 44, 1, the meaning is publish this Prophecy over all the Land of Egypt, or perhaps that these were the chief places whither the Jews that they fixed themselves, many more places in Egypt are named by Ezekiel, chap. 28, 29. Look to your selves and prepare your selves for Battle, for the Nations are destroyed round about you, (so is in the Hebrew) and you have reason to expect that the sword should come next into your Country.

15 Why are they valiant men swept away? they flood not, because the LORD did drive them?

The Prophet first propounded a question, then returneth answer to himself. Egypt was full of valiant men, yet faith the Prophet they shall be swept away, or broken down as straw, or grass is beaten down with a violent storm of Wind, (so the word is used, Psalm 28, 3) how comes this to pass (saith the Prophet) he answereth himself because it was of God to destroy Egypt, who worketh and none can let him, when he strikes none can stand before him; none can stand up against him.

16 He  $\dagger$  made many to fall, yea, one fell upon another, and they said, Arise, let us go again to our own people, and to the land of our nativity from the oppressing sword.

God before (spoken of and Nabuchadnezzar), as an instrument in the hand of God, and being armed with his commission and power, made many to fall; Egypt caused such a fear to fall upon them, that in their light they fell upon one another. And though they had many Souldiers that came to help them, yet faith the Prophet, ye all was too little, the Prophet foretold they should all be cut to go home again, and should speak one another to that purpose for the success of the King of Babylon Sword, should be such, as they should quickly see there would be no standing before it.

17 They did cry there, Pharaoh king of Egypt  $\dagger$  was a noise  $\dagger$ , he hath passed the time appointed.

That is the Ethiopians and Lubims that should come to help the king of Egypt should cry, or the Caldians, or the Egyptians themselves should cry Pharaoh is but a noise, that is, hath made a great noise but it is nothing, otherwise make the sense Pharaoh is a man of noise, or tumult, that hath made a great deal of disturbance to himself and us. That is say the most he hath passed the time himself fixed whereat he would come, and fight the Caldians. But their words compared with the next verse incline others to think, that either Pharaoh Souldiers, or his Allies are here brought in mocking at Pharaoh, pronouncing himself that the King of Babylon would not come, and laughing at Jeremiah's Prophecies, saying, the time appointed was past, that is the time of his coming mentioned by Jeremiah was past. Jeremiah foretold that Pharaoh Army and Confederates would see reason to cry out, Pharaoh, in saying (so was but a noise).

18 I live, faith the king, whose name is the LORD of hosts, surely as Tabor is amongst the mountains, and as Carmel by the sea, so shall he come.

That is, he shall as certainly come and encompass you with his Armies as Tabor is encompassed with mountains, and as Carmel is by the Sea, or as Barak going down from mount Tabor destroyed Sisera's Army, or as surely as the Rain came which Elijah hid discovered from Mount Carmel, 1 Kings 18, 41, 42, there are other quells at the sense of this comparison, but the sense is undoubtedly no more than that Nabuchadnezzar should certainly come against Egypt, how vainly forever the Egyptians flattered themselves to the contrary supposing the time past which the Prophet spake of.

19 Oh thou daughter dwelling in Egypt,  $\dagger$  furnish thyself to go into captivity : for Noph shall be waste and desolate without an inhabitant.

That is, O you inhabitants in the Land of Egypt. Make ready to go into another Country as Prisoners of War, for your Cities shall be destroyed. Noph particularly shall be wholly depopulated, and laid waste and have none to dwell in it.

20 Egypt is like a very fair heifer, but destruction cometh : it cometh out of the north d.

That is, Egypt is now in a thriving prosperous condition, but not used to be under any yoke like a Heifer, that is fair and fat but the will not be so long, he is but as a heifer fatted for the slaughter, and there are slaughter men, coming out of Caldia that will kill this fair Heifer and make her a sacrifice to the Justice of God.

21 Also her hired men are in the midst of her, like  $\dagger$  fatted bullocks, for they also are turned back, and are fled away together; they did not stand for because the day of their calamity was come upon them, and the time of their visitation g.

The mercenary Souldiers also which the Egyptians have hired from Caldia and Fut, and other parts are at present in a flourishing prosperous state. We have translated  $\dagger$  here they, it had been better translated he, for that is manifestly the sense. Though they at present lying in Garrison be fat and flourishing, like bullocks in the stalls, yet when it cometh to they shall not stand but turn back, and flee as well as the rest. Because the time is come when God resolveth to punish them, and bring calamity upon them. When the time is come which God hath set for their calamity, where he will punish persons or nations : no probabilities to the contrary are much considerable.

22 The voice thereof shall go like a serpent, for they shall march with an army, and come against her with axes, as hewers of wood d.

Egypt is now like an Heifer that makes a great bellowing, but the time shall come when the shall make a louder noise like the hissing of a Serpent, when it is felt for upon. For the Caldians shall come with a great Army, armed with Battle-Axes, as if they came to fell down some Wood in a Forest, or Wood.

23 They shall cut down her forest, faith the LORD, though it cannot be searched,  $\dagger$  because they are more than the grasshoppers, and are innumerable l.

Egypt is compared to a forest either for the multitude of Cities, or of people in that Country, and to a thick forest, because as it is an hard thing to make ones way through a Forest, so it was judged as hard for an Enemy to make his way into that Country, innumerable probability Egypt could not be searched, yet (saith God) the Caldians shall cut down her Forest, and there shall be no more to them than for hewers of Wood, with Tools fitted for the purpose, to make their way through a forest. For the Army of the Caldians shall be as numerous as the inhabitants of Egypt more than the Grasshoppers which come in flocks Troops, as in a short time they devour every Green Herb in a place.

24 The daughter of Egypt shall be confounded, she shall be delivered into the hand of the people of the north m.

That is, into the hand or power of the Caldians, it is the same thing which the Prophet had before said again and again, and repeats it so often only for the further confirmation of the truth of the prediction notwithstanding the appearing improbability of any such thing.

25 The LORD of hosts, the God of Israel faith  $\dagger$ , Behold, I will punish the  $\dagger$  multitude of No, and Pharaoh, and Egypt,  $\dagger$  with their gods, and their kings, even Pharaoh, and all them that trust in him p.

These names are often in conjunction given unto God, the first signifying his Power, or ability to do what he either promiseth or threateth, the other speaking his kindness and near relation to the Jews. O There are great civil disputes about this phrase, whether the word translated multitude, signifies fo (as it doth, chap. 52, 15) and if so whether it should not be the multitude from No. Or whether it signifies the souls, (as some would have it) because No (which most think is the same City with that at this time called Alexandria, being a great place of Merchandise) nourished all the adjacent parts, but it is no ease this to resolve the question, nor is the resolution of it of much moment to us. By those that trusted in Pharaoh the Jews are most probably meant, who all along in their property put too much confidence in Egypt, and after that Hinsham was taken, some of them (as we before heard) fled into Egypt for Sanctuary.

26 And I will deliver them into the hand of those that seek their lives, and into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar King of Babylon, and into the hand of his servants : And afterwards it shall be inhabited, as in the days of old, faith the LORD q.

The former part of this verse is but the same which the Prophet hath often before said. The latter part is a promise for the restoration of Egypt to some degree of its former prosperity, and and Liberty. The determinate time for the fulfilling of this Prophecy is told us, Ezekiel 29, 13, 14, viz. at the end of forty years; it was to be by Civil Historians fell out in the time of Amasis King of Egypt covetous with Cyrus, who was overcome by Cyrus his son Cambyses, who brought Egypt to be a Province belonging to the Meds and Perfians, by the fulfilling of which prophesie the truth both of Jeremiah's and Ezekiel's prophecies are justified.

27  $\dagger$  But fear not thou, O my servant Jacob, and be not dismayed, O Israel; for behold, I will save thee from a far off, and thy seed from the land of their captivity, and Jacob shall return, and be in rest and at ease, and none shall make him afraid.

28 Fear thou not, O Jacob my servant, faith the LORD, for I am with thee, for I will make a full end of all the nations whither I have driven thee, but I will not make  $\dagger$  a full end of thee, but correct thee in measure, yet will I not leave thee wholly unpunished r.

See the notes on chap. 30, 10, 11, where is the substance of what is said in these verses, and almost the very words are repeated: the great thing to be observed by us is the difference which the just and righteous God maketh betwixt his punishments of his Church and own people, and his punishments of wicked men who are their Enemies: a there is a great difference in the root of such dispensations. God dealing them out to his people out of love, that they might not be condemned with the wicked; yet there is a great deal of difference in the measure and duration of their punishments, the root of the wicked shall not always live upon the backs of the righteous, and they are corrected in measure.

C H A P. XLVII.

THE word of the LORD, that came to Jeremiah the prophet  $\dagger$  against the Philistines, be ore that Pharaoh smote  $\dagger$  Gaza d.

In the former chapter the prophet foretold the judgments of God upon the Egyptians, who were the Jews' ancient Enemies, but their real Enemies, as they were covetous to them of Idolatry, and of a cruel confidence in him. He comes in this chapter to foretell the judgments of God upon the Philistines who were inveterate Enemies to the Jews, and whom Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob prophesied, and Ezekiel and Jeremiah have prophesied, Ezekiel 25, 15, 22, 1, 6, and 41 Jeremiah in chap. 2, 4, 5, of this Province. When the King of Babylon took Gaza, one of the five Cities of the Philistines the Scripture doth not tell us. Some think it was either in his way to Carchemish, or as he came back a Conqueror from the Battle of Magedo where Jehoiachin was slain. The time when Jeremiah had this Revelation is yet to let us know, that it was in the time of the Philistines prosperity, when the Prophet could see no such evil exist, or probable in its causes.

2 Thus faith the LORD, Behold,  $\dagger$  waters rise up  $\dagger$  out of the north  $\dagger$ , and shall be an overflowing flood, and shall overflow the land  $\dagger$  and all that is therein, the city, and them that dwell therein  $\dagger$ , then the men shall cry, and all the inhabitants of the land shall howl f.

Calamities and afflictions are often in Scripture set out under the notion of Waters, and as the miracles of Egypt were let out by the overflowsings of their great River Nile. So the calamities of the Philistines are expressed by the overflowsings of the great River Euphrates, the cities coming upon them by the Caldians, which were a Northern people, their waters are said to rise out of the North. It is said to be an overflowing flood that should overflow the land, because it was to be a sweeping judgment, which like a flood should carry all before it. d which should produce amongst the inhabitants of Gaza a great howling, and lamentation.

This is all a description of the march of an Army, so terrible as should make Parents forget their natural affection, and flee away to save themselves by looking upon themselves, as lost, and unable to protect their children.

4 Because of the day that cometh to spoil all the Philistines  $\dagger$ , and to cut off from Tyrus and Zidon every helper that remaineth g : for the LORD will spoil the Philistines, the remnant of it the country of Caphor  $\dagger$ .

The day which God hath set, and appointed for the ruin of the Philistines, Gaza and Sidon were neighbouring to the Philistines, as appears from Isaiah 23, 14, 15, Joel 3, 4, and so were often called to their help, God threateth both to destroy them and also those that helped them: it appeareth from Isaiah 23, 14, that the Philistines and Cypriotes were allies for their first Prophecies Philistines and Cypriotes were both the sons of Ham, in the son of Ham one of the sons of Nub. It appears from Isaiah 23, 23, that they expelled the Assyrians, and dwelt in Asyria, to Asyria, whether their Country be what was afterwards called Cappadocia or Danata is not much material for us to know, they were a people concitiate with the Philistines, whom God here threateth to destroy with them.

5  $\dagger$  Baldness is come upon Gaza,  $\dagger$  Askelon is cut off with the remnant of their valley g : how long wilt thou  $\dagger$  cut thyself h.

Gaza, Gaza, and Askalon were two principal Cities belonging to the Philistines taken by Jehoiachin, Joel 1, 18, we read of them 1 Sam. 3, 17, both Amos 2, 43, and Zephaniah prophesied their ruin. Amos 1, 8, Zephaniah 2, 4, 7, Zephaniah 3, 4, we read this Prophecy, Isaiah 23, 23, Isaiah 24, 23, Isaiah 25, 23, Isaiah 26, 23, Isaiah 27, 23, Isaiah 28, 23, Isaiah 29, 23, Isaiah 30, 23, Isaiah 31, 23, Isaiah 32, 23, Isaiah 33, 23, Isaiah 34, 23, Isaiah 35, 23, Isaiah 36, 23, Isaiah 37, 23, Isaiah 38, 23, Isaiah 39, 23, Isaiah 40, 23, Isaiah 41, 23, Isaiah 42, 23, Isaiah 43, 23, Isaiah 44, 23, Isaiah 45, 23, Isaiah 46, 23, Isaiah 47, 23, Isaiah 48, 23, Isaiah 49, 23, Isaiah 50, 23, Isaiah 51, 23, Isaiah 52, 23, Isaiah 53, 23, Isaiah 54, 23, Isaiah 55, 23, Isaiah 56, 23, Isaiah 57, 23, Isaiah 58, 23, Isaiah 59, 23, Isaiah 60, 23, Isaiah 61, 23, Isaiah 62, 23, Isaiah 63, 23, Isaiah 64, 23, Isaiah 65, 23, Isaiah 66, 23, Isaiah 67, 23, Isaiah 68, 23, Isaiah 69, 23, Isaiah 70, 23, Isaiah 71, 23, Isaiah 72, 23, Isaiah 73, 23, Isaiah 74, 23, Isaiah 75, 23, Isaiah 76, 23, Isaiah 77, 23, Isaiah 78, 23, Isaiah 79, 23, Isaiah 80, 23, Isaiah 81, 23, Isaiah 82, 23, Isaiah 83, 23, Isaiah 84, 23, Isaiah 85, 23, Isaiah 86, 23, Isaiah 87, 23, Isaiah 88, 23, Isaiah 89, 23, Isaiah 90, 23, Isaiah 91, 23, Isaiah 92, 23, Isaiah 93, 23, Isaiah 94, 23, Isaiah 95, 23, Isaiah 96, 23, Isaiah 97, 23, Isaiah 98, 23, Isaiah 99, 23, Isaiah 100, 23.

6 O Thou fower of the LORD, how long wilt thou be ere thou wilt quiet,  $\dagger$  put up thyself into thy scabbard, rest, and be still i.

Some make the words of the 5th verse to be the words of the Philistines in their mourning and wailing themselves, crying to God to stop the sword against them, and then to rest, if he will not be so severe. Others make the words of the 6th verse to be the words of the Philistines in their mourning and wailing themselves, crying to God to stop the sword against them, and then to rest, if he will not be so severe. Others make the words of the 6th verse to be the words of the Philistines in their mourning and wailing themselves, crying to God to stop the sword against them, and then to rest, if he will not be so severe.

7 How can it be quiet, seeing the LORD hath given it a charge against Askalon and against the sea shore : there hath he appointed  $\dagger$  the day.

The word  $\dagger$  here is not to be understood according to the former, for it is the former verb to be understood as the words of the Philistines in their mourning and wailing themselves, crying to God to stop the sword against them, and then to rest, if he will not be so severe. Others make the words of the 6th verse to be the words of the Philistines in their mourning and wailing themselves, crying to God to stop the sword against them, and then to rest, if he will not be so severe.

C H A P. XLVIII.

THE Prophet having chapter 45 denunciated Gods Judgment against Egypt and against the Philistines, chap. 47, in this chapter he cometh to do the like against the Moabites, Moab the Father of David was the son of Lot, Gen. 19, 37. The Moabites Country lay in the way of the Ammonites to Canaan, Numb 21, 11, 13, near the Country of the Ammonites, Moab was King of it when the Israelites passed by it, who then for the Sacker Blau to curse them Numb 22, 4, who chap. 24, 8 he led them. They deduced the Israelites to Adullam and Tharay, chap. 25.

1 Against  $\dagger$  Moab, thus faith the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, Wo unto Nebo  $\dagger$ , for it is spoiled : Kirjathaim is confounded, and taken,  $\dagger$  Migdal is confounded and dismayed.

Moab was a large Country and had many Cities, we shall have divers of them named in this Chapter, the first that we read of in Isaiah is Moab, Isaiah 16, 28. Nebo both that and Kirjathaim as may be heard there, chap. 38, 25, it was the name of a mountain. Deut. 2, 24, it should seem that in Tyrrus, chap. 2, the Moabites had got both the possession of Moab, and Kirjathaim and Migdal of which we read no more in Scripture. It seems to be a City built upon some Hill or High place, the Prophet threateth ruin to all these three Cities.

2 There shall be no more praise of Moab : In Hebbon they have devised evil against it b : Come, and let us cut it off from being a nation c : Alia thou  $\dagger$  shalt be cut down, O Madmen, the sword shall  $\dagger$  pursue thee d.

Hebbon was formerly the City of Sion, Numb. 21, 26, it became afterward one of the principal Cities of the Moabites, as appears from Isaiah 16, 4, which maketh the learned Author of our English Annotations think our Translation not to good, for they should they devise evil in Hebbon against Moab, when the Enemies first came in Country when they had taken it, against the other parts of the Country : but possibly the sense is, they shall no more in Hebbon magnify Moab, or Moab shall no more glory glory of Hebron for the Enemies had contrived the ruin of it. d Moab was another City in the Country of Moab. About the same with Platania Madiana. To that City also the Prophet threatneth ruin, and destruction by the Sword.

3 A voice of crying shall be from Horonaim, spoiling and great destruction.

1 Another City of Moab, mentioned only in this place, and in Isa. 15. 9. Some think it the same with Harar, where Sinbad was born, Nob. 2. 10. and 13. 28. The Prophet threatneth also ruin and destruction to this City.

4 Moab is destroyed, her little ones have caused a cry to be heard f.

f Moab was both the name of the whole Country, and of a principal City in it. Some by it here understand the City by her inhabitants, some understand little children; others, inferior Magistrates, or the common people.

5 For in the going up of Lubith, continual weeping shall go up; for in the going down of Horonaim the enemies have heard a cry of destruction g.

g Of Lubith we read only in this place, and Isa. 15. 5. It was a City of Moab and situated upon an Hill, as appears both here and where it is mentioned in Isaiah, some think that it was the Moabites fled for Sanctuary from the Chaldeans, and flying made so great an outcry that their Enemies who pursued them heard their cry.

6 Flea, save your lives, and be like || the * weath in the wilderness h.

h It is of no great moment whether we understand these as the words of the Moabites calling one to another to flee, and save their lives, though they lost all they had, and left themselves as bare as a naked tree, or as the words of the Prophet, speaking to the Moabites to the same effect.

7 ¶ For because thou hast trusted in thy works and in thy treasures, thou shalt also be taken, and Chemoh shall go forth into captivity with his * priests and his princes together k.

k Whether by works in this place be meant their riches got by the labour of their hands; or their works which often are called by way of Detestation, the works of their own hands, or their fortifications is not much considerable, a confidence in Creatures justified to a confidence in God is doubtless the sin here intended, what ever the ground of it was, whether their Idols, or Riches or fortified places. Chemoh was their principal Idol as appears by Nam. 21. 39. Jud. 11. 24. 1 Kings. 11. 7. 33. 2 Kings. 23. 12. God heareth them the vanity of this Idolatry by telling them, that this Idol should go into Captivity, and be far from being able to protect them, that he should not be able to protect himself or his own Priests, or the Princes that favoured him.

8 And the spoiler shall come upon every city, and no city shall escape: the valley also shall perish, and the plain shall be destroyed, as the LORD hath spoken l.

l That is all the parts of the Country of Moab, and all the Cities as well those that stood upon Hills, and mountainous places, as those that stood in Valleys, Leviticus or for the Lord had said it, (for so the particle we translate as is better translated.)

9 Give wings unto Moab, that it may flee, and get away m: for the cities thereof shall be desolate, without any to dwell therein n.

n That is, the Moabites had need of wings like a Bird to escape that ruin which is coming upon them. *y*ea, if they had wings they should not escape, for the Lord is resolved that the Cities of Moab shall be all brought to desolation, so as no inhabitants shall be left in them.

a These words seem like the words of the Prophet to the Chaldeans, inciting them to go on valiantly against the Moabites, calling it the work of the Lord, which he would have done, and to which he had called them. b There is a time to withhold our hands from shedding blood, and that is always when we have not a special Authority, and call from God to it; and there is a time when God will curse those that do so withhold their hands, that is, when God doth require the shedding of it.

11 ¶ Moab hath been at ease from his youth g, and he hath * settled on his lees h, and hath not been emptied from vessel to vessel, neither hath he gone into captivity i: therefore his taste remained in him, and his scent is not changed i.

g Moab hath been at ease from his youth g, and he hath * settled on his lees h, and hath not been emptied from vessel to vessel, neither hath he gone into captivity i: therefore his taste remained in him, and his scent is not changed i.

g The Moabites ever since they began to be a people, have been a quiet people, not exercised with Wars, and Enemies making inroads upon them. h Like to a cask of wine, that hath not been rack'd, but hath continued in the same state. i He follows the metaphor of Wine which is drawn out from Vessel to vessel, when it is drawn out of the Lees, it is expounded by the next words neither hath he gone into Captivity. j And this is the reason why they retain their old sins, Pride, Presumption, Luxury, and old wickednesses, as Wine which it remaineth in the Lees retains more its nature, strength, and colour, then when it is once rack'd.

12 Therefore behold, the dayes come, saith the LORD, that I will find unto him wanderers, that shall cause him to wander n, and shall empty his vessels, and break his bottles o.

n By the wanderers here mentioned, the Chaldeans are most certainly understood, who wandered from their own country to conquer other people, the word is variously translated, Vagabonds, Travellers, Removers, &c. who shall conquer Moabites, and carry them into captivity. o He had before compared the Moabites to Wine fetled upon the Lees, here he saith, that God would send those that should not only disturb and rack them, but ruin and destroy them.

13 And Moab shall be ashamed of Chemoh p, as the house of Israel was ashamed of * Bethel their confidence q.

p It is a natural, or a penal shame which is here spoken of, we are naturally ashamed when we have repented a great confidence in, and made great boasts of a thing, which when it comes to be tried, prove of no use, but mischievous to us. Chemoh was their great Idol, in which the Moabites had great confidence, and of which they boasted, the Prophet tells them they should be ashamed of this Idol, or for this Idol; q as the Israelites, that is the Ten Tribes were ashamed of, or for the golden Calves, which Jeroboam set up at Dan and Bethel which were the cause of ruin to those Tribes. Confidence in anything but in God alone in a time of danger will bring both natural and penal shame.

r How can ye justify what you say, or why say you, or to what purpose do you brag of your valor.

15 Moab is spoiled s, and gone up out of her cities t, and the chosen young men are gone down to the slaughter u, saith the king whose name is the LORD of hosts v.

s Your Country will be wasted, and spoiled. t The Inhabitants of it shall be all driven out of their Cities. u The Moab is, her cities, or her u is gone up. So the fence may be Moab and her Cities are all spoiled, and u (that is) the Enemy is gone up. v And the strong, and mighty men the boasted of, and gloried in, are gone to the Battle, as oxen or they to a slaughter-house. w I do not speak this of my self, I cannot of my self tell things that shall come to pass hereafter, but the words I say are the words of him who is the Lord of all the Armies of Heaven and Earth, who both knoweth what shall be, and is able to effect what he saith.

16 The calamity of Moab is near to come, and his affliction hasteth fast x.
x Yisrahel tells us this destruction came upon the Moabites five years after the siege of Jerusalem, but if it were longer we must consider that he who speaketh is that God to whom a thousand years are but as one day.

17 All ye that are about him bemoan him y, and all ye that know his name, say, How is the strong staff broken, and the beautiful rod z.

y The Prophet having spoken of Moab calamity, as already come upon her, or at least very near, calls to her Friends to come and console with her, as is usually done in case of some calamity befallen to a friend. z All ye that know how terrible Moab hath been to others and how famous for mighty and strong men. Say, how is this potent Nation, and this People that hath been such a Rod against others, and hath ruled over so many others, broken; for both a Staff and a rod are as well Ensigns of Power and Government, as instruments to punish offenders.

18 Thou daughter that dost inhabit Dibon, come down from thy glory a, and be in thirst b: for the spoiler of Moab shall come upon thee c, and he shall destroy thy strong holds.

a Of this Dibon we read, Nam. 21. 30. It was a land for Israel, Nam. 32. 2. both Dibon and Arabah were built by the children of Isaac to whom lot it fell, Gen. 24. 62 also to the Ruhalim in part, Job. 13. 17. It should seem that the Moabites were now come into the possession of it, either by conquest, or upon the Affians taking the Ten Tribes. b It was a place well watered (otherwise it had not been fit for Cattle) God searcheth that the thirst is thirst, that is driven into some dry, barren Countries. c For the King of Babylon whom God had appointed to spoil all Moab, shall destroy thee also, and thy strong holds shall not secure thee.

19 O z inhabitant of Aroer d, stand by the way and spy, ask him that fleeth, and her that escapeth, and say, What is done e?

d Aroer was a City in the Lot of Gad and Reuben, Nam. 32. 34. In David's time it was in the hand of the Ammonites, 1 Sam. 32. 23. but in Isaiah's time, it belonged to Syria, Isa. 17. 2. and here it is reckoned to the Moabites. e The Inhabitants of it are called to stand by the way, and seeing the Moabites flying, to ask what News? Others think that Aroer was at this time a City of the Ammonites and had called unto to see their Neighbours the Moabites fleeing before their Enemies.

20 Moab is confounded, for it is broken down: * howl and cry, tell ye it in Arnon, that Moab is spoiled f.

f Arnon was the name of a River, Nam. 21. 14. Deut. 2. 35. Job. 12. 1. It was the border of Moab whether Balaq went to meet Balaam, Nam. 22. 35. probably the adjacent Country or City might take its name from the River.

21 And judgment is come upon the plain country; upon Holon, and upon Jahazah, and upon Mephaath.

22 And upon Dibon, and upon Nebo, and upon Beth-diblat-ham.

23 And upon Kiriat-ham, and upon Beth-gamul, and upon Beth-meon.

24 And upon Kerioth, and upon Bozrah, and upon all the cities of the land of Moab, far or near g.

g God threatneth Vengeance to come upon all Moab, which had great Isis, Nam. 31. 12, and 33. 48. For the names of these Cities, and those mentioned Isa. 22. 23. 24. Some of them we read of in other places of Holy Writ. Others we read not of neither is it material for us to know their Situations, they are not at this day to be known by their old names, they are all here mentioned as Cities at this time belonging to the Moabites, to whom this Vengeance is threatned, and not to them only, but to all other Cities of the Land of Moab wherever situate.

25 The horn of Moab is cut off, and his arm is broken, saith the LORD h.

h That is the beauty and the strength of Moab. So these two terms often signify in Holy Writ, the horn being much the Beauty of some Beasts, and that part of their Bodies from which they both do injury to others, and defend themselves from the assaults of others. God here declares, that Moab should both lose its glory and beauty, and also all the power it formerly had to defend it self, or offend others.

26 * Make ye him drunken i: for he magnified himself against the LORD k: Moab also shall lie wallow in his vomit, and he also shall be in derision l.

i Either make ye her to stagger like a drunken man (the cause being put for the effect) or fill her with the intoxicating Wine Cup of Gods vengeance, with the effects of Gods wrath. k Because of her Pride, and exalting her self against the Lord, as if she had been stronger than he and so out of the reach of Gods power. l As drunken men vomit, and stagger, and fall, and wallow in their vomit, so let the Moabites fall by the sword, wallow in their blood, and like drunken men be mockt at, and had in derision by all those who see what their Vains come to, and what Vengeance they have pulled upon themselves.

27 For * was not Israel a derision to thee m? was he found among thieves n? for since thou spakest of him, || thou skippest for joy o.

m It is an ill thing to mock at the miseries of others especially such as we have some relation to, the Moabites were descended from Lot who was nearly related to Abraham the father of the Israel, and ought not to have been mockt at, or to have pited their miseries. n When they were carried into Captivity by Sennacherib, or at Judah they were carried by the King of Babylon. God threatneth the Ammonites, Ezekiel. 25. 6, and the Edomites by Obadiah for the same misdemeanour. o Why didst thou deal by Israel as men deal by thieves, when they are brought to shame? ought not he to have been by thee accounted in a better rank than that of thieves? p Instead of compassionating the Israel in their Calamity, thou wast joyful of them but with joy and triumph. Others make a quite effect of them, say, For thou words against him, thou thyself shalt be derided, but the learned Author of the English Annotations observes well, that the word in the form here used will not, so well bear it, though the Verb doth in its primary sense signify to wonder.

28 O ye that dwell in Moab, leave the cities, and dwell in the rock q, and be like the dove that maketh her nests in the sides of the holes mouth g.

g Still the Prophet speaks of the Moabites, as a people whose Annies were routed and calls to them to leave their houses in Cities, not promising themselves any security, either to or from their houses, or from the Walls of their Cities, but to get them to Rocks, which are naturally fortified and from whence (if from any place) security might be promised. q and he commands to them the natural security of a Cave, which being a feeble Creature, and not able to encounter an Armed or Engin, makes her self a nest in the sides of some rock where she may be at safety.

r There is a passage, Isa. 16. 6 &c. concerning Moab, very little differing from this. Isaiah lived some years before this Prophecy who yet complained of them for the same sins, to as they were not at all reformed. God saith he had heard of their Pride and Arrogancy, a Vice which commonly attendeth ease and prosperity, and is exceeding odious in the sight of God, as a wicked man is often in Scripture set out under the notion of a proud man.

30 I know his wrath, saith the LORD s, but || he shall not be to t, || his lies shall not be effect u.

s I know his Rage, either against Israel, or other people, t but he shall never execute it, or bring to pass what he thinks to do. u There is no trusting to what he saith, his boastings and his confidence are but lies, and shall never effect his designs.

31 Therefore will I howl for Moab, and I will cry out for all Moab, mine heart shall mourn for the men of Kir-herez w.

w Though wicked men rejoice, and Triumph in the ruin of good men, yet their Charity suffereth them not to do the like; but ingageth them to mourn for them in the day of their Affliction. x Isaiah declares his compassion toward these Moabites, though they deserved the Israel when they were carried into Captivity. May he mourn upon the prospect of their Misery as some distance when the sight of the Israel present Calamity would not affect the Moabites with any compassion at all, we find the like compassion in another Prophet Isaiah, chap. 16. 11. 12. 7, there it is called Kir-harez, which was a City of Moab as we read, 2 Kings. 3. 25.

32 O vine of Sibmah x, I will weep for thee with the weeping of Jazer y; thy plants are gone over the sea z, they reach even to the sea of Jazer a, the spoiler is slain upon thy summer fruits, and upon thy vintage.

x We read of this Vine of Sibmah also Isa. 16. 8. 9, both Sibmah, and Jahaz were places in the portion of Reuben, Jud. 15. 18. 19. Sibmah was doubtless a place famous in those days for Vines, and Vineyards. y This Jahaz or Jazer was as it should seem first taken, and carried into captivity, which caused a great Lamentation. The Prophet foretells such a weeping for Sibmah as was for Jazer. z By plants he means the Inhabitants of Sibmah, which he prophesieth should be carried into captivity over the dead Sea. a As an Aggravation of the Judgment that should come upon them, God by his Prophets tell them that the spoiler should come upon them in their Vintage and harvest time.

b The time of Harvest and Vintage being times when the Husbandmen were wont to reap the fruit of all their labours the preceding year, were times of great joy ordinarily, but the Prophet foretells them of a year when there should be no such rejoicing, for they should have no wine from the Vinepresses, there should be no shouting as used to be in the time of Harvest and of Vintage.

34 From the cry of Hebron even unto Elealeh, and even unto Jahaz have they uttered their voice, * from Zoar even unto Horonaim, an an heir of him shall be c: for the waters also of Nimrim shall be d desolate d.

c Hebron, and Elealeh, and Zoar, and Horonaim were all Cities of Moab who are here all threatned with ruin; with the Country about Ainim, when Ainim is mentioned nowhere in Scripture, but here, and in Isa. 15. 5, nor are interpreters well agreed, whether in this place be the name of a River, or a Lake, or a City. The fence is, the whole Country of Moab shall be destroyed, the Cry shall reach from one part of the Country to another either the cry of the inhabitants, or of their Enemies pursuing them with a great noise.

35 Moreover, I will cause to cease in Moab, saith the LORD, * him that offereth in the * high e.

LORD, that Bozrah shall become a desolation, a reproach, a wall, and a curse, and all the cities thereof shall be perpetual waives.
As men when they would confirm their promise or threatening to do any thing, and add Oath to it, do so God, who, having no greater to swear by, swears by himself, chap. 44. 25, that which God would here confirm was his threatening against Edom, expressed under the notion of Bozrah, (a part for the whole) Bozrah being its principal City, Isaiah 63. 1. as well as a City of Edom, (as we found in the foregoing chapter) and that which he threatened it with was not being a reproach, a wall, and a curse for a time, but for ever.

14. * I have heard a rumour from the LORD p, and an ambassador is sent unto the heathen q, saying, Gather ye together, and come against her, and rise to the battle r.

* Obadiah begins his prophecy much with such words. God hath revealed his will to me in a vision, or a dream. q He speaks after the manner of earthly Princes, who use to send their Embassadors to other Princes to declare their minds to them. The meaning is God hath made such impressions upon other Nations, he hath inclined them, or set them on work, to get together in Armies to come against Edom in Battle.

15 For lo, I will make thee small amongst the heathen, and despised among men f.

* Obadiah in his prophecy against Edom, ver. 2. hath much the same words importing that God would bring the Edomites very low, and make them very contemptible.

16 Thy terriblest hath deceived thee, and the pride of thy heart, O thou that dwellest in the clefts of the rock u, that holdest the height of the hill; though thou shouldst make thy nest as high as the eagle, I will bring thee down from thence, saith the LORD w.

* Obadiah in his Prophecy against Edom useth much the same expressions, ver. 3. a. the word that is here used being of the number of those which are but once found in Scripture hath given Interpreters liberty to abound in their senses of it; some translating it Arrogance, some, thine Idols, but the best Interpretation is that it is their terriblest, or those things by which they thought themselves so secure, that others were all afraid of them, deceived them, making them to conclude themselves secure, and out of danger. To which is also added the pride of the heart. u The Country of Edom being mountainous they are said to dwell in the clefts of the rocks, that is in places impregnable, and inaccessible as they thought in the heights of the hills. w But the Lord lets them know no place was to his power inaccessible or impregnable, for if they dwell as high as the Eagle which the Scripture tells us Job 39. 27. Maketh her nest on high, and dwelleth and abideth upon the rock, upon the crag of the rock, yet he would bring them down.

* The like is said of Babylon, chap. 50. 12. it appears from 1 Kings 9. 8. that it was a kind of Proverbial expression, when they would express a great desolation, or great plagues, that those who passed by such a place, should be astonished, and hiss at it.

18 * As in the overthrow of Sodom and Gomorrah and the neighbour cities thereof, saith the LORD: no man shall abide there, neither shall a son of man dwell in it y.

* Sodom and Gomorrah, and the Neighbour Cities were utterly destroyed, and therefore are set down both here and chap. 50. 40. as patterns of an utter ruin and desolation.

19 * Behold, he shall come up like a lion from the sea * swelling of Jordan, against the habitation of the strong z; but I will suddenly make him run away from her a, and who is a chosen man that I may appoint over her b? for * who is like me, and who will I? * appoint me the time? and who is that I heareth that will stand before me d?

* This verse is very variously interpreted, some by me understand the Jews, some understand Nebuchadnezzar, some understand the Edomites, I think the last is most probable to be here meant, because of the next words. The Edomites shall come out against the Caldeans, like a Lion, as Lions lurking about Jordan when it is overflowed, come out to seize their prey. a These words are variously understood, those who by it in the former part of the verse understand Nebuchadnezzar, interpret the running here mentioned, of his running over the whole Country of Edom, to me it is apparently much more probable sense to interpret it of the Edomites running away from Nebuchadnezzar out of their own Country, which seems to be understood by us, all that makes a difficulty is the particle from, which yet makes the sense good enough, if by her we understand the Edomites own Land. In the Hebrew it is I will break them, or I will quiet them, and make them to run. b Whom shall I set over Edom? into whose hands shall I give that Country that he may rule over it? c Who can do whatsoever I please. d And who will appoint me a time to plead with men, to Job 9. 10. a time to fight. d What is that King or Potentate of the Earth that will stand before me?

20 Therefore hear the counsel of the LORD, that he hath taken against Edom, and his purposes that he hath purposed against the inhabitants of Teman e: Surely the least of the flock shall draw them out f, surely, he shall make their habitations desolate with them g.

* Edom and Teman in this verse signify both the same thing, God calls to men to hear the resolutions he had taken up against the Edomites, resolutions as wise and steady as if they had been taken upon the wisest counsels, and deliberation. f God is resolved to drive out the Edomites, and the least of Nebuchadnezzar's Forces shall drag them out of their lurking places, and God will make the place where they dwell a desolation.

21 The earth is moved at the noise of their fall: at the cry, the noise thereof was heard in the <sup>† Heb. way</sup> Red-Sea h.

* That is, the ruin of the Edomites shall be so great, that all nations round about it shall be affected at the noise of their fall and though the Red-Sea, or the weedy Sea be at a great distance from them, yet their noise shall reach thither.

22 Behold, * he shall come up and sit as the eagle, and spread his wings over Bozrah i: and at that day shall the heart of the mighty men of Edom be as the heart of a woman in her pangs j:

* See the Notes on chap. 48. 40. 41, where the very same thing, and under the same phrases, was spoken against Edom. That which is threatened is the Enemies coming twofold upon the Edomites and prevailing upon them, and the fear that should surprise them which should make their hearts fail as the heart of a woman that hath an hard labour.

23 ¶ Concerning Damascus k, Hamath is confounded, and Arpad l: for they have heard evil tidings, they are so faint-hearted, there is sorrow m on the sea, it cannot be quiet n.

* The Prophet comes to denounce the judgments of God against Syria, another nation of the Gentiles. Damascus was the head City of Syria, Isa. 17. 3. or Aram (as in the Heb.) because it was a Country inhabited by the posterity of Aram one of the sons of Sem, part of it lay betwixt Babylon and Arabia, and was called Hamathitis, lying betwixt the two Rivers of Tigris and Euphrates. Ladan and Neaman were of this Country. David had War with them 2 Sam. 8. 9. and 10. 18. So had David 1 Kings 20. 20. and Joram 2 Kings 8. 28. And Ahaz Jai. 7. 4. After Gods long patience with them he threatens them with ruin, as by Jeremiah in this place, so by Amos 1. 5. Damascus being the head City of this Country is sometimes put (as here) for the whole Country. 1 Hamath and Arpad were two Cities also of Syria, 2 Kings 18. 34. n The Prophet foretells that they also should hear of ill news, an Enemy that is coming against them, and that they should be melted through fear, and their courage should fail them, they should be as troubled as the Seas in a storm, or their inhabitants that lived near to the Sea should be troubled.

24 n Damascus is waxed feeble, and turneth her self to flee o, and fear hath seized on her p: * angulish and forrowes have taken her, as a woman in travail q.

* Syria whose head is Damascus hath lost her old courage and valour i it was wont to be a formidable Country to its Neighbours. r But now they see before their Enemies. s They are seized, and overpowered by their own fears. q Great sorrows are ordinarily in Scripture expressed by the similitude of a woman in travail, we have met with it often in this Prophecy, chap. 6. 24. and 22. 23. to Psalm 48. 6. Misch 4. 9.

* It is called the City of praise, because it was a City so much praised, a City of great renown, which the Prophet seeing like to be destroyed, lamenteth either in the person of the King of Syria, or of the Syrian Inhabitants, wondering that the conquerors should not spare so famous and renowned a City in which so many did rejoice.

26 * Therefore her young men shall fall in her streets, and all the men of war shall be cut off in that day, saith the LORD of hosts f.

* The Hebrew particles are not always well rendered in our Translation, and our Learned English Amos 27 hath rightly observed this place, as one instance, for (27) cannot be here an Illative, but is much better translated for as a note of alteration. God threatens the Syrians with a certain ruin, and desolation.

27 And I will kindle a fire in the wall of Damascus u, and it shall consume the palaces of Ben-hadad v.

* I will bring a judgment that shall burn in Damascus like a consuming Fire, and it shall reach to the Royal seat of Ben-hadad, either that which was the Royal seat of Ben-hadad, 2 Kings 8. 7. or else Ben-hadad, (signifying the son of Hadad) (which was their Lord) was the common name of all the Kings of Syria, as Pharaoh was to the Kings of Egypt, Amos 1. 4.

28 ¶ Concerning Kedar w, and concerning the kingdoms of Hazer x, which Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon shall smite, thus saith the LORD y, Arise ye, go up to Kedar, and spoil the men of the east z.

* Kedar, Gen. 25. 13. was one of the Sons of Ishmael whose posterity inhabited part of Arabia Petrea, See Isa. 61. 13. 17. we read of it Psalm 120. 5. Cant. 1. 5. Ezek. 37. 21. x We read of Hazer, Job. 11. 17. 18. 10. it was the head City to several Kingdoms in Syria's time. y Arise ye King of it in the times of Nebuchadnezzar. z The Prophet foretells that Nebuchadnezzar should also conquer these Kingdoms. u And faith he heard the Lord call to Nebuchadnezzar to go up against them.

29 Their tents and their flocks shall they take away a, they shall take to themselves their curtains and all their vessels, and their camels b, and they shall cry unto them, Fear u on every side c.

* That is, the Chaldeans shall take away the Kedarites Tents, for they being a people whose Carvel, had no fixed houses but Tents which were moveable habitations, covered with skins of Beasts. b And the curtains which they used to draw before those Tents, and served them as sides, as gable ends of houses serve us, and all the furniture of their Tents or Tabernacles, and their Carvel, and either their Enemies shall frighten them, with terrible noises and outcries, or they should themselves cry out that they were surrounded with objects of fear.

30 ¶ Flee, † get you far off, dwell deep, O ye inhabitants of Hazer, saith the LORD d; for Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon hath taken counsel against you, and hath conceived a purpose against you e.

* The words seem to be the Prophets words of advice to this people, to make all the halt they could away, and to secure themselves as well as they could because the King of Babylon had certainly been taking counsel against them, and was resolved to disturb them. See ver. 8. where the like counsel is given to the Edomites.

31 Arise, get you up to the wealthy nation that dwelleth without care, saith the LORD, which have neither gates nor bars, which dwell alone f.

* The supposed result of Nebuchadnezzar's counsels, giving chase to his Armies to march against the Kedarites, which lived at ease and quiet; and took no care. That had no Cities, nor Gates, nor Bars to keep their Enemies out, nor were near any Neighbours that could assist them, nor very near to one another living in Tents, so might easily be overrun, and conquered, and made a prey to Enemies.

32 And their Camels shall be a booty, and the multitude of their cattle a spoil g, and I will scatter into all winds * them that are in the utmost corners, and I will bring their calamity, from all sides thereof, saith the LORD h.

* The words found like a part of the King of Babylon's supposed speech inciting his Soldiers from the booty they should get, which should be a great multitude of Camels and other Cattle. b The latter words are the words of the Prophet in the name of the Lord threatening ruin to these Kedarites and Hazerites, though they lived in corners, and might upon that account think themselves secure, God faith, he would fetch them out of their utmost corners, and bring calamity from all parts upon them.

33 And Hazer * shall be a dwelling for dragons, and a desolation for ever; there shall no man abide there, nor any son of man dwell in it i.

* That is, the whole Country (subject to the King of Hazer, shall be desolate, See Isa. 34. 13. chap. 5. 11.

34 ¶ The word of the LORD, that came to Jeremiah the prophet against * Elam, in the beginning of the reign of Zedekiah king of Judah saying k.

* Elam was the son of Sem, Gen. 10. 22. his posterity were called Elamites, these were the Persians as is most probable, though some judge that the Persians were at too great a distance from the Jews to be the people meant here, but we read of no other Elam in Scripture but in Psalm 128. 8. 2. and though they were indeed at a great distance, yet it is probable that Nebuchadnezzar having conquered the Assyrians might also make those Inroads into Persia, the Emperor of which afterward conquered Babylon. This Prophecy being in the first year of Zedekiah must needs be long before the thing was done, for it was ten years before the King of Babylon took Babylon.

35 Thus saith the LORD of hosts, Behold, I will break the bow of Elam, the chief of their might l.

* All those Eastern people were famous for the use of the bow, the Elamites in special, Isaiah 22. 6. those bows were the Elam of their offensive armour, though by the use of their bows, they may also be meant their most mighty and strong Warriors. This Prophecy is probably judged to be fulfilled when the Persians made a desolation from the King of the Medes who was son in Law to Nebuchadnezzar. Others think that this Prophecy was accomplished by Alexander the Emperor of Greece, or rather by his Successors.

36 And upon Elam I will bring the four winds, from the four quarters of heaven, and will scatter them towards all those winds; and there shall be no nation whither the outcasts of Elam shall not come m.

* The Prophet threatens the destruction of the Persians, by a Confederacy of Enemies, suppose Babylonians, Medes, &c. which should assault them on all sides, as when the wind blows at the same time from all quarters, which causeth a whirlwind which driveth the dust every way higher, and thither, so he faith the Persians should be scattered into all nations.

37 For I will cause Elam to be dismayed before their enemies, and before them that seek their life: and I will bring evil upon them, even my fierce anger, saith the LORD, and I will send the sword after them, till I have consumed them n.

* We meet with the like threatenings, ver. 24. 29. as Isaiah, and as to their destruction we have often met with the like threatenings.

38 And I will set my throne in Elam o, and will destroy from thence the king and the princes, saith the LORD p.

* God here calls the throne of Nebuchadnezzar, or Cyrus, or Alexander (who ever he was that conquered the Persians) his throne. q Because God gave it the Conqueror. r O, because God shewed himself the Lord of hosts, or the Lord of the whole Earth, by disposing the Kingdom of Persia as his pleasure. f He doth not threaten the destruction of the whole Nation, but the making of it all Tributary, so as it should have no Kings nor Princes of its own.

39 ¶ But it shall come to pass in the latter days, that I will bring again the captivity of Elam, saith the LORD q.

* We had the like promise as to Mosh, chap. 48. 47. and as to Amos ver. 6. the same latter days either signify after many days, or in the time of the Messiah. In the former sense it may refer to Cyrus, who conquered Persia. In the latter sense it is referred to the spiritual liberty which some of those poor heathens were brought into by the Gospel, we read Acts 2. 6. that some of these Elamites were at Antioch, and were some of those converted to Christ.

C H A P. L.
THE word that the LORD spake * against Babylon, and against the land of the Chaldeans † by Jeremiah the prophet a, † Heb. by the hand of Jeremiah.

* The Prophet having from the 15th. chapter been denouncing the judgments of God against the other Gentiles, the Egyptians, Moabites, Philistines, Ammonites, Edomites, Syrians, Kedarites, Hazerites, Elamites, or Persians (the most of which had been Enemies to the Jews) in the two chapters he denounces Gods judgments against the Chaldeans and Babylonians. They were to execute Gods vengeance all the rest, and therefore are themselves threatened in the last place to be destroyed by the Medes, the Prophets intention is, mixed with many gracious promises to the Jews.

2 Declare ye among the nations, and publish, and let up a standard, publish, and conceal not b; say, Babylon is taken, * Bel is confounded c, Merodach is broken in pieces, her idols are confounded, her images are broken in pieces d.

* The Prophet calls to men to publish it amongst other Nations, and to let up a Standard to make some signal, to gather all people together to hear what he had to say from God against Babylon, which had been an instrument of great mischief unto those people that lived about them, to whom it would therefore be † Heb. y. 35. The violence done to me, and to my flesh, be upon Babylon, shall the inhabitant of Zion say; and my blood upon the inhabitants of Chaldea, shall Jerusalem say.

The words are either a Prayer, or a prediction of Gods vengeance upon Babylon, in Psalm 137. 1. God hath laid vengeance is his and he will repay it. The Church of the Jews here commits its cause to God, and prayeth him to execute vengeance for her. How far it is lawful for us to pray against our Enemies, we have heard once and again.

36 Therefore thus saith the LORD, Behold, I will plead thy cause, and take vengeance for thee, 4, and I will dry up her sea, and make her springs dry.

d Men had need take heed how they give cause of appeals to God against them, especially the appeals of such as are a people that have a Covenant relation to God. God in those cases ordinarily sheweth himself a just Judge, and gives a speedy judgment in such cases. Behold faith God I will plead thy cause, not with words, but actually with my judicial dispensations, therefore it is expounded by taking vengeance. e The vengeance which God threatneth is expressed metaphorically under the notion of drying up her Sea, and making her Springs dry, which signifies the depriving her of all necessities, not only of the abundance of her Men, Riches, Treasures, but of her Springs. Thus I had rather expound it, then as referring to the particular stratagem by which Cyrus took Babylon, viz. By drying up in some measure the River Euphrates, that is turning it into other Channels.

37 And Babylon shall become heaps of, a dwelling place for dragons, an astonishment and an hissing without an inhabitant.

d Heaps of Rubbish. e See the Notes on chap. 50. 39. 40, where the true thing was said.

m It is therein wherein this is to be understood of the Medes, making horrible roarings and noises when they took Babylon: Or, of the Babylonians, upon the taking of their City (as is usual) made horrid outcries as being a people quite undone, some think it referreth to the drunken noises of the Babylonians at their Festival, during the celebration of which we are told their City was taken, but to this one would think the comparison of Lions whelps (which ordinarily yell for want of vituals, or for some mischief done them, not when their bellies are full) should not so well agree.

39 In their heat I will make them feasts, and I will make them drunken, that they may rejoice, and sleep a perpetual sleep, and not awake, saith the LORD.

n When they shall grow hot with Wine, I will put or give, or make them a Feast of another nature. Interpreters judge that the Prophet referreth to the Feast made by Balthazar, Dan. 5. 1. To a thousand of his Lords, when he and his Wives, and Concubines drank Wine in the vessels belonging to the Temple, during which Feast the City was taken. o So they were made drunk with the wine cup of Gods fury, because the Lord had designed them to utter ruin, and destruction, that as men filled with Wine are merry, and flourish, and then fall asleep; so the Chaldeans being drunk with the Wine of the Lords wrath, while they were merry with their Cups of Wine might fall into such a sleep as they should never awake out of.

40 I will bring them down like lambs to the slaughter, like rams with he goats.

p That is, they shall be destroyed before they are aware of it.

41 How is Shephar taken? and how is the praise of the whole earth surprized? how is Babylon become an astonishment among the nations?

q We meet with this term Shephar only here, and chapter 25. both places leave it doubtful whether it be to be taken for an idol which they called by the name of Shephar: or a name given to the City of Babylon which worshipped that idol, to the honour of which the Babylonians kept a yearly Festival for several days. In the time of which Festival they say it was that Cyrus took the City of Babylon. r Babylon that was so famous over all the World for her splendour, f And fo is interpreted in the next words, where Babylon for the punishment brought upon it is said to be an astonishment to all Nations, which makes it probable that Babylon is what was called Shephar, by the doubling of a letter, because the worshipped Shephar.

42 The sea is come up upon Babylon: she is covered with the multitude of the waves thereof.

t A multitude of Enemies, that are like the Sea in which there is a multitude of waters or that will over-run them as the Sea overfloweth the shore, or any land into which it once breaketh.

43 Her cities are a desolation, a dry land, and a wilderness, a land wherein no man dwelleth, neither doth any son of man pass thereby.

u See chap. 2. 6. and 9. 12. the words are all of them descriptive of an utter desolation, that should not only be the fate of Babylon the head City, but of all the inferior Cities that were as daughters to that mother City.

44 And I will punish Bel in Babylon, and I will bring forth out of his mouth that which he hath swallowed up, and the nations shall not flow together any more unto him, yea the wall of Babylon shall fall.

v Bel was the principal Babylonian idol, of which fee what is noted chap. 50. 2. All the Vessels of the Temple a Chron. 35. 7. and what ever gifts the Babylonians had presented to him. y It was the custom of other Nations to lend presents to the Gods of those Nations whom they were in subjection to, or whom they would appease; whence it is that we read the Philistines when they had the Ark would not lend it home without a present, 1 Sam. 6. 11. God by his Prophet foretelleth that the time should come when the Nations should come, not more to Babylon, either to pay an homage to their chief idol, nor yet to bring offerings unto him. z And the City of Babylon should be also ruined.

45 My people, go ye out of the midst of her, and deliver ye every man his soul from the fierce anger of the LORD.

a These words are an exhortation to the Jews to be willing upon the first proclamation of Liberty by Cyrus, to go out of Babylon, notwithstanding the plainness of the place, and that now their flakes had been pitched there many years because of the ruin which should most certainly come on that place.

46 And left your hearts faint, and ye fear for the rumour that shall be heard in the land b, a rumour shall both come one year, and after that in another year shall come a rumour, and violence in the land, ruler against ruler.

b And left they should be afflicted by the Succession of Evil years after year that should come upon Babylon. Some think it were better translated, And let us not have faint. Though you should hear of Cyrus his coming year after year, yet faint not (for they say Cyrus was one year preparing, and that he spent the second year in passing through Assyria, so as he should not at Babylon till the third year) no not though you should see or hear of successive troubles, and a great deal of violence in the land by the opposition of great Princes one to another, for none of them shall do you any harm, but this doth not so well fate to the former verse, where they are bidden to make haste out, and to save their own lives, I do therefore prefer the sense of our interpreters and their Translation of it, as making another Argument to persuade them to make haste out, because they would by reason of the successive evils year after year coming upon the Babylonians live there very troublesome and uneasy lives.

47 Therefore behold, the days come, that I will do judgment upon the graven images of Babylon, and her whole land shall be confounded, c, and all her slain shall fall in the midst of her.

c I will do, that is, I will execute judgment upon the Idols of Babylon, and the whole land of Chaldea shall be confounded, when they shall see that their Idols will do them no more service. d Some in stead of his slain would have it read his destroyers (for the City was taken while Balthazar and his whole court were Revelling) but the learned Author of the English Annotations tells us the word will not bear it.

48 Then shall the heaven, and the earth, and all that is therein fall sing for Babylon, f, for the spoilers shall come unto her from the north, saith the LORD.

e All the Creatures in Heaven and Earth shall rejoice at the Vengeance which God shall take upon Babylon, which had been the destroyer of so many of their People. f The Median Soldiers are those here called spoilers from the North.

49 || As Babylon hath caused the slain of Israel to fall, so at Babylon shall fall the slain of all the earth g.

g The words in the Hebrew have some difficulty which is not obvious to those not acquainted with that Language, but hath given occasion to Interpreters to vary in their particular Translations of it, but they mostly agree in the general sense, viz. that those words are given as a reason why the whole earth should so much rejoice in the ruin of Babylon, because Babylon had caused Israel to fall, the latter term all the slain must be understood in a restrained sense, for that early the Chaldeans coming up from all parts of Chaldea to help Jehoiachin should be slain there, as by the means of Babylon the Medians were slain that came up from all parts of Judaea to help Jehoiachin.

50 Ye that have escaped the sword, go away, stand not still b: remember the LORD afar off z, and let Jerusalem come into your mind k.

h It is hard to resolve whether the Prophet here speaks to the Chaldeans or the Medes or the Jews, though most understand it of the Jews whom God would have leave Babylon as soon as they should have a liberty proclaimed. i And to remember where they came in to Judaea the great things both of Justice toward the Chaldeans, and Mercy toward them, which God had done. k And keep Jerusalem in their mind, as the place where they were to worship God according to his direction, and for which God had so wrought.

51 We are confounded, because we have heard reproach, h, shame hath covered our faces: for strangers are come into the sanctuaries of the LORDS house m.

l The words of this verse seem to prove that the Jews were the Persons intended in the former verse whom God would have to go away, and not to stand still: for it is out of doubt, that it is of them the Prophet here speaks, and whom the Prophet brings in here, saying, we are confounded, that is, shamed (as it is expounded in the next words) to hear the Enemies reproaching us, for our God or for our Religion Psalm 137. 7. And in Isaiah Pagani that were strangers to the Commonwealth of Israel, who Isaiah 1. 4. might not come near the Tabernacle of the LORD, were come, and that not to worship, but to plunder and rifle in the Sanctuaries of the LORD, even into the Court of the Priests and of the Levites, and into the most holy Place, those whole very presence in these places had been a pollution of them.

52 Wherefore behold, the dayes come, saith the LORD, that I will do judgment upon her graven images, and through all her land, the wounded shall groan n.

o For which complaints of my people, or rather for which pollution of my Holy Place, I will be revenged upon their Graven Images, and not only upon their Idols, but upon the Worshipers of them, and cause a groaning of wounded men over all the country of the Chaldeans, I will cause them to know that their Idols are not able to protect them from my Power and Justice.

53 Though Babylon should mount up to heaven, and though she should fortifie the height of her strength, yet from me shall spoilers come unto her, saith the LORD.

p We are very prone to measure things by the measures of our own Reason, and to judge of events which are to be the effects of Divine Power, by humane probabilities: therefore God is put to use many words to the same purpose: I have said the Jews saying in their hearts, How can these things be? Babylon hath impregnable Walls, two hundred foot high (so Historians report) and of a great breadth, and it hath very strong, and high Towers: God by his Prophet tells them, that if they could mount up as high as Heaven, if they could make their Towers much stronger than they were, yet the Spoilers were to come from him, and he could and would fend spoilers, who would pull down her Walls, and break down her Towers.

r To assure them that what God threatned should certainly be: he calls to the Jews to listen as if already there were a cry from Babylon, and a found of a great destruction from the land of the Chaldeans.

55 Because the LORD hath spoiled Babylon, and destroyed out of her the great voice, s, when her waves do roar, like great waters, a noise of their voice is uttered z.

t The sword is not so much the sword of the Medes as the sword of the LORD. u He who is to be looked at, as the spoiler of Babylon. v And hath made to cease in that City the noises caused from multitudes of people in it walking up and down, and trafficking together. s The noise of her Enemies that shall break in upon her shall be like the noise and roarings of the Sea, when it datheth upon the shore or upon some rocks. That shall be the only noise shall be heard in her, instead of the Noises wont there to be made from the multitude of people, or from Revelers.

x Little more is said here than was before, only the words hint the taking of Babylon by a surprize when the King, and the Inhabitants were not aware of it, which we had before alluded to, chap. 39. 40. m In this the Prophet faith, that God would act but as a just God, a God of vengeance, whose Gods people suffer wrong, and either cannot revenge themselves, or may not do it, being private Persons (to whom God hath given no power of the sword) if they can exercise Faith and Patience, they shall find God a God of Recompenses, that can and will requite their Enemies, and plead their cause.

57 And I will make drunk her princes, and her wile men, her captains and her rulers, and her mighty men, and they shall sleep a perpetual sleep, and not wake, saith the king, whose name is the LORD of hosts w.

y Drunken men are to fall asleep. The Prophet speaks here metaphorically. His meaning is, that the LORD would fill them with the wine of his fury mentioned chap. 25. 15. 16. and upon the drinking of it they should sleep their last sleep, the effects of it should be their utter ruin and destruction. Yet there seemeth to be an allusion to the posture the King of Babylon, and the Thousand of his Lords mentioned, David 5. 1. was in, when their City was taken (which was before David 5. 1. was in the time of the Festival of their Idols Sich) when they were drinking wine in the Bowles that were brought from the Temple at Jerusalem, chap. 39. 40. it is said, Is that any night was Balthazar the King of the Chaldeans slain.

58 Thus saith the LORD of hosts, The broad walls of Babylon shall be utterly broken, and her high gates shall be burnt with fire x, and the people shall labour in vain, and the folk in the fire, and they shall be weary y.

z Incredible things are told us by Historians of this great City. They say the compass of it was three score Miles about. That her Walls were in height two hundred foot, in breadth such as two Chariots might drive a breadth upon the top of them, that it had an hundred great Gates, many of them of Brass, God threatens the breaking down of these Walls, and the burning of these high Gates and Towers. y And that though the People should labour to quench this fire, or to rebuild this City, yet it should be all lost labour, and they should give over their enterprise, as being weary.

59 The word which Jeremiah the prophet commanded Seraiah, the son of Neriah, the son of Maaseiah z, when he went || with Zedekiah the king of Judah into Babylon d, in the fourth year of his reign b, and this Seraiah was a fourth prince m.

o Of this Seraiah we read no more than we have in this verse, though Chapter 36. 25. there be mention made of another Seraiah. a We no where read of any journey Zedekiah made into Babylon till he was carried a Prisoner thither, it is therefore probable that seraiah should be translated sera as the same particle is in other places, Genes. 4. 1. and 4. 4. it being not usual with great Princes to make visits one to another at such distances, though the Jews tell us a story of some such thing. b The expressing of this Circumstance of time, lets us know that this Prophecy was many years before Babylon was destroyed, for it was seven years before Jerusalem was taken: so as it must be above sixty years before it was fulfilled in the first degree. c The Hebrew word admits of various Interpretations some think that Seraiah was a place over which Seraiah had some Authority under Zedekiah, the time which Manasseh, 1 Chronicles 2. 6. Others think it was a name of Office, and signified Lord Chazeban, but the best Interpreters fee no reason to vary from our Translation, the sense of which is that he was a man of a moderate quick temper, that perswaded to peace.

60 So Jeremiah wrote in a book all the evil that should come upon Babylon, even all these words that are written against Babylon.

61 And Jeremiah said to Seraiah, When thou comest to Babylon, and shalt see, and shalt read all these words n.

* Not to the Children, nor possibly is it to be understood of a near private reading of them to himself, but to the Jews, that were in Babylon, acquainting them with what God had spoken against Babylon by the Prophet.

62 Then shalt thou say, O LORD, thou hast spoken against this place to cut it off; that none shall remain in it, neither man nor beast; that that it shall be † desolate for ever a.

 a Thou shalt testify that thou believest what thou hast read to be what shall most certainly come to pass, by speaking words to this Sense.

63 And it shall be when thou hast made an end of reading this book, that thou shalt bind a stone to it, and cast it into the midst of Euphrates.

64 And thou shalt say, Thus shall Babylon sink, and shall not rise from the evil that I will bring upon her p: and they shall be weary q. Thus far are the words of Jeremiah r.

p It hath been often said that Euphrates was that great River which ran by the Walls of Babylon: into this Seraiah is commanded by Jeremiah to throw this Roll of Prophecy against Babylon, symbolically to reach the Jews, that according to the Tenor of his Prophecy the time should come after some years, when Babylon should be destroyed never to rise again to any great view, or degree of splendor, no more than that Roll with the Stone tied to it should rise from the bottom of Euphrates. q Some read though they weary themselves, that is do what they can, or (as it is here) and they shall be weary with that weight of Judgment which shall be upon them: Either the words of Jeremy relating to Babylon reach thus far, or all the words of Jeremiah remaining on Sacred Record: It is to be thought that the next Chapter was rather penned by some other Holy Man, Or (which seemeth the best) the Prophetic words of Jeremiah, for the matter of the next Chapter is Historical, and the book of Lamentations is not Propheical; as to the main of it, though there be in it three or four Propheical passages, Lam. 4. 21, 22, &c.

C H A P. LII.

Zedekiah was one and twenty years old when he † began to reign, and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem; and his mothers name was Hamutal, the daughter of Jeremiah of Libnah.

2 And he did that which was evil in the eyes of the LORD according to all that Jehoiachim had done.

3 For through the anger of the LORD it came to pass in Jerusalem and Judah, till he had cast them out from his presence, that Zedekiah rebelled against the king of Babylon a.

It is generally thought that what we have in this Chapter was not penned by the Prophet Jeremiah, who it is not probable would have so largely repeated what he had related before chapter 35. and could not Historically relate, what happened after his time as some things did which are mentioned towards the end of the Chapter, from ver. 31. to the end. They therefore rather think it penned by some or other of those in Babylon, and put in here as a Preface to the Book of Lamentations. What we have in the three first verses is entirely taken out of 2 Kings 24. 18, 19, 20. See the Notes there.

a Here the wicked doings of Zedekiah, and particularly his Rebellion against the King of Babylon who had made him King, as 2 Kings 24. 17. and to whom he had given an Oath of Fealty, is ascribed to the wrath of the Lord; a God not punishing any such wickedness into his hands, but suffering him to go on in his iniquity, having a design to send Judah into captivity. Princes are often by God suffered to miscarry, for the sins of their people which should oblige us when we think we have cause to complain of the Errors of our Rulers, to consider whether we have not by some sinful courses provoked God, which hath made him leave our Rulers to go on in their iniquity in order to our Ruine and punishment.

4 ¶ And it came to pass in the ninth year of his reign, in the tenth month, in the tenth day of the month, that Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon came, he and all his army against Jerusalem, and pitched against it, and built forts against it round about.

5 So the city was besieged unto the eleventh year of king Zedekiah.

6 And in the fourth month, in the ninth day of the month, the famine was fore in the city, so that there was no bread for the people of the land.

7 Then the city was broken up, and all the men of war fled, and went forth out of the city by night, by the way of the gate, between the two walls, which was by the kings garden, (now the Chaldeans were by the city round about) and they went by the way of the plain.

8 ¶ But the army of the Chaldeans pursued after the king, and overtook Zedekiah in the plains of Jericho, and all his army was scattered from him.

9 Then they took the king, and carried him up unto the king of Babylon to Riblah, in the land of Hamath; where he gave judgment upon him.

10 And the king of Babylon slew the sons of Zedekiah before his eyes, he slew also all the princes of Judah in Riblah.

11 Then he † put out the eyes of Zedekiah, and the king of Babylon bound him in chains, and carried him to Babylon, and put him in † prison till the day of his death b.

b This History is found, 2 Kings 25. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, much in the same words. See the Annotations on that Chapter. Jeremiah also hath the substance of it, chap. 39. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 50, 51, 52, 53, 54, 55, 56, 57, 58, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 74, 75, 76, 77, 78, 79, 80, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 91, 92, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 98, 99, 100.

12 ¶ Now in the fifth month, in the tenth day of the month, (which was the nineteenth day of Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon) came Nebuzar-adan † † captain of the guard, which † served the king of Babylon, into Jerusalem.

13 And burnt the house of the LORD, and the kings house, and all the houses of Jerusalem, and all the houses of the great men burnt he with fire.

14 And all the army of the Chaldeans, that were with the captain of the guard brake down all the walls of Jerusalem, round about.

15 Then Nebuzar-adan the captain of the guard carried away captive certain of the poor of the people, and the residue of the people that remained in the city, and those that fell away, said to the king of Babylon, and the rest of the multitude.

c See the Notes on 2 Kings 25. from ver. 8. to the 13. where all this is related, only with a small difference as to the day of the month when Nebuzar-adan came to Jerusalem and burnt the Temple. In the Kings it is said he came the seventh day, here it is said he came the tenth day. See the solution of it in the Annotations on 2 Kings 25. probably the solution of it is in the solution of the seventh day, and not burnt the Temple till the Tenth. Much of it also is related by the taking of the City, returned with a part of the Army, burnt the Temple, the great Mens houses in the City and many other Houses and carried away divers prisoners, but left some of the poorer sort of the people to dress the Vineyards, and Till the Grounds, which is a thing very usual with Conquerors, for their own advantage, that their conquests may yield them some Revenue.

17 Also the pillars of bras that were in the house of the LORD, and the basins, and the brasen sea that was in the house of the LORD, the Chaldeans brake, and carried all the bras of them to Babylon c.

c The particular enumeration of the parts and Utensils of the Temple mentioned in this, and in the following Verses may be conceived to have been to justify the Prophecie of Jeremiah, chapter 25. 19. where there is a particular mention made of the pillars, the basins, and the Sea, that they should all with the residue of the Vessels of the Temple be carried into Babylon. Of these Pillars we read 1 Kings 7. 15. they were of bras eighteen cubits high, they were in the porch of the Temple, ver. 26. of the Bais we read there also largely from ver. 27. to ver. 38. they also were all of bras; and of the Sea from ver. 23. to ver. 27. These being all made of Bras were for convenience of carriage broken by the Chaldeans.

d These were called Pots, 2 Kings 25. 14. e Which were to remove the ashes from the Altar. f Some think that this word in this place were better translated Tongs, because he is speaking of Instruments of Bras, and that those Utensils are not here understood with which they snuffed the Lamps, because they were of Gold. g Or before, it is uncertain which is here intended there being in the Temple, both Bowls to drink in, and also basins to receive the blood of the Sacrifices. h The word is such as may signify Ladles, or Cups, or Dishes.

i These were called Pots, 2 Kings 25. 14. e Which were to remove the ashes from the Altar. f Some think that this word in this place were better translated Tongs, because he is speaking of Instruments of Bras, and that those Utensils are not here understood with which they snuffed the Lamps, because they were of Gold. g Or before, it is uncertain which is here intended there being in the Temple, both Bowls to drink in, and also basins to receive the blood of the Sacrifices. h The word is such as may signify Ladles, or Cups, or Dishes.

j Some of these Utensils were only of Bras; Others, were some of them Bras, some of Gold, the Captain of the guard carried away all, both those of Silver, and those of Gold, and those of Bras.

k Two the two pillars, one sea, and twelve brazen bulls, that were under the basins which king Solomon had made in the house of the LORD: † the bras of all these vessels was without weight i.

l Solomon made two Pillars, 1 Kings 7. 15. which ver. 21. he called Jachin and Boaz, ver. 23. a middle Sea, ten cubits broad, ver. 25. stood upon twelve Oxen, and had ten basins, ver. 25, 27. the making of all these took a vast quantity of Bras, as any one will easily judge, who 1 Kings 7. 27. readeth the dimensions of these things.

m And concerning the pillars, the height of one pillar was eighteen cubits, and a † fillet of twelve cubits did compass it, and the thickness thereof was four fingers: it was hollow k.

n This agreeeth with 1 Kings 7. 15. where what is called here a fillet, is called a vine, concerning the height of the Pillars we read the same, 2 Kings 25. 17-20. 2 Chron. 3. 15.

o And a chapter of bras was upon it, and the height of one chapter was five cubits with net-work, and pomegranates upon the chapters round about, all of bras, the second pillar also and the pomegranates were like to these.

q There are some differences as to the measure of these Chapters betwixt 2 Kings 25. 17. and this Text, here the height of them is made to be five Cubits, there it is said to be three Cubits, that which is said to relieve this difficulty is, that there were three parts in the Chapter, the fillet, the body, and the crown, and that this Text gives an account only of the body and the crown which were no more than three Cubits. The like difference there is betwixt this Text, and 1 Kings 7. 20. and 2 Chron. 4. 13. about the number of the Pomegranates. In the book of Kings it is said the Pomegranates were in number two hundred, 2 Chron. 4. 13. they are said to have been four hundred. The meaning is, There were an hundred in a row, in the two rows two hundred, in the four rows (two upon each pillar) four hundred. Some other difference also there is about the particular number of Pomegranates on a side, which are here said to be but ninety six, which make on the two sides but one hundred ninety two, on the four sides but three hundred eighty four, and comes up neither to the two hundred mentioned in the book of Kings, nor to the number of four hundred mentioned in the book of Chronicles. Vide also that in the Hieroglyphics, what we translate of a fillet, is word for word Windward, that is, toward the four Winds, so as the square Table was square, and also the basins, and there were twenty four on each side which made ninety six in all, to which four being added one at each corner this made an hundred. But there are mistakes a satisfaction in which is of no great concernment to us, unless to satisfy such as would make use of these little things to question the authority of the Scriptures, because of their seeming contradictions of how little concernment to ever they be as to our Faith and Holiness.

r ¶ And the captain of the guard took Seraiah the chief priest, and Zephaniah the second priest, and the three keepers of the † door m. † Heb. chief fold.

n See the notes on 2 Kings 25. 18. where we have the same words. This Seraiah was not he mentioned chapter 51. 39. but the son of Azariah, 1 Chron. 6. 14. By the second High Priest in case he were sick, &c. he that was sent by Zedekiah to the Prophet, chapter 21. 1. and whom Jeremiah chose by his Letters chapter 29. 25. for not setting Jeremiah in the Stocks. It is probable there were more keepers of the door, but the Captain of the Guard took only three of the Principals.

o He took also out of the city, an eunuch, which had the charge of the men of war, and seven men of them that † were near the kings † person which were found in the city, and the † principal scribe of the host, who muttered the † people of the land, and therefore men of the † people of the land, that were found in the midst of the city n.

p See 2 Kings 25. 19: only there is mention but of five men, here there is mention of seven, but probably two of them were of less note.

q So Nebuzar-adan the captain of the guard took them, and brought them to the king of Babylon to Riblah.

r And the king of Babylon smote them, and put them to death in Riblah, in the land of Hamah. Thus Judah was carried away captive out of his own land o.

o See 2 Kings 25. 20, 21.

s This † is the people whom Nebuchadrezzar carried away captive; in the seventh year, three thousand Jews and three and twenty p.

t That is in the time of Jehoiachin, 2 Kings 24. 12, 13, 14. here it is said to be in the seventh year, there in the eighth year, it might be in part of both. But there is a difference in the number of the captives which are here said to be 3023, and 2 Kings 24. 14, 16. seven thousand, or eight. It is thought by some that the number here mentioned was such as properly belonged to Judah, and the number mentioned 2 Kings 24. 14. were the number of the Captives of Judah and Benjamin.

u In the eighteenth year of Nebuchadrezzar he carried away captive from Jerusalem eight hundred thirty and two † persons q. † Heb. Souls.

q That was the year when the City was broken up.

r In the three and twentieth year of Nebuchadrezzar, Nebuzar-adan the captain of the guard carried away captive of the Jews seven hundred, forty and five persons: all the persons were four thousand and six hundred r.

s Of this we read nothing in holy Writ, some judge it to have been upon occasion of Hinnans killing Gedaliah, but that was four years after the taking of the City, and we are not certain what at this time brought again the Chaldean Forces.

t ¶ And it came to pass in the seven and thirtieth thirtieth year of the captivity of Jehoiachin king of Judah, in the twelfth month, in the five and twentieth day of the month, that Evil-merodach king of Babylon, in the first year of his reign, lifted up the head of Jehoiachin king of Judah, and brought him forth out of prison.

<sup>1</sup> Jehoiachin began his reign at eighteen years of age, 2 Kings 24. 8. and reigned but three Months, but that he yielded himself to the King of Babylon besieging him ver. 12. in the eighth year of the King of Babylon's Reign. He was a prisoner in Babylon (as appears by this Text) in which circumstances he continued (as appears from this Text) about thirty years; which was during the whole reign of Nbuchadnezzar, sometimes called Nbuchadrezzar, sometimes Nbuchad-negar, Evil-Merodach was son to this Nbuchadrezzar, who in the twelfth Month of that year, the 25th. day of the Month (with this Text, but 2 Kings 25. 27. it is the twenty fourth day, but that difference may easily be reconciled, the Penman of this part of Holy Writ, might count precisely from the day of his Fathers death, and the penman of the book of Kings from the time of the Coronation of Evil-Merodach, or when he openly shewed himself as King; or the one might reckon from the day that Evil-Merodach decreed the thing, the other from the day when he put in Execution). <sup>2</sup> Lifting up the head signifies in Scripture the altering of ones estate that is in Misery, Gen. 40. 20. which is all that is here meant, for his bringing him out of Prison is mentioned in the next words. The Reason of this favour is variously guessed at. The Reverend Author of our English Annotations saith, that Evil-Merodach, might be much of the same Age with him, and that Jehoiachin got into the Acquaintance of this Evil-Merodach, during his thirty years Captivity, who considering his long imprisonment, and that now there was no danger of his heading the Jews (whole City had now been destroyed twenty five years and upward) this Prince out of his Humanity might shew him this favour, nor are such things unusual in Nations upon their changes of Princes and Councilors.

<sup>4</sup> He treated him like a Prince with a respect becoming his former state, took care both for his Diet and Diet, for his Habits, that it should be decent, such as became a person of his quality, though a Captive: for his Diet, that he should have it in his Court, thereby learning others that Humanity which becometh all men to treat others with that are fallen under their power; that Decency, which becometh them as men, and as men whole circumstances have been better; doing to others, as we would they should do unto us. Thus Jehoiachin's Lot was different from that of his Father Jehoiachin, whose body was cast out as we heard before: as also from that of his Uncle Zedekiah, who did not only dye in Babylon, but died a prisoner, his Nephew Jehoiachin died there, and a Captive, but not in durance. These four last verses are found also in 2 Kings 25. 27, 28, 29, 30. and being found here in a Narrative form, related as a piece of History relating a thing done: not in a prophetic stile, are an Argument (as was said before) that this whole Chapter, is no part of the Prophecy of Jeremiah, and probably not wrote by him, for he beginning his Prophecy in the thirtieth year of Josiah, who reigned thirty one years, and continuing it three months during the reign of Jehoiachin, and eleven years during the reign of Jehoiachin, and three months during the reign of Jehoiachin (or Jehoiachin) and eleven years during the reign of Zedekiah; and Jehoiachin, outliving the reign of Zedekiah twenty five years, it must needs be fifty five years and an half after the word of the Lord first came to Jeremiah before the death of Jehoiachin; so as the Prophet if he lived to that time must be near an hundred years old, which is not probable. Here now endeth the History of the Kingdom of Judah: I shall only note the severe judgment of God upon this people, whose Kingdom was made up of the two Tribes of Judah and Benjamin, and half the Tribe of Manasseh. In the numbering of the persons belonging to these two Tribes, Num. 1. (counting half of the number of the tribe of Manasseh) we find One hundred twenty six thousand and six hundred, Num. 26. we find of them One hundred thirty eight thousand four hundred and fifty, here we find no more of them carried into Captivity, than four thousand and six hundred. From whence we may judge what a multitude of them were slain by the Sword or killed by the Famine and the Pestilence, though we make a great allowance for such as were left in the land to dress Vineyards, and to till the ground. It is a dreadful thing to fall into the hands of the living God, to work his messengers, dispute his words, and misfit his Precepts, still there is no remedy, as this People did, 2 Chron. 36. 16.

THE LAMENTATIONS OF JEREMIAH.

The ARGUMENT.

This Book in Greek, Latine, and English hath its name from the Subject-matter of it, which is Lamentation. So also amongst the Hebrew Writers, but in the Hebrew it hath its name from the first word of the Book, as also the five Books of Moses have. That it was wrote by Jeremiah none can reasonably question, because in the Hebrew it is filed The Book of Jeremiah.

There is little controversy about the Time, or Occasion of the Writing of it. That the Occasion was the miseries of the People, by reason of the Famine, Sword, and Captivity is evident to those that read any part of it; but whether they were those miseries which began with the death of Josiah, and held on till the City was taken, which was two and twenty or three and twenty years after. Or those only which began with the Siege and followed on many years, hath been doubted by some. That Jeremiah lamented for Josiah, and all the singing men, and singing women spake of Josiah in their Lamentations is plain from 2 Chron. 35. 25. But that these were the forms they used, or that they were composed upon that sad account appears not, and the miseries, which the Prophet mentioneth befall not the people in the time of Josiah, but during the Siege, more than twenty years after Josiah's death. Nor is there any thing which looks like a Lamentation for Josiah through the whole Book, unless chap. 4. 20. which (as we shall shew) may also be fairly interpreted of Zedekiah: Some think that Jeremiah began to write them upon the death of Josiah, and continued his stile to the time of the Captivity, setting down all the miseries the People suffered all along that time.

The Scope of the writing is to those whom it immediately concerned, it is plain and obvious, viz. to affect the People with those judgments which came upon them for their sins: as to us (upon whom the ends of the World are come) to mind us to take heed of their sins lest we be shewers in their plagues.

The book is made up of Complaints of their lamentable condition; Petitions unto God for Mercy, and Prophecies both of their better estate, and the ruine of their Enemies.

In the four first Chapters are several Alphabets of Letters beginning the several verses, each verse beginning with a new letter, and Chapter 3. every three verses begin with a new letter; the mystery of which we do not understand, nor possibly was there any mystery intended in it, only the Chapters were so composed for the advantage of our memories.

The whole Book lets us see from what an height of dignity, to what a depth of misery sin may bring Nations, how much sinner interested in God, and likewise directs us our duty in such states of Affliction and Misery if we would obtain Mercy.

CHAP. I.

How doth the city sit solitary, that was full of people? how is she become as a widow? how is she that was great among the nations, and princess among the provinces, how is she become tributary?

<sup>2</sup> The interrogative particle how is once expressed and twice more understood in this verse doth not so much inquire the cause or reason of the effect, as express admiration, or lamentation. The Prophet admires the miserable state of the City, which was full of People beyond the proportion of other Cities, and now was solitary, to think of people that scarce any could be seen in her streets. <sup>3</sup> She that had a King, or rather a God, that was an Husband to her, now was forsaken of God, her King taken from her, and the like a poor Widow. <sup>4</sup> She that was like a Princess amongst the Nations, that sometimes (as in David's time) had the Moabites, Ammonites, &c. tributaries to her was now a tributary her self.

hath none to comfort her, all her friends have dealt treacherously with her, they are become her enemies.

<sup>6</sup> All her hours are hours of sadness, she doth not only mourn in the day time but in the night also when she should rest, her cheeks are like the quail in the morning hanging full of drops, as if her head were a fountain of Waters, and her eyes rivers of tears. <sup>7</sup> In her prosperity she had a great many friends that sought, and courted her favour, with whom the male leagues and confederations (such were the Egyptians, Assyrians, &c.) but they were now to be far from helping the Jews that they helped their Enemies, and dealt treacherously with them becoming themselves Enemies instead of assistants to them.

more generally, keeping their servants beyond the year of Jubilee, when they ought to have let them at liberty, and that this was one cause apportioned from Jer. 34. 17. or if account of affliction, &c. he joined to the next words, the (emic) plain (Hebrew) and the (Hebrew) and, by reason of her low condition, and the state of servitude she is in, &c. Where the (that is the Jews) have neither any satisfaction nor quiet in their minds, nor are they by their Enemies suffered to be at quiet any where, b. Think that pushed them with all violence to destroy them, overlook them in places where they could not escape them, as Haman and others take their game by driving them into strait and narrow places.

4. The ways of Zion do mourn, because none cometh to the solemn feasts i: all her gates are desolate k; her priests sigh l, her virgins are afflicted, and the w in bitterness m.

5. The ways that lead to the Temple, have as unlovely a complexion as mourners, being overgrown by reason that none goeth up as usually to the Feasts of the Passover, of Tabernacles, &c. Either all the Gates of Jerusalem, or the Temple, or all her Cities are very thin of people, the places that use to be full. I. Her Priests that were wont to be so fully employed at the Festivals receiving the people's Offerings, and offering Sacrifices, they mourning have nothing to do. m. The Virgins who in those Feasts were wont to play with Timbrels, Psal. 68. 25. they now mourn, and persons of all Ages and ranks are in bitterness.

6. Her adversaries are * the chief, her enemies proper: for the LORD hath afflicted her n; for the multitude of her transgressions, her children are gone into captivity before the Enemy o.

7. God hath fulfilled his threatening, Deut. 28. 43. The Enemy is got about us, and we are brought very low, for the multitude of our sins, directly contrary to his promise in case of obedience Jer. 13. 4. Not only our young and old men, but the little Children, have been driven like Sheep before the Enemy into a miserable Captivity.

8. And from the daughter of Zion all her beauty is departed p: her princes are become like harts that find no pasture, and they are gone without strength before the pursuer q.

9. All the inhabitants of Zion have lost their former beauty, whosoever plundered the City had, whether by rapine, or gallantry of the inhabitants it is gone, her Nobles are become thin, and ill-favoured like beasts almost starved, their Enemies pursue them to destroy them, and they have no strength to oppose or resist them.

10. Jerusalem remembered in the days of her affliction, and of her miseries, all her pleasant things that she had in the days of old, when her people fell into the hand of the enemy, and none did help her r, the adversaries law her, and did mock at her Sabbaths s.

11. The inhabitants of Jerusalem now, that they are in affliction, and misery, have time to remember their former mercies, and with how many desirable things God had once blessed them, and compare her former state before she fell into the Enemies hands, with her present fate now she is in their power. t. Now is an affliction to them to hear her Enemies mock at her Sabbaths, which while they enjoyed they abused.

12. Jerusalem hath grievously sinned: therefore she t is removed: all that honoured her, despise her u, * because they have seen her nakedness: yea the sight, and turneth backward.

13. She is carried out of her own Land into an Enemies Country, and made an hilding and scorn to those who before revered her, in all this God is righteous: for all orders of men have grievously sinned, because they have seen the Lord stripping her of all her blessings, and exposing her to the scorn and reproach of all men as strumpets are exposed.

14. Her filthiness is in her skirts w, she * remembreth not her last end, therefore the came down wonderfully: she had no comforter x: O LORD behold my affliction: for the enemy hath magnified himself y.

15. He perished in his comparison of the Jewish people either to a chaste chaste Woman, or to an impudent Woman that is not ashamed to expose her nakedness or wickedness to the view of all. x. That is the Jews never considered or would not believe what those degrees of sin would at last bring them to, and that hath been the cause of that prodigious calamity into which God had brought them. y. The Prophet turns himself to God whom he desires to behold the affliction of this people that is with a painful compassionate eye. It is a very usual thing in Holy Scripture, to signify the acts of the heart by the acts of the inward and outward senses, those especially of the Memory, Eye and Ear, because objects must be first brought in by the senses before they can affect the Soul. Hence (the Scripture speaking of God after the manner of men), the Servants of God desiring God to have compassion on them, shew their favour, &c. desire him to behold and look upon their affliction.

16. The adversary hath spread out his hand upon all her: pleasant things z: for the hath seen that the heathen entered into her sanctuary, whom thou didst command that they * should not enter * Neh. 12. 14. into thy congregation a.

That is, hath got them into possession. By pleasant things are here to be understood the Ornaments of the Temple, upon which the Enemy had laid violent hands, to this phrase of spreading out the hand is taken, Psal. 25. 11. The things of the Sanctuary are always placed: things to those that feared God. Politely those that little valued them before, now looked upon them in their true notion. We seldom know our mercies till we come to be deprived of them. b. He means the Annulets, and Mashtim upon the Law concerned, Deut. 23. 3. Some of whom probably afflicted the Babylonians in the conquest of Judea.

17. All her people sigh *, they seek bread b, * Jer. 49. 2. they have given their pleasant things for meat to relieve the soul c: see, O LORD, and consider, for I am become vile d.

He speaks probably with reference to the siege, after which the people had for many pleasant things to exchange for Bread. The whole body of the people was in a sad condition, and in a Land that ordinarily flowed with Milk and Honey they were at loss for bread to eat. e. And gave any thing for something to satisfy their hunger. f. The Prophet finds up a sudden exaltation to God much like that ver. 6. The argument he useth is drawn from the misery the people were in, expressed under the notion of being become vile, that is miserable or contemptible.

18. ¶ It is nothing to you, all ye that t Jer. 49. 2. pass by i behold, and see, * if there be any sorrow like to my sorrow: which is done unto me, wherewith the LORD hath afflicted me in the day of his fierce anger a.

The Prophet speaks in the name of the Jewish Church, as a Woman in private life, by the way of sale, and calling to passengers that came by to have compassion on her, suggesting to them, that by affliction was no ordinary affliction; nor the effect of a common and ordinary providence, but the effect of the Lords fierce anger, a most severe punishment.

19. From above hath he sent fire into my bones, and it prevailed against them f; he hath spread a net for my feet g, he hath turned me back: h the hath made me desolate, and faint all the day.

By Fire he means a judgement as consuming, and as afflictive as Fire in the Bones, which had consumed the strength of the Jews. g. That is God had brought them into a condition wherein they were entangled, and could not get out. The Holy man owned God as the first cause of all the evil they suffered, and entitles God to their various kinds of afflictions, both in Captivity, and during the siege, looking beyond the Babylonians who were the proximate instrumental cause.

20. The yoke of my transgressions is bound by his hand b: they are wretched, and come up upon my neck i: h the hath made my strength to fall; the LORD hath delivered me into their hands, from whom I am not able to rise up k.

b. Still the Prophet eyes God in all, and acknowledgeth his Justice while he calls their afflictions the yoke of their transgressions, that is, which was put upon their neck, upon the same account that yokes are put about the necks of beasts that use to break hedges, &c. and bound to keep them fast. i. My punishments are to wit, to make them more strong; i. I have means of judgements upon me, Sword, Famine, Pestilence, Captivity, they are not only prepared for my neck, but they are already put upon it. k. All my valiant men the strength of my nation is broken, and I am so fallen that I am not able to rise again.

21. In the LORD hath trodden under foot all my mighty men in the midst of me l: he hath called an assembly against me, to crush my young men m: the LORD hath trodden i the virgin, the daughter of Judah, as in a winepress n.

l. In the midst of me, may be interpreted, I am afflicted, or as denoting the place in which they lost their valiant men, &c.

in the midst of the City during the siege nor in the Field. m. Instead of those solemn assemblies that were wont to be called together within Jerusalem by sound of Trumpet for the solemn Worship of God: God had called an assembly of Children as Adversaries against the City, to crush the inhabitants of it. n. God had trodden upon the Jews as men use to stamp Grapes in a Winepress, where they use to crush them to pieces to get out the juice, and then they throw the husks that are good for nothing upon the dunghills. These are but various expressions to set out the misery which God had brought this people for their sins into.

22. For the things I weep, * mine eye, mine eye runneth down with water a, because the comforter that should t relieve my soul, is far from me p, my children are desolate, because the enemy hath prevailed q.

For these fore afflictions, and for my sins that have caused them, and for these impressions of divine wrath which I discern in them Lord: I that am thy Prophet, and that are as afflictions indeed weep, and that plentifully; having neither thee present with us as formerly to be of hope or comfort, nor any Friend that will deal by us as Friends sometimes do, by others in swooning fits to fetch back their souls. q. Either the other Cities of Judah (Jerusalem was the mother City) or my people, my inhabitants, are wasted destroyed, and made desolate, because the Enemy hath prevailed.

23. Zion spreadeth forth her hands r, and there is none to comfort her s; the LORD hath commanded concerning Jacob that his adversaries should be round about him t: Jerusalem is as a menstruous woman amongst them u.

r. The name in this verse is meant by Zion, Jacob and Jerusalem, unless Zion more specially signifies the Jews considered as a Church, because of the Temple built upon it. She spreadeth her hands, as in a posture of mourning, and beseeching her self. s. But she had none that could afford her any comfort. t. God had commanded concerning the Jews who were descended from Jacob, (his twelve Tribes from his twelve Sons) that their Enemies should compass them. u. They were become lawless and filthy even in the eyes of their Enemies like Women, which were separated from the Congregation during their filthy unchastities.

24. ¶ The LORD is * righteous, for I have rebelled against his t commandment w: hear, I pray you, all people, and behold my sorrow: y virgins and my young men are gone into captivity x.

The Prophet either directeth those that feared God what they should say, or expreth what many of them did say in the name of the reb, acknowledging both the Lords justice, and faithfulness, because they had been disobedient to the Commandments of God. x. In these words the Prophet only personates a passionate Woman begging pity of all because her children were taken from her.

25. I called for my lovers, but they * deceived me y; my priests and mine elders gave up the ghost in the city, while they fought their meat to relieve their souls z.

y. I desired help by my Allies and Confederates who courted my Friendship and Alliance in my prosperity, but they failed mine expectation, none of them either would or could succour me. z. My misery was such through the Famine, that not only my common people (those of the best rank and degree, Virgins and Priests) fainted as they went along the street seeking bread to satisfy their hunger.

26. Behold, O LORD a, for I am in distress: my * bowels are troubled; mine heart is turned within me, for I have grievously rebelled: * a broad the sword bereaveth at home there is as death b.

a. The Petition is of the same nature as before, a petition for mercy as the product of that pity and compassion which extremest misery begets in good Souls. God is ascribed unto God though found in him in a much more perfect degree, Psal. 8. 28. and 86. 15. and 111. 4. through the eyes affecting the heart. b. The argument the Prophet useth is drawn from the misery this people was now in which he expreth metaphorically telling us their bowels were troubled, their heart turned signifying the more inward disturbance of their mind, or more plainly, and that both generally saying they were in distress, and more particularly by the great judgments of the Sword, and Famine, the Sword in the Field, the Famine in the City, unless the Sword alone be meant both without and within the gates of the City. In all this the Church justifieth God, confessing that he was the righteous producer of her sin, by which she had been formerly subjected to God had grievously rebelled, for as all men are born subjects to God, for by their sins they are become Rebels, for it is a great aggravation of mens rebellion against the Lord, when they have formerly taken an Oath of fealty to the Lord, and as Moses said, avouched the Lord as their God.

27. They have heard that I sigh c, there is none to comfort me d: all mine enemies have heard of my trouble, they are glad that thou hast done to e: thou wilt * bring the day that thou hast f: called, and they shall be like unto me f.

c. The Nations contiguous to me Egypt, &c. those that before courted me, as pretended Friends have been no strangers to my bitter afflictions, that have brought forth sighs from me. d. But there is none of them that can or will comfort me, but me over in a desperate case. e. The Romans, &c. 1. &c. and Abadites and other heathen Nations with whom I have had hostility, they are glad at the great misery that hath befallen me. f. But thou hast declared thy pleasure for their destruction, on all and half by me proclaimed it, Jer. 49. 40. and 40. and thou shalt in that day bring them into as bad a condition as the present of the Jews are now in. As they fallow in themselves the feel those miseries, which they have felt, and compassionated in others: g. men hardly escape their own hurt, & at last in evils which they have rejoiced to see brought upon Gods people.

28. Let all their wickedness come before thee, and do unto them, as thou hast done unto me for all my transgressions: for my sighs are many, and my heart is faint g.

g. This verse is another prophetic curse or imprecation, several of which we meet with in Holy Writ, Psal. 109. 5, 7, 8, 9, and 137. 8. Jer. 11. 20. and 18. 23. and in many other Texts, which would incline us to think that our Saviours precept, Math. 5. 44. to pray for those that persecute us, backed by his own example, Luke 23. 34. and Scrip. Acts 7. 60. is either to be interpreted of praying for the forgiveness of their sins, (we ought to desire the eternal condemnation of none): or to be restrained to such as are our personal Enemies; not the common Enemies of the Church of God. Our Saviours precept must certainly is not to be so interpreted: but that we may lay down for such evils to the implacable Enemies of the Church, and people of God as may refrain and weaken their hands, and put them out of a capacity of warring the Lords heritage, we are only obliged by it to wish well to their Souls, and to desire no evil against them out of private revenge or malice, but only out of zeal for the glory of God, for their outward prosperity in their courses of enmity we ought no more to pray; then against their eternal Salvation i for this were to beg of God to encourage his Enemies in their enmity against him. And though Jerusalem were a greater Prophet than any of us can pretend to be, and had revelations of particular future contingencies, which we have not, yet every one may prophesy a ruin to the Enemies of Gods Church and people, and such as rejoice in their ruin. God never using a Rod against his people which he doth not at last turn, nor ever countenancing inhumanity in any, but much less when it is rooted in a malice against himself, and his interest in the World.

CHAP. II.

How hath the LORD covered the daughter of Zion with a cloud in his anger a, and cast down from heaven to the earth the daughter of Israel b, and remembered not his foot-stool in the day of his anger c!

a. It hath been formerly observed that great States and Kingdoms are often in Scripture expreth under the notion of daughters, Psal. 77. 8. Jer. 47. 1. 5. chap. 4. 21. 22. Jer. 46. 11. Isa. 10. 30. the meaning is, how hath God obscured all the beauty and glory of the Church and State of the Jews. b. That is thrown down from the highest pitch of glory, and honour to the meanest degree of baseness and servitude.

c. The Earth is called the Lords foot-stool, Isa. 66. 1. Math. 5. 35. Acts 7. 49. but here Plainly the Temple is understood called Gods foot-stool, i. Ciren. 28. a. and the whole Temple seems rather to be understood, than the Ark, for we read of no indignity offered to the Ark, the Chaldians, more then to any other part of the Temple (God had suffered the Chaldians to burn the whole Temple, and it may justly be doubted whether the other Texts that mention a worshipping at Gods foot-stool, Psal. 99. 5. and 132. 7. be not to be understood of worshipping in the Temple, or it was not the privilege of all the Jews to come so near the Ark as to worship before it, the reason of the complaint is Gods permission of the Chaldians to burn the Temple. See Jer. 52. 13.

2. The Lord hath swallowed up all the habitations of Jacob, and hath not pitied d: he hath thrown down in his wrath the strong holds of the daughter of Judah: he hath brought them down to the ground: he hath polluted the kingdom and the princes thereof.

As he hath had no respect to his own house, fo he hath had much less respect to the common habitations of the Jews. Their military fortifications have been of no use to them, he hath made them to touch the ground, i. e. suffered the Enemies to batter them to the Earth. That is, either delivered them into the hands of Pagans whom to touch they judged a legal pollution, or else dealt with them as with a polluted thing, cast them off, or broke them in pieces. All this is made the effect of Gods wrath, and his work; for as a man is said to do that which he encourage others to do, and afflicts them in doing; so God is said to have done this, because he did not only suffer the Chaldeans to do it, but used them as a Rod in his hand, inclining them to do it, and afflicting them in the Execution of his wrath.

3 He hath cut off in his fierce anger all the horn of Israel: he hath drawn back his right hand from before the enemy, and he burned against Jacob like a flaming fire, which devoureth round about it.

That is, the beauty and strength of Israel, fo horn signifieth by an usual metaphor in Scripture, Psa. 134. 4. Jer. 48. 25. &c. the horn being much the beauty of the Beast, as also that member by which the beast puts forth its strength in assaulting its adversary. Either God hath drawn back his assistance which he was wont to give the Jews against their Enemies. Or first through Gods hearing of them, hath drawn back his right hand, but it seems rather to be understood of Gods weakening the Israelite right hand, so as they were not able to hold them up (as before) against their Enemies. I God had consumed them, not in this or that part, but round about, as a fire consuming an house or heap of combustible matter at once, on all sides.

4 He hath bent his bow like an enemy: he stood with his right hand as an adversary, and flew: all that were pleasant to the eye, in the tabernacle of the daughter of Zion: he poured out his fury like a fire.

That is, God, (whom by their sins they had provoked and made their Enemy) behaved himself as an Enemy, bending his Bow, and stretching out his right hand, and slew their young Men, and Maidens who were pleasant to look upon. And had brought judgement upon them like fire which devours without any discrimination.

5 The LORD was an enemy; he hath swallowed up Israel, he hath swallowed up all her palaces; he hath destroyed his strong holds, and hath increased in the daughter of Judah mourning and lamentation.

See ver. 2. Several pathetic expressions signifying the same things, properly imitating the dialect of Mourners whose passion suffers them not to speak according to Art, but frequently they say the same things over and over.

6 And he hath violently taken away his tabernacle, as if it were of a garden, he hath destroyed his places of the assembly: the LORD hath caused the solemn feasts, and sabbaths to be forgotten in Zion, and hath despised in the indignation of his anger the king and the priest.

The word translated Tabernacle (say some) signifies an idol or image, and they would have it here to be translated, and the phrase should denote Gods withdrawing his protection from the Jews, but it is no where so translated. It is another word used, Psa. 80. 12. and 80. 40. The most judicious interpreters think that the word here signifies the Temple, and the rather because of what follows. By the place of its assembly may be understood the Synagogue. By the king and the Priest are meant persons of greatest Rank and Eminency, though it is thought here is a special reference to Zedekiah the king of Judah, and Seraiah who was the High Priest, the former of which was miserably handled, the latter slain.

7 The LORD hath cast off his altar: he hath abhorred his sanctuary: he hath taken up into the hand of the enemy the walls of her palaces; he hath made a noise in the house of the LORD, as in a day of the solemn feast.

By Altar and Sanctuary seemeth not to be meant strictly here the places or buildings so called, which are said to be the Lords, because he directed the making of them, and they were dedicated to his service, and used for no other use, but the stated Worship and Communion of the Church of the Jews; as Altars taken 1 Cor. 10. 18. God by his suffering the place to be destroyed where alone they might Sacrifice, seemed to have abhorred his own Institutions, as it is said, The priests of the idols are an abomination to the Lord. The Jews the Lord also had destroyed the most lately of their Civil Edifices. And the Enemies with their Triumphs and Blaphemies, had made as great noise, to the reproach and dishonour of God, as before them to make holy Songs, or plaud on instruments were wont to sing in the Temple to the honour and glory of God.

8 The LORD hath purposed to destroy the wall of the daughter of Zion; he hath stretched out a line, he hath not withdrawn his hand from destroying it: therefore he hath made the rampart and the wall to lament; they languished together.

The term Wall in this verse seemeth to be taken in a metaphorical sense, for the strength and security of the Jews (the strength and security of a place lying much in its Walls) signifies life with lines not only to mark out places for building, but also for destruction, to direct them what to cut off, such a line is here meant. God had gone on in destroying them. And had made their Walls and Ramparts feeble, and to shake like a man under some languishing diffemper, that had no strength left.

9 Her gates are sunk into the ground; he hath destroyed and broken her bars; he hath king and her princes are among the Gentiles, the law is no more, &c. her prophets also find no vision from the LORD.

That is, the Gates of Jerusalem are destroyed, and covered over with rubbish. The bolts of the Gates are broken. Zedekiah and the Nobles of Judah that were not slain were in miserable Captivity. The Law was no more read and opened, nor was there any more Sacrifices offered according to the precept of it, nor any solemn Feasts kept according to the direction of it. They had but very few Prophets amongst them from this time to the time of the Gospel, and very few of those at this time alive had any Revelations from God, we read only of their Prophets, Ezekiel, Daniel, and three after the Captivity, Haggai, Zechariah, and Malachi.

10 The elders of the daughter of Zion sit upon the ground, and keep silence: they have cast up dust upon their heads; they have girded themselves with sackcloth; the virgins of Jerusalem hang down their heads to the ground.

Sitting upon the ground, keeping silence, throwing dust on their heads, girding themselves with sackcloth, hanging down the head, were all of them postures and actions and gestures of Mourners. The meaning of this whole Verse is, that the whole City of Jerusalem was in a very bad state and condition, and all persons in it in a mournful posture. Not the common people only, but the gravest of their Magistracy and Ministry. Those who were wont to sit in the chairs of Magistracy and of Teachers. Their young Women also which used to be most brisk and frolic, those whose condition was farthest off from sorrow, and who were least disposed to it, were now, all of them drowned in floods of it.

11 Mine eyes do fail with tears, my bowels are troubled; my liver is poured upon the earth, because of the destruction of the daughter of my people, because the children and the sucking infants swoon in the streets of the city.

This whole verse is but expressive of the Prophets great affliction for the miseries come upon the Jews. We weep himself almost blind. His passion had diffused his bodily humors, that his Bowels were troubled. His gall lying under him, his liver upon this disturbance was vomited up, they are all more than expressions of very great affliction and sorrow. For the miseries befalling the Jews, he had mourned for their sins before, and for their Plagues too which he had in prospect Jer. 9. 1. he now mourns for them as being come upon them; which mourning considered only as for their miseries, speaks no more than the Prophets good nature and love to his Country: but considered as the indication of Gods wrath, and displeasure was also a gody sorrow. The Children and sucklings fainted and swooned, either for want of water, or bread, or milk in their Mothers or Nurseries: Breasts during the Famine, occasioned by the long siege of the City. This appears in the next Verse.

Chap. II. The Lamentations of JEREMIAH.

12 They say to their mothers, Where is corn and wine? when they swooned as the wounded in the streets of the city, when their soul was poured out into their mothers bosom.

The little Children ignorant of the cause of the failure of their usual food called to their mothers for it as formerly, being ready to sit and die as men mortally wounded for want of Spirits and Blood life to faint, and in their Mothers arms; to lo! I have rather interpret the phrase poured out their souls, then (as I said) understanding by souls the desires of their souls, for in speaking of sucklings as well as more grown children, the phrase is capable of both senses.

13 What thing shall I take to witness for thee? what thing shall I liken to thee, O daughter of Jerusalem? what shall I equal to thee, that I may comfort thee, O virgin daughter of Zion? for thy breach is great like the sea; who can heal thee?

The sum of this verse is, That the miserable condition of the people was both incomparable and incurable. There was no people whose miserable condition was in any degree parallel to the misery of the Jews. It is some comfort to persons in misery to consider, that others are, and have been as miserable as they, but the Prophet had not this Topic from whence to fetch an argument of comfort to the Jews; there were none to whom he could liken them, nor was there any present cure for them, their breach was like a Sea, which the waters come in with such a torrent, that while this Tide abates there is no making any bank or defence against them.

14 Thy prophets have seen vain and foolish things for thee, and they have not discovered thine iniquity, to turn away thy captivity; they have been for thee false burdens and causes of banishment.

Not the Lords Prophets in thee, but those Prophets to whom you chose rather to hearken and whom you believed rather than me, and others sent by God to reveal his Will unto you, came and told you idle and vain fables, that those who were carried into Captivity, should after two years return, &c. And by telling you such smooth and pleasant things tickled your humours instead of discovering your Sins, which were bringing these judgments upon you, whereas they ought to have dealt freely, and faithfully with you, and have made you sensible of your sins, and this might have prevented your miserable Captivity. But they rather spent their breath in telling you false stories to encourage you in your sinful courses, and so proved to you the causes of your Banishment; or else they told you false stories which they pretended to be the causes of the Captivity of your brethren, in the mean time concealing the true causes, and suffering you to run on in the same errors till you came to be more miserable than those that went into Captivity before you.

15 All that pass by, clap their hands at thee; they hiss and wag their head at the daughter of Jerusalem, saying, Is this the city that men call? the perfection of beauty, the joy of the whole earth?

This was according to Gods threatening, 1 Kings 9. 8. Jer. 18. 16. and 19. 18. God had poured out all his blessings upon this people, whatsoever might adorn them, or make them happy, so as all people blessed the Jewish Nation: but now the case was so altered, that all people scoffed at them, and hissed, and admitted at the change which God had made.

16 All thine enemies have opened their mouth against thee: they hiss, and gnash the teeth: they say, We have swallowed her up: certainly this is the day that we looked for: we have found it, we have seen it.

As strangers that had had no quarrels with, nor prejudices against the Jews, passing by from Country, and their great City Jerusalem, despised and scorned it, so their Enemies with whom they had former quarrels, and who had taken up prejudices against them, they reproached and abused them, and triumphed in their ruin, and in the success of their Arms against them, and blessed themselves as having now seen the day that they had looked and wished for.

17 The LORD hath done that which he had devised: he hath fulfilled his word that he had commanded in the days of old: he hath thrown down and hath not pitied: and he hath caused thine enemy to rejoice over thee, he hath set up the horn of thine adversaries.

Chap. III. The Lamentations of JEREMIAH.

God hath not surprized us by their Providences, he gave us notice what he would do, and hath done no more than what he threatened long since. Lev. 26. 16. &c. Dat. 28. 15. &c. there appear no prints of pity, he hath set up our Enemies and hath made them to triumph over his people, but in all this he hath justified his truth, and fulfilled his word.

18 Their heart cried to the Lord, O wall of the daughter of Zion, let tears run down like a river day and night; give thyself no rest, let not the apple of thine eyes cease.

They cried unto God seriously, though not sincerely, from their hearts, though not with their whole heart; either by the Wall, or upon the Wall, or (which is judged most probable) by occasion of the breaches made in the Wall. Upon this he turns his discourse to the Wall itself, and calls to it, or to those that were upon it, or near it incessantly to mourn. In the end, it is he not the daughter of Zion, or wall, or apple, it is the Apple, the Lutes, the Pupil, or Basis of the eye.

19 Arise, cry out in the night: in the beginning of the watches pour out thine heart like water before the face of the LORD: lift up thy hands toward him, for the life of thy young children, that faint for hunger in the top of every street.

The Prophet calls upon the Jews not to be slothful in their very evil day, but to rise up from their Beds, and either at the beginning of the four Watches, or at the beginning of each Watch, at all times in the night, to beseech themselves to God by Prayer, and that not in a cold lazy manner, but so as to pour out their hearts with their words, and he move them to it, as for their own sake so for the sake of their young children who every where, were starved to death.

20 Behold, O LORD, and consider to whom thou hast done this: Shall the women eat their fruit, and children of a span? shall the priest and the prophet be slain in the sanctuary of the LORD?

That is, not to Hearken who never owned thee, nor were called by thy name, but to thine own people called thy people, and thine heritage, let thy former relation to us, and our former acknowledgements of thee, prevail with thee. Wilt thou fuller, or should such a thing be, as for women to satiate their hunger with the fruit of their own Bodies, and that when they are very young? And shall thy Ministers be slain and that in thy Sanctuary? any humane Blood poured in, shall not the blood of those that were the Ministers of God be judged a pollution, and profanation of it?

21 The young and the old lie on the ground in the streets, my virgins and my young men are fallen by the sword: thou hast slain them in the day of thine anger, thou hast killed, and not pitied.

A None of what Sex or Age forever are spared; though the hands of the Chaldeans have done this, yet they have been set on and assisted by thee, and have been but the Executioners of thy wrath and displeasure.

22 Thou hast called as in a solemn day, my terrorists round about, so that in the day of the LORDS anger none escaped, nor remained: those that I have swilled and brought up, hath mine enemy consumed.

As my People were wont to be called together from all parts in a solemn day, when they were to meet at Jerusalem from all parts of Judah, so now by thy Providence my terrible Enemies, or terrible things were by thee called together against that Holy City, whither thy People were wont to be called to thy solemn Worship. Thou hast made me as a great mother to bring up many inhabitants that were my Children, and now the Enemy hath consumed the far greater number of them.

CHAP. III.

I Am the man, a sinner, that hath seen affliction by the rod of his wrath.

Some understand this of the Prophet, some of the People, who were before set out under the Notion of a Woman, a Daughter, here of a man. Affliction must here be taken Especially for eminent degrees of affliction, caused not merely from the power and malice of the Enemy, but from the wrath in God, and without turbulence or disorder in himself, to wait for a preservation from, or a delivery out of any evils is what becometh a man (a child of God especially) and will turn to a good account to them.

27 It is good for a man that he bear the yoke

foregoing verities. It is not pleasant, but it is profitable, it is honourable, what becomes us, and is our duty, quietly and patiently to bear what afflictions God will please to lay upon us, to refrain our wild and wanton spirits when they are moit prone to be too brisk and lascivious. Some by yet understand the Law of God, called a yoke (because indeed it is so to flesh and blood) Math. 11. 29. It is not so easy to bend a neck stiffened with Age, or change an heart made hard by Custom. Solomon bids us to train up one in their youth in the way we would have them to walk; and whether God will tame us when young, by his Word or by his Rod, it is of advantage to a man: It is also laudable, and what becomes a man, early to bear the yoke of Gods Law, or to bear afflictive Providences, to have his heart becomes humbled to the Will and fear of God.

28 He sitteth alone and keepeth silence, because he hath borne it upon him b.

b Our English Annotations supplying That, makes the con-nexon clear, It is good for a man, that he sic alone, Jer. 15. 17. not doing what he doth to be seene of men, but sitting alone, and when he is alone, suppressing the mutinies of his Spirit and keeping his soul in subjection to God, because God hath humbled him by his Rod, humbling himself to his Will.

29 He putteth his mouth in the dust, if so be there may be hope i.

i If that may be supplied, or when (as Pagnine translateth) ¶ vir. 28. the connexion of these words with the former is very fair and easie, for then those words, ver. 27. It is good that must be repeated in the beginning of ver. 28. and 29. however both ths and the former Verses let us know the duty of persons under afflictions in order to their obtaining Mercy at the hand of God, and admirably give us the Character of Persons under afflictions preparing for Mercy. They hope, and quietly wait for Gods Salvation, ver. 25. they bear Gods yoke, ver.

27. because he hath laid it upon them, They sit alone and keep silence, ver. 28. and here they put their mouths in the dust, that is, humble themselves to the feet of God, and to the Will of God; not being too confident of deliverances in this life, but if peradventure there may be hope.

30 He giveth his cheek to him that smiteth him k : he is filled full with reproach.

According to our Saviour's precept, Matth. 5. 39, he doth not take any private Revenge, he is reproached and reviled, but when he is so, he rethinketh not again. 1 Pet. 2. 23. he is fil-but when he is so he rejoices not again, & is not troubled with reproach from others, but his mouth is not filled with the reproachings of others.

31 For the LORD .will not cast off. for ever m.

m This is that which beareth up his spirits, that though the Lord may for a time estrange himself from his people, yet he will not alwayes forsake them.

32 But though he cause grief, yet will he have compassion according to the multitude of his

n But though as a prudent Parent he may see reason to cause grief in, and to afflict his own people, yet as a tender good

Father, that pitieth his children in Misery he will have compassion upon them, having not onely mercies, but a multitude or abundance of Mercies.

33 For * he doth not afflict † willingly, nor grieve the children of men o.

q. In the Hebrew it is he doth not afflict from his heart, that is with pleasure and delight; or (which seemeth the best sense to me) not from his own meer motion without a cause given him from the persons afflicted. Hence Judgment is called Gods strange work; shewing Mercy is his proper natural work, which floweth from himself without any cause in the Creature. Judgment is his strange work to which he never proceedeth but when provoked, and as it were forced from the Creature, whence it followeth that he cannot delight in it.

34 To crush under his feet all the prisoners of the earth p.

35. To turn away the right of a man before the face of || the most High q.

Chap. III. The Lamentations of JEREMIAH. Chap. III.

36 To subvert a man in his cause, the LORD
|| Or, subvert || approveth not.

Here are three things mentioned, of all which it is said, that God approveth them not, neither all, nor any of them. The first is to subvert the prisoners of the earth, he hath power to crush all men in the world, they are his prisoners, and cannot fly from him, but he delighteth not in it, some think it spoken with special reference to the Jews who now were all captives. A second thing which it is said God approveth not, is turning away the light of a man before the face of the high. Some, by the most high understand God, and make the sense to be, that the light of God, which is his presence, and cannot be understood, who Ecl. 8. 1. is called the High Light; and that fenneth the most probable sense. The turning away the right of a man before them, significth the use of any arts to deprive them of their just right by misrepresenting their cause asperging their Persons, &c. The third thing mentioned is the subverting a man in his cause, either by art, and Rhetorick, making it to appear bad when it is not so, or by mere Will and Power overruling it contrary to right and justice.

* Pal. 35. 9. 37 ¶ Who is he * that faith, and it cometh to pass, when the LORD commandeth it not.

The sense of these words is doubted by none. That nothing cometh to pass in the World, but by the disposal of Divine Providence either effecting it by an immediate influence, but to what end these words are brought in this place is not so generally agreed. Some think they are brought in to check the Blasphemy of some that speak of what had befallen the Jews as a thing which God had no hand in. Others think they are brought in as expounding that term that went before, The Lord Jehovah. Though God doth not approve of sinful actions, nor incline any man Heir or Will to them, yet God hath an hand in the punishment of the most cruel and unjust actions, which he could easily hinder. I should rather incline to interpret them as an argument brought by the Prophet in the name of the People of God, arguing themselves into a quiet submission to the afflictive Providences under which they laboured from the consideration of the Superior hand of God in them, as Christ told Pilate, Thou couldst not have had any power against me, if it had not been given thee from above: John 19. 11. Thou shalt be evil in a city, and the Lord hath not done it, Amos 3. 6.

38 Out of the mouth of the most High proceedeth not evil and good?

In the Hab. the form of these words is interrogatory, as much as if he should say doth not evil come out of Gods mouth from his direction and command, and from his Providence, as well as good? He speaks of evils of punishments, judicial afflictive dispensations: To it agreeth with Job 2. 10. Amos 3. 6. It is no reproach unto God to make him the Author of his own punishments, though we call them evil.

This verse admits of various senses, caused from the various interpretation of the Hebrew word which we translate complain, which also signifies to mourn or grieve, so some render it; why doth a living man grieve or vex himself? but the word is noted most generally to signify complaining or murmuring. The word also which we translate Sin, sometimes significth that oblique as which we call sin; and those who interpret the former word grieve or vex, thus understand the word translated sin, supplying some such words as these, Let him mourn for his sin: why doth he mourn for his afflictions and plagues, let him rather repent for his sins upon his sins. But the word also signifies the guilt of sin, or obligation to death, which it layeth men under, for sin it is the law, Gen. 4. 7. to also Gen. 20. 9. and also any punishment brought upon men for sin, Gen. 4. 13. where we translate it punishment. This sense our translators follow. The Prophet then in the person of the Jews, checks himself in his complaints for their punishments from the consideration, that nothing had befallen them, but what was the just reward of their sins.

40 Let us search and try our ways, and turn again unto the LORD x.

Seeing God doth not grieve us willingly, nor delight to crush us though we be his Prisoners, and seeing the hand of God is in these things upon us, and that justly to recompense our iniquities into our bosoms, instead of murmuring and fretting against God, which is not reasonable, nor will be of any profit to us, Let us examine our thoughts, words and actions and consider what they have been, and reform, and turn again to the Lord, by apostrophizing from whom we have brought these evils upon us.

41 Let us lift up our heart with our hands unto God in the heavens y.

Let us apply our selves unto God by Prayer, often expressed under this notion in Scripture from that gesture ordinarily used in Prayer: and let us not do it in hypocrisy, but joining our hearts with our hands, praying seriously and fervently.

42 We have transgressed and have rebelled, thou hast not pardoned z.

The Prophet doth not dictate words, but sense to them; teaching them the matter of their Prayer first by way of confession. Sin is called a transgression because it is going aside from the way of Gods precepts, it is called Rebellion, because it is an act contrary to that Allegiance and duty, which we owe unto God, and the Covenant we have made with him. By pardoning here is meant, the discharge of the guilty persons from the temporal punishment due for sin (as it is often taken in Scripture) so it significth, thou hast plagued us according to the just desert of our sins.

43 Thou hast covered with anger a, and persecuted us; * thou hast slain, thou hast not pitied b.

Either thou hast covered thy self with anger, or covered thy own face with anger so as not to look upon us to move thy pity, or (which is more probably the sense) thou hast covered thy face with anger as with thy wrath. b Thou hast purified us to a fatal ruin without shewing us any pity.

44 Thou hast covered thy self with a cloud, that our prayer should not pass through c.

God had covered them with wrath, overruling them with afflictions so as they had no way to escape; and whereas in this distress they had nothing else to do, but only to apply themselves to God, he had hid his face from them, so as they could get no comfortable sight of him, he was as one covered with a cloud that could not be discerned through that opaque body. What is meant by this cloud, whether, his fixed resolution to punish them, or his fresh remembrance of their sin, or his just will to be revenged on them, seems too curiously inquired. The Phrase is a metaphor, and significs no more than that God would not hear their prayers in their distress.

45 Thou hast made us as the * off-scouring * 1 Cor. 4. 1 and refuse in the midst of the people d.

That is, thou hast made us to all Nations extremely contemptible, so as they value us no more than the sweepings of their Houses, or the most vile refuse, and contemptible things imaginable.

46 * All our enemies have opened their mouths * chap. 2. 11 against us e.

That is, to mock, scoff, and reproach us.

47 * Fear and a snare is come upon us, defolation and destruction f.

All manner of misery was come upon them. They were seized first with fears and terrors, going to escape these they fell into a snare, or (as it is in the Hab.) into a pit, out of which they could not get, they were wasted, made desolate and destroyed.

48 * Mine eye runneth down with rivers of * Jer. 4. 19 water, for the destruction of the daughter of my * 14. 19 people.

49 Mine eye tricketh down, and causeth not, without any intermission g.

The Prophet was deeply afflicted upon the prospect of this evil before it came, Jer. 9. 1. and was now much more affected when he saw the judgment was come, he wept plentifully and constantly, as for their sins which had brought these judgments upon them, so for the judgments themselves as indications of Gods displeasure and wrath against them for their transgressions.

50 Till the LORD look down, and behold from heaven h.

That is, until the Lord sheweth me some favour. See the Notes on chap. 1. ver. 9.

51 Mine eye affecteth † mine heart, || because † Heb. 10. 16 of all the daughters of my city k.

The eye and the ear, are those organs of the body, by which the soul exerciseth its senses to bring in all objects whether pleasant or sad to the understanding to judge of them, according to the judgment of which upon them it is affected, with joy or sorrow, desire or aversion, &c. and the eye is the chiefest of these because its evidence is more certain, and its lets subject to deceit. The Prophet, and most of the Jews were eye-witnesses to the Evils which had befallen the Jews, and which at present were upon them. So as their hearts were the more affected. The word translated afflict, is by some noted to signific to wield and oppress, which are the effects of deep affliction the heart with sad and miserable objects. 4 Our Margent tells us, that it may be also read more than all the daughters of my city; according to which the sense is, that he was more affected with the state of Jerusalem, then the tenderest woman that had lived in it, but it is as well so better in this place rendered causally: shewing the reason of his deep affliction, viz, all those miseries he had seen fall upon all the Jewish Nation, or upon all the inhabitants of Jerusalem.

1 As Boys beat a Bird from bush to bush, suffering it to rest nowhere, so mine Enemies to whom I gave no cause pursued me.

53 They have cut off my life in the dungeon, and cast a stone upon me m.

Dungeon seemeth not to be here taken literally for the lowell and suffler place in Prisons, which probably is the portion but of a few of the Jews; but metaphorically for the lowell and saddest condition of misery. Their Enemies had brought them into the deepest Miseries to the cutting off of their lives, and as men use to roll great stones upon the mouths of Dens and Pits, where they have shut up Persons to make them fare from escaping out, so their Enemies had dealt with them, doing what lay in them to make their condition remediless and desperate.

54 * Waters flowed over mine head n, then I hid, I am cut off o.

Afflictions often in Scripture are called waters, Isa. 28. 17. 18. and 59. 19. o That is, I am utterly undone, there is no hope for me.

55 ¶ I called upon thy name, O LORD, out of the low dungeon p.

That is, out of my deepest affliction, as Jer. 20. 1. I called upon God, and called upon him for mercy.

56 Thou hast heard my voice q, hide not thine ear at my breathing, at my cry r.

I in former great afflictions applied my self unto thee, and thou didst hear me. I shew me now the same favour. Our former experiences of Gods goodness to us in hearing our Prayers, ought to hold up our hands in prayer, and beseege a confidence in us that we perswiling in our duty, shall find God the same God, yesterday, this day, and for ever.

57 Thou drestest near in the day that I called upon thee: thou didst, Fear not s.

There was a time when I was in distress, and called upon thee, and thou didst draw near unto me. God is never far from any of us, as to his essential presence; nor is it possible that he should, for he filleth all places. But he is said to be near us or far off from us, as he manifesteth or doth not manifest his goodness to us by acts of gracious Providence; or of drawing near the text speaketh. God being infinite in goodness and mercy, is spoken of as absent from those persons and places, where he is not shewing mercy, and present only there where he sheweth forth his goodness, and to be drawing nigh to them to whom he beginneth to shew Mercy. I Thou didst encourage me formerly upon my prayer.

58 O LORD, thou hast pleaded the causes of my soul t, thou hast redeemed my life w.

Thou hast been wont to take my part against my Enemies, not like a Lawyer by word of mouth, but actually and really pleading my cause. w Thou hast saved me from many a danger which looked fatally upon me.

59 O LORD, thou hast seen my wrong x, judge thou my cause y.

Thou hast a perfect knowledge of mens perversity, and unrighteous dealings with me at this time. y Thou judge between me and mine Enemies, and deal with them according to what shall appear just to thee.

60 Thou hast seen all their vengeance z, and all their imaginations against me d.

Thou hast been a witness to all their fury and rage. e And all their malicious and bloody contrivances against me.

61 Thou hast heard their reproach O LORD! and all their imaginations against me b.

What ever knowledge men get of things done from their Eye or Ear, thou hast from thy omniscience, thou knowest not only their malicious actions, but words and thoughts.

62 The lips of those that rose up against me and their device against me all the day c.

That is thou hast observed and noted the motions, or products of my Enemies lips, and their secret devices, before they came out of their lips.

63 Behold their sitting down, and rising up, * I am their muck d.

That is at all times when they sit down, and rise up I am their fong. Though probably the words have a special reference to their sitting down at Feasts, and at their merry meetings, I am all the subject of their discourse, they spend their time in mocking and scoffing at us, and at Jer. 17. 18. they make them sport.

64 ¶ Render unto them a recompense O LORD, according to the work of their hands e.

These three last verses are all but the same general petition, though expressed in various phrases, the Prophet had prayed chap. 59. that God would judge his peoples cause, here he praiteth that he would also judge his Enemies, he only desireth justice against them, a recompense of the work of their hands.

65 Give them || sorrow of heart f, thy curse || Or, curse || unto them.

The word translated sorrow of heart is found nowhere else in Holy Writ, which makes a certain particular explication of it to be difficult, and hath given interpreters a strange liberty in translating it, blind, sorrow, and grief, distress or hardness of heart, perplexity, affliction or breaking of heart: the best guides we have to direct us in the sense of it are, 1. The observation Isa. 1. 11. perfection, distress, a recompense according to their works, so that some afflictive evil of an heavy nature is certainly signified by it. 2. The Analogy of Faith which restraineth us from wishing or praying for spiritual or eternal evils against our work Enemies, it therefore probably significs, such perplexities of mind, and breakings of mind as commonly attend a state of great affliction.

66 Persecute them and destroy them in anger from under * the heavens of the LORD g.

Bring them to a temporal ruin and destruction. How far such petitions are lawful we have before shewed, in our Notes on Ps. 69. 22. 23. 24. 25. 26. 27. 28. 29. 30. 31. 32. 33. 34. 35. 36. 37. 38. 39. 40. 41. 42. 43. 44. 45. 46. 47. 48. 49. 50. 51. 52. 53. 54. 55. 56. 57. 58. 59. 60. 61. 62. 63. 64. 65. 66. 67. 68. 69. 70. 71. 72. 73. 74. 75. 76. 77. 78. 79. 80. 81. 82. 83. 84. 85. 86. 87. 88. 89. 90. 91. 92. 93. 94. 95. 96. 97. 98. 99. 100. See also chap. 1. 22. It is hard to interpret all passages of this nature which we meet with as Prophetical, though some of them are so, others may be both Prophetical and Prayers.

CHAP. IV.

How is the gold become dim! how is the most fine gold changed a! the stones of the sanctuary are poured out in the top of every street b.

Though some take Gold here metaphorically as signifying the most precious things, yet the most and best interpreters take it in its native sense, for the Gold which adorned the Temple either in its shining or in its vessels, the house of the Lord being burnt by Nebuchadnezzar. Jer. 52. 17. the Gold in and about the Temple must needs be discoloured, how! is here a note of admiration. b That is, are tumbled down and scattered in the head of every Street about the City.

Either the Nobles and Great Men, or the Priests, or the good men amongst the Jews, that for their intrinsic worth, and value may be compared to Gold, are lookt upon no better then earthen vessels, the workmanship of an ordinary potter. God carrying Jerusalem down to the potters house, Jer. 18. 2. and 19. 1. had taught them that in his hand they were no more in his hand, he now prooveth it by his providence, they were indeed made so, and as miserably and irreparably broken in pieces.

3 Even the sea monsters draw out the breast, they give suck to their young ones: the daughter of my people is become cruel f, like the ostriches in the wilderness g.

1 The learned Author of our English Annotations, well observeth that, whilst ever creature is here intended by the word Translated Sinners, yet their Translation is not proper, the Text speaking of Creatures of Gods making, Monsters, properly signifying such as have something beyond their natural bulk and proportion. What Creatures are signified by the Hebrew term, whether Sinners, or Dragons, or Serpents, or Whales is very hard to say, the Hebrew word signifying some Creatures occurring so rarely as it is not easy to determine the Species from the word used to express it. He certainly speaks of some brute beasts, and those that are most savage, he saith there are none such, but by a natural instinct feed and nourish their young ones. f But the Jewish Women were become cruel to their Children, either forced to appear so, having through the famine no milk to give them nor any thing to relieve them, or were indeed so, killing them to make Food for themselves as chap. 2. 20. g Like officers Jos. 35. 14. h They that lay their Eggs, and leave them in the land, and are hardened against their young ones, (as Jos speaks) some think a kind of Owls are intended, which for want of meat eat their young ones as the Jewish women now did, see ver. 10.

4 The tongue of the sucking child cleaveth to the roof of his mouth for thirst: the young children ask bread, and no man breaketh it unto them b.

b As the famine of the Mothers milk makes it instead of Bread and Flesh to the sucking Child, so the moisture of it makes it to be as drink to allay its heat, the Children wanting this moisture their mouths were hot and dry: it was a time of Famine, the little children understanding not the cause of the City, were immoderate for something to eat, but none had enough for himself much less for others, see chap. 2. 12, 13.

5 They that did feed delicately are desolate in the streets: they that were brought up in scarlet, embrace the dunghills c.

c This judgment reached not only to the common people, but to persons of the highest rank and order, whose misery was now so much the greater because so contrary to their former splendour and way of living. They were wont to feed delicately now they wanted bread to eat, and were desolate in the Streets. They were wont to eat upon Scarlet Carpets, or to lodge upon Scarlet Beds, and Couches, now they scarce for their meat-up, or were glad to lie upon dunghills.

Or, in captivity.

6 For the punishment of the iniquity of the daughter of my people, is greater than the punishment of the sin of Sodom, that was a overthrown as in a moment, and no hands stayed on her k.

k The word Translated punishment signifies also iniquity (as was said in the notes on chap. 2. 20.) the sins of the Jews are compared to the sins of Sodom, Jos. 2. 9. Exod. 16. 46. 48. 49. hence their Rulers are called Rulers of Sodom, Jos. 1. 10. either their sins were specifically the same (as they were) as to many sins, Exod. 16. 45. or they were of an equal magnitude, and provocative nature. The Prophet here complains that they were punished like Sodom, Amos 4. 11. yet and their punishment was greater because more lingering, and gradual, whereas Sodom was overthrown in a moment, and that by no humane hands that abode upon her, causing her a confirmed ruin, as there did upon the Jews. Dezail said it is better to fall into the immediate hand of God, than into the hands of men.

7 Her Nazarites were purer than snow, they were whiter then milk, they were more ruddy in body then rubies, their polishing was of sapphire m.

m By Nazarites in this place the most and best interpreters do not understand persons, who were of the Religious order of Nazarites, the Laws of which order are to be read, Numb. 6. 2. and of whom we read Amos 2. 11, 12. for here is a beauty described (under several metaphors) which could never agree to them: but persons that were pure and ingenuously good. The word Nazar signifying a crown, or Ensign of honour, 2 Sam. 1. 10. 2 Kings 11. 12. The name Nazarite was given to persons splendid for their breeding, and education or honour and dignity. It is given to Jephthah, Gen. 49. 25. we translate it Separate from his Brothers, Deut. 33. 16. Isaiah 53. 27. Her Nazarites in this place signifies her spiritual ones, who either in respect of birth, education, estate, places of Magistracy or the like, were distinguished from the rest of the people. n He expresseth their former splendid estate by the Metaphors of Snow, Milk, Rubies and Sapphires.

8 Their visage is blacker then a coal: a they are not known in the streets: b their skin cleaveth to their bones: c it is withered, it is become like a stick p.

a They that in the prosperity of the City were fair, plump, and ruddy, look now black for want of it nourishment, and through sorrow, and grief. b Inasmuch that those who before knew them by their countenances, garbs, and habits did not now know them. c And by reason of the Famine, (for he speaketh with relation to the Famine during the siege) they are almost starved, their skin is withered, and hard, and even sticketh to their bones.

9 They that be slain with the sword, are better then they that are slain with hunger: q for these † pine away, stricken through for want of the fruits of the field r.

q During the siege many were killed by the Enemies sword: many more perished by Famine, the Prophet saith the condition of those who perished by the sword was much better then the condition of those who perished by Famine, because they had a quicker death, and were sooner dispatched and put out of their pain, whereas r they who perished by hunger, dyed a miserable lingering death, gradually pining away, because they wanted Corn and Herbs, the Fruits of the Field, to uphold their lives in Life.

10 * The hands of the pitiful women have sodden their own children, they were their meat in the destruction of the daughter of my people f.

f This was according to what God had threatened in case of disobedience, Deut. 28. 57. and a thing which hath often happened in sieges, 2 Kings 6. 29. such things did happen in the last destruction of Jerusalem, as we read in Josaphat, and though we read of no such thing happening in the siege of it by Nebuchadnezzar, yet that there were some such sad instances appears from this Text.

11 The LORD hath accomplished his fury, he hath poured out his fierce anger, and hath kindled a fire in Zion, and it hath devoured the foundations thereof i.

i An unusual fire, which burns up not only the roof, and superstructure but the foundations, leaving no bottom for hopes of being reformed, see Deut. 32. 22.

12 The kings of the earth, and all the inhabitants of the world would not have believed, that the adversary and the enemy should have entered into the gates of Jerusalem u.

u Jerusalem was so naturally and artificially fortified, and so favoured by Gods and taken notice of as a place which the Lord cared for, and watched over, that it could not have entered into the thoughts of any of those that were enemies to it, that they should ever have been able to make themselves masters of it.

w Not for their sins alone who were the false Prophets and Saints Priests, but for their sins in an eminent degree, they were the Ring-leaders, either encouraging the people to the wickedness they committed, or not restraining them, and denouncing the wrath of God against them. So though they were the corrupt Magistrates that had shed the innocent blood, yet the Priests and Prophets became guilty of it, either encouraging the Magistrates to so doing them up in their bloody courses, or by barring the Children that were burnt in the Valley of Hinnom. The Ecclesiastical men were a great cause of the first and last destruction of Jerusalem, and so they are of most other places that come to ruin through their neglect of their duty, or encouraging others in their wicked courses, which both teach us how great a blessing to a people a godly, conscientious ministry is: and how great a plague and curse a ministry is which is otherwise, see Jer. 5. 31. and 23. 21.

14 They have wandered as blind men in the streets, they have polluted themselves with blood, x so that men could not touch their garments x.

Or, in the they crawl as but touch.

x A variety of Interpreters hath made this text much more difficult than it is. Certainly nothing can appear more reasonable than to interpret the pronoun in the front of the verse relatively and to fetch the antecedent from the former verse. They that is the Prophets and the Priests wandered up and down the streets like blind men being spiritually blind, polluting themselves with blood, either the blood of the Children which they slew, or the just men mentioned ver. 13. the slaughter of whom they either encouraged, or at least did not discourage: so as one could not touch a Prophet or a Priest but he must be legally polluted, and there were so many of them, that men could not walk walk in the streets but he must touch some of them. Something of the discourse of the Priests done with interpreters They of the blind men in the City who could not walk up and down the streets without touching the Bodies of some that were slain. Others interpret the words of the common people: who during the siege could no more avoid touching bodies slain and so polluting themselves with blood, then blind men could, so as they appeared to touch their own garments. The first sense to me seemeth most natural and easy.

15 They cried unto them, Depart ye y, it is unclean, depart, depart, touch not when they fled away and wandered y: they said amongst the heathen, They shall no more sojourn there z.

y The various application of the pronoun They by Interpreters, makes them as much divided in the sense of this as of the former verse. Either the Jews that made confidence of keeping to the Law against touching dead bodies, cried to the other Jews to leave the City as themselves did, the City being now so full of dead bodies that they could not stay in it without polluting themselves. Or the Priests called to them to that purpose. Or the Enemies spoke in that Language to them. z For their Enemies had resolved they should not stay in Jerusalem.

a These words seem to be the language of their Enemies triumphing over them, as discerning that their God was provoked against them, and would have no more regard or respect unto them; and that b they had mislaid his Enemies which agree with a Cham. 35. 16. But others rather think these latter words (if not the former also) are the Prophets words expressive of the cause of their miseries, viz. The Lords anger who had divided them, &c. and the effect of it. Their enemies having no regard to the most grave and venerable persons amongst them.

17 As for us, c our eyes as yet failed for our vain help: in our watching, we have watched for a nation that could not save us c.

* Isa. 30. 6, 7.

c That is, in expectation of the Egyptians, whom they waited for to raise the siege, it was a long time before they came, and when they did come they could do them no service at all, Jer. 37. 5. 7.

18 * They hunt our steps that we cannot go in our streets: our end is near, our days are fulfilled, for our end is come d.

d The Children employed in the siege are so close upon us that we cannot stir a foot about our business, nor look out at our doors, nor walk in safety in the streets, we are ruined, there is an end of our Civil Life. Our period is come, and the time of our prosperity is elapsed.

19 Our persecutors are e swifter then the eagles of the heaven, they pursued us upon the mountains, they laid wait for us in the wilderness e.

e Our Enemies who pursued us to destroy us were very swift in their pursuit of us, (as swift as an Eagle, was a proverbial expression) we would no where be safe, if we sought refuge in the mountains they followed us thither, if we fled from them into the Wilderness, they laid wait for us there.

20 The breath of our nostrils, the anointed of the LORD f was taken in their pits f, of whom we said, Under his shadow we shall live amongst the heathen g.

f That he calls some Prince here the breath of their nostrils, that is their Life, Gen. 2. 7. yet of doubt, and though some of the Jews would have it understood of Josiah, yet who could forebode that he was not taken but slain, and that not by the Children but by the Egyptians 23 years before the City was taken will see reason to conclude that he meant Zedekiah, who though a bad man yet was a King and of David's line, and afforded some protection to the Jews. g We promised our selves that though the Land of Judah was encompassed with Pagan Nations, yet through Zedekiah's valour and good conduct in Government, we should live comfortably, he being a covering and refreshing to us, but that the Prophet he also is fallen into Enemies hands.

21 Rejoyce and be glad, O daughter of Edom, that dwellest in the land of Uz h, b the cup also shall pass through unto thee: i thou shalt be drunken and shalt make thy self naked k.

h The Edomites were descended from Esaú the Elder Brother of Isaac, and dwelled in a part of Arabia, that obtained the name of Uz, probably from Uz the son of Diblah who descended from Sir, Gen. 25. 20. 28. they put their roll hatred to the Jews rejoyced at their ruin, as we learn from the Prophecy of Obadiah, who upon this account was sent to prophesy against them, the Prophet here ironically saith Rejoice in the time of Edom's ruin, Isaiah 63. 11. g Solomon bids the young man rejoice, but their joy should be but for a little time. i For God was dealing out the cup of his fury to more then the Jewish Nation, and amongst others to the Edomites. k And they should be like Edom and intoxicated with it, and make themselves naked as drunken men sometimes do in their debauches.

22 ¶ * The punishment of thine iniquity is accomplished, O daughter of Zion k, he will no more l carry thee into captivity l: he will visit thine iniquity, O daughter of Edom, he will discover thy sins g.

† Isa. 40. 2.

Or, thine iniquity.

Or, carry thee into captivity.

Or, carry thee captive for thy sins.

k O Edom's thy punishment is past, but the punishment of Edom's yet to come. The Jews were to abide many years in captivity, but they were now suffering their last punishment from the Chaldeans, they were only for some years to continue in that state of Captivity. l After this term of Captivity shall be expired, thou shalt not for thy old sins suffer any more punishment, nor die in their present Captivity (should be) as their punishment in case they were on in sinful courses, (as they did in rejecting Christ, and causing him to be Crucified) for those new wickednesses after many years they were destroyed by the Romans. But the Prophet hints that there should be present, or their past sins no more wrath be poured out upon them, nor would God ever detain them in this Captivity. g But for the Edomites their punishment was yet wholly to come, God was yet beginning to punish them, and would do it, discovering their sins. As the pardon of sin is in Scripture let out under the notion of covering it, Psalm 32. 1. for the punishment of sin may be expressed by discovering it, Jos. 20. 27. but the learned Author of the English Annotations, conceiveth the Hebrew may be better read, He will discover thee for thy sins, because of the particle ¶ before thy sins (though our Translation taketh no notice of it.) He will discover upon thy sins, and so it answereth, Jer. 49. 10. (as he conceiveth) I have made Edom barren, I have smitten his fertile places, and he shall not be able to hide himself.

CHAP. V.

1 Remember, O LORD, what is come upon us: consider and behold our reproach a.

a It hath been before observed that it is very frequent in Scripture to express those acts which are reasonably consequent to the exercise of our exterior or interior senses, by terms which signify the exercise of those senses. That which the Prophet here prayeth for is Gods freeing the Jews from those calamities which oppressed them, this he prayeth for under the notion of Gods remembering them, and showing their reproach.

2 Our inheritance is turned to strangers, our houses to aliens b.

b What our Fathers inherited as given them by thee, and we as left to us by them, is come into the hands of the Chaldeans.

3 We are orphans and fatherless, c our mothers are as widows d.

c We are all of us without a King (who is the common Father of the Country) are deprived of thy fatherly care and protection, many young Children amongst us are left without an earthly Parent. d Either our great Cities are like Widows wanting Magistrates. Or our Women that were married are left Widows.

4 We have drunken our water for money, our wood † is sold to us e.

e This seemeth to refer to the state of the Jews in Babylon where it is probable their necessities made them buy both Water and Wood, which in the Land of Canaan they had plentifully and without any further charge to them, then fetching the one, and cutting down and bringing home the other.

5 † Our necks are under persecution, we labour † and have no rest f.

† Heb. on our necks we are persecuted.

f As the generality of Prisoners of War, are made slaves and put to hard and incessant labour, so in probability the most of the Jews were at first at least.

6 We have given the hand to the Egyptians, and to the Assyrians, to be satisfied with bread g.

a The ten Tribes were all carried Captives into Affria, many of the Kingdom of Judah, as we have heard, fled into Egypt after the taking of Jerusalem. Giving the hand may either signify working with their hands, and labouring for them. Or yielding up themselves to their power, or lifting up the hands as supplicants to them, or striking hands, and making Covenants with them, or lending them their hands to help them, and all to get any thing to live upon.

b We must not understand this in the same sense as Exh. 18. 2, where God reflecteth upon them for using a Proverb to this sense. It is the Prophet who here speaketh, and in the name of the Godly Jews who would not excuse themselves, as if they suffered merely for their forefathers sins. But the Prophet confideth and bewaileth that God had punished their iniquities and the iniquities of their forefathers together, and it was better with their forefathers who had sinned, and were dead and gone, than with them upon whom the punishment of their iniquity did abide, and was like to do a long time.

8 Servants have ruled over us: i there is none that doth deliver us out of their hands k.

i Either those who sometimes were our servants, tributary to us, or the posterity of Canaan, condemned of old to be Servants to our forefathers Gen. 9. 26. Or the servants of those masters whom we serve in Babylon. k And none will help us and give us more liberty.

9 We gat our bread with the peril of our lives, because of the sword of the wilderness l.

l The Enemies lay incamped in all the plains, so as they could fire our way but the sword of the Chaldeans was upon them, and no way but they gat they adventured their lives for, during the time of the siege.

* Job. 40. 20. Pal. 119. 83. Or, 119. 87. Jer. 12.

10 Our * skin was black like an oven, because of the || terrible famine m.

m The want of bread caused leanness, and paleness, and ill colours in their faces.

11 They ravished the women in Zion, and the maidens in the cities of Judah n.

n Usual outrages of barbarous Soldiers. The Heb. is, They handed, a modest term to express those actions by.

* Ps. 47. 6. 12 Princes are hanged up by their hand: * the faces of elders were not honoured.

o Most probably by the Enemies hands, though some would have it by their hands intimating a more sharp and lingering death. Hanging was an ancient way in the Eastern Countries of putting malefactors to death, Gen. 40. 19.

13 They took the young men to grind, and the children fell under the wood x.

x Their base servile condition is expressed by the labour they were put to, which was either grinding in the Mill (an ordinary employment of Slaves in those Countries) or carrying Millstones, and the younger Children, in carrying great burdens of wood under which they fell, as being not able to stand under the burdens laid upon them.

14 The elders have ceased from the gate, the young men from their music y.

y Our grave men were wont to sit and execute judgment in the gates, but now there is no such thing. Our young men were wont to play on Musick, and to have their merry meetings, but they are also ceased.

15 The joy of our heart is ceased, our dance is turned into mourning.

z Either our rejoicing at our solemn Festivals, and dancing there, which were usual as appeareth from many Scriptures. Or all our joy and dancing as well at other times as in our solemn Festivals.

16 † The crown is fallen from our head: a woe unto us that we have sinned b.

a Or, the crown of our head is fallen, by which is not only to be understood the cessation of their Kingdom, but all their honour, splendour and dignity, (Crown being taken in a metaphorical Notion). b We must thank our selves for all this, this woe is come upon us because of our sins.

17 For this our heart is faint; for * these things our eyes are dim c.

c Either for our sins these miseries are befallen us: or for these miseries our Spirits fail us, and we are almost blinded with weeping.

18 Because of the mountain of Zion which is desolate, the foxes walk upon it d.

d Foxes and other wild beasts, which fly from places inhabited for fear of men inhabiting, and are much in desolate places. The Mountain of Zion, where the temple once stood, and people met to worship God, was now a desolate unfrequented place, so as wild beasts ran up and down there.

19 Thou, O LORD, * remainest for ever: thy throne from generation to generation e.

e That is, Lord though for our sins thou sufferest these things to be done unto us, and our throne be through thy righteous Providence thrown down, and thy throne in thy Sanctuary amongst us be thrown down; yet thou art still the same God, thy power is not diminished, nor thy goodness abated. Thou rulest the world, and shalt rule it for ever and for ever.

20 Wherefore dost thou forget us for ever, and forsake us † so long time f?

f Wherefore dost thou in the dispensations of thy Providence carry thy self as if thou hadst forgotten us, and forsaken us, and that for a long time.

21 * Turn thous unto thee, O LORD, and we shall be turned g: renew our days as of old h.

g See the like expression Jer. 31. 18. Turn thou unto thee by giving us Repentance, and then our condition will be altered, or receive us into thy favour, and then it shall be well with us. h Before us to our former estate, that it may be with us as it hath formerly been.

22 || But thou hast utterly rejected us; thou art very wroth against us i.

i Our Translators have here so rendered the participle ‘i that the words seem to express some diffidence in the Prophet of Gods Mercy in restoring the people to their former state, some expressions of which nature we had falling from the most eminent Servants of God in an hour of great Temptation: but where such a sense is not necessary, it is hard to put it upon a Text. Some therefore expound OR ‘i in this place by But if. Others translate them, Although thou hast, &c. Mr. Calvin preferreth the translation of them by Notwithstanding thou hast utterly rejected us, and thinks that by this expression the Prophet confirmeth himself against Temptations of diffidence, because it was impossible God should utterly cast off his People, Num. 11. 23. Others read it Interrogatively, Hast thou utterly rejected us? which doth not suppose that the Prophet believed he had, though his present Providence shewed him very angry with them.

ANNOTATIONS ON EZEKIEL.

THE ARGUMENT.

Ezekiel was by descent a Priest, and by Commission a Prophet, and received it from Heaven, as will appear from the first, second, and third Chapters. He was, and had been a Captive in Babylon five years when first he called to this Office, and there he met with many things that were occasions of grief to himself, and occasion of this Prophecy. For in Babylon there were many that did repine at their state, repented they had rendered themselves, called in question the Truth and Integrity of Jeremiah, and himself, and were ready to do violence to him, and not only so but they continued so to sin, that the name of God was blasphemed because of them: And these things both grieved and weakened the hearts of the best, and hardened the worst. To redress these things Ezekiel both extraordinarily Called, Commissioned, Qualified and Assisted in the Prophetic Office, in discharge of which he doth reprove and calm the discontented, that they might return to a right frame of Patience and Hope. He calls the profane and wicked to acknowledge Gods just and equal, and their own unequal ways. He directeth the himself heard who enquire that they might do their duties. He encourages that band of Godly ones among them, with many comfortable promises of good in their own Land, and of more grace from Heaven, and confirms what Jeremiah had Preached, advised, and foretold in Jerusalem, exactly harmonizing with him though the one at Babylon, the other at Jerusalem, definite of all means of conferring with each other. In all these particulars he is sometimes very plain, sometimes speaks in riddle, in which kind he is more frequent than any other of the Prophets, in them all deep and mysterious, to the quarrelling and forward these are dark, but to the humble, and teachable more significant and clear. In his three first Chapters he opens his Commission. In the next one and twenty Chapters he doth sharply preach against the sins of the Jews, which they dislike and grow weary of, and violent against the Preachers, who for some time is ordered to forbear, and leave them to that severe Sermon which the King of Babylons Army should Preach to them in the destruction of Country, City and Temple, which should open the Eyes of some, and wound the hearts of all the Jews. So the Prophet doth by order from the Lord preach against the Heathen round about, through the 25th. Chapter and onto the end of the 32th. Chapter, after which he is sent to preach Repentance and Pardon, with Grace and Favour to Israel, to proclaim the Messiahs Kingdom, and to assure them of the wonderful overthrow of their Enemies, the Rebuilding the City and Temple in greatness beyond what ever it was upon condition they become a Reformed People, ashamed for former sins, loath themselves, and love the Lord their God and keep his Ordinances; which they did not after their return, as is evident from the complaints, menaces, and reproaches which do every where sound in the mouths of Haggai, Zachary, and Malachi who lived after the joyful return from Captivity, and saw the sinful deportment of these returned Captives. Much of the Prophets discourses in the 33th. 34th. and so on to the end are Typical and Mystical, and refer to the return, as to the Emblem of our Spiritual deliverance out of Spiritual Captivity.

CHAP. I.

NOW a it came to pass that in the thirtieth year b, in the c fourth month in the d fifth day of the month (as I was e among the Captives f) by the River g Chebar h that the Heavens were opened i, and I saw j visions k of God n.

a This does not refer to any particular time before mentioned though sometimes this English participle now cometh particular time Heb. is And to the Gr. Lat. but is a phrase in use on entering upon discourse. b Of the Prophets age, or from the finding the Book of the Law in the eighteenth year of Jehoiachin when the threats were read which now were executed on the Jews, according to 2 Kings 22. 16. from which date to the fifth year of the Captivity are thirty years: or in the thirtieth year of the Chaldean Monarchy, founded by Nabopolassar. Other accounts omitted, you are left to your own thoughts which of these two later are more probable, both have very weighty authority for them. And indeed they both concur and meet in the fifth year of the Captivity, and in either computation may without mistake be followed. c The original hath only in Heb.

fourth concisely but 'tis certainly the Month, but whether in account from Marshan, October with us, to Saba, January, or from Nisan, March, unto Thames, July, is more questionable, the latter I grieve to be the rightest account; so from Nisan which is part of our March and April to Tamak part of our June, and July will be the fourth month, and this account in Church things best suits the Prophets design. d 'Twas the third day of our July, probably it was the Sabbath day, when the Jews would be free from labour and at leisure to hear the Prophet, and indeed such declarations of the Will of God attend entertainment suitable to the Consecration of the seventh day to God. e Heb. And Lat. Et. Though a Priest and Prophet, the first by Birth and Lineal descent, the other by extraordinary Commission, yet I also found as little respect as my Country-men. f In the midst of the Captivity for the Heb. idiom, perhaps the Prophet rather will the Heb. idiom, left it damme the City Babylon the grievousness of it. They were Captives, nay Captivity rather, under extreme bondage as darkness for dark. g Either there commanded to dwell, or thither retiring that more freely they might lament their own sins, and Jerusalem's desolation, or what if we were to keep, as they might, their Sabbath in which the spiritual Babylons interrupt them, and with from require them to sing a Temple Song, Psalm 137. 3. h Chabar a branch of Euphrates, or that part which Chabar advised should be made to divert the violence of Euphrates, left it damme the City Babylon. Or rather a River, now called Gizah, arising out of the Mountain Mafus, and falls into Euphrates, somewhat below a City called by the same name Gilgal or Chalusan; as Parasaris and Hebron observe. 1. The Firmament or lower parts of the Celestial arch either really did, or to appearance seemed to divide, and the contiguous parts withdrew as a Curtain, to give the Prophet the view of what was within; or as folding doors open that he might look into that apartment where this vision of light was prepared. 2. Expresseth thus in the passive to let us see that there was a Supreme, sovereign and divine Power and Authority, by which this was done; 'tis not said the Heavens did open but they were opened. It was not Meteor, Chalmis, or Yawning, which is naturally a figure of semblance of a breach in the visible Heavens, whence appears gulph or deep and wide pit to the eye. It was not thus but a supernatural and extraordinary aperture or opening, wrought by the immediate power of God, who was now appearing to the Prophet, and Commissioning him. It might probably be somewhat like that which appeared to the Proto-Martyr Stephen, Acts 7. 56. I had a vision, full, and clear sight of what appeared, I was awake and with my eyes discerned what I shall now write, the things I am about to publish, how stupendous forever they are, what I am sure I saw, and am as sure they will be accomplished. 3. In the plural, either because they were many distinct Visions, or because it was made of many distinct parts, each part seems to be one Vision of God. Excellent and wonderful, for by the name of God, Hib, expresseth any excellency as Cedars of God-Man or God, or God, wherein I saw God who appeared to the Prophet, or else of God, i. e. which God did make me to see. It was not a dream nor man's brain, was a Divine Vision either Corporal or Intellectual.

2. In the fifth o day of the month p which was the fifth q year of King Jehojachin r Captivity f.

3. The Hib, hath only fifth according to its concise title we do well to supply, day, as in verse 1. p Thems, as verse 1. answering to our Year and Year. 4. This account observed will guide us in computing the times this Prophet referred to vers 1. the five of Thyachin, and the eleven of his predecessor added to fourteen of Jeai & Rab, and he found the Law make up 20 years, vers 1. which likely might be the jubilee, the most fit for to solemn a Passover as Jeai kept. 5. Who is also called Jehoiachin, and Coniah, whose Father Jehoiachin was slain by the Chaldeans, and he after three Months short reign, voluntarily yielded up himself to the Chaldeans. Of which rendition of self and his vend, 2 Kings 24. 12. Chr. 3. Though this man yielded up himself yet the Babylonians made him Prisoner, and carried him and his into Captivity, and to Hib Aure, so some distinguish this from Captivity by calling it a transmigration, the Hib calls it Captivity.

3. The word s of the Lord u came s expressly unto: Ezekiel y the Priest z, the Son of Buzi 1, In the Land b of the Chaldeans, by the River Chabar c, and the hand d of the Lord was upon him t there.

4. What was Vision, u is here the Word, both as signifying and declaring the mind of God what he would do, and as containing his commands to Ezekiel and to the people, to whom these Visions fig by signs. 5. Least the Prophet should want his warrant, or the Jews except to his advice, it is plainly told them that Jehovah the Sovereign Lord and Eternal, and by Ezekiel commands, warns, commands and threatens. 6. Emphatically translated as u emphatically express in Hib, Bitig with him twas with him, so long he might discern, to clear he might understand, so near he could not be deceived, or easily forget what he saw to tell. 7. Ezekiel signifies either the strength of God, or strengthened by God, and in a few syllables express what is more largely set forth, Chr. 2. ver. 9. He speaks of himself in a third Person. 8. Who therefore should be regarded as one whose interest among the Priests at Jerusalem would be best promoted if better things might be hoped and forthly expected, then he must now tell them; it was likely he dealt truly with them, when he must there so much in the last things foretold. He was of the Priests originally, he was a Prophet by extraordinary call. 9. A of a contemned man, to the Etymology of the Hib, which gave the Chaldeans occasion to apply to it Jehoiachin, and to account the Prophet either Son or Servant to Jehoiachin, but his proper name is Ezekiel, and now masters of poor Captive Jews, Church of God, their God makes him a Prophet, who was an ordinary Priest in the Land of Israel. 10. 'Tis a River of Misopotamia, yet here seems placed in Chaldeans, because Misopotamia was part of the Kingdom of the Chaldeans, for Chabar or Chosor was in the Land, i. e. within the Kingdom of Chaldeans, but particularly in Misopotamia 2. Province of that Kingdom. 11. The divine impulse moving with power and efficacy on Ezekiel for the word, and clearly confirming and demonstrating to the Captive Jews, that he was the Prophet of the Lord, and spoke to them in his name, the Spirit of Prophecy as the Ch, Par. 12. God is not confined though most Prophets were in the Land of Israel yet here in Chaldeans, also appears a great Prophet, and should be hearkened unto.

4. And I looked f, and behold g, a Whirlwind b came s out of the North k, a great cloud l, and a fire m infolding t it self, and a brightness n was about it, and out of the midst thereof o as the colour p of Amber q, out of the midst of the Fire r.

1. I did very diligently survey the things that were represented to me in the Vision. 2. This calls us to consider what he had seen and represented to us. 3. A mighty storm, and turbulent wind, a wind that bears away, or bears down all before it, this denotes the indignation and judgments of God, a quick, impetuous and irresistible vengeance. Most grievous judgments, represented as here, 1. Kings 19. 11. Job 38. 1. Ps. 104. 4. I came as it knew it's way, and notwithstanding its impetuosity and irregularities, yet held its direct course. 4. From Babylon which in Scripture Geography is laid Northward from Judea, and the Prophet, though now in Babylon does speak of the Judea, as if they were in Jerusalem. 5. Against which this Cloud, on which an angry God did ride, hastening vengeance on them, which they should be as little able to divert or withstand, as to stop the course of the Clouds, or their breaking upon us, it was the Army of the Chaldeans made up of multitudes of People (as the Cloud is made by the concurrence of multitudes of exhalations and vapours). 6. Jer. 4. 13. M Burning in a dreadful manner, very fierce, fed by fuel within it self, breaking out and flashing with terror, though it had seemed to recede, and excising all things near it, and threatening to devour all. Such was the Anger of God against the Jews. 7. Though thus terrible, yet round about it was not smook and darkness, but clear light or splendor, The Majesty, Holiness, Justice of God appeared to the Prophet, and might be seen by the suffering Jews to humble them, that they might seek him. 8. Either of the Whirlwind or Cloud, or the Fire rather, as in the end of the verse. 9. Hib, As the Eye, the speech, or appearance. 10. The Hib word is variously interpreted and its left labour to search the Rabbins here. Ambr is either Natural, which if in the Fire loath its brightness; or Artificial made of Gold and fine Brass mix, which will brighten in the Fire, and of equal value with Gold (as the DD. Babylon observe). 11. Ezekiel and Satan did make the Sex of Brass, and the Chaldeans Jews; forasmuch like the Christians Brass, known now only by its name, exceeding splendid, and very hard, the one speaking the glorious Majesty to be revered, the other speaking the invincible Power of God to be feared; both advising this people and us to repent and amend, and return and meet him. 12. The Ambr then, and in which the Jews were to be melted or consumed.

3. Also out of the midst thereof f came the likeness s of four living creatures. And this \ u* was x what their appearance, they had the likeness x of a man.

4. Of the Fire, or that Ambr which appeared, as having four Wheels. 5. These were not indeed living creatures, but the appearance of them, and signify with some the four Monarchies s with others the four chief Leaders in the four quarters of the Camp of Israel, with others the four Evangelists; with others more likely, the Holy Angels, whose attendance becometh the Majesty of God, and the terriblest of Judgements to be executed on the Jews, and they are four, either to denote the cardinal number of them, or to show that would be the four chief of his Angels, or perhaps to let the Jews know that he had many ways to punish, and as many Officers of his wrath, as they could find corners of the World to fly unto. 6. Or, since the appearance of a Chariot in the midst of this Vision is supposed, twas first that four living Creatures should answer to the Wheels thereof. 7. The form in which these four each appear to the first view, or at some distance. 8. The Stature, the greater part of them appeared of human shape, for they had Face, Hands, and Thighs, and the posture was erect in standing, or motion as man is.

6. And every y one had four z Faces a, and every one b had four c wings.

7. Of those four living Creatures which appeared to the Prophet. 8. This Hieroglyphic though it seems to present us with a monstrous fig, yet does not unbecome the Divine Wisdom, nor doth it want like representations, as chap. 10. 12. and Revel. 4. 6. and 5. 6. And speaks either the full fruits of Revel. 4. to God's Commands in all things and occasions, or the Perfection of nature and Obedience, or universal Dominion of God, and the universal subjection of the Creatures. 9. Some would have this not literally understood of that part of the body which is properly the face, though I see no cause for it, but as these living Creatures had faces, they had Faces, and what those were the 10th verse does tell us. 10. If there every Face had four wings, each living Creature would have sixteen wings, but its every one of the living Creatures had four wings. With two they did fly noting the speed of their obedience, and with two they cover their Body, denoting the reverence of their mind, and obedience.

7. And their feet d, they were straight e feet, and t twas the sole f of their feet was like the sole of a calves g foot, and they sparkled b like the colour of burnished brass.

8. Hib. Expresseth the parts below the Belly by Foot, their Thighs, Legs, and Feet (as by Hand is meant the whole Arm.) were of humane shape. 9. Not loved this, but the whole Arm argues weakness; here is most elegantly described, the unconquered firmness wherewith Angels do the Commands of God Their readiness and their wisdom also in doing it, nothing low or brutish in their Actions. 10. That which is properly the Foot. 11. Divided foot spake the cleanness of the Creature. The One patient of Labour, a Beast for Sacrifice to God, in these things Angels Servants of God well remembered, what if we should add a smoothness in pace. Blasted Angels are not over forward to Eas, yet ever go when bid. 12. It may refer to either the Living Creatures or to their Feet; it speaks either their Anger against an obstinate sinful people, or the terror of executing Gods Judgements, or the self discovering light of his Justice, or the zeal of Angels in a speedy performing the Will of God, in which their firmness excels the other Sparks.

8. And they i had the hands k of a man l under m their wings on their four n sides, and they four o had their faces and their wings.

9. Each of the four living Creatures. 10. Hands in every Language, especially in the Oriental imply power, and being the chief instruments of Action, are here ascribed to these active instruments that execute the Commands of God. 11. This is added to denote the Wisdom, Dexterity and Vigilance wherewith they discharge their Ministry. 12. Their power and efficacy of exerting it is secret and invisible, and its put forth for God pleath to move them. 13. On each side of the Chariot one of these living Creatures stood, and so on each side hands were ready to act as they were moved, and though 'twas to all parts of the World, yet they moved ready prepared. 14. twas doubled to confirm the truth and certainty of the thing, and to intimate the greatness of their Power, Agility and Wisdom.

9. Their wings were p joined one to another, they turned q not when they went, they went r every one straight forward.

10. The wings of the living Creatures, when stretched out to fly, were joined together, so the wings of those two Cherubims which went foremost, and the wings of the two hindmost were joined together when they moved. It seems to refer to that Exod. 25. 20. It signifies however the equal and uniform readiness of Angels, their concord, and union with conformity to do the Will of God, and it shews us the exact harmony that is between the works of God. Their wings and their being joyful is express, Hib was the union of loving Sisters with each other. 11. They loth no time in a difficult or tedious turning as we see in other Chariots, for which way fewer they were to go thither they had Faces directed, and so readily moved forward on their way whether East or West, North, or South, and held on till they had finish their course, but then were ready for further action, and were quick to their flight, when they might receive new Commands as Lightning does, so in that verse 14. there they did return, here they did not, are reconciled. 12. This explains the former and confirms it to us assuring us that every one of those living Creatures are ready, faithful, and unwearied in doing the pleasure of their Creator, in his Government of the World Vid. 16. 12.

10. As for the t likeness f of their faces, they four had the face of a man, and the face of a lion on the right side, and they four had the face of an ox on the left side, they four also had the face of an Eagle.

11. Here the Prophet doth more expressly set forth what was more darkly mentioned in the 6. verse, and describeth their faces both by the proper resemblances, and by their respect to the local directions of East and West, or right and left hand. But since such differences are in themselves of little moment, and undeterminable, unless we were certain what prospect these living Creatures stood in, whether looking to the Prophet, or to Jerusalem, or toward Babylon we shall say no more of it; it what their figure is more material. Each Face is compared to what is most excellent in its kind, Man excels in Wisdom, Lions in Strength, the Ox in Patience and Constancy, the Eagle in Speed, and high Flight. So in the Ministry of Angels, and Government of the World by the Providence of God, what is most excellent may be observed.

11. Thus were their faces s; and their wings were stretched u upward x, 2. two wings of every one were joined one to another, and two covered y their bodies.

12. If you make a full point at Pater, it should seem better joined with the former verse, and this text will be more easy, for 'tis somewhat odd to speak of Faces first as Wings are, but if their Faces as well as Wings must be stretched upward, we must understand their Faces looking upward to the Great and Glorious Governor of the World, who sat upon the Throne above the Firmament, which was over their heads, vers 22. 23. 24. 25. admiring, and wondering, and waiting his pleasure to do it. 2. Were divided above, so each Face appeared distinct above the Shoulders, and there the Wings divided from each other were united to the body of the living Creature. 3. Which stretching two upward joined them, to the Wings of that living Creature which stood by its side, to testify their readiness, concord, and cheerfulness in their office. 4. Ps. 6. 2. With which they covered their Feet, either in deep humility, and for decency, or because of infirmity of humane nature, for whose relief they appear in what they do, but must not appear what they are because they would be too glorious to our sight.

12. And they went every one straight z forward, whither the spirit a was to go; they went b; and they c turned not when they went.

13. Vid. verse 5. Which way fewer they went, each living Creature had one Face looking straight forward, and their other Faces looking toward other coasts of the World, if the fore right were to the South, the other Faces looked one to the East, one to the West, and the other to the North. Thus with relative constancy, wisdom, and universal care Providence rules and guides Affairs of the World, and especially of the Church and Glory of God. 4. The Wind moved, Gy come, but if there were a gale of Wind, which blowing gently on these living Creatures stirred them in the sight of the Prophet, it was emblematical, and represented to his view, the power and influence of the Spirit of God, which moved and acted their admirableness. The will, command, and breathing of the Spirit of God, both gave and guided their motions, to ends he himself design'd. 5. Going is attributed here to the Spirit of God by allusion and not properly, for who is ever in every place cannot properly be said to go from one to any place. 6. The living Creatures readily offered the impressions of the Spirit of God, and obeyed. 7. Vid. verse 9. They loth not lack as unwilling, they turned not out of the way as forwards, they gave no over, till they had completed their course.

13. As for the likeness s of the living creatures, their appearance u was like burning f coals of fire g, and like the appearance of lamps b; it went up i and down among the living creatures, and the fire was bright k, and out of the fire went forth lightning l.

14. The further describeth what he had more briefly spoken of verse 6. There you had their shape and make, here you have their colour. 2. In which they were seen by the Prophet. 3. Their aspect was of a fiery colour to alight and alarm secure sinners. That God who had hitherto appeared most patient and long-suffering now makes discoveries of himself in dreadful displeasure, which would burn, as Rom. 11. 1. 2. 3. Ps. 10. 17. Is. Jer. 4. 4. That would consume their Glory, and there be none to quench it, Jer. 7. 20. and 21. 12. 4. God doth by his Prophet here forewarn them of very great miseries coming on them Wrath as Fire, as Coals, and burning, every word adding weight to the phrase. It notes also the zeal and fervent affection of these living Creatures, doing the Will of God. 5. It was not a dark and forbey fire of malice and hell, which burneth in the lamp, limited, it should not devour but the wicked, Or it may note the care and vigilance wherewith these executions should be made, as if all were done in the light of Lamps, as in dark places we take Candles to light us in our work; or it may intimate the hope for the good among the Jews as Lamps doth, Ps. 62. 1. and destruction of Enemies, as Zech. 12. 6. Or it may be interpreted by Dan. 10. 6. where the Lamp that burneth expresseth the Divine Wisdom and Love, and possibly the Knowledge and Love of Christ, as Revel. 1. 15. 'Twill well suit with the whole Vision, and with what next follows. 7. This Fire, or the burning Lamp, or both went up and down, stood not still, nor was carried, but as the Hib, twas it self walk up and down. It moved it self, which is too much to ascribe to Creatures; God only is an unmoved mover, Or 'twill lead our thoughts to God, who moved at these living Creatures. 8. It was not the dark and forbey fire of malice and hell. It intimated as always Gods zeal for his own Glory, and as Angels zeal for the Glory of their God, Or 'twas to bring us to discover self in more than ordinary glory. 1. With this God gave the Law, Exod. 19. 16. Contends with creatures, as Sam. 22. 15. Zech. 9. 14. These Lightnings as they are terrible to sinners, and strike an awe upon Sinners, 2. they tell both to church there is more than ordinary call upon us to be look to them. His Judgements as Lightning call upon us to fear, seek, and shelter our selves with God.

14. And the living creatures m ran n, and returned o as the appearance of a flash of lightning p.

15. Angels ministers of the Divine pleasure, at above verse 5. 6. were speedy in their motion, this denoted by this expression as figuratively apply'd to Angels. 2. Yec verse 9. 12. 'tis said they return'd not, where this seeming contradiction is reconciled, the 9th. and 12th. verse deny their turning aside from their work, this 14th. affirms they returned, i. e. when they had done their work. 3. Very quick, with vehemency, splendor, and irresistible efficacy.

15. ¶ Now q as I beheld r the living creatures, behold s, one wheel t upon the Earth u by the living creatures x, with his four faces y.

¶ Or, and, 'tis a transition from the former to the latter part of the Vision. 2. Considered and observed. 3. It calls for our attention. 4. Or a certain wheel of spherical form as some, of a circular form as the wheels of Chariots by others. 5. It is one wheel intimating that all the different causes, and motions how many forever in themselves, yet work the same work and are govern'd.

the Temple, and was coming through the Court, a light of Majesty shined before him. Ps. 18. 12. 13.

† Heb. vid. chap. 1. 24. 5 And the 4 found * of the cherubims wings was heard even to the utter court, as the voice of the Almighty God when he b speaketh.

† Heb. vid. chap. 1. 24. 6 There was a great and dreadful noise to awaken, or stop the mouths of sinners; whether this was an applause of Christ's righteous procedure, or any found of plurim, or both let your own judgment determine. See chap. 1. 24. 25. Such a noise will be heard, and the Vision represented such a great noise to the Prophet, he reports it to the Jews, not that the Elders now with Exilist did hear this, or that such an audible sound was heard in Jerusalem, but 'tis all represented to the Prophet, and by him to them. 'Tis the Court of the Women.
7 As a mighty and terrible thunder, which was Plurim
2. 4. 5. the voice of the Lord. 8 As when he spake on Mount Sinaï, which made them all fear, and the light so terrible, that Abū himself trembled. Hab. 12.

6 And it came to pass, that when he b had commanded the man clothed with linen, saying, Take fire from between the wheels, k from between the cherubims; I then he went in, and m stood beside the wheels.

† Heb. vid. chap. 1. 24. 7 See it. For that conf and this are the same in effect. k What is said to be between the Wheels, is said also to be between the Cherubims; which represent Angels the Ministers of God's Providence; and to what now is observed to be among the Wheels, in the effects or order of God's Providence, is among or between the Angels, the ministerial causes thereof. I readily obey'd. m Either as one that desired Execution to try whether the City would repent, or as one that was to give further order to Angels, that were to be the Ministers of his just discipline; and whereas, ver. 3. the Cherubims stood as Servants waiting; here Christ stands as a Lord commanding;
they obey him, he obeys his Father.

† Heb. vid. chap. 1. 24. 7 And e cherub f stretched forth his b hand from p between the cherubims unto the q fire that was between the cherubims, and r took it, and s went out, and put it into the f hands of him that was clothed with linen, who t took it, and s went out.

1. 24. 8. which ec. p This that reached the Fire to Christ, stood among the Cherubims, and putting forth his hand, or exerting his strength and power, severed Christ our Lord, and his. q Ver. 12. and chap. 1. 24. 8. As a Servant that reacheth what his Master would have and use. Both hands, for 'tis in the Plural Number. t Received it of the Angel as one who might employ it when he would. u From among the Angels, and out of the Temple; or from the threshold, where all this Vision appeared as it is in flame; and he gave into the City to prepare all, that nothing be done too soon, or too late.

8 ¶ And there x appeared in the y cherubims, the z form of a man f hand under their w wings.
x To the Prophet. y The Ministerial Spirits. z Shaped to speedy, accurate working; 'tis therefore a man's hand. f One hand was put forth to reach the Fire, and that one is mentioned, though the Angels had hands under their wings. w
The manner of Angels working is hereby intimated, for 'tis secret, and speedy; secret, as hidden under wings, and speedy, as effected by the swiftest motion; the very speed hideth it.

9 And when I a looked, behold, the b four wheels by the c cherubims, one wheel by one cherub, and another wheel by another cherub; and the appearance of the d wheels was as the colour of a e beryl-stone.

and there explained. c One wheel by one cherubim for cherubims, and four wheels. d The revolutions and effects among worldly and visionary Affairs as wheels unstable, yet Governed by a sure Wisdom. e Of Sea green, to note the instability in a more pregnant simile.

10 And as for their f appearances, g they four had one likeness, as if a wheel had been in the midst of a wheel.

† Heb. vid. chap. 1. 24. 10 Though there might be various aspects, and faces of things, yet in this great variety there was great Harmony, all of one likeness. vide chap. 1. 24. 16. and move to one great end.

11 ¶ When i they went, they k went upon their four sides; they turned not as they went, but to the place whither the h head looked, m they followed it; they n turned not as they went.

† Heb. vid. chap. 1. 24. 11 Whosoever they did so, what occasion forever they had to go. i The Wheels moved by the cherubims, or that Spirit of Life which moved the living Creatures. k These Wheels were so framed, that they could move on all four sides without the difficulty and delay of turning. See chap. 1. ver. 17. l Of the living Creatures looked. The Spirit, as chap. 1.
ver. 12, 20. an admirable wisdom did guide and manage all.

† Heb. vid. chap. 1. 24. 11 The wheels do certainly and orderly follow. n Divers not from the designed course, and work till finished.

12 ¶ And their whole p body, and their backs, q Heb. vid.
and their hands, and their wings, and the r wheels s were full of eyes round about, t even the wheels that they u four had.

† Heb. vid. chap. 1. 24. 12 Now he describes both cherubims and wheels as full of Wisdom, and as governed by an excellent Wisdom. p Angels have not bodies of flesh, but body here is figurative, for back, and wings, and hands, the two latter are expressly ascribed to the cherubims, ver. 8. the two former not mention'd before (as I think) but all full of eyes; i. e. Wisdom, foresight, watchfulness, and diligence. q The four cherubims laid to move, govern, and direct.

13 As for the r wheels s it was f cried unto them in my hearing, o wheel.

† Heb. vid. chap. 1. 24. 13 As to their frame and motion, however 'twas, f Still there was one who guided by vocal direction. o Touch of them, o Gag.
as appears by that o wheel, and the Prophet is ear witness of it.

14 And every a one had four faces; the first face was the face of a cherub, and the second face was the face of a man, and the third the face of a Lion, and the fourth the face of an Eagle.

† Heb. vid. chap. 1. 24. 14 Of the living Creatures, chap. 1. 24. 1. the cherubims in this chapter. q Which each had. p In Babylon, at the River Chabar, he saw somewhat a different face, in the Temple he saw a cherub, one of the faces, which leads us to look on Angels employ'd in those revolutions. r The second, which each cherubim had, was a man's face. o chap. 1. 24. 5, 10.

15 And the cherubims s were lifted up; this is the b living creature that I saw by the river s chap. 1. 24.
Chebar.

† Heb. vid. chap. 1. 24. 15 Or lifted up themselves, ready to attend on the Lord of glory, who was now departing from his polluted and impotent people. See chap. 1. 13. 14. 15. 19. 20. 21. 22.

16 And * when the cherubims went, the wheels went by them; and when the cherubims lift up their wings, to mount up from the Earth, the face wheels turned not from beside them.

17 When they stood, these stood; and when they were lifted up, these lifted up themselves also; for * the spirit of the living creature was chap. 1. 24.
in them.

† Heb. vid. chap. 1. 24. 17 The two Verses are explained, chap. 1. 24. 20. which ec.
A perfect harmony between second causes in their dependence on, and subjection to the one Infinite, Wise, Good, Holy, and Just God.

18 Then the Glory of the LORD b departed from off the threshold of the c house, and stood over the cherubims.

† Heb. vid. chap. 1. 24. 18 The Lord dream't that God could not depart from his Temple, indeed, whilst 'twas his, and used as his, he did not, nor would he depart, but he will abandon it, when profaned, and thereby made not his c Temple he had withdrawn out of the Sanctuary, stood a while at the door. d On the right side of the house, where the cherubims were in the Inner Court, ver. 3.

19 And the cherubims lift up their wings, and e mounted up from the earth f in my sight: when they went out, the wheels also were besides them:
and g every one stood at the door of the h east-gate of the LORDS house; and the glory of the God of Israel was over them above.

† Heb. vid. chap. 1. 24. 19 The Glory of the Lord, ver. 18. is said to have stood above the cherubims, and here the cherubims mount, get farther from the Earth, and by nearer access declare their readiness to attend the Lord of glory. f That he might assure the Jews of the danger of their losing God's presence. g The Glory, the che-rubims, the wheels all stood, implying execution, and giving opportunity of preventing the approaching misery. h The last Court, the Court of the People, or Lobby of Jerusalem.

20 This is the living i creature that I saw under the k God of Israel, by the River of Chebar, and I knew that they were the cherubims.

† Heb. vid. chap. 1. 24. 20 Yet four in number, but one in form, mind, and work.
i Appearing as he did, chap. 1. 24. 26. 27. 28. in form of a man it leads us to conclude it meant of Christ. l Either by special assistance as a Prophet, or by comparing them with those which he had often, as Priest about the Temple, then there.

21 m Every one had four faces apiece, and every one had four wings, and the likenesses of the hands of a man was under their wings.

22 And the likenesses of their faces was the same faces which I saw by the River Chebar, their appearances, and themselves, they went every one straight forward.

† Heb. vid. chap. 1. 24. 22 See chap. 1. 24. and chap. 1. 24. 26. These two verses are a full repetition and ratification of the Prophets that God had appeared to him, foretold every judgments coming, and 'tis so repeated to awaken a stupid and careless people. They have been already explained.

CHAP. XI.

1 Moreover, the a spirit b lift me up, and brought me to the c East gate of the LORDS house, which looketh d East-ward: and behold at the door of the gate e five and twenty men; f among whom I saw g Jazaniah the son of Azur, and h Pelatiah the son of Benaiah,
i princes of the people.

† Heb. vid. chap. 1. 24. 1 The Spirit of God, as chap. 2. 2. 2. 2. b As at first to fill it supports him, and removes him from place to place. c Either of the East Gates, whether that which leads into the first Court, or into the second Court, or into the House of the Lord, may be here understood, though probably this last. For this number you find there chap. 1. 24. 16. if you will suppose the Prophet was brought to the East gate where the Glory of the Lord now departing was gone up from the Temple, it is much at an d a pleasant or ridiculous expression. e Some enquire whether these were the same with those 2. 2. 2. chap. 1. 24. 16.
To me 'tis most like they were, for at that same place we find them and likely about the same work, worshipping East-ward here are the two arguments urged by some conclusive against it, may one of the two is plain for it, ver. 2. that quoted from chap.
1. 24. 16. f As forward Ring leaders and Chief among them, g This man by his Fathers name added appears to be another, not he that is mentioned chap. 2. 2. 11. h Named here for his good quality, but for that dreadful sudden death whereby he became a warning to others. i Either as publick Officers, or as heads of their families.

2 ¶ Then said I unto me, Son of man, these are the a men that b devil c m mischief, and d give wicked counsel in the city.

† Heb. vid. chap. 1. 24. 2 So soon as the Prophet had seen and observed how many, and who they were. l The Lord sitting on the cherub, chap. 1. 24. 4. f Not the only men but indeed the most notorious. m Frame and contrive with craft and false reasoning. n Vanity, the thing was, and mischief the fruit of it.
o They persuade the people that the City shall not be burnt, that they may safely build, and dwell in their houses. p This vain hope exhibits that money with which they might have provided for themselves, and this proves a mischief. q This may be explanation of that he last spake. Or, possibly it may note their activity and diligence going about the City and counselling their acquaintance to put off the evil day. Or, perhaps they treat a compliance and coalition with the Chaldean superstitions to save themselves, 'tis not impossible they might give counsel to unhappy Zedekiah. The Chaldean Paraphrast here useth a word which first notation is to Reign or be a King, the second sense to give Counsel, whose Counsellors for ever they were, their counsel tended to shame and loss.

3 Which a I say, it is not q near, * let us build houses: This Cyrus the r Chaldean, and we be the flesh.

† Heb. vid. chap. 1. 24. 3 What Counsel was by these men given appears by their words. q Either the threatened danger and ruin by the Chaldeans. Or, else build, but not in the suburbs nor near, but in the City that your houses may not shelter you. r This is an impious scoffe, yet mixt with some fear of the Prophets, Jer. 1. 13. and Exilist 2. 2. 6.
They deride the Prophets, yet secretly dread the thing, Jerusalem is the pot, we the flesh that are to be boiled therein, but the wheels will use sometime however, we were better to be destroyed than to fall by the hands of the Chaldeans, who perhaps may roast what is not boiled here.

4 ¶ Therefore a prophesie against them, b prophesie, c Son of man.
For this their Atheistical temper and words. d Tell them before hand what they shall suffer. e The charge and command doubled both to engage the Prophet and to intimate a double misery coming upon them, a misery they shall not have courage to laugh under, though they now dare contemptuously laugh at.

5 And the * a spirit of the y LORD z fell upon me, and a said unto me, Speak, Thus b saith the LORD. c Thus have ye said, d O house of Israel: e for I know the things that come into your minds, every one of them.

† Heb. vid. chap. 1. 24. 5 The Spirit of Prophecy again moved him. y Which is here called the Spirit of the Lord Orphe spirit the Lord as the Psalm will bear. z Declared, by its own act powerfully, freely, and prevailingly called the man. a Intimated me that I should not but speak. b As though that by my appointment so be fit to use my name and authority. c Prophecically with costs as hath been reported, ver. 3. d Ye may be assured all that ariseth up in your mind is known to me, I see each one of the imaginations of your mind so soon as ever they peep up in your heart. Your thoughts I know afar off, Psalm 139. 2.

6 Ye have a multiplied b your sin in this city, and ye have c filled the streets thereof with the slain.

† Heb. vid. chap. 1. 24. 6 Many murders, and great ones (for the Heb. includeth both) have you committed, either with frauds, or violence and sometime with colour and pretence of Law. f So called because they were such as God had not commanded to be cut off but the Jews did it without warrant from God. g Either let them murdered in the streets. Or, rather, by an Hyperbole, The streets are full, every where some or other in every street, you have condemned and killed. h 'Tis an expression the Scripture much useth to set forth the bloody effects of the Jewish rage, and of others.

your sin, whom ye have b laid in the midst c 2. 2.
of it, they are the d flesh, and this e is the cau-dron: but f I will g bring you forth out of the midst of it.

† Heb. vid. chap. 1. 24. 7 Your murders are the cause of my severity, and such sins first or last are surely punish'd. See chap. 1. 24. 16. Or your sin because they were such as God had not commanded to be cut off by a reasonable submission, you perished them to an obnoxious up-position against the Chaldeans to their destruction. h Or placed (as the word bears) 'tis not unlike that they who perished all to stay, did provide or at least help as many as did stay, to habitations, and placed them in Houses or Lodgings. i The pieces which are to be cast into the Cauldron, and here be resolved. m That is the mighty, eternal and just God. n Not in mercy but in wrath by the conquering hand of Babylon, I will draw you out to greater torment.

8 Ye have feared the sword a, and I will bring a sword b upon you, saith the LORD GOD.

† Heb. vid. chap. 1. 24. 8 Similarly and forgetting God, you would have escaped the Sword of the Babylonians and attempted it by an idolatrous impudence. p For this very cause will I send that Sword upon you, and it shall lay your Wives, Children, and Fellow Ci-zens.

9 And a I will bring you out of the midst thereof, and b deliver you into the c hands of d strangers; and e will execute judgements among you.

† Heb. vid. chap. 1. 24. 9 Though the Chaldeans are the means, or instruments by which 'tis done, yet I will so appear against you that it shall be confessed that I did it rather than Chaldeans. Delighting all your projects for escape; f was Zedekiah when he secretly fled and his Company with him delivered unto Enemies and Strangers. g It denoteth a full power over them. h Babylonians and others who assisted in this war. i Strangers will use you provided but the most severe part of the judgement will be from a proud God, who would have pardoned, but impetence led to the pardon.

10 Ye shall a fall by the sword, I will b judge you in the border of Israel, and c ye shall know that I am the LORD.

† Heb. vid. chap. 1. 24. 10 The Enemies Sword shall lay you. y My just judgements shall pursue you whither soever you fly, and overtake some of you. z Zedekiah and others who were judged at Riblah,
2 Kings 25. 20.

11 This a city shall b not be your cauldron, neither shall you be the flesh in the midst thereof;
but I will c judge you in the border of Israel.

† Heb. vid. chap. 1. 24. 11 A Jerusalem though it suffered unparalleled hardships, h Shall not be the place of your sufferings; greater are reserved for you, you shall be tortured in a strange Land. c Do more against you at Riblah whereas a King. 2. 2. 6. 7. The Capive King had his Children and others with them first murdered before his Eyes, and then his own Eyes put out, and Riblah is called here the Border of Israel, for that Syria was adjoining to Israel on the North, and Riblah or Arich was a pleasant City towards the frontiers of Syria, upon the River Orontes, which arising in Antilibanus runs through part of Syria, and for the delicacy of the feast it had many Cities built on it. And here Nabuchadnezzar in his Royal feast, and amidst the pleasures of the place expires the issue of the siege.

12 And a ye shall know that I am the LORD:
for ye have not b walked in my c statutes, neither have ye executed my d judgments, but have done after the e manners of the heathen that are round about you.

† Heb. vid. chap. 1. 24. 12 Tho you would not believe my threats nor fear them, you shall feel them and then you shall know, thus the wicked learn.
h Whom you should have obeyed, feared and returned to, and who now convinceth you of his and his Prophets Truth in all that was foretold you. i A Scripture phrase expressive of the course of mans Life. j The rules for Religious observances.
k Refer to the Political and Civil state where equity and justice should

should have been ministered. i In matters of Religion you have turn'd down right Idolaters, and with the greatest contempt for your God, the only true God, you have changed them for Gods of Heathen round about, and taken in their Modes and Abominations. And as to Civils you have been as unjust, oppressive, and perfidious, as these Nations that know no my Law.

13 And it came to pass that I when I prophesied, that Pelatiah the son of Benaiiah m dyed, n then fell down upon my face, and o cried with a loud voice, and said, p Ah Lord GOD, q wilt thou make a full end of the remnant of Israel.

q Either this refers to some particular prediction of the Death of this man; as Jeremiah did of Hezekiah's death, Jer 28. 17. though I do not remember that Ezekiel had spoke of it before, and therefore I take the words for a usual transition. r If you suppose the first, ghes at the meaning of, It came to pass, then this will be best interpreted by, According to, or, Even as; if you adhere to the latter, then this When is Wholly, as At my prophesying, m And so was a pledge, or preface of the following Death of the other Twenty four. n Immediately, in most humble manner, as that people were used to do, Job 7. 10. 2 Chron 20. 18. He fell down upon his face, in order to pray. o With intense and earnest mind he prayed, as well with a loud voice. See chap 9. ver 8. Much like, change of this in Elihu 4. 1. An expression of his tender compassion for them. q A very usual way of interceding, and is common in Scripture, that 'tis a wonder any should find fault with it, who know the Scripture. r By saying all as this man is cut off. s This man's name implyeth one that elapsed, or delivered by God's good hand; and perhaps the Prophet alludes to it, however, is very forcible. t Others were for the remnant, which was ever left. 2 Kings 19. 30. 1 Kings 10. 21. 2 Jer 23. 3. and 31 7. and in this manner do Ezek chap 9. ver 8. intercede for the Jews.

14 u Again the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

v It was a reasonable word to stop the mouths of the Inflicting Jerusalem, w to encourage the Captives at Babylon.

15 x Son of man, y thou shalt say, z brethren, a even b ye brethren, c the men of thy kindred, and all the house of Israel wholly, d are they unto whom the Inhabitants of Jerusalem have said, e I'll get ye far from the LORD: unto f us is this land given in possession.

f See chap 2. ver 1. x Thy nearest kindred, which it seems were left in Jerusalem, and were grown as bad as the rest, though theirs were of a Priestly Lineage. Their degeneracy and unjust enmity is more noted in the repetition of the word Brethren. y Of the same Fellowship to whom they held right of Redemption if either their person or Estate was to be sold: Men who should have been as tender in Affection, as they were near in Blood. z All that are now in Captivity, be they more or less, of whatsoever condition and rank, these are the men of whom the Jerusalem speaks. a That is, censure, and condemn as greatest sinners, and unworthy longer to dwell in the Holy Land, and actively infer that they were better, and should be far now they were rid of them. b Ye, or they, are gone far from the Lord; you are Apostates, or irreligious, a company of back-sliders; much as the Heathens accused the Christians of Acheism. c Who keep to the Temple and Holy City, and have not yielded to the Babylonish Tyranny, who stand for our Ancient Privileges, are not as you Betrayers of our Country; thus you may suppose they boast. d Promised, Holy, Blest Land, Canaan, where our Fathers dwelt. This Land is ours. e We shall never be put out of possession, but still it shall be our Inheritance.

16 f Therefore g say, thus saith the Lord GOD, Although h I have call't them far off a among the i heathen, and although I have scattered them among the countries, yet will I be to them as j a little Sanctuary in the yettels where they shall come.

f In Apology and vindication of them back with excellent promises in the following verses. g Say to them, and of them in Babylon. h The obstinate Jerusalem will call them Apostates and Renegades; but let such false accusers know that they were sent thither, and that I the Lord sent them thither, and will own them there too. i Not from my self, but from you, your polluted Land, and dreadful approaching Judgments. j The Chaldeans, or such as the Chaldeans placed them among. k Dispersed and separated them from one another in many Countries which were under the King of Babylon: Yet they are dear to me, and my purposes are for them more gracious than yours are for them, or then mine are for you. l For a little while; m n during the Seventy years Captivity; or for a few of them, the remnant was ever little. o As it relates to the Sanctuary, a little one in comparison to that great, rich, splendid and admired Temple at Jerusalem, which when they need most, shall help least; but I saith God, will be really to my Captives what the proud self-deceiving Jews promise their Temple shall be to them; both for Glory, Defence, and for Worship, which shall with heart and love be given by thee I have sent away, and wherever they are, their Prayers, Synagogue-Worship, and Obedience shall be to me as well-pleasing as they shall desire. They at distance were on Chibor Banks: You O Rembrand! Pollute the Temple by your Idolatries; I will recompense for the Mourners, I will punish you Polluters of my Temple and Worship.

17 Therefore g say, Thus saith the Lord GOD; p I will even q gather you from the people, and r assemble you out of the countries where ye have been scattered, and I will s give you the land of Israel.

q Add to the former Apology this Promise. p The Faithful and Eternal God, the Supreme and Sovereign Lord. q By my advice and hand they were scattered, and by my hand they shall be gathered. r And to confirm them, 'tis added in different words, and the promise is repeated, and this was punctually performed. Ezek 34. 3. 2 Kings 24. 13. 2 Kings 25. 11. 2 Kings 25. 26. 2 Kings 25. 27. 2 Kings 25. 28. 2 Kings 25. 29. 2 Kings 25. 30. 2 Kings 25. 31. 2 Kings 25. 32. 2 Kings 25. 33. 2 Kings 25. 34. 2 Kings 25. 35. 2 Kings 25. 36. 2 Kings 25. 37. 2 Kings 25. 38. 2 Kings 25. 39. 2 Kings 25. 40. 2 Kings 25. 41. 2 Kings 25. 42. 2 Kings 25. 43. 2 Kings 25. 44. 2 Kings 25. 45. 2 Kings 25. 46. 2 Kings 25. 47. 2 Kings 25. 48. 2 Kings 25. 49. 2 Kings 25. 50. 2 Kings 25. 51. 2 Kings 25. 52. 2 Kings 25. 53. 2 Kings 25. 54. 2 Kings 25. 55. 2 Kings 25. 56. 2 Kings 25. 57. 2 Kings 25. 58. 2 Kings 25. 59. 2 Kings 25. 60. 2 Kings 25. 61. 2 Kings 25. 62. 2 Kings 25. 63. 2 Kings 25. 64. 2 Kings 25. 65. 2 Kings 25. 66. 2 Kings 25. 67. 2 Kings 25. 68. 2 Kings 25. 69. 2 Kings 25. 70. 2 Kings 25. 71. 2 Kings 25. 72. 2 Kings 25. 73. 2 Kings 25. 74. 2 Kings 25. 75. 2 Kings 25. 76. 2 Kings 25. 77. 2 Kings 25. 78. 2 Kings 25. 79. 2 Kings 25. 80. 2 Kings 25. 81. 2 Kings 25. 82. 2 Kings 25. 83. 2 Kings 25. 84. 2 Kings 25. 85. 2 Kings 25. 86. 2 Kings 25. 87. 2 Kings 25. 88. 2 Kings 25. 89. 2 Kings 25. 90. 2 Kings 25. 91. 2 Kings 25. 92. 2 Kings 25. 93. 2 Kings 25. 94. 2 Kings 25. 95. 2 Kings 25. 96. 2 Kings 25. 97. 2 Kings 25. 98. 2 Kings 25. 99. 2 Kings 25. 100.

19 a And b I will c give them d one heart, and I will e put f a new spirit within you, and I will g take away h a stony heart out of their i flesh, and will give them an heart of j flesh.

a This may be understood literally, and to give an account for the Reformation, mentioned ver 18. should be effected. b The Lord himself, and he affluence to it himself thence in this ver. c Of free Grace 'tis that this renewed heart is in any one, length, foreseen, and multiplicity of troubles will not, cannot work it, unless God frame and renew it. d They were scattered abroad through the Babylonish Kingdoms, were under various Circumstances which might divide them, and keep them from each other, and from centering in a return, but I will stir up their heart and win one heart they shall gather together, when the return shall be proclaimed, Cyrus shall first give them leave, and I will next give them a heart to return; and when they shall have been great unity; and when come to Jerusalem, they shall own me, and my Laws, o they shall with one consent build Jerusalem, the Temple, and restore true Religion; as Jer 32. 39. and Ezek 36. 26. t That is Judgment, and understandings, Mind, and Will. Affections and Conscience 'sall fixed only on God, and their Obedience to him. u ver 20. This one heart is called a New Spirit. v An Excellent, Regenerate, Holy, and Sincere Soul; they were of a false, corrupt, and hypocritical spirit, dividing between God and Idols; but when God brings them back, they shall be of another frame quite changed, and made new. w That land, inflexible, unchangeable, incorrigible disposition which was in their Fathers, who refused to be amended; I take that away, x Flesh in Scripture sometimes speaks an unenured, carnal, sinful state, as Rom 7. 18. sometimes for the Body, as 1 Pet 3. 3. sometimes for the whole man, as 1 Cor 3. 1. 2 Cor 5. 2. and this in this place speaks the persons, and whole man. y I not like the old, hard, and stony, but comeliable, tractable, that will hear, consider, obey, do commanded Good, and forbiden Evils, submit to my Law, and reform on Admonitions. All which in sum, and so far as concern'd these persons, was fulfill'd in the Jews that did return from Babylon, and fulfill'd is made good to us in these Gospel days.

20 a b That they may c walk in my statutes, and keep mine d ordinances, and do them; and they shall be e as f my people, and I will be their God.

a This is the end Grace aimeth at, converting us to God, that we may walk with God. b See ver 12. c The Rule of Religious Worship. d Standard in Civil Affairs and matters of Right and Wrong with Men. e They shall give themselves up to me for to be my people, to Love me, Trust me, and Worship and obey me, and I will take them to be mine, I will approve, encourage, bleis, guide and protect them that it shall be seen they are my peculiar people. This contains all duty and privilege as including both, and is again included in the other part of the promise. f To pardon Sin, give Grace, highly wants, guide their ways, accept their duties, defend their persons, and lead them to Glory. See Ezek 35. 25. 2 Kings 25. 28. and Jer 31. 33. where Jeremiah contemporary to Ezekiel prophecies the same promise to this people.

21 g But h as for them whose i heart j I walketh after the heart of their detestable heart, and their k abominations, l I will m recompense their n way upon their o heads, saith the Lord GOD.

g For all those promises and in best times some there will be who will refuse to own God and obey him, whose flesh shall much differ as their practices did from the people of God. h Who are they be. i Soul and Affections, whole choice and love. j Either lecherly adulation, or profligate for the service of Idols called here detestable things, as ver 18. chap 5. 11. and to expulse the obliquity of this Idolatry 'tis called a heart walking after a heart. Idolatry is a blaspheming sin, and steals away the heart, and the promoters of Idolatry propound the plainest arguments, as if Idols had hearts and affections towards their worshippers to do them good, the expectation in the Idols is somewhat unusual and hard to our ear, but this I take to be the meaning. k Their Idols and Idol worship and dependencies. l Per them in their own consciences, I will forsake them, they profligate my name and Temple, I will give them up as common to be profaned by the Chaldeans. m Their ways will be just, and shall end in this, and nothing more just. n o On each man, and in such manner as shall destroy the continuance. o On those that are as heads of the people and Rulers to the society of men, such as the Idols. p ver 1. their fin and punishment: they multiplied Idols, this their fin, I will multiply their sorrows: they first run into darkness of Idolatry, I will take them to the darkness of misery. I will give answer but in such answers, and with severe reproof and measures, and censures.

5 That I may take the house of Israel in their own heart, because they are all of strange idols, and me through their idols.

6 Contract and pervert their very hearts, or lay open what is in their heart, and discover their hypocrisy, and impiety. Have them naturally followed Idols, which now in their idolatry, neither know the cause, or can frame a remedy, and what folly is it to choose such Gods, who greater impiety than this to idolatry here to idols and foreign Gods the only true God and Saviour? 7 Minds that imitate their aversion to God, Idolatry draws the man more and more from the Lord.

9 To these men the Elders, who are they are, give charge that they repent, and by their word to the residue of the house of Israel, that they do so. 10 Be sorry and settle your hearts for such sins. 11 Repentance them for future, cease to be idolaters. 12 Let your visible carriage in reforming all be seen too. Amend heart and ways, let not your heart be towards Idols in point of Religion, nor your practice in point of outward deportment be vicious and immoral.

13 For <sup>1</sup> every one of the house of Israel, or of the stranger that sojourneth in Israel, which <sup>2</sup> separateth himself from me, and setteth up his idols in his heart, and putteth the stumbling block of his iniquity before his face, and cometh to a prophet to enquire of him concerning me, I the LORD will answer him by my self.

14 Every Jew of the seed of Abraham, 2 Every Pagan, 3 Whosoever himself from me and worships Idols, keeps them in his heart to the increase of their own sin and my displeasure. 4 Yes, so forth comes to the prophet to enquire how his God reineth what they do, and what God will do with them, what they should do what they may expect, yet all this while done on Idols, and religiously hold on in usual practices, they shall find by the answer, 'was not the Prophet, but the God of the Idols that answered them, so dreadful, searching, and astonishing shall my answer be.'

8 And I will set my face against that man, and will make him a sign, and a proverb, and I will cut him off from the midst of my people, and ye shall know that I am the LORD.

9 I will set my face against that man, and will make him a sign, and a proverb, and I will cut him off from the midst of my people, and ye shall know that I am the LORD.

10 And if the prophet be deceived when he hath spoken a thing, I the LORD have deceived him, saith the LORD, and I will stretch out my hand upon him, and I will destroy him from the midst of my people Israel.

11 For the prophet who makes this his trade and gain, the false prophet, who speaks all serene and quiet in reward for his kind answer to those that desired to hear what might please them more than what God commanded, promised, or threatened. 12 Permitted him to erre, or justify him in his blindness, that he shall not discern his own self deceivings, or else when that prophet promises good, and thinks concurrence of all second causes tend to it, yet I will disappoint and frustrate, as <sup>1</sup> Hezekiah 25, if the Confederates to save were like Ishodul, and were no presumption to hope the best, and if your Prophets, on this ground promised you success, yet they shall deceive you, for I will defeat and disappoint them and you: to the false would not carry a Moral and culpable deceiving, but a just defeating and disappointing, or disabling second causes, on which, disappointment of hopes will follow. If <sup>2</sup> Ezechiel 24, had he wished the Babylonians, that none but he wounded men remained, yet the promise of your escape should fail you. <sup>3</sup> Ophthalia, for Jer. 30, 10, 11, these should rise up and burn your City, I remarkably punish his falsehood, and in severer destruction.

12 And they shall bear the punishment of their iniquity: the punishment of the prophet shall be even as the punishment of him that seeketh unto him.

There is to great misery in the folly and impiety of both deceiving Prophets, and the reduced people that are hard to say who is greater, their punishment shall be by the Lord made as like as they made their sin, and both shall be cut off and destroyed.

11 That the house of Israel may go no more astray from me, neither be polluted any more with all their transgressions: but that they may be my people, and I may be their God, saith the Lord GOD.

12 Afflictions ever tend to a good and necessary effect or end for Gods glory, and his peoples good, and to his here. 13 Which are the seed of Jacob, and my people. 14 They have wandered as sheep, which naturally are apt to go out of the way, and much more when seduced, and drawn out of the way, but afflictions tend to reduce them from their wandering. 15 Their only God and Saviour. 16 Idolatry is a great pollution, and ever attended with other transgressions and immoralities, which defile also, now by their present calamities God will open their eyes to see and abhor them. 17 In name and external profession they were Gods people, but they had forgotten their relation, and the duty of it to Godward, now by their present corrections they shall be disposed to own, and love, to obey and walk with him as he is their God and they his people. This effect the rod will have on my own people.

12 The word of the LORD came again to me, saying,

13 Son of man, when the land sinneth against me by trespassing grievously, then I will stretch out mine hand against it, and will cut it off, and will break the staffe of it, of the bread thereof, and will break famine upon it, and will cut off man and beast from it.

14 At what timesoever. 15 Put for the men that dwell in the land. 16 As an hypocritical back-sliding people, that give fair promises, but perform them not, rather act contrary to their professions, as the <sup>1</sup> Hebrews intimate, <sup>2</sup> Asquith, 17. 18. 19. 20. 21. 22. 23. 24. 25. 26. 27. 28. 29. 30. 31. 32. 33. 34. 35. 36. 37. 38. 39. 40. 41. 42. 43. 44. 45. 46. 47. 48. 49. 50. 51. 52. 53. 54. 55. 56. 57. 58. 59. 60. 61. 62. 63. 64. 65. 66. 67. 68. 69. 70. 71. 72. 73. 74. 75. 76. 77. 78. 79. 80. 81. 82. 83. 84. 85. 86. 87. 88. 89. 90. 91. 92. 93. 94. 95. 96. 97. 98. 99. 100.

14 Though there be three men, B Noah, Daniel and Job, were it, they should deliver but their own souls by their righteousness, faith the Lord GOD.

15 Most eminent for holy and upright walking with God, very dear to God, exceedingly devoted to the welfare of others, powerful in prayer. 16 Who is probably prevailed with God to spare the World for some years, and saved his near Relations when the flood came. 17 Who prevailed for the life of the wife of man, and of a child, and who daily offered sacrifice for his Children, and as left reformed God to the other had offended. 18 These should not prevail for any one of this wicked generation, it should suffice them, that their Righteousness saveth themselves, this uncomparative generation of sinners I would not be increased for.

15 If I cause noise to be heard to the people, through the land, and they shall spoil it, so that it be desolate, and no man may pass through because of the beasts.

16 Noise befalls are one of the great plagues, or armies that God hath always at his command. 17 To range over the land and spoil their Cattle, devour their Servants and Children, and destroy Travellers, and make it as a Wilderness. 18 Without much danger, and great Guards that may repel the wild ravaging beasts.

16 Though these three men were in it, as I have said, to live faith the Lord GOD, they shall deliver neither their sons nor daughters; they only shall be delivered, but the land shall be desolate.

17 A form of speech in which God by oath confirms what he speaks, and is such an oath as becomes him only who is faithful, and cannot die. 18 Neither sons nor daughters, for their families and are the support of houses, nor daughters the tenderness of whole Sex, and age does make and keep parents affection fervent towards them. No near relation should escape from their account. 19 A Most deplorable, as the Heb. use by an abstrait to express the superlative degree, <sup>2</sup> Isa. 1. 7. and <sup>3</sup> Jer. 1. 10.

17 Or if I bring a sword upon a land, and say, sword, p go through the land; so that I cut off man and beast from it.

18 He is Lord of hosts, and hath the Militia of all the world in his hand, the Sword is the right of the King of Kings, a Ruler War, and kind Enemies to invade it. 19 What Land ever it be. 20 Though inanimate things have no ears to hear, yet God speaks of them sometimes as if they had ears to hear, and understanding to discern; hereby intimating to us overruling power, wisdom, justice and sovereignty. 21 Men cut off in War, yet God takes it to himself, he doth by it rule men. 22 The Wars chiefly destroy men, yet the beasts of the field go to wreck too, the beasts that are ferocious in wars was waste as Hories and Beasts of burthen. The Eastern Nations have brought flocks of Camels, and many Elephants into the Wars, before the slaughter of these in fight is the spoiler, killing his Enemy doth often destroy whole Herds and Flocks.

18 Though these three men were in it, as I live, faith the Lord GOD, they shall deliver neither sons nor daughters, but they only shall be delivered themselves.

19 Or if I send a pestilence into that land, and I pour out my fury upon it, and in blood, to cut off from it man and beast:

19 Diseases are sent when ever they come, especially wasting diseases, which empty Nations and Cities space. 20 Gods Arrow that flies from Gods Bow. 21 Not drop, or diffill on a people in small measures and by leisure, but in great measures and hastily, as waters are poured out of a vessel all at once. 22 Something blood does denote war, but here, and in many other places, it denotes death and destruction of men, though not by the sword. 23 Not that Beasts dye of the same pestilential disease which kills man, but either death of men by pestilence emptieth the Nation, that there are not men to take care and provide for the Beasts. Or, rather because, when pestilence wasteth men, Murraims and Plague of Cattle, from the same infected Air, and from the hand of God waste the Beasts also.

20 Though Noah, Daniel and Job were in it, as I live, faith the Lord GOD, they shall deliver neither son nor daughter; they shall but deliver their own souls by their righteousness.

21 Their Perion, their Life. 22 Not meriting the deliverance, but the Justice and Mercy of God, shall surely keep them from falling in the punishment, who were kept from the sin.

21 For thus saith the Lord GOD, How much more when I send my four sore judgments upon Jerusalem, the sword, and the famine, and the pestilence, to cut off from it man and beast?

22 Those three men with their best interests, should not be able to keep off one of the four, much less able to keep off all four when I commission them all to go at once, as I will, may have done against Jerusalem, to cut off the obstinate, incorrigible ones amidst it.

22 Yet behold, therein shall be left a remnant that shall be brought forth, both sons and daughters: behold, when I shall see them from their doings, and ye shall see their way and their end; and ye shall be comforted concerning the evil that I have brought upon Jerusalem, even concerning all that I have brought upon it.

23 In Jerusalem itself and in the Land. Some that escape, for though none could prevail with God to prevent the coming of the City and the Land and cutting off the world, yet this was not to extend to the utter cutting off and destruction of all. 24 By the proud, cruel, and barbarous Conqueror bringing them in nakedness, chains, and in contempt more grievous than death itself. 25 Those naked, hunger starved, desired Captives brought through heats and colds, through fands and tedious travels shall come though with great regret to you, to Babylon whose condition they will either envy or wish it their own. 26 See them and consider and know. 27 What it hath brought them, how finally evil 'twas against God in their own Land, and how miserably evil 'tis must be with them in the Enemies Land. 28 No rejoice in your brethrens misery, but comforted in remembrance of the good hour you resolved to obey God, in yielding up to the Chaldeans, comforted in the sense of your flame much better than theirs, and in the vindication of you from the black allegations the false Prophets, and their followers, call on you. And finally comforted in that your return at the time promised, shall in its time be as surely made good as you see the thrice made good, God will be as true in his Mercies as he hath been in his judgments, this is matter of present affliction and grief, that this is matter of present

23 And they shall comfort you, when ye see I their ways and their doings: and ye shall know that I have not done without cause, all that I have done in it, saith the Lord GOD.

24 That survive the Siege, Famine and Ruin of Jerusalem, and are brought to Babylon. 25 Either coming there by faults in not doing as they had done, justifying the wife course they took who yielded, condemning the folly of hardening themselves against Gods judgments, and his Prophets, or be matter of comfort, according to you just ground of comforting your selves. 26 Understand it in the effects of it upon the ruined Jews. Or, in relation which they will make both of your sin and sufferings in the Land of Canaan. 27 You of the first Captivity, you that obeyed my voice and submitted to the Babylonian yoke. 28 Be fully satisfied that I have had but too much cause, and most just reason for all that I have done against Jerusalem and its land, and inhabitants of both, you shall know my hand, and as you feel the weight to you shall feel the justice of it too against them, and the Mercy of it towards you.

C H A P. XV.

And the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

2 Son of man, What is the vine-tree more than any tree, or then a vine-branch which is among the trees of the forest?

3 The house of Israel is often compared to a Vine, which when barren or fruitless, is very contemptible and unprofitable. This the Prophet minds them of to humble them, and awaken them to fruitfulness, will you boast your selves of this. 4 One single branch of a tree in the forest, is of more use and worth than the whole Vine Tree is, except for its Fruit.

5 Shall a wood be taken thereof to do any work? or, will men take a pin of it to hang any vessel thereon?

6 Is there one good piece of Timber in the whole Vine for building a house, or ship, as there is in the Oak, Elm or other wild Forest Trees? Will it furnish the Husbandman, or Soldier, or Scamm with materials for their use, in peace, or war, or sea? 7 Will it afford a pin to drive into a wall or post, on which you may safely hang any weight? It is of use, that is useless as to this.

8 Behold, * it is cast into the fire for fuel, * John 15. 6. wel; the fire devoureth both the end of it, and the middle of it is burnt: is it meet for any work?

9 When for its barrenness it is cut down it is fit only to be burnt. 10 Nor is it a choice wood neither, a little branch of a tree of the forest is better and affords more fuel.

5 Behold, when it was whole it was fit to meet for any work, when the fire hath devoured it, and it is burned?

6 Therefore thus saith the Lord GOD, as the vine-tree among the trees of the forest, which I have given to the fire for fuel, so will I give the inhabitants of Jerusalem.

7 Either thus when the Vine is, as the wild Trees of the forest, barren and fruitless is less worth than the Forest trees, so are you. 8 House of Israel in my account; Or else as trees of the forest are for the fire in all the less valuable parts of them, so are all the branches and body of the barren Vine, which you are all <sup>1</sup> Jer. 17. 18. 19. 20. 21. 22. 23. 24. 25. 26. 27. 28. 29. 30. 31. 32. 33. 34. 35. 36. 37. 38. 39. 40. 41. 42. 43. 44. 45. 46. 47. 48. 49. 50. 51. 52. 53. 54. 55. 56. 57. 58. 59. 60. 61. 62. 63. 64. 65. 66. 67. 68. 69. 70. 71. 72. 73. 74. 75. 76. 77. 78. 79. 80. 81. 82. 83. 84. 85. 86. 87. 88. 89. 90. 91. 92. 93. 94. 95. 96. 97. 98. 99. 100.

1 For by their sins they have kindled a fire, which shall burn every barren branch in the degenerate and fruitless Vine.

7 And I will cut my face against them: * they shall I go out from an fire, and another fire shall devour them; and ye shall know that I am the LORD, when I let my face against them.

8 I will look upon them with an angry and displeased countenance, which is enough to destroy them, or to fill them with terrors. 9 And I will make the land desolate, because they have committed a trespass, saith the Lord GOD.

C H A P. XVI.

Gain a the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

2 A Hb. And, frequently and properly enough rendered as here again, not pointing out any particular time when it came to the Prophet. 3 Both commanding and directing him what to speak, and it is a very elegant description of Gods dealing with the

* What thou hast done I have imputed to thee, thou wilt not repent; therefore I account thee guilty and I have in part punished thee, and though what I have done seem grievous, yet worse is behind, as vs. 10.

59 For thou faist faith the Lord GOD, I will even deal with thee as thou hast done, which hath despised the c oath in breaking the d covenant.

This is uttered in with a most solemn and sacred affirmation. 1 Thou hast thou hast despised the laws and privileges of my Covenant with thee, and I will despise all thy promises to me for my favour by virtue of my Covenant, 2 mutual, and who breaks it forfeits all benefit by it, or deal with thee according as thou hast done to other punish sinners, over which thou hast inflicted and condemned. 3 By willful and contemptuous despite hath perjured thyself, which is a sin the nations about thee could not be guilty of for they were not, thou only wast in Covenant with me. Or, else thou hast contemptuously slighted my bounty, and grace, and my faithfulness, and truth, and bound thyself by Covenant with idols, and idolaters, though I had to expressly forbidden them. 4 made in Horeb.

60 e Nevertheless, I f will remember g my covenant with b thee in the days of thy youth, and I will i establish unto thee an e everlasting covenant.

The Lord having denounced a perpetual punishment to the stubborn, impenitent body of the Jewish nation, he does now promise to the remnant, that they shall be remembered and obtain covenant mercy, which makes up the last part of the chapter. 1 Properly neither remembering, or forgetting is in God, who is omniscient, but after the manner of man this is spoken of God, who is said to remember, when he makes it appear that he hath regard to Ps. 102, and Ps. 103. 2 In which I promised I would not utterly cast off the seed of Israel, nor fail to lead the Messiah, the Redeemer who should turn away iniquity from Jacob. 3 In the loynes of Abraham, and solemnly renewed after their coming out of Egypt, which is the time, called the day of thy youth, Isa. 44. 2. and 45. 3. and Ezek. 16. 12. 4 Commemorate, it shall be, for ever, and un-fading. 5 Everlasting, i. e. of a very long continuance, as to that part of the Covenant which respecteth their condition in the Land of Promise or Canaan, but in what is (spiritual), and consisteth heavenly things it shall be absolutely everlasting, Jer. 31. 31, 32, 33, 34.

61 I Then x thou shalt m remember thy ways, and be n ashamed, when thou shalt o receive thy p sisters, thine q elder and thy r younger: and I will f give them unto thee s for daughters; * but not by thy covenant.

When that new Covenant, made, and confirmed shall operate and take effect. 1 Consider and lay to heart, repent of, mourn for, loath and abhorre, and turn from all thy wicked ways, all thy evil practices and doings. 2 Though wilt thou wait an Adulterer and false to thy Husband, thou dost not bethink thou shalt with a deep frame remember and desire thy lewdness. 3 Admire into Church Communion, even as members of the Church of God. 4 The Gentiles now strangers, but then sisters. 5 Or those that are greater and mightier than thou, or that by their Power, Wealth and Honour are as much above thee as the elder Children are above the younger. 6 Thy lesser or meaner sister. 7 They shall be to thee as a gift bestowed in love. 8 As daughters in duty hearten to, and obey, so shall the Gentiles brought into the Church hearken to the Word of God, which founded out from the Jews, from Jerusalem. 9 Not by that old Covenant which was violated, nor by external Ceremonies which were a great part of the first covenant, but by that covenant which writes the Law in the heart, and puts the fear of God into the inward parts.

62 And x I will establish y my covenant with z thee; and thou shalt a know that I am the LORD.

This promise you have, vs. 60. 1 In distinction from that is called thy Covenant, vs. 61. 2 O Israel first, and then with the Gentile as thy Children, with all the genuine Children of Abraham, Father of the faithful. 3 This short Covenant contains the sum of all our duty and privileges, 4 summarily a promise of grace, and glory; 5 it is a sanctifying knowledge to fit us for obedience; and 6 is a justifying knowledge to deliver us from punishment, it is the Evangelical knowledge of God, a knowledge which is unto eternal life.

63 That thou mayest b remember and be c confounded, and never d open thy mouth any more, because of e thy shame, when I am f pacified towards thee for all that thou hast done, saith the Lord GOD.

1 Vid. vs. 41. 2 Vid. 61. 3 Neither to justify thyself, or to condemn others, or to quarrel with thy God, but as a true penitent, be silent under the judgments, fins have deserved, and God hath inflicted, to draw away from sin, and to bring a people to submit to God, and to give him glory. 4 Such confession for thy sin will cover thee, that thou wilt readily justify

God, and blith in remembrance of all thine own wickednesses, 1 When I have pardoned, thee, 2 I have covered all thy iniquities, and I have reconciled to thee, thou wilt willingly acknowledge, remember, and hate what thy God hath graciously pardoned, will no more remember against thee, 3 or punish any more upon thee.

CHAP. XVII.

1 AND the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

2 Son of man, put forth a g riddle, and speak a h parable to the house of i Israel. 1 The two verses are preface to what follows in the Chapter. 2 A dark saying, which calls for thorough consideration to understand, and apply it, because the meaning is different to the sound of the words. 3 The same thing redoubled in different words. And 4 likely the Prophet is commanded to use a parable, because those Eastern People were much used to and taken with this kind of discourse. 5 1 2 The remembrance of the house of Israel, whether of the ten Tribes, or of the Two Tribes.

3 And say, Thus saith the Lord GOD; A great eagle with i great wings, m long winged, g full of feathers, which had o i divers colours, p came unto q Lebanon, and r took the f highest branch of the s Cedar:

1 Nibuchadnegar King of Babylon, as vs. 12. compared to a great Eagle, King of Birds, swift, strong, rapacious, and of a lofty flight. 2 Mighty Princes on each side of his Kingdom. 3 His Kingdom was vastly extended, as Gen. 3. 3. and 4. the greatest King then living. 4 His Kingdom was very full of People. 5 Were of divers Nations, Languages and Manners, so that this Eagle may be well thought to be that force, which is greatest in the kind, and best resemblieth him, who was the greatest Monarch in the World at that time. 6 Invaded with a mighty army; he came not as a Traveller to please his curiosity, but as an invader to enlarge his dominion. 7 Either the Temple built with Cedars of Libanus, or Jerusalem the chief City of the Country where this great, fruitful and pleasant Hill, was or the whole Country for itself by its chiefest Hill, which runs about 12 miles in length, and endeth the Land of Juda on the North side. 8 To possess, and carried away with him. 9 The King of Juda, Jeiochasin. 10 Either the royal Family, or rather, the whole nation of the Jews.

4 He x cropp off the y top of his young twigs, and carried it into z a land of traffick; he set it in a city of merchants.

1 Nibuchadnegar furnished the great. 2 As a Gardiner that crops off the goodliest cions, and carrieth them away to graft on some other flock. 3 Both the King of Juda, now 18 years old, and the Nobles and Chief of the Land. 4 Into Babylon which was a City of mighty Trade, explained farther by being a City of Merchants, and peculiarly of Merchants that traded in sweet Spices and odoriferous gums.

5 A He b took aloft of the c seed of the land, and d planted it in a e fruitful field; f he placed it by great waters, and set it g as a willow tree.

1 Nibuchadnegar. 2 Chose out one to be King instead of Jeiochasin. 3 A Native, and which is more, one of the Royal Family Mattaniah, whom he called Zedekiah. 4 Seeded him on the Throne of Juda. 5 A field fit for such a design, in the Land of Juda. 6 The Prophet goeth on in his allusion, and explains what he means, compares this new made King to a willow, which grows no where so well as in a wet foil, and on banks of great waters.

6 And g it grew, and became a h spreading vine of i low stature; whose branches k turned toward him, and the m roots thereof were under him: so n it became a vine, and brought forth branches, and thot forth p sprigs.

1 Both the King and Kingdom. 2 Took root, grew up to a tolerable condition of riches, plenty and prosperity. 3 But never reach the height of the Cedar, Nibuchadnegar, though he made Zedekiah King, yet kept him subject and dependent. 4 They grew and flourish, while they owned their flate tributary to Babylon. 5 Nibuchadnegar their protector, benefactor, and sovereign Lord. 6 All the firmness, fruitfulness, and life of this flate, was in a subjection to the King of Babylon. 7 And thus in this order and manner of dependence, both the Jews and their King had life, growth, and verdure. 8 A Greater, and stronger boughs for present thriving, beauty, 9 and fruit. 10 Younger and tenderer sprigs, as Children the hope of future times.

7 g There was also r another great eagle with f great wings and many feathers: i and behold, this v vine did u bend her roots towards him, and

and x thot forth her branches towards him, that he y might water it by the z furrows of her plantation.

1 This is the second part of the Parable. 2 1 2 The King of Egypt whether Aryus, or Horus, or whatever other was his name we need not curiously enquire, 3 was King of Egypt, vs. 15. 4 Vid. vs. 3. 5 Zedekiah, his Nobles and People. 6 Sought the friendship and help of the King of Egypt. 7 Sent Ambassadors, made a Covenant, and trusted to the power of Egypt to defend her branches. 8 That they might add to their great-ness, and prosperous condition, as Trees grow by due and seasonable watering them. 9 Alluding to the manner of irrigation used in Egypt, by furrows or trenches to convey the water unto their Plantations from the River Nilus.

8 It u was planted in a good || soil by great waters, that it might bring forth branches, and that it might bear fruit, that it might be a goodly vine.

1 By Nibuchadnegar in a very, hopeful condition, where it might have thrived, been fruitful, and flourished. But they both King and People were unthankful, and discontented and by insatiable covet to better themselves; they had no great or just cause to complain of Nibuchadnegar usage towards them, but out of pride, ambition and ingratitude joined with perjury, they revolted, and provoked Gods wrath, and Nibuchadnegar rage against them.

9 Say thou, Thus saith the Lord GOD: shall it g prosper? shall d he not e pull up the roots thereof, and f cut off the fruit thereof, that it g wither? It shall wither in all the b leaves of her spring, even without i great power, or many people to pluck it up by the roots thereof.

1 Tell them what will be the issue of all this, and tell it to them in my name. 2 This Vine, shall Zedekiah and his People thrive by this? 3 is a question that must be replied negatively and with vehemency. 4 Nibuchadnegar, 5 utterly overthrow this Kingdom which he had set up, destroy the King thereof. 6 Put to the sword and kill the Children of Zedekiah and the Nobles. 7 Never be in possibility of springing, so much is threatened by the withering of the branches. 8 All the promising hope they had shall vanish as the hope of a Tree vanishing, when all its buds and leaves wither in its spring. 9 The King of Babylon shall do this easily, and never need to employ all his Power, and People to do this, utterly to root up this Vine.

10 Ye a, behold, being planted, i shall it prosper? shall it not utterly wither, when the m east wind toucheth it? it shall wither in the n furrows which it grew.

1 Nay suppose this contrivance were successful, suppose this Vine were planted by the help of Egypt. 2 I could it possibly prosper, no, no. 3 When the King of Babylon, which like the blasting Wind comes from the North East, shall but touch it, will utterly wither. 4 Even amidst its greatness and best hopes to make it flourish. This discontent, ingratitude, and treachery, will occasion the utter ruin of this People.

12 Say now to the p rebellious house, g know ye not what these things mean? tell them, Behold, the r King of Babylon is come s to Jerusalem, and hath taken the t King thereof, and the princes thereof, and u led them with him to Babylon.

1 This is the order God gives to his Prophet to explain the Riddle. 2 To the house of Juda, which have been, and still are rebellious against me, and are now entering into rebellion against Nibuchadnegar. 3 Are ye so blockish, that you do not know what is meant, or are you so secure that you will not consider it, but run on your own ruin. 4 The King of Babylon, 1 Nibuchadnegar is that first great Eagle with part of his Power. 2 Jerusalem is the Libanus, which he is come to. 3 The King of Israel, and his seed, and Nobles are the branches and twigs crop off, these are taken, conquered, made captives. 4 Judging them unfit to be trusted any more, he will, though children, carry them to Babylon.

13 And hath x taken of the kings feed, and y made a covenant with him, and * hath || taken an z oath of him: he hath also taken the a might y of the b land:

1 First taken Jeiochasin, and his Princes Captives, and next, taken out from amidst the Royal seed Mattaniah, and advanced on terms approved and accepted by Mattaniah, for performance of which terms he hath obliged himself by publick Promise. 2 Because Nibuchadnegar would be secure he made Mattaniah enter into an oath, changed his name into Zedekiah, as a firm memorandum. 3 This captive restored should perjure himself. 4 A rich, honourable, valiant, wife and good might (if rebellion ever was among the Jews) he able to make head, and do mischief against the Babylonian King. 5 Of Juda.

14 e That the d kingdom might be e safe, that it might not f lift it self up, || but that by g keeping of r his covenant f it might i stand.

1 So plainly and openly did Nibuchadnegar deal with the Jews. 2 The tributary Kingdom whom Zedekiah is Rebels. 3 Low in Power. 4 Rule up into rebellion, or rise to considerable, as to encourage any neighbour King to fill and confederate with them against Babylon. 5 Continuing faithful, and performing the conditions. 6 Either Nibuchadnegar, by its power, or Zedekiah by submitting to it, and obliging himself by it. 7 The Kingdom of the Jews. 8 Continue and flourish.

15 But a * he rebelled against y him in * 2 King 24:20 z sending his ambassadors unto o Egypt, * that * Isa. 31. 1, 3. they might b give him horses, and e much people: || shall he d prosper? shall he e escape that doth such things? || shall he f break the covenant, and be delivered?

1 Zedekiah. 2 Endeavoured to cut off the dominion of the conqueror. 3 Nibuchadnegar who had advanced him, and obliged him. 4 This is that called bending his roots toward the second Eagle. 5 An old bitter Enemy, and an impotent and false friend. 6 Beside the perjury, here was ascribed trusting to an arm of flesh, of which Isa. 31. 1. 7 Zedekiah had not men to equip his hired horse. 8 Egypt must help here too, how foolishly doth this unhappy Zedekiah act to run himself in the charge and hazard of a new War, in which ever he is the gainer, he and his are sure to be the losers. 9 Deut. 32. 9, 10. 10 Can't he belicely vengeance should not overtake such ingratitude. 11 Can perjury be the way for any mans deliverance? Can such notorious sinning end in any thing, but misery?

16 g As I live, saith the Lord GOD, surely * b in the place i where the king k dwelleth that * Jer 22:24 and made l him king, m whose oath n he despised, 34:3 ch. 12:13. and whose covenant he brake, even with him in the midst of Babylon he o shall die.

1 As I live as I am God, and I will punish this perjury. 2 A Particular account of the Punishment. 3 Babylon. 4 Nibuchadnegar. 5 Zedekiah. 6 The oath Nibuchadnegar imposed. 7 Contemptuously, without any just cause given, and therefore this perdition of Jerusalem could never expect more favour, but must in reason fear the greatest evils, under this first Zedekiah shall spend the rest of his days. 8 He shall rather be always dying, for though he lived a natural life, yet, in such sad state, it is more properly filled a dying, in blindness under the memorial of the most afflictive thing. The murder of his Children, which was the thing his eye ever beheld.

17 Neither shall Pharaoh with his p mighty army and great q company make r for him in the way, s * by casting up mountains, and building t forts, to t cut off many persons.

1 Let his army be made up of ever so many well disciplined Soldiers, if as many as the Egyptian can vainly promise, or the Jews more vainly hope. 2 Possibly it may refer to the multitude, which usually attended the march of armies, or else tis a doubling the thing in doubtful words. 3 If Zedekiah be the person as our version carrieth it, it foretells the unprofitableness of the Egyptian army, that shall not do him any kindness, if Nibuchadnegar be intended, as the version which renders the Heb. particle (as might) then it foretells the little hurt that the Egyptian shall do to Nibuchadnegar. 4 When Nibuchadnegar shall with so much speed, and still cast up Forts and build strong Moons, wooden Castles to annoy Jerusalem, secure his own Forces, and terrify the Egyptian King from the difficulty of raising the siege, which could not be done without expense of much blood. 5 Of the besieged in Jerusalem, and of the Egyptians, if they attempt to raise the siege, this fence is bars in the French Version.

18 a Seeing he despised the oath by breaking the covenant, when lo, x he had y given his hand, and hath done all these z things, he shall not escape.

1 This verse gives us the reason of this unhappy enterprise, which is summed up in wilful, presumptuous, and most unparalleled perjury. 2 Zedekiah. 3 A solemn confirming the oath, a covenant, and employs the voluntary act of Zedekiah in swearing, which makes the perjury so much the sorer. 4 Too bad to be named, and most unbecoming any one that was a beneficiary, and had so much from the bounty of one, that was not obliged to do any thing for him.

19 Therefore thus saith the Lord GOD, As I u live, surely b mine oath which c he hath d despised, and my covenant that he hath broken, even it will I e recompense upon his f own head.

1 Vid. 16. 48. 2 Made in my name, and of which I am both witness and avenger. 3 Zedekiah. 4 Vid. chap. 16. 59. and 17. 18. 5 I will punish, as it deserves, and it shall appear by the punishment, that my hand doth execute it. 6 This probable fine Courtiers might advise to it, but this will not excuse Zedekiah, his perjury was his own act, and on his own head, as I charge, so I will punish it.

3 And o the p brought up q one of her whelps: i f became a young lion, and i learned to u catch the prey, i x devoured y men.

* See ver. 3. i.e. b. p. Not as a Nurse, the word is of other import but advanced, promoted, or caused him to take the throne after the slaughter of Josiah. q This was Josiah; the second Son of Josiah, of whom 'tis said Kings 23. 33. and 2 Chron. 35. 1. the people made him king; for God had not made him by primogeniture, and right of succession. r They look upon him as a warlike Prince, fiercer than the ravenous fangs of those martial times, then his eldest brother and therefore train a point of Law, and right. s Soon fleeced his flesh, haughty, cruel, and bloody disposition, as appears 2 Kings 23. 30, 31, 32, though he continued but three months, and some odd days, wherein to play his pranks. f Had Tutors, and counsellors that flew him the method, and he an apt Scholar, in an evil school race. u To teife fire, and then to rear the prey, by frauds and violence to hunt, take, and devour that he took, as Lions use. x Eat up as the word notes, lived upon. y Man. Alan the weaker fort, or it may be in this divided time Alan may imply, as at times because they were not of the standing fast, as when time Parashah had come, that inclined to him, and perhaps they were used hardly by Josiah.

4 The z nations also heard of him; y he was taken in their a pit, and they brought him with b chains unto the land of Egypt.

* The Egyptians heard and considered what he did, they had intelligence of Josiah, rigours against them and all that abated their interest, this made them (as Neighbourhood) gather together against him. a Or in their net, as hunters in those parts dig pits, and spread nets, into which they drive the hunted Lion, or Bear. So here or else thus. This Lion was taken at last though he did some mischief first to the Egyptians, to the word may bear. b The story of it you have in Kings 23. 33. these barbarous Conquerors used him as men use a Lion, put and keep him in chains, carried him captive into Egypt, where he died, Jer. 22. 10, 11, 12, and 2 Kings 23. 34.

5 c Now when the saw that he had waited, and her hope was lost, then d she took another of her whelps, and made him a e young lion.

* Upon the ill success of Josiah, Jerusalem and the Jews in the Land fell from their hopes, under great disappointments, for Josiah is taken, the Land fell, carried captive by the Egyptians, instead of looking off the Egyptian yoke. d Yet 'tis said 2 Chr. 35. 4. and 2 Kings 23. 34. That the King of Egypt made the next King, both true, the Jews with Pharaoh's liking, or Pharaoh with the Jews consent, advance him, whether 'twere Josiah's son, or Josiah's. e King and infused the lion-like maxims for his rule.

6 And f he went g up and down among the h lions, he became a young i lion, and learned to j devour the prey, i and devoured k men.

f Josiah's going. This is said of him, because he continued 1 year, on the throne, and to many years as a Lion, tore and devoured; whereas Josiah was taken so long almost as he first ventured out to hunt the prey. i Carried it after the manners and usages of the Heathen Kings, those barbarous Tyrants, with whom he entered leagues, as he saw good, laid aside the Law of God which was to guide him and People. j Grew strong, fierce, ravenous, insatiable, etc. ver. 4. where the rest is explained. k Either his neighbours the Ammonites, and Moabites, or he devoured his own subjects, impoverished, and cut out their Estates, spared not the Prophet, or their Prophets, Jer. 25. 1. 2. and Oria he flew, what Josiah was appears, Jer. 22. 13, 14, 15, 17.

7 And l he m knew their n palaces, and he laid o waste their cities, and the p land was desolate, and thefulness thereof by the noise of his roaring.

l Josiah's. m On view not only heard of them, but setting on them violently, and taking them he came to know their Palaces, which are here called, where he made them, desolate, to the word Josiah 13. 22. n Or it may be rendered widows, and then 'will refer to such, whose Husbands this Lion devoured, and thereby occasioned their perishing to him, and this he knew them, where he made desolate, but the former left said what follows. o Pillage, polling and by exactions driving the inhabitants out by his cruelty, and Tyranny. p The whole Land, or the Country filled as ill as the Cities and so 'was emptied of men, riches and strength. q By the perpetual violence threats of this cruel King, which are called his roaring, and so Pres. 19. 12. which terrified his neighbours in the three years revolt which are mentioned, 2 Kings 24. 1. 2.

8 Then * the r nations felt f against him on a every side from the u provinces, and s spread their net over him, y he was taken in their pit.

* 2 Chron. 36. 6.

* Which were feudatory to Ninibadnagar, and were bound to assist him in his Wars. f By the order of the King of Babylon gathered together to hunt this Lion, to make War on this revolting King. i Surrounded him that he might not escape. Which belonged to the Babylonish Kingdom, and were governed by Presidents, or petty Kings, vassals to Ninibadnagar. s Soon got him into their toils, as Hannibal got a Lion, or otherwise scall into their net. y See ver. 4. lit. 4.

9 And z they put him in a ward in || 10, he b chains, and c brought him to the d king of Babylon; y they brought him into e holds, that his f voice should no more be heard on the g mountains of Israel.

* The armies of the several Nations, or the chief Commanders of those Armies. a In gates, or great Caves, as wild beasts are conveyed. b 'Tis reported they put an Iron collar on his neck, and fastened an iron chain to it. c He was carried that long Journey in chains, enough to change his roaring Lion like into the roarings of a desperate, miserable Captive. d Wherever he was (for some dispute it whether now in Babylon, or else where with some of his armies) however, 'tis this unhappy King was carried to Ninibadnagar, or died on the way perhaps, by Command of Ninibadnagar toiled, that hard usage killed him, and then they cut his head and buried it. 2 Kings 23. 19. ferreted. e Kept him fast that he should not escape, or brought him to Babylon, which though one City, yet so large, and had so great, and many Forts about it, that it seemed to be made up of many strong holds. f That he might never more either fight, or kill, or devour any of his people, and subjects in the Land of Israel. g In a comely observation of the Parable the Kingdom is the Mountains, when the King is the Lion, that range, and roareth on them. Two more Lions of the same temper, and alike miserable in their end. i Doubt not, are included in this emblem, and by these the Jews might know what would become of them, called also Pharaoh's, and Zedekiah, who was called Mattathias.

10 b Thy i mother is like a k vine in i thy || blood, planted by the m waters: the is || fruitful and full o of branches by reason of || many waters.

The 10th. verse begins the second part of the chapter. b O thou Prince of Israel. i See ver. 2. k Frequently to compare Plal. 80. 8. 143. 1. 17. 143. 14. and 5. 2. and 27. 2. Either when thou wast first-born, as David 15. 6. or the Royal line thy Kingly race, or in the vigour of thy strength. m In a very fruitful soil. n And accordingly the did thrive, and brought forth much fruit, see chap. 17. 8. Though the lost many thorns carried away, yet more were born, bred up, and trained up to useful arts, and employments, say, but this too general. The Royal Family did flourish like a Vine well watered. o Full of Children when Josiah died, he left four behind him, beside other branches of the Royal line.

11 And the h strong p rods for the keepers of them that bear rule, and her q stature was r exalted among the thick f branches, and the s appeared in her height with the multitude of her branches.

* Many excellent persons endowed with qualifications befitting Kings, that they might sway the Scepter, and rule the People with equity. q The grandeur of the Kings and Kingdoms. r Exalted above the ordinary majesty of other Kingdoms. s The goodly Cedars and their thick branches, i. e. This Kingdom equaled, if not excelled, the greatest neighbour Kingdoms, and her Kings as David, Solomon, &c. exceeded all their neighbour Kings, in Riches and Power. k Like a mighty Tree, that over tops all the forest, so did this goodly Kingdom over all Kingdoms, and it was seen and noted according to Gods promise that it should be the head, and not the tail, and to that Dent. 4. 6, 7, 8.

12 But a she was s plucked up in fury, y she was cast down to the ground, and z the * east wind u dried up her fruit: her strong b rods were c broken, and withered; and the d fire consumed them.

* This flourishing Vine first degenerated, brought forth fruit to sell not to God, and grew proud, abused Gods mercies to all manner of sin. a Was violently, suddenly, and totally rooted out, tore up by the roots, to was the once flourishing Kingdom of the Jews overthrow. y Had the been again set, there might have been some hope, but plucked root and branch together 'tis perished for ever. z To hasten the utter destruction heretofore an East-wind, that blasting, piercing wind blows upon her, the King of Babylon with all his Power called God to pull up this sinful Kingdom. a Blasted all her fruit, deplored her King, captivated him, his Family, and the whole Kingdom. b All the choice men, the Counsellors, Warriors, Officers, all that were like to be the strength of the Kingdom. c By Ninibadnagar's hand and sword, he removed unto Babylon, where they lay as withered branches. d Called fury in the former part of the verse. Gods displeasure for their sins, their adversities rage, and their own animosities burnt them up; their Houses, and Palaces, their City, and Temple all burnt.

And some persons with this fire were consumed also, beside some that the Conqueror sold.

13 And e now f the h g g planted in the b wilderness, in a i dry, and thirsty ground.

* At this present time. g But also I have notice what the was: a wand pulled out of the burnings, a few of the branches of the left pruning, or a few smaller roots taken up by the provident hand of the Lord of the Vineyard, a remnant that might be a Nursery, a feed plot, but the much greater part of the Vine is, as said, destroyed. g It is not said who planted them, but it is easy to conjecture Ninibadnagar planted them in policy, and for his advantage, they planted themselves out of necessity, and God planned them therein in just correcting mercy, and will give them root, and make them thrive, and transplant them after 70 years, and set them on the mountains of Israel again. b So it was to the Jews a fortune, dangerous, and successful. c Here, though Babylon was in a very fruitful place yet the salvage cruelty, and the insatiable pride of the Babylonians made it to the Jews, as terrible, as a wilderness, besides there were some barren places of this Kingdom to which some of the Jews might be carried and confined. f This and the other expression are a description of the nature of a Wilderness, and illustrate what the Prophet had spoken, or may be paraphrased by that of David, Plal. 63. 1. "twas dry and thirsty where no one (I fear) ran from this River which made glad the City of God, Plal. 46. 4.

14 k And i fire is gone out of a u rod of her branches, which hath n devoured her fruit, so that the hath no strong o rod to be a scepter to rule. p This is a lamentation and shall be for a lamentation.

* This verse doth give you account of the immediate cause of this last, furious scall pulling up of this Vine. Of rebellion will be kindled by Zedekiah, who is of the blood Royal made King by Ninibadnagar, and who swore Allegiance to him. s Brought the Land, y Kings, Palaces, and Gods Temple to utter desolation. u The rod, dignity is cast and shall no more rise, you shall never have a crowned head to rule you more. p This I have told you is the subject of my mournful thoughts. q And the execution of these things, which shall be much more terrible, shall make you lament at sight of them, and at remembrance of them as long as you live.

CHAP. XX.

1 AND it came to pass in the r seventh year, in the s fifth month, the t tenth day of the month, that z certain of the s elders of Israel came to enquire of the z LORD, and a fate before me.

* Of Tymanai Captivity and Zedekiah's Reign, two years and five months before Ninibadnagar did besiege Jerusalem. s Abigail. Which answers to our 27th. u Men Heb. Some of note of the elders and Rulers of Israel. Either some of the Captives in Babylon, as most likely they were who chap. 8. 1. came to him, or some of those, who were sent from Zedekiah to complement, or carry tribute to Ninibadnagar, as most likely they were chap. 14. 1. v Not of the Priests, or Levites, but of the Laidy, civil Magistrates and Officers, who might be sent to view the State of Babylon, and to observe what posture things were in, the better to relieve our said Zedekiah, and his Councils were forming, whether 'twill be advisable to shake off the yoke of the King of Babylon by a Rebellion, or patiently bear it: And I conjecture this might be the main enquiry they made now, which was two years, and five months before the siege began, during which two years, and five months I suppose the design was resolved on, framed, provision made of all sorts, and a call to a rebellion raised. y Yet resolved before-hand what they would do, as will appear. z Prophets neither did pretend to, nor could they relieve such enquiries, but the Lord whom the Prophet did consult. a Whether I speak the quality of the persons that did not stand as mean persons, or their resolution to wait for answer, or be a phrase proper with the Jews to express the common department of the Country, I leave you to guess.

2 b Then came the word of the LORD unto me, saying,

* While they were with Egypt, God gives him instruction what to say to them. c Speak unto the men of Egypt, and say unto them, Thus f saith the LORD GOD: * Are ye come to enquire of me? As I b live, faith the LORD GOD, I will not be enquired of by you.

* See chap. 2. 3. d Speak plainly, boldly, and to their faces. e Fear not their frowns. g Heb. are. Deeds from Zedekiah, yet let not that character make thee meek mouthed. f This expression carries enough to encourage him. g Are ye in good earnest? Nay but you set a deep hypocrite, being already resolved on your own course, and yet now pretend you would know my counsel, it is a sharp reproof of their wickedness, and God utterly rejecteth to be enquired of by such. b See chap. 14. 16. i Prophets hypocrites that abuse my Prophet, and tempt his God, they are, as all Politicks who have led of Religion, then worldly Wisdom, willing to hear whether the Prophet will flatter, and fawn, and encourage them, if so then he is a wise, able, honest man, else let us, to be fought.

4 Witte thou * k I judge them, son of man, * chap. 22. 2. i write thou * judge them? m cause them to be known the n abominations of their fathers.

* Either wilt thou judge charitably, and supposing they are innocent, or wilt thou judge them as they are for them, as chap. 14. 3. or as Jer. 14. 5. or else thus, wilt thou argue with them, convince them, and reprove them? This is fitted to be done, and do this, handle them severely as they deserve. 'Tis reported to him the Prophet, and quicken him to this work, and to intimate to us the great consummation of the people. m Tell them somewhat that they may go away wiser than they came. n They expect to know what will be their fate, tell them what hath been their fathers carriage towards us, which they imitate, they exceed. Their curiosity, and perlexity would be informed what is to come, but if they are so much more to be informed; what their Fathers have done, they approved, and outdone, by that let them know what to do, what to expect.

5 * And say unto them, Thus saith the LORD GOD: In the day when * I p chose q Israel, and * Exod. 6. 7. || lifted y up my hand unto the s seed of the ver. 6. house of Jacob, and made my y self * known u || Or, made. unto them in the x land of Egypt, y when I * Exod. 3. 8. lifted up mine hand unto them, saying, I am the z LORD your GOD.

* At the time, the season, it speaks not of that precise portion of hours, which make up the natural day, but of the time, wherein God began to show them his great mercy. p It includes, mercy without merit in them, it refers to Gods declaring by his kindness to them, that he had chosen them, it suppleth the free eternal election, but it expressly refers to a temporal, and seasonable selecting them from others; chosen as Plal. 134. 1. again Deut. 7. 6, 7. or possibly thus, when I went to make them a choice people, resigning them from their deities, and idolatries contracted in Egypt, to the word Jer. 48. 10. and selecting them. q Not pericly considered, but rationally. r Either alluring them by oath, that he would now make good his promise, and bring them out of bondage, 'tis the gesture of one, that solemnly promises, or else I threaten them, and made bare my arm, i. e. magnified my power for your deliverance. z This explained, and tells us who Israel was. s By the Miracles, which he wrought: for 'tis not to be understood of making known, or discovering his essence, and incomprehensibility. * 'Tis not unlikely that many of them, either ignorant, or forgot God, now by his wonders wrought for their deliverance he brings them to remember him, and look to him. m His question in Exod. 3. 13. seems to intimate this ignorance of this people. x As this expressly directs us to the place, to it points out the time too, when Israel was chosen, selected. y Shewed my power in performing my oath, and promise in what was now to be done, and alluring them of doing what was farther promised by him, and expected by them, and to allure them the more, 'tis doubled. z So Exod. 3. 13, 15, 17. Yours from your Progenitors, yours by promise, by covenant, and now am come to be your God by actual, and punctual performing my word to you, bringing you out of the Land of Egypt by a lifted up hand and arm.

6 In the day that I lifted up mine hand unto them to bring them forth of the land of Egypt, into a land that I had a espied for them, flowing with milk and honey; * which is the f glory of || Plal. 48. 2. all lands. Dan. 8. 9. and 11. 16.

* After the manner of man, God speaks, as if he had been the pite to go from place to place to search out the best, and to appoint it for them, it was his wife, and good providence, which assigned this land to them. b Literally Milk, and Honey in abundance were in the Land of Canaan, and continued in this fruitful Land was turned into barrenness, for the sins of its inhabitants. Proverbially it speaks the choicest, best, the most useful, and pleasant, and the plenty and abundance of all these blessings for life, and to be here taken, and though the whole Country in the utmost extent of it, as proposed for Plal. 134. (who fins kept out of much of it) were naturally fruitful Land, yet this great plenty was more from the special favour, and blessing of God. f Makes every Country desirable.

7 Then g said I unto them, b cast ye away every man the i abominations of his idols, and defile I not your selves with the idols m of Egypt: I am the LORD n your GOD.

* Heb. And, which connects the words, and though we read it thus, this doth not point out the time, when God spake thus, 'Tis, this certifying, when he had brought them out of Egypt, as H 2 degenerate nations, and therefore, to raise the fierceness of the fire, q Till it be melted. r See xxi. 17. lit. m. I find that just judgment called down to them, and elsewhere, such were the sins of this people, that they had kindled a fire against them, which should surely consume them. s Or I will let down, and rest me, as the founder, when he hath taken pains to gather in the metal, keep up the wood, kindle the fire, and mean it to fill full fire, rests himself observing how the metal melts down: God will to rest himself, after the manner of man: he is spoken a like phrase xxv. 12. and xxvi. 12. 14. which he will take care the fire go not out, till you are melted, either to the purging away, or consuming you with your deeds.

21 Ye, I will gather you, and blow upon you in the fire of my wrath, and ye shall be melted in the midst thereof.

22 As silver u is melted in the midst of the furnace, so shall ye be melted in the midst thereof; and ye shall know y that I the LORD have poured out my fury upon you z.

These verses are an imbrication of the same Menaces the more to affect the Jews with fear, and an apprehension of their danger, and a desire of returning to God. z This seems to intimate the Divine care over some few, that in the midst of the rest were precious, and God would purify them not destroy them. y See, own, and submit to God's afflicting hand, and comply with him, putting away your doings. z Promiscuously with others, among which you have suffered the time outward troubles, though the end be different, which intimates the escape of a Remnant.

23 And the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

24 Son of man, say unto her, a thou art the land that is not cleaned b, nor rained c upon in the day of indignation d.

a The Land of Israhel, though God's judgments have been as violent storms, and floods, though they have been as forest fires, c Yet neither dry fish: hath been carried away, nor dry fish melted out of the by them, fill thou retainest both. d Therefore is indignation kindled against thee, and thou shalt be deprived of the dews of Heaven, the rain, that should cool thy thirsty Land shall be withholden, that rain that should make the ground fruitful, shall not descend.

* Hof. 6. 9. 25 * There is a conspiracy e of her f prophets in the midst thereof g, like a roaring h lion ravening the prey: * they have i devoured souls: * Mic. 3. 11. * they have taken the treasure k and precious l things; they have made m her many widows in the midst thereof.

e A Conjurance, or framing among themselves a design to speak all false flattering, smooth words, and give out promises of peace, and safety, when there was no peace; they would have the Jews believe in little time, the Vessels of the Lords house, and the Lords people in Babylon should be brought back: As xxi. 1. 2. 3. and whereas Jerusalem faithfully told them, that it would be no such thing, but that the rest of the Vessels, and Ziddikim, and the people should be carried away into Babylon, they conspire against him and such as he was. xxi. 20. 2. and 26. 8. and 29. 25. 26. and persecute them with one content and mind. f Hers not God's Prophets, the false Prophets, such as Hananias, xxi. 1. 2. g Of the Land, but principally in Jerusalem, the Metro-polis, and residence of the Court, where such as loved to be flattered, and of whom flatterers might make gain. h Whom hunger enrageth, and murther roar in most dreadful manner, as some observe of them, when they hunt their prey, and when they have seized, and are tearing it, so did these false Prophets with cruelty, and fierceness pursue the true Prophets, and such as believed their words, feared the judgments, and mourned for the sins of the sinning people. i Have eat up, impoverished, and sucked dry men, that relieved, and maintained them, the guise of all false Prophets, or they have taken, in their comploting, and swallowed down whole the persons that disbelieved and opposed their lies. k They did not, without reward tell their lies, nor would prophesy without a reward out of the treasures of those that advised with them, so they drained the people of their riches. l Either to get a further explanation of what he had said, or possibly it may tell us, that where Money was not to be had, these false Prophets would demand something of Value; and if 'twere Monies worth, they were then for bartering the Prophecies, for they gulld these souls. m One while by raising Persecutions, and cutting off Husbands from their Wives, another while, and which most agrees with the Place, Persuading, Encouraging, and bewitching Ziddikim, and the Princes, and People to host out the War, and run all hazzards, and extremities of that Siege, which filled Jerusalem with dead Husbands, and forlorn Widows.

26 Her n priests o have p violated q my law, and have profaned q my holy r things: they have put no s difference between the holy, and profane, neither have they flowed difference t between the unclean u and the clean, and have hid v their eyes from my sabbaths, and I am z profaned among them.

a God came to them as his, they were Priests that failed such a people. b Men by Office bound to reverence the Law, to study it, and to preserve it from any corruption. c We fled it to oppress, and impurity, and to maintain errors, and made it speak what they would, not what it said, d Lightly esteemed, as if they had been but common things, and accordingly use them. e Sacrifices, and Offerings, which were consecrated to holy uses, should be offered with holy hearts, and hands, and be eaten by holy persons in due time, and place. All this neglected with profane Spirits. f Thus, and the following clause may be an evasive, explication of the former, or else thus: Neither have they in their own practice distinguished need holy and profane, nor in their teaching persecuted the people with the difference, nor in the exercise of their Authority separated the profane from the holy, either persons, or things, but with promiscuous intimacies of every thing, and all persons have been alike to them, whether holy, or profane, g of common, and ordinary use. h Have not made the people known, to the word. i Things and Persons, what things might be touch, or catch, or what might not, what persons might not be approach to, and conversed with, and what might, all which was the Duty of the Priests, the neglect whereof spread the uncleanness of the Jews over the whole Land. j Despised, and would not see the Holiness of the Sabbaths, nor would look on such as observed them aright to encourage them, or on those that profaned them to reprove them, so they did not see what they would not see. k Though they are called communists, they keep holy, and with great care and exactness. l In xx. 13. 17. 21. 22. though the Portion of time consecrated to my service, they sacrilegiously dated to other uses, and grudge it me, nay, rob me of it. m Condemned, dishonoured, disobeyed, and all my Law represented as trivial, and light things.

a As before, xx. 26. lit. d. and xx. 22. lit. f. b Rulers of all sorts, who should have cruelties oppressors, and defend the oppressed. c Creatures greedy, bloody, and crafty, resembling Dogs that men make use of to defend their Folds; so Authority which God had given to defend, is by these Hypocrites perverted to taste the bloody, and greedy Appetite of Tyrannical Government among the Jews, possibly the Prophets may tax the degeneracy, and insensibility of these Rulers here, d Innocent blood, a crying sin in Princes, who have God's Power committed to them to preserve the innocent. e Undo, and ruin Families, cutting off the Fathers, and impoverishing the Widow, and Fatherless. f Conspicuous Eliates not fortified.

28 And * her prophets g have daubed h them with untemper'd mortar, * saying vanity, and divining lies i unto them, so that they, thus faith the LORD GOD, when the LORD GOD hath not j spoken.

g False Prophets. h Flattered their oppressing bloody Princes in their ways of sin, and violence. i With Promises and Encouragements, that like ill tempered mortar, will deceive them, though all seems for present, smooth and safe. j Pretending they had by vision from God all the good they promised, whereas it was all a notorious lie, and falsehood, k God never spoke to those Prophets, and what by his own Prophets he spake, was of quite another tenure, 'twas evil, not good.

29 The people m of the land have used n all oppression, and exercised robbery o, and have vexed p the poor and needy q r s t u v w x y z aa ab ac ad ae af ag ah ai aj ak al am an ao ap aq ar as at au av aw ax ay az ba bb bc bd be bf bg bh bi bj bk bl bm bn bo bp bq br bs bt bu bv bw bx by bz ca cb cc cd ce cf cg ch ci cj ck cl cm cn co cp cq cr cs ct cu cv cw cx cy cz da db dc dd de df dg dh di dj dk dl dm dn do dp dq dr ds dt du dv dw dx dy dz ea eb ec ed ee ef eg eh ei ej ek el em en eo ep eq er es et eu ev ew ex ey ez fa fb fc fd fe ff fg fh fi fj fk fl fm fn fo fp fq fr fs ft fu fv fw fx fy fz ga gb gc gd ge gf gg gh gi gj gk gl gm gn go gp gq gr gs gt gu gv gw gx gy gz ha hb hc hd he hf hg hi hj hk hl hm hn ho hp hq hr hs ht hu hv hw hx hy hz ia ib ic id ie if ig ih ii ij ik il im in io ip iq ir is it iu iv iw ix iy iz ja jb jc jd je jf jj jk jl jm jn jo jp jq jr js jt ju jv jw jx jy jz ka kb kc kd ke kf kg kh ki kj kl km kn ko kp kq kr ks kt ku kv kw kx ky kz la lb lc ld le lf lg lh li lj lk ll lm ln lo lp lq lr ls lt lu lv lw lx ly lz ma mb mc md me mf mg mh mi mj mk ml mn mo mp mq mr ms mt mu mv mw mx my mz na nb nc nd ne nf ng nh ni nj nk nl nm no np nq nr ns nt nu nv nw nx ny nz oa ob oc od oe of og oh oi oj ok ol om on oo op oq or os ot ou ov ow ox oy oz pa pb pc pd pe pf pg ph pi pj pk pl pm pn po pp pq pr ps pt pu pv pw px py pz qa qb qc qd qe qf qg qh qi qj qk ql qm qn qo qp qq qr qs qt qu qv qw qx qy qz ra rb rc rd re rf rg rh ri rj rk rl rm rn ro rp rq rr rs rt ru rv rw rx ry rz sa sb sc sd se sf sg sh si sj sk sl sm sn so sp sq sr ss st su sv sw sx sy sz ta tb tc td te tf tg th ti tj tk tl tm tn to tp tq tr ts tt tu tv tw tx ty tz ua ub uc ud ue uf ug uh ui uj uk ul um un uo up uq ur us ut uu uv uw ux uy uz va vb vc vd ve vf vg vh vi vj vk vl vm vn vo vp vq vr vs vt vu vv vw vx vy vz wa wb wc wd we wf wg wh wi wj wk wl wm wn wo wp wq wr ws wt wu wv ww wx wy wz xa xb xc xd xe xf xg xh xi xj xk xl xm xn xo xp xq xr xs xt xu xv xw xx xy xz ya yb yc yd ye yf yg yh yi yj yk yl ym yn yo yp yq yr ys yt yu yv yw yx yy yz za zb zc zd ze zf zg zh zi zj zk zl zm zn zo zp zq zr zs zt zu zv zw zx zy zz

16 * And t as soon as the law them g with her eyes, the doted upon them, and sent messengers u unto them into Chaldea k.

17 And the t Babylonians came l to her into the bed of love, and they defiled n her with their whoredom o, and she was polluted with them, and h her mind was t alienated g from them.

18 The Prophet prophesied the Allegory, the Adulteress sent, and invited, and the Gentiles comply with it, they came, Embassadors no doubt, first to make a Confederacy, and then free intercourse in Trade and Religion too. So the impudently licentious call the polluted, forbidden bed as the Harlot, Prov. 7. 18. It is like with this commerce, and Confederacy the lustful Babylonians did spread that disease, the Jewish nation were too much inclined to corporal Adulteries, and Fornications, but metaphorically, it is a delightful communicating with them in their idolatry in their Idols, Temples, and Feasts. u Made her unclean, v and loathsome, w Spiritual and corporal. g Greatly defiled, as the doubling the expression imports. g Like an arrant Adulteress, wearied, but not satisfied with her adulterers, the changed mind, and friendships, and seeks new ones. So did this people weary of the Chaldeans seek new confederates.

19 So r the discovered f her whoredomes, and discovered her nakedness t. * Then n my mind was alienated x from her y, like as my mind was alienated from her sister z.

20 By this unfaithfulness and change of lovers. z Made it appear to all far, and to near, that she was a most notorious, and infamous strumpet. z Her nakedness, and her shame. u When I saw the Jewesses, impudence, and boundlessness of her Adulteries. v Turned from her with abhorrence, I could no longer endure it. y Jerusalem, the land of Judah, the Kingdom of the Two Tribes. z Samaria, the Ten Tribes, and I resolved to destroy them both alike by their lovers.

21 Yet a the multiplied b her whoredomes, in calling to remembrance c the days of her youth d, wherein she had played the harlot in the land of Egypt.

22 And h she added more, and greater to her former sins of Idolatry, and Whoredomes, and perished in them. e This may refer, either to the Jewish nation remembering their idolatries in Egypt, which the now resolves to act over again; or it may refer to God, who, by these continued courses of Jewish lewdness, is provoked to remember, and punish old perfidious and idolatrous practices. d Vers 3. lit. k.

23 For the doted e upon their paramours, f whose flesh is as the flesh g of asses, and whose issue is like the issue of horses.

24 u Vers 3. lit. e. f Egyptians, and the nations, that were Confederate with the Egyptians, looking on them as able to defend by their power, enrich by their Trade and make profuse by their Friendship. g In their terms the Prophet expresseth the vehement desire of the Jews to Egyptian Idolatry compared to whoredom, and may, for ought I know, take the lustful impudence of some of the Jewish Women in their corporal uncleanness with the Egyptians, who were it seems (by report of Authors) naturally disposed for that vice, and fitted for unsatiable lustful ways. st chap. 16. 26. lit. l.

25 Thus thou calledst to remembrance b the lewdness of thy youth i, in bruising thy teats k by the Egyptians, for l the paps of thy youth.

26 * Therefore, O Aholibah, m thus saith the Lord GOD; * Behold, i I will raise up thy lovers n against thee, from whom thy mind is alienated o, and I will bring p them against thee on every side q.

* chap. 16. 37. the Lord GOD; * Behold, i I will raise up thy lovers n against thee, from whom thy mind is alienated o, and I will bring p them against thee on every side q.

27 m Stu ver. lit. e. Thy Confederates. o Whom thou hast first loathed and forsaken, and thou engaged them as thy lovers. p Be not only an exciter to stir them up against thee, but will be a guide, and conductor of them. q So no way left for thy escape.

28 The Babylonians and all the Chaldeans, Pekod, f, and Shoa, t, and Koa, u, and all x the Assyrians with them: all of them desirable y young men, captains, and rulers, great lords, and renowned z, all of them riding upon horses.

29 These are known. f Some reckon these the Titles of some of the great Commanders in this Army, which come against Jerusalem, but they are names of distinct Countries, or Provinces under the Babylonish Government, and to g h i j k l m n o p q r s t u v w x y z aa ab ac ad ae af ag ah ai aj ak al am an ao ap aq ar as at au av aw ax ay az ba bb bc bd be bf bg bh bi bj bk bl bm bn bo bp bq br bs bt bu bv bw bx by bz ca cb cc cd ce cf cg ch ci cj ck cl cm < their hands, and beautiful crowns upon their heads.

<sup>a</sup> A flour for joy, that there was treaty of peace between the Jews, and the Chaldeans, or Sons of gladness for the peace made, and confirmed not in God's Name, but in the Name of the Idols. <sup>b</sup> Free from the tears of any War to disquiet them. <sup>c</sup> About the Altar fire, where the peace was <sup>d</sup> sworn, about her Feet, where she feasted her new Allies, that were Great Princes, and Nobles. <sup>e</sup> And to the worthy the Name of men, or beside the Great, and Famous ones. (Et sic ut loquitur) as the French Version. <sup>f</sup> Messengers were sent to, or received, or entertained, and carried from the Rearing Sabazus, who lived on Robbers, and Spoiling the Merchants, these were brought to Jerusalem from the Wilderness, Defensers of Abasis, a rude, barbarous, and Idolatrous kind of men described by their ill properties in Geographers, of these were they, that destroyed Jehoi's Servants in the <sup>g</sup>verie destroyed by their Ornaments, Bracelets about Neck and arms, and Crowns on their Heads, which some think they followed upon this Harlot.

43 Then said k I unto her l that was old m in adulteries, will they now commit n whoredoms with her, and the with them?

<sup>a</sup> After the manner of man God seems to stand musing, or saying to himself, or it may be supposed that God speaks to his Prophet, asking him, <sup>b</sup> Or rather to her, concerning her. <sup>c</sup> Such usually are out of respect with Adulterers, and now Samaria and Jerusalem had been long Spiritual Adulteresses, and one would think her Lovers would be weary of her, if she were not weary of them.

44 Yet n they went in o unto her, as they go in unto a woman that playeth the harlot: so went they in unto Abolah and unto Abolihah the lewd women.

45 And the righteous p men, they shall judge them after the manner of adulteresses q, and after the manner of women that shed blood; because they are adulteresses, and blood is in their hands.

<sup>a</sup> Men that kept the Law of their God: for some such there were about Aboliah her self, or Prophets, such as Jehonah and Ezekiel, and some few more; or else the Babylonians, who in the present Controversy between Jerusalem, and its King on the one part, and Melchizedek, and the Babylonians on the other part, were comparatively the Righteous men. <sup>b</sup> Which was to be put to death by stoning, Lev. 24. 10. and Murder was punished with Death.

* chap. 16. 40. 46 For thus saith the LORD GOD; * I will bring up a company r upon s them, and will give them t to be removed u, and spoiled x.

* chap. 22. 15. 48 Thus * will I cause lewdness to f cease out of the land, that all women g may be taught not to do after your lewdness.

for the dead, bind the tire of thine head upon thee, and put on thy shoes upon thy feet, and cover not thy lips, and eat not the bread of men.

Refrain, and curb thy sorrows, neither sigh, or lament. When thou carriest her up to burial, make no mourning for her. Adorn, and trim up thy head, as thou wast used to do; go not bare-headed. As Lev. 10. 6. and 21. 10. a Mourner. In great Mourning the Jews went bare-footed. 2 Sam. 15. 30. and Job. 47. 2. but do not thou so, put on thy shoes. I was a custom among them to cover, either the upper lip, or muffle, as Lev. 19. 45. the Leper did, and Mich. 3. 7. and this also is forbidden the Prophet. I was Father of your Neighbours, and Friends of your Mourners. Or, rather of your Neighbours, and Friends, and went to visit, and feast their mourning Friends, and sent in both choice, and abundance of provision to their Houses, Jer. 15. 7. and this was a custom with Septuagins, Grecians, Arabians, and Romans. Eat thou thine own, as if no mourning occasion in thy Family.

So I spake unto the people in the morning; and at even my wife died; and I did in the morning as I was commanded.

Told them what God had told me, and which I expected would be. 'Tis likely he had this Revelation in the night, or evening before, and he tells them betimes in the morning, what God would do in taking away his Wife, and what he must not do when he is dead, and he buried. The next morning after her death he offered God's Command, and without any sign of sorrow, or mourning for his great loss.

And the people said unto me, Wilt thou not tell us what these things are to us, that thou dost say?

Some of the ordinary sort, the People, not Rulers or Priests. Explain, and declare whether there be not, and what it is that we are to learn by this: These are Types, but what do they mean?

Then I answered them, The word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

Speak unto the house of Israel, Thus saith the Lord GOD: Behold I will prophesy of my sanctuary, the excellency of your strength, the desire of your eyes, and that which your youth pined after; and your sons b and your daughters whom ye have left shall fall by the sword.

Now he is commissioned to declare the meaning of that he did. d To them at Babylon by word of mouth, but to them at Jerusalem by Letter, or Messenger. e Cast off, and put into the hands of Heathens, who will regard it no more, than any other common Building, though 'tis, and hath been long my Sanctuary, but you, O Jews! first profaned it with your sins, and now in vain just dispature against you, I will suffer it to be prophesied by the Chaldeans, f So 'twas whilst God's presence was there, and whilst the Jews kept it undefiled, it was their confidence, and they, trusted in it, though as my Wife was mine, faith the Prophet, most dear to you, as she to me, but this shall be burnt. b The Children, which survive you after these grievous Calamities, and in whom you hoped for comfort, and posterity shall die by the Conquerors Sword too, chap. 23. 47.

And ye shall do as I have done: * ye shall not cover your lips k, nor eat the bread of men l.

When you are in Captivity, where you cannot, may not use your own Customs, and Rites on these, or any other occasions. k See Lev. 17. let. k. l See Lev. 17. let. n.

And your tires shall be upon your heads m, and your shoes upon your feet n: ye shall not mourn o, nor weep p; but * ye shall pine q away for your iniquities r, and mourn one towards another.

Verse 17. let. r. Thus Ezekiel is unto you as a sign s; according to all that he hath done, shall ye do: and when this cometh upon ye, ye shall know that I am the Lord GOD.

In what thou dost may see what you shall do, (see chap. 4. ver. 3. and 12. chap. 6. And so was Job. chap. 8. 13. a When your Neediness, and Enemies shall force you to do as I have done, make you wiser after this Copy. c Confess the Justice, Power, Wisdom, and Truth of God in all threatened, and executed against you.

Also thou Son of man, shall it not be y in the day z when I take a from them their strength, the joy of their glory, the desire of their eyes, and that whereupon they set their minds, their sons and their daughters;

The question is to be resolved affirmatively, it shall be. In the day of the taking the City of Jerusalem, a Though Nebuchadnezzar was the means, or instrument God did act by, who did God's work more than his own. b The Kingdom dissolved, the King taken, City sack'd, the Temple burnt, which is by the following characters described, as the only thing they valued. Though those particulars may be applied to Sons, and Daughters in the close of the verse; it amounts to this in that Day, wherein all their public and private joys and hopes shall be destroyed in the destruction of the Kingdom, and their Children, one that escapeth shall bring the News to the Prophet.

That he c that escapeth d in that day, shall come e unto thee, to cause thee to hear f it with thine ears?

So few escape, that the Prophet fears to confine it to one. d The common destruction when Jerusalem was taken. e Put up to declare how God hath made good his threats. f To give thee a Narrative of all he had seen, and observed; and this particular prediction, which I doubt not might imparted to many, who might see it fulfilled, was accomplished in the twelfth year, tenth month, and fifth day of the month, Ezek. 33. 21. with Jer. 52. 6. after the City was taken, (which happened in the seventh year, and fourth month, ninth day of Zedekiah's Reign, and Jeremiah's Captivity) one whole year, five months, and twenty four days.

In that day shall thy mouth be opened g to him which is escaped, and thou shalt speak, and be no more dumb h: and thou shalt be a sign i unto them; and they shall know that I am the LORD.

To speak freely to him, that brings the news, and to the Jews afterward. b From this prophetic for eighteen months during the siege he doth not prophesy of Israel, but of other Nations. i Until the event, confirmed by eye-witness, shall convince the Jews, that he speaks by sign figures to them, what is coming, and when 'tis come, to pass according to thy word, they shall confess thou wert a true Prophet sent of me, and they shall see that I am the Lord.

CHAP. XXV.

THE word of the LORD came k again unto me, saying,

Though he had order no more yet a while to prophesy against the Jews, he was to be dumb as to them, yet he hath Commission to foretell sad tidings to other Nations round about the Jews.

Son of man set thy face l against * the Ammonites m, and prophesy n against them:

The phrase you have, chap. 20. 46. let. a. it includes Anger, Vengeance, and intent of mind. n The Pollicy of Lev. by the younger Daughters, near Neighbours, barbarian Enemies to the Jews. n Leave recorded what heavy things shall befall them in after days.

And say o unto the Ammonites, Hear the word of the Lord GOD p; Thus saith the Lord GOD: * Because thou saidst, Aha q, against my sanctuary r, when it was prophesied s, and against the land of Israel r, when it was desolate u, and against the land of Judah x when it went into captivity y;

Either tell Ammonites Merchants, or Travellers of which some might likely be in Babylon for Trade, or to see its State: or else, send by Letter to them of their Nation, who may serve in Nebuchadnezzar's Camp, which was in that time a School of Arms, that they may tell others: or else, do plainly declare it, that in time they may know this. n The not ambiguous, or defective Oracle of your Idols, but the plain, and true, and fulfilling Word of the only true God, the God of Israel, as Jer. 23. 8. q When thou shouldst have pitied, and been sorry, thou shou shouldst rejoice, and proudly didst insult, magnified thyself, and reproached my people, were glad that to great Calamities were upon them. r Both the Temple, and the Worship of God, 'tis like in their pride, they boasted their Idols power to Preserve their Temples, and blasphemed God as unable to preserve his Sacred Rites, and Worship. f When the Heathen entered into, and when they burnt it. i They insulted on the Ten Tribes, the Kingdom of Israel when afflicted. n Walked by Pal and Tishbi Pileter, and captivated by Salmonezer. x The Two Tribes, the Kingdom of Judah. y First, with Jehoiachin, and which was worse, then, when they burnt it, when it was captivated with Zedekiah, and the City burned; a most mournful sight, and at which none, but inhuman barbarous men could do less, then weep, but their rejoicing, and cry, Aha.

Behold, therefore, I z will deliver thee to the z men of the east a for a possession b, and they shall set their palaces c in thee, and make their dwellings d in thee: they shall eat thy e fruit, and they shall drink thy milk f.

The God whom thou hast despised, whose People thou hast reproached, whose Worship thou hast vilified, I will avenge myself, and deliver thee up. a The Medes and Persians say some, the Babylonians say others, but this suits not well with Geography; Arabians say others, all agree, that Nebuchadnezzar, 'tis likely, recompensed their labour, and service with giving them this Country, when it was conquered, as 'twas five years after the desolation of Jerusalem, b They shall settle on it, as a very convenient Country for their Sheep and Camels, and possess it, as their Inheritance. c The word Palaces seems little to agree with Arabians, who dwell in Tents, but this manner of dwelling many of them would be ready to change, where they might do so great advantage, as in their Camp they might be, if they did not build Cities in the Country. e The Fruit of that Land was once, of the Trees thou plantest. f Which in so fruitful Land, and rich Pastures they had in abundance from the multitude of their Kine, and 'twas a drink that well suited with those hot Regions.

I will make Rabba g a stable h for Camels i, and the Ammonites k a couching place for flocks: and ye shall know l that I am the LORD.

The Royal City, and Seat of the Kings of Ammon, called since Philadelphia, from Philadelphus, King of Egypt, who built it. b Turn it from a Royal Palace to be a receptacle of Camels, and their drivers. i Wherewith not the Chaldeans, and Babylonians, but the Arabians alone were well stored; all the men of the East, as appears in Job, using them for conveying Merchandise, and for Travels. k The People for the Land they dwell in. l Then shall you know, I was as able to have defended my own People, House, and Worship, as I was able to destroy your Gods, your Cities, and your People.

For thus saith the Lord GOD: Because thou hast clapped thine i hands m, and stamped with the feet n, and rejoiced in that heart o with all thy thyself p against the land q of Israel r.

Express thy joy in that insolent manner. n And added this sign of mirth, then ordinary Joy at it. o It was that which affected thy heart with gladness, thy soul, and mind were in this thy rejoicing. p Hatred and contempt, thou wast heartily glad, which vile people, as thou commedst them, were, and which thou thoughtest they best deserved, Slaves, Beggers, and Captives. q For the people. r Either the Ten Tribes, or rather the Two Tribes with the small remnant of the others, that kept to the House of David.

Behold therefore, I will stretch f out mine hand upon thee, and will deliver thee for a spoil s to the heathen u, and I will cut thee off x from the people, and I will cause thee to perish out of the country: I will destroy y thee; and thou shalt know z that I am the LORD.

Thou stretchest out thy hand in Joy, I will stretch out mine in Wrath, thou, against my people, I against thee. f For a prey, or for meat, so the word will bear. The greedy covetous Soldier shall make his wealth his prey; the hungry Enemy shall eat thee up. s Babylonians, and their Confederates. x Explained by that follows, Ammon shall no more be accounted among the Nations, but cease from being a people. y So shall thou be destroyed. z Vide ver. 3. let. l.

Thus saith the Lord GOD: * because that Moab a, and Seir e do say, Behold, the house of Judah c is like d unto all the heathen.

The Children of Let by the Elder Daughter, the whole Nation going under the Name of the first Father of them, near but not Neighbours to Israel, and Judah. b The seed of Edom, who are, Edom, Idumeans, or Sibs, from the Mountains, where they first planted themselves; near of Kin in blood, but bitter Enemies to the Jews, though both here joined, yet Moab is first doomed here, ver. 9. 10. 11. and Sibs next, chap. 12. 13. 14. e The peculiar people of God, who had his Law, Temple, Worship of his own appointment among them. d Are no more a select people than others; their Religion no better, nor their Gods, but as the Gods of other Nations, who were benefited by their worshipping of him, thus Adversely like, they detest God, and detest him to an equality with their own Idols, more particularly Moab's sin is set out, Jer. 48. 10.

Therefore, behold, I will open e the f side f Heb. shoulder, f of Moab from the cities g, from his cities which are on b his frontiers, the glory i of the country Bethjeshimoth, Baalmeon l, and Kiriaethaim m.

When the Lord will open the Gates of Iron, and say, the Gates shall not be shut, as Jer. 45. 1. 2. Every attempt shall be easy, and his Soldiers shall break through the defences, that were vainly thought impregnable. f That part of his Country, which was best fortified for the safeguard of the whole. g From the Cities of strength, called here Moab, because he gloried, and trusted in them such as Hez and Amn Guard on Amn, very strong Garrisons. h Or from his Frontiers, (for 'tis the same construction Heb.) or from his utmost bounds, I will lay all open to the Chaldeans, they shall over-run it, as if 'twere an open Country, as easily, as if no Fortresses to impede them. i So the great strength, and beautiful, or regularly built, and fortified Cities are enumerated the Glory of the Country, and they are reckoned beside d and Amn. k Bethjeshimoth, an ancient City, and formerly Robins' loss, Jer. 19. 20. its name tells you, it was a fortress toward the desert, which watched, lest any should, through those wastes, make an incursion on the Country. l Called also Moan, and Baith, and Beth-Baith, Mansion-House of Baith, word for word, it was situated on the North Coast of Moab, as the other on the West. m A City, which probably consisted of two Cities, or principal parts, a very strong Frontier Town, but not able to keep out those that God would lead in.

Unto the men n of the east o with s the Ammonites, and will give them in possession p that the children of Ammon q * may not be remembered among the nations.

See ver. 4. let. a. o Rather against, and so the Heb. and the sense is plain, or as our Translation reads it, with i. a. as I have given Ammon, I will give them Moab to the Chaldeans, s Who will give Moab to the Arabians. p Ver. 4. let. b. q I suppose here it is either an allusion, thus, that as the Ammonites should be perished, as not to be remembered, so should Moab also, or else Ammon is appellative here, and speaks the numerousness of Moab, which yet should be cease to be forgotten.

I will execute judgment f upon Moab; and they shall know that I am the LORD.

The Chaldeans do it, 'tis by God's direction, and he is principal therein. f The judgment passed by my Prophets: Those brutish Nations shall know this is my hand.

Thus saith the LORD: * Because that Edom u hath dealt against the house of j Judah by taking vengeance y, and hath greatly offended z, and revenged himself upon them;

The Idumeans Children of Esau. u The Kingdom of David after the division of the Tribes, when but two remained constant to the House of David. y For the old quarrel, because Jacob got the blessing from Esau, or rather in revenging a later quarrel, which they had against Jacob for the Slaughter, spoil, and captivity they suffered by David's conquering Sword. z Both in the thing itself; for vengeance belongs to God, and in the manner and measure of executing it, as appears, both from Psal. 137. 7. and the prophetic of Obadiah 10. to 15. w See, and consider.

Therefore thus saith the Lord GOD: I will also stretch out a mine hand upon Edom, and will cut off man b and beast c from it; and I will make it desolate d from Teman e; and I will destroy f the cities thereof g, and I will lay the foundation h thereof i, and I will lay the corner stone j thereof k, and I will lay the keystone l thereof m, and I will lay the arch n thereof o, and I will lay chadzean, or wasted with murrain, or all should concur to undo the rock their pastures, d A delatation, e i. most desolate, from the South, f Child, Paraph. but is rather the Name of the Region, called by the name of Eliu's Grandson Tyrus, who also gave name to the Metropolis of Idumea, and probably was in the Southern Coast of Edom's Country. f The Dulcivitis, who were of Arabian by Rothom. Gen. 25. 3. and these were Neighbours to Edom, on Archie side, or else intersect with the Edomite in Habitation and Commerce, so that it might be a City reckoned, either to Edom, or Arabia from Tyrus to Dadai, the Chaldean Sword should waste all.

14 And I will lay my vengeance y upon Edom by the hand of my people Israel z; and y shall do in Edom according to my anger, and according to my fury c; and they d shall know my vengeance, faith the Lord GOD.

y Which is his great, so just, pure, and opportune, their foes laid in due time, Dan. 32. 35. z No filthiness mention the fulfilling of this, as it sounds in the letter of it, unless 1 Mac. 5. 3. and 2 Mac. 10. 16, 17. some therefore interpret by hand, from the same hand, that I used in punishing my people others refer to it a spiritual meaning, as Ps. 11. 14. and Jer. 49. 2. and Obad. 18. 21. a The Instruments God used, whether Archer in other times, or the Chaldeans at this present age; b My just displeasure, as it is from on work, shall give them their strength, and measures; they shall do as much as I intended against Edom. c Redoubted to affect the more, and confirm the prediction. d Both Edom, my people, and those I employ shall feel the way my quarrel, which I threatened to revenge, and now have done it, and Edom shall know, I am not like their Gods, though they did so, ver. 8.

15 Thus faith the Lord GOD; * Because the Philistines e have dealt by revenge f, and have taken vengeance with despisive g heart, to destroy h i j for the old k hatred.

Next Neighbours to the Jer. between whom many quarrels, wars, and mutual poll, laughter, and injuries happened, as ever among Borderers, who made all their own they can catch. f Took the opportunity to revenge themselves, when the Jews were weak and low. g With hatred to them, and contempt of them. h This tells us what their hatred appeared in, 'twas a hatred to the Name, and being of Israel they would cut them off, as Ps. 83. 7. With a perpetual enmity enmity pursuing them.

16 Therefore thus faith the Lord GOD; Behold, I will stretch out k mine hand upon the Philistines, and I will cut off the cherubims l, and j of destroy the remnant m of the l sea coast n.

k See chap. 25. ver. 6. l lit. f, and chap. 16. ver. 27. lit. n, o. i Either a name for all the Philistines, 1 Sam. 30. 14. or else the principal Southerly, expert Bowmen, the strength of Philistia. m Which had cleaved the sword of Samsu, David, Hezekiah, and of Ptolemicus King of Egypt. n Mediterranean about Asiatic.

17 And I will execute great † vengeance o upon them with furious p rebukes: and they shall know that I am the LORD, when I shall lay q my vengeance upon them.

This verb is a confirmation of all spoken against the Philistines, and in all the particulars explained in what went before. o Great for measure, and many for number, vengeances, as Hab. p In fierceness of anger, and without pity. q They, as other stupid Nations, will not feel, till they feel, and then they shall confess 'tis the hand of an angry, but just, and mighty God.

CHAP. XXVI.

1 AND it came to pass in the eleventh year a, in the first day of the month b, that the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

a Of Jerusalem's Captivity, the y. wherein Jerusalem was taken. b That Month, which followed the taking Jerusalem, i. e. the fifth month; for Jerusalem was taken on the fourth month, ninth day, and in twenty days after the news was brought to Tyrus, which behaved her self, as the Prophet will declare.

2 Son of man, * Because that Tyrus c hath laid d against Jerusalem, * Aha e, she is broken; f then g that was the gates g of the people: h she is turned unto me: I shall be replenished, i now she is laid waste.

c The City for the People, 'tis probable it was a universal joy, therefore ascribed to the whole City built on a Rock, and land of the same name, nor far distant from the Convent, a very great Traded Port, and City. d Either God revealed this to the Prophet so soon as their insulting Tyrus spoke it, or else Ezekiel speaks of it prophetically, and as if 'twere done. e Show'd great joy at the fall of Jerusalem, and triumph over her. f By Mithradates Army. g Near to the Gates of the City were usually the great Merchants, and so here Tyrus is called the great Mart of Nations and People from all parts resorting to her for Trade, or Religion. h Trade interest will turn to me, they, that did carry Merchandise to Jerusalem, will now bring it to me. i Have full Trade, my Haven full of Ships, Streets full of Bayers and Sellers, Shops full of Ware, Houses full of Lodgers, and Purse full of Money. k She reflected on wasted Jerusalem with Joy, which was impious, inhuman, and inhumane to rejoice in the ruin of her Neighbour.

3 Therefore thus faith the Lord GOD; Behold I am l against thee, o Tyrus, and will cause many m nations to come up against thee, as the sea causeth his waves to come n up.

l And if God be against them, they'll soon have Enemies enough too against them, God purposefully, threatenly, and aliter them, he is, and will be against them. m For Number, and Mighty for Strength, Riches, Authority, and Fear of War already done. n With full Violence, Confrontation, leveling in height, and making their fear the due, to shall the Babylonians come.

4 And they shall destroy o the walls of Tyrus, and break p down her Towers q; I will also scrape r her dust from her, and make her like the top of a rock.

o Batter and demolish with their mighty Engines, which shall shake, disjoin, and beat down the strongest parts of their Walls. p Undermine, that they may tumble at once, or else employ ladders to take them down, as men pull down Buildings. q Watch Towers, and dole that were for defence, and safety of their City, which from their greatness have their name, Michal. r I will leave thee nothing, thou shalt be scraped, and bruised, and swept, that not so much as dust shall remain to thee. s As bare as the Rock, on which thy City is built. t Refuse Wealth, Beauty, Buildings, and strength was brought to it by mass industry.

5 It shall be a place for the spreading t of nets in the midst of the sea: for I have spoken u, faith the Lord GOD; and it shall become a spoil v to the nations x.

As barren sandy flers in the midst of the Sea, good for nothing, but to dry Fishermen Nets, shall then be. y A prey, though the contumace of the words place after its being made to bare, and poor, yet we are to observe, that these last words give us account how this poverty and barrenness shall come upon thy rich City, the Nations shall spoil her with thirteen years long siege, interruption of Trade, living on the quick stock, and finally taken on fire. z Babylonians, and their Confederates, who made the Tyrusians pay the reckoning.

6 And her daughters y which are in the field z shall be slain by the sword z; and they shall know that I am the LORD †.

y Either the lesser Cities, which were as Daughters to Tyrus, a phrase most familiar to the Scriptures, or else their Virgins, and Daughters of the Family. z On the firm Land, if you mean Cities; or surprized in the fields, whether taking the Air, or seeking to escape, if you mean Daughters in the latter sense, z Barbarous Soldiers shall spare none. † Cap. 25. ver. 17.

7 For thus faith the Lord GOD; Behold, I will bring a upon Tyrus Nebuchadnezzar King of Babylon, a king b of kings, from the north c with horses d, and with chariots e, and with horsemen f, and companies g, and much people h.

a Vid. chap. 23. ver. 46. b So he filed himself according to the vanishing manner of those Countries, and indeed, by the right of Conquest, he was King of Kings, having many Tributary Kings under him, and many Captive Kings with him in Babylon. 2 Kings. 18. 28. Jer. 52. 32. c So was Babylon accounted a King, as observed, chap. 1. g 4. thought it did not lie full North, but had some points of the North from Tyrus. d Those Eastern Kings had flocks of horses, and used many in their Wars; see Gen. 11. e See chap. 22. ver. 27. lit. d. f See chap. 22. ver. 12. g An Assembly of all forces, from all parts of the large Kingdom of Babylon. h A mighty Army for fighting, and mighty train of hangers on, who were ready enough to do mischief to the Country, though not very fit to assist the Army, if not required, they would sweep all before them where they came.

8 He shall slay with the sword thy daughters in the field i; and he shall make a fort j against thee, thou, and † cast a mount k against thee, and lift up the buckler m against thee.

† See cap. 16. lit. y. k See chap. 4. ver. 2. lit. o, and chap. 17. ver. 17. lit. l. l He shall draw a line round about thee, in the besieged, and file Scares to defend the lines, to keep the host, mighty forces, or the like out of the Engines framed, and placed on the Forts before mentioned, for so did they of old build mighty wooden Towers, there placed Engines, out of which they could fling mighty stones, or darts against the besieged, who were much annoyed from these high Towers, overlooking their Walls and Streets that none could fire out. m See chap. 23. ver. 24. lit. g.

9 And he shall set engines n of war against thy walls, and with his axes o he shall break down thy towers.

n These were mighty Engines, whatever form made of, and had their description here from the irresistible Force, wherewith they cast flames, and beat down all before them. o Whatsoever made of Iron, and framed to demolish Buildings; see chap. 16. ver. 30.

10 By reason of the abundance of his hories, their dust p shall cover q thee, thy walls shall shake r, at the noise of the horsemen, and of the wheels s, and of the chariots, when he t shall enter u into thy gates, v as men enter into a city, wherein is made a breach x.

p The dust they raise in their marching, or in their exercising, in their riding to and fro, but whether while on the Land, or when they entered the City may be doubted. q As a cloud it shall cover the City. r As Buildings do with great noise, motion, or beating on the ground. s Of their Engines, or Wagons, or Chariots, t Nebuchadnezzar. u Without Car shall enter and possess his Conquest, which Tyrus at last yielded to him after thirteen years hard siege. v Whole Walls, entered and levelled, there is nothing left to defend the Citizens, who therefore yield, or offend the besieger, who therefore fears not entrance.

11 With the hoofs of his horses shall he tread down y all thy streets, he shall slay z thy people by the sword, and thy strong garrisons a shall go down to the ground b.

y In proud, stately, and menacing posture shall the King of Babylon ride through all the streets of the City, to the grief, and terror of the Tyrusians, and as he, so shall his troops do. z In the Wars some of thy people shall fall by his sword, but that notwithstanding, I rather think that 'tis meant of giving judgment against some of the most valiant, constant, and active Citizens, which were the cause of the Cities holding so long out against Nebuchadnezzar, as he did with some of the Nobles of Jerusalem. a Balfions, or Forts about the City, or Triumphal Arches built by Tyrusians, or Statues erected in honour to some eminent Citizens, or to the Kings of Egypt, their ancient Allies, Enemies to the Chaldeans, or the Statues of their Gods Idols, and Apuleia child, that neither in ill nature, and angry, nor yet charmed with other men's songs, should depart, and leave their Pupils without a guard. b Shall be all cut down together.

12 And they c shall make a spoil d of thy riches, and make a prey of thy merchandise e; and they shall break down thy walls f, and destroy g thy pleasant houses g; and they shall lay h thy fountains, and thy timbers, and thy dust in the midst of the water.

c Chaldean Soldiers. d Hinder thy Trade during the War and plunder thee in the end of the War. e Interchanging much, as 'tis coming to thee whilst besieged, and taking what they find, when they conquer. f See cap. 4. g, there he speaks of the Walls of the City, here of the Walls of private Houses, as appears by that which follows. g That the Tyrusians dwell in wild edifices, or diverted themselves in as Houses of Pleasure, Summer Houses. h It had been a quicker way, and easier to have burnt all, but 'tis like the greedy Soldier might dream of Treasure hid in Walls, or under the Timber, and therefore they take the pains to pull all down, and throw it into the Sea; the very dust thou, thus God fulfills his word, and scrap's Tyrus.

13 And * I will cause the noise i of thy fongs j to cease; and the found of thy harps k shall be no more heard.

i A Populous, Wealthy, Ancient, and much frequented City in the midst of great security, no doubt, had all sorts of Music, and loud Music on the Water especially. j A particular sort of Music, but God will dash it all. k This particular Music mentioned as one of the noblest, and most in request, but no more shall be heard in Tyrus after it is taken by Nebuchadnezzar.

14 And I will make thee like the top of a rock m; thou shalt be a place to spread nets upon n; thou shalt be built no more o: for I the LORD have spoken p, faith the Lord GOD.

m See cap. 4. n See cap. 5. lit. o. o Either not this long time, or else not built in greatness, and Glory, or not raised to be a Kingdom, or not by the inhabitants of old Tyrus, or not with the same Laws, Customs, and Manners; indeed, though there was a City of that name built, yet 'twas built on the Continent, and in propriety of speech, was another City, not old Tyrus.

15 Thus faith the Lord GOD to Tyrus, Shall not the files q shake at the sound of thy fall, when the wounded cry, when the slaughter is made in the midst of thee?

q Files, which are places freed from the danger of Invasions, and in those days thought themselves safe, will cast themselves in danger, and shake with fear, when they hear, that Tyrus is fallen, 'twill amaze, and frighten them all, when they hear thy men were wounded, and slain in the midst of thee who dwelt in the Sea.

16 Then * all the princes r of the sea shall come down s from their thrones, and lay t away their robes, and put off their broadened garments: they shall clothe themselves with † trembling u, they shall sit upon the ground, v and shall tremble every moment, and be astonish'd at thee.

r Who were Lords of the Islands in that Sea, and who Traded with Tyrus, and there were many such, or Sea Commanders, who, in their wooden vessels, are in many petty Princes, but rather the former, the crowned heads, whose Kingdoms were so many Islands. s In token of sadness, and condolence. t As further sign of grief. u This is added also to show, how greatly they were affected with sorrow at this sad fall of their Ally, and Friend. v This laying aside of their gallantry shall be in compliance, as now in such cases of condolence, but they shall be heartily afraid of their own concerns, and astonish'd in the midst of their fears.

17 And they x shall take up y a lamentation for thee, and say to z thee, how a art thou destroyed, that wast inhabited of a fierce man, the renowned b city, which wast strong c in the sea, and her inhabitants, which cause their terror d to be on all that haunt it?

x Princes of the Sea, y Solemnly, heartily, and for many days bewail thee. z By a Prophecy, or Fiction of persons, perform a solemn, sorrowful song with fallen Tyrus. a Alas! is it so? Can it be true? How is it that thou art destroyed? Who hadst so many Friends, so much riches, b For thy Strength, Wealth, and Wisdom. c Strong indeed, and thought impregnable. d Who durst let on thee, who overaw'd all the bold adventurers in Sea?

18 Now shall the files e tremble in the day of thy fall f; yea, the files that are in the sea g shall be troubled h at thy departure i.

o Ships, so it might be rendered, whether one or other, 'tis the thing for the men, as Isaiah for Islanders, or Ship for Mariners. f Apprehending that nothing can stand, if Tyrus fall, and that they are in danger too. g At great distance, and farther from Land. h Grieved and perplexed. i Leaving thy ancient dwelling, which from eldest ages thy people had enjoyed with liberty to go into Captivity.

19 For thus faith the Lord GOD; When I shall make x thee a desolate city, like y the cities that are not inhabited; when I shall bring up the deep z upon thee, and great a waters shall cover thee.

x Have made thee what now I threaten I will make thee. y In the same state with Cities, that have not any to dwell in them, whose Walls are broken down, and into whose Streets all soldiers with Beasts may come at pleasure. z Reverend, Nebuchadnezzar's Army, Literally, when thy Walls, and Ramparts are so broken down by the Chaldeans, and the Sea at high Tides, and in stormy swelling Seas overflows part of thine Ancient Seat. a Either Literally, as the deep coming up, or Metaphorically great Afflictions shall flow over thee.

20 When I shall bring thee down b with them that defend into the pit c, with the people of d old time, and shall let thee in the low e parts of the earth, in places desolate of old, with them that go down to the pit, that thou be not inhabited; and I shall let f glory in the land of the living g.

Wares brought in by the Danites, and Gadites. I should go as far as Midan and Tripolis to send them, but if the Galila and Calamus were brought up at Tyris, I would believe they lived nearer, that they were Galilean Peddlars, or in a Northern dialect Merchants, that bought them, and were meant in the Text: Volubilis we see now an art, which is much better than the common sort of Iron, and refines it, that it is of great value. Galila and Calamus are sweet Druggs.

a The poetry of Araban by Ketarah, who dwelt in Arabia, and were Sheep-Masters, and no doubt knew how to make fine Clothes of their Wool. b With which they lined their Chariots, and covered them, also they used them for Saddle Clothes, &c.

† Heb. they were the merchants of thy hand. 21 Arabia c and all the princes d of Kedar, they † occupied with thee in lambs, and rams, and goats: in these were they thy merchants.

a A Large Country, and distinguish into Desert, or Sandy, which cannot keep an honest man, it thwarts Thieves enough; next is the Stony or Petræa, which afforded good pasture for Sheep and Goats, and the third Felix, or happy, most remote from Tyris. d For there were many such among those Kedar, or Serites, who dwelt in Tens, bred, and fed Cattle, and carried them to Tyris Market, furnish the Arabians at Tyris, and their Altars too for Sacrifices.

22 The merchant of Sheba c and Raamah d, they were thy merchants: they occupied in thy fairs, with chief e of all spices, and with all precious stones f, and gold.

c A Country in Arabia Felix, whence the Queen came that visited Solomon. d This read Rhages by change of y into a in Gomarah, about the people of the same Arabia. This Rhages Brother to Sihah, settled near him in that fruitful Land, and built Towns there, and grew to fame. e This Country affords all sort of the best Aromatics, or Spices, which were carried to Tyris. f Rich Jewels of all sorts, and Gold too.

23 Haran c and Canneh b, and Eden a, the merchants of Sheba c, Alhur b, and Chilmad a were thy merchants.

c Haran or Charan in Mesopotamia, where Abraham dwelt. b No where else mentioned, supposed to be the time with Calneh, Gen. 10. 12. afterwards Chitson, a pleasant City on Tigris, some three miles from Silchah, was built by the Parthians, whose King resided there in the Winter, because of the mildness of the Air. a A pleasant Country, part of Babylonia, the Chaldean Parthia, calls Chitson, and leads us to Admah, which Tyris conquered in his expedition against Babylon. d Whether the name mentioned ver. 22, which fee, or some other, is not certain, perhaps it may be Saba, whence Saba. e Alhur, the name of the Father of the Nario, for Affria. a A Country or part of Media, between Affria and Parthia, most likely to be of Gala of Media.

† Or, excellent things. † Heb. foldings. 24 These n were thy merchants in † all sorts of things n, in blue † clothes a, and brodered work p, and in cheltes q of rich apparel, bound with cords, and made of cedar among f thy merchandise.

a Either laid named, or all that have been mentioned, though I conjecture the first is the true meaning, those rich, flately, and lumpy Nations traded with Tyris. n Of rich precious things. a Which those Nations delighted in, especially the Chaldeans and Affrians, ver. 23. b q Eights of Egyptian fold to Affria, &c. q Cheltes of Cedar curious, yet Iron made on purpose to carry lumpy Apparel, bought up at Tyris and in those Cheltes conveyed to all parts of the Affrian Empire, and to the Northern Nations. r It may refer to the Cheltes mentioned, or to other sort of rich Wares neatly made up, and bound for security with Cords. f By this it should seem, these Cheltes were not like our ordinary Boxes, but as choice Cabinets, and good Merchandise.

25 The ships of Tarshish d did sing n of thee in thy market x; and thou wast replenished y, and made very glorious z in the midst of the seas.

d The Ships from all parts of the Sea, which came to thee, and traded with thee, praised thee, boasted of thee. x Had their songs of praise, which were made to commend thy state. y As Mariners in the Ports, where they arrive usually do with Minstrel and Songs entertain one another, so at Tyris. y All Trading came to thee, none like thee in thy Warehouses, or publick Stores. z And to do thee right, thou wert very glorious, magnificent, and beautiful, none like thee: Hitherto the Prophet hath recounted Tyris greatness, now cometh her fall, foretold, as if already come.

26 † Thy rowers a have brought thee b into great waters c: the east-wind d hath broken e thee in the f midst f of the seas g.

a Thy Governours and Counsellors. b Unadvisedly. c Dangers and difficulties, in which thou art like to be shipwrecked, in which thou wilt perish. d Which is very tempestuous, and dangerous to Ships in those Seas; by this is meant the King of Babylon with his Army, whose march was foretold by Ezekiel to Tyris. e As surely will, as if he had already done it, he hath broken, it is the Prophecy itself. f Where thou art far from shore, and must therefore sink and drown, or where thou thoughtest thy self impregnable. g Where many Seas meet, 'tis impossible for a half created Creature to swim out, so shall Tyris perish in the violent currents of many Seas, many Nations merce, and cruel under Mibachian shall swallow thee up.

27 Thy \ riches* b, and thy fairs i, thy merchandise j, thy mariners k, and thy pilots m, thy talkers n, and the occupiers p of thy merchandise, and all thy men of war r that are in thee, † and in all thy company q that is in the midst of thee, shall fall r into the f midst of the seas f in the day t of thy ruine n.

b The vast Treasures of the publick, nor the great wealth of private Citizens shall purchase Tyris a continued prosperity. i These shall be interrupted by the Siege, and none, that frequented them, shall prevail for access to them. j The flock of goods of all sorts now in thy Warehouses, and what thou hast trafficked out. k l m n p q r s t u v w x y z aa down, and they shall know, that I am the LORD, when I shall put my sword into the hand of the king of Babylon, and he shall stretch it out upon the land of Egypt.

These two forging vs are a repetition of God's threats against Pharaoh, and of his promises to assist Nebuchadnezzar in the War, and every thing plain in itself.

Give the first strength, and continue it with new supplies, for that with strength from God, he shall proceed. His strength shall have a weapon fisted, and proportion'd to it, and what will be hard, where God's Sword and his strength are engaged to effect it? 1 Hophra, 2 Not only, as the floweret melt, when nature breaks, but cry out, and fight, or howl not coming a brave man, 3 King of Babylon. I Who hath given him his deadly wound, under which he roars, while he hath any strength, and groans, when his voice fails him. It speaks rage, griefs, and dead sense of them; as Exod. 2. 24. Jude. 2. 18. Job 24. 12.

26 And I will scatter the Egyptians among the nations, and disperse them among the countries; and they shall know that I am the LORD.

CHAP. XXXI.

AND it came to pass in the eleventh year, in the third month b, in the first day of the month c, that the word of the LORD came unto me, saying, a As chap. 30. ver. 20. It. c. b Our 25th day old file, the 15th day new file is just one month, and eight days before the taking of the City on the 27th of July, new file, but 17th of July, new file. c Tamoz.

2 Son of man, speak unto Pharaoh d king of Egypt, and to his multitude e; * whom art thou like in thy greatness f?

d Apries, or Hophra. e His numerous Subjects, with the power, and Riches thy Glory in. f Behink thy self, what King of all before thee, art thou equal with, or else greater? On what furer, and more immovable Foundation dost thy greatness stand? That thou dreamest of a perpetual quiet, and flourishing state in the midst of all thy sins, and wickedness?

3 Behold the Assyrian g was a cedar h in Lebanon i, j with fair branches k, and with a shadowing l throud, and of an high stature m; and his top was among the thick n boughs.

g Kingdom, and in Kings were the greatest, the world were known before thee, they had length time of growth from 1240. or 1260 years from Babel, who was Nimrod, or Bala Apries, to Sardanapalus, from 1719. or 1717, or 1718 to 3259 of the World. And they had as fair advantages, as reaching a forelight, and as unwearyed diligence to advance the Kingdom; yet I brought it down. h Like a Cedar k Kings and Kingdoms of compared to Trees, both in profane, and sacred Emblems, or like the most goodly Cedar for Strength and Beauty. i A great Mountainous tract from East to West, 125 miles in length, enclosed Canaan on the North. j Which are the Beauty, Greenness, Strength of the Tree, to fo that this mighty Kingdom fair Provinces, as Branches springing from it. k What we render flourishing in the Hebr. may signify, either flour, and quiet, or flourishing, and modelling, intimating, that this Kingdom, like a shady Tree, gave shelter to the weak, as if from artificially to this, and 'twas a silent, quiet repose its Subjects had; as weak Creatures find shelter in a mighty wood, to this. l This Kingdom grew to great height, while its branches were so beneficial. m Or Clouds, for to the word will without violence bear; Cloud being called so from their thickness; however, the Head among the thick boughs speaks the magnificence, and greatness of this King compared with Tributary Kings, and Princes, and Mighty men.

4 The waters o made him great, the deep p set him up on high with her rivers running round about his plants q, and sent out her r little rivers s unto all the trees t of the field.

o As Cedars grow great by the water courses, so this Kingdom by multitudes of people, convenience of Trade, by the plenty of the Country, if no Trade, for 'twas first planted in the fruitful fields among the lesser Rivers, Apries, Tigris, Euphrates, Orontes, Orontes, and others. p The Sea sent out her Waters, which gave being to the Rivers, that water'd him, and improved him; whereas Egypt, thy Rivers arise out of a Lake, which, though great, not to be compared with the deep. q The Provinces of this mighty Kingdom, that are like plants about a great Tree. r Beneficence, Justice, Protection, encouragements, that Subjects need, and good Princes disperse among them, so the deep filled this King, and he sent out his streams. s To all his Subjects in his Kingdom.

5 Therefore his height was exalted u above all the trees v of the field, and his boughs were multiplied w, and his branches became long x because of the multitude of waters y; z when he shot forth.

u His Power, Glory, and his Pride too, run up on high, a just administration of Laws for benefit of the publick, and a kind usage of the Subject, while 'twas here, made the King great, and his Kingdom famous. v Above all his Neighbour Kings, among whom oppressed weaklings fill came to this Kingdom, while just, for shelter. w Many became his Subjects by voluntary choice, and his Native Subjects increase in numbers, and Wealth. x The Provinces reach far and wide by the conquest of his arms, or attractiveness of his kindness brought to unite with him. y The many streams of Royal Justice, and Beneficence flow forth from the Throne of this Kingdom, to his Throne was advanced and established.

a Not every individual, but all sorts, and kinds of Men and People, Nobles, Merchants, Husbandmen listened to Paulus. b Under their Habitations, and Families, and in the shade, they found, safety, and rest, and hoping, what did come, an increase of their Children and Posterity as Birds do in a quiet, and safe nest. c In his Kingdom, in the Cities, or Towns of it. d The very fine spirit exult by a new Hungarick: Beasts here are people, the Field is the Country round about, their bringing forth their young includes their making their Dens, that is mens building, begetting children, and breeding them under his branches, under his Government, and Protection. This gives some light to the riddle. No Nation, that was great at that time in the World, but, either own'd the Dominion, or fought the Alliance, and Friendship of this King and Kingdom.

7 Thus was he fair f in his greatness g, in the length of his branches h: for his root i was by great j waters.

f Beautiful, lovely, and desirable. g Not exerted in Tyranny, and oppression, but exercised in a Royal Art, in making the greatest, and best being, who is King over all, for he doth good to all. h How far soever remote, yet the Justice, and Goodness of the Government appeared, the Beauty of those Provinces as well as of the whole Kingdom. i Whence he sprung, about what time, he supplied the Kingdom, was, and the Babylonish Captivity. j Revolted or forsaken Caldeans, Assyrians. k As a Tree, that growing on the Mountains, which hang over the Valleys, when it falls, breaks, and its branches are scattered in the lower ground, on the banks of Rivers, that run in the bottom, so is this mighty Cedar, this King, and Kingdom fallen from highest power, and honour into deep contempt and impotence, not able to repel his Adversaries, or escape out of their hands. l All, that were Tributary to him, have withdrawn their Tribute, and rejected his Dominion, and such as were his Allies, and depended on his Patronage, have quit their Leagues, and dependences, and left his shadow.

8 The Cedars l in the * garden of God m could not hide n him: the fir-trees o were not like his boughs, and the chefnut p trees were not like his branches: nor any q tree in the garden of God was like unto him in his beauty.

l Kings, the greatest, and most magnificent. m Either in the most fruitful Gardens, or in Paradise and Israhel, not David, nor Solomon, Yehoshaphat, or Hezekiah could top, and shade him. n A meaner sort of Trees, emblem of lesser Kings, Israhel Kings, these were not like his boughs, though they grow to great height, and bulk. o The same in another Israhel, King-like Chefnut trees, great, when by themselves, yet compared with this Assyria, were but as branches of his boughs, all which in Israhel's words, cap. 10. 7. 8. there was some truth, though more pride in this Speech of the Assyrians, which the Prophet reports. q All fanned up, none like him in all the Kingdoms of the World.

9 I have made him fair r by the multitude s of his branches: so that all the trees of Eden, that were in the garden of God envied t him.

r All this greatness, Wealth, and Glory I have given him. s The numbers of his Provinces, and multitude of his Subjects, high, and low, great, and small. t Either did when they saw his greatness, or would have envied, if they had seen it, or, if there may be a seeming justifiableness in wondring at another's Glory, and wishing it our own, here it might be found.

10 Therefore u thus saith the Lord GOD; Because thou hast lifted x up thyself like in height, and and he hath shot up his top among the thick boughs, and his heart is lifted up in his height;

u Now you shall hear the sin, and the fall of this great Kingdom of Assyria. v His mind could not longer bear so great prosperity, he lifts up himself, and in his pride, forgets God, who lifted him up, and will cast him down, you have a Synonym of it in that of Isa. 10. 7. 8. 9, with the rest to the 20th. v Isa. 25. 9. 15. 18. 19, as other self framed projects degenerated into pride, and violence against Neighbours, Subjects, Friends as well as against Enemies, though too much 'twas, to depose him, yet 'twas in tolerably more infinite, to reproach God. Isa. but time to top, nay cut down this Cedar, Isa. 10. 33. with Isa. 37. 35. 38.

11 I have therefore delivered y him z into the hand of the mighty one a of the heathen: b he shall surely c deal with him; I have driven d him out for his wickedness e.

y No Prophecy file as some think, I have, because I will, for most certainly God would deliver, z Proud King of Assyria, who inherited all the vices of his Progenitors more, than their Kingdoms, infamous Sardanapalus. a Some say Cyrus, rather Assyria, who first struck at the root of this Cedar, and cut him down, and well might this man, though no King when he attempted this, be fitted the mighty one of the Heathen, who could bring together four hundred thousand of Medes, Pelesians, Babylonians, and Arabs power sufficient to besiege the Assyrian King two years in his own City, and Palace. b So he did, for he held him besieged without hope of relief, till at two years end, this vicious King burnt himself with his Palace. c With disgrace, for his loved friends' courtesy, as a Wife is cast out by divorce for Adultery, Lev. 21. 7. d So Sardanapalus was cast out for his effeminacy, and lewdness; for 'tis reported, this gave Assyria first encouragement to lay a design against him, who was driven out, as the Prophet words it, by the breach of two mile and half wideness, made by the mighty floods from continual Rains, which the walls of Nineveh could not withstand, so God rather than man did drive this beast out.

12 And strangers e, * the terrible f of the nations, have cut him off g, and have left him h upon the mountains i and in all the valleys his branches are fallen, and his boughs are broken by all the rivers of the land: and all the people of the earth are gone down from his shadow, and have left him.

e Foreigners, who regard neither justice, nor mercy, such were those, which made up this Army of Assyria the King, d So these, who for their strength, and valour much, but for their numbers, and barbarity, more to be dreaded. f Not Israhel, for 'twas down before Israhel's time, about the time Israhel was born, and about 240 years before the destruction of Jerusalem, and the Babylonish Captivity. g Revolted or forsaken Caldeans, Assyrians. h As a Tree, that growing on the Mountains, which hang over the Valleys, when it falls, breaks, and its branches are scattered in the lower ground, on the banks of Rivers, that run in the bottom, so is this mighty Cedar, this King, and Kingdom fallen from highest power, and honour into deep contempt and impotence, not able to repel his Adversaries, or escape out of their hands. i All, that were Tributary to him, have withdrawn their Tribute, and rejected his Dominion, and such as were his Allies, and depended on his Patronage, have quit their Leagues, and dependences, and left his shadow.

13 Upon his ruin j shall all the fowls k of the heaven remain, and all the beasts l of the field shall be upon his branches.

j His broken state. k Which built, and bred there, shall now depose the Tree, and triumph over it. l The same in Israhel, as ver. 6. Beasts, Fowls, People, and Nations, that were belied under the shadow of this Tree, shall all, as is the custom of all, of them, get from under it, and with their self insult and trample upon the body, boughs, and branches. Fowles get on it and both pick and defile, Beasts rustle through j and browse on the broken branches.

14 To the end m that none of all the trees n by the waters o exalt p themselves for their height: neither shoot up their top among the thick boughs, neither their trees q stand up in their height, all that drink water r for s they are all delivered unto death, to the nether parts of the earth, in the midst of the children of men, with them that go down to the pit.

m All this is designed to be a warning to morals. n e. The Emperors, Town Kings, or rich flourishing States. o Planted most commodiously, and flourish most abundantly with Power, and Wealth. p Grow proud, because they are high, shoot out tops above all the thick boughs their Neighbours. This caution against pride, and self exalting is three times repeated, that all, especially great men, and this proud King of Egypt, to whom this Parable is propounded, should be humble. q For if by office they are Gods, yet by nature, they are men, and by the decree of God, who cannot die, these Gods must, as men, dye, be laid in the grave, forgotten like other men, like the Children of men men, for that death, and the grave make no distinction. Be not proud, God will pull down high, be humble, you must dye.

15 Thus saith the Lord GOD; in the day when r went down s to the grave, I caused a mourning t; I covered the deep u for him, and I restrained the floods v thereof, and the great waters w were staid: and I caused Lebanon x to y mourn for him; and all the trees of the field fainted z for him.

r The King of Assyria, the tall Cedar, or the Kingdom of Assyria. s Was a man in grave; buried in its own ruins. t There was much lamentation, u I put the Sea, v 2. Either neighbouring States, or the body of his people, or the trading part of the World, into mourning for him. w All publick affairs, Commerce, and friendly intelligences, were at a great stand. x The great traffic and wealth by it, which did flow, as great waters, were staid, and living Rivers were, as void of motion, as the dead Sea, all was out of course. y The field, in which this Cedar grew, z e. the whole Kingdom of Assyria. a All the lesser Kings, and Princes about him. b Fell into a sound at the News of this great, and unparalleled downfall of this mighty King, and Kingdom, which hath been in sacred Apries forsooth to weep Egypt, and convince me, none can stand whom God will cast down. Whether there were any pious signs in the Sea, and great Waters, and the Rivers, and among the trees, prerogies of this fall, and pointed at here, I enquire not.

16 I made the nations to shake a at the found of his fall, when I cast him down b to hell, with them that descend into the pit: and all the trees c of Eden, the choice and best of Lebanon, all that drink water d, shall be comforted e in the nether parts of the earth.

a All that heard the noise of his fall trembled at it, 'twas as God intended it should be, an allotment to them all. b Brought the King, and Kingdom, as a dead man to the grave among them, that before were dead, and buried. c All Kings, and particularly the greatest, and richest called here the choice, and best of Lebanon. d Did enjoy great Power, Riches, and worldly Glory. e 'Tis a Prophesy, and he speaks of the dead with allusion to the manner of the living, who rejoice to see the proud brought, as low as the lowly, thus the Prophet, Isa. 14. 9. 10.

17 They f also went down into g hell with him, unto them that be slain with the sword; and they h cut were his arm, that dwelt under his shadow in the midst of the heathen.

f Either his Neighbour Kings and Princes, or those that were his own Subjects, but rich and mighty. g Were broken and perished with him, and went to hell God had slain for their pride and wickedness. h His loyal and faithful Subjects and Friends abroad, who having been protected by him, remembered it, and adhered to him to support him; but all fell, are extinct, and gone down to the pit, where many proud, but no pride; where all know themselves dust and ashes, and God gloriously holy and just.

18 ¶ * To whom i art thou thus like in glory j and in greatness among the trees of Eden? yet shall thou be brought down k with the trees of Eden unto the nether parts of the earth: thou shalt lie l in the midst of the uncircumcised, with them that be slain with the sword. This m is Pharaoh, and all his multitude, saith the Lord GOD.

i The mightiest, richest, and longest lived Kingdom I have reprobated, Israhel God, overthrown, and destroyed k a Kingdom thou canst not pretend to equal, and if not like this, what King or Kingdom art thou like, that thou shouldst be invincible. l Who are thou art like in height, and power thou shalt be like them in thy fall, and ruin. m As unclean, despised, and loathsome in thy blood, like the slain with the sword, not to be known, without an upbraiding inscription: This is Pharaoh.

CHAP. XXXII.

AND it came to pass in the twelfth year a, in the twelfth month b, in the first c day of the month, that the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

M m

19 But if the wicked turn from his wickedness, and do that which is lawful, and right, he shall live thereby. ||

* chap. 18. 25. verse 17. In these two verses the case is clearly stated, that 'as clear as the Sun, the ways of God are very just, and that none but ignorant Adversaries would think or furnish otherwise.

20 Yet ye say, The way of the LORD is not equal: O ye house of Israel, I will judge you every one after his ways.

Will blinded prejudice quarrel. Call you to account plead with you, and pass sentence. This is added, to route every one up to repent of all sins, and of this particularly. A terrible threat, and I know not how a greater could be denounced against sinners than this, God infinitely Holy, and perfectly just, will judge them according to their unequal, unrighteous, sinful ways, and according to his inflexible justice. And if God enter thus into judgment, who can stand in fight?

21 ¶ And it came to pass in the twelfth year of our captivity in the tenth month, in the fifth day of the month, I that one that had escaped me out of Jerusalem came unto me, saying, The city is utterly ruined.

That is one year, and five months after the time was done, and Temple burnt, and the City sacked. The whole one year, and five months, had been much more befriended him, perhaps it might be one of those, that yielded to the Babylonians before, but was refused to see the upholders of all. Likeliest giving a particular account of the whole. A Babylonian taken and plundered the inhabitants, or slain, or Captives, and the City laid in ruins, and burnt.

22 Now the hand of the LORD was upon me in the evening after he that was escaped came to me in the morning; and my mouth was opened, and I was no more dumb.

The powerful influence of the Prophetic Spirit, inspired me, and prepared me for what followed. Not that the prophet was dumb through ignorance, and inability to speak, for he had prophesied against many Nations, but he was forbidden to say any thing of the Jews, to threaten, warn, counsel, or command. Chap. 23. 25, 27, and Chap. 25. 21. But now the Spirit moved me to speak, and continued his motion, till the messenger came, and ever after, for God did not command him silence any more.

23 Then the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

24 Son of man, they say that inhabit those wastes, of the land of Israel speak, saying, Abraham was one, and he inherited the land, but we are many; the land is given us by inheritance.

Who were left behind, having either hid themselves but now come out of their holes, or returned from neighbour Countries, whither they fled or permitted by the Conqueror to stay and plant Vineyards. Places once very fruitful and abounding with people, but now by the spoil of the Soldiers, emptied of inhabitants, and made as a desolate Wilderness. Thus think and speak, thus with vain reasonings they deceive themselves. Our Father had hereditary right to all this land, when he and he multiplied to a great Company, and who they possessed the Land, we Children of Abraham, though diminished are many, and the Divine goodness will surely appear then, and continue to us both right and possession, and we shall fill the Land, and recover our former state and privileges. I was given by promise to us the Seed, as well as to our Progeniture, may more 'tis given us in possession, we dwell in it, when Abraham had not one foot of it in his possession. The perpetual inheritance is ours. Thus with vain fallacious arguments they cheat one another.

25 Wherefore I say unto them, Thus saith the Lord GOD: Ye eat with the blood, and lift up your eyes toward your idols, and shed blood; and shall ye possess the land?

* Lev. 3. 17. and 7. 26. and 17. 12. Deut. 12. 16. Remove them from this dangerous carnal confidence, and show them what they do, by that, what they are, how far from Abrahams seed, his genuine Seed. What ever might be the reason why, it is most certain, this was forbidden. Gen. 9. 4. Lev. 17. 14. and 19. 26. they sinned by violating this Law. Murdering, praying, depending on, and committing wives to the prostitution, and guidance of those dumb idols. Vid. c. 18. 6. lit. c. 4. Innocent blood, ye are murderers. Polluted with such, and many other heinous sins, and what colour of hope can you have, that you shall possess the Land? The question includes a peremptory denial.

26 Ye stand upon your sword, ye work abomination, and ye desire every one his neighbours wife, and shall ye possess the land?

If you trust to your sword, and stand whither as 'twere drawn ready to kill and slay, you do all with violence, and force, not regarding what is right and equal and fear no restraint or punishment. Idolatry, or other wickedness not to be named. An adultery is to commit among you, that 'tis no law to lay, every one defiles his neighbours wife. And can such sinners flatter themselves, that they shall inherit the Land promised to holy and good Father, and to the like seed? Well not the Land given Jewish sinners out, as it did spew out such Canaanites sinners?

27 Say thou unto them, Thus saith the Lord GOD: As I live, surely they that are in the wastes shall fall. By the sword, and him that is in the open field I will give to the beasts to be devoured, and they that are in the forts, and in the caves shall die of the pestilence.

The ruinous heaps of Cities, or Towns, in which formerly habitations might be found by them. The Cities as Soldiers ransacking all places, and either exposing or by chance finding them there, shall fall in revenge of Gods death, and Fall, with others shall destroy them of them. That wander in the fields shall be a prey to Lions, or other ravenous Beasts, that will multiply in that ruined Country. One of the reach of Men, and Devils, my hand shall reach, I will render the vengeance, that shall sweep them away.

28 ¶ For I will lay the land and the mountains of Israel shall be desolate, that none shall pass through.

I do purpose to destroy utterly all in this Land, and what can escape, when I will lay the Land, and a pestilential Air all concur to ruin the Land. The Earth, and pompous shows of her strength, and her former riches and power. On which were Vineyards, and Oliveyards, where the joyful sounds of the Vintage, and Harvest did glad the heart, there shall be utter desolation. No man daring to venture for fear of wild Beasts, or pestilential Air, or Famine in those wasted Mountains.

29 Then shall they know that I am the LORD, when I have laid the land most desolate, because of all their abominations which they have committed.

I would have had them acknowledge me to be the Lord by my blessings, which beautified the Land, by my holy precepts, which directed to piety, and justice, by my mercy and kindness towards them, but they despised my mercy, broke my law, abused my bounty, and now by the punishment of their sins, as I threatened, and by laying the Land most waste, they have been constrained to own, and submit to me, as the Lord.

30 Also, thou son of man, the children of thy people still are talking against thee by the walls, and in the doors of the houses, and speak one to another, every one to his brother, saying, come, I pray you, and hear what is the word that cometh forth from the LORD.

Captives in Babylon. I do not say people, God doth debate, degrade, and disown them. As men now do in Cities or Towns, so then they stood up to the Wall, when meeting in the Streets, they would talk together. Others go to the porches or doors of their houses, this they do to catch other hearers of their Counsels. And all ends in this, as I said. Come I pray let us go up to the Prophet, the true Prophet, and enquire what God hath revealed to him, and what he may reveal unto us, whether any, or when will that end of our sorrows be.

31 And they come unto thee as the people, and say, cometh, and they sit before thee as my people, and they hear thy words, but they will not do them: for with their mouth they say, but their heart is far from thee, and they shall not hear thy voice.

Flouting to the School of some famous Doctor, or as Men to Women flock to hear some famous Preacher, or as Men to Men to the Synagogues to hear their learned Scribes. So we find the Elders of Judah, Chap. 8. 1. which see as it is said to the Disciples of the great Rabbin at their feet, so is said to be brought up at the feet of Gamaliel. By their outward deportments, you may judge them to be my people, and hear fearfully very attentive. Do they do greater what thou sayest, but they will not do it. All their love is but from teeth outward, either to me, my word, or my Prophet.

And God, if their desires, love and care are about their gain, how to make thriving bargains, how to place out and secure their money with excessive, and intolerable usury and increase.

32 And lo, thou art to them as a very lovely song of one that hath a pleasant voice, and can play well on an instrument: for they hear thy words, but they do them not.

Their first effect, and regard thee, and what thou sayest, as men regard a skilful Musician, who to a well tuned instrument hath long the praises of virtue, or of virtuous men; it pleases their ear, but it does not frame their hearts and life to virtue. They loved him for his eloquent lamentation, and reproof of their Enemies, and for foretelling that they should fall, and laying nothing against them, and their sins for their three years past, but when he exhorts, or dissuades them to duty, or from sin, they'll hear, not do.

33 And when this cometh to pass (so it will come) then shall they know that a prophet hath been among them.

When all that had prophesied against the Jews shall, as that thou prophesiedst against the Nations, come to pass to their ruin, they shall know thou wast no Musician but a Prophet sent of God, to forewarn you to fly from wrath, not employed by Men, to please their wanton ear and fancy.

C H A P. XXXIV.

AND the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

34 Son of man, prophesy against the shepherds of Israel, say unto them, Thus saith the Lord GOD unto the shepherds: We be to the shepherds of Israel that do feed themselves: should not the shepherds feed the flocks?

The rulers of the people, both Political, as Kings, Magistrates, and Princes, as also Ecclesiastical, Priests, and Prophets. The two Tribes and the few, that out of the ten did adhere to the house of David. The command is repeated to encourage, and engage the Prophet to his work. A Exile speaks, but their rulers must know 'tis God that speaks by him. They have been principal causes of many sins, and exemplary actors in other sins, for which many woes were threatened, many already are come, and the full come, in which were the Rulers shall have more than ordinary share. Conceive their own ease, advantage, honour, and ambitious projects. Let the consciences of these Rulers Ecclesiastical and Political speak, ought they not as shepherds take care of the Sheep committed to their care? The Sheep, both whole flocks and the single Sheep, whole families, and particular members of them.

35 ¶ Ye eat the fat, and ye clothe you with the wool, ye kill them that are fed; but ye feed not the flock.

Rather the milk which infinitely, and without measure you devour: you exhaust their purses, and weaken their Estates by Tributes, exacted by extortions, to the Temporal Rulers, and the Spiritual Rulers had their methods, and arts to milk them dry, their lived on the fims of the people. With both and finess, self-seeking with your pride, and luxury, on which you force the people to bestow so much, they have not to clothe themselves and theirs, this was mighty oppression. Conceive me too for a seeming legal course to forfeit, first the Life, and next the Estate of the well fed, rich and wealthy and then make the Estate of the poor, as volupatious uncharitable flocks feed on the flocks of the Sheep in their masters fold. Make no care to lead, protect, provide for, and watch over them, but as idle shepherds, fed with the flocks, let the rest starve for any thing they care.

36 The diseased have ye not strengthened, neither have ye healed, ye say, which was sick, neither have ye bound up that which was broken, neither have ye brought again that which was driven away, neither have ye sought that which was lost; but with your force, and with cruelty ye have ruled them.

The weak and languishing, such there are in the Church, and State. With your hard sentence and counsel, so these Metaphorical shepherds should as the other strengthen their flock, with carrying them into good and quick pastures. The sheep in our Pastures are subject to many sicknesses, the sheep in Church and State to more, and shepherds in both should be as Physicians to heal them, but here they did not do so. Sometimes violent, and ravenous beasts break their bones, sometimes the stronger and faster sheep bruise or break them, they should the shepherds stand up, violent oppressors in the State, and such in Church broke many then, but these shepherds bound them not up. Sheep are often driven out of the pasture, frightened, hunted, and pursued by Dogs, or other malicious Creatures, these the shepherds should find out, and bring back in Church and State, there were many such frightened and driven by fierce men like Dogs running upon them, but the Jewish Rulers took no care to enquire for them, or to bring them back to their own Country. Sheep wander and lose themselves, shepherds should seek such and bring them home, many political shepherds among the Jews wandered from their Country, their King, Religion and God, and their careless Rulers never sought them. With hard hand that held fast, that should look like royal power and privilege, and rigorous executed all their grievous Laws, and Edicts. As such as the Egyptians used toward the Jews, Exod. 1. 13, 14. instead of acting like shepherds, these Tyrants in the Jewish Polity, acted like merciless butchers in Church and State.

37 And they were scattered, because there was no shepherd: and they became meat to all the beasts of the field when they were scattered.

My neglected Sheep. By the inroads, and invasions of their Enemies, that broke in like devouring Beasts. No vigilant, faithful good shepherds that loved the flock, and of love studied its welfare. A Were made a prey of, and devoured by Syrians, Ammonites, Moabites, Edomites, &c. all their neighbours might then devour them. B Significant men, troops of Robbers, and spoilers. C As sheep scattered are easily devoured by every hungry Wolf or Fox.

38 My sheep wandered through all the mountains, and upon every high hill: yea my flock was scattered upon all the face of the earth, and none did search or seek after them.

These shepherds forgot the flock was not their property, but God who not only his property in them, nor shall shepherds fail at last they were more than Gods stewards and accountable. When they were engaged, frightened, pursued they got upon the Mountains by their own choice, or carried away by Enemies, or it may refer to their wandering after Idols worshipped in high places or perhaps to Kingdoms and States and great Cities, compared to Mountains, that there they might find what they could not at home, quiet, and safety. The same thing in like words. If they were in any among the Jews called to be my flock, that were to feed, not the Swine, and Goats and unclean Beasts, that by whole Herds rendered unprofitable, were Barren and Sterile, which hid to hide. They were dispersed through male-administrations to all parts of the known World; 'tis an Hyperbolical speech a mighty scattering. The shepherds were contented my glad they were rid of them, neither principal Officers teach, nor inferior sought after them.

39 ¶ Therefore ye shepherds, hear the word of the LORD.

The Rulers, King of Israel, Princes, High Priest and Priests and precentor Prophets, hear ye; God speaks in the still and manner of one greatly incensed.

40 As I live, saith the Lord GOD, surely because my flock became a prey, and my flock became meat to every beast of the field, because there was no shepherd, neither did my shepherds search for my flock, but the shepherds fed themselves, and feed not my flock.

See c. 5. lit. a. b. I bid. lit. c. Government and Governors are for Gods appointment, and here he owns the carelessness, worst of Rulers as his shepherds. A Psal. 6. lit. h. A Psal. 119. lit. f. A Psal. 119. lit. g.

41 Therefore, O ye shepherds, hear the word of the LORD;

Vid. v. 7. to.

42 Thus saith the Lord GOD: Behold I am against the shepherds, and I will require my flock at their hand, and cause them to cease from feeding the flock; neither shall the shepherds feed themselves any more: for I will deliver my flock from their yom, that they may not be meat to them.

They have provoked me to displeasure to be their Enemy, and I will appear, and at last, they are Enemies to my flock, yet pretended to be shepherds, will be an open Enemy to them. I to Zedekiah his Princes, the Priests, and Prophets, all the ruling part in Jerusalem. I will require both account first, and next by severe punishing, as Zedekiah his Children, &c. found. Turn them out of my service; that honourable employment was the King and Princes of Judah turned out of all by the King of Babylon by whom God made good this his word.

17 Son of man, when the house of Israel dwelt in their own land, they defiled it by their own way, and by their doings for their way was before me, as the uncleanness of a removed woman.

In fulness, ease, and security as in days past they did. Brought in much flax, and great guilt upon the land, I say on themselves, who dwell there, and sinned greatly. I sent in my law, despising my Council, forsaking my Worship and Temple. By their carriage, and practices in their whole conversation. Or as one excommunicate, and cut off from the Congregation, because of some great sin. Or, since I have been so often compared to fornication, and Whoredoms, probably it may be here the fulness of Spiritual Whoredom, I that, and I loathed the fulness of their ways. I would the impurity of a whore in man profaning her bed for God. The word may include the reward of a Whore, as it doth Eccl. 15. 3.

18 Wherefore I poured my fury upon them for the blood that they had shed upon the land, and for their idols whereunto they had polluted it.

These and other sins were the true cause, that the land was emptied of men, there was no great for the Heathens. I am sorry. I was angry with them, and the effect of my anger were such, as made the land and cities desolate. For their sins committed in the land, and frequently charged on them. Eccl. 22. 2. 5. 6. 12. 20. and Job 24. 45. I delivered was another of their sins, which brought desolation on them.

19 And I scattered them through the heathen, and they were dispersed in through the Countreys: according to their way and according to their doings I judged them:

My hand carried them, and what hand can retain the inhabitants, that God will not do. In days past, as I have said before the word, as their ways and doings provoked me, and I delivered what I thought on them, so I judged them, and punish them with desolation.

20 And when they entered into the heathen whither they went, they profaned my holy name, when they said to them, they are the people of the LORD, and are gone forth out of his land.

When they were come into Babylonia, and entered into familiarity with the inhabitants, as neighbours. Did profanely sin against those precepts of my law, which heathens did know, venerate, and observe better, than the Jews, or may include the misery, their sins had brought them to, or may refer to their going out of the land in the opinion of the heathen. Their Heathen Neighbours. The miserable and profane Jews with want, and cutting reprimand: These, These Captive Slaves, that are most forlorn of men, will have it, that their God is the Lord, the mighty, and the good God, the true and faithful one, that gave them the Land out of which they are driven. If he be good, as they boast, how comes it to pass his people are in such ill state? Or, is he not able to better their state? Was he weak, and could not keep them in their own Land? Or doth he falsify his word? You miserable Jews, say what this meaneth. But, by their impure life, they open the mouths of the Heathen more to blaspheme, and call the Holiness of God into question; when they saw his people unholy, they concluded as is the people, so is their God, and this, as it was a great offence, and scandal to the Heathen, so it was a great dishonour to God.

21 But I had pity for mine holy name, which the house of Israel had profaned among the heathen whither they went.

I spared them, who in captivity continued to sin greatly against me, and for which I had just cause to cut them off; but I had pity. For my own sake, and for the glory of my Name: I had destroyed them the heathen would have concluded against my Omnipotence, and my truth. I preferred to reduce, I re-established them for the honour of my Mercy, Truth and Power.

22 Therefore say unto the house of Israel, Thus saith the Lord GOD; I do not this for your fakes, O house of Israel, but for mine holy names sake, which ye have profaned among the heathen whither ye went.

Which I have done for you, and preserving you, and giving you favour in the sight of the Heathen: No do I do it all about to do for you, returning you to Judaea, planting you, increasing you, and establishing you, and making you a blessing, I do not this for your sake, you deserve no such kindness from me. My infinite Mercy is the spring and fountain, the vindicating my name from all imputation of weakness or unfaithfulness, and the magnifying the glory of my Goodness, Wisdom, Truth and Power, are the reasons, on which I do, what I do for them. Brought under temptation with the Heathen, who think that the only and almighty God, should do better for his own and only people!

23 And I will sanctify my great name which ye have profaned among the heathen, which ye have profaned in the midst of them, and the heathen shall know that I am the LORD, saith the Lord GOD, when I shall be sanctified in you before their eyes.

By clearing it up and removing the Objection that the Jews, Suffering, and sin among the Heathens had raised. They gave the Heathen occasion to think meanly, and contemptuously of me, but I will show I am as Great as God, in both infinite. See chap. 22. 16. and Job 22. 17. 2. God charged the Jews with the blasphemies the Heathen cast on God. The Jews, by the cause of them, and they are therefore justly brought into the Jews. By what I do, the heathen shall know what I am, and from the great and good things I do for you, performing my Promises, and punishing you, shall see I am Great, Good, Faithful and Holy; and that I shall be sanctified in you, as I have been profaned by you in their eyes; and so to them, Job 12. 2.

24 For I will take you from among the heathen, and gather you out of all countreys, and will bring you into your own land.

The Heathen persecute, as Pharaoh did, to detain you Servants, think it impossible any power should take you out of their hand, or break the yoke, but I will do it, I will by omnipotent hand rescue you from their power. They were scattered through 127 Provinces, that the heathen judged it impossible to reclaim them, but God will do this too. So many difficulties lay in their way of getting into their own Land, that they thought them insuperable, so long Journey, too many Enemies, and strong, crafty, and malicious, to weak, poor, and unarmed people, &c. yet all these shall not prevent me. I will bring them into their own Land, and settle them. When this is done, they shall confess, and the Heathen shall confess, that I am Great, Good, Wise and Faithful to my promises: a God not like theirs, but worthy to be thought well of, and to be spoken well of, to be praised, and obeyed.

25 Then will I sprinkle clean water upon you, and ye shall be clean: from all your iniquities, and from all your idols I will cleanse you.

He alludes to the sprinklings under the Law, perhaps to that Lev. 12. 9. which was for purification of sin; and Job 22. 21. So God will purify them from their guilt. Some think it may refer to Baptismal water, if so, 'tis to the blood of Christ, signified by it, and this, say best Expositors, is here intended, and this is the blood of sprinkling Heb. 12. 24. When Sin is remitted, the Person is indeed clean, both in account of God and Christ. Tho' they have been many of all sorts, and among all ranks of men, yet multitude of sins shall not hinder me from pardoning. That notorious great Abomination, your multiple idolatry, I will pardon that also that may be clean. This Remission of Sin is promised.

26 A new heart also will I give you, and a new spirit will I put within you: and I will take away the stony heart out of your flesh, and I will give you an heart of flesh.

A renewed frame of Soul, a disposition, and mind changed, from sinful to holy, from evil to good, from carnal to spiritual. See chap. 11. 19. in Job 31. 8. A heart in which the law of God is written, as Jer. 31. 33. It is a sanctified heart, in which the Almighty Grace of God is victorious, and turns from sin to God. God takes it to himself, as indeed it is his only work, vide chap. 11. 19. This is evangelical, and tells what the new heart is. It is a new holy frame in the spirit of man, which is put in him, not found in him, given to him, or wrought by his own power. Stubborn, senseless, untractable, that receives no kindly impressions from Word, Provisions, or the Spirit of God in its ordinary operations, and influences, that hardens it self in a day of Provocation, that is hardened by the deceitfulness of Sin; this evil heart shall be taken away, and God will do, who only can do it. Out of your flesh, put for the new. That is a heart different from the stony hard heart, quite of other temper and frame, hearkening to Gods Law, trembling at his Threats, by gentle Provisions moulded to a compliance with his will, to forbear do, be or suffer what God will, receiving the impressions of God, so fitted was receiveth the impress of the Spirit.

27 And I will put my Spirit within you, and cause you to walk in my statutes, and ye shall keep my judgments and do them.

Elsewhere, as God will give, as freely, to abundantly. The Holy Spirit of God, which is the Immediate Principle, the cause of that change of an old heart into new, and of hard into soft, by the efficient cause we may know the effect, and understand what a New Heart is, and what the New Spirit is, when we know they are wrought in us by the Spirit of God, who we know they are wrought in us by the Spirit of God, which is given to, and dwelt in the Saints, which makes them Saint, and then abides with them. Sweetly, Powerfully, Successfully, yet without compulsion; for our spirits, framed by Gods Spirit to a disposition suitable to the Spirits Holiness, readily concur, and co-operate. Be willing and ready, able and in your degree fitted, to keep the judgments, and to walk in the statutes of God, which is to live Holiness.

28 And ye shall dwell in the land which I gave to your fathers; and ye shall be my people, and I will be your God.

A Spiritual blessing promised in Job 25. 26. 27. are now followed with temporal blessing. To live in the land which I gave to your fathers, shall this to his change, gathering, and settling into the land, Job 25. 26. when they are there, they shall settle and continue proprietors, possessing their own houses and Lands. They were greatly pleased to think, that their land was by God given to their Fathers in this land under this character you shall dwell: The land that by promise to Abraham was your fathers, 1345 years or near it. As your Fathers were, who revere, loved, worshipped, obeyed and believed in me. As I was their God to Protect, Guide, Comfort, and Enrich. vide Job 11. 20. Job 1. 10. to perform promise to their Faith and Patience, and to you shall inherit the blessing.

29 I will also have you from all your uncleanness: and I will call you for the corn, and will increase it, and my law shall be your portion.

Perhaps the former part of this Verse would have been better joined with the former Verse, as a glorious fruit of Gods taking them to be his people, and his condescending to be their God. Salvation from all uncleanness includes justification in our Purification. Sanctification the renewing of our Minds, bondage of Adoption in peace and hope, and a consummate glorification in Heaven, that State of absolute purity, all this God gives, when he is our God. I Corn, all necessities for aliment conduced in one, and these brought to them at Gods Call which they will hear, Job 15. 15. 16. 17. Job 21. 25. 26. This is Gods Arrow, he shoots it, where 'tis he loveth it, but his people shall, neither have it their Mercy or their Reach any more: As in next Verse.

30 And I will multiply the fruit of the tree, and the increase of the Field, that ye shall receive no more reproach of famine among the heathen.

The former part of this Verse explained, see chap. 34. 27. and 8. 9. 10. of this Chap. The latter part explained in Job 25.

31 Then shall ye remember your own evil ways, and your doings that were not good, and shall loath you your selves in your own sight for your iniquities and for your abominations.

When I have given you my Spirit, renewed your hearts, brought you by miraculous mercy out of Captivity in a strange Land unto Liberty in your own. I Call to mind, review, and examine all your past life. Ways opposite to Gods, therefore both their way be choice, and also evil in their very nature, the ways the Prophets condemned, and threatened, as Job 22. and Job 34. 5. See. It is a Misery, not Good, it is exceeding evil, and worse than other Nations, Job 22. 6. 7. then Sodom, Job 15. 45. See Chap. 6. 5. Your mind shall grieve at what you loved, and deeply grieve at what you rejoiced in, when Swine, ye wallowed in mire, when made sheep, you shall as much fear, and fly from it. Not in flight of others, but Repentance in the chief parts, both more turned inward, and loath is that are in the heart, tho' none ever knew them before God and his own Soul. This fruit is the first and most sure sign of true Repentance.

32 Not for your fakes do I this, saith the Lord GOD; be it known unto you: be ashamed and confounded for your own ways, O house of Israel.

To a Self-reflecting people, who have too high thoughts of themselves, this is a necessary Memento, are all like the Jews, proud of somewhat we have not, vide Job 22. an old difficulty, and we long time warned of it, as well as they, Dan. 9. 5. 6. Shame and Confusion, Self-abhorrence, and deep humiliation, that will become you, for you have walked stubbornly in your own ways, they I would have reclaimed you, and did call you back from them by my Prophets.

33 Thus saith the Lord GOD; in the day that I shall have cleansed you from all your iniquities, I will also cause you to dwell in the cities, and the wastes shall be builded.

Sin committed, that deserveth, and sin impured, that doth bring down Judgments on the finner, to do the Jews sins, and continued the punishment in their judgments, until a Pardon raise away Guilt, and then judgments will be removed; so here, pardoned Captives return to, and dwell in their own Cities; Sin unpardoned vexeth the Country, but Sinners repenting and pardon of shall build the wastes. Sin unpardoned leaves the land Uncultivated and Barren, but pardon of sins shall Plough, Sow, Reap, and Eat.

34 And the desolate land shall be tilled, whereas it lay desolate in the sight of all that passed by.

35 And they shall say, This land that was desolate, is become like the Garden of Eden: * the cities are become fenced, and are inhabited.

Strangers, or Foreigners, who had heard or seen the sad wastes, and now either hear or see the replanting of it, and how it succeeded. I See the phrase, Job 23. 13. most fruitful, pleasant, and desirable. This is true of the Church of Christ without sin, and here 'tis to be accommodated by a comparative, thus, that good land the Jews are now in, compared with what they were in, as an Elder to a Wilderness. Not only built for habitation, but fortified for defence.

36 Then the heathen that are left round about you shall know, that I the LORD build the ruined places, and plant that that was desolate: I the LORD have spoken it, and I will do it.

That were not carried away and dispersed, whether they were Tyrians, Zidonians on the North, or Amos, and Moab, and the Philistines, and Esauites Eastward and Southward, these remnants of the heathen shall see and confess a Peculiar Providence of God toward the Jews, in their flourishing to greatly upon their return.

37 Thus saith the Lord GOD; I will yet for this be enquired of by the house of Israel, to do it for them, I will increase them with men like a flock.

Though I have repeated so often my promise to return them, to rebuild, to multiply them, yet they shall know, 'tis their duty to inquire it, to wait on me, and then I will give a merciful answer, and do it. Thus David pray'd, when he knew the return was far and near. Or else it may be thus: Above all this, or yet more than all this, I will be found of them, when they do seek me, thus 'tis a promise made to their prayer, in the other 'tis a requiring them to pray, so they shall increase as a flock.

38 As the holy flock, as the flock of Jerusalem in her solemn feasts; so shall the waste cities be filled with flocks of men: and they shall know that I am the LORD.

Flocks designated to holy uses, as Sacrifices, and therefore further described by the place where they are, Jerusalem, the occasion, and time, solemn Feasts, either the three annual great Feasts, or you may take in the daily Sacrifices. These flocks were for quality, the best of all, and for numbers, very great, on the solemn Feasts, 30000 at once of Lambs and Kids in Jofiah time, and many more at the passover in after times. Thus should men multiply, and fill the cities of re-planted Judaea.

CHAP. XXXVII.

THE hand of the LORD was upon me, and carried me out in the spirit of the LORD, and set me down in the valley of which was full of bones.

Either the prophetic Spirit, as chap. 1. 2. and chap. 8. 1. let. g. moving him to prophesy by this Emblem, or else the Spirit of God carrying him visionally, not corporally as chap. 8. into such a prospect or landscape. Either in the Power of the Spirit of God, or it may refer to the Prophets own Spirit, he was in Spirit, or Mind and Apprehension. So it seemed to me in the vision, that I was largely downed. d. 'Tis vain to enquire what valley this should be, which was visional, not corporal or real. 'Tis as vain to enquire, whose bones these were, they are spiritual and things spoken of Spirit's present Condition.

2 And caused me to pass by them round about little chambers were five cubits b : and the threshold of the gate, by the porch of the gate within c, was one reed.

a Along the wall of the porch were chambers, three on one side, and three on the other, of equal dimensions each one Reed square. b A space of two yards and one half between each chamber, either filled with stone near posts or pillars, or it may be quite void, and nothing in them. c The inward threshold as well as outward, were of the same measure, and curiously arched over head from side to side, and end to end, which was from East to West.

8 He measured also the porch d of the gate within, one reed.

d The posts, which were joined together at the top by an arch, and so made the Porch, lay some. The open space under the Arch between the Posts, or the ally, which leads from the gate into the more inward parts of the house, or to the innards. So the French Version, pour aller à la messe d'une cause l'autre qui menait à la porte la plus en dedans.

9 Then measured he the porch e of the gate, eight cubits; and the posts f thereof two cubits: and the porch of the gate was inward.

e This space was another Porch, another gate distinct from that ver, 6th. But others more likely, refer this measuring to the same gate, but where as before the breadth, now the length is measured. f These were half columns, that from the floor to the height of the wall joined out, as if one half of the column were in the wall, and the other without, which was both for beauty and strength, and the preservation of this half column was one cubit, the other taken up in the wall.

10 And the little chambers g of the gate eastward were three on this side, and three on that side; they three were of one measure: and the posts had one measure on this side and on that side.

This is a repetition of what the 7th verse hath already acquainted us with; I only observe, g These chambers were for the Priests and Levites to lodge in during their ministrations, according to their courses in the Temple, where they kept watch continually night and day. h The whole was framed in very great harmony, and just proportions.

11 And he measured the breadth of the entry i of the gate, ten cubits; and the length k of the gate, thirteen cubits.

i It is meant of the whole length of the entry, or walk through the Porch, which was so wide, and to which they attended by stairs of a semi-circular form. k The height in mean, but 'tis called in length, either because height is the greater dimension, or rather because thirteen cubits is the greater dimension, and this Interpreters agree in, 'tis the height of the gate here measured.

12 The space l also before the little chambers m was one cubit on this side, and the space n was one cubit on that side: and the little chambers were six cubits o on this side, and six cubits on that side.

l The bound, limits, or rails, as some think, which were set up at a cubit distance from the front of these little chambers, and gave a beauty to them, or else the space of a cubit on the outside for convenient placing of benches for the Priests to sit on, while they offered who came in, and went out of the gate, m Vid. ver. 1. n Between the rails, or balustrades, and the chambers on each side, North and South. o There was no difference in the dimensions of these little chambers, they were all alike on each side.

13 He measured then the gate from the roof p of one little chamber to the roof of another: the breadth q was five and twenty cubits, door r q against door.

p From the extremity of one little chamber on the North-side of the gate, to the extremity of the opposite chamber on the South-side, and so one cubit, and half for the back wall of the one chamber, and as much for the back wall of the other chamber, with the length of the chambers, fix cubits each and then so placed, that the door of the first chamber on the North-side, answered to the door of the first on the South-side, or some think, the doors of the Chambers were two in each chamber in the East, and West parts, and so exactly set, that the doors being all open, you had a clear prospect through all the Chambers to the Temple.

14 He made r also posts, of threecore cubits s, even unto the post t of the court round about the gate.

r Measured and thereby shewed what kind of posts they should be. s If this might be interpreted by Ynps Edict for building this fabric 60 cubits high, it would be a clear confirmation of the divine mission of the Prophet, and the certainty of a future performance of the good he promised in Gods name, when it appears so evident, that he had so long before declared to what height the building should be raised by himself from Ynps. But more like this, that it refers to the height of this gate built up two Stories above the Arch, and the Posts in this gate being only mentioned, but imply all the rest of the building, over the East gate. t These high columns, or posts on the inner front of this gate were disposed, that the left on each side was very near to the first Post, or Pillar of the Court on either side of the gate, and so the Posts, and buildings laid on those posts joined on each side of this gate.

15 And from the face of the gate of the entrance unto the face of the porch of the inner gate were fifty cubits.

This verse seems to summe up all the dimensions at length the little chambers b, and to the posts f within the gate round about, and likewise to the arches k; and windows were round l about inward: and upon each post were palm u trees.

u These lights were made through the thickness of the wall of the chambers and the wall was spaced for that purpose, both within toward the chambers, and without toward the Court, this outward sloping gathering the light from without, and the inward sloping did disperse it over all the chamber, so they were windows narrowed inward, to the middle. v The three on each side of the Porch. w The upper limit of each door over which was a window to let in light from that side. x Windows under the arches between post, and post to give light to the five cubits space between chambers, and chamber. y These were on both sides of the Porch within the gate exactly unlike. z a Engraven with curious art for beauty, and whose upper branches spreading themselves along under the arches seemed to bear up the arches.

17 Then brought he me into the outward a court, and lo, there were chambers b, and a pavement made for the court round c about: thirty r chambers were upon the pavement.

a So called in regard of the more inward Court here, where that he was and the Temple itself thus being, called the outward Court, as at least the second about the Temple you go through the first, and greatest Court, or floor encompassed with that wall of one reed high, and one thick, through the second which is the Court of the people, and which probably is this in our text. b Not only lodging rooms for the Priests, but also storehouses for Titles and Offerings, these were Treasuries, and so rendered by stone. c A very beautiful floor laid with checker work, as some say of Marble, or of Porphyry, which is much richer. d 'Twas not laid as we see some Courts before great Houses with us, in a fair walk up from the gate to the door of the House, but the whole floor of this Court was thus paved. e That is fifteen on the South-side of the gate, and fifteen on the North-side, built over the pavement.

18 And the pavement f by the side g of the gates, over against the length h of the gates was the lower i pavement.

f That mentioned ver. 13. g That part which lay on each side of the gate, and from thence it led towards the chambers, leaving a space of pavement of equal breadth with the porch, or gate in the middle. h This length was measured fifty cubits ver. 15. from the outside of the first wall to the outside of the innest wall of the gate and porch, from which, the pavement somewhat raised, as in other places, it was, this went on to the next gate of the next Court. i The pavement was laid somewhat lower than this middle pavement, not only for state, but for the more convenient keeping it clean, to the middle pavement route with a little convex surface, and the edges sunk with a little declivity.

19 Then he measured the breadth j of the forefront of the lower-gate k, unto the forefront l of the inner court m without, and hundred cubits eastward and northward n.

j Of the whole ground between the inner front of one gate and porch, to the outer front of the next gate going inward to the Temple. k Called so in respect to the next gate, which was on the higher ground, and into which the entrance was by stairs or steps. So the front of the fabric was the lowest, the last was the highest, and the middle gates were the one higher than the other, as in all buildings, that stand upon such ascents. l To the outside front of the gate of the Priests.

20 And the gate o of the outward court p that looked toward the north, he measured the length thereof and breadth thereof.

o Now is this measure giving account of the north-gate of this outward Court, in which is a most exact harmony with the measures: fashion and ornaments, of the east-gate, so that nothing needs be here repeated, who would know all particulars of this gate may find them in the east-gate.

21 And the little chambers thereof were three on this side, and three on that side, and the posts thereof, and the q arches thereof were after the measure of the first r gate, the length thereof was fifty s cubits, and the breadth five and twenty t cubits.

u Called ver. 22. East-gate. f See ver. 15. g See ver. 13. h ver. 13. i ver. 13. j ver. 13. k ver. 13. l ver. 13. m ver. 13. n ver. 13. o ver. 13. p ver. 13. q ver. 13. ing the whole, and then the low, or breast Wall that enclosed this space 5 Cubits thick on each side making up the third 15, produce the 70 Cubits. But they that think of a distinct building on the West-end of the Temple, do also in their method make out the account. d This seems to countenance their opinion, who conceive a distinct building meant. f Their proportions are easily laid together, which will make up the total, and agree with the Temple thus; Temple and Oracle with their Walls 70 cubits, Porch eleven, and Chambers, and Walls nine Cubits. And who will have such a new structure here meant? (which is more than was in the first Temple fabric) will make all correspond to their hypothesis, and you may more easily object against another, than demonstrate your own guess. The best is, the error is not great if a man do care here.

13 So he measured the house f, an hundred cubits g long; and the separate place h, and the building i, with the walls thereof, an hundred cubits long k.

f The whole Temple, Oracle, Sanctuary and Porch with the Walls. g From East to West thus. Stairs of the East Porch, or the thickness of the Wall 5 Cubits; the passage through the Porch 11; Wall of the Temple within the Porch 6 Cubits; the Temple itself 70 Cubits; Partition Wall two Cubits, the Oracle 20 Cub. West Wall thick 6 Cub. the chambers at bottom of the West Wall 4 Cubits, and the outer Wall of the Chambers 5 Cubits. i See ver. 12. lit. 2. j On both the North and South-side of the Temple. k Which is reckoned. The breadth of the Temple 20 Cubits, thickness of both Walls 12 Cubits, the bottom Chambers on both sides 5 Cubits, the outer Walls of these Chambers 5 Cubits a piece, the breadth of the place left out on each side 5, on both sides 10 (h. i. 5 each) and then the wideness between this on either side 20 Cubits.

14 Also the breadth of the face l of the house, and of m the separate place, toward the east, an hundred cubits n.

l The whole Front of the house Eastward, the prospect of it being to the East. m This explains the other, y some. The house is the separate place, or else, as others, That other building on the West end of the Temple, which was of equal dimensions with the Temple. n Measuring from the North point along by the Eastern front to the South point, or corner of the buildings or Wall. The admeasuring the particulars l forbar, but since this side runs equal with the length of the whole from East to West, we need not doubt 'tis a hundred Cubits.

15 And he measured the length of the building o over-against the separate p place which was behind it q, and the r Galleries r thereof on the one side, and on the other side, an hundred cubits, with the inner Temple s, and the porches of the court t.

o Possibly, that of the 12 and 13, or else the buildings of this Court next to the Temple, or else the West buildings behind the Oracle, or the buildings of the utter Court, of which in chap. 41. 13. 7. 8. p See ver. 12. lit. 2. q The buildings, that were behind on the West side of that supposed range of buildings, or else behind the Temple. r Either Chambers, or Porches, or Belconies, places supported by Pillasters, made for Beauty and Delight. s According to the measures of the Temple, and its appendant buildings.

16 The door posts u, and the narrow windows v, and the Galleries w round about on their three floors, y over-against the door z, aa ceiling with wood round about, bb and from the ground u up to the windows, and the windows were covered;

What are here recounted were all measured by the Angel, and with the same Reed, or Measure. c See chap. 40. 48. 49. 'Tis likely, he means the door posts of every Gate, or Porch in every Court. c See chap. 40. 16. 17. 18. d See ver. 11. lit. 1. 2. e ver. 11. lit. 1. 2. f ver. 11. lit. 1. 2. g ver. 11. lit. 1. 2. h ver. 11. lit. 1. 2. i ver. 11. lit. 1. 2. j ver. 11. lit. 1. 2. k ver. 11. lit. 1. 2. l ver. 11. lit. 1. 2. m ver. 11. lit. 1. 2. n ver. 11. lit. 1. 2. o ver. 11. lit. 1. 2. p ver. 11. lit. 1. 2. q ver. 11. lit. 1. 2. r ver. 11. lit. 1. 2. s ver. 11. lit. 1. 2. t ver. 11. lit. 1. 2. u ver. 11. lit. 1. 2. v ver. 11. lit. 1. 2. w ver. 11. lit. 1. 2. x ver. 11. lit. 1. 2. y ver. 11. lit. 1. 2. z ver. 11. lit. 1. 2. aa ver. 11. lit. 1. 2. bb ver. 11. lit. 1. 2.

17 To that above the door e, even unto the f Heb. measures, inner house and without, and by all the wall round about within and without, by aa measure.

c In the 14th ver. the Prophet began his Catalogue, and continued it through this ver. in which, in the Goss, he tells us all above the Doors, in every Porch, and Gate to the very inner house, and all without, the Buildings about the Walls, were measured exactly though we have neither the particular account of what these were, either things or measures.

18 And ff it was made d with cherubims e and palm trees f, so that a palm tree g was between g a cherub and a cherub: and every cherub had two faces h;

Now we are acquainted with the Ornaments, the beautiful carvings, which in all parts mentioned, were to be seen. d Beautifully. e Generally taken for the Pourtrais of Angels, and framed to the beauty of young Men with Wings. f Yet is the description of them very different in different places as the curious observe in Ezekiel's Vision, chap. 1. g ver. 11. lit. 1. 2. h ver. 11. lit. 1. 2. i ver. 11. lit. 1. 2. j ver. 11. lit. 1. 2. k ver. 11. lit. 1. 2. l ver. 11. lit. 1. 2. m ver. 11. lit. 1. 2. n ver. 11. lit. 1. 2. o ver. 11. lit. 1. 2. p ver. 11. lit. 1. 2. q ver. 11. lit. 1. 2. r ver. 11. lit. 1. 2. s ver. 11. lit. 1. 2. t ver. 11. lit. 1. 2. u ver. 11. lit. 1. 2. v ver. 11. lit. 1. 2. w ver. 11. lit. 1. 2. x ver. 11. lit. 1. 2. y ver. 11. lit. 1. 2. z ver. 11. lit. 1. 2. aa ver. 11. lit. 1. 2. bb ver. 11. lit. 1. 2.

19 So that the face of a man i was toward the palm-tree on the one side, and the face of a young lion toward the palm-tree on the other side: j was k made through all the house round about.

i This one face, the other of a young Lion. Now as to the aspect 'twas thus, the cherubs between two Palm-trees, looked towards both trees, towards the one a man's face, towards the other, a young Lions face looked. k And thus it was through the whole house round about, and from bottom to top, ver. 20.

20 From the ground unto above the door l were cherubims, and palm-trees made, and m the wall n of the temple.

l Some think 'tis the great East Gate, I think rather, 'tis an enallage, or change of Number, Door for Doors, and that every Porch was so beautiful. m See chap. 1. 16. 22. 26. 24. n These beautiful Sculptures were round about the walls of the Temple, and Oracle too, tho' not express here.

21 The o posts p of the temple were squared, q and the face r of the sanctuary; the appearance s of the one as the appearance t of the other.

o On each side of the Gate or Door, both of Temple and Oracle. p Not round as some other were, and as the posts of the door of the Tabernacle were, but of exact square. q The form of the door, or gate of the Temple was square, i. e. not arched, as the gates of our Churches ordinarily are, but with g beams, or upper Lintel laid on top of the Posts, and either made an equilateral square, or an oblong square. r g ver. 21. lit. 1. 2. s ver. 21. lit. 1. 2. t ver. 21. lit. 1. 2.

22 The altar u of wood v was three cubits high w, and the length thereof two x cubits: and the corners y thereof, and the length thereof, and the walls z thereof were of wood, and he laid unto me, This is aa the table z, that bb was before the LORD cc.

u Of Incense. v So the inward parts were made, and covered with Gold. Exod. 30. 1. — 11. King 6. 20. 22. and from this covering of Gold 'twas called the Golden Altar. i. e. One cubit higher, than that in the Tabernacle of Moses, Exod. 20. 2. u As long again as Moses Altar of Incense in the Tabernacle. x The Horns fram'd out of the four posts at each angle on top of the altar. y The sides of this altar, for it was made up on all sides, are here called the Walls thereof, made of wood, but covered with Gold. z Some say 'tis spoken of this Altar of Incense, others say, the Angel pointed him to the Tables of shew-bread, and spoke of that. aa In the Temple, not in the Oracle, or Holy of Holies, this Incense Altar was placed without the Oracle, as appearing in the Priests offering Incense at by counters, whereas none but the High-Priest, might enter into the Holy of Holies.

23 And the temple and the sanctuary had two b doors.

b Each had one door, so there were two doors, and they were folding doors, or two leaved doors.

24 And the doors had two leaves apices, two turning leaves, two leaves for the one door, and two leaves for the other door.

25 And there were made c on them d, on the doors of the temple e, cherubims f and palm-trees, like as were made upon the walls: and there were thick planks g upon h the face of the porch without?

c Carved. d The doors of both Temple and Oracle. e Including the Holy of Holies also. f Ver. 10. 1. g I suppose, these were boards of more, than ordinary thickness, which were fastened to the great Beams, whole ends came out beyond the wall of the Porch, and probably, were laid so, as to make a part of an arch over the entrance into the Gate, as we see

ver. some houses, and as sometimes under the Belconies, and here also in their thicker planks, 'tis like, were some Ornaments h or above the front of the Porch. i On the Court side of the Porch, that part that look'd outward.

26 And there were narrow k windows and palm-trees l on the one m side, and on the other n side, on the sides of the porch, and upon the side chambers o of the house, and thick planks p.

k Ver. 16. lit. 1. l See ver. 18. lit. 1. m On the North, and on the South side, as you enter in from East toward the West, thus the sides of the Porch outward were garnished. n Which were lead to the South, nor do I think necessary to speak more of the words.

13 Then said he o unto me, The north-chambers and the south-chambers, which are before the separate p place, they be holy q chambers, where the priests r that approach f unto the LORD shall eat s the most holy things: there shall they lay the most holy things u, and the meat-offering x, and the sin-offering y, and the trespass-offering z, for the place is holy.

q The Measurer. Christ, Man in appearance at that time. r Vid. ver. 1. lit. c. s Set a part, consecrated to holy services and uses, as Vessels, Garments, and dayes may be holy. q And Lev. 10. 7. That were in waiting, according to their courses for this approach is not only mentioned, as distinguishing from the distance the people were kept at, but as including the present actual approaches of the Priests, in their ministering before the Lord. f Together, as in a publick Rehearsal. r Things devoted to God, were these most holy; some parts whereof God gave to the Priests to live on. u In some of these chambers, the holy things that might be eat, were laid up as in a store house, and those, which were not for present use, were here to be retained, till they were to be used: And whether were more or less that was allowed to the Priests out of the Offerings, here it was to be kept, till used. z See what this was, Lev. 2. ver. 12. and 6. 14, 15, 16. z See what this, Lev. 6. 26, 27, 30. z See Lev. 7. 2, 3. Ch.

14 When a the priests b enter therein c, then d shall they not go out e of the holy place f into the utter court g, but there h they shall lay i their garments wherein k they minister; for they are holy l: and shall put on other m garments, and shall n approach to those things which are for o the people.

a At the time of their service. b And Levites also, who assisted. c Come into the Court of the Temple, or innmost Court in their Priestly Garments to offer Sacrifice, or to do any other part of their office. d When they have done their office. e In their Priestly Garments. f The Court of the Priests, not of the Temple. g The Court of the people. h In some one of the chambers of South or North Buildings, which is a wardrobe for them. i Lay up, either for other Priests, whose course came next, or for themselves against the next return of their course. k Expressly directed by God, Exod. 28. 40, 41, 42, 43. l Consecrated, Ceremonially and Relatively Holy, for they are not capable of inherent Holiness. m When they go out of this Court into the outer, or outmost, they must put on common garments. n And so they may, as they have occasion, and see good. o Which common people may meddle with, which the Priests may in their ordinary garments intermeddle with, and not be guilty, but they must not touch, while in the garments of their ministrations.

15 Now when he had made an end of measuring the inner house i, he brought me forth k toward the gate, whose prospect l toward the east l, and measured it round about m.

i The Holy of Holies, the Temple, and all the buildings, that were in it, and its inner Courts. k Quite out of the outmost Court, and Wall of it, which comprised all the rest of the Courts. l To the East gate of the outside Wall, mentioned chap. 40. ver. 5, which see at lit. i. and k. m i. e. The four squares of the wall for this, as the other walls, was square, round, and therefore this round about is to be understood of measuring all four equal sides or parallels.

16 He n measured the east f side o with the measuring reed p, five hundred reeds, with the measuring reed round q about.

n The Angel, or Christ in the appearance of a man. o From the two opposite Angles of the inside North and South. p Which was of six cubits, and one hand, or three inches. q As ver. 15. lit. m. The four square was 500 reed, that is each wall was 125 reeds *f*ay some, yet this hath its difficulties, though I think it more likely than the conjecture of L. C. and for aught I see, the guess of Widd. may be admitted, that the whole square was four times measured round about, from the East round, from the North round, &c. as this the 17, 18, and 19 vers. repeat it.

17 He measured the north side five hundred reeds, with a measuring reed round about.

18 He measured the south side five hundred reeds, with the measuring reed.

19 He turned about to the west side, and measured five hundred reeds with the measuring reed.

Here is nothing new added, but what is in the 16th. ver. I observe that the 16 and 17 vers. expressly mention the mea-ring round about, which why I should doubt was twice done, when it's related twice, as done from different points, I know not, and then it is easy, and likely enough, that the double relation of this measuring in the 18 and 19 vers. will be the relation of the same way of measuring from other points, which I suppose, is the ground of Widd.'s opinion, and is far more agreeable to the Hebrew Text, and context, and account, and more agreeable to Divinity, than that of L. C.

20 He measured it r by s the four sides: it t had a wall round about, u five hundred reeds long u, and five hundred broad, x to make y a separation y between the sanctuary z, and the profane place.

r The whole wall. f Repeating the measure of the whole according to the number of the sides. t The whole had such a wall, had each side beca five hundred reeds, the Prophets must in propriety of speech have said; This, i. e. the sides, not it, i. e. the whole compass of the wall. u In such an equilateral square there is properly no length, for all sides are equally broad in the Temple Structure there was length and breadth, therefore that latit., or side, which runs in, straight line, parallel with the length of the Temple, is here taken for the length, the other, which was parallel to the breadth of the Temple, is the breadth of this square, or equilateral square. u Its speaks not here of the thickness, though some breadth and thickness are the same. y To distinguish, and accordingly to exclude, or admit persons, for all might not go in. z In the Temple, this is not here meant, but we must remember here, that the Jews accounted the whole Earth profane, i. e. common or unclean, compar'd with Canaan, and Canaan common, or less holy than Jerusalem, and every part nearer the Temple, the more Holy, and so here the outward Court was included in distinguishing it by its comparative Holiness, 'twas more holy than all without it.

This envelops in clouds and darkness, thou hast good Reason, a conjecture at many things, which I need not blun to confess, are more above mine own comprehension, then above some others; The Mystical sense I refer to thy Thoughts.

CHAP. XLIII.

1 Afterward a he brought b me to the gate c, even the gate that looketh toward the East d.

a After that the Measuring of the Temple was finished b From the West Gate where the whole was finished, and where the 4th Chapter left the Prophet. c Which last w should mistake, is expressly described the East Gate. d Of the first Wall measur'd, where he began with the Angel; chap. 40. ver. 6. From this Gate, in a direct line, you have the fairest Prospect of the Temple.

2 And behold e, the glory f of the God of Israel came g from the way of the East: and h his voice i was like a noise j of many waters, and the earth k shined m with his glory n.

e Sometime this word is typical, but here surely it stands for more, it expresseth no doubt, the joy the Prophet had to see this excellent sight, which should not be seen there more than thirty years; for in the sixth year of the Captivity, the Glory of God left the City, chap. 11. ver. 22, 23, and now the Prophet foreseeth its return after the falling the Temples Buildings, and Ordinances, which took up a great time, is evident, Jehn. 2. 20. which part of 46 years, (ver. 30. Ch. 8. in Cambyses, and some 6 in Darius) is very near accounted. So that between the departure, and the return of the Glory of God, are about One Hundred, and Six, or Eight Years And about Fourteen between this vision, and the accomplishment. f Vid. chap. 1. ver. 28. lit. i. k. l. m. g Or him, who is an infinitely Glorious Being, as in Genesis with us, as a peculiar people of God. h When the Glory departed, it went Eastward, and now that it returns, it comes from the East. i Though by the Voice of God, Thunder is sometimes meant, yet here it was an articulate voice, as appears ver. 7, and 8. Perhaps this might be attended with Thunder, as usually in such cases. k Terrible, and a mighty voice, as the noise of mighty Waves of the Sea; Job. 31. 24. and Rev. 1. 16. l Not as the whole Earth, but that part about Jerusalem, and the Temple. m The Rays of Glory, like the Sun-Beams, made the dark Earth to shine with glorious Light. n Vid. lit. f. where reference is to the like place and Glory.

3 And it o was p according to the appearance q of the vision which I saw, even according to the vision that I saw, r when I came s to destroy t the city: and the visions were like the vision that I saw at the river u Chebar: and I fell v upon my face.

q The appearance of the vision which I saw, even according to the vision that I saw, r when I came s to destroy t the city: and the visions were like the vision that I saw at the river u Chebar: and I fell v upon my face.

o This Glory of the God of Israel. p Vid. chap. 1. ver. 1. lit. m. and chap. 1. ver. 28. lit. k. l. o To destroy, that their fins would ruin their City. chap. 9. ver. 3. lit. c. and chap. 23. ver. 31. lit. d.

4 And the glory t of the LORD came u into the house v by the way of the gate, whose prospect y it toward the east.

t Vid. chap. 1. ver. 1. lit. o. The fins of impenitent Israel caused the Glory of the Lord to go out of his house, but now the Repentance of Israel is blest with the return of this Glory. u The Temple where before dwelt. y Whole Front looks Eastward. Vid. ver. 2. lit. h.

5 So the spirit z took me up, and brought a me into the inner court b, and behold, the glory of the LORD filled c the house d.

z Vid. chap. 2. ver. 2. lit. f. Carried me, at least supposed, and moved. b The Court next to the house of the Lord, this was the innermost Court. c Filled with Splendor and Brightness, or with a Cloud, such as formerly was, Lev. 16. 2. and 1. King's 10. 11. Token of his presence. d The Temple.

6 And I heard e him f speaking g unto me out of the house h, and the man i stood k by me.

e Distinctly, intelligibly, so that I am sure it was no delusion. f The Lord, who was in that Glory. g What was spoken appears in the next two Verses. h God speaks to his out of his Temple. i Christ Mediator. k To encourage, inform, and strengthen him.

7 And he l said unto me, Son of man, the place of my throne m, and n the place of the soles n of my feet, where I will dwell o in the midst of the children of Israel for ever p, and my holy name q shall the house of Israel no more defile r, neither they s, nor their kings, by their whoredom t, nor by the carcases u of their kings in their high places x.

l The glorious God of Israel. m His Throne, i. e. of Glory, and Majesty is in Heaven, but the Throne of his Grace is in his Temple, in the dispensations of Grace, God manifests himself a King. n After the manner of man God speaks, and expresseth his abode and rest, where 'tis in his Temple, as Type, in his Church, as the Antitype, nor only shall my Ordinances be here administered, but I myself will dwell there. o For a very long time, till the age of infancy with the Jews Church be over, and to Eternity with my Church, signified by this Temple. p Vid. chap. 22. ver. 25. lit. z. and chap. 26. lit. p. r Dishonour, and bring into contempt, as they have done. s The Priests, the false Prophets, and the common People, nor their Governors and Kings. t By Idolatries, and by the setting up of strange gods, which alter the Captivity, they did very partially obtain from us; as Jeremias assure us. u Either the dead Bodies of their deceased Kings, buried too near the Temple, lest likely; Or by the Sacrificing of men to their Idols to Moloch; or Idols are here called Carcases, as dead, sinking, lifeless things in the sight of God. Or, if I had influence of any Kings, buried in the Temples of the Idols, I should incline to interpret this passage of the profane, and wicked burying Idolatrous Kings near the Idols they worshipped. x Where Idol Temples, and Idol Worship were Celebrated.

8 In their setting of their threshold y by my thresholds, and their post z by my posts, a and b the wall between me and them, they have even defiled c my holy name by their abominations d that they have committed: e wherefore I have consumed f them in mine anger g.

y The Idolatrous Kings of Judah and Israel, built Temples and Altars for their Idols, and these are called their thresholds. z The Jews, or people of Judah, and their Kings, Erected these in the Courts, or near the Courts of the Temple, and so in local neighbourhood, their Threshold was by God's Threshold, and their Idols by his that they were a nuisance to him. a And b There was but a Wall between me and them, that under my presence c my hearing, they have with greatest presumption defiled my name. d Defiled my Ordinances, corrupted my Worship, or forsaken it, as if I were neither great nor holy. e Abominable Idolatries, and wickednesses, not to be named. f Aced boldly, and openly, against Precept, Threats, and Admonitions. g For which sins I brought destruction upon them, that the Chaldeans ruin'd them, but they were the Rod of God's Anger. h In great displeasure and wrath. i. e. in my provoked justice, as chap. 20. ver. 13. lit. l. and chap. 23. ver. 31. lit. d.

9 Now let them put f away their whoredom g, and the carcases h of their kings far from me i, and I will dwell k in the midst of them for ever l.

l This Verse is either Prophetic, or Preceptive, it doth direct the Jews, what he should in duty do under this Temple; and foretells what the people of God will do under the Gospel f Cast away, as impure and lifeless things should be cast away. g See ver. 7. lit. h. i. e. By Temple duty Worship. k As their fight, protection and glory, the promises which are made in their covenants, enjoy us duty. l Stay thy hand away God's presence, and Blessings; cast away all sin that God call not nor away. i See ver. 7. lit. p.

10 Thou son of man m, shew n the house o to the house p of Israel, that they may be ashamed of their iniquities q, and let them measure the r pattern r.

m Ezekiel, who is call'd thus above 80 times in this Book. n He could not lay a model before their eye, but he could, and this is require'd, describe it to them in all the parts. o The Temple, which he had seen, and exactly measured. p To the Rulers, Prophets and Priests especially, not excluding others. q When they shall blush to see what Glory their iniquities had ruin'd: How great losses they were by their sins, or else thus interpret the meaning of these things, and let the Jews know what a Church God will erect among the Gentiles, that do to the Jews may be ashamed of their iniquities, which provoked God to cast them off, and to destroy their Church and State. r As thou declarest let them write down, delineate all, and then compute the whole, that they may fully comprehend it.

11 And if they s be ashamed t of all u that they have done, shew them the form v of the house, and the fashion y thereof, and the goings out thereof, and the comings in thereof z, and all the forms a thereof, and all the ordinances b thereof, and all the forms thereof, and all the laws thereof: and write c in their light d, that they may keep the whole e form thereof, and all the ordinances thereof, and do them.

f The house of Israel. g Repent, and shew it by manifest tokens. h This is not true Repentance, which is shewn of some only, but not of all. i The model of the Temple. j The manner of the Building, and fitting each part to others. k All the Alleys, Gates, Sacries, &c. l Which ought to be observed, faith the French Version: Now though this be not in the Hebrew, yet the word may imply as much, it being an Idea; Pattern or Platform, to which a thing is to be conformed. m Rules and Orders. Rules of Governing Priests, and their services. These are again repeated in the new words of the Verbs, which is usual in Scripture, and with this Prophet. n That it may be remembered, they shall have a draught of it from thy hands, and drawn in their light, that they may enquire of any particular, wherein doubt ariseth: o As Moses and Salomon did, to consult the Builders of this Temple, frame the whole to the Pattern, or Exemplar first before them, for not doing whereof, a heavy account lyeth on some in the Church.

12 This u is the law v of the house w; Upon the top x of the mountain, the whole limit thereof round about y shall be most holy: behold, this z is the law of the house.

u This is the first comprehensive rule. Holiness becometh Gods House or Temple, this relative holiness refer'd to persons, and real holiness, and requir'd it. v The whole circuit of this Mountain shall be holy, but the top of it, on which the Temple stands, shall be most holy, into which only holy persons, and holy things shall be brought.

13 And these a are the measures of the altar b after the cubits; c the d cubit is a cubit and an e chap. 40. g; hand-breadth b; even the f bottom g shall be h a cubit and a i lit. h. h. cubit, and the breadth k a cubit, and the border l thereof by the m edge n of the altar o shall be p a span, and this q shall be the higher r place of the altar.

g Of burnt Offerings; for the Altar of Incense was within the Temple, and is called the Golden Altar, but this is the Verbs is the Brazen Altar, and stood in the Court of the house. h The great or sacred Cubit, three inches longer than the common Cubit. i The ledge or settle, or as a little bench fasten'd to the Altar on all sides at the bottom, shall be a Cubit in height. k From the edge of the ledge or settle, or bench on the outside to the edge, whereto join'd the body of the Altar a Cubit, and this the breadth 21 inches, broad enough for the Priests to walk on round the Altar, as they had occasion. l A ledge going round on all the squares. m On the outer edge of this ledge a span high, about 9 inches, which was to prevent the Priests that they slip't not down in walking on this ledge. n This seems somewhat harsh Translated; as the French hath it, this shall be the back of the Altar, as the back bears burdens, o p Priests intended here, and indeed the sons, or posterity of them is here intended; for this Apostacy among them was elder then the eldest of them all. q Idolaters go far from God, for they depart as an Adulterous Wife from her Husband, their hearts.

Places of stone raised on purpose, and framed for the more convenient boiling of that part of the Sacrifice, which was allowed to the Priest, or to the people, to eat before the Lord, and feast with. These rows of building were so framed, that the cauldrons and pots were placed under them, 'tis likely, they might be like Cloysers, over which was a roof to cover both the Priest, or Levites, Cooks, and the Meats they dress; and they were either open as a Cloyster, or had windows, out of which the smoke of the fire, or steam of the Meats passed.

24. Then said he unto me, these are the places of them that boil m, where the ministers n of the house o shall boil the sacrifices p of the people.

m Appointed to do the Cooks work. n Either Levites, or else degraded Priests, of which chap. 44. ver. 5, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14. which see. o The Temple of God. p Which they bring, particularly their Peace-offerings, of which the people were to have a portion, and to eat it before the Lord, which is the reason some think, these Courts, and Kitchens were in the corners of the Courts of the people, but I think, as the people bringing a Sacrifice were admitted into the Court, that was the Court of the Priests, to the very Gates of the Court of the Temple, where they gave the Sacrifice to the Priest, saw him prepare, and offer it for them, so they might be admitted to feast on so solemn occasion in the Courts or Chambers, whilst ordinarily they might not come: I cannot therefore determine these Kitchen Courts to have been in the Court of the people, 'tis more likely they were in the Priests Courts.

CHAP. XLVII.

Afterward a he brought b me again unto the door of the house c, and behold, waters issued d out from under the threshold e of the house eastward: for the forefront of the house f faced toward the east, and the waters came down from under the right side g of the house, at the fourth side g of the altar.

a After that the Temple was measured, and the ordinances of it were settled, and what pertained to Prince and people assigned, &c. b The Angel, or the Spirit of God, chap. 1. 3. and 3. 22. c The Temple it self. d Some do observe, that there were Aqueducts laid under ground, which from some Fountain were conveyed to cleanse and purge away the blood of Sacrifices poured forth, and the excrements of the beasts, of which some would remain after great care, however they would need much water about their Temple services, and this was conveyed in pipes from the Fountain Ezra. 8. e Dr. Lightfoot observes from their Rabbies, and from Avila was an eye-witness; these gave occasion or ground of this vision. f The Fountain lay to the West, the Conduit pipes were laid to bring the water to the Temple, and so must run Eastward, and perhaps, one main pipe might be laid under the East side of the Temple. g On the South side of the Temple, for the South is to a man, whose face looketh toward the East. g Towards the South side of the Altar, for to it seems they were conveyed to run, till they came to the Altar, and were conveyed by the right side of it, into a room they called the will room. The spiritual meaning I refer to the private meditations of Christians; thus far of the Aqueducts.

2 Then brought he me out b of the way of the gate northward i, and led me about k the way without l unto the utter gate m by the way that looketh eastward n, and behold there ran out waters on the right side p.

b Of the innermost Court, where he saw the waters running under the threshold, and by the South side of the Altar. i The East gate being first, 'tis the Prophet in this vision is led to the North gate, out of which he goeth into the next Court, and so through them all, till he comes to the North gate of the outermost Court. k Caused him to go about from that gate to the East gate of the same Court. l Not on the inside of the Wall, but round on the outside of the Wall, which will appear presently, and the reason why. m The outermost North gate in the Wall, that compassed the whole Mountain of the Lords House. n When the Prophet was come quite out of all the Courts, and is on the outside of the last Wall, he is turned from the North gate towards the East gate, and walks up to that gate. o There he found the water course. p That is on the South side. Vid. ver. 1. l. 6.

3 And when the man q that had the line r in his hand, went forth s eastward, he measured t a thousand cubits u, and he brought me through the waters x: these are the y waters were to the ankles y.

q This is he, who accompanied the Prophet, as his Guide all along, and of whom already has been spoken in several notes.

Mentioned in chap. 40. ver. 3. but hitherto not used, for the Reed and Cubit hitherto were used only, at least only mentioned. f From the gate directly East, u whom the Prophet goeth. t By the Line in his hand, u almost the third part of an English Mile, it wanted about 80 yards of a third part. x Went before him, as his Guide, and the Prophet followed, all this in vision. y Some five or six inches deep.

4 Again he measured a thousand, and brought me through the waters; the waters were to the knees: again he measured a thousand, and brought me through: the waters were to the loins.

5 Afterward he measured a thousand, and it was a river that I could not pass over: for the waters were risen, † waters to swim in; a river that could not be passed over x.

q This was all done in vision, and these waters thus increased were vifional waters, there was no such natural course of waters in the place, nor is it imaginable, that in three Miles, or thereabouts, which was the most of the current, the waters should rise so; but it is Emblematical, and hath a deep mysterious meaning, and includes spiritual things, and their wonderful growth from small beginnings, and thence from the Temple also: But I refer this still to private meditations.

6 And he a said unto me, Son of man, hast thou seen this b? then he brought me, and caused me to return c unto the brink of the river.

a The man with measuring line in hand. b Observed and considered this, hast thou well seen this? c 'Tis not said whether he was gone from the bank, though it be said, he returned to the brink, or, perhaps 'tis, he caused me to return along by the brink of the river.

7 Now when I had returned d, behold, a * at the † bank e of the river were very many trees f † on the one side and on the other g.

d In his first coming he observed none, and no mention is made of any Trees, but it seems he found them on his return, though they did not really so soon grow, they might be vifinally there. e Where usually for delight and ornament, for profit too men plant Trees. f The kinds are not mentioned, though the excellency of them is commended, ver. 12. but the multitude of them is mentioned, and the growth increased, in the Hibris, and perhaps the uniformity of them, which seemed as of one Tree, for 'tis the fig-tree in the Hibris. g On the North and South sides, for the River ran from East to West.

8 Then said he b unto me, These waters if sie out toward the east-country, and go down into the c desert: and go into the sea d: which † being brought m forth into the sea, the waters n shall be healed.

b Vid. 6. l. 2. a Some read it as a proper name, and b render it, they did run toward Gallilee in the East, and the Hebrew bears it indeed, as to the found of the word; but it can be the meaning of the place, Gallilee, neither the upper or lower were East, but North-West from Jerusalem toward Tyre: our Translation doth therefore better render it the East Country, or border, as the Hebrew properly. c Dr. Archaicus the 22. in their Gr. Version, if this were the course of the waters, they did run a course quite contrary to that of Gallilee, which lay North and by West from Jerusalem, whereas Archaicus lay South and by East from Jerusalem. d Then the Chap. 4. plain country, or, the desert, as we read it, and mystically be understood of the desert of Meam, or Kadash, or Eden, which lay on the dead Sea, and this suits well with Genesis, Exo-Egipht, mentioned as bordering on their waters, ver. 10. 1 The Sea of Tiberias lay from Eden, others, the Sea called the dead Sea, or Lake of Sodom, which needed healing. m When they run into this Sea, or fall into it, which is the usual phrase. n The waters of the Sea, if they be healed, make wholesome, where the Grace of God from his Temple and Altar flows, as this water, it heals the corrupt vicious nature of man, and renders barren, horrid and terrible deserts, as a pond of waters, and Gardens so represented here, and so promised by the Lord, Isa. 35. 1, 2. and 41. 19. and 44. 15, 20. † 3. Once more to this verbe let me add, that the Hebrew Doctors do, so may it be here, that these flowing waters do divide themselves, and that some flow toward one Sea, i. e. the Sea of Tiberias, this toward Gallilee, other parts flow toward Arabia the Desert, and so in their way take their course by Engedi the desert of Ziph, and into the dead Sea.

9 And it shall come to pass, that every thing that liveth a, which moveth b, whithersoever the † rivers c shall come, shall live d: and there shall be a very great multitude e of fish, because these waters f shall come thither: for they shall be be healed u, and every thing shall live x whither the river cometh.

u As fish, so this universal is to be limited. p In the waters. q Gen. 1. 20. this kind of living Creatures are described. r These Rivers (by this it appears, the Hebrew Doctors have found ground for their interpreting the running of these waters in two Channels) flow. s Be preserved alive, or nourished, and thrive, whereas no fish can live in the dead Sea, as all reports assure us, and to which of the Prophet alludeth. t Before none, now innumerable fish there. u These Temple waters, which have in them a healing vertue. x The poisonous waters of the dead Sea shall be made wholesome for fish. y Thrive, and multiply in the vertue of the healing streams of this Temple waters. z Mystically it is the fruitfulness of the Grace of God in the Church itself.

10 And it shall come to pass that the fishers y shall stand z upon it a, from En-gedi b, even unto En-Eglaim c; they d shall be a place to spread forth nets e, their fish shall be according to their kinds f, as the fish of † the great sea g, exceeding many h.

y Men whose trade is to fish for livelihood and profit. z Shall dispose of themselves about these waters; either on the shore along the River side, or in boats on the Sea, to take the fish. a The Sea, whose waters healed become fruitful. b Which lay on the South-West of the Lake of Sodom, so near, that 'tis reported, that there are the Trees, which bring forth fruit beautiful to the eye, but touch with the hand fall into ashes; yet on those parts, more remote from this Sea, Engedi affords excellent Vines, Canthia 1. 14. or Gardens of Balsam Trees. c A City on the North-East of the dead Sea, near which place Jordan runs into it, and they say 'tis a boundary Town of Moab, others will have it no proper, but common name, and signifying the confluence of waters in any place, if so, 'twill be likely to be understood of that part of the Red Sea, where Jordan, and two more lesser Rivers run into it, at North, and North-East end of this Sea. d All along on the West side of this Sea to dry them, and fit them again. e Of all sorts. f For number, growth, and goodness for use. g Or great, or exceeding great biggins in their several kinds. All this is mystical, and fulfilled since Christ hath made his Ministers, as he made his Apostles, fishers of men.

11 But the filthy i places thereof, and the marishes k thereof l shall not be healed m, they shall be given to salt n.

i Unflood, rotten parts, that are neither Sea, nor yet found ground, a proper emblem of Hypocrites. k Low Land, solid ground, with the overflows of unwholesome waters, neither fit to breed fish as the Sea, nor bear trees as the Land. l These waters find them, and leave them corrupt and noxious. m Left to their barrenness, or used as salt to season, by being made examples to others.

12 And by n the river upon the bank thereof on this side and on that side, shall † grow o all trees for meat p, * whose leaf shall not fade q; neither shall the fruit thereof be consumed r: it shall bring forth † new fruit according to his months s, because their t waters they issued out of the sanctuary u, and the fruit thereof shall be for meat x, and the leaf y thereof z for medicine z.

o All along this River, which way ever it runs, it shall make its banks so fruitful, that on both sides thereof it shall be abundantly planted with best Trees. p Take root, flourish, and be fruitful, as Trees that like their Soil. q These shall be as Trees that are fit only for pleasure, their Fruit shall be for food. r Ever green, and flourishing, as Trees in the Spring, and in their prime. s Never be so little as to be consumed, and spent, never rot and decay, there shall always be fruit, and enough. t These Trees have, as the Tree of Life, their fruit every Month. u And so carried a blessing with them, these waters came from the Temple, and were indeed fit against barrenness. z See l. p. y There are many Herbs of healing property, none like the Leaves of these Trees. z Healing the Nations, as Rev. 22. 2. These Trees most likely were the Palms Trees, whence the Balm that heals, the Fruit that feedeth, and juice that refresheth, and allets our thirst. Thus the inter, the myrror I do not insist on, 'tis no hard matter for private Christians to accommodate it to themselves.

13 Thus saith the Lord GOD: This shall be the border a whereby ye shall inherit b the land according to the twelve c tribes of Israel: Joseph d shall have two portions.

a The utmost bounds of the whole Land. b That is, shall divide for inheritance to the Tribes of Israel. c As 'twas at first divided into twelve portions, so now again. d That is the two sons of Joseph, Ephraim and Manasse, and this part of their Adoption by Joseph, as well as in fulfilling the will of Jacob, who gave Joseph a double share.

14 And ye shall inherit it, one e as well as another: concerning the which I † lifted up mine † hand f to give it unto your fathers g, and this land shall fall h unto you i for inheritance. Or, first. Gen. 17. 7, 8.

e By equal right each Tribe, and each Family shall inherit their assign'd Portion, by Right of children decedant from a Father, whose 'twas by Letters Patents from Heaven. f Which by oath I bound my self, faith God, to give to you, see this form of oath: chap. 20. ver. 5. l. 1. r. and chap. 36. ver. 1. l. 2. † First to Ashdod, Gen. 13. 15. and 13. 18. next to Hezrai, Gen. 26. 3. next to Be'er, Gen. 28. 12. and all three are frequently mentioned, as those, to whom the Lord swore in this thing, Exod. 33. 1. Dut. 1. 8. and 6. 10. † So we speak of the inheritance which is sure, and firm by indefeasible right, and comes into actual possession, beside it may refer to the dividing by lot, which God will guide, that each may have their own. † Returned Captives, who were carried away, and used as nothing were your own, and as if you never should have any thing, but in their fight you shall inherit.

15 And this shall be the border of the land toward the north-side k, from the great sea l, the way of Hethlon m, as men go to Zedad n:

k In bounding the Land, the Prophet is informed what is the North border first. l This called Go, nor that 'tis the great sea, for 'tis the Mediterranean here spoken of, but with respect to the Hebrew, this doth to be the greatest they knew, or Traded on, from this Sea doth the measuring of the Land begin, from the West point along to Hethlon. m Which is called Hethlon by Archaicus, in the Tribe of Ashur, at the foot, or near the Mount Athron or Seir, as chap. 27. 5. calls that Mount: This City was in the North-East of Ashur's lot, and on the North-West of Nephthali's lot, in the old division of the Land. n Which is Sadda a small Town under the same Hill, and near the head of the River Eleutherus, antiently Gabit.

16 Hamath q, Berothah q, Sibram q, which † between r the border of Damascus, and the border of Hamath; † Hazar-hatticon, which † by the coast of Hauran.

q Very near to the head of Eleutherus, or Ghar, and to Sadda: It is like to be cart-measured, Isa. 10. 9. † Scitum about the middle of the North boundary of the Land, called some time Hamath, from Archaicus Ephraim, who repaired it, and some say, now called Esime. r Between a small and inconceivable Town or Village, lying East of Sadda. s Or Eleutherus, a place of no farther note than the former, known thus by being a boundary. t It lay between these two, Hamath to the West of it, and Damascus to the East by North, somewhat nearer to Hamath than to Damascus. u Though we render it as a proper name, some render it otherwise. The small Villages between them two, (to the Hebrew) † between Hamath and Hauran. v Or Araia, some miles beyond Jordan, Eastward from Hamath, which also gives name to the Country called Araia.

17 And the border u from the sea x shall be * Hazar-Enan y the border of Damascus, and the North northward z, and the border of Hamath: and this † is the North side. † Chap. 48. 1.

u The utmost Northern bounds. v Vid. ver. 13. l. 1. y The Village Enan, or Enan near Sadda. z A line drawn from West to East, that shall distinguish the most Northern boundaries of Israel from the most Southern of Syria Damascus.

18 And the East side ye shall measure † from † Hauran a, and from Damascus b, and from Gilead c, and from the land of Israel d by Jordan, from the border unto the East sea e; and this † is the East side.

a That was the North-East border, where we must begin to measure the East side, and b this was more Northward than the City Hauran, but the country Araia, for ought I know might reach to Damascus, or near it, and so this more particularly reach the measuring: c begin at Damascus, draw the line mountain about fifty miles in length from South to North where joins Mount Libanus at the East end of it, and hath many particular places in particular places, and seems to end its Southward progress at the country Jordan. d A famous land of Israel, which lay beyond Jordan. e Thence to the East Sea, or Dead Sea, which lay on the East of Jerusalem. This line drawn from Damascus through Araia, Gibad, the land of Israel beyond Jordan, to the East Sea, made the Eastern Frontier.

19 And the South f side southward from Tamar, even to the waters of † Arise g in Kadeth, † Or, Arithah, the

Or, Valley, Or, toward

the  $\parallel$  river  $b_3$  to the great sea  $i$ . And this is the southside  $\parallel$  toward.

$f$  Shall begin at that point, which first vergeth Southward from the East  $e$  toward Tamar, which is near Egedi, and known by the addition Hazen Tamar, and so come place the lake of Sodom, that the greatest part will be this Southern Frontier.  $g$  From Tamar a line drawn to Abithin in Keddi, of which Nam 20, 13, and 17, 14.  $h$  Called the river  $i$ . Egypt and was on the South of Judah, lay directly in the way to Egypt from Jerusalem.  $i$  To the South-west part of the Midianites Sta near Gaza. This the Southern Frontier.

20 The west side also shall be the great sea from the border, till a man come over against Hamath  $\therefore$ . This is the west side.

This boundary begins where the River falls into the Mediteranean, a little South of Gaza, this the South point of the Western boundary, and the line runs all along the Sea shore Northward, till you come in a straight line to Hamath, and this is the Northern point of the West Frontier, over right Sidon, or little differing.

21 So shall ye divide this land  $k$  unto you according to the tribes  $l$  of Israel.

$k$  Now bounded.  $l$  Into twelve parts or Tribes, to which all but what is allotted to Priests, Levites, and the City  $u$ . This, as Holy, must be reserved; and when reserved, a very fair portion is left to the 12 Tribes, if you measure the Holy Portion by Cubits, and not by Reeds.

22 And it shall come to pass  $m$ , that ye shall divide it by Lot  $n$  for an inheritance unto you  $o$ , and to the strangers that sojourn  $p$  among you, which shall beget children  $q$  among you: and they shall be unto you as born in the country among the children  $r$  of Israel: they shall have inheritance  $f$  with you  $t$  among the tribes  $n$  of Israel.

This directs what they should do, as well as foretels the event that shall be.  $s$  So 'twas divided before, so it must  $t$  again, for thus all controversies shall be prevented, thus he will choose their inheritance for them, for the disposition of the Lot is of the Lord.  $u$  That are the Natural seed of Abraham,  $p$  Foreigners never had such privilege before, tho' they might dwell, and trade among the Jews, yet they were excluded all Hereditary rights, could not purchase, nor posses inheritances, but now the constitution is altered, and by this temporal external incorporating them, a Spiritual and Heavenly is signified no doubt. They are put into capacity of inheriting with Israel in both Canaan, in this below, in that above.  $q$  Who from their Birth should be invested with this right of inheriting.  $r$  Equally with the children of Israel in point of Rights, and with that very Tribes, in which they sojourn.  $s$  Priests, and enjoy, as well as you.  $t$  This speaks the equal Title or Privilege.  $u$  This directs where the inheritance of these strangers born among them, or that first came with them, when they came out of Babylon, should be assigned them.  $v$  In that very Tribes, where they sojourn'd which is fully express in the next Verse.

23 And it shall come to pass  $x$ , that in what tribe  $y$  the stranger  $z$  sojourneth, there shall ye give  $a$  him his  $b$  inheritance, faith the Lord GOD  $c$ .

$z$  See ver. 22. ut. m.  $y$  Whether by choice, or chance the stranger fix'd in that Tribe. No stranger shall be excluded out of the Tribes inheritance, among whom he hath sojourn'd, and begotten children.  $a$  Every Prostitute or Gentile, that joys himself to the people of God.  $b$  Neither the Jew might thrust a stranger out into another Tribe, nor might the stranger by choice go to another.  $c$   $b$  Tis called his, for so much as he had a right preceding the Assignment.  $c$  All this confirmed by Divine Authority.

C H A P. XLVIII.

NOW these  $a$  are the names of the tribes. From the North  $b$  end to  $c$  the coast of the way of Hethlon  $d$ , as one goeth to Hamath  $e$ , Hazar-Enan  $f$ , the border  $g$  of Damascus Northward, to the coast of Hamath  $h$ , for these are his  $i$  sides East  $k$  and West,  $l$  a  $\dagger$  portion for Dan  $l$ .

$a$  Which follow in their Order.  $b$  As the Measure began to bound the land first on the North-side, so he will first place the Tribes, to whom the most Northern Lot fell, or rather was assign'd by a Divine direction.  $c$  Along through the coast, that leads from the West or great Sea to Hethlon.  $d$  See chap. 47. 15. ut. m.  $e$  A Frontier City of that name; See chap. 47. 16. ut. o. antiently the Royal City of Tis, who congratulated Dan  $l$ .

in his victory over Haderad King of Syria Zabab, 2 Sm. 8. 9. 10.  $f$  Vid. chap. 47. 17. ut. y. for I meet with no more concerning it.  $g$  And so on by the Border of Damascus, which lay farther Eastward, then Enan, as Geographers describe it.  $h$  This is Syria, and perhaps might have been left to Transit, along bordering on this coast the rest of the Northern boundary did run.  $i$  The Land, or Dan mentioned immediately after.  $j$  That is from the East point, where Mount Sin joins to Gilead, to the West Point, which is supposed to be the Midland-Sea, near the Hot Baths or Sidon; See chap. 47. 20. l. The Tribe of Dan, and the strangers, that sojourn with him.

2 And by  $m$  the border of Dan, from the East side unto the West side a portion for Asher.

$m$  That is all along on the Southside of Dan, from East to West in length shall the share of the Tribe of Asher be.

3 And by the border of Asher, from the East side even unto the West side  $n$ , a portion for Naphtali.

$n$  To the North-west point where the dividing line ends being drawn from the North-East point to the North-west in the Midland-Sea.

4 And by the border of Naphtali, from the East side to the West side, a portion for Manasseh.

5 And by the border of Manasseh, from the East side to the West side, a portion for Ephraim.

6 And by the border of Ephraim, from the East side to the West side, a portion for Reuben.

7 And by the border of Reuben, from the East side unto the West side, a portion for Judah.

Hitherto you have seven of the twelve Tribes placed in the Northern part of Canaan, and reckoned as they lay in order, where nothing occurs new from the ad. ver. to the 8th.

8 And by the border of Judah, from the East-side to the West side, shall be the offering  $i$ , which ye shall offer of five and twenty thousand reeds  $p$  in breadth, and in length as one of the other parts, from the East side to the West side  $q$ ; and the sanctuary  $r$  shall be in the midst of it  $f$ .

$i$  The Holy portion of which, chap. 45. 1. set out for Priests, Levites, and City, chap. 45. 4. 5.  $p$  Reeds is here supplied by the Translators, but I rather think Cubits, for the greatness of the Portion measur'd by reeds will eat out the Tribes, or leave very little for them, as appears thus. The whole length from North to South was about 160 miles, the breadth from East to West was about 160 miles, the breadth from East to West was about 160 miles, at one thousand paces to a mile. These 77 taken out of 160, there will remain but 83 for the 12 Tribes, which will afford not quite seven miles in breadth for each Tribe, when as 77 miles are allotted to the Priests, Levites, and City, so that there will remain but 83 miles for the 12 Tribes, that is to each one almost 7 miles. Now this to me would seem very much disproportion'd; but 25000 cubits reckoned doth give the holy portion and City 12 miles and half square as broad as long, and give near as much in breadth to each Tribe, and five times as much in length to each Tribe, which appears thus, 12 times 12 makes 144, and 12 quarters makes 3 wholes; give then each Tribe 12 and a quarter, you divide 147 by 12 and a quarter: now to this add the Priests, the holy portion, and the City land, which is twelve miles and a half, and you have 150 miles; thus the breadth of each portion for each Tribe, but the length of each exceeded the Prince by 12, and a half, and the Holy portion, as much as 60 exceeds 12 and a half.  $q$  That is Twenty five thousand in length, which amounts to twelve miles and one half. Now the residue of the land from the Sea Eastward abutting on the whole breadth of the Holy portion by choice or proportion will be twenty three and one quarter, and as much from the other side measuring from the Eastern bounds of the Holy portion to the utmost bounds Eastward of the land, which is 60 miles from its utmost western bounds, as appears thus; take an oblong Square, whose breadth is 12 and a half, its length 60, suppose in the very middle 12 and a half figure taken up, there will remain at each end the half of 47 and three quarters, which is 23 and three quarters according to this conceive the prince hath assign'd him as much as two Tribes very near, and almost four times as much as the Holy Oblation; so that there is good reason for that chap. 45. 9. against oppression, and the command he is content.  $r$  The whole content of Suburbs, courts, and house.

$f$  Of the land laid out for the Holy portion, for God, and his Priests.

9 The oblation that ye shall offer unto the LORD

LORD shall be of five and twenty thousand in length and of ten thousand in breadth.

This Verie the same with the 3d. ver. of chap. 45. which see.

10 And for them, even for the Priests  $r$ , shall be this holy oblation, toward the north  $u$  five and twenty thousand in length, and toward the West ten thousand in breadth  $x$ , and toward the East ten thousand in breadth  $y$ , and toward the South  $z$  five and twenty thousand in length, and the sanctuary of the LORD shall be in the midst thereof.

$r$  Who are more particularly described, ver. 11. which see.  $u$  The North side in length from North-east to North-west.  $x$  From South-west to North-west-point between which points lay the West side.  $y$  Between North-east, and South-east points, which made the East border.  $z$  From South-east point by line drawn to South-west, the same measure with the North.

11 \*  $\parallel$  It shall be for the priests that are sanctified, of the sons of Zadok; which have kept my  $\parallel$  charge, which went not astray when the children of Israel went astray, as the Levites did. See this ver. explained chap. 44. 15. 16.

12 And this oblation  $a$  of the land that is offered  $b$ , shall be unto them  $c$  a thing most holy, by the border  $d$  of the Levites.

$a$  Which is as 'twere the Primitive of the land, 'twas order'd to be first let out for God.  $b$  Set apart, and dedicated to God.  $c$  In the account both of the Priests, and the whole people it shall be most holy, on no occasion to be Servant unto any common uses.  $d$  It shall lie next to the Levites they lay Southward between the Priests, and the Cities Portion.

13 And over  $e$  against the border of the Priests the Levites shall have five and twenty thousand in length and ten thousand in breadth, all the length shall be five and twenty thousand, and the breadth ten thousand.

Vid. this ver. explain'd chap. 44. 5. ut.  $e$  The Levites portion ran parallel with the Priests, whose Northern limits were next to the Southern limits of the Levites.

14 And they shall not sell  $f$  of it, neither exchange, nor alienate the first fruits of the land: for it is holy to the LORD.

$f$  It is most holy, and therefore no price should be offered for it, nor any price set upon it, nor may they put away any on pretence of getting greater, and more particularly serviceable to them, and their employment, and so for conveniences part with Gods inheritance, this is foridden, this is Holy, as the first fruits were under the Law, Lev. 25. 34. 24. 1 King. 21. 4.

15 And the five thousand that are left in the breadth over against  $g$  the five and twenty thousand  $h$ , shall be a profane  $i$  place for the city, for dwelling  $k$ , and for suburbs  $l$ ; and the city  $m$  shall be in the midst thereof  $n$ .

$g$  Or running along by the side.  $h$  Assign'd to the Levites.  $i$  A common, not consecrated place, in which the City should be built, a place for all Services, as men shall need, now as that is counted holy, which is set apart only for the service of God, so that common or profane, that is for common uses.  $k$  Houses within the Walls.  $l$  Streets, and Dwellings, or Gardens without the Wall.  $m$  Jerusalem.  $n$  Of this ten thousand are left at each end.

16 And these shall be the measures  $o$  thereof  $p$ ; the North-side four thousand and five hundred, and the South-side four thousand and five hundred, and on the East side four thousand and five hundred, and the West side four thousand and five hundred.

$o$  The extent, and proportions of the ground for the City, 2 square of 4500 shall be taken out of the middle of the 25000 for the Arts or ground-plate of the City. So it shall be an equilateral figure every exactly the same North, South, East, and West, 4500 a piece, by which measures the whole content is visible 18000 Cubits, not Rods.

17 And the suburbs of the city shall be towards the North two hundred and fifty, and toward the South two hundred and fifty, and toward the East two hundred and fifty; and toward the West two hundred and fifty.

Here are the dimensions of the Suburbs, which added to those of the City thus, 250 added to the 4500 on the North side and 250 added to the 4500 on the South side makes 5000; so on the East added 250 to 4500, and then add 250 to the 4500 on the West it makes up a square equilateral 5000 in each side.

18 And the residue in length  $p$  over against the oblation of the holy portion shall be  $q$  ten thousand Eastward, and ten thousand Westward; and it shall be over against  $r$  the oblation of the holy portion and the increase  $f$  thereof shall be for food  $t$  unto them that serve  $u$  the city.

$p$  Which remains on each side of the 5000 cubic square Arts.  $q$  Will be 10000 on the East, and 10000 on the West.  $r$  Lay parallel, and even with the South side of the Levites Portion both on East and West.  $f$  Produce, the Revenues of this Land.  $t$  The Maintenance, both Salary, and allowance of Bread and Wine.  $u$  For the City officers, so that they may live by the City, whose life is spent for the City, that the Labourer may, as he is worthy of it, receive his wages.

19 And they that serve the city shall serve it out of all the tribes of Israel  $o$ .

$o$  Either this service is a burthen, if so, 'tis for all should bear their part in it, or 'tis a Privilege, and advantage, and then 'tis as the advantage should be equally given to all the Tribes: all Tribes shall be capable of the Advantage, and liable to the Burthen.

20 All the oblation shall be five and twenty thousand, by five and twenty thousand  $p$ ; ye shall offer the holy oblation four square, with the possession  $q$  of the city.

$p$  Having particularly measur'd out 10000 for the Priests and 10000 for the Levites, and 5000 for the City broad-ways, their make in all 25000. And the length of each the same 25000 here is evident 25000 by 25000, that a perfect equilateral square whose sides are 25000 each side.  $q$  The land assigned for the City, being added to that of the Priests and Levites, makes their twice ten thousand to amount to twenty five thousand broad.

21 And the residue  $r$  shall be for the prince on the one side  $f$  and on the other side  $t$  of the holy oblation, and of the possession  $u$  of the city over against the five and twenty thousand  $x$ , of the oblation toward the East border  $y$ , and Westward over against the five and twenty thousand toward the West border, over against  $z$  the portions for the prince; and it shall be the holy oblation  $i$  and the sanctuary  $a$  of the house  $b$  shall be in the midst thereof  $c$ .

$r$  Of the lands, which is a great portion, for 'tis the remainder of 12 and a half taken out of 60; so that the remainder will be 23 and 3 quarters.  $f$  On the West just as much, 23 and 3 quarters.  $t$  The residue of that, which is on each side, East and West of the 5000 square Arts.  $u$  Which amounts out of the Priests, Levites and City Portion.  $x$  Of the land of Canaan, all from the East side of the 25000 to the utmost bounds Eastward, shall be the Prince his portion, and so likewise on the West side Westward to the great Sea.  $y$  These 25000 on both sides lay over against, or run parallel with the breadth of the Princes portion, but the length of the Prince his portion on each side did exceed the length of the holy portion, and the City land as 23 and 3 quarters exceed 12 and a half.  $z$  The Holy mount.  $b$  Of the Temple of God.  $c$  Of the land assign'd to the Priests, which lay as described, bounded and guarded with the Prince his portion at East and West Ends.

22 Moreover from the possession of the Levites, and from the possession of the city, being in the midst of that which is the princes, between the border of Judah and the border of Benjamin, shall be for the prince  $\therefore$ .

$\therefore$  That we may clearly understand this we must remember, that the portion of Judah was laid from West to East next to the Holy portion, and the portion of Benjamin is in ver. 23. laid likewise from West to East next to the possession of the City. So that on each side the extent of Judah and Benjamin run out to 23 miles and 3 quarters further than the holy portion, and possession of the City did extend, and all the land contain'd between the borders of Judah and Benjamin was the Prince his Right, both the 12 mile, and half broad, 23 and 3 quarters long on the West, and the same proportion on the East; and this is the sum of the 22 ver.

23 As for the rest of the tribes, from the East side unto the West side, Benjamin † shall have a portion.

¶ We left with the Prophet the last assign'd portion to Judah in the 7th. ver. on the Northside of the Holy portions. now the first on the South side of the position of the City is Benjamin, whose portion as all the rest, runs in length from East to West and its breadth from North to South.

24 And by the border of Benjamin, from the East side unto the West side, Simeon shall have a portion.

25 And by the border of Simeon, from the East side unto the West side, Issachar a portion.

26 And by the border of Issachar, from the East side unto the West side, Zebulun a portion.

27 And by the border of Zebulun, from the East side unto the West side, Gad a portion.

* Thus all the Tribes have their inheritance assign'd them, but their lot is not here as in Jer. 18, division; It was a New Church and State, that was here intended and accordingly many changes made in it, which differenc'd it from the old, which changes no doubt are instructive, but the particular instructions fall not within the design of a Paraphrase or Comment, that is to make the letter of the Text plain to ordinary capacities.

28 And by the border of Gad, at the South side southward, the border b shall be even from Tamar c, unto the waters of † strife in Kadesh, and to the river d toward the great sea.

† Heb. Mori-Kadesh.

a The South border of Gad. b Of the whole land Southward. c See Gen. 28. 19, Gen. 28. 19, Gen. 28. 19, Gen. 28. 19, but if Sihor be Nile, as Onkelos makes it, it cannot be the boundary, 'tis indented a River, that mingles, as some place it, out of the North part of the Mountains of Paraz, and running a course West from its rise, pateth between Gad and Reuben, and after some 23 or 30 miles travel falls into the great Sea, better known in Scripture by the Name of the River of Egypt. But possibly, the true Sihor may be from Mount Carmel, and Gad, whence it may be some forty miles English to the great Sea.

29 This e is the land which ye shall divide by lot for unto the tribes of Israel for inheritance, and these g are their portions, saith the Lord GOD.

e Whose South bounds are here repeated, the North bounds, ver. 17. f Not calling lots, but assigning the shares. g Above described are the particular shares of each tribe.

30 ¶ And these are the goings out of the city on the North side, four thousand and five hundred measures h.

h Now the Prophet hath a general Topography of the City, which lay four square. The first side mention'd, is the North, for there he began to describe the land, or because 'twas nearest the Temple. 'Twas as ver. 14, which see. 4500 Cubits, i. e. about a mile, and one third of a mile.

31 And * the gates of the city shall be after the names of the tribes of Israel, three gates Northward, one gate of Reuben, one gate of Judah, one Gate of Levi.

† So then at equal distance from the Corners, and from each other 'twas probable these Gates were built.

32 And at the East side four thousand and five hundred: and three gates; and one gate of Joseph, one gate of Benjamin, one gate of Dan.

33 And at the South side four thousand and five hundred measures: and three gates; one gate of Simeon, one gate of Issachar, one gate of Zebulun.

34 At the West side four thousand and five hundred, with their three gates; one gate of Gad, one gate of Asher, one gate of Naphtali.

35 It was round a about eighteen thousand measures b, and the name c of the city from that day d shall be † The LORD is there.

a Measuring all four squares. b Or Cubits at which proportion d measures 'twas about five miles in compass if the measures were rods it would be 20 miles and 224 yards in compass of the Walls which cannot be conceived credible whereas the other is the proportion the City might have been built to, if the fane of the Jews had not prevented. c By which called known, as I which shall be the honour of it, and its glory.

d From the day of the Lords restoring this people, and rebuilding their City, and re-establishing his worship, and their thankful, holy, and pure worshiping of God there, from that day, that such unmatched mercy produceth a notable return unto God, from that day it shall be said of Jerusalem. e The Lord, who as his name alone is Jehovah, is to the only true God, faithful to Promise, rich in Mercy, glorious in Majesty, righteous in his judgments, wise and holy in his Government, whose Presence makes us happy, whose withdrawing from us leaves us to misery. This God will, by his Favours, and beneficence, repel Enemies, and protect his people, bring with him the Confidence of all Good to Vertuous Family and Cities; This God will be there to dwell, govern, defend, prosper, and crown. The people is blessed that is in such case, for their God is the Lord. f Jer. 14. 14. 15. Such was the case of Typical, Earthly Jerusalem, who not long since is and shall be for ever the case of the Heavenly Jerusalem, the City of God, the true Church and Temple of God. Such the case of every true sincere believer, who may, where ever he is, in his way of Duty, still write Jehovah Shammah, My God is here, and 'tis best to be where he is, till he bring me within the Gates of the glorious City, where inconceivable light and love from the immediate Presence of God give every one an Eternal Demonstration that יהוה עמו, he may be glory for ever.

ANNOTATIONS

The ARGUMENT.

IN Daniel and his Prophecies, observe these things for the better understanding of this Book, and the mind of God in it. 1. As to Daniel the Author or Penman. 2. As to the Book it self. First, As to the Author, he was a Prophet, as appears in the little Stone cut out of the Mountain without hands, meaning Christ the Messiah and his Kingdom, what he should do, chap. 2. likewise chap. 7. to the end of the Book, the six first Chapters are Historical, the six last Prophetical. Secondly, As to his Lineage he was one of the Royal Seed. Thirdly, He was a Captive. Fourthly, He was rarely qualified for Piety, Wisdom, Beauty. Fifthly, As to his Education, he was trained for three years in Learning. Sixthly, His Advancement, for his Parts and Wisdom. Seventhly, He was faithful and blameless in the place of Honour to which he was preferred. Eighthly, His Care and Kindness for his Companions, he procured their promotion also. Ninthly, His singular Holiness and Power with God in Prayer, Ezek. 14. 14. Tenthly, His Faithfulness and Constancy in the Worship of God, against the Envy, and Persecution of his Enemies. Eleventhly, The strange Providence of God in his Preservation, and Deliverance. Twelfthly, His signal integrity, and flourishing state under several Kings Reigns, even in critical times, and great changes, unto his old Age, and beyond the seventy years of Captivity. 2. As to the Book it self, both the Historical and Prophetical part of it, especially the latter, we find great variety in them. 1. Famous predictions, of the Messiah, of dreadful wars, of fearful desolations to Countries, and the Jewish Nation in particular, for putting Christ to Death; great Persecutions of the Church, by the Grecians and Romans especially in which Antiochus and Anti-Christ are pointed at. These things are all of such weighty consideration, that our blessed Saviour calls for special understanding in the reading even of one part of it, Matth. 24. 15. His Chronology and Calculations may be called the Key of Time, relating to the Churches Sufferings and Deliverances. Daniel was the greatest Favorite we read of, namely of the King of Heaven, Chap. 9. 23. and 10. 11. and of the greatest Kings then on Earth. He was the noblest pattern of a publick heart, for the Church of God, for whose affliction he was deeply afflicted in the midst of his Court Honours, and Employments.

CHAP. I.

IN the third year of the reign of Jehoiakim King of Judah, came Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, unto Jerusalem, and besieged it.

a Comparing this with 2 Kings 24. 1. and with 2 Chron. 36. the meaning is, after the Lord had taken away that good King Josiah for the sins of Judah and Manasse, which were very great, by Pharaoh Necho King of Egypt, the People of the Land took Jehoiakim the Son of Josiah, and made him King, he Reigned but three months, wherein he did so evil in the sight of the Lord, that the said Pharaoh Necho put him in bands at Riblah, and after carried him to Egypt where he died, and made Elishacin his Brother King in his stead, and turned his name to Jehoiakim; he became Nebuchadnezzars Servant three years, for that King of Babylon had overthrown Pharaohs Army at Carchemish by the River Euphrates, and Jehoiakim rebelling against Nebuchadnezzar which made him come up from Babylon and took Jehoiakim, and bound him in fetters to carry him to Babylon, and his death, and burial you have a full account, Jer. 22. 17, 18, 19.

2 And the LORD gave Jehoiakim king of Judah into his hand, with part b of the vessels of the house of God c, which he carried into the land of Shinar to the house of his god d, and he brought the vessels into the treasure-house of his god.

b In this expedition Nebuchadnezzar carried away some of the vessels of the Temple, and some Captives, among whom was Daniel and his Friends. These Vessels he carried into the house of his God. c Which God was Baal or Bel, and Nib, Isa. 46. 1, which words they put into the names of their Kings, and Favours, of which more afterward. d These Vessels as spoils he put in the house of his God for his Honour, because he thought, he had gotten his victory by the help of his Idol God, 1 Sam. 31. 9. 10. as the Philistines did, Judge. 16. 23. 24, when as the Text saith the Lord gave all into his hand, ver. 2. The execrations of Gods wrath upon Gods sinful people have other thoughts then God hath about that, Isa. 10. 5. 10 ver. 16.

3 And the king spake unto Ahpenaz, the master of the eunuchs e, that he should bring certain of the children of Israel, and of the kings seed, and of the princes f.

e These here called Eunuchs were chief among the Kings Servants, and they are called Eunuchs because many of them were such as at that day and of old among all the Princes of the East, but they were not all such, Jer. 32. 24. The word translated Eunuch signifies also Chamberlain, such was Atticus, Ellius, &c. such were Biglith and Tarshish, Ezra. 6. 2, and Hizkiah, Ezra. 7. 24.

Some will have this relate to the Jews and the Church of God, by whose Prayers this was obtained, but the more plain sense is this, viz. that the interpretation may be manifest to the King, and that thou must know the thoughts of thy heart, that thou must be better instructed and fastened in thy mind in this great Secret, when thou seest the mind of God in it, and what it means it, and what thy duty is, and how to steer thy counsel and actions in this vast Monarchy, and towards the afflicted Church of God in it.

31 Thou, O king, † sawest, and behold, a † Chald. was

2. Not a painted superficial image, but a reality, a Statue in man's flesh, great, splendid, majestic, they were wont to reprobate of old, great Emperors and Emperors, and worshipped them as gods, called her an Image, and in a dream all which is in them, and shadow rather than in substance, and therefore vanishing. And that upbraid, of a prodigious height, raising the grandeur of those Monarchies. Government to be feared, not to be loved, and to be loved not to be feared, also image had rather be feared than loved. Some say the Image was too political, that the face looked toward the King, and thus it might trouble and terrify him.

32 This images head was of fine gold, his

d By this we see the World is much worie and far declined, every age depenegrating from what it was of old. as the Poets which borrowed their fancy from this Image, have described the ages of the World from Metals, the first was golden, and so coming on courser, it ended at last as this Image in the Text in dirt.

34 Thou sawest till that a stone was cut out || Or, which was way, that no place was found for them: and the stone that smote the image became a great mountain, and filled the whole earth.

f By this word we appears Daniel's Piety and Modesty, for he declares by it, that he and his Companions had begged this till from God, and therefore he did not, nor could arrogate it to himself excluding them, without injury; and dishonour to God that heard Prayer. Now begins the interpretation.

11 And who so falleth not down and worshipeth, that he should be cast into the midst of a burning fiery furnace.

12 There are certain Jews whom thou hast set over the affairs of the province of Babylon, Shadrach, Meshach and Abed-nego: these men, O king, have not regarded thee, they serve not thy gods, nor worship the golden image which thou hast set up.

† Chald. here lit no regard to thee.

Now the Devils clown foot appears, now ye have the bottom of the plot; one of these two is clear, these Children of the East were made Courtiers, and preferred to places of Trust and Honour, they either put the King upon this work, or else made use of it, both to gratify their ambition, and to wreak their malice against those three Worthies; as they dealt with Daniel, chap. 6. 4, 5; they accused the Jews, which word signifies to calumniate, and also to eat up, and devour, which is the design of envy and malice; see how they go to work; 1. They strike while the iron is hot, they take the King in his heat. 2. They read a Law Established. 3. Then they lay the Jews do not observe the Kings Laws, 4. People already obnoxious. 4. Yes, several of them despise the Kings Laws and maxims. 5. They abuse the Kings great favour and indulgence to them. 6. They should give good example being in places of trust and dignity. 7. Yet behold, they declare their contumacy and rebellion in not conforming to the Kings Laws. This set the King all in a flame of rage and fury, and commended to his rage 3 men before him.

13 Then Nebuchadnezzar in his rage and fury commanded to bring Shadrach, Meshach and Abed-nego; then they brought these men before the king.

4 Why not Daniel too, because he was chief of all in honour? Answer. Because the King had a greater favour for him, and he was popular, and beloved for his great wisdom, and unblameable carriage; they would not meddle with him now, lest by his knowledge and interest in the King, he might chance to spoil their plot.

14 Nebuchadnezzar spake and said unto them, Or of purpose, Is it true, O Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego: do not ye serve my gods, nor worship the golden image which I have set up?

Now when these men were brought before the King though in rage, yet he doth not presently throw them into the fire, but makes inquiry by interrogatories, that he might see first if they were guilty, by hearing them speak for themselves, and telling them he expected obedience and conformity to his Laws from them, and it was in vain to look for any indulgence from him, he would bate them nothing, they should be burned: What do ye make a jest of my gods, and my Religion, and my Commands? so the word spoke in the Syriac doth signify to scoff or deride, as if he had said, is it true indeed, that ye refuse to worship my gods; what do ye do it in earnest, or in jest, it seems by your carriage, if it be true what I hear of you, that ye slight my gods, and make a mock of my Authority, but ye shall know there is no jesting with these edge-tools.

15 Now if ye be ready, that at what time ye hear the sound of the cornet, flute, harp, sackbut, psalter, and dulcimer, and all kinds of music, ye fall down and worship the image which I have made, well; but if ye worship not, ye shall be cast the same hour into the midst of a burning fiery furnace; and who is that God that shall deliver you out of my hands?

Prodigious pride and blasphemy, for he doth not only insult over all gods in general, but particularly against the only true God, whom he lately confessed chap. 2. 47. to be a God of gods, and a Lord of Kings; so the King of Assyria, a Kings 18. 30, 33. Thus all the Tyrants of the East, Tyr. Meg. Chm., whose very Titles are blasphemy; Issa would have these men Worship any God, (seeing they set up themselves above all. Reason of State makes them set up somewhat to keep the people in awe, they themselves are exempt, and care for none. The root of Nebuchadnezzars arrogance lay chiefly here, he had burnt the Temple of the Jews god, and made slaves of his people, and he did not deliver either, and therefore thought he could not; and so presumes the same now; but God will make him quickly of another mind.

16 Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego answered and said to the king, O Nebuchadnezzar, we are not careful to answer thee in this matter.

† Or, need not to Gr.
* Mat. 10. 19.

† Heb. We care not, we may not, there is no need of any answer in this case, for it is in vain for us to deliberate and debate the matter; the King is resolved to have his will of us, and we are resolved on the contrary. For to obey him in this horrid thing, will be disobedience against our God, to the highest.

17 If it be so, our God whom we serve, is able to deliver us from the burning fiery furnace, and he will deliver us out of thine hand, O king.

They were indeed with a strong Faith in their God, not only as to his power which was omnipotent, and unlimited, but also as to his will, which readily inclined him to succour his servants in their distresses, for his name, according to his promise, and the Saints experience in the like cases of extremity.

18 But if not, be it known unto thee, O kings, that we will not serve thy gods, nor worship the golden image which thou hast set up.

They add this, but if not, to shew they did not presume to try God to this deliverance absolutely, for God is arbitrary, and knows how to deliver, and sometimes, to suffer his Saints to glorify him by suffering. g It was therefore all a case to them, which way of the two God would honour himself; they were resolved to venture suffering rather than sinning, and leave the cause to God.

19 Then was Nebuchadnezzar full of fury, and the form of his visage was changed b against Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego; therefore he spake and commanded, that they should heat the furnace one seven times hotter than it was wont to be heated.

Which appeared in his face, and in his words, taking this answer for the highest affront and provocation, which as the case stood he could not bear, the pride of his heart made his indignation boil over, and therefore he made the Furnace seven times hotter. Tyrants would burn the people of God if Hell itself they could.

20 And he commanded the most mighty men that were in his army, to bind a Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego, and to cast them into the burning fiery furnace.

What did he think these three men would have resisted? or that their God would defend them from this power, or that if he had, that the King and his mighty men could have prevailed, none of all this was in the case, for God purposed to shew his power, when the King did his worst, and to quench the violence of the fire, both of the Furnace, and of the Kings fury at once; and in the thing wherein he dealt proudly, to show above him.

21 Then these men were bound in their coats, their hosen, and their hats, and their other garments, and were cast into the midst of the burning fiery furnace.

This is observable and wonderful, that the fire should not catch their Garments, being the most obnoxious to it.

22 Therefore because the kings commandment was urgent, and the furnace exceeding hot, the flame of the fire flew these men that took up Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego.

Which made them the more hastily, and precipitate in their execution, and took less care for themselves, against the violence of the flame. A signal hand of God upon such a executed wicked commands, who though mighty men, had no might to escape the flame, at the mouth of the Furnace, when the other escaped in the midst of it.

23 And these three men, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego, fell down bound into the midst of a burning fiery furnace.

All this is expressed with emphasis, to make the power of God more glorious in their preservation; for that flame that flew the Executioners, might much more easily have consumed the three Children before they fell down.

24 Then Nebuchadnezzar the king was astonished, and rose up in haste, and spake and said unto his counselors, Did not we cast three men bound into the midst of the fire? They answered and said unto the king, True, O king.

This fear, perturbation and amazement, as the word signifies, surprized the King, being surprised with the strangeness of it, beholding something supernatural in it, together with the disappointment of his design and cruel command. The Lord extorted this confession from them, though enemies.

25 He answered and said, Lo, I see four men loose, walking in the midst of the fire, and they have no hurt; and the form of the fourth is like the son of God.

The fire gave light to see them, though it had no power of heat to burn them. f A Divine, most Beautiful and Glorious Countenance; either of a meer Angel, or rather, of the Christ the Angel of the Covenant, who did sometimes appear in the Old Testament before his incarnation, Gen. 12. 7. 18. 10. 13. 17. 20. &c. Exod. 23. 23. and 32. 2. Job. 1. 13. 14. 15. Prov. 8. 31. in all which places it is Jehovah, Gen. 12. 24. Exod. 3. 2. Mat. 7. 30. 33. 38.

26 Then Nebuchadnezzar came near to the mouth of the burning fiery furnace, and spake a and said, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego, ye servants of the most high God, come forth and come hither. Then Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego came forth of the midst of the fire.

As near as he durst come within hearing. a With a milder tone than before, God having abated the fire of his fury. Now he could at once contest and acknowledge the true God to be the most high above all gods, and the three Worthies to be his faithful servants. x They went out upon the Kings call, without which they would not have stirred.

27 And the princes, governors, and captains, and the kings counselors being gathered together, saw a these men, upon whose bodies the fire had no power, nor was an hair of their head singed, neither were their coats changed, nor the smell of fire had passed on them.

With great admiration, for the satisfaction of all by their sight of them, and by their smell. All the works of God are perfect, and there was nothing here wanting to make this wonderful deliverance complete. Here was a pure act of Gods Omnipotence, to divide between the fire and its most intense heat, and to make any Creature in the World in its height, by working against and above Nature, whose utmost sphere of activity is limited by God.

28 Then Nebuchadnezzar spake, and said, Blessed be the God of Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego, a who hath sent his angel, and delivered his servants that trusted in him, and have changed the kings word, and yielded their bodies that they might not serve nor worship any god, except their own God.

Thus out of the mouths of Blasphemers and Contemners of God, can the Lord ordain praise; yet all this did not draw of this King from his Idolatry, for he faith the God of Shadrach, &c., not his God. Wonders will not work Conversion, till God work upon the heart, *Dan. 29. 2. 3. 4. He blef. feth God for three things. 1. For sending his Angel to deliver his servants that trusted in him. 2. That they changed the Kings Commandment, i. e. frustrated it, and made it void, and convinced the King, and brought him to a better mind. 3. Therefore yielded their Bodies to the fire, and to his fury, by passive obedience, rather than not obey God actively, by worshipping any false god. 4. But only the true, whom they chose to be their own God. Observe also here the power of Faith, it quenches the violence of fire, *Job. 11. 34. and the presence of God with his people, even in the fire, and in fiery Tyrals, Job. 43. 2. 1 Pth. 1. 7. and 4. 12.

29 Therefore I make a decree, that every people, nation, and language, which speak a by any thing amiss against the God of Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego, shall be cut in pieces, and their houses shall be made a dung-hill, because there is no other god that can deliver after this sort.

Observe here, that though he doth not resolve to worship the true God, nor command others to do it, yet he would not allow the God of the Jews to be evil spoken of, this was all that he came up to. He was resolved to hold fast to the Religion Established, his own Idols, say the great golden idol, which had been flung and slogged by these three Worthies, he would not turn down and relinquish; this was the best quarrel the true God could get among them, not to be spoken amiss of under great penalty; though he confessed, no god else could deliver after that strange sort. Ed would not preserve his men out of the Furnace, God preserves his servants in the Furnace. All was one for that, Ed should be his God still.

30 Then the king promoted Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego in the province of Babylon.

They that honour God, them will God honour, is sufficient, and suffer shame and pains for God, is to honour God, Job. 21. 19. 1 Pth. 1. 14. It is probable that the Chaldeans used to reproach the God of the Jews, and more upon this account, because for his sake, these his servants refused conformity to Babylon's Idolatry; and their common quarrel with the people of God was upon the account of their Religion; thus here in this instance, and thus in Dan. 6. 4. 5. thus Heman, Elhanan 3. 8. Also for every thing they make them disloyal and breakers of the Kings Laws: Now God would vindicate his people herein, and made this great King to do it too, knowing it was a grief of heart for these men, Shadrach, &c. to hear the name of God abused by Idolaters, and profane wretches, and doubting they complained to the King of it, who did them this very severe decree, as long as it lasted, seeing the King moreover thought fit to promote them to honour, i. e. he did restore them to their places, as the word signifies, and made an addition to their former dignities.

CHAP. IV.

Nebuchadnezzar the king, unto all people, nations and languages that dwell in all the earth, Peace be multiplied unto you.

The Prophet Daniel here sets down another strange story after he had finished that of the three young men, but in the words of the Kings own Proclamation, that it might pass without doubt and credit, and without all dispute; being sent to all his vast Kingdoms, and questionless put into the Kings Archives, and Court rolls, as the manner was. These three first verses of this 4th Chapter, are improperly annexed to the end of the foregoing third Chapter, by some; seeing they are the Preface of the following History, d. i. e. All health and happiness, this was always the form of greeting and salutation among the Eastern Nations, comprehending peace, plenty, with uninterrupted joy and felicity in all comfortable enjoyments, and from them it came derived down to the Penmen of the New Testament, and notes more, even peace be God in Jesus Christ, Spiritual and Everlasting: Now the reason hereof was that War being the root of all misery, especially where all Government was Tyrannical, and when once it broke forth, it made all desolate; therefore Peace was as Heaven in comparison of the Hell of War, which made the Heathen poet Pindar the god of Riches in the bosome of Peace.

2 I thought it good to shew the Signs and wonders that the high God hath wrought toward me.

I did upon mature thoughts judge it very becoming me, yet it was my pleasure to let all the World know it. f. i. Signs and wonders, 2. wrought by the high God, 3. toward me, wherein I was personally concerned, these were his reasons why he made it known to the World.

3 How great are his signs! and how mighty are his wonders! his kingdom is an everlasting kingdom, and his dominion is from generation to generation.

These two words signify in their roots, admiration and astonishment; it seems these works of God had that impression upon this King; a great cause whereof was his ignorance of the true God, together with his own excessive Pride and Epicurism. God by this following dream, and Daniels instruction, had told him his fate, and that no Kingdom but Gods Kingdom, was Everlasting, which he had told him once before this, Dan. 2. 44. b This Confession of the King was upon conviction, and it looks somewhat like repentance, but the sequel proves him to be no changing, though God made prodigious mutations in his Kingdom, and in the form of his person, as ye see, verse 31. 32. of this Chapter; he was Memnonophor'd to a monstrous beast, and then to a man again, and yet no convert.

4 I Nebuchadnezzar was at rest in mine house, and flourishing in my palace.

At rest when his Wars were over, which were great, and he victorious, then I laid down quiet, enjoying the spoils of my enemies. c What was most magnificent, there I lived in all delights and grandeur.

5 I saw a dream which made me afraid, and the thoughts upon my bed, and the visions of my head troubled me.

There is no felicity in this World lasting; a black Cloud big with storm and tempest, spoils the fairest Sun-shine day. They that fear not God shall be frightened by him, God doth justly make Epicures and Tyrants uneasy in the midst of their fools Paradise, where if the fool faith in his heart there is no strength in that Kingdom. <sup>a</sup> That is till God put a stop to his career, for he held Aegypt not long, the Aegyptians found means to deliver themselves from his yoke when their King grew to riper years, yet against this did Antiochus fore-cast his devices, as faith the Text.

25 And he shall stir up his power and his courage against the king of the fourth with a great army <sup>b</sup>, and the king of the fourth shall be stirred up to battle with a very great and mighty army <sup>c</sup>; but he shall not stand: for they shall fore-cast devices against him <sup>d</sup>.

26 Yea, they that feed of the portion of his meat, shall destroy him <sup>h</sup>, and his army shall overflow: and many shall fall down slain.

<sup>i</sup> His most familiar Friends and Confidants, shall be False and Treacherous to him: so he shall be overthrown with a great slaughter, as when Nilus overflows the Country, for there was the Battle between mount Cafius and Phisium.

27 And both these kings <sup>j</sup> hearts shall be to do mischief, and they shall speak lies at one table <sup>k</sup>, but it shall not prosper <sup>l</sup>; for yet the end shall be at the time appointed <sup>m</sup>.

28 Then shall he return into his land with great riches <sup>q</sup>, and his heart shall be against the holy covenant <sup>r</sup>: and he shall do exploits, and return to his own land <sup>s</sup>.

<sup>t</sup> Antiochus shall depart with his booty gotten in Aegypt into his Kingdom of Syria, and he will contend with the bounds of that, Aegypt behind him. <sup>u</sup> Against the Law and Covenant of God, with the people that Worshipped God according to his Rule, and Will. <sup>v</sup> He shall greatly afflict and vex the People of God, yet was it a mercy they had this warning of this fore-tryal. Antiochus was a fit instrument of the Devil for this work, being rich and proud, and thought he might take his way: God permitting this horn to pull and gore, for his peoples fins, and for a preparation to his own ruin.

29 At the time appointed he shall return, and come toward the fourth <sup>w</sup>, but it shall not be as the former, or as the latter <sup>x</sup>.

30 For the ships of Chittim shall come against him <sup>a</sup>: therefore he shall be grieved and return, and have indignation against the holy covenant <sup>b</sup>: so shall he do, he shall even return, and have intelligence with them that forsake the holy covenant.

<sup>c</sup> i. e. The Romans out of Italy, and parts of the Archbishops, under them shall come with force and they shall vex and afflict him; for the Romans had Harbours for their Ships and Gallies in Cilicia, Macedonia and other Parts of those Coasts; whereby after they had subdued Greece, they purified Antiochus in Asia, and sent into Aegypt to prevent his going into Alexandria. <sup>d</sup> L. 45. This grieved and treated him: For when he ingirded and framed excuses, Philus the Roman Ambassador made a Circle about him with his rod, commanding he should not stir thence till he gave him a positive present answer, by which force against will he was fain to pack away out of Aegypt, and withdrew his Garrisons and Navy thence. This made his heart boil with rancour, which he put out, all going into Alexandria. <sup>e</sup> L. 45. <sup>f</sup> He shall, etc. <sup>g</sup> Especially being solicited to it by Tolm first, and Antiochus after, who were Apostates, and betrayers of their Brethren, and the true Worship of God, Macc. 4. 26, 27. <sup>h</sup> Because Onias was in power, thus they envied, therefore went to Antiochus.

shall place the abomination that maketh desolate.

32 And such as do wickedly against the covenant, shall he corrupt by flatteries <sup>n</sup>: but the people <sup>o</sup> that do know their God, shall be strong, and do exploits <sup>p</sup>.

<sup>q</sup> For by Gifts, Preferments, and Promises he drew away great multitudes of this wretched people of Judea, always bent to backsliding, to his Idolatrical and Heathenish practices and interest. <sup>r</sup> They that adhere to the true Worship of God and are zealous for it, shall form Antiochus's Gifts, and abhor his Ways, and defie his force, not loving their Lives to the Death; as you have many instances. 1 Macc. 1. 62, 63. 2 Macc. chap. 5, 6, 7, 8. and also how Judas Maccabeus and his few followers did exploits against Nicanor and others.

34 Now when they shall fall, they shall be holpen with a little help: but many shall cleave to them with flatteries <sup>x</sup>.

35 And some of them of understanding shall fall <sup>z</sup>, to try <sup>a</sup> them <sup>b</sup>, and to purge, and to make them white, even to the time of the end: <sup>c</sup> for <sup>d</sup> it is yet for a time appointed <sup>e</sup>.

<sup>f</sup> We see hereby that the best of men have some dross, which makes afflictions, yet fiery as necessary for them, for the work signifies all kind of examination and trials, etc. <sup>g</sup> Founders try Metals to purge them, or as Corn is winnowed to cleanse it from chaff, or as Fullers that wash and rake out spots, Mal. 3. 1, 2, 3. <sup>h</sup> Now mark here the spirit of God seems to slide into the Roman Monarchy, for this began in the Reign of Antiochus, so that he did begin that which the Romans afterward in process of time acted more highly against the Jews and Christians too. For Antiochus is made by all a Type of Antichrist; as Maddalus confessed, and thus you find the Prophet, and our Saviour too; David brings in Christ, Ps. 72. 8. when the rest is spoken of Salomon. So Ps. 110. 4. 49, 54, and 60. So our Saviour speaking of the Temple, speaks with it of the end of the World, and thus the end of this chapter is clearly of Antichrist, and this Prophecie of David ends with the World-end, therefore Antiochus is a Type of Antichrist, in his Pride, Covetousness, Craft, and Cruelty against the People of God, and blasphemies and idolatries to the reproach of Christ. Therefore it is here added, because it is yet for a time appointed.

<sup>g</sup> The King, i. e. The Roman Government, whether by the Senate, or by Emperors, or by the Bishop of Rome, who shall showe against the Imperial Power, not only from Rome, but from Italy, and all the Western Empire as far as he could by striking in with the barbarous Nations that invaded it, who are called Ten Kings. Read for all this Rev. 17. 11, 12, 13. as all the seven or eight Governments of Rome are called Horns, Horn Kings, etc. 10. 11. The summe is this, though it is granted some of these things are applicable to Antichrist, yet he is granted some of him here and hereafter, but by the by and very lightly. His main scope is Antichrist, as will appear in the interpretation. <sup>h</sup> Antiochus did according to his Will: he shall be Arbitrary in his actions notwithstanding any Cycles of Divine and humane Laws, the cause follows. <sup>i</sup> This is true of the Roman, who would defie what they please, and Antichrist in the time of the Emperors, but most notoriously of the Roman. <sup>j</sup> See how this agrees with that Prophecie. Rev. 17. 12. 1. 2. Then shall Antichrist come long and prevail, read for this, Rev. 13. 12. And that which God hath decreed to be done by him against the Saints shall be done, and that which God hath purposed to be done upon him, shall be executed also to his destruction.

<sup>c</sup> He shall so far degenerate from the rule of Christ, and from primitive Christianity, that he shall be the head of that Antichrist. 1. 2. Then shall Antichrist come long and prevail, read for this, Rev. 13. 12. And that which God hath decreed to be done by him against the Saints shall be done, and that which God hath purposed to be done upon him, shall be executed also to his destruction.

38 But in his estate shall he honour the God of <sup>a</sup> forces <sup>b</sup>: and a god whom his fathers knew not, shall he honour with gold, and silver, and with precious stones, and pleasant things.

<sup>c</sup> Martin of strength or strong holds, the Pharisees Worshiped the God of Wars, which Antiochus did Worship, but we are come to the Romans; and though many have conceived several kinds of this Antichrist, translated God of Forces, yet none comes nearer than Mr. Mede, who interprets it of Demeter, or rather Gods which the Romans should Worship with Christ, supposing them to be Angels or Saints: This is not to be thought a novel opinion, for many of the Fathers say that this Martin is the Idol that Antichrist should worship. So the meaning is that in Christ's seat or place the Temple, they should worship Saints and Angels with Christ, as the proposition imports together with Christ. Which is notorious they do, but which made this place obscure was, that men generally took this strange God for an Idol, which indeed the Jews call the Gentiles God, and so doth V. T. often, because foreign to the true God which were their God, but the true God was foreign and strange to the Romans because their Gods were Idols. Therefore the Philosophers called Christ, Emmanuel, a strange God, the God they should honour with Gold and Silver and precious stones, etc. Some vulgar Translates Antichrist for Antichrist, and we know too well how the Romishs adorn the Churches and Shrines of their patrons and tutelars Saints, Ps. 27. 1. and 28. 8. and 31. 3. And the Fathers sometimes fatally hit upon this expression at the first seeing, and honouring of Martirs, calling them foreign Holds, and foreign Towers of defence, but the Council of Constantinople called them the Devils foreign Holds, thus they called their Idols.

39 Thus shall he do in the most strong holds with a strange god <sup>a</sup>, whom he shall acknowledge and increase with glory: and he shall cause them to rule over many, and shall divide the land for gain <sup>b</sup>.

<sup>c</sup> A confirmation and ingemination of what he said before he shall use all Art and Authority to propagate this Idolatrous Worship. <sup>d</sup> We have laid by the interpretation of these things of Antiochus, though Paganis, Junius and others apply all to him, but the Angel speaks of the Romans, and its plainly verified of Antichrist, who did not only take upon him to dispose of Kingdoms and Provinces by usurped power, for his profit, drawing the Masses of Money from them, but upon a pretended Religious zealous, spreading the Ten Saints over them.

40 And at the time of the end shall the king of the south push at him <sup>a</sup>, and the king of the north shall come against him like a whirlwind with chariots, and with horsemen, and with many ships, and he shall enter into the countries, and shall overflow and pass over <sup>b</sup>.

<sup>c</sup> In the last times towards the end of the World, for it cannot be true of Antiochus who died the 11th. year of his Reign, and these things are joined to the last resurrection, chap. 12. 2. Therefore come understand the Turk, and Saracens, who is without the Church, as Antichrist beforementioned sat in the Temple, he extending his Dominions into Asia and Africa will be a great step to Antichrist's proceedings and innoventions. <sup>d</sup> i. e. The King of the North from India, and run down the Saracens, Medes.

41 He shall enter also into the most glorious land, and many countries shall be overthrown: but these shall escape out of his hand: even Edom, and Moab, and the chief of the children of Ammon <sup>a</sup>.

<sup>b</sup> When the Turk should subdue Judea those People of Edom, Moab and Ammon shall be left, because all along to this day thine

Arabians live partly by Robberies, and partly by Turk's Salaries to secure their Caravans their still live, and not be overthrown, by Medians.

42 He shall stretch forth his hand also upon the countries, and the land of Egypt shall not escape <sup>a</sup>.

<sup>b</sup> Though Aegypt (and the adjacent Countreys) have stood out under the Antiochus yet was forced to submit to the Emperor Anno 151.

43 But he shall have power over the treasures of gold and of silver, and over all the precious things of Egypt: and the Libyans and the Ethiopians shall be at his steps <sup>b</sup>.

44 But tidings out of the east, and out of the north shall trouble him <sup>a</sup>. Therefore he shall go forth with great fury to destroy, and utterly to make away many.

<sup>b</sup> The Christian Princes of the North, and the dispersed Jews, and the Jews carried Captive into the North, Ps. 137. 14, 15. called also Christ shall come, and trounce him, and all his power shall not be able to withstand. See Rev. 19. 12.

45 And he shall plant the tabernacles of his palace between the seas <sup>a</sup> in the most glorious holy mountain: yet he shall come to his end, and none shall help him.

<sup>b</sup> The Exilias, and Midianites, at Constantinople, and even to the Red Sea, in the glorious holy mountain in the Church of Christ Eastern, So the Turk, Or in the Western Seas, Midianites, and Arabians, to the Pope reaching to the Western Ocean; both Antichrists, one without and the other within the Temple of God.

C H A P. XII.

AND at that time shall Michael stand up, the great prince which standeth for the children of thy people <sup>a</sup>, and there shall be a time of trouble, such as never was since there was a nation, even to that same time: and at that time thy people shall be delivered, every one that shall be found written <sup>b</sup> in the book.

<sup>c</sup> Many interpret this of the heat of Antiochus his persecution Ps. 68. 28. but their arguments are not cogent, but the meaning is this as Ex. 87. 6. ter the death of Antiochus the Jews had some deliverance and Is. 4. 3. respire, so there will be yet a more famous deliverance to the Ezek. 13. 9. People of God when Michael your prince, i. e. Michael the Rev. 3. 15. Prince shall finally appear for your Salvation. He is called Luk. 10. 20. Prince because these words in their contexture refer not to Rev. 3. 5. and the times of Antiochus, but to Antichrist and to that part of them which are the last part. Yet I think the true meaning is to interpret these words, at that time, of the time of Christ, from his first coming to the last. These all are the last times wherein in God spake to us by his Son, Heb. 1. 1, 2, 3. to which Michael, answers well, i. e. who is like God, which notes his equality with God Phil. 2. 6. it was necessary Christ should now appear as a Prince to comfort his People against the oppression of Herod, and the Romans, by bringing in a glorious Salvation, which should wholly free the Elect Israel of God from the Roman yoke, both under the persecuting Emperors, and under Antichrist. Thus this Michael is called by a metaphor usual in Scripture, and drawn from the usage of men in many cases, namely writing for some elect mens names in a book, shewing that this Salvation shall not be National neither to Jews nor any Gentile Nation, but only a gathering together of the Elect of God which are scattered abroad called therefore a remnant, Rom. 9.

2 And many of them that sleep in the dust of the earth shall awake, some to everlasting life, and some to shame and everlasting contempt <sup>a</sup>.

<sup>b</sup> So innumerable are some of their notions though found false Act. 14. 15. and ill grounded that they will pertinaciously hold them, and seek still to prove one absurdity from another, as Grinius doth here, still expounding all of Antiochus, and so makes this Resurrection metaphorical and not the real ultimate one, whereas the most learned Jews themselves are against him, as the late Amplified Book Isaiah in his Book De Resurrectione.

3 And they that be wise, shall shine as the stars for ever and ever <sup>a</sup>.

<sup>b</sup> Here the faithful are called wise, i. e. to Salvation, and so these two members, include Teachers, and Disciples that are truly taught the way of Salvation, i. e. such as are taught of God to learn Christ as the truth is in Jesus, John 5. 45. Eph. 4. 21. <sup>c</sup> They that reach true justification by the righteousness of Christ, imputed to faith which is the item of the  Gospel, and expressed by righteous walking, they shall have high degree of glory. <sup>d</sup> By being righteous diligent and faithful instrument in the Lords hand by the word of God, and a holy example of the conversion of Souls from an evil state from an evil heart, and from an evil life unto God. They shall shine not in fame for a long time, as Grotius faintly renders it, but for ever and ever in heavenly glory as the words import.

4 * But thou, O Daniel, shut up the words, and seal the book, even to the time of the end; for many shall run to and fro, and knowledge shall be encreased.

By these words the Angel doth not forbid all knowledge of the things here foretold, for whatsoever is written is written for our learning, but the meaning is, that Daniel must take notice of the special favour of God to him to make to great discoveries of the Divine Secrets. 2. That they were intrusted with him to see the force and fruit of his humiliation and fervent Prayer. 3. That he should support and lay up these things for the support of the godly in their future deep afflictions. 4. That God would never utterly forsake his people, though their sins justly provoked his heavy hand upon them. 5. That these things be kept from the profane, who would make an evil use of them. 6. The Book was commanded to be sealed because it would be long ere the words would be all fulfilled, whereas those that were formerly to be fulfilled were forbidden to be sealed, see a Chron. 21. 12. Isa. 8. 16. Rev. 2. 10. 7. They shall diligently inquire and search the Prophecies concerning the fates of the Church, and shall see and admire both the Precidence and Providence of God concerning things to come; they shall know signs of the times, and wait upon God in the way of his judgements, see Pl. 77. 5, 6, 7. Isa. 25. 8. 1 Psa. 1. 10, 11, 12. The miserable Jews pervert this Scripture, and forbid the people by dire threatenings to search the times, namely lest they find thereby that Jesus Christ is the true Messiah. Thus are they wilfully and blindly blinded, Act. 28. 26. Rom. 11. 8. 1. He means chiefly in Gospel times, which came by the preaching of Christ and searching the Scriptures about it.

† Heb. 10.

5 Then I Daniel looked, and behold, there stood other two, the one on this side of the bank of the river, and the other on that side of the bank of the river.

Two Angels appearing and misinforming on Christ to observe his commands, by the banks of the River Tigris or Hiddekel where this new vision was.

* chap. 10. 5, 6.
Or from above.

6 And one said to the man clothed in linen, which was upon the waters of the river, how long shall it be to the end of these wonders. 1. To Michael, chap. 10. 5. Christ who seemed to stand between the Banks, i. e. in the air above the waters, or upon them, Matth. 14. 25. upon many people say some, Rev. 10. 2. The Angels themselves inquire into these things, for they do not know all, yea they are ignorant of many things, Matth. 24. 36. Eph. 3. 10.

* Rev. 10. 5, 6.

7 And I heard the man clothed in linen, which was upon the waters of the river, when he held up his right hand and his left hand unto heaven, and sware by him that liveth for ever, O that it shall be for a time, times, and an half, and when he shall have accomplished to scatter the power of the holy people, all these things shall be finished.

|| Or, 27.

Here he calls God to witness the truth of this thing; many reasons are given by sundry Expositors of it, why he held up both hands to Heaven. 1. For the more pure and solemn confirmation of it. 2. To denote the unchangeableness of Gods Decrees both for good to the Church, and for evil to her Enemies. 3. By God the Father, and by the Deity which was himself that liveth for ever, to shew the Eternal God only knew that decreed it, and would bring it to pass that he only is master of the times, Act. 1. 7. 4. It shall be for a long time, and yet a definite time. Some will have all this to be and end in Antichrist time, but we have proved before that this is a great mistake, and the Text and this chapter disproves that conceit. 5. Which reacheth to the healing of the Jews upon the destruction of Antichrist, for till he be down the Church will suffer and will not be up, which will fall out upon the pouring out the first vial, and after, Rev. 16. 1, 2. And the seventh vial, then all finish, Act. 17. See also 2 Thim. 2. 3. The judgment of Christ will not come, till the man of sin come and fall.

8 And I heard, but I understood not. Then said I, O my LORD, what shall be the end of these things.

1. i. e. What is the meaning of all this, of the times, times and half, when they begin and end; and when the Enemies of the Churches, and the sufferings of the Church shall have their end.

9 And he said, Go thy way, Daniel: for the words are closed up, and sealed till the time of the end.

They shall not be clearly understood, till the event make them good, see ver. 4. of this chap. and chap. 8. 25. God is choice in keeping the keys of time at his own girdle, Act. 1. 7.

10 Many shall be purified and made white, and none of the wicked shall understand; and the wise shall understand.

Of this purging, and purifying you heard afore, chap. 11. 35. the meaning is, the great afflictions of the Church are to prepare them by taking away their filth, for the Bidegroom; as Gold and Silver are tried and refined. 2. They shall be blinded, they know not what they do, viz. they shall not be bettered by the Word, or Rod, or any warnings of God, but be hardened to their ruin, but the godly shall be taught of God to understand the ways of Gods providence, foretold by the Prophets for this is it they are always minded of and commended for; particularly in this kind of wisdom, because it is obscure. 2. Because they are concerned greatly to know their safety, and Gods honour lies in it.

11 And from the time that the daily sacrifice shall be taken away, and the abomination that maketh desolate set up, there shall be a thousand two hundred and ninety days.

Blessed is he that waiteth, and cometh to the thousand three hundred and five and thirty days.

These days are either natural days, and properly so called, and to the times of Antichrist are hereby noted. Or 2. Prophetical days, a day for a year, Ez. 4. 6. and thus 1290 days is 42 months, which if we multiply at 30 days the month make the sum 12900. Here many learned Expositors fall in together to that opinion of calculating these years by days, being the 1290 days from the profaning of the Temple to the rising of Antichrist to the Time, a Math. 11. 27. and so make them to end exactly then: and concerning the Antichrist of desolation, whereof see what is said, Den. 7. 25. & 8. 14. & 25. being the Epocha from Apollonius coming, who was called the Prince of Abominations, or from the Worship of God forbidden by Antichrist, and at last restored by Judas Maccabaeus, and confirmed by Antichrist from thence to the death of Antichrist are 45 days, which added to 1290, make 1335, but this is a false account; and contrary to the scope of this place, and to History, and Chronology, which the learned Teteph Mide hath proved at large, lib. oper. III. pag. 882. The Jews make these days to end, i. e. years, at the coming of Christ but uncertainly then to begin their reckoning, but have been often and grossly deceived. Sound Christians refer it to the second coming of Christ. Mide makes the chief Revelation of Antichrist to be in 1179, the latter number of 1235, ends in An. Christi 1158, and to the Type of Antichrist which is Antioch. Epiph. leads us by the hand to the Revelation of Antichrist which fell out An. 1105, to An. 1120, between which time the Papal power was highly mounted the Church greatly persecuted, after that great numbers of them had separated from the abominations of Rome, openly declaring it to be Antichrist: Therefore the Angel faith, the Signs by their trials shall be purified, and made white; that is by due tried persecutions which befall them, from their ignorant and enraged Enemies, who went on to do wickedly and did not understand. How this is further cleared, and why the Angel makes use of the Roman supputation in this case namely by indications, and how it answers, and resolves the case, see in the forecited Author.

13 But go thou thy way till the end be: for thou shalt rest, and stand in thy lot at the end of the days.

Y have revealed to thee of these things what I had in Commission, that thou and thy people should be prepared for the sufferings which will come upon them, and yet not without hope of a glorious deliverance. 2. In which hope thou shalt dye, and rest from fear or feeling of trouble; till the Redirection of the just to the joys of another World. When some make to be here after all Enemies are destroyed, and to begin here and to be consummated in Heaven Eternally, comparing this with Rev. 19. 20, 21.

ANNOTATIONS ON H O S E A.

The ARGUMENT.

Without dispute our Prophet is one of the obscurest and most difficult to unfold clearly and fully; Though he come not as Isaiah and Amos do sometimes, nor as Ezekiel and Zechariah do frequently, with Visions; yet his Sententious and Concise Style, peculiar to himself, renders it many times difficult to find out first, and to declare next the genuine and undoubted sense of his Words. In Expounding this Prophet, the Expositor needs the Candor of his Reader, and the Reader owes his Expositor Thanks if he do make some darker passages fairly intelligible, though he do not demonstrate to be the only Sense of the place. This latter is not pretended to; the former 'tis hoped the Reader will find in the most, if not in every obscure passage. It was a very Debauched Age our Prophet did live in, and you will find him very sharp against the Vice of the Ten Tribes, and very plain and open in his threats for their sin, which he saw punished; for he lived to see Samaritan taken and Holmea made a Prisoner and the people carried Captives. As 'tis not agreed when he began, so nor is it agreed how long he continued to Prophesie.

The Kings of Judah and of Israel, in whose time he first appear'd a Prophet, were of long Reigns; the one forty one, the other fifty two; in which long space of time very different beginnings may be conjectured. All agree that he continued a Prophet very long, seventy years at least, and some add more years, and make them up ninety. The sum of what he prophesied is here given us in short heads, rather than in a continued Discourse. And as 'twas preach'd in Israel (though we read not of the places where Holmea either lived or died, or the Ten Tribes: it is most likely within the hearing of the Court) so it doth more particularly refer to Israel or the Ten Tribes: Declaring to them what were their Sins, advising them to Repent; promising them Mercy upon sincere Repentance; threatening grievous Judgments on their Impenitence; foretelling their Rejection if they did not amend; and, for the Comfort of the Godly, predicting Mercy to them; intermixing many Promises of the future Kingdom and Coming of the Messiah to whom many should be Converted, and by him be saved, and especially many of the two Tribes who hear from our Prophet a more comfortable Message (viz. of returning to their own Land) than Israel which must not expect any such return, i. e. for the whole Body of the People. And he closeth his whole Prophecie either with a form of Confession and Supplication for the remnant return'd, or a Prediction in what manner they would Return, Confess, Supplicate and Rely upon God alone; to which Duty performed, he adjoineth sweet and excellent promises containing both Temporal and Spiritual Blessings, Chapter 14.

CHAP. I.

THE word a of the LORD b that came c to Hosea d, the son of Beeri e, in the days f of Uzziah g, Jotham h, Ahaz i, and Hezekiah k, kings of Judah, and in the days of Jeroboam l the son of Joash m king of Israel n.

Or the command, and the thing commanded; or the prediction expressed in the very words God suggested by his Spirit to the Prophet, and the things too which are now foretold, for holy Men of God spake as they were moved, 2. Pet. 1. 21. and the things that were shortly to come to pass were revealed also (in the words of Rev. 1. 1.) Holmea shewes the things, and speaks them in words which God hath suggested to him. 1. The Eternal, as Grotius, Jehovah, Hos, which expresseth the Eternity and Infinite Being of our God, together with his Sovereignty, and absolute Authority over all. This is expressly added, to give warning to the Prophet to command audience, attention, reverence and submission in the hearers, and to intimate to them the certainty of execution if they repent not, and the certainty of performance of promise if they believe; for it is Jehovah who changeth not that speaketh both. 2. Or was with him, as it came to him so it did abide with him, made a deep impression upon his Mind. Prophets were too backward, rather than over-forward, to publish flat tidings to sinning People. Molt was unwilling to go to Pharadiz; Jeremiah was up on the Word till it grew like fire in his Bowels, too hot, and he could have no ease till he gave it vent. It is not unlikely the Prophet Hos intimates by this expression some such effect the Word of God had on him, he was full of the Prophetic Spirit, its motions were ever with him, and stirring within him. 3. A name that carrieth most comfortable news in the letter and signification of it, being the same with Yahna or Yah, and his word or message from God to the good was comfortable, it was assurance both of preservation and salvation, as will appear in process of his Prophecie. 4. Though some would have this Beri to be the same with Bira, 1 Chron. 5. 6. it hath no probability, the Names being different; beside that Beri was carried captive by Tiglah Pileser, and 'tis probable his Father was carried away with him; or if Hos had escaped his Fathers misapp, he would have given us at least some ground to believe by his words that he reformed the unhappiness of his Family in that respect, but we know the name of the Prophets Father, we know not his Tribe or Country, or of what quality he was, where he lived, or when he died. f. i. e. During the Reign, in the times; it is a Scripture expression of times. 2. Jerusalem called Antichrist, 2 King. 14. 21. and Oriz, Mat. 1. 8.

times to God, sometimes to Idols there were the high places chosen out by themselves, and where their Sacrifices offered to God were esteemed little else than Idolatry, Is. 57.
An other piece of idolatry they practised was, to worship the sun, moon, and stars, which is here added by the Prophet. This Idolatry abounded in Heb., where without count it would had been in use ever since their Revolt; if not before, Gen. 1. Gen. 28. Gen. 31. Gen. 35. Gen. 38. Gen. 41. Gen. 42. Gen. 43. Gen. 44. Gen. 45. Gen. 46. Gen. 47. Gen. 48. Gen. 49. Gen. 50. Gen. 51. Gen. 52. Gen. 53. Gen. 54. Gen. 55. Gen. 56. Gen. 57. Gen. 58. Gen. 59. Gen. 60. Gen. 61. Gen. 62. Gen. 63. Gen. 64. Gen. 65. Gen. 66. Gen. 67. Gen. 68. Gen. 69. Gen. 70. Gen. 71. Gen. 72. Gen. 73. Gen. 74. Gen. 75. Gen. 76. Gen. 77. Gen. 78. Gen. 79. Gen. 80. Gen. 81. Gen. 82. Gen. 83. Gen. 84. Gen. 85. Gen. 86. Gen. 87. Gen. 88. Gen. 89. Gen. 90. Gen. 91. Gen. 92. Gen. 93. Gen. 94. Gen. 95. Gen. 96. Gen. 97. Gen. 98. Gen. 99. Gen. 100. Gen. 101. Gen. 102. Gen. 103. Gen. 104. Gen. 105. Gen. 106. Gen. 107. Gen. 108. Gen. 109. Gen. 110. Gen. 111. Gen. 112. Gen. 113. Gen. 114. Gen. 115. Gen. 116. Gen. 117. Gen. 118. Gen. 119. Gen. 120. Gen. 121. Gen. 122. Gen. 123. Gen. 124. Gen. 125. Gen. 126. Gen. 127. Gen. 128. Gen. 129. Gen. 130. Gen. 131. Gen. 132. Gen. 133. Gen. 134. Gen. 135. Gen. 136. Gen. 137. Gen. 138. Gen. 139. Gen. 140. Gen. 141. Gen. 142. Gen. 143. Gen. 144. Gen. 145. Gen. 146. Gen. 147. Gen. 148. Gen. 149. Gen. 150. Gen. 151. Gen. 152. Gen. 153. Gen. 154. Gen. 155. Gen. 156. Gen. 157. Gen. 158. Gen. 159. Gen. 160. Gen. 161. Gen. 162. Gen. 163. Gen. 164. Gen. 165. Gen. 166. Gen. 167. Gen. 168. Gen. 169. Gen. 170. Gen. 171. Gen. 172. Gen. 173. Gen. 174. Gen. 175. Gen. 176. Gen. 177. Gen. 178. Gen. 179. Gen. 180. Gen. 181. Gen. 182. Gen. 183. Gen. 184. Gen. 185. Gen. 186. Gen. 187. Gen. 188. Gen. 189. Gen. 190. Gen. 191. Gen. 192. Gen. 193. Gen. 194. Gen. 195. Gen. 196. Gen. 197. Gen. 198. Gen. 199. Gen. 200. Gen. 201. Gen. 202. Gen. 203. Gen. 204. Gen. 205. Gen. 206. Gen. 207. Gen. 208. Gen. 209. Gen. 210. Gen. 211. Gen. 212. Gen. 213. Gen. 214. Gen. 215. Gen. 216. Gen. 217. Gen. 218. Gen. 219. Gen. 220. Gen. 221. Gen. 222. Gen. 223. Gen. 224. Gen. 225. Gen. 226. Gen. 227. Gen. 228. Gen. 229. Gen. 230. Gen. 231. Gen. 232. Gen. 233. Gen. 234. Gen. 235. Gen. 236. Gen. 237. Gen. 238. Gen. 239. Gen. 240. Gen. 241. Gen. 242. Gen. 243. Gen. 244. Gen. 245. Gen. 246. Gen. 247. Gen. 248. Gen. 249. Gen. 250. Gen. 251. Gen. 252. Gen. 253. Gen. 254. Gen. 255. Gen. 256. Gen. 257. Gen. 258. Gen. 259. Gen. 260. Gen. 261. Gen. 262. Gen. 263. Gen. 264. Gen. 265. Gen. 266. Gen. 267. Gen. 268. Gen. 269. Gen. 270. Gen. 271. Gen. 272. Gen. 273. Gen. 274. Gen. 275. Gen. 276. Gen. 277. Gen. 278. Gen. 279. Gen. 280. Gen. 281. Gen. 282. Gen. 283. Gen. 284. Gen. 285. Gen. 286. Gen. 287. Gen. 288. Gen. 289. Gen. 290. Gen. 291. Gen. 292. Gen. 293. Gen. 294. Gen. 295. Gen. 296. Gen. 297. Gen. 298. Gen. 299. Gen. 300. Gen. 301. Gen. 302. Gen. 303. Gen. 304. Gen. 305. Gen. 306. Gen. 307. Gen. 308. Gen. 309. Gen. 310. Gen. 311. Gen. 312. Gen. 313. Gen. 314. Gen. 315. Gen. 316. Gen. 317. Gen. 318. Gen. 319. Gen. 320. Gen. 321. Gen. 322. Gen. 323. Gen. 324. Gen. 325. Gen. 326. Gen. 327. Gen. 328. Gen. 329. Gen. 330. Gen. 331. Gen. 332. Gen. 333. Gen. 334. Gen. 335. Gen. 336. Gen. 337. Gen. 338. Gen. 339. Gen. 340. Gen. 341. Gen. 342. Gen. 343. Gen. 344. Gen. 345. Gen. 346. Gen. 347. Gen. 348. Gen. 349. Gen. 350. Gen. 351. Gen. 352. Gen. 353. Gen. 354. Gen. 355. Gen. 356. Gen. 357. Gen. 358. Gen. 359. Gen. 360. Gen. 361. Gen. 362. Gen. 363. Gen. 364. Gen. 365. Gen. 366. Gen. 367. Gen. 368. Gen. 369. Gen. 3 coolest relics, Ezek. 20. 22. * Convenient for the Sacrificers, while the smoke and smell of the Sacrifice went up through the boughs, and the coals of the thady place kept their persons from sultry heat, it may be they thought (as the Heathen did) that the Nazir, Deity delighted to dwell, or be often in such places. * For their fins of yours, though you account them no fins, for your harmonizing with Heathenish superstitions, for your leaving your temple, and against your own Sacrifice where best lieth you. * Shall dishonour themselves, and their Families, by their lewdness and unlawful converse with Fornicators. The fin of the Fathers is thus punished, that they might fee Gods just laid punishment, and the sin punished: Here is spiritual whoredom punished with giving up Daughters to their wandering lusts. * Or spouses of your fins, as Galile Carion, a great unlearned man, says, you are to be divorced and wronged by Adulterers, and a grievous punishment where, or whenever executed; and this is here foretold, ('twill be so) not countenanced.

[Or, shall it be.]

14 I will not punish u your daughters when they commit whoredom r; nor your spouses when they commit adultery r; for themselves r are separated with whores u, and they sacrifice with harlots x: therefore the people that doth not understand y shall fall z.

[Or, shall it be.]

* Or visit upon your daughters; God will not any more lay on them such restraints, as remarkable punishments are usually to all that observe them. They are threatened thus to be thrown up to their own hearts, as others lusts. * And against your own Law which directed the correction and punishment of such fins, and do you think I will by extraordinary courses refrain, where you cast off the ordinary? * You shall have no bitter water of jealousy to discover, convict and torment an Adulterous Wife, as Judah hath, Numb. 5. 12. nor will I by unusual strokes of my hand imite them. This impunity will increase your grief and shame, and so you shall be punished. * The husbands and Fathers are example to Wives and Daughters: They are separated with the lewd women, which either they took to them upon putting away their lawful Wife, which these men did to satisfy their lusts, or else separated, i. e. withdrawn from the company of their fellow Idolaters, that in privacy they might commit whoredom with the women they chose to themselves for that end. * Perform the rites of Sacrifices, both in offering fire, and in offering wine, in which feasts wine and women would prove great and prevalent temptations to whoredom among those men. * By all this it is evident, this people is a forthright ignorant people, that know not God, as Exod. 1. 6, 11. * Be utterly ruined, broken into pieces, and scattered, broken at their own fault by inelusive wars, past foreign invasions, and carried away at last by conquering enemies.

15 * Though thou Israel play the harlot u, yet let not Judah b offend c, and come not y d unto Gilgal e, neither go ye up to * Beth-aven f, * nor swear, The LORD liveth g.

* This sumneth up the fins, the Idolatries of the ten Tribes, and is a caution to visit next follows. * Either by way of exhortation or admonition, or Prayer, and with for the tribes which flock to the house of David, as to the Temple. * Commit like fins as Israel hath done, imitate none of their Idolatry; possibly the Prophet saw Judah inclin'd to backslide, or this might be preach in the beginning of Ahas his Reign. * You of Judah who have the Temple and house of God with you, who have hitherto been preserved from Idolatry Idolatry. * A place near Jordan, where the twelve tribes were pitched, Josh. 4. 5. the Camp was pitched, Circumcision revived the Passover kept, Josh. 5. 2, 3. there Jehoiada divided the land, Josh. 14. 6. there the Tabernacle was at first pitched after they came over Jordan, and there they Sacrificed. * There was in Abiah time a College of Prophets, and now whether out of reverence to the place, or for what other reason, or what other reason, it matters not, the certain is, this Gilgal was chosen out by Jehoiada by succeeding Idolaters, for a place of publick Worship of their Idols, and grew famous for it. Go not up to parake of their idolatry, or to learn it. It is a concile speech, which forbids all the fins committed at Gilgal. * Which is Bethel where Jehoiada lodged, had a vision of Angels, and a more comfortable vision of God, who appeared to Jehoiada, who for this gave name to the place, and called it Beth-el, house of God; but when Jeroboam made Beth-el the place for his Calf Worship, it became, and is called Beth-aven, house of vanity or vanity. Go not thither to worship, 'tis as the former, a prohibition of being of that Religion which was in use at Beth-aven, and had been the Establishment Religion for two hundred years, or thereabouts, viz. ever since Jeroboam time. * This is in it self a lawful Oath, and may be used, but in the circumstances where it is here attended, it is forbidden, because many who went thither were intended there to sacrifice only to the true God, that they own'd him the only living God, revered him, swore by him, though they went up to Beth-aven of Gilgal, yet they worshiped God there. This is a Synecdoche, a part being put for the whole worship of God, which the Prophet warns them not to blend and mix with idolatry, which was done before Jehoiada time, Zeph. 1. 5. which see, with the Annotations on it.

16 For h Israel i slideth back, as a backsliding heifer k; now l the LORD m will feed them as a lamb in a large place n.

* There is just cause why Judah should not imitate Israel, and this cause is here assigned. * The ten Tribes, i. e. Garon half, fed and wanted, will neither endure the yoke to work, nor be confined in her allowed Pastures, breaks over all bounds, calls off all service, so is Israel, as Lev. 7. which see. * Ere long, or suddenly, id. Chap. 2. ver. 12. * Offended by their fins, and provoked to disputation. * In their sinning they were like an untamed heifer, boundless, strong, and stood upon their defence, but in their punishments, they shall be like a lamb, full of fear, full of fears, in a large place or Wilderness, where no safety, safety or provision. Such shall be the condition of the ten captivated Tribes. This is a Proverbial speech, setting forth the forlorn state, which Israel ere long should fall under.

17 Ephraim o is joyned p to idols: let him alone q.

* The children of Ephraim were numerous and potent among the ten Tribes, a principal part of them, and out of which Tribe the first Idolater and Urapier did arise, 1 King. 11. 25. and therefore the whole body of the ten Tribes, and the men among them are here particularly pointed at. * Affiliated as friends to friends, or joined as lovers are joined to lovers. Married to Idols, and will not be taken off. * He is indeed obstinately bent on his old courses, and as he alone throw him, he will not return, let him wander, but let it be such, id. id. he will not his Companion, his friend, go not with him.

9 of Of the Kingdom of Judah, or the Two Tribes. I have been, and now are, in the days of Azaz, for to this mans time the Prophet now pointeth. ¶ The ancient bounds which I limited every one, prevented countenance, and gave no encouragement towards much. ¶ The Prophet I do not aim at, but to shew in this time, how great ones in changing the Laws of Religion, as well as altering the bounds of Civil Rights, whether by encroaching upon Foreigners, and enlarging the Kingdom of Judah by encroaching on the Neighbouring Kingdoms, or which is more certain by injustice and violence, increasing what was others. This was the way to ruin, Detriment, and Destruction. ¶ In this way, I say, I will go on, and God now will punish him, as he Liketh an overbearing power.

11 Ephraim n is oppressed o and broken in judgment p: because he q willingly walked r after the commandment s.

* The Subjects of the Kingdom of Israel, the Ten Tribes, the Prophet rebuketh this Tribe against them. * Supposing, as well we may, that this Prophecy respecteth their time; it will appear that Zichabai, Shilaim, Abner, Jechebiah, and Pekah's Reigns were paff, which were unjust, Seditious, Bloody, and Tyrannical times in which oppressions abounded; and of which our Civil Wars now speaketh. The Ten Tribes are by Seditious, Civil Wars, and bloody times, and by the Tyranny of the Afflicters, who will add his displeasure, and the Afflicters shall be the Executioners, and shall oppress Ephraim. p. i. e. Through fear of the partiality of the Judge, though his cause be equal and just, yet Money, or Money-worship is extorted, to prevent an unjust, or to procure a just Sentence; as known clearly in such days as these. The Prophet liveth in, or as the days of Jerusalem, and Ephraim liveth in, or as the days of Jerusalem. The Afflicters perhaps to intimate the universal defection. * It was not a force upon them, yet they did willingly. Though there was a Law commanding, yet there was in the people a forwardness, and too great a readiness to comply and obey that Law which made Idolatry the Establishment in the Ten Tribes. * To do as they go to the Temple; and to worship the Idols at Dor and Bethel, as Jeroboam King of Israel.

CHAPTER VI

COME a, and let us return unto the LORD b: for * he hath torn c, and he will heal us d: he hath smitten e, and he will bind us up f.

* The former Chapter ended with a Declaration of Gods Mercy, upon our choice one; He has by his great diftrefses Repented; and to seek him whom they haile-faken ; This Chapter begins with a Declaration of the Justice of this project. The Prophet therefore brings them in, reproving and calling upon one another, and encouraging one other ; the pharise you have Iſa. 2. 3. Mich. 4. 2. &c. : let us be wifer at last, Idols have not profited us, yet we are firmer in our fall, we forsake our Foundation, Living stones hearts leave Idols, and return to the Lord ; let us all turn them off, and breake our selves to the Worſhip, Obedience, Love, and Fear of the Lord, the only true, and Eternal God. ¶ We now fee his hand in all we suffer, and in all his, we own it very juſtly; we, like froward Rebels ſhall receive help from his enemies, he will be angry with us, we shall hear his voice, he will roar, as his voice in the judgement like the roaring of a Lion, hath awakened us ; and our bleeding wounds have told us, that God hath done all this against us, and all this because we were departed from him. ¶ For to ſeide his mercy inclining him, we know was his designe by our course to recover us himself; and we are afraid he will depart from him, and we shall be perished, but his word will stand, till we shall be willing to be healed ; he will cure us by his Physician, and by his Lentives will give, and we are, now his greater course hath abated our phrensie. Aflyrian King could not but fretts God and King can, and will treat. ¶ The same thing tender Chirurgion binds up with Plasters, and swatches to heal.

2 * After two dayes g will he revive us b in the third day he will raise us up i, and we shall live k in his sight l.

3. The Lord now enters a debate with, both Ish'el (here called Ephraim) and with the Two Tribes with all that were his people antiently; much after the manner of them, who having to do with forward, and ungovernable Children, or Servants whom they pity, and would not cast off after much kindness and patience shewed to them, and abused by them, at last turn at a froward, what more to do, or appeal to by-flanders whether more might be done, or demand of the untractable ones what they can defer or refuse.

196. And Mich. 6. 3. what is it I may do becoming my Holy, Just, and Wife procedures, with my reasonable Creature? What should I do more to save you from ruin, and the Ten Tribes, and Truth, and Justice? Would you of cease to be God, and resign to the Two Tribes, have me own Laws, and fabricate to your Idols rites? Or repeat my have Satan the wicked one, who hath seduced your Kings, Prophets, Priests, and People whom you Worship in your Idols, allow you that he should fill retain your Love and Affection? I maintain you in it? I would do as appears what I have done. And that way that may be done to reduce, reclaim, and reform you, who as Impudent Adulterers, that will not be kindreds, your Love to me, my Law, Worship, and Honour, or your promises of Love and Fidelity. Am. viii. Vanishing without effect, it is deceitful, you are Hypocrites, Am. viii. Vanish but shore and signs of Goodness, Piety, and Amendment. Am. viii. Their hypocric and unconfancy elegantly exprest in this double allusion renders them uncapable of further gentleness.

8 Because I would do for you whatever might be done, and make ye proud of your own Obstinacy and Hypocriticality, and threaten and confound, y<sup>e</sup> I have feverently, continually, and unceasingly by the Prophets reproved, warned or harshed folks: I have seen many Prophets like Labourers, and my Words like Axes or Hammers, which have cutt downe how of the roughness which make unfit for use, both all to no purpose, the desired effect hath not been attained, & some that were before Elisha, Ishobab first was by a prophet reprov'd, and threatened for this Idolatry in which Israhel perished, and many other Judah did too often fall, and through the space of two Hundred years from Ishobab the first, to Holo's time, many of them men, we have Elijah, whose Names, and some memories of them, we have Elijah, Isaias, Hannani, Elishah, and Ahab. These and such like were the prophets who did rebuke the crooked, and knotty Israhel. A Some say the said prophets are the persons meant here, whom God did lay for their sinning Israhel too, and confirming them in, Idolatry; indeed Elisha sincere zeal did cut off so many, 1 Kings 18. 22, 40. and Isaias true heartfull zeal cutt off so many, 2 Kings 10. 21, 29. and yet many false prophets forgot when that people, of the thing true in our Text were were slain for this sin, yet they were the people of Israhel and Judah, the people of the relation Hypocrites among them, Whom God threatened with death and destruction by the sword of enemies. As he said by his word Jeremias 17. 10, he did effect too in due time, i. e. The punishments foretold, the miseries foretold which fell upon this people, and so farre as it might the prediction that every one might see clear as day light, and asconitantly executed, as the moralists, So 2 Kings 23. 26.

b I told them by my Prophets what I require<sup>d</sup> of them by Covenant, but could not obtain it: they regarded, not what I said, but what I did. Some take it for proper Name; and to refer it unto the first Man, and his breaking Covenant; and for ought I see, it may well enough refer to him, who forgot, or slighted the threat: who judged of what he might escape, and what he might not; who thought he might get, and what he appear<sup>d</sup>, as a small matter to be contemned, and slighted my threats, and his sin was the more heinous, and the more heinous the times when Sacrifices are to be offer<sup>d</sup> as no Material circumstances, and therefore do choose what places they please, and appoint what Priests think them best to offer, or else transgress the Covenant, as if it were no Covenant, or as if man like themselves, might be his own God, who direct and govern their obedience, and which was the cause of their disobedience and cursed it. I that very place, the good Land which by Covenant I gave them, they have broken my Covenant, or in the things in which they thought they kept Covenant, in their Sacrifices, and observing the Sabbath, and in the things which I have forbidden. Very Truly, and in these things they transgressed my Law: Very Truly, and in these things they have perverted my Law; their disobedience is a design<sup>d</sup> perditionalness. I told them obedience, not sacrifice; they reply Sacrifice, and I told them, they give no Obedience, though they offer many Sacrifices.

8 Gilead n is a city of them that work iniquity. Or, coming to o: and is || polluted with blood p.

8 Gilead n is a city of them that work iniquity: and is || polluted with blood p.

One of the five Cities of Refuge, Gilead, in the Country of that Name, on a high hill, whence it's called Ramoth Gilead, now as a City of Refuge it was a City pertaining to the Priests and Levites as all the Cities of Refuge did, in what Tribe forever they were. Numb. 35. 6. A Sacerdotal City where Priests did, and Religion; i. e. Knowledge of God, and mercy to man should dwell, but Gilead is a City full of most notorious transgressors, the Inhabitants though Levites and Priests, are a generation of men that work all manner of wickedness. p Murders committed there have polluted it. Murders protected there against the Law of God, who provided these Cities a relief for such as were weary, without malice, by chance flew his Neighbour, nor for wilful Murders; yet there for Money or Interest got in and were secured there. And probably many kept out or delivered up to the avenger of Blood contrary to the Law, thus Gilead by Name, and all the rest of the Cities of Refuge intended too, were polluted with Blood.

g What is here charged upon these Priests, they turned Highway-men and Murderers; some understand of their killing and poisoning those that were going up to Jerusalem to worship God there: as if that in this Glorious City were many Murderers who durst not go out, nor could govern their livelihood within the City, but reduced to frairs, took this wicked course for a livelihood, Rob'd and Murder'd of the High-way, and then divided the prey with the Priests, whose content to the thing was, that they were not guilty, thus in this manner they do most lewd things, or these things are done and encouraged by the Priests, because they make it their business, it is their Trade now to contrive and advise wickedness, highest wickedness; or if you rather like it in this kind, the Priests by complicity in rapine, and rob, and Murder, make it like a Trade, which rob, ravens, and Mur-

CHAP. VII.

1 WHen I would have healed Israel b, then the iniquity of Ephraim d was discovered e, and the †wickedness f of Samsa†ria g: for they commit falsehood h: and the thief cometh in i, and the troop of robbers †spoileth without k.

2 Whether this Chapter be a new Sermon, or a continuation of that begun Chap. 6. we need not enquire, nor are there any particulars by which we can guess at the time when this healing work was attempted, but so soon as 'twas endeavour'd indefinitely 'tis spoken, and so to be interpreted 't God doth assume the person of a Physician or Chirurgion who compassionately endeavour'd to cure the people of Samaria. Such was the nature of Isaiah, the whole body of the people. 3 The hidden, old, and purifying forces here called Levites, the impieties and iniquity of Isaiah called Ephraim, or of Ephraim the chief Tribe of this revolting Kingdom, frow'd here it mean the Rulers, or principal men. 4 Broke out as many times in cures of old fires it happens, it deeper and more rooted Diffemper unthought of by the Chyrurgion appears, and the more the disease is cur'd, the more it appears of the Kingdom, where Citizens, Priests, Prophets and Counsellors as such outfin'd others as they exceeded them in wealth and ease. 5 Where lying and coufining each other is acted as it were a business they were bound to attend. 6 Secret thefts, or robbing others by subtle and uninform'd methods. 7 And open violence by hands joined by the Chyrurgion. 8 And the strength of the Kingdom, and their efficacie appears in increasing the more and more under endeavours to heal them.

2 And they l † consider not in their hearts m <sup>that</sup> I remember all their wickedness n: now their own doings o have beset them about p, they are before my face q:

17 They who are thus greatly wicked, notorious sinners: a Do not remember, nor will they once seriously ponder this: a That I feel all thy doings, and remember all I see, and that: with more than an idle unactive looking on, or retaining in memory, I look on, and remember to call them to account, and to punish for their sins. They would flatter themselves into an opinion that I take no notice of their wickednesses, and that I will never require it. a The guilt and punishment, the iniquity, and mischief of the sinners, they know, their own doings, on their Wickedness Hypocrites and the incorrigible are ready to complain. a As Cards wrap one taken in them, so or an Eagle my evils and counterfeit a Town on every side, I see these profligate people, Courtesiers, Priests, Prophets and Citizens are all deluded with their own sins. a What they have done I do see, and what they suffer I do see, and it is but just they should suffer what their sins deserve: they hoped for impunity, because they thought I did not regard, and would not by a just punishment, by all my measures of discipline upon them, they thought and by their ways were under my eye, and that I should be their Judge.

3 They r make the king glad with their wickedness, and the princes r with their lies.

g) Either the Subjects in general, or rather the Courtiers particular who were about the King. f) The Kings of France every one of them, from first to last were addicted to vicious pleasures, and their minds were vitiated, deeply tainted with all kind of sins, and they it seems took pleasure in sins, both in their own and other mens, and here are a parcel of flagitious fellows that make it their work to invent pleasing wickedness, to acquaint their King with it, who is so far from doing his duty in discountenancing it, that 'tis one of his delights to hear or see it. g) Great men about the Court. a) With false accusations brought in against the more Innocent, or by false reports made of their words and actions, representing them as ridiculous or foolish, drolling them into infamy.

4 They are all adulterers x as an oven heated by the baker y, || who ceaseth from || raising <sup>it</sup> <sub>10,</sub> after he hath kneaded the dough until it be leavened <sup>and</sup> <sub>10,</sub> z Both spiritually, and carnally, and this latter Adultery is that which here is charged on the Courtiers, and people of f-rail. y This vice is grown raging hot among them as you fee the fire in an Oven, when the Baker having called up those that make the bread, to prepare all things ready, and the whole Ma is leavened : He doth by continued supply of Fuel hear the Oats to the highest degree. So doth Adultery among this people grow by degrees to raging flames. The whole Mas of the people are leavened with this vice also, as well as the Court, and every one enflamed with this unclean fire, as the Oven heated by the Baker.

baker i sleepeth all the night, in the morning burneth as a flaming fire k.

g Surely if Those Luxurious and Drinking Princes, etc. g Do keep close flame fire of Ambition, Revenge, or Covetousness, like as a Baker keeps a hot fire within his Oven. h That they may not burn the Life of the People, and so bring them again the Life or Estate of some of their fellow Subjects, or it may be as appears 2 Pet. 7. against the Life which they feed in their Cups to pray for. i He who should avoid and prevent mischief, is swallowed up in the day with Fear and Drunkenness, and sleeps in security all the night, not ever suspecting the projects of Conspirators. k But when the day is too late, he feels all in flames, and puff quenching Sedition and Rebellion is among them a fire as hateful to God as dangerous to the publick; yet frequently acted by the Unbelievers of this world.

7 They l are all m hot as an oven n, and have devoured o their judges p: all their kings q are fallen r, * there is none among them that calleth unto me s.

13 Ephraim  $\epsilon$ , as I saw Tyrus  $\delta$ ,  $\delta$  planted in a pleasant place  $\epsilon$ ; but Ephraim shall bring forth his children to the murderer  $f$ .

$\epsilon$  Kingdom of Israel.  $\delta$  of which see Ezek. 25, 27, and 28.  $\epsilon$  a very rich, well fortified, and pleasant City, and secure too, that afterward held thirteen years siege against all the Power of the  $\delta$  Babylonian Empire in  $\delta$  Nebuchadnezzar's time.  $\epsilon$  Is now well provided seems invincible, as secure, as Tyrus was in her prosperity; perhaps reckons either strength shall be in her Enemies, or money buy friends; or the magnificence and beauty of their places and dwellings shall be some defence to them; but all this shall avail nothing.  $\delta$  Though multitude of Children to defend forth in mighty Armies against the Enemy, yet will be but a sending them out to the slaughter; God is departed from them, and will not go out with their Armies; to they shall fall by the sword of the Enemy, as they needs must, whom God doth not defend in a War.

14 Give them O LORD  $\epsilon$  what wilt thou give  $\delta$  give them  $\epsilon$  a micarrying waltz and dry breasts  $f$ .

$\epsilon$  It is an abrupt but very pathetic speech of one that shows his trouble for the fate of a linking, undon Nation, is an intercession for them.  $\delta$  As if he should say he knew not what to ask; or how to pray for them; he knew God had peremptorily determined to punish them with a total extermination, and in most dreadful manner, as described in 16, 17, 18. Now give some mercy; the days are coming when the barren womb will be a blessing; give this O Lord  $\delta$ . 'tis less misery to have none than to have all our Children murdered by a barbarous Enemy.  $\delta$  23, 29.  $\epsilon$  Not to have the Children born, but 'tis further expiation of the former; dry Breasts are Symptoms of barren womb, whether by Abortion, or non-Conception; by one or other: Prevent these woful Effects of our Enemies unjust rage, and of their most righteous displeasure against us, O Lord.

15 All I their wickedness  $\epsilon$   $\delta$  in Gilgal  $\delta$  for there I hated them  $\epsilon$ ; for the wickedness of their doings  $\delta$ , I will drive them out  $\epsilon$  of mine house  $\delta$ , I will love them no more  $\epsilon$ :  $\delta$  all their princes  $\delta$  are revolters.

The chief, or sum, or beginning, is not to be understood exclusive to other places, for every City was full, there was all kind of sin elsewhere.  $\delta$  In rejecting God and his Government; here Saul was made King, and Samson was rejected. Here they began to turn the remarkable Blessings of God into a Curse into a Superstition and Hypocrisy, and Veneration of the place, and began their Will Worships and Idolatries: If all the Impiety of Ephraim may be reduced to their horrible degeneracy and Corruption in State and Church, here it began, and so it was here.  $\delta$  Where Israel first pitched their Tents after they passed over Jordan, see  $\delta$  Vid. cap. 15, 16, 17.  $\epsilon$  As there they began to sin so notoriously, there also I hate to see them  $\delta$  I loved them  $\delta$  for the continued wickedness which from their first beginning they have propagated to other places, and increased daily, and with obduracy.  $\delta$  As men thrust out of their houses one that is altogether unworthy to dwell longer with them.  $\delta$  By a Synecdoche, the House for Land, or out of their House, which they for a while, was yet Gods property, and when God calls them out of his House, he sends him into Captivity.  $\delta$  I will cease to express any more love to thee, it is a Misdeed, I will add no more to love them,  $\delta$  I will add to hate them, and punish them.  $\delta$  I will leave them in the hand, and under the fury of their Enemies in a Strange Land.  $\delta$  Their Kings, Rulers both Civil and Ecclesiastical.  $\delta$  A Re and have been idolaters ever since the Division in Jerusalem Son of David, not one of their Kings but were idolaters, and obstinate, and perverse in it all.

16 Ephraim is smitten  $\epsilon$ , their root is dried up  $\delta$ , they shall bear no fruit  $\epsilon$ ; yea, though they bring forth  $\delta$ , yet will I lay even the  $\delta$  beloved Fruit of their womb  $\delta$ .

$\epsilon$  This gives us some glimpse at the time of this prophecy, which was after Jeroboam's Death, in whole Life, and Reign, Ephraim was as a very flourishing Tree, whose roots were full of Sap and Life; but after the Death of this King, who was as "except a Tree fruitless, as if scorched with lightning, or burnt up with a violent and continued heat and drought by day; blasted they were, what ever was the means; or possibly it may refer to those Seditions, Civil Wars, and Rebellions Conspiracies which (as I have said) for some years afflicted the Kingdom of the Ten Tribes, which unnatural Wars were as an Ax to the Root of this Tree, and gave  $\delta$  King of Assyria opportunity and courage to lay upon them, of whom they were as forced to buy their peace at a dear rate, viz. a thousand Talents of silver; or to the captivity of Nabathai, and taking many fortified Towns out of Peki's hand by Tiglath Pileser, who came up to the rescue of Ahab, 2 Kings cap. 15.  $\delta$  This hath dried up the very Roots of this Tree; this blast from Heaven hath not only scorched the top boughs, but rended the very body of this flourishing Tree, and hath spoiled its Roots; or Civil Wars first, and Persecutions were next have been the Roots of this Tree, the strong and valiant young men, who were to perpetuate the life and beauty of this people.  $\delta$  As such a dead root cannot bring out; so these Ephraim never shall spring forth, they shall ever be barren.  $\delta$  Suppose they should yet The summary of the first part of this verse seems to be, That we should hasten, yet with solicitude, out of Egypt, whither I fled for shelter, like as a bird that hath been cast out of her nest hither to it; others like doves shall hasten out of Syria unto Judea, but with fear and solicitude, which cannot attend them in a land though their own, yet now desolate and horrid under 180 years devastation since Salmanser trans-sorted them, i. e. 110 years before and 70 years concurrent with the first Captivity in Babilon. If They find none but I will place them in houses, and they shall be theirs too. It is a very feasible and comfortable Promise, and suited to the state and wants of those returning Exiles and in the letter of it refers to them, and they as Types of what is more mysteriously and more darkly contain'd in them; viz. the gathering of Believers from all quarters to Christ with the Alacrity and speed which Birds make in flying to their nests, and Gods providing Manifestions of rest for them. Well remembered here in these similes.

11. And in this prophetic speech denoting the ill-fattery of Ephraim, his (savouring himself with hopes as unfit to sustain him, as the Wind is to feed the body and nourish it), in his Religious pretensions he did, hypocrite like, compare God with lions; and now in his civil concerns he compels himself to call him Lions. And the Courts they were most wicked men, dangerous to the State. And Jonas 4. 8. a very apt Emblem to represent the ill-deflecting court which Ephraim took, which though yet he will not believe, shall ere long roar, blaste, and rend and tear him as the tempestuous East-wind does the weak-

2 The LORD hath also a controversie g with + Heb. zifh h Judah h, and will † punish i Jacob k according to his wayes l : according to his doings will he recompence him m.

g Though Judah compar'd his Israhel be faithful, yet when considered in his ways and doings he is found faulty in many things and God hath just matter of complaint against Judah in point of manners; in publick worship Judah was faithful, kept to God, and the Temple though not without some defects, but in their lives there were many more and greater faults, about which God will contend that Judah may be reformed: b The two Tribes i Or visit with chastising to amend, else to destroy; there is hope of Judah that he will be reclaimed, therefore I will try by gentler visitations, by fatherly corrections, and I will not leave him as hopeless, because he is faulty. c N The Patriarchs, but the who are of him; his children, but those who have degenerated from his ways of love, fear, trust and obedience. Both Ephraim and Judah are of Jacob, but both have corrupted themselves and therefore will I proceed against both and if Jadab, the lefs faulty, efcape not, Ephraim can have no hope to efcape; if Jadab be whipt with rods becaufe a difobedient fon, Ephraim may fear a fword becaufe he hath been and ftill is an obftinate Rebel. Neither can juftly complain then, fince their different ways are made the Standard of the different proceedings of God againft them, he will not lay upon either more than is equal; who fuffers moft, hath deferved more, and who fuffers lefs needed fo much to amend him. This is an elegant and very uful ingenuition of the fame thing which doth here it will be done, and fhould affect us the more.

a 7th of Jan. 2nd of Jan. The matter of Fact you have seen g 8th of Jan. in the design of mentioning it in this place to mind them of that Goodness which God shew'd to them in their Father g 9th of Jan. 9th of Jan. Jacob who was by a Miracle foretold to be superior to Esaú, that he and his should have the Birth-right, this should never be forgotten. The true Worship of God they should have preferred, since in the Priethood, duty of the Primogeniture it was included both as Privilege and Part; y<sup>e</sup> Justice and Equity they should have maintained as a flower of the Crown and Kingly Authority included in the Birth-right, and a double portion of the Blessings which were promised to the first-born. They were therefore to be fortified by their Apology, for which as once they should blush, repent, and humble themselves and at last remember their Primogeniture, and labour to recover to a temper worthy this their original. Jacob strove for the blessing in the womb; but you profanely neglect it in full age. g 10th of Jan. This strength was not of nature but of grace, a fruit of the divine Love and Election, strength from God. g 11th of Jan. y<sup>e</sup> Strength received of God we well employed betimes, in it we wrestled for and obtained y<sup>e</sup> blessing. But you let it lie in your hands, and so fin it away. There was found in you a Heroic, a Conqueror, as Samuel his brother. g 12th of Jan. Rebucers from the womb.

4 Yea, he f had power s over † the angel n and prevailed x : he y wept z and made supplication unto him a : he b found him c in Bethel d, and there he e spake || with us f.

Fy your Father Progenitor of whom you boast. Behold himself as a Prince with God, Gen. 22. 28. With the Angel was willing to be conquered, or Jacob could have offered the Victory. I called vnr. 3. God, and vnr. 5. is fervent Lord of hosts. He has no created Angel but the uncreated Angel Christ, the Mediator between us and Nature ad Naturam, who by his infinite wisdom understood our necessities, went out of the Field a Conqueror, but not by such Arms, and Methods as you value. You are conquered by him because of your sins, he conquer'd you with God by Faith and Prayer. ¶ Not the Angel, as some through mistake but your Father Jhs. ¶ By this we know he pray'd with Tears throughout the day, Job 30. 26. He desired and apprehensive of the mercy of him with whom he wrestled. But you quite contrary proud as if worthy, regardless of the best part of the blessing, and carried away for the manner part, seek it not from God but Idols. ¶ It is Christ who is here intended, it was not the meer creature, Jacob might not have pray'd to such, but you the Creator of Angels, might pray to them, the Father of Spirits, might pray to his Son, and might pray to his Spirit.

Jacob full of weariness, fears and solicitude on his journey, Gen. 28. 12. so when prayers obtain'd a blessing, we with this, and more directly, when on his return after this wrestling bout, Gen. 35. 1. Ovr. God appeared to him, w. v. 8. to 15. and blessed him. 2. Formerly called Laban, but now renamed and blessed, Gen. 28. 19. by which name he is known, and confirm'd v. 27. by the repetition of the words in their grammatical order it mould be He came to him; but 'tis, not without good reason, changed to the plural first person, us, as Potters were in Jacobs Lanes, and blessed with him. Yet more where God appear'd to us, us he commanded him to build an Altar there to God, or to Pore Religion and reform his Family from Idolatry, Gen. 35. 1. And yet he had been idolatrous, and had many other things to rectify and exhorted, and far different humour, though you have been call'd and exhorted to leave your Idols, yet this 300 years ago you have kept them and will, I fear, keep them, this is your sin, and in it you are obdurate, and I will punish such a Jacob as you are.

5 Even g the Lord h GOD of hosts i, the LORD k is his memorial l.

LO Or, And he that appear'd and spake, who promi'd the blessing, and commanded the Reformation at Bithel, was h<sup>e</sup> blessed; both the eternal and unchangeable God, who still promisceth with his people by like commands. i Who can both perform his promise as well as execute his threat, who is a most terrible enemy and most desirable friend, all being to us as he is. k Johnes repeated for confirmation. l By this he will be known, by this name he shall be known, such methods of his Sovereignty and Grace, Ezai. c. 15:

6 Therefore m turn * thou to thy God n
keep mercy o, and judgment p, and wait q.
thy God continually s.

1 No more vainly boast of Zeus; but, as he do you prove your selves to God. 2 Repent, leave Idols, and let him. He worshipps God alone, do you to heairst Idols out of his family, do you to too; be *Zeus*s children hereof. 3 Shew kindness to all who need it, cast off cruelty and inhumanity and be merciful to the afflicted, this contains all the duties we owe to any that are in distress. 4 Let us be just with King justice in dealings in judgements and publick Offices, render to every one one their due. 5 Acquit the Innocent, condemn the Guilty, and let none have just cause to complain of Injustice.
 6 Let Zeus worship, and private duties of Fravner, and cheerful
 King God, him only serve and trust, let not Idols have either Sacrifice, Prayer, Praise or thank from you. 7 And let your hope and worship, be perpetuated, for ever continued towards God, till he have and refuse, trust, pray, and resign your selves to him who will be yours as he was Zeus God, on these termes and no other. This flourish praiseth none on the God, in it includes all that is said in the last Chapter, and Religious Worships of the true God, do this and the Lord will be to your confidence against danger and falsity in your wants

7 ¶ He is a || merchant f, the balance of deceit & are in his hand : he loveth to || op press n.

§ Spirits, of whom here, is so far from being Jacob, or a Jacob, that you may call and account him a Canassite, a subtle Merchant. † What he cannot gain by fair Trading, he will by down right cheating, he is covetous, and very unjust. ‡ Where violence, calumnies, and false accusations, are needful to compass his covetous and couzening designs, he will not stick at them; this way of gain he loveth, his heart is upon it; though God hate the false balance, and false witness, and the violent man. yet Ephraim loves them all for his gain.

8 And Ephraim said <sup>w</sup>, Yet I am become rich <sup>x</sup>;
I have found me out substance <sup>y</sup>: || in all my labours they shall find none iniquity in me, † that were sin <sup>z</sup>.

9 And a I * that am the LORD thy God from the land of Egypt b, will c yet make thee to dwell in tabernacles, as in the dayes of the solemn feast.

* Or But, I the Lord thy God, who forbad thy frauds and gave thee wealth, and am forgotten in both, thou fearest not mine anger and finnell; thou forgettest that I give thee power to get wealth, and takest glory to thy self; but wouldest thou not thus floudht-render, thou wouldest know b that all thy blessings, thy coming out of Egypt to this day are from me;
 I give more, than thou hast deserved, wealth of which thou thindest and to which thou wilt glory, remember I have given goodness and bounty, c Hitherto have made, d thy peace, safety, plenty and joy here exprest proverbially in allusion to the land of Feccurity which they enjoyed in the days of the land of Tabernacles was all through my goodness, preference and faithfulness. And therefore thou, e O Israel, do fearfully regard me as thy God and Father, thou dardest not thus take I thank thee? Or else thus I would fill make thee to dwell, f I take what course is fittest to prevent thy dangers, sorrows and pain, but will not do so, thou wilt undo thy self. I am thy Father, change not, I am thy God still, and have been so ever since thou camest out of Egypt, I gave thee plenty, peace, safety, joy, and would wiltill I have made all prosper to thee, by what I have done to prevent thy pain, and continue thy safety. Some tell us 'tis a threat that God will bring them into bondage, and in various conjectures we have ventured on what will suit the contexture of the words, at least tolerably well, if it be not the threat,

by the
I have also spoken by the Prophets, and multiplied visions d, and used similitudes e, f by the ministry of the prophets.

[illegible]

11 Is there * iniquity in Gilead f? surely they g are vanity, they sacrifice bullocks in * Gilgal; yea their altars are as heaps in the furrows of the fields h.

[illegible]

120 And Jacob i fled into the countrey of Syria k, and Israel l * served m for a wife n, and for a wife he kept sheep o.

i The Patriarch. k For fear of Esau. l Though honour'd with that great Name. m Steept to the condition which is next door to slave. n A Wife was his wages. o Of Laban.
All which in the History is related Gen. 29. at large.

13 * And by a prophet p the LORD brought Israel q out of Egypt r, and by a prophet was he preserved. s

p By Moſes, ¶ Your forefathers, ¶ where they had been bounden 215 years or near upon it, did Slaves, of Vailds & some deſcend, ¶ in the Wilderneſs, Exod. ap. 23, ¶ and the drift of the Prophet here is to appeaſe to the ſins, to prevent their vain Pride and boasting of their Anceſtors, their vainer helthing themselves under Anceſtors Merits againſt Gods juſt diſpleaſure on them for their ſins, And the ſoft plea of what their fathers did at Babel and Gilead. There are many things which ariſe on conſideration of what their fathers were ſuffered, enjoyed and did, to aggravate their ſins and enforce them of puniſhment, but nothing to ſecure them from the judgement to come; or to leſſen judgments when they come.

14 Ephraim provoked him to anger: † most bitterly †: therefore † shall he leave his † blood upon him †: and his reproach † shall his Lord † return unto him.

After all the means used from time to time to reclaim idolatrous nations still, yet still they provoked God to indignation by their Idolatries, perjuries, oppressions, murders, and all manner of sins which use to the life among Idolaters, these things were bitterne unto God. ¶ So Seeing he will mercifully permit as he hath begun, and end in joy and mercy. ¶ He shall bear the guilt and punishment of all his blood, his murders of the innocent, of those that refused against him and as one who hath murdered himself both his own good too. ¶ Therefore let us pray for the recovery of these pious worshippers of God; all the reacher eyes be turned towards Jerusalem before him, a Father God who is Lord of all, or the Affriny King and his Princes, Lording it over captive Ephraim, God shall by their return the flame on Ephraim which he cast on Gods, his Worshipp, Temple and Prophets.

A a a CHAP.

<sup>a</sup> You that are the true Ist of God, you that are the *in*mant amidst for the Body of Incurable Rebels. <sup>b</sup> Repent e thoroughly, not hypocritically, turn ye from all your *fin*s which with others you have been delinquent, and turn to the Lord. <sup>c</sup> The Everlasting living God, who is worthy to be worshipped and obeyed: <sup>d</sup> Your idols were never worth your love, but the Lord, the Fountain of Being and Life is worthy of it. <sup>e</sup> Turn to him as thy God in covenant with thee, to get pardon for past sins according to Covenant promise, to renew Covenant for time to come, and to engage thy *fin*s sincerely and heartily to be his people. <sup>f</sup> Thy *fin*s against the Lord thy God have kindled his Wrath against thee, have involved thee in endless troubles, have turned thy prosperity into extreme adversity; <sup>g</sup> In hath cast thee from the height of Glory to the depth of reproach and contempt, thus thou art fallen. <sup>h</sup> It is singular number either because all their *fin*s were so linked together, they were as one huge mass of fin, or it refers particularly to their Idolatry, which is by way of eminency, and above any one other fin, a falling from God, and here punishes with a fall into calamities.

<sup>i</sup> Take with you g words, and turn b to the LORD i, and say unto him, k take away all iniquity l, and <sup>j</sup> receive m graciously n: so will we render the calves of our lips o.

<sup>g</sup> Behind thy calves what words will best set out your *fin*s, Gods patience towards you, and your present sorrow and Repentance for *fin*s; prepare you selves to make Confessions, Petitions, Vows, and Prayers, and make g words join desires, let your hearts be in your words, turn do not as the incorrigible Hypocrite. <sup>h</sup> See ver. 1. lit. c. <sup>i</sup> Pray, present your Petitions to him who hears Prayer; here is no mention of Sheep or Oxen, or any legal Sacrifices, True Repentance is required which is much better, faith and hope through the great Sacrifice, in virtue of which they Converts expect the Grace they need and seek. <sup>j</sup> This Petition for pardon of *fin*s includes confession of it, sorrow for it, hope that God will of mere Grace forgive it, and take away the guilt, prevent the punishment, and abolish the power of fin, not of some, but of all; Sincere Converts feel full justification, and full Sanctification. <sup>k</sup> Into thy protection, guidance, and benediction. <sup>l</sup> And this of thy mere Grace and Goodness, having acknowledged, and well-pleasing to thee. <sup>m</sup> This will qualify and encourage us to give the Sacrifices which are to God much more pleasing than an Ox that hath horns and hoofs; <sup>n</sup> Psal. 69. 31. with these calves of our lips we will give our hearts also, for those praises of the lips are fruits of what praise the heart of the Convert truly gives, and these here are signs of their heart given to God, that *fin*s may be Spiritual Sacrifices, such as Ps. 50. 13. or Heb. 13. 15.

a It was in Egypt that the people of God were long kept in Bondage which denied Israel too with its idolatries, contrived the ruin of Israel by a barbarous and unparalleled Cruelty, murdering all the new born males, and with utmost obliquity resisted the Deliverer who came to fetch Israel out of Bondage. By Egypt understand we then all the Enemies of the Church of Christ who carry it toward the Church, as Egypt carried it toward Israel. b Most defoliate, when God shall judge and punish. To shall Spiritual Egypt, Rev. 17. 8. c The posterity of Esau, of near kin to Israel according to the Flesh, who's first Father enriched Jacob the blessing and vow'd his Death, and made him fly from his Fathers house and become a servant in a strange Land, and was the first who denied Israel a friendly passage, and the common Civility of necessities for their money, and came out in hostile manner to fight them, Num. 30. 18. d It was Edom of whom you read in Obad. a most bloody implacable Enemy to Judah in his greatest distress. And all who came under Edom's character are here intended and threatened under this name. e Most defoliate, and which Art cannot repair; defoliate houses or vineyards may, but Wilderness cannot, by Art be repaired. f The people of God, his Churches. b Where distressed Jews should have found safety, they meet their death; in Egypt and Judas.

This typeth the Eternal Peace and Rest to which God's people are redeemed, f City of God. g Through many generations on Earth, through Eternity in Heaven. Some shadow of this possibly we may find in the days of Atacab, but thefulness of this we expect when that Day, great, dreadful and finally decisive Day, which Interpreters refer this Chapter to, shall destroy all the wicked, and put the Godly into possession of Eternal Nations of Glory.

21 For b I will cleanse i their blood k that I have not cleansed l; i for m the * LORD dwelleth in Zion.

b And, hth. i Purge away both by the spirit of Sanctification and by tree Pardon in the blood of the Redeemer, by their sufferings also, by the waters of Affliction, as well as by the washing of Regeneration, and Renewing of the Holy Ghost. k Their moral pollutions and sinfulnesses confound here unto blood, as also Ezek. 16. 6, 9, and so men in sinful state are called flesh and blood, Matt. 16. 17, and Gal. 1. 16. God will pardon and purify Believers, and when they are pardoned and purified nothing attempted against them shall succeed. l Which before I had not taken away, what was wanting in their Sanctification or Justification, and Reconciliation I will make up in them and to them. m And I am Jehovah dwelling in Zion, whence the Law of Grace was published, where the wonders of Pardon and Sanctifying Grace are wrought, that Israel might be a people with whom the Holy God might dwell. Now where this can be done but in part here on Earth, there is a Sion above, whither Jehovah who dwells there will take every Saint after the day of Judgement, having first vindicated, acquitted, and pronounced them holy and meet for enjoyment of the Holy One.

The ARGUMENT.

IF we might be allow'd to make a conjecture at the quality of our Prophets Sermons by the signification of his Name, we must conclude that they contain heavy Tidings and grievous Judgments coming upon them to whom he is sent to Preach; Amos in the Hebrew coming from a word which signifies to Burthen; u lay a weight, or load on one. But we have a surer Rule to judge the Contents of his Prophecy by: He is by his name ancient Visions, erring in this point, said to be the Father of Isaiah; but besides that Isaiah was contemporary with Amos, which fairly argues it unlike that Isaiah should be Amos's Son: Amos the Father of Isaiah's quite another name different from Amos, both in Letters wherewith each is spelt, and in signification also. And if Isaiah were of the Royal line (as some say he was) Nephew to either Amaziah or Uzziah by a Brother; it cannot be conceived how Amos a plain Herdsman of Tekoa should be his Father. It is certain he was either by Birth or Education, or Employment or in all these respects of the Tribe of Judah, and a certain that by an immediate Call from God he was taken off the Herdsman's work and made a prophet, Chap. 7. 14, 15. He did in deed, as he professed in word, come from the Lord and in his name delivered his Message to all those whom God sent him unto. And pursuant hereto he preacheth first against those Nations who were borderers, and had been bitter, oppressive, and old Adversaries to Israel and Judah, Chap. 1. 3. to the end, and Chap. 2. 1, 2, 3. By this express course, declaring future just executions upon Syria, Palestine, Tyre, Edom, Ammon, and Moab, the Prophet doth much prevent the prejudices which Israel and Judah might have had against his Person and Doctrine. Now he may more freely and plainly reprove and threaten the sins of Gods own people, since he hath so plainly reprov'd and threatened their Enemies, and they who easily believed him a Prophet in his predictions against foreigners, must in reason easily believe him a Prophet in his Reproofs and Predictions against themselves. He doth bestow the far greater part of his discourses on Israel or the Kingdom of the Ten Tribes to whom he was principally sent, yet he doth prophesy against Judah also, and to both he is very sharp in his Reproofs, impartial in his Censures, cometh in his Persuasions to Repent, very full in his encouragements to this Duty, and demonstratively evident in his charging Sin upon them. He had Isaiah, Joel and Hosea contemporary with him though it appear not how long.

He is in many places Sententious and Concise, which makes the passages the more obscure; though he do bring with him many things from his Country Employment in his Reproofs, Allusions, and Arguments, yet sufficed with admirable Skill, and beautified with an unimitable Elegance, and fortified with that loftiness of Style, that proclaims it self to be from him who gave man both Judgment, Fancy, and Tongue, which is an intrinsic Character of Divinity in our Prophets Writing. He was a Person of most undoubted Reformation, a prudent Counselor, and of spotless Integrity as appears by the counsel he had with Amaziah chief of the Priests of Bethel, Chap. 7. 10. &c.

He lived when Judah's affairs were tolerably well and prosperous, but when Israel's were in the highest Meridian, when they thought themselves secure against all the dangers he foretold, Uzziah had pretty well recover'd Judah, and settled it, Jeroboam had highly advanced Israel's Fame, Riches and Power. With their growth in these, sin grew as fast and as exorbitant, and called for Judgments, which our Prophet foretells very plainly in express words, Chap. 7. 11, 17, and in very significant Hieroglyphicks, Chap. 7. 8, 9. He foretells the Earth-quake, Chap. 1. 1. an Emblem of those Civil Dissensions which shook their foundations, and half ruin'd them before the Assyrian conquer'd and captivated them. Which miseries lasted through an interregnum of eleven years (say some) to be sure through the Reign of Zechariah, Shallum, Men-hem, Pekahiah, Pekah and Hosea in whose time all these miseries were swallowed up in a greater, their personal Captivity, which came upon them about 54 or 65 years after the death of Jeroboam the second, near to whose Court and within their hearing Amos preach'd many, perhaps most of his Sermons, and therefore you may observe his Reproofs, Threats, and Predictions seem to be calculated for that Court which was therefore guilty of the sin he reprov'd, and were called to repent of them, which because they did not, they did deeply suffer both in the Civil Wars under those four Usurpers and Conspirators, Shallum, Menahem, Pekah and Hosea. And most deep in the Assyrian Captivity. In the Annotations you will find there is some reference to those times with somewhat more particular application of the Prophetic Text to the Circumstances of times he aimed at then both been by any Learned Pen, I have happened to peruse; And would the brevity to which these Annotations are bound, have born a larger account of those times, and a fuller accommodation of them to the Prophetic Discoveries, I do not doubt but the arm of the Prophets Charge, Reproof, Threats and Predictions against Israel would appear to every Reader. Lastly, Our Prophet as others, closeth the sad Tragedy of this slightly sinning Israel with promise of a Spiritual State under the Messiah full of Grace and Peace.

CHAP. I.

THE words a of Amos b, * who was among the herdmen c of Tekoa d, which he saw e concerning Israel f, in * the days of Uzziah g king of Judah h, and in the days of Jeroboam i the son of Joash k king of Israel l two years before the * earth-quake m.

a The Holy Ghost doth in this expression comprehensively take in all the Sermons, Visions, and Predictions, which are preach'd, and publish'd all the Exhortations to duty, the Remonstrances against sins, the warnings of Dangers coming, and the promises of Mercy to them that hear and obey his words. Vid. Fig. 1. 12. and so what Jehovah preach'd to his auditors are the words of Jehovah, chap. 1. 1. and the Instructions and Counsel of Shimon are Ezek. 1. 1. the words of the Preceptor. Both the things spoken, and the words wherein they are spoken are included. b Who so think this was father to the Prophet Isaiah either discern not the difference that is in the two Hebrew words, or pronounce hastily without Considering what each is in the Hebrew, in which Tongue these words have but two Letters the same. i. a. M and O. the other are quite different; as also is the signification of each; for the one imports strength or might, the other imports a burden or heavy weight. c Or herders, but whether one of the manner, or one of the office, whether a Master Herdsman or a Servant, the word imports the former, yet because the Scripture doth not say, we shall not enquire, since it condueth little to our profiting, nor will it add to his Authority, since 'tis God who sent him. d Whether it belonged to Zadok, Athor, or Jahaz is not much material, though this last be most likely for a Chron. 11. 6, 7. we read of Rabobeam's building Fortresses in Judah, among which Jahaz is mention'd. It was situate on a Hill on the North of Judah's as a learned pen describeth it. e Received by Revelation, this tells us that the things as well as words were to be understood, when 'tis said, that these were the words of Amos. f The Kingdom of the Ten Tribes revolted from the Kingdom of David, and now under the Government of Jehoi's great Grandson. g Called also Azariah who was smitten with a Leprosy for insulting into the Priests Office Chron. 26. 15, 19. h Including the Tribe of Benjamin, and such of the Levites as did adhere to the house of David, the Kingdom of the house of David. i Not Son of Nadab, but Grand-son of Jahaz. k Who had some Successors against Syria according to the Prophecy of Elijah, by which success Israel was rais'd from a declining, to a thriving, prosperous State. l See let. f. m Of which, only this Text, and Zeck. 14. 5. do make particular mention, and where somewhat is spoken of it; which see. It is the Tradition of the Jews that this Earthquake happen'd when Dejaz Ultrap the Priests work and offered incense in the Temple, against which violation of the Rites God testified thus from Heaven by they. Earlier than this we need not enquire in this matter. It was a great and dismal Earthquake, and perhaps by this God did smite the Winter and Summer houses, as chap. 3. 14. however as was foretold, two years before it came, so we are sure it did come according to the time prefix'd by the Lord.

2 And he n said, the LORD o will roar p from Zion q, and utter his voice r from Jerusalem s; and the habitations t of the shepherds u shall mourn v, and the top of Carmel w shall wither y.

a Amos. b The Almighty and Eternal whom you of the Ten Tribes have forsaken, and thereby have provok'd to displeasure. c The Prophet alluding to what was dreadful, dangerous, and most rowling to Shepherds, the roaring of a hungry Lion that cometh out of his Den for prey, doth express the danger of Israel, and you'd awaken them to a sense of it that they might prevent it by Repentance before the Lord tears them in pieces as a Lion tears his prey. q Either the Temple in opposition to Jehoi's idolatrous huppels. Or intimating their defection and sin in leaving Sion for Dan and Bethel. This explains and confirms the former Metaphorical expression of Gods wrath. s The City God had chosen where he dwelt, the seat of Gods instituted Worship in the matter of Religion, and the Royal Seat of the Kingdom as God had seised it, from which in both respects the Ten Tribes had revolted. This whole Paragraph you have Joel 3. 15. which see; and Jer. 25. 30. t Where the Shepherds found convenient pasturage they pitch their tents, or built them Cottages, and dwelt thereon, that they might attend the care of their Flocks for which they also made Folds and Stables; this was the delight and wealth of these men; now by allusion to these Amos expresseth all the Wealth, Greatness, and Delightfulness of the Kingdom of Israel. Princes are in the Greek Dialect Shepherds of the People, People are the Flock; Towns and Cities are the habitations of both, and so the Scripture, Jer. 2. 8. and 3. 15. Ezek. 34. 3, 7, 8, 9. Nab. 3. 18. ulth the expression; which see. u Be made desolate and reduced to a sad, mournful and lamentable state, in which men shall feel nothing but matter of sadness and tears. s There were two places of this name, and though distant from each other, yet both very fruitful, and much used by Shepherds, the one was in the Northern parts of Canaan whither Elijah retired, the other in Judah's Southern parts of Canaan, now this was nearer Tekoa, better known to Amos, and therefore more likely to be here intended, and the other was in Israel which is here threatened, and therefore fitter to be the Emblem of the Ten Tribes, and mean here ay others; which ever you choose 'tis no hard thing to accommodate it to the Prophets purpose of Carmel, Vid. Nah. 1. 4. y Either blasted, or else dried up with drought, and turn'd into barrenness. So the whole Kingdoms of the people threatened, and of the Ten Tribes, though so fruitful and pleasant as Carmel should be made horrid and desolate as a dry and barren wilderness. Vid. Joel 1. 12, and 17.

3 Thus saith the LORD z, For three a transgressions of o Damascus b, and for four, I will not c turn away e the punishment thereof: because they d have e thresh'd f Gilead f with threshing instruments of Iron g.

a Amos speaks not by conjecture, or of his own head but as he comes in the Name of the Lord, so he assures us of it by this most solemn attestation. b This certain number is put for an uncertain. Three, I. e. many, especially when as here 'tis join'd with Four; their Transgressions are so multiplied, grown to such height and number. c It was the chief City of the Kingdom of Syria, and very ancient. Abraham's steward was of this City, North-east from Canaan's conquer'd by David, lost by Solomon, recover'd by Jeroboam the second, though soon after lost again, and was in Amos's time the Seat Royal of Rezin whom Tiglah Pileser slew, 2 King. 16. 9. while it was in its Power and greatness it mightily oppress'd Israel; it is here by a Synecdoche put for the whole Kingdom of Syria. e Some refer this to the suffering Damascus to be quiet; God threatens that the shall not hover there; others say 'tis a threat that God would not convert it, but leave the Syrians to their impatient hearts; but our Version is full and plain, it is a threat of punishment which they should certainly fall under. God would no longer continue to be patient and gracious towards such sinners, nor divers the menaced punishment foretold by the Prophet, delivered by the people, and which shall be executed by an impartial hand. d The Syrians comprized in the word Damascus, by a Synecdoche. e Next gathered (as *Husbands*men gather Sheaves into a Floor) next trod them under foot, beat them finally, i. e. with the cruel cruelty destroyed the Persons, Towns and Cities, f Of this name there was a great Mountain 30 miles in length, fourth my Author, there was also a Country of this name, and a City possessed by the Adonites, Gadites and Manassites; Now the Gilead in this Text is by a very useful figure put for the inhabitants of this Country and City, whom Hazeel King of Syria, as was foretold by Elihu, 2 King. 8. 12, did most barbarously murder, as appears by the words of this Text. g Blakes of Flies, or Harrows or Saws, or heavy wheels of Iron, whichsoever of these were the Instruments intended, 'tis most certain it was a very barbarous and cruel manner of using them.

4 But * I b will send a fire i into the house k of Hazael, which shall devour l the palaces m of Benhadad n.

CHAP. VII.

1 Thus h hath the LORD God shewed b unto me, and behold c, he formed d o grasshoppers e in the beginning of the shooting up of the latter growth, and lo, it was the latter growth f after the kings mowings g.

* Sometimes this refers to what went before, here it refers to what the Prophet saw and is about to declare. b This is the first of five Visions or Prophecies Representations of what was coming upon this People for their sins. The Lord gave Amos a clear sight of the future calamity by this Vision. c I could not but observe, and it is worthy your observation too. d It is not said he called for them, but he formed, or created them, probably intimating somewhat extraordinary in them, either in their signs or number, or rather sudden appearing of them. So the plague signified by them should suddenly come upon them. e In our Country grasshoppers are not harmful, but these in our Text were Locusts and o rendered, Re. 33. 4. and Mat. 3. 17. and the word used by Amos here is Paraphras of Job. 38. 36. Criticks by a word that properly Notes Locusts. f The shooting up of the first growth being too luxuriant they did either mow off the tops, or eat it down with Caterpillars, and this was done for preferring the Corn and increase of the Harvest, but if the second growth were cut off or eat up, it married the whole Harvest, and these devouring Locusts were formed in such case as to do this, and to bring a famine upon the land. g It is supposed that the first mowing of the luxuriant Corn in the blade was for the Kings use, and after this the second springing grew up to the Harvest. It may possibly intimate, though the Kings of Israel did as Amos saith, Amos 6. 4. Riches, yet they grew again, but when Affrias Locusts came all is devour'd.

2 And it came to pass, that when they had made an end of eating the grass of the land h, then I said i, O Lord GOD, forgive, I beseech thee k, by whom shall Jacob arise? for he is small l.

* Either visionally, the whole Scheme represented both Locusts, Grass, Herbs and Corn, and it represented the Grass as almost all eaten up and the Locusts ready to fall upon the Corn, and all that remain'd. Or else really, it was said, and the Grass was devour'd. Though the former seems most likely, I leave it to every ones judgment. i Amos interceded by Prayer for this People in this case. k And he saith for Mercy, intreats for Pardon, hereby justifying Gods proceedings, and showing this people for whom he prays is inexcusable of their condition, yet the prophet is deeply affected with it, and deprecates the displeasure of God, and implores his Mercy; to God belongs forgiveness, to them nothing but shame. l How shall any of Yisrahel escape, or if thou O God of Jacob dost call him down, who will or can lift him up? he must needs perish if thou be still angry and shew not pity. m Weak in strength, few in number, not able to resist his Enemies the Affrias.

3 The LORD repented n for this: I h shall not be o, saith the LORD.

* This spoke after the manner of man, it is to be understood as becomes the Immutability and omniscience of God, what a man when he repenteth doth, desisting from the thing, so God desisting or suspending his own Act doth tell us he repenteth. n This explains the former, The former Famine like to be caused by these Locusts came not, Amos prevailed by Prayer and the Judgment was diverted.

4 Thus hath the Lord GOD shewed p unto me, and behold q, the Lord GOD called r to contend by fire s, and it devoured t the great deep u, and did eat up v a part w.

* In Vision or Hieroglyphic, Vid. ver. 1. lit. b. q Vid. ver. 1. lit. c. r Declared he would judge as by fire. s Literally say some, God would from Heaven by fire punish. Others say metaphorically, by drought which should scorify all fruits of the Earth, and dry up Fountains and Rivers. Or else by very force, wasting, and irreparable judgments that the fire should consume all, hereby denoting the Affrias tape. t Eat up, i. e. Visionally, or in the Emblem. u Not literally, but Amos, x Of the Land too, it seem'd to seize on the Land; now this in vision awakens the Prophet as before to pray earnestly.

5 Then said I, O Lord GOD, cease, I beseech thee; by whom shall Jacob arise? for he is small.

6 The LORD repented for this: this also shall not be, saith the Lord GOD.

These two verses are almost word for word the same ver. 2. and 3. which see.

7 Thus he shewed me, and behold y, the Lord z stood a upon a wall made by a plumb-line b, with a plumb-line in his hand c.

* Vid. ver. 1. lit. b. c. z The Great God, who had long used Israel and often spared. a Politely it may denote his fixed purpose now to proceed to demolish this State. b Strongly, regularly and beautifully built, as arc could build it. c Ready as an Architect to take the measures of this Wall to discover all the defects of it, and how much 'twas varied from what it was at first built. This shall be the last measuring it, and on this measuring what ever is faulty shall be pulled down though to the very Foundation. This was Visionally represented to the Prophet.

8 And the LORD d said unto me, Amos, what seest thou? and I said, A plumb-line e. Then said the LORD, Behold, I f will set g a plumb-line in the midst of my people Israel g, I will not again pass by them h any more.

* Who did before shew Amos the Emblem in Landskip or Vision. d This God asketh not as if he were ignorant what Amos saw, or as if he would be informed whether he saw aright, but it is introductory to that follows. e Or perpendicular to which Masons first build, and frame Walls of Houses, and by which they do at any time measure them whether they stand upright, or any way belly out, and decline. f I will exactly measure my people Israel, the whole Fabric of the Ten Kingdoms. I will take a particular view of all, and how far 'tis right, or how far 'tis out of the line. g I will no more forbear, but I will pull down all that is faulty, though I pull up the very Foundations, and this is confirm'd in what followeth.

9 And the high places i of Isaac k shall be desolate l, and the sanctuaries of Israel shall be laid waste m; and I n will rife o against the house of Jeroboam p with the sword q.

* The Temples on high Mountains built to Idols, or for the Worshipping of God, though he forbade them. k The Father is here named, but his Children are intended all the seed of Isaac; I cannot, though some do, think the Prophet alludes to Isaac's being offered upon a High Mountain. l Shall be raised to the skulls of storms and weather. m This explains the former, and speaking after the custom of those times the Prophet calls the Idol Temples Sanctuaries, whether in Dan and Butel or elsewhere. n God will, but not immediately, rise up: He will first use some or other to do what he threatens. o In the days of Zacharias (son of Jeroboam) murdered by Shallum, p First of a Conspiracy Shallum, next of Civil War.

10 Then q Amaziah r * the priest s of Bethel t, sent u to v Jeroboam x king of Israel y, saying, Amos hath conspired against thee z, in the midst of the house of Israel a: the land b is not able to bear all his words c.

* After that Amos had expressly and temerarily foretold the ruin of Idolatry and Kingdom of Israel for their sins. r It appears not what Family he was of, nor is it much material we should know, 'tis probable he might be of some mean Family, or possibly an Apollate Priest of the Tribe of Levi. s By way of Eminency, no common Priest, but the chief Priest. t To the call at Butel, and his like he was Priest or Governor for the King in the Civil Affairs of that Civil Government. u Get information by Messengers sent. v The second name of Yisrahel's Race the third from Jehon. y At that time living and on the Throne of Israel. z He accused the Prophet of High Treason, and conspiring to raise War against his Sovereign. a Openly, and publicly, or hath endeavour'd to raise all Israel into Sedition or Rebellion against their own King. b Either thus, if what he threatened should come to pass 'twill be ruin and utter desolation to all. Or thus: The People are incensed so much against this Prophet for his harsh predictions, that he must be made an Example to quiet and content them. c What he saith will come, if it doth come will certainly ruin all, high and low, and a well order'd Government may not bear such a Prophet. Thus far the general Accusation.

11 For thus Amos saith d, Jeroboam shall die by the sword e, and Israel shall surely be led away captive f out of their own land g.

* So Amaziah falsely reports the Prophet. d He no where said so, nor did he intimate so much, but spoke of his house distinguished from his Person, as ver. 9. f This indeed he foretold, but did no more contribute to it, or contrive it, than the Physician doth who foretells the death of an unaccountable Patient, sick of a mortal Disease. g This is added to signify the greatness of the Captivity.

12 Also Amaziah said unto Amos h, O thou seer i, go thee away into the land of Judah k, and there eat bread l, and prophesie there m.

* It is probable enough that this Arch-Priest of Butel did send this advice, or gave it to the Prophet so soon as he had accus'd the Prophet to Jeroboam, and perhaps he thus intended to inflame a great good Will towards the Prophet, presuming the King knew nothing that Amaziah had accus'd him. i Whether this be spoken in scorn, or giving him the respect due to a Prophet, I determine not. k Be advised, stay not here, but with all speed flee out of the Kingdom, get thee into Judah whence thou camest, there thou mayst be safe. l Thou wilt never get thy Bread here by this kind of Preaching, in Judah 'tis likely thou shalt get thy Livelihood by thy Prophetic art: either go. m There thou mayst, freely declaim against our Vices, and predict our fall, which we do as little, as thou dost much believe.

13 But n prophesie not again any more at Bethel o, for it is the kings p chapel q, and it is the kings King r.

* As a Friend I advise thou do not, and as having Authority from the King, I do declare thou shalt not Prophesie in Bethel: o Where I am by the Kings Authority empowered to give Licence, or impose silence, and to see that none but fit persons preach before the King, who doth there pay his Devotions, p where all his Nobles attend him, and where no ordinary, obscure, and uncourteous Doctor may appear, beside such preaching so near to the Kings Court, will be speedily punished, therefore as thou lovest thy self Amos follow my advice, and let the Kings Court, and this Country hear no more of thee.

14 Then q answered Amos, and said r to Amaziah s, I was no prophet t, neither was I u a prophets son v, but I was an w herdsman x, and a gatherer of y sycamore fruit z.
 * 1 King. 20. chap. 1. 1. || Or, wild figs.

* So soon as this false accuser had under the vizard of friendship given advice, and whilst intimated his resolution to use his Authority to make Amos desist if he did not do it voluntarily, Amos gives him answer r readily, boldly, and yet smoothly, and out-shines the Court Pontiff in his own bow. s Not fearing his person or his power. t Not ignorant of, or by succession, or by study, or by any humane designation and preparation; as many have been. u My Father was no Prophet, nor was I bred up in the school of the Prophets, such as a King. v 2. 3. 5. 7. 15. and 4. 38. and 6. 1. Though you call me seer, whether ironically or seriously, I matter not, but assure me not to be such by Art, or Trade, or for a livelihood. x By breeding choice, and occupation I was and fill am an herdsman, and have my concerns in that mystery in or near Jehon's Judah, on which I can live, though I prophesie without figure or salary. y I needed not to run into the Prophets work for my bread. z The Tree and Fruit is known by one Name, Pulsin abundant with both, and the Fruit was sweet, not large, yet good for food for man, or cat, as some Fruits are with us: on these I could fill, as I formerly did, live, and be content.

15 And the LORD a took me b as c † I followed the flock, and the LORD said unto me, d Go e, f prophesie g unto my people Israel h.

* The great and jealous God whom you oppose by Idols, a by an extraordinary power of his Spirit took me off from my old, mean and private employment and reeds, and I could not withstand him. b A description of a shepherds employment; c Commanded whether by voice from Heaven, or extraordinary Irradiation of his mind, or impulse of the Divine prophetic Spirit comes all to one, his Authority is Divine. d Out of Judah. e As a Prophet instruct, threaten, promise, invite, and foretell. f The Ten Tribes which with like civility are called by Amos Gods people as he called Sir.

16 Now g therefore hear thou h the word of the LORD i: Thou sayest k, Prophesie not against l Israel, and drop m not thy word against the house of Isaac n.

* When forbidden, Amos undaunted prophesied to him that forbade him, h Amaziah who hath accus'd, yet pretendeth to wish and advise my safety, i Who lent me, whom thou dost contradict, from him I have somewhat to say to thee, and much concern also to thee. k Uplift thy power to silence me, l Preach not Sedition, or what tends to it under pretence that God speaks it against Israel, if thou canst speak good of us and to us, this may be good for thee, but if thou wilt speak bad news against us, it will not be believed, it may hurt thee, it will do no good to others. m Diffill not, n Vid. ver. 21. 1. 7. and Amos. 2. 6. n The posterity of Isaac, this explains the former, and is an Hebraic, or elegant imprecation.

17 * Therefore o thus saith the LORD, Thy wife p shall be an harlot q in the city r, and thy sons and thy daughters shall fall by the sword s, and thy land shall be divided by lines; and thou shalt die t in a polluted land u, and Israel v shall surely go into captivity forth of his land w.

* Because thou hast so directly, and strenuously oppos'd the Lord, p which to a man of sense is a great affliction. q A common whore. r A notorious one that plays not the Adulteress in secret at home, but to all that take notice of it, and brand her for it. s Which in all likelihood doth intimate their slaughter by Shallum when he flew Zacharias, Jeroboam's Son, with whom no doubt, but his friends fell among which this Family was, or else by the sword of Menashe, who flew Shallum. t Thy Estate, which no doubt, was large, shall be shared among the Soldiers and Couriers of Menashe. u Thy dishonour by a lewd wife, thy childrens idolatry, and thy Poverty shall come on thee ere thou dost it, its probable he fled to save his life. v Among the Heathen, where thou mayst be sure my word was true. w Ten Tribes. x See ver. 11. lit. f. g.

CHAP. VIII.

1 Thus hath the LORD GOD shewed unto me, and behold a a basket b of summer fruit c.

* Vid. chap. 7. ver. 1. lit. b. c. and ver. 3. and ver. 7. a A basket, y some, with which the gatherer compassed either pull down the bough, or pull off the ripe Fruit; or a basket into which which the ripe fruit gathered was put to be carried away.

 e Not the early ripe fruit, but that which as it needed, to have the whole Summers heat to ripen it, and was gathered in at the end of the Summer.

2 And he said, Amos, what seest thou d? And I said, A basket of summer-fruit e. Then said the LORD unto me f, The end g is come upon my h people Israel, I will not again pass by them any more i.

d The like Question you have, chap. 7. ver. 8. which see in lit. d. e. vid. ver. 1. lit. b. c. f. The meaning of this Hierarchy is not very plain in it self, The Lord doth here explain it in the following words, g Of Gods patience towards Israel, of their peace, growth, and the end of their ripening, they are now as fruit fully ripe, in the end of the year fit to be gathered. i So they were once, so they will be again, so the Nations about them account Israel to be the people of God. i vid. chap. 7. ver. 7. lit. h. God had with admirable patience spared and tried, but now he will visit just severity punish, neither pardon, nor spare.

3 And the songs t of the temple k † shall be howlings i in that day m, faith the Lord GOD n, there shall be many dead bodies o in every place p, they q shall call them forth † with silence r.

† Which were composed by choicest wits, and to sweeten tunes, and changed out by most skillful fingers to the best musical instruments, k either to take in Judah, and foretell the defolation of their Temple, or else by an Ironie, the Idol Temples, or else of the Palace, as the word in the Heb. All Court mirth and jollity, Balls and Mufick entertainments, i shall howl, Heb. be turned into the hideous out-cries of undone and despairing men, m when God shall execute his judgments threatened as he did begin on the Death of Jerusalem, and continued that day of vengeance till Salmanassar finished the ruin of Samar and its Captivity. n This added to assure Israel, that what Amos did foretell, should be accomplished, for God spake it. o So there were when Shalmaneser Zedechias, for there were when Minim flew Shalman, when he came with his Army against Samar, when he ripped up the women with child in Tiphath, 2 Kings 15. 16. and when other usurpers press through blood and treasure to the Crown, before the howling when Pal, Tiglat-Pileser, and Salmanassar cruelly waited all p In Cities, Towns, and Country, in Palaces, and Temples too, in all which, the bloody effects of Enemies Swords, the wastes of Famine and Pestilence should be seen, q Who howl, who see this, r either shall secretly bury them, so faine, or to rid themselves of that trouble, shall call them out wherever they are, with silence, that none may oblige them; q for great clamorous morality, that the living suffice not to bury the dead, or q great cruelty by the Enemy used against them, that they dare not bury them, or if they do, it must be undiscerned, see chap. 6. ver. 10.

4 Hear this f, O ye that swallow up t the needy m, even to make the poor of the land to fall x.

f Though the Prophet had several times told them what were the fins for which God would thus punish Israel, yet on a repeated threat he repeateth the rehearsal of the fins which draw down these judgments on their heads, so here, attend, and consider it t greedily and cruelly devour, that they take the greater filth swallow up the lesser fry: In this one word the Prophet includeth all the methods of their cruel oppression, wasting the poor: s Such as were objects of your mercy, how you been just and honest, as well as rich and great. z Either to root them out, or to enslave them while their necessities force them to sell themselves for bread.

Chap. IX.

g Or plant, settle them as Trees that are well rooted. h By patient Grief, and by late Reformation to it by the Lord. i By the violence of their Enemies which promise is an implicit condition that they seek, and not forsake the Lord, and was on Gods part with admirable constancy and Patience to that sinful nation performed through 600 years, perhaps the longest time of freedom from captivity they ever knew. k Of free gift without their merit. l God, thy God and thy Lord will do for his Covenant sake, therefore surely and fully will he do it.

The ARGUMENT.

THis fourth Prophecy will not need any long Prefatory Arguments; His conquest of his Nations, Family, and place of his Birth and Abode, which he would not have done, had it much concern'd us to know, or would it have added any thing material to the Authority and Efficacy of his word. Yet perhaps we should be thought too light, if we did not tell you, That some thought him to be a prophesied Edomite, fill'd with the Prophetic Spirit that he might be sent to declare God's Judgments against Edom, but this suggestion will more prove him an Idumean, than it will prove Jonah or Nahum to be prophesied Assyrians; or Isaiah, Amos, Nations. Some others will have him the same, that was great with Ahab, but greater with God, hiding and and that he was Captain of the Band of Fifty whom, on his request, Elijah spared. Or that he was one of those men that be said for it. But it is certain he was a prophet sent of God, and that his Diligence and Faithfulness answered his Name, Obadiah, i. e. the Servant of the Lord, whose Message he delivered though he was not certain where, in what Kings Reign, or what Prophet he was contemporary with, some guess, he was contemporary with Jeremiah, and they think the 37 and 39 Chapters, besides Lam. 4. 21 afford Arguments to prove it, but if they did not live in the same time, they preach'd the same things against Edom, which were in due time fulfilled, though we cannot precisely define the time. It is indisputable, that Edom's their memory cease with them. So it suits with Exod. 25. 14. 15. which see. Others refer the words to the Jews, thus, ye have drunk the cup of affliction in your land, and in Jerusalem, my Jehi Mountain; So now ere long the Nations which afflicted you shall drink of the cup of affliction; long, ye drink the drops of it, so that they shall perish, and be no more, when your day of dark affliction shall end in a day of light and salvation, and when others Nations do this, Edom shall much more, because most deeply guilty above others, Psalm. 137. 17. 18.

* Amos 5. 8. 17 ¶ But e upon mount Zion f * shall be // deliverance g, and h there shall be holiness i, and the house of Jacob i shall possess their possessions k.

Or And Heb. f Historically, and in the letter this refers to the people of the Jews, to the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and those who worship God in the Temple. In the Mystical sense or Type, it refers to the Gospel Church, and to the Kingdom of Christ, and the Salvation and Redemption of God's Israel. g A remnant that shall escape the enemies sword, and which after 70 years Captivity shall be delivered and restored by Cyrus. An Hieroglyphick of Israel's Redemption by Christ. Or it shall be Holy, the Temple, the City rebuilt, the people returned from Captivity shall be Holy to the Lord; They shall obey his Law, attend his Temple Service, and bring up a pure Offering to the Lord. h All this Typical and accomplish in the Christian Church, though not fully and perfectly till the Church is glorified in Heavenly Zion. i Literally the Survivors of the two Tribes in the Babylonish Kingdom, and some others of the ten Tribes, but including the elect of God, the house of Jacob in the extent of it, as taken in Isa. 59. 20. and Rom. 11. 26. k Either the possessions of the Heavens, their enemies, or when their own sanctified possessions, out of which the violence of their Enemies did cast them when they were led captive, and dispossessed of all.

* Zech. 12. 6. 18 And i the house of Jacob m * shall be a fire, and the house of Joseph n a flame, and the house of Ela for stubble a, and they shall kindle in them p, and devour them q, and there shall not be any r remaining of the house of Ela; for the LORD hath spoken it f.

I Besides what Nebuchadnezzar shall do upon his particular quarrel against Edom, bringing them to a very desolate condition, there shall (though it be not owned) intermixed be the quarrel of God for Israel's sake, which the Chaldeans shall avenge, or else, after the return out of Captivity, and some led state in their own land, Israel himself shall destroy the remnant of Edom, Psalm. 137. 15. with Isa. 64. 25. 14. m Either the Kingdom of the two Tribes, or else the whole twelve Tribes, the residue of the ten Tribes joined with the two in their return from Babylon. n The ten Tribes particularly here mentioned to comfort them, and assure them, that they should not be cast off, though they were more notoriously guilty of Idolatry, and along Apostasy. o As unable to resist or secure themselves, as stubble is to resist the flame. p This was fulfilled in part by Hircanus and the Maccabees, 1 Mac. 5. 3. but more fully to be accomplished in the mystical fence, when the Lord shall make his Church as a fire to all its enemies, and Jerusalem a burthenstone for all Nations. q As flame eats up the stubble. r No considerable number or body of them, or none shall continue Edomites, but turn Jews, and be Circumcised, added to the Church. f However or when ever this is done, it shall be done, because the Lord hath spoken it; this assures us of the thing.

* Amos 9. 12. 19 And they t of the fourth * shall possess the mount of Ela, and they of the plain u, the Philistines x; and they shall possess the fields of Ephraim y, and the fields of Samaria z, and Benjamin a shall possess Gilead b.

The Jews who lived in the South parts of Canaan, which was next to Thama, shall after their return and victories over Edom possess his Country, called here the Mount of Ela.

a The Jews who dwelt in the plain Country, which was next to Palatium, John. 15. 32. z Shall enlarge their borders, and possess the Philistines Country, together with their ancient inheritance, now of the possession of Mount Ela by the Jews, Isaiah. 13. 17. reports the matter thus, that the Jews were commanded either to depart their Country, or be Circumcised. If this were the time of fulfilling the one, was also the time of fulfilling the other also. y And all the land which the ten Tribes once did possess, shall again be possessed by the Jews. x The fields also about Samaria, how greatly soever wasted, shall be replanted, and that by the Jews too. a Either apart, or jointly with Judah. b A Country beyond Jordan, assigned to the Tribes of Ruben, Gad, and half Manasse, wasted by Hircanus the High Priest. Some time before Samaria was taken, but should be inhabited by the Benjamites. And probably Gad, Manasse and Ruben did enlarge upon the Manites and Ammonites. Here is promised a larger portion than ever they had before the captivity, and it doth no doubt point out the enlargement of the Church of Christ in the times of the Gospel, and particularly when Antichrist typified in this Prophecy by Edom shall be destroyed, but we are to give the literal meaning, and think we do not miss of it.

20 And the captivity of this host of the children of Israel e shall possess that of the Canaanites d, even unto Zarephath e; and the captivity of Jerusalem f, // which is i in Sepharad g, shall possess the cities h of the fourth.

c Those of the ten Tribes that were carried away captive by Sennacherib, One Hundred and Thirty years before that Jerusalem was taken by Nebuchadnezzar. d All the Country they anciently possessed with this addition also, that what the Canaanites had by force, and the Israelites could not take from them, shall now be possessed by these returned Captives. e Called Synagoga Lake a, 25. near Sidon. f The two Tribes, carried captive when Jerusalem was taken by Nebuchadnezzar. g The Modern Jews call Spain Sepharad, but without any good ground, nor was it so called anciently, nor doth the Chaldean Paraphrase interpret it; nor do I meet with any thing better than a taine confusion, that most believe, is a City of Chaldea or Assyria, and toward the Northern and farthest bounds of it, but where 'twas exactly they know not. h All the Cities which were once their own. i In Judas, which lay Southward from this Synagoga, where the captives dwelt, and whence they return.

21 And k * saviours l shall come m upon // mount Zion n to judge o the mount of Ela p, and the * kingdom q shall be the LORDS r.

Or for so, the Gallick Version, Printed at Rouen, 1616. l Deliverers, literally the Governors or Leaders of those Country Troops, who shall come up from Babylon to their own Country, such as Zerubbabel, Ezer, Nehemiah, of whom was said he came to seek the good of the Jews, Neh. 2. 10. and successively after many others, to the times of Hirsh and the Maccabees; Mystically Christ and his Apostles, and other Preachers of the Gospel, who shall have a commission from the King of Prussia, such as Cyrus, and Darius Hystaspis, to manage the affairs of the returned Captives. n A Judah, at Jerusalem and the Temple, and whatever might concern them, with their Neighbours round about. o To avenge Israel upon Edom, to fight, subdue, and give laws to such as Hircanus did when the Edomites were glad to be circumcised to keep their Country. p The whole Country, so called from the Father of that Nation, who chose those Mountainous countries for his habitation, as most suitable to his wild and raging humour, which delighted in hunting. q The Government, called here the Kingdom, shall manifestly appear to be set up, maintained and prospered by a power, wisdom and goodness greater than humane. r The God of Israel, who is Jeovah, shall be honoured a, obeyed and worshipped by them, and they shall not as formerly rely on Idols, or Foreign Aids. All which most fully is accomplished by Christ the Saviour, and now known in the Christian Church, who do believe he will, and pray that he would have his Sion, and destroy Edom, i. e. Antichrist and his Kingdom.

it be an assumed name, and carry in it the Character of some Grace or Virtue which was eminently in the man, or whether it were the proper name of the Person. Amittai in the Hebr. denotes Truth, Veracity or Faith, with the Pronoun Possessive of the first Person; My Truth, though Jonah a Dove by name, denounce dreadful things against Niniveh, yet he doth it as Gods Prophet, and God tells us by Jonah's Pen; He is the Son of his Truth. Whether Obadiah were his Father, and had this significant name Amittai given him for his owning the truth of God, and his true Prophecy, in the times of Ahab's Apostasy; and whether his Father were that Widow, whose Son Elijah did raise from the dead; whether he were the Person sent by Elijah to anoint Jehu, Elisha and Hazael, as the Jewish Writers affirm, if of no certain demonstrability, and if demonstrated, would be of no great moment, or use to us. It is clear that (though this be the only Book left to him by Name, yet) he was employ'd a Prophet in Israel before he was sent into Assyria; for 2 King. 14. 25. He Prophesied the future prosperous successes of Jeroboam the Second, enlarging and establishing the borders of Israel; yet it is not certain to us, whether he appeared a Prophet before Jeroboam's time, or in the beginning of his Reign. Not far from this time we are sure we may date his time, and range him among the first of the Prophets, who have left their intire Volumes behind them. By this also may we guess who was the King of Assyria, who gave such a rare example of Repentance to all succeeding Monarchs: It admits a dispute, whether it was Sardanapalus or Beleus, otherwise Phul Belochus, and Phul in Scripture History, if the time do not best suit to the latter, (as I think it may) rather then to the former, yet I am sure the unparalleled retirement of Sardanapalus reported in History, seems to me a reason why it must be some Monarch, that more like a gallant man, lived more free, open, and of easy access, that the newest night, as 'tis suggested it did, come to his hearing in the first day, such temper, it is like, Phul Belochus was of; whoever was the King, Jonah little expected the success he did find, he thought so great a King and City would not mind him, or else would deride or punish him; or else if they believed him then they would repent, God would spare them, and Jonah would be cryed out on, as a false Prophet; upon this he declines the Embassy, and till God taught him his duty in little else, he will not do it. When a Midrash hath set him on his work, and succeeds it, he grows passionate, and will dye; God spares and pardons him as well as Niniveh, (which yet falls to sin, and falls under the ruin foretold by Nahum) and so leaves him a Type of Christ's Burial and Resurrection, and an influence how far a good man may sometime be from his Duty, and that great Passions may be in a Prophet.

CHAP. I.

1 NOW a the word of the LORD b came // unto i // Jonah d the son of Amittai e, saying, a And Hier. b Which is a usual description of Prophecy, what God had to speak against Niniveh, he here does reveal to Jonah with command that he publish it to those concerned in it. c Or was with. d Called Jonas, Luke. 11. 30. which signifies a Dove; he was of Gath Hepher a Town of Zabulon, 2 Kings 14. 25. but no more is added, by which I conjecture it was some obscure place, to which Jonah gave more light than it could to him. e Of what rank he was, appears not.

2 Arise f, go g to Nineveh h that great city, // and cry against it k for * their wickedness l, as thou before m.

f Forthwith prepare thy self, and get all in readiness, and with hearty resolution set upon the work. g So soon as thou art ready, set forward on thy journey, make not any delay. h The chief City, or Metropolis of the Assyrian Kingdom built by Assur, Gen. 10. 11. if this verse be not better translated, thus He (i. e. Niniveh) went out into Assyria, and builded Niniveh, so Niniveh the Founder, and first Builder. i It may be easily conjectured a great City, which was situate on such a River as Tigris, had continued for many hundred years from 1719 of the World in which 'twas built, unto 3124, about which time Jonah was sent to Preach against it; during which long growth it may be conceived as great as 'tis ordinarily described, 150 Furlongs in length, that is eighteen miles, and three quarters of a mile of our English measure, and eleven miles and one quarter of the same measure in breadth. k Earnestly, and publicly, preach against the sins, and denounce the sudden ruin of that City unto every respect. So that cry all may hear, or at least all may come to the knowledge of what is threatened. l Their many and great sins, as 'tis said of Cain's sin when he had slain Abel, Gen. 4. 10. and Sodom's sins, Gen. 18. 20, 21. and the sins of oppressors, Jam. 5. 4. cry aloud, the cry enters Heaven, and justice must no longer defer, yet I will give them warnings, Jonah, go thou, and tell them plainly, their great sins shall be greatly punished.

3 But m Jonah rose up n to flee o unto Tarshish p from the presence of the LORD q, and went down to * Joppa r, and he found a ship going s to Tarshish, // so he paid the fare m thereof, and went down into it x, to go with them y unto Tarshish from the presence of the LORD.

a And Hier. b He was commanded to arise, ver. 2. so here Jonah did, but 'twas to run from his business, not to do it; 'twas a rising against God. c Whatever was the cause which moved Jonah to do this, it is strange that he should fall into a first emotion, that he might, and a fixt resolution that he would, thus try his God, and from his Duty. p To see, as some but this seemeth too rambling a humour, to Cilicia lay others, particularly to Tarsus no mean City of Cilicia, Acts. 21. 39. others say 'twas Tarsus or Carthage in Africa, to which Jonah minded to fly, either of these carry such probability with them, that we will not determine for our reader. q I cannot suppose Jonah dreamt of flying from the omnipotence of God, he knew how David described this Psal. 137. 7, 8, 9, 10, 11. and Natural reason told him he could never fly from this; but this presence of God is to be interpreted of the place where God usually had himself present by revealing his word and will to his Prophets, who are Servants to the Lord, and as such did stand before the Lord ready to receive his commands; now this command to Jonah being displeasing to him, and yet whilst he was in his own Country, the valley of Vision he is still put upon the work now he resolves to shift off by shifting place; perhaps he might think God would not put him upon it, when he was gotten into a strange and remote Country, where were no Prophets, nor prophetic influences. i A well known haven on the Mediterranean, now called Jaffa, antiently Jeptha, Psalm. 104. 45. f Bound for, and ready to set sail for the place he designed. k Carthage or Tunis, or Tarsus in Cilicia. l Forthwith agreed with the Master of the ship, and though unusual, paid preterm, paid not till he came to the Port designed. m Immediately went a ship-board, and in a melancholy discomposed humour gets into a Cabin, or under deck, y waiting the time when they should go, that he might be sure to go with them. x Psalm. 104. 45.

4 ¶ But the LORD a + sent out b a great wind c into the sea d, and there was a mighty tempest in the sea e, so that the ship + was like to be broken f.

a The Almighty and Eternal God from whose work Jonah fled. b God kepteth the winds as in Store-houses, or treasures, and now brings one forth to fetch back a Fugitive, and obliterate relier of his Command, & the greatness of it, the suddenness of its rising, and manner of its working, undoubtedly 'twas supernatural, and from God displeased with all or with some one or other of them. d The winds did not blow aloft over the sea and ship, but as if they had intermix with the very waters of the sea, and like an unheard of Hurricane shook the very keel of the ship; i That part of the Sea where Jonah's ship was, this Messenger soon finds out Jonah, and speaks in most dreadful manner to all in the ship, who all saw and owned it to be from Heaven, the finger of God. f The Master, and Mariners thought they, Ship, and Goods, and all should be lost; the Hier. expresteth it as if the Ship had sense of God's anger, as if the ship could think, and did think of its own weakness, and God's mighty hand.

5 Then g the mariners b were afraid i, and cried k every man l unto his god m, and * cast forth the wares that were in the ship n into the sea to lighten it of them o, But Jonah p was gone down into the fides of the ship q, and he lay r, and was fast asleep s.

a When this preternatural Tempest fell with all its violence into the sea, b Passengers are not to be named, who unconsciously

The ARGUMENT.

OUR Prophet owns himself by both his Fathers Name, and by his Country, of this latter no great doubt is raised, though it appear not whether he was Born in Gath-Hopher, or whether 'twas the place of his abode, when he was called to go Envoy to the great City Niniveh; of the former, some do enquire whether <sup>1</sup> "was thy hand that did it and preft me fore." J The bottom of the Sea, by which follows it is probable J was caft into the Sea, by force more. <sup>2</sup> Or heart of the Seas, but more literally and fully in the midft of the Seas, than that Ezek. 26. 4. <sup>3</sup> Either the mighty Rivers which run into that Sea, or the Gods, the mighty currents, which the rowling Sea and Winds with Tyde made. <sup>4</sup> The furies of the Sea, which explains what before he called the Floods. Here is an elegant description of the violence and horror of the Sea, in which J was caft, which toll'd his body and fignified the terrors wherewith his Soul was diftrefsd from the Gods immediately, as Psal. 42. 7. Thy waves, J feelch Gods hand, and foeverignty in all this, intimating that he prayed for what he knew his God could do for him.

4 Then " I said x, I am cast out of thy

CHAP. II

1 AND<sup>a</sup> the word of the LORD <sup>b</sup> came unto Jonah the second time <sup>d</sup>, saying,

a After that Jeshb had been well disciplined for his contumacy, and was let at liberty. b The command or the prophetic Spirit, Vid. chap. 1. ver. 1. 1st. b. c. d The first time Jeshb rebels against the command, now better prepared and humbled he is tried again, God doth give him the gift of Prophecy, and by that signifies his reconciliation to him, and admits him into his old station.

2 Arise, go <sup>e</sup> unto Nineveh that <sup>f</sup> great city <sup>g</sup> and preach <sup>h</sup> unto it <sup>i</sup> the preaching that I bid thee <sup>k</sup>.

1 And His: as God commands and directs, to Jehovah with ready, resolved, and obedient mind feels about the work. m This it was a long journey yet three weeks or three months (traveling in the Land, is more eligible then three weeks in the City) of Israel, a Every day of the journey, the command of God spurring him on, resolved to preach whateoever Sermon God should put into his head, encouraged with assurance that God who did the great feat would be with him whithersoever he was sent. n The great City of the known world as that day, it was then in its flourishing state greater then Babylon; whose compas was three hundred, sixty six or three hundred eighty five furlongs, o the height of the wall, the height of the battlements, the height of the towers in height, her walls broad enough for three Chariots to meet and fifty paces by each other, had fifteen hundred Towers on its walls, and these Towers two hundred fathoms high, and one million and four hundred thousand men employed continually for eight years to build it; if our author be not mistaken. p There is some difference in accounting how this City was three days journey, it is either three hundred, or three hundred and thirty furlongs, this will amount to eighteen miles and three quarters, this seems too little to be three days journey, unless it be fupposed the Prophet accounted his leisurely progress, and takes in the many fops that would necessarily attend, and unavoidably retard him in his walking and preaching (such strange news, if we consider this, 'tis not unlike six miles an hour, as a fast runner, and a good horse, would go) the discouragement of many, they will account it three days journey to go through the streets and lanes of this City, but on the supposition 'twas eighteen miles in length, and eleven miles in breadth 'twould be more then three days journey, or a weeks journey, for supposing in a miles breadth but eight streets from one end to the other, and in a streets length, 'twould amount to four hundred and eighty paces, Others say, that the walls of the City was fifty miles, and allow twenty miles to each day's journey too far for any one to walk, preach, dispute or reason, and account for himself, the first account seems most probable.

4 And q Jonah began to enter into the city a days journey, and he cryed, and said r, Yet forty days and Nineveh shall be overthrown s.

¶ The former give us intelligence of Joshua's arrival at Ninrah; now, fo soon as come, he preacheth. To walk through and to preach the dreadful threats of God against Ninrah, and he proclaimed openly and plainly what God commanded: he feared not to tell all what concerned all, he did it with earnestness as deeply affected with what he spake from God against this mighty City. f A very short time, some might think, this great City, but 'tis more time then God was bound to give; but you could deserve, or then God gave to Salem and Gomarah, that he should give to Ninrah more time to Joshua preached, and grew ripe by that time Naham came to foretell their ruin, vid. Naham tell that time is express and peremptory in its form and words; though there be a reference with God on condition of Repentance which operated in due time; and manifestly proved that God intended mercy to repenting Nisus, though he threatened an throw to impenitent Nisus, how it should be overthrown not expressed, some conjecture by a foreign Enemy, who carrieth unlikelihoode with it, others guess by fire from Heav but since 'twas not destroyed we need not enquire how it sho have been, and had they not repented the event would ha informed us fully.

5 ¶ So <sup>t</sup> * the people <sup>u</sup> of Nineveh belieed God <sup>x</sup>, and proclaimed a fast <sup>y</sup>, and put sackcloth from the greatest of them even to the least of them <sup>z</sup>.

¶ And Hith The inhabitants who heard, they first belied what he first heard, and successfully others as soon as the heads. Speaking by his Prophets, they knew their own sin and the sin of others, and yet they were not converted.
 Those men, he did very particularly, flourish, and to them
 he did not only speak, but he did also write, and he did enumerate, deciper, and lay open their sin, with that he deserved, what might be expected, what God threatened from Heavennall which concerning wrought them to believe their sin, Gods mercy, and the possibility of escape if they repented whether the fame of Noah's deliverance came to Nineveh before him, God, nor is it likely it should come so far and so late though 'twere so, Jonah is not our case, and about Jiry and Zidon, possibly Nabul might publish it in Jerusalem, and Jerusalem might call upon to fast, or cry'd out high time to repent, and supplicate God, so forme think, but this passage an Anticipation, tells us what was done, and will tell us their words on what grounds, authority and example was done at a ceremony very usual in mourning private or publick in these Countries, and a token of their true mourning, this did great and small, rich and poor.

6 For a word came to the king b of Nineveh, and he arose from his throne c, and he laid his robe from him d, and covered him with sackcloth e, and sat in ashes f.

a This now accounteth for the peoples proclaiming a fav<sup>r</sup>. 5. they did it because 'twas commanded, and they had their Kings example herein. b Whether Jobab did particularly put to his hearers to send word to the King or whether the strangers to the thing might move some or other to report it to the Courtiers, and they to the King is not specified, certain 'tis that the King had word brought him, and it was considered his duty not to put it off, but to send word, Sardanapalus seems to have put it off, till he was dead. c Put is here used in a very early, Put Belshazzar is with more probability thought to be so. d Put is here used in a more late sense, to put on his rich King. e Came down from his Royal seat. f Put off his rich, gorgeous and luxurious apparel. g Put on the rough, and uncomely garments of a mourner. f As Job 2. 8. and 42. 5. ER 12.

the king and his † nobles) <sup>k</sup> saying, Let neither man <sup>l</sup> nor beast <sup>m</sup>, herd nor flock taste any thing <sup>n</sup>, let them not feed, nor drink water :

¶ The King h took a particular care to have speedily fall ordered, and notified to the people by thoe publick officers, who were wont to proclaim the Decrees and Edicts of th King and his Council: This incagination confirms the thing said before, for the stirring up of the King's anger, and both of his own, and his people's sin danger, and death, is very exigent. I t was an Act of the King and Council, and which pallied them with good liking, they relished the thing as a Hebrew phrase imported. I Men have often and provoked God to this high displeasure do most principally: concerning to repent, fall and mourn for their sins that God may pardon and spare them. ¶ These compiled in the threat an-like to be involved in the common danger are put under a farther curse, and are to be cut off from the flock, as particularly

The ARGUMENT.

IT is by custom become Necessary in writing the Arguments on the several Prophets to tell of what Country the Prophet was, and, where the Holy Ghost observes it, we may not slight it; our Prophet was no doubt of the Tribe of Judah, but of what note his Family was for Riches, Authority or Credit appears not to us, these might be eminent for any thing I know, but not mentioned because his Call to, his Abilities for, and his Discharge of, the Prophetic Office needed no Credentials or Countenance from any such External Advantages. It is unquestionable he came from God; and his whole Prophecy is of Divine Authority, Jeremiah gave Testimony to it, and cites some considerable Authority from the opinion of certain Elders of that time who held him to be a Prophet sent of God, and Jer. 26. 18, 19. He was not, as some were, confined to one Kingdom, but had his Commission enlarged to reach to the Kingdom of Israel and Judah, which were now grown old in Sin, and universally corrupted with Idolatry, and Impiety, with Inhumanity and Cruel Oppression, with Falshood and Deceits, Ingratitude to God and forgetfulness of him, vain confidences in the lying Promise of False Prophets, and in their Ceremonial Services, all which Micah doth (as faithful in his office) openly, severely, and impartially discover, reprove and threaten in Princes, Prophets and all the people of both Kingdoms; which are so closely joind by the Prophet that it requires a very steady and quick eye to discern which of the two is most directly concerned in the Prophets discourse, or whether both are equally intended, yet so as in order of time Israel first, and Judah next. His Phrase and Connexions and Transitions are many times obscure and faintly capable of different accounts as every one will see, who can and will read the Hebrew Text and the Paraphrase or Commentaries of men learn'd in that kind of Learning. The Prophet stile is very lofty, as is his contemporary Isaiah, many times, and I little doubt they were acquainted and conversed each with other; his discourses have a very particular respect to the temper of those times he lived in, and will be clearely understood by those that do distinctly read over and digest the history of Israel and Judah, as they are reported in the 1 Kings, and 2 Kings from the first Apostacy of Israel from God and their revolt from the house of David. But more especially the stories of Judah through Jotham, Ahaz and Hezekiah's Reigns; and of Israel through Zechariah, Shallum, Menahem, Pekah and Hoshea's times, in which most of the sins here reprov'd and threaten'd did Reign, and which were (whilſt Micah lived) punish'd according to his word with Sword, Famine, Peſtilence and Captivity, he lived to see Israel made a desolation and an hissing, and ſcorched this dead Kingdom down ten years; Judah's Calamity followed ſurely and not ſlowly; for within 130 or 133 years Jerusalem was ruin'd and the Jewes carried Captives to Babylon. Many passages of our Prophet have both their Literal and Historical Reference, and their Spiritual and Mystical: In this latter I have been sparing because the design of the present work was to give the plain literal sense, yet I have seldom (if ever) omitted to point out the mystery. If any one fee more into this, and be larger in it than the Author; let such one know, the Author had his Reasons why he said so little, though he saw more, of the Mystical Reference of the words to the Messiah, his Birth, his Kingdom, the Redemption of the Elect, the Calling of the Gentiles, and other Evangelical Truths contained in our Prophet, who did certainly Preach the Gospel, as well as the Law to his Hearers.

There is great reason for my carnestness with all people, and therefore once more I advise you to consider it well. I hold, attend to what is said. I Who is Jesus himself, P See ex. 1, a whole Holy Trinity who have provoked to displeasure, who is a Jealous God and hath an Almighty Power to dash His Enemies into pieces. He cometh forth as a Jesus prepared to hear, determine and punish: Now when God hath it in all places at all times is faine to come forth, 'tis not to be meant of His leaving a place there, but of His coming to a place where before he was not, but 'tis to be understood of His discovery of His Prefence by some effects of it, which before that place were not discovered. A Heaven, the place of His glorious Throne. S Show by the effects of His power, Justice and Wisdom that he is more eminently present there. I Trample under foot, flain, abase and break. A That is high, excellent, and matter of your glorying, whereby flourishing like your Kingdoms, or power of your Kingdoms, or strength of your Fortresses, and Temples, Abas, or Cities, and Palaces. In the end of the world shall be laid waste, and low. I The Force of man shall be brought down, Ps. 2, 17, low. I You shall be brought down, Ps. 138, 6, low. I Your sin will procure this to you, O Sins, and Jerusalem, of which God is my Witness, I have plainly told you.

4 And * the mountains a shall be molten under him b, and the valleys c shall be cleft d as wax e before the fire, and as the waters that are poured down a † steep place f.

4 If literally understood, we know it had been 60 years when God will kindle that fire which shall burn up the Earth, and the works of it, as he will when he conest finally to Judge the World, it shall be done again. But figuratively Mountains are the seats of Kings and the seats of the great Rulers of the World, which do think the foundation of this fure as Mountains. See chap. 6. v. 2. Hab. 3. 5. Jsa. 2. 14. Or poffibly these mountains may be by a Synecdoche put for thofe who dwell on them. Mountziners who were usually more fierce, fierce, hardy and more cruel, more accet, and more cruel than the people of the Land. Punifments. b Which way fo ever you take Mountains, yet the effect of Gods powerful Anger and Juftice fhall be this, they fhall be no more able to bear his Indignation, or withstand it, than that which like wax melts before a ftrong fire. c And either the Kings, or the Rulers of the World, or the men that dwell in the Valleys within their Cities built there, which might hope to efcape the form lying more under covert. But fuch fhall be the fweeping, learning, and rapid form of Gods Judgments, that no places, no perfons fhall either withftand, or efcape the fweeping, learning, and rapid form of Gods judgments. d And the Kings, or the Rulers of the World, or the men that dwell in the Valleys within their Cities built there, which might hope to efcape the form lying more under covert. But fuch fhall be the fweeping, learning, and rapid form of Gods Judgments, that no places, no perfons fhall either withftand, or efcape the fweeping, learning, and rapid form of Gods judgments. e Which do callily and fpeedily diolve, and run before the fire. f Which immediately preads it felf and runs down the precipice, not able to keep together in one body, but fcatred one part from other, like fmoak without a body, and like a cloud without a fubftance. g Samaria melt away before the fire of Gods difpleafure executed by Salmazer, and by Salmazer and Nibhazardan on Jadab.

5 For the transgression g of Jacob b is all this i, and for the sins of the house of Israel k. What l is the transgression of Jacob m? is it not Samaria? and what n are the high places of Judah? are they not Jerusalem o.

g The singular for the plural, the many transfigurations committed among them, but especially that flood of inquiry which springing up in Samaria did overflow the whole Kingdom; Idolatry, pride, luxury, cruelty and oppression. H The sons of Jacob. I All these Ten Tribes most likely are here meant by Jacob's name. J All these many, all those Jews who were the instruments of God foretold, and which will overtake, and utterly ruin their sinners. K The people of the Kingdom of Judah called here by the name of Israel. Or else this and the former passage may comprehend the Twelve Tribes which were fallen from the Law and worship, and be an elegant imprecation to confirm the thing foretold, and strengthen the forcing, and cause of that overthrowing Transfiguration, who brought in the abominable Idolatry? n Here is meant the Kingdom of the Ten Tribes, the head of which was Samaria, where the Kings of that Kingdom had their Royal Residence, where they worshipped false Gods, whence they plucked out their Edifics, and made Examples for the other Kings of Israel. o Kingdom. n Or, no is, i. e. cause of the high places, and the Idolatry there practised? p Which was chief City of that Kingdom and place where their Kings dwelt, had the same influence of that Kingdom as Samaria had on the Ten Tribes, there was the Example they imitated, thence the Laws they obey'd contrary to Gods Laws.

 down the buildings, and call'd the fones there into that Valley, to God did they throw down the fones of Somaria. Ballad,

Pull'd out of their Chappels, Shrines, or Replicories by the conquering Affijians who would, as was customary with those Nations, deal with the Gods as with Enemies conquered, trample upon them, and use them most contemptually, and when they break into pieces of rich materials, 'twas to carry it away with them as their booties, and to burn the remnants of them. ¶ Or Rewards, or gifts which Idolaters thought they were due to their Idols, as the rich gifts given for the honour and service of the Idols by devoted Idolaters, or all the wealth Israel got by leagues with Idolaters x When their Cities or Temples are burnt, as no doubt many were burnt by the Affijians before he could reduce them to obedience, in which confagurations many rich donatives belonging to Idols were consumed to ashes, or melted down. ¶ The Idols of Samaria is made delicate, i. e. their Temples burnt, their Images melted down, and their Idols consumed, or to be carried away (if the materials they were made of were worth the carriage) however they shall neither want, nor be worship any more in Israel or Samaria, but be carried away Captives with their Captive Workmen. ¶ The Kingdom of the Ten Tribes or Samaria. Or Their Wealth, or the rich Presents made to their Idols, or both. x As Harlots get rich by their trade, so Idols did this deceived people to come in, and say that their gods were rich, and that they were rich, and in proud Adulteries that hire 'lev'd men to come in, and say to his hire was that these blind Idols, (like Chameleons Adulteresses,) gave to their hire. ¶ These rich Presents shall be either turn'd by the Affijian to the service and honour of their Idols, preferred as gifts in acknowledgement of their greatness, and property to be the blessings their Idols have given to them, or they shall be burnt, as those by Harlots, brings shame, and a curse with it, and new converts to the true God, as being walled as was gotten, so shall it be with all the ill and ungood Goods of these Samarians, and all their wealth.

8 ¶ And thou, O towre of the flock u, thee shall it come, even the first dominion z, kingdom shall come to the daughter of Jer lem.

a Some refer this to that Tower Eder, in the Neighborhood of Bēthshēm, built there for the Shepherds convenience watching over their flocks. The Prophet may poitfully allude to this. In the Church Christs flock, there is a Tower Eder for defence of his flock, but it's that name which is a figure of the Church; as the word Eder signifies a flock. The Tower, to which the righteous run, and are safe. But we see that was a Tower of this denomination in Jerusl'm, through wch the flocks of Shepherds driven into the Sheep Māts fasc. x. Ophai, as in Hab. and perhaps were better termed Eder. A proper name of that impregnable Fort, 2 Chron. 27. 3. where considerable part put for the whole. y Or, O Daughter Zions, 'twill be an explication of what the Prophet here meant by the Tower Eder and Ophai, i. e. O Zion, O Tyrus both in the Typical, and in the Mystical fence. x The Dominion, not in outward splendor, but because the Governor and supreme Dignity among this people was reformed after seventy years captivity) to the former Royal Family continued in it till Silho came. This in the Type was fulfilled

Upon the Antichrist, under Zababbel and his successors; but the whole Antitype concerns the Messiah's Kingdom, and the Gospel Jerusalem, and must be taken in the same way of it. Christ is the Son of the Father, the ancient, supernal and most glorious King, and is the ancient, supernal and most glorious King, and is by his redeeming us from Bondage of the Law, for us, and shall be continued firm and unmoveable, more then Eder, Opah, Shul or Jerusalem Typical, as Luc. 1. 32. 33. and more large then ever David's or Solomon's kingdom, Dan. 7. 14. and therefore greater Glory, for Christ is King of Kings, Rev. 17. 14. and 19. 16. The Spoken Kingdom came first to the Jews, and then to the Gentiles. It is needless that we should say God would first have been spoken to you. The Gospel was to be Preached first to the Daughters of Jerusalem. There the Preacher of Repentance and Remission of sins was to begin, and thence they were to publish it to all Nations; Luk. 24. 47. This Text, and such like, the blinded Jew doth take in a literal sense only; as if it promissed a Temporal Dominion over all the Nations, and that they should be exalted, in which they expect a large share; but what is literal, and concerned the Jew alone, was limited to them that came out of Babylonish Captivity, and hath been fulfilled to them.

9 Now a why dost thou cry out aloud b? is there no king c in thee? is thy counsellor perished d? for pangs have taken thee as a woman in travail e.

a Now thus I have from the Lord promised [this great good] things to you, after the seventy years Captivity, and in the days of the Medes. b As if this calf were deposed, or as if it would be ever night with thee, or as if thy hopes were not outweigh thy fears, or thy future Joy would not counterbalance thy present griefs. c Those that will be obedient to the Lord, shall be blessed. d Tribulation, say thy God, thy King, with thee, and will be with thee to preferre, reforme, chastise, enlarge, enrich, and to beautie thee with Salvation, and to reign over thee in Mount Zion for ever. Vers 7. Thy lot is great; but thy future advantage may well top thee these thyce. e Hath thou none among all thyne Councillors left in thy Heart? Hath hee not cruelly slain all his flock of thee, and are the rest left? f Yet the Lord will be a Father to the widow, and a Father to the orphan, that thou shalt not be without aid and perill for ever. g Rejoice, the wisdom of his Father, hath the conduct of thy sufferings, deliverance and re-establishment, in which thou mayest at last glory. h This great distress of Spirit appears by thy offences, like those of a woman in travail, in which no great reason can be given, all things considered. No more than a Woman at her full time, and bringing forth the fruit of her womb, to the present increase, and future honour.

In their journey they were forced to march before the Face of the Lord, and all the inconceivable heat of the Sun, and of cold in the night, wear, hungry, thirsty and faint near death. O daughter of Zion thou shalt certainly be carried Captive to Babylon, where thy dwelling shall be like a City, thou shalt dwell by the River, without the Gate. By Cyranah, and by Darus Hillexi next, and by Ataxerax in Nineveh this time is this Type of a greater deliverance. The Everlasting God of the Jews, whose Father is the Father of Kings shall deliver thee from the hands of all thy Enemies, and shall deliver thee from them. The Heb. words point out a Redemption by the Messiah King, and so fairly minds us of the Messiah the great Redeemer of the Church. And to him and the Redemption of the Church by him do these deliverances ultimately and principally point. Q Who would have dared the People of Jerusalem to be taken Captive, and to be carried away into Babylon longer in slavery, or who would have hindered the Redeemer of the Temple, and the re-establishment of the Worship of God?

12 But they a know not b the thoughts of the LORD c, neither understand they his counsel d: for he shall gather them e as the sheaves into the floor f.

24 The gathered confederate Nations, Zivim Enemies, & Neither discern nor consider, d The design of the holy just, gracious and faithful God who is God of his people, of Jfrael, who will humble but not extirpate, who will purgify but, not consume in the Furnace; & Gods thoughts to Jfrael is to give him an expected end, d The same thing in somewhat different phrase, this elegancy even, d The same thing in somewhat different period, d By his wisdom, and his faithful providence disposing all things to facilitate their gathering together, that they shall do, and yet God also shall do it, he as the first cause, they as the second, he moves according to his own pleasure, they move as they are freed and dependent Agents, they shall as a fire purge out the dross, or a wind blow away the chaff and lightest Corn, which is that God intends, but they conflict only to extinguish the people, d The same thing that they be no more a Nation, d The same thing, and very intelligible simile. The Husbandman gathers the sheaves into the floor to thresh them; so do Gods gatherers, i. e. in due time he will do this and bring his Enemies, and his Churches Enemies together that they may be bruised, broken and destroyed utterly. This seems to look to Satansthrift gathering his power against Jfrael, and the circumstances still enough fair this, yet is not this to be confined to Satansthrift alone, but to all the Satansthrift laughter made on the Enemies in one hundred twenty (even Provinces in Elphins time, looking to somewhat that is farther off, indeed running through all ages of the Church, and shall be finally accomplish in the ruin of the Antichristian Kingdom, then shall that of Zech 12. 3. be fulfilled, when though all Nations gather themselves against Jfrael, yet 'tis that they may be cut in pieces, when the Vine of the Earth shall be gathered into the Winepress of Gods wrath, Roth 14. 19, 20. and Isap 19. 15, 16, 17, 18. 10. 30. 31.

<sup>13</sup> Arise g and thresh h, O daughter of Zion: for I will make thine horn iron i, and I will make thy hoofs brass k, and thou shalt beat in pieces l many people m: and I will consecrate n their gain o unto the LORD p, and their substance q to * the LORD of the whole earth r.

g This imperative may be read in the future tense, and fo be an express promise, it is however an implicit promise made to the Daughter of Zion, the Jewish Church, the Gospel Catholic Church, the Church of the redeemed, of a captive, low and oppressed place, and this shall be by the reviving power of her God. b So in a decorum to the Metaphor psr. 12. used to express the gathering of the Enemy into the floor to be broken. The fire flame strength of the Church employed lucrifically, (more by the arm of her Redeemer, who is the Father) in breaking the breaking her Enemies is here foretold and promised, as 'his also Isa. 41. 16. Christ will thus punish his Enemies, to Bahin Typical as threatened Yer. 51. 35: was beat to pieces, and (shall Antitypical Bahin in due time be broken as straw that is threshed into small pieces) by the power of the breaking this the horn part of the head of the Ox which did tread out the Corn, make it to be in finite the same with the hoofs made beats, but they that take it as our Version doth for the horn properly taken, with which the horned beasts do pull and tread down, break and crush the power and the strength of the Church firm as iron to beat down her Enemies. k By this figurative speech is the strength of Zion expressed, by the pieces that under floor, and breaks the power of Enemies into pieces that shall never be repaired, as straw thrashed in the floor and broken into small pieces, as the metaphorical building of Jerusalem the Jews grew so much strength that in their Wars they did especially in the Maccabees times break their Enemies in pieces. But here is a mystical and spiritual sense ver finners to himself. And by the power of his Almighty arm will defend and support his own subjects, whilst he doth by vi-nible strength throw down and trample into dust his and their Enemies, and this power he hath sometimes evidently manifested already in the various deliverances he hath wrought for his people which are recorded in the History of this

1 NOW a gather thy self in troops b, O daughter of troops c: he d hath laid siege against us e: they f shall smite the judge g of Israel h with a rod upon the cheek i.

a This verb is, lay some, a sharp Carpan against Israhel Enemies. Others will have them to be a repetition of the evils and a description how far these evils should prevail, that were ere long to come upon Judah and Jerusalem, by either Sennacherib or his Alliaries, or by Nebuchadrezzar and his Babylonians, to whom God's people looked up, as their only refuge, and what we must suffer for a time, and how we shall be delivered, and triumph at last, and since that is the order, first afflictions, afterwards Salvation, delay not O thou Enemy, but now. b Summon in thy Forces, appoint thy rendezvous, bring thy pooling warring Troops, thy mercilefs and bloody Troops, and form thy Army, O Afflictor, against whom much like thee have and prophesied, Isa. 48. 7, 9, 10, 11. And this passage of Michah may also farther refer to the Babylonian Army under Nebuchadrezzar, under the violence of both which they were to suffer, and from both which the Jews should have a glorious deliverance ere long. c O Nineveh daughter of Troops, from her first ruin for the Assy City full of Troops that spoiled, cut off, and destroyed, and had been more then ordinarily, to under Pul, Tiglat-Pileser, Salmanser, and Sennacherib for ninety five years together in the successive reigns of these four Monarchs. Babylon also in her time was as troublesome to Judah and must be this daughter of Troops also. d That is the Israhel which was so often vexed, and had taken all but Jerusalem and did invert Jerusalem too. e O Babylon which afterwards beleagued and took Jerusalem, sackt the City, burnt the Temple, and captivated the People. f Hackt in prophetic file, certainly will lay siege against the inhabitants of Jerusalem the only people of God at that time; b both Kings, Judges, and Citizens were all sinners, and so they were all deserving the proud, successful and oppressive Enemy. g The King, the supreme Judge. h Not the Ten Tribes though they are usually called by this name, but the two Tribes that adhered to David's Family. i This is a proverbial speech expressing a very contemptuously usage of the person spoken of, and was justified partly when Sennacherib the General Babylon was so often vexed, and not content hereafter willified the God of Judah also as 2 Kings 18. 19. &c. and Isa. 37. 32, 37. was more fully and literally accomplished when Zedekiah, his children, his counsellors, and his Officers of State were most barbarously used by the insulting Babylonians, 2 Kings 25. 6, 7. Ezra. 53. 17, 18. &c. Jer. 52. 6. since then, for ever, to be gone against us, make haste O thou proud Enemy, and do it for, [will] end in our deliverance and thy ruine.

Wife was thought of, as appears, Gen. 35. 19. It is more likely to be called Ephratah from the richness and fruitfulness of the Land mies to the Lord, to his Christ, and to his peculiar people, who know not God, nor obey the Gospel. u With unparalleled terror, and so they shall be made warning pieces to others.

servile minds are most barbarously turned to Yizet, appears by the bloody edict against the Nèg-Children, and by requiring brick without fawn, their bondage was a cruel bondage under which they groaned, a man excellently qualified to instruct them in the Yizet religion, and to be a Yizet man. He improved his first forty years by the advantage of the Royal Education first, and next by the great employments which such persons are called to, for his Wisdom, and Learning, his Might, and Valour you have witnessed, Atla 7. 22. the Yizet-Tradition is, that he fought, and got many Yizet-wars, which he continued to fight till he was 100 years of age, which he was admitted to extraordinary counsels with, which in this means their Model of poltie was made very exact. 2. A Person called to the exercise of the highest Office in the Priesthood, to offer Sacrifice, and make atonement for the sins of the people, and to be a Type of the great intercessor, YA Yrohetes he succeeded to, his Yrohetes first mentioned, to be Exalted to the Counsel of the King, and to be a Yizet man, with Maestrate, Yizet, and Yrohet.

ter of Bad-Poor, for which thou deservedst to be destroyed: Sittim, remember also the mercies I gave under the conduct of Joshua after Moses's his Death, which fell out whilst you abode at Sittim, Josh. 3. 1. t Where Israel first took possession of the promised Land, and saw vitally the faithfulness of their God. f The mercy, justice, uprightness, veracity as it signifies, but here it rather denotes the right on God's side in this Compromise with his people.

6 Wherewith g shall I h come before the LORD i, and bow my self before k the high God l? shall I come before him with burnt m offerings, with calves n of a year old o?

In the foregoing part of the Chapter you have, God's resolution to have a hearing, *v*r. 1, 2. and his plea for himself against an ungrateful people, *v*r. 3, 4, 5. Now in this verse you have the result which is either an unfeigned Submission, and Justification of God's just proceedings made by some of the best of this people, or else an enquiry made by men among them, who did yet retain some opinion of their own integrity much like those, flu. sg. *v*r. 3. they were ready to say, we have offered Sacrifices as required, &c. what would God here to do more? Or else is an enquiry what the Prophet would further direct them to do in this case, with an Imagination that they were ready to offer any Sacrifices God should think fit to require, or else this will is the Prophets supposition that some of them would be ready to do, and so the Prophet is to be understood as he saith themselves, and to his Propitiosopia fairly make way for further direction to this people, G.W. what thou what preparation shall I make for a due and right address unto thee? P. In the petition of all the people, or else in the petition of the most thinking among them, this, I is, the people of the Jews. G.W. It is a Temple phrase, and contains the solemn attendance on God in his service, well paraphrased, in the Chal. Ps. with what shall I worship before the Lord? P. It is exegetical to the former phrase, when I come to bow down before and worship the Lord, with what shall I appear? G.W. Such was the God of Israhel, Heaven his Throne, the Earth his Idols are Duncion Gods, our God alone is the God who dwells on high. m Shall these suffice for testimony that I owe my all to God, or appease his displeasure, which justly might devour me as the fire the sacrifice. n It is probable this repeats (as is usual in Scripture to confirm and affect us the more) the thing before mentioned.

7 * Will the LORD be pleased with thousands of rams? or with ten thousands of rivers of oil? shall I give my first born for transgression, the fruit of my body for sin of my soul?

\ The Law did direct the offering of Rams, King Beals for single Sacrifices; if this be too little they shall be multiplied, we will give many, very many; for the phrase is an Hyperbole. ¶ Oyl was burned too in their Sacrifices in the Near-offerings of pure Oyl more or great quantities, a log, or lin, i. e. half a pound, three quarters, but we know such gifts are infinitely fonder than the divine Goodness belov'd on us, who he is our God in His Father's Name Amen. ¶ We have seen how much we are worthy of Rivers of Oyl, multiplied to thousands, and we wish to flow it should be all his. Such like Hyperbole you meet in Psalms 104, 16, 17; g This is proposed as a thing practicable by any rule of Reason or Conscience, as also a proof of their readiness to offer up their first born, as he did offer up his Son to suffer for us. It is much more than any of our children, his flux to more part with the strength and glory, and hope of our Families: yet right Hypocrites, or like unanxious Heathen, thus they would do, rather than what would please the Lord.*

To appease the anger of the Lord for my sins, would these be Expiatories? The question is repeated to affect us the more; & the words would bear this reading, Shall I give my first born to thee, which would be my fin. The fruit of my Body? This would be the fin of my soul.

¶ It may have some reference to the Prophet, as speaking of himself, appointed of God to be a reprovor, and impartial censurer of the sins of this people, which I am lo to judge of them by their doings, shall I flatter them, and say they are better then they are? But it better refers to God himself. q. approve, justifie, or acquit them, as if they were righteous, and not worthy to be punished. ¶ Shall I let them escape who are such unjail persons? 17 This is given as an evidence of the truth of the charge, and of the justness of the resolution God had declared to punish them. x Who of all men had left temptation to deal un-justly, they were to well provided for, that without a Trade they might live, and in Trading they should have been content with honest gain; They should have been examples of charity and bounty, but these are the men deeper in this guilt. y Of Jerusalem, Samaria, and every Town of Judah. z Full of principles, practices, and fruits of violence and rapine, their minds inclined to cheatings and dishonesty, their practices managed with fraud and falsehood, and their riches hoapt up through violence. A The diletté is universal, not some few rich men, but they that dwell in the City, are wholly occupied, or perhaps that, who come to dwell among them, soon catch the diletté, and learn their ways. b The cities of the Land are full of violence. c Have accustomed themselves to speak falsehood, there is no truth in their affirmations, or negations. d There's not a man of plain heartedness, integrity and honesty among them. 1 Both literally and figuratively taken for unifying what they have. So God threatens, Lev. 25. 25. So God did punish the Phryges, Isa. 1. 6. which see. 4 Nor be filled with swiftness or strength in the eating, or using of what thou hast, thy friends shall bring either bitterness or insufficiency upon all thou hast. by both all shall be made useless to thee. 1 Thy destruction partly by thy diffidences, conspiracies, violences and conspiracies within thy self, and partly by the enemies breaking in upon thee, and bringing the war into thine own bowels. 2 The enemies shall be made useless to thee, because they shall be utterly by thine enemy, believing thee in the Cities, and taking them. 3 Though there is some variety of readings: here, yet the plainest and most obvious sense is we render it, whether you do refer this Laying hold to perfons, as Wife, Children or Friends, whom (though they endeavour to save out of the enemies hand, yet) they shall not be able to save, or if referred to things, goods, their most valuable and most portable goods and wealth; as men in distress, and flying out of the cities, shall be made useless to thee, because they shall be utterly by their Children, and carry them away into some remote place, or (strong hold) so 'tis likely this people did when invaded. Jer. 35. 11. a Where thou lodgest thy children, and layest up thy wealth therein the enemy shall pursue thee, there begetting thee and thine, or if thou fly into other countries, it shall not be a safe refuge to thee. 4 Thou dost for a little while, for a few Weeks or Months, preleve from the enemy that thou thinkest is safe. 5 By unexpected and unthought of accidents to you, yet guided by the unerring and sufficient providence of God, thou shalt be made useless to the enemy, and the hands of enemies to, for that any confederate eye may see God's hand in it. To be cut off by either Domestick and Civil Wars, or by the invading, conquering and wasting troops of the Assyrians.

1 All are agreed in the scope and meaning of these words that they are designed a complaint for the great scarcity of men that feared God, Did justice, and loved Mercy ; and so the Prophet begins with a patheticall complaint, who is not : ordinarily this phrase who is not is used in the same manner, as whereas ;
the eye may see, who discerns the propriety of the word who is not ;
the Prophet in his own person, or else in the person of a good man, & by a usual figure, the Land may be brought in complaining, that whereas 'twas once well floored, now it hath few right good in it. All the fair, goodly, and ripe fruit gathered, none left, or none but evil fruit, such as the labourers thought not worth gathering up. So is the Harvest of fruit and fruit now, yet good men & others Prophets have fown good seed upon you, though I need not say very thin and coarse, So the land is barren, 12, 13, 14 : the lame complaint in a like elegant manner, drawn from the Vine-gatherer, who leaves but few clusters single Grapes ; So fruit and fruit which in bringing forth good men, should have been as a fruitful Vine full of clusters, but barren they have been, and are ; and good men, i. e. just, compassionate and humble men, as are Grapes after the Vine is gathered. d Such good mens converse would as much delight, refresh and encourage me, as a fair cluster of Grapes doth the eye, and my very perfum, but there is not one such cluster in it. It is good to be a fruit, f : it is an Ellipsis or apocopesis, and to be supplied thus ; but there was, or I should see

2 The W all good man g is perfited h out of 8 ¶ * Rejoice g not against me b, O mine enemy i: when I fall k, I shall arise l; when I + fit in darkness m the LORD shall be a light n unto me.

The Prophet in this verse personates the Church and brings her in bespeaking the Enemy in this manner. a Let it be a pleasure or matter of glorying to thee, that the day of Calamity hath overtake me. h I fear of God, the remnant, the faithful, which are the Church of God. i O Almighty, Edom, or Babylon. k Into a low condition, into deepst diffireties. l That I shall not always lie in them, God will raise me up of them. m The Prophet inherits the good, the law righteousness ones among those degrees multitudes. n When Affliction, War, Famine, and Captivity as a dismal cloud shall cover us, and besiege the daughter of light, which shall sit in lowliness. o As a light support, comfort and deliver me, his presence and favour shall, as the Sun rising, dispel the darkness of the night. This is spoken more especially concerning Judah.

9 I will bear o the indignation of the LORD p, because I have sinned against him q until he plead my cause r, and execute judgment for s: he e will bring me forth to the light u, and I shall behold his righteousnes x.

g Who loves and is kind to men in need, and is fo from the fence of Gods goodness, and in a defined incarnation of God, is Godly in the frame of his heart, and courtie of life towards God, and beneficent to men for Gods sake. b Is dead and gone, and left no Heir of his godlike virtues. c Out of him and Judas too, though Hierobab was (probably) now their king, and Herod was their prince, and Herod was their prince, and speaketh the truth, that is, without crooked and perverse designs, such one may possibly, but not easily, be found among the people of the ten, and of the two Tribes. i This proves the Prophets charge against this people, for the good and upright man imagineth not evil against any, but is evident that in Herod (and Judas too) the temper of the mort was vile, defining and designing to do evil against the good and upright man, and the murdering of Innocents, and seizing their Estates, *And like, i Kings 21. They shall be perplexed because the fore evils foretold by the true Prophets of God shall overwhelm them, and because the peace and prosperity promised by the false Prophets is unexpectedly turned into troubles, desolation, and utter ruin to their State, Cities and Families.

9-4. * Trust ye not in a Friend, I, put not confidence in a guide m: keep the doors of thy mouth n from her that lyeth in thy bosom a.

I Most prodigiously treacherous were the people of that Age, and since none upright, all lay in wait for blood, and were cursa'd hunters of brethren, it is but necessary caution that they trust no friendship. m Either Governor, who ought to govern, or Esaul, who being of intimate Familiarity usually do so, or a Husband, as the word importeth. n Watch thy words, let not thy tongue discover any secret or utter thy words which may be danger to thy self or give an advantage to thine enemy. a A Periphrasis of a wife in honest times, but whether in debauched times as these are of which the Prophet speak, it may import somewhat like that Prov. 5. 20. I will not say; a wife, as the word suppose will never disclose a Husband's secrets to ruin him, yet such were the Treacheries of that corrupt Age that it would be imprudent to trust a Wife.

o Patiently, and sublimely. ¶ The just and chaffing anger of the Lord in the effects of it upon me. ¶ Greatly, continually, both against his Law and Precepts thereof and against his love and mercies thereof ¶ I was guilty of Idolatry, ingratitude, and of injustice, unfaithfulness, and unmercifulness against one mine enemy. ¶ Therefore punishments then they suffered, therefore the righteous ones here justifie God, and humble themselves. ¶ Against mine Enemy, for that he will er' long do, as well as now he doth plead his own cause against me. He will be as well a just Judge against mine Enemies, to avenge me on them, as he is a just Judge against me, to punish me to life me. ¶ When that day comes, he will certainly evidence his justice, and will be to against mine insulting Adversaries, my cruel Enemies, and that he doth to punish them for my sake, as Fsa. 137. 7. Ista. 10. y. 12. Jer. 30. 8. 2Pet. 1. 12. 15. ¶ The Great and glorious, the Holy and Just God, who now chaffeth me, shall hereafter bring me out of a dark prison or dungeon into the light, as he will hereafter be made good, so shall the Church be delivered and made to prosper. ¶ The true Riches and his promised Salvation. This was boughted, for my Redemption, the Refutation of the Captivity, rebuilding of Jerusalem by order of Cyrus and Darius, and partly before this in Abraham's rescue from Seethur's pride and rage.

earnestly p, * the prince q asketh, and the so they y wrap it up.

¶ As we render the words, the plain sense will be, that all their diligence, that with both hands they can use, is to forward evil and mischief. Positively the first clause might bear this Reading, Both hands are towards evil, and then the following clause might be rendered thus, the Judge asketh for a reward, the great man asketh for a reward, and the prince asketh for a reward. Communioneth the Judge, and should have him from perverse Judgments, who should charge the Judges as Pharisees said, 2 Cant. 19. 5. 6. but contrarily here the Prince let a price upon his own Ad in evil. The inferior Magistrate committed to be Judge, f Shameless injustice! to tell the Judge to be a Judge of evil persons, and then to require the Judge, and pronounce them Ad: for a reward to make Gods Authority which is in them, to Ad: for directly against it, he is abominably wicked, for Gods Authority to them is given, that they might relieve the poor oppressed, and acquire innocency;
but here innocency must buy its safety, or else is lost to danger.
The great men r Advocate in their Courts of Judicature, and the great men of the Court, and the great men of the Court, are a bold to speak plainly what bribe he will have, he makes his own demand, whereas they did (whilst a little model) put by others; and a fervent or under-officer must make the bargain. x His unjust, oppressive design and purpose, knowing his greatness and intercell will bear him out in whereas violence, and the great men, poor, and under-privileged in innocence; he desires for gain, any thing forward, y All these,

y The Prophet here gives us a reaſon of his advice to be very low and whom they trull. q Who received his being, maintenance, education, and merits in honour as well as Eſtate of his Father, the Son obliged by moſt inviolable Love to pleaſe, preferve, and honour his Father, r ſeeks to accuſe, vilify, endanger and ruine. s Whole diſhonour and loſs, or ruine is alſo the Sins diſhonour and ruine, yet unnatural Treachery will be to riſe in thoſe times, that the Father had need keep his guard upon the Sons love and affection, who would naturally more tender than the Sons towards Parents, yet forget their duty. t That bare them, that nurſt them, that more than Fathers, tend, indulge and bear with them. So magnanimous ſhall the perſecutions of that Age be. x In Conſanguinity there ſhall be no faithfulneſs, in Affinity much leſs may you expect it. y The word and moſt pernicious Enemies, who will be moſt ready and moſt able to miſchiefe them, among Relations and Retainers, who by Law of God and Nature ſhould have been faithfull Friends. So it fell out through the Civil Wars of the Jews, in their Seditious, and in their calumnious days. Much like to this is that of Chriſt, ¶ 7 That this verbe contains good yddings to the people of G both to his antient people, Type of his Church in Gospel day and to the Church of the converted Gentils; is agreed on all hands for they are either a direction and command to those God do appoint by office to be Shepherds over his Flock, or a Prayer to God that he would please to take the care of his people, and doth include somewhat of both. For the first, Petition for the flock. Or it is a Prædication of what shall be done for the flock after their return out of Babylony captivity, or a Promise made to assure and comfort them during their captivity. Fed, Christ directs his Officers, or God appointeth Christ to do it, or to the Prophet for the people, or the people for themselves, to pray to God that he would be their Shepherd and feed the flock.  * Amazed at what they feel and know among their Nations for the deliverance of his People. The Enemy shall be able to bear the fight, nor deny the certainty of the thing: it will make them enviously look on the prosperity of the good and gaily among the Jews. * As men seldom fail to hear the first report of what they desire, and as seldom open their Ears to that they like not: so I shall be here, though they will not speak of it, nor desire others should speak of it, yet they should to their great grief, feel their poor Capives and their dear Countrymen, in the flight of honour, from a contemptible remnant to a mighty Nation. And in this complement in the reduction of Israhel out of Babylon, had his Anti-type's completion in our Redemption by Christ.

<sup>b</sup> In the most inhumane, fervile manner telling the Captivity, an promise of deliverance, and the relief out of the Captivity. <sup>c</sup> Which is an expedition with respect to the first mention of these Eastern complements, Psalm 72. 9. His King of 23, and was fulfilled in the dayes after the return when the Kings of 6 Israhel favoured the Jews, (as manner of Courtiers is) in compliance with their Kings the Grandes forwarded the prosperity of the Jews, as may easily be conjectured from the 6th. and 7th. verses. <sup>d</sup> The King of 6 Israhel is here Israhel (as the King of 6 Israhel crawl) on this, it seems to intimate the perpetuity of slavery and subjection that the Enemy should fall under, and that it should be on them as a curse like that on the Serpent. <sup>e</sup> So the strong-holds, and fainfulness of the Babylonians who kept Israhel in Captivity are called. <sup>f</sup> Which do with trembling and halfe wriggle themselves out of their holes, when with the King of 6 Israhel they are brought out of their prison, and in their fright run about from the Arch-hither with the foot, <sup>g</sup> should these Enemies of Israhel fly out of their holds, and leave them to conquering Perfians, as Isaiah foretold Chap. 45. 1. <sup>h</sup> 3. <sup>i</sup> 4. <sup>j</sup> A panic fear, expressed by the loosing of the Imps of King of 6 Israhel. <sup>k</sup> 4. <sup>l</sup> To do the conquering Cars proceed in conquest of his victories, as Isaiah 41. 2. <sup>m</sup> God triumphed in the Arch and leas hearts of Babylonians lying within them. <sup>n</sup> Who did powerfully work for Israhel in regard to the deliverance.

ing us out of Captivity. It was our God (saith the Prophet) the person of Israel) for his promise sake made to us, who did those great things by Cyrus and for us. b So that the name of Jews, their power, and greatness shall be terrible to their Enemies.

18 Who is a God like unto thee i, that pardoneth iniquity k, and passeth by l the transgression m of the remnant of his heritage n he retaineth not his anger for ever o, because he delighteth in mercy p.

Let what hath been spoken of this wonderful change in the affairs of the Jews, should on one hand be thought to be made use of for the Righteousness or worthiness of this people. Or else on the other hand should seem too great to be done for a sinful people, and so any should doubt whether it should be done at all. The Prophet in this and the two following verses propheseth that the ground of all this laid on the unparalleled grace of God towards his people, who pardoneth their unrighteousness, and their sin of free Mercy delivers them from their afflictions and distresses, changing their darkness into light. I Some observe that El here

 of speech used amongst us when we promise not to purifie are offence, or not to exact the punishment of it, or as if we saw no, or voluntarily were ignorant of our sin. 1. A would not make it necessary to enquire the difference between iniquity and sin, and transgression, or whether they are here Synonymous, and expiatory of each other. God pardon by the forfeits we make and Trips us out of our mercies. 3. This intimates the reason why God doth wash as the persons to whom he doth pardon sin; That Grace which makes them clean, is here then to himselfe, as the common definition, the same Grace pardon and pass by, that it may do them good No worthiness in them to whom 'tis done, and yet certainty it shall be done, as Rom. 4. 16. O though in his derivate God did deny them into captivity, yet because he does not retain his anger for ever, their Captivity shall not be for ever, he will chasise them home, and will give them, and will give them the exceeding riches of his mercy it is his delight to shew mercy, and we need enquire no farther tier, our God is so wonderfully merciful that 'tis his pleasure to shew mercy, and if a man sometime may give this as a reason why he doth a thing, surely our God may well expect that we should, Psalm. 103. 8. in account of his doing so. He delighteth to do it, Psalm. 103. 8. 14. 43. and 50. 15. Psalm. 5. 5.

19 He will turn again q, he will have compassion upon us r : he will subdue f our iniquities, and thou shalt cast all their sins into the depths of the sea.

g Spoken after the manner of man who in his anger went away resolved to right himself, but on second thoughts laying aside his anger turns again to be reconciled and forgive. So the next words explain thee, v With tender bowels he will shew himself gracious to us, Job 34. 3, f As our Enemies and his, God will break the power, abolish the dominion of sin which whilst it reigned provoked God and undid us, it aggravated and ruined us, but God will pardon the guilt and procure the Law of sin and to restore his people suitable to that Exod 35. 29, to 34. 1 Here is an Hypallage of the person from the third to the first person, very usual in the sacred writers, and the third to the first, clearly. A usual expression in Scripture to fortify the full and eternal pardon of sin, here 'tis emphatical All thy sins, v Whence ordinarily we account things, can never be or be found more.

20 Thou y wilt perform z the truth a to Jacob b, and the mercy c to Abraham d, which thou hast sworn e unto our fathers f from the days of old g.

¶ O God of Mercy, Wisdom, Power and Faithfulness, who ever are honoured with being their instruments and servants in doing heretofore therein, the thing is thine, thou wilt rule up a deliverer, Cyrus shall be thine anointed to do this great work.

¶ Give Him, actually before what thou hast in Mercy promised, a Nothing certain as the Word of God, it is the Father's Will. The posterity of Jacob, he was that plain hearted man who gives now name to all the upright and honest among his seed which God will never finally cut off; though we carried Captive they shall be restored, rebuilt and re-established like flourish as Isaiah 60, 11, 12, and thus they are a new people in grace in God to promise Abraham and His Seed such excellent privileges which Abraham's natural Seed did inherit, but both this Seed, and this Mercy, look beyond the natural descendants of Abraham, and beyond their return to the Land of Canaan whence they were carried away, and to the Land of Mission where they have been blessed. Luke, v. 44, 47, and 68, and others. ¶ Nor once as Father to justify after the Flesh, but to him as Father of the faithful. ¶ Not that there was no Gods part any need of such confirmation but that on our part all doubts might be removed, and by the immeasurable things of Gods love, we may be assured that He will keep His Promise, and that His Mercy is frequently repeated in the Promises to the Fathers after Abraham's time, by which Promise a Mercy to be perpetuated in Abraham's Seed till the Redemption of the Triad of God by the Messiah (in which all temporal deliverances of Ishvati were figures) should be effected &c. Ever since Adam's fall, I have said, that the People of God, into this we do as Israhel did, receive our assurance of final deliverance, Amen.

The ARGUMENT.

The Prophet Nahum is one of those Prophets whose Family and Country is concealed, and it would be more laborious then profit to spend time on the enquiry after the one or others; he is filied the Eklohithe, and possibly born and bred in Eklotha a Town of Galilee, an obscure place of which perhaps he had heard no more, had he not been written in to the name was put in the title of the Psalms, Psal. 87. 5. The time of his appearing in publick discharge his Propheticall Office is much more material, being a key to the whole Prophecy; now it is certain that Nahum was a Prophet in Office, whilst the Kingdom of Assyria was not only standing but whilst it was in the height of its glory, and in the full of its strength, whilst it was dangerous and terrible to its neighbours. It is to me evident, that Nahum prophesied before the destruction of Sennacherib's Army, for he foretells the death of Sennacherib, chap. 3. which it is certain also he appeared after Hoheia and the ten Tribes were carried Captive by Salmanacer. This was either in Anno Mundi 3229. as Helvicus, or 3283. as Arch Bishop Usher, and Declar Lightfoot in the ninth year of Hoheia was the death of Hezekiah, 2 King. 18. 10. and some few years before the death of Salmanacer, whose Son Sennacherib succeeded, and invaded Egypt and Judah, in the 14th. year of Hezekiah, eight years after Samaria was taken and the ten Tribes were captivated, within which time it probably took the fifth of those eight Nahum is sent a Prophet to quiet, support and encourage Hezekiah and his Subjects against all the pride and power of the Assyrian Ty-ant, who threatened to devour Judah and Jerusalem, from compassing whereof the Tyant shall be so farre that God will turn it to his ruine and end as a verry fit Lesson for the people, to cleave the fual and utter ruine of the Assyrian Empire and its capital City Nineveh with full revenge, for all their oppressions of their neighbours, but especially in revenge of their reitreated violence against Israel and Judah, on account of which good saying the Prophet bath his name Nahum, which in the Hebrew is nam and signifies ruine and ruine. And also a general indered Revengetice is preparatory to converse, and though his preaching againſt Nineveh be the comfort of Jeruſalem, no doubt he called Jeruſalem to Repent, which is probably collected from chap. i. ver. 13. Keep thy ſolemn feaſts, O Judeah, perform thy vows. This whole Propheſie except the 15th. verſe of this chapter is directed againſt Nineveh head City of the Aſſyrian Kingdom, and againſt the whole Kingdom, which with all ſorts of Men and Women in it are threatened with very ſore and heavy judgments, with final Deſolation, or Captivity for their fins; all which was fulfilled by the Lord ſending the Babylonian, and Median power to overthrow this power of Aſſyria, and particularly by the joint Forces of Nabopolſar and Aſtyages as is by the moſt Learned Arch-Biſhop Uſher deſcribed, in the Anno Mundi 3378. Yet theſeſelf to the final ruine of the Aſſyrian Kingdom foretold by Nahum came much ſooner, and that in the death of Eſarhaddon, or Alardarius the Aſſyrian Monarch did expire. But though I determine not the number of years during which this threatened Monarchy did ſtand, yet be they fewer or more, Nahum's Propheſie was fulfilled in the deſtruction of Nineveh, and the ſubverſion of the Aſſyrian Monarchy, and the Jews were no more infeſted by the Aſſyrian though they were by the Babylonian Kingdom; the things then ſpoken of by Nahum do in the Letter and Hiſtorical part of them concern the times between the 12th. or 14. of Hezekiah, and the end of the Aſſyrian Monarchy. And a ſkilful obſerver of the Hiſtories of theſe times would be able to interpret this Prophet nor ſhall any it tolerably well without reſort to theſe Hiſtories which though not cited here at large (which brief Annotations admit not) yet have not been quite neglected, and what errors in applying the Hiſtories and computation of times, are here committed, All will candidly excuſe who know the obſcurity and uncertainty of thoſe times.

he will make an utter end: affliction shall not rise up the second time.

x Having declared the dreadfuls of God's Power and Anger against the wicked; his goodnes towards his people, afflictus: He doth now expostulate with them, would know what they think of God, what 'tis they designe against him, and on what they flatter themselves into such an afflictus: v The God of Israel however you o Ninivites, (weakened by many Vnrs.) and designe to afflict those people, who are the people of the Lord, and you designe against him, what will you be able to do? v He will make your utter delation and designe against him, to be your utter overthrow of your sins, vid. cap. 3 v 12. and the punishment that shall overthrow you is past, no other shall be able to rescue you, shall be no more; as if the Prophet had said, v He will at once, and for ever destroy your Empire and City,

18 For b while they be folden together c as thorns, and while they are drunken d as drunkards, they shall be devoured as stubble fully dry e.

This gives us account how this desolation shall be effected; & they shall be like thorns easily burnt, and like thorns folden together, which burnt together, and help to destroy each other, and are altogether cast into the fire. d As men drunken, and unable to help themselves, are easily destroyed, so shall the Afflicted, or drunk with pleasures, and pride, they shall be surprised, and ruined, and easily overthrown. e This fully expresseth the speedy, irresistible, and total destruction, what the anger of God will bring upon them, as the fire burns up, so shall the dried stubble, so shall the wrath of God destroy the Semies of Israel, and of Israel's God.

The ARGUMENT.

THE Propheſie of Habakkuk ſeems to be an exact ſtating of that perplexed caſe, touching the ſeeming unequalitys of the Proceedings of God, in the Government of the World, in which the good ſuſſer Evil, and the Evil rejoyce in Proſperity, the more righteous are afflicted, and the more unrighteous proſper; nay, the worſt domineer over the beſt, among men. This caſe baffled the wiſe among Philoſophers, and it much troubled David and Jeremiah, Pſal. 73. 2, 3. &c. Jer. 12. 1, 2. and hath ever been matter of ſome wonder to the beſt and wiſeſt of men, as here 'twas to Habakkuk, who lived in the times of great impieties againſt God, and of great injuſtice amongſt Men. 'Tis moſt probable He lived and Propheſied in the dayes of Manaſſeh, when the wicked devoured the man that was more righteous then himſelf, and this is the Subject of his complaint, chap. 1. ver. 1, 2, 3, 4. Theſe grievous ſins which then abounded, he declareth ſhall be puniſhed by the Chaldeans, at which he again wondereth; it grieveth him to ſee in Judah, the beſt afflicted by the worſt; and it is as much grief to him to ſee the wicked Nation of the Chaldeans, proſper in the ruins of a more righteous Nation, from the 5th. to the 11th. ver. of the firſt Chapter, which God commandeth him to ſuſ-taint. On this He propheſies the caſe expreſly, from ver. 12. to the end of the Chapter, and which God reſolutely for him in the ſecond Chapter, where the ſins of Judah, and the ſins of the Chaldeans are enumerated, and at once both are threatened with puniſhment, when the Chaldeans have puniſhed Judah's ſins, the Medes and Perſians ſhall puniſh the ſame ſins in the Chaldeans; in all which the unpoſſible Righteouſneſs, and the admirable wiſdom of God is ſeen, in the Government of his Church chaſtiſed for her ſin againſt God, and in his Government of the World, ſinning highly againſt God, and with greater wickedneſs doing the ſame, or worſe things then thoſe, for which by their means God had before puniſhed his Church. In fine, the Prophet with ſteady Faith, and fervent Prayer, addreſſeth to God, and in moſt elegant manner recounting God's Mercy and Faithfulneſs to his people, chap. 3. leaves it both a Foundation to our hope, and Pattern for our practiſe. He doth reſolve as we ſhould, to wait for, rejoyce in, and ſubmit to the Lord, in greateſt diſtreſſes, and darkneſs of Providence. An excellent Subject for our meditations at this day, as well as in the dayes of our Prophet, whoſe name ſeems to imply his weſtlings with theſe difficulties, or his laying hold, embracing of God; our ſafeſt courſe in ſuch circumſtances, being to adhere to God. We can be gueſs at the time of his Propheſying, and that we think is rather in the time of Manaſſeh, then of Hezekiah, or Joſiah, though poſſibly he might live and be a Prophet in the firſt part of Joſiah's Reign: What Tribe, or what Family he was of, we pretend not to tell you, ſince we cannot pretend to know; but we are ſure he was not the pretendat Meſſenger that carried a meſſ of Bruſh out of Judea into Babylon, for Daniel's Dinner; and we think it a wonder, any thinking man ſhould now believe it, as it would at that day have been if really done.

CHAP. I.

THE burden a which Habakkuk b the prophet c did ſee d.

a Vid. Nabon. 1. ver. 1. let. a. to which we may here add, as proper to this time and place: That the Prophet ſeems to ſpeak of the grievous things here intended, as a burden to himſelf, a trouble he did feel and groan under. b Here we might as so-others gueſt at this Country, Parentage and Tribe; but no certainly appears in theſe, his name may perhaps intimate ſomewhat, either Actively one that embraceth, or Paſſively one embraced, and ſo may refer to God, or to his people, and immune good to a people, whom God will ere long embrace, or it may ſpeak one that is puzzled with the intricacy of affairs, and therefore expoſtulate, as verſ. 2. c. Not he that is mentioned in the Apocryphal Book, but a Prophet called, and ſent of God. d Not only in the future certainty of it on others, but did alſo feel in the preſent trouble and perplexity wherewith it afflicted him.

2 O LORD e, how long ſhall I cry g, and thou wilt not hear h even cry i out unto thee k of violence l, and thou wilt not ſave m?

a Unto God alone he makes his Application, as only able to redreſs all grievances. f It may be ſome years he had Preached, and in Preaching had complain'd cry'd out againſt wicked-neſs. g Unto men in thy name, and unto thee in Prayer and Supplication. b Give answer by correcting or puniſhing the bad: and by reſtoring and delivering the good. c By appointing a juſt Arbitrator and Judge of both. d With ſubmiſſion, not murmuring, not impatient, nor diſtruſting the Juſtice or Mercy of God. e Who are more multiplied, then I or any one elic can be diſquitted, with that I complain of, who are by office and word bound to refrain violence. f The unjuſt and wicked oppreſſions which I ſee others feel, and all good people are endangered by. g By changing the bad, or re-ſtraining them, or by overthrowing them, and ſetting up juſt and upright men in their room, both in Jeruſalem, and in Judea, and every where elle.

3 Why doſt thou ſhew n me iniquity o, and cauſe p me to behold q grievance q? for ſpoiling r and violence f are before s me: and there are thaiſe t upon u ſtrife and contention x.

n It is a moſt unpleaſing ſight, and that which troubles me, and every good man, to ſee unjuſt and injurious men without control, and unpuniſhed, to act their iniquity; and yet, O God, thou not only permiſteſt it to be done, but to be done in fight, and to the grief of thy ſervants; thus God ſheweth it, and is not without juſt cauſe, though the cauſe be hidden. o Men of iniquity and vanity, unrighteous toward men, and vain in their thoughts and practices of Religion toward God. p This explains the former, lit. m. q So 'tis in regard of the effect it hath upon beholders, and ſuch as ſuffer by this iniquity; 'tis grief and ſorrow to them, 'tis a grievance they groan under.
r Such as warfare, and unbelief that fall under it. s Per-verting Judgment, and turning it into Wormwood; or elſe
t a Hebraiſm, ſpoiling and violence, that is moſt violent robbing and ſpoiling each other. u Every where I ſee it, to the breaking of mine heart. v Or, and there is ſtrife, that is, little but ſtrife among men, occaſioned by theſe oppreſſive practices.
x So 'twill be a Hebraiſm, expreſſing endless contention. It would wear, and Judgment is taken away, which ſuits the next verſe.

4 Therefore y the law z is ſlack'd a, and judgment b doth never c go forth: for d the wicked d doth compaſs about e the righteous therefore work f judgment g proceedeth.

y Becauſe the wicked go on with impunity, and the puniſhment they deſerve is deſer'd. z Of God, given to this people by the hand of Moſes, the whole Law Moral, Ceremonial and Judicial. a Is ſlighted, weakened, and little ſtudied, and obeyed by all forts. b Not only private men neglect the Law, but Magiſtrates, Judges and public Officers pervert, or divert, or obſtruct it alſo. c Heb. To be ſet, and unto victory, with prevalence to refrain the unjuſt, and to protect the innocent, which is the end of Magiſtracy, Rom. 13. 3. d The unjuſt and violent man. e As 'twere beſieged, ſurrounded, with deſign to oppreſs and ruin by life violence, interuſt or bribery.
f Pervert Judgment, wherein innocency is condemned, and the innocent are acquitted: g So the Judges are Swords in the Bowels, when they ſhould be Shields over the Bodies of the Righteous.

5 ¶ Behold g ye among the heathen h, and and regard i, and wonder marvellouſly k: for I will work m a work in your dayes n, which ye will not believe o, though it be told you p.

q Here God begins to anſwer the Prophet, and calls for a very particular and exact conſideration of the things he ſays.
r b What judgments, what puniſhments have been executed upon the Heathen, for like ſins. c Weigh it well in all its tendency and conſequence, for it is a warning to you, it affirms your judgment will overtake you alſo. d As ſufficiently at judgments, too great to be expreſs in words, and ſo ſtrange that 'twill ſeem too much to be believed. e The Great and Glorious God, the juſt and ſupream Judge. f Begin, continue and finiſh a work. g A work I am working, h I begin juſtice and equity and juſtice. i I ſhall no more be deſer'd, Exe
7. 5. &c. O ye wicked violent oppreſſors, will not believe thoſe the Lord by his Prophets foretold. p Deſcribed how, and by whom, and when.

6 For lo q, I raiſe up r the Chaldeans s, that bitter t and haſty u nation, which ſhall march x through the y breadth z of the land, to poſſeſs a the dwelling places b that are not theirs.

q Now the Prophet declares particularly what 'tis that the Lord will work. r Awaken to action, animate them in it, and ſtrengthen them to accompliſh their deſign. s Who had ſub-dued other Nations, and had already ruined the ſovereign Monarchies, t Cruel, and without Mercy. u Jer. 6. 23. and 21. 7.
v Speedy and quick in executing their mercyleſs purpoſes, as Exe 7. 26. 27. x Heb. walk without fear, and in order, as a Conqueror doth in his conqueſts. y Through all parts of the Land, no corner ſhall eſcape his ſearch or cruelty. z Not to ſpoil and be gone; but to take and keep poſſeſſion, as Lord and Proprietor in the right of conqueſt. a Houses, Towns, Cities, b Jeruſalem it ſelf, which they had no right to, till Jeruſalem ſins gave occasion for the diſpoſſing of the Jews, and the introducing of the Chaldeans.

7 They are terrible and dreadful a: their judgment b and their dignity c ſhall proceed of themſelves.

a To affect the incredulous Jews with greater fear, 'tis doubled, they are of all Nations moſt terrible; in the herceneſs wherewith they fight, and cruelty with which they treat their Captives. b The Law they obſerve is their own Will, and what they pleaſe you muſt ſubmit unto, nor complain of wrong done, for as much as they do it. c Their Authority and Superiority for which you muſt reverence them, the Lordlineſs of their deportment toward you, or the Right they aſſume to ſend you Captives, all is from themſelves, without reſpect to any other Law or Rule whatever. d How miserable are you like to be, when enſlaved to ſuch a barbarous cruelty, and unbounded pride!

8 Their horſes alſo are ſwifter d then the leopards e, and are more f fierce f then the evening wolves g: and their horſemen h ſhall ſpread i themſelves, and their horſemen ſhall come from far k, they ſhall fly l as the eagle that haſteth m to eat.

d They will be ſwifter upon you then you think, and when once among you, they will be ſwifter then you can fly from.
e Jer. 30. 16. and Lam. 4. 19. f A fierce creature, ravenous as the Lyon, and much ſwifter, a watchful and fly beaſt, from which 'tis very hard to fly. g More eager after, and more cruel to the prey. h Which with long ſtanding in the day, do come out in the Evening, more fierce on every thing that may be a prey to them; i Jer. 3. 6. Exe 22. 27. zeph 3. 3.
k Excellent Riders, that can manage the ſpeed and herceſſes of theſe horſes. l All over the Land, fo many ſhall they be and ſo active, and all ſtrong, and hale as ſome that the word implyed. m As far from liking your cuſtoms, pitying your perſons, underſtanding your Language, as they are far remote from your Country; Men that will make you pay the change of their long and tedious Journey. n Leſt you ſhould dream of escape by flight, your enemies (O miſerable Jews) ſhall be to ſmile, you'll think they flew on wings, on Eagles wings, the ſwifteſt of flight, and quickſt in ſpying her prey.
o Hunger makes her flight the quicker, and her leaſure of the prey more bold and daring. p Job 9. 26. Exe 17. 3. o ſhall your enemies be to you.

9 They ſhall come all o for violence: ¶ their faces p ſhall ſup up q as the caſt-wind, and they ſhall gather the captivity r as the ſand r.

o Chaldeans, and in particular theſe fierce and ſwift Horſemen. p With one purpoſe, on the ſame deſign, to enrich themſelves by making a prey of us. q Either then, their very countenances ſhall be as blaſting, peſtilentous and dangerous, as is the Eaſt wind in thoſe countries, or thus, all they can ſup up, or lay hold on, they will carry Eaſtward. Or thus, when you are devoured they ſhall feel their faces Eaſtward to devour others in thoſe Coaſts. r Priſoners or Captives, called here the Captivity, to expreſs the extremity thereof. r Both for caſe-of gathering, and the multitude of captives gathered.

10 And they f ſhall ſcoff t at the kings u, and the princes x ſhall be y ſcorn unto them y: they ſhall deride every ſtrong hold, for they ſhall heap duſt and take it z.

f Both the King of Babylon and his Souldiers. t Deride and contemn. u Which either conſidered with the Jews, or elic oppoſed the deſigns of the Chaldeans, as the Kings of Egypt,

1 O Lord who hast rais'd, and increased the Chaldean Kingdom, O of Infinite Power and Holiness. x Afrid' unto God to express his knowledge; fo his eyes run to and fro, and his eye is upon the righteous. y His Omniscience doth behold all things, and to David expressed it, Thou hast said mightily and victoriously in spirit, Psal. 139. 14. But he doth not, will not, cannot see with delight, with approbation. z Of sin and iniquity. a The same thing repeated to confirm us. All this the Prophet doth lay down as most undoubtedly true, and on which he stays himself; (though he be amazed with the darkness of Providence) and by this he will repress all undue murmurings, when he debates with God about his Providences, most just and Holy! But why thus or thus? b See! all the violence done, and beareth with them that do it, why doth not thy hand remove, and avenge what thine eye is offended at, and thy heart abhorreth? c The Chaldeans who were a perfidious Nation, and ruin'd many by their Treacheries; Fraud and Force were both alike to them. And 'tis likely they dealt very fairly with the Jews. d Something unconcerned in such a degree as to be silent and say nothing. e Or wilt thou, it might seem as if thou speakest, when the violent are about their violence, when the Prey is between the Teeth and not swallowed. f The Chaldean, an oppressor, bloody and treacherous against men, an Adverser, or Idolater against God. g Swalloweth down whole, as the word imports, Num. 16. 30. and Psal. 124. 3. h The Jews, or almost every one of us, as the pharisees import. i Though the Jews were a very corrupt Nation, yet, compared with the Chaldeans, they were the better; and the two the Jews was the less evil. Now this Riddle he desired might be unfolded, why is the justice oppressed by the unjust?

14 And makest k men l as the fishes m of the sea n? as the l creeping things o that have no ruler p over them.

k Not insinuating cruel, ravenous, and unsatiable Appetites, but permitting them to eat, according to such appetite which was already in them. l Who should be just to all, and wrong none, who were once fram'd for mutual help in civil Societies, and whose life should be Beneficence. m Of which the greater live on the lesser, and do greedily and all the day long feed on the smaller fry. n Where the devourers are more for number, of greater bulk and fvalow greater numbers of the lesser. o Which in the waters are food for the lesser fry; fo the world, like the sea, is wholly oppression. p None to defend the weak, to restrain the mighty and to give law to all.

q Either more generally oppressors every where, or especially the Chaldeans. r Draw them out silly, and craftily when they are taken by his bait. s Without distinction, all a like good or bad. t It may refer to the delight these oppressors took in their courses, or to the more private way of destroying. u Another method of the Chaldean Rapine, like catching of Fish, not singly and one by one but destroying many together. x As if they could never have enough, these Chaldeans do, fish-like, drive men into their nets and snares. y This is a third way of destroying Fish. The Chaldeans would lay all ways to devour the Jews. z The greedy and cruel Chaldeans. a Both in their own gain, and in the Jews Ruine. b 'Tis doubled to show the certainty of the thing, and probably to intimate the double joy they took in their prosperous oppression.

16 Therefore c they sacrifice d unto their net e, and burn incense f to their drag g; because by them their portion h is sat i, and their meat k l plentifulous l.

c Because they prosper and thrive, in which they should feel and acknowledge the wit, and mighty Providence. d Idolize and pay divine honours to, describe the pride of his Victories and acquired glory. e To his own contrivances, diligence, and power, as if the Fisher-man should make his Net his God, and offer Sacrifice for a good draught of Fishes taken, to the Net that took them. f Another part of Divine honour, and profitably used in giving thanks and Praises. g To their Policy and Power their own Counsel, conduct and Arms, express in the Metaphor of a Fisherman. h Stay, condition, or interest. i The great and flourishing. k The Revenues of the Kingdom in general, and the Revenues of particular subjects, especially of the Commanders, and Military Officers; whose help to spread, draw, and empty the Net. l Abundant, that it might seem a sufficient provision, as well as a pleasant mess, sufficient for quantity as sweet in quality. It is like these self admirers did not only eat the fat of the land they wasted, but laid up in store for themselves.

17 Shall they m therefore n empty their net o, and not spare p continually to slay q the nations r?

m The Chaldeans, Ninus, and his Armies. n Shall former success be pledge of future, they have prosper'd, and they think they shall; wilt thou confirm this to them? o As Fishermen empty the full Net to fill it again, and call out what they had taken to take in more, shall these proud and cruel Chaldeans do to fill? p Shall they, as endlessly as mercilessly waste. q Murderer-like, kill. r Not single persons but whole Kingdoms, and people at once; wit thou. O most just, and mighty God, and Judge! Suffer these things always? s The Prophet by the question intimates to us that God most certainly will not suffer it always. The Lord will in fit time arise and break the oppressors arm, and save the oppressed Church and People of God.

CHAP. II.

1 I Will * stand a upon my watch b, and I will set c me upon the t tower d, and will watch e to see what he f will say g; I unto h me b, and what I shall answer i; t when I am t; I reprieved k.

a The first Chapter ended with that difficult and perplexed question, why God suffers the wicked to go long to prosper in their oppressions of the righteous? This Chapter begins with the Prophet waiting, and musing, studying with himself what account he might give to himself, and waiting what answer God would give him of it. He will stand in a posture of meditating, observing and waiting. b Politely the Prophet may have respect to the manner of the Jews, who in their solemn Prayers and waiting on God had their Statutes and watches as DD. Bazarim observeth in Psal. 122. 1 in their Synagogues, or at Jerusalem. But I rather think the Prophet received his law one that is to be a watchman, as Prophets are, Esai. 21. 17. for the People of God. Or passively in my Watch, i. e. where my adversaries like besieging Enemies observe and watch me. It contains his diligent and persevering expectation and observing. c Fixedly and with resolution not to leave my labours, as the fish, implor'd 'tis the same thing, being more explicitly express'd than in the word stand. d Either Watch-tower, or belieged Tower, or within a circle out of which I will not stir till I receive an answer. e Most attentively observe. f The Lord, chap. 1. 12. g Or signify unto me. h Waiting for mine own satisfaction and for the information of others. i There are many that are perplexed at the intricacy of Providence, and some enquire to be instructed; some propose doubts, and then, and others do quarrel, and perversely wrangle with God, and his Prophets. z And how I may answer thee from the Word of God, is that I wait for, faith our Prophet. k When called to give an account of the mysteriousness of Providence; when either to satisfy doubters, or to silence quarrellers.

2 And the LORD l answered m me, and said, Write n the vision o, and make it plain p upon tables q, that he may run r that readeth it.

l On whom he waited, and who ruleth all Affairs. m Did hear my desire, and gave direction what I should do. n What is only spoken is soon forgot, but what is written is more lasting, therefore write thou the Vision thou'lt do to thee. o The things thou seest, or which thou shalt feel. p Make the writing very plain, engrave it, as was their manner. q What was of public concern, and therefore to be publish'd, was usually written or engraven upon Tables, smooth stones, or wood, and then hang'd up in a public place to be read. r The note may need to make a stop, but hold on his course, in the greatest haste of business, every one may plainly and easily discern what is written.

3 For s the vision t is yet for an appointed time u, but at the end x it shall speak y, and not lie z: thought it tarry a, wait b for it, because it will * surely come c, it will not tarry d.

s The reason why it must be written is because it should be forgotten, whilst the appointed time is somewhat far off; write it that it may be preserved in memory. t The accomplishment of the things shew'd unto thee, what thou seest is coming, and what thou foreseest to them, will take effect. u Determin'd and fixed with God though unknown to men. x When the period appointed of God shall come, then, and not till then, 'twill be accomplished. y Be accomplished, and fully made good. z Not beyond the expectation of thee. From the times of the Prophets feeling it, which was about Ninus's time or from about the time of captivating the Ten Tribes, until Cyrus his time. b Expect it, then 'twill speak out that every one who hath an ear to hear it. c When the ruler of Babylon, never to be more built, shall proclaim the Justice of God against his, and his Church her Enemies, and what defence there is between corrections on his people, and definition upon Enemies. d Not beyond the expectation of thee, which reckon'd from the captivity of the Ten Tribes, was 150 years, or from Manassah's captivity, was about 120 years, more or less to the destruction of Babylon by Cyrus, when the riddle was fully unfolded.

4 Behold e his soul f which is lifted g up not upright h in him: but * the just i shall live k by his faith l.

Note W, there are two Parts of persons who concern themselves in this puzzling question of the Divine Providence; the one object and quarrel, content with God, proudly, discontentedly and impatiently. Others enquire humbly, submitting themselves to God, and waiting for him. The heart and soul of every such one. g T'is a man, who dwells with the Justice and Wisdom of the Divine Providence, that delights himself in deliverance to great a distance and provides for his own safety by his own Wit. h Is very corrupt and wicked, full of (not only distrusts, but) positive conclusions against Gods favour punishing the wicked, such one is fo wicked that he thinks God will not punish the violent, and bloody; the superstitious and Idolatrous Babylonians. i The humble and upright, and comparatively Righteous one. k Supports himself, and doth approve the Season God chooseth. l Supports himself, and quets his own heart, whilst he foreseeth the approaching deliverance of Zion. m His well grounded dependence on a persuasion of the truth of Gods Promises touching the Relief of the Faithful Servants of God, whose deliverance he believeth to be certain, and so waits for the performance of Promises made to him and them.

5 Ye also m because he n transgresseth by wine a, he is fo proud p man, neither keepeth at home q, who enlargeth his desire as hell r, and is as death s, and cannot be satisfied t, but gathereth u unto him x all nations y, and heapeth z unto him all people.

m Or myself, furthermore. n The King of Babylon, or every one of them. o Which Vice destroys Kings and Kingdoms, and in the excesses of Luxury the Babylonian King Belshazzar, his City and Kingdom of Babylon fell a prey to Darius and Cyrus. p Insolent in his behaviour towards all both subjects, Subjects, strangers, and conquer'd Enemies, such pride hath which though it enlarge his Countreys, it weakeneth his Kingdom, and gives advantage to Malecontents and Conspirators, beside that it expoieth him to imminent, and continual dangers. q Is most insatiably greedy to devour all, as far from saying 'tis enough as the grave is. r As pernicious, and ravenous. s All too little for him, and there is no possibility to satiate his appetite. t Addeth one after another. x To his Kingdom. y That are round about him, all he knows, are design'd upon, and he purloineth to engross them. z Another expression of the same import. Now all this foretold of the future temper of the Babylonish Kings and Kingdoms are sure preface of their no long continuance in grandeur, but that thorny Divine Vengeance will overtake them. This might be answer to disputers.

6 Shall not a all these b take up a parable c against him d, and a taunting e proverb against him f and say: || Wo f to him that increaseth g that which is not b his: how long i? and to him that ladeth k himself with thick clay l?

a The Predication is moulded thus in a Question to give it emphasis and make it more effective. b Who have been oppressed, continually used, and perfidiously deceived; i. all the people who have fear'd the power and policy of Babylon. c Turn him and his face into a By-word, and Scorn. d The King of Babylon, a while since the Terror, now the scorn of nations. e Short, but smart, wounding scoffes, and whereas men usually bewail and condole the misfalls of great, brave, and just Kings or Kingdoms; All people shall exult, and triumph, in the miseries of this oppressive, luxurious and base Kingdom. f Either 'tis a threat of like vengeance on all such Transgressors, or it may be a publishing the miseries come upon Babylon by Rapine, fraud, and injurious dealings multiplied; 'tis Treasures, as the King of Babylon did. g 'Twas not his highness he had it; 'twas not his right though 'twas in his possession. Or else thus, one misery of the Babylonians shall be, they increase Wealth, but not for themselves, but for the Medes and Persians. h This seems to be the sigh of the oppressed who think it long to see the oppressor fall. k Wo to him that is a burthen to others, whilst he burdens himself with vain and trifling goods by Extortion, and grievous unjust Taxes. l Gold and Silver, fo called to lower the overvalue of them, and perhaps to mind the Tyrant of a Clay-bed.

7 Shall they not m rise up n suddenly o that shall bite p thee, and awake q that shall vex r thee, and thou shalt be for booties s unto them t?

m This question doth more fully ascertain the thing. n They grow up as men who resolve to do things which they never enter upon their feet, and so to it. The Medes and Persians were growing to Power and would ere long rise up to ruin Babylon. o And surprize it in security, so they were down ere they did perceive themselves falling and such sudden ruin is most dreadful. p Devour and eat thee up. q Thou, O Babylon, (and Babylon with thee) wilt in drunken slumbers (unable to resist) fall into the hands of the awakened Medes and Persians. r As thou hast been, O Babylon, a vexation to others by thy proud and insolent behaviour by scoffes and cruelties, so others shall now be a vexation unto thee. s Not only your lands, houses and goods; but your persons, and choice of your Relations, shall be booties taken, and sold for Slaves, to the profit of Medes and Persians.

8 * Because n thou hast spoiled s many t, || ff. 33. 1. nations, all y the remnant of the people shall spoil thee z * because of the mens t blood a, and * ver. 17. for the violence b of the land c, of the city d, and all that dwell e therein.

The Prophet proceeds to give account of the Reasons on which the Divine Nemesis moves in this Affair, and these may convince and confirm us in it. a Slay their People, kick'd their Cities, rob'd their Treasuries, led captive the Subjects, and depopled Kingdoms, and done this to many Nations, whose Cry is come up to heaven. b Jer. 25. 9. and 27. 3. recounts some six or seven Nations, It is like all the Nations that lay round about this Kingdom were spoil'd by it. c Now their is active, or else it passively takes, 'tis the violence done by Babylon to the land of Judaea especially. d Either Babylon which oppress'd Jerusalem, or Jerusalem oppress'd by Babylon. e This also is understood actively, or passively is applicable to either Babylon, or Jerusalem Citizens and Inhabitants.

9 Wo f to him g that h || coveteth an evil * Jer. 22. 13. covetousness i to his house j, that he may set his || Or, that gaineth an evil gain, k on high l, that he may be delivered m || Heb. palm of the hand. n of evil o.

'Tis a general and comprehensive threat against all Tyrants, and oppressors. g Every one that is guilty of the sin h Or driveth a trade of oppression, to gain by what means force, right or wrong. This is evil of sin and will end in evil of trouble. i His Family which will he more enrich, and greatly by raising it on the ruins of oppressed Innocents. k A proverbial speech in allusion to birds of prey which build their nests in the greatest heights, Obadiah 4. great nests, and an advanced estate gotten by rapine and prey may seem, but never can be a security to any Monarch. l Higher than God, and justice let him. m Keep secure, and out of danger from all below him. n Heb. from the palm of the hand of evil, that no evil may fall on, though it may attempt against him.

10 Thou o halt consulted shame p to thy house q by cutting r off many people; and halt sinned f against thy soul t.

o Ninus, the great King of Babylon. p Halt mistaken thy measures, thought to advance thy glory, and to illustrate thy name; but 'tis in very deed the shame, the ruin, the reign that it hath been bloody. q Or Family, thy Royal Family. r Destroying and impoverishing multitudes of men and cities. s 'Tis thy sin what ever thou didst think of it. t Or life of thy person, and posterity, this blood and cruelty will surely ruin thy house.

11 For the stone u shall cry out x of the wall, and the ll beam y out of the timber shall l answer z it.

u The strength of thy house accuseth thee. x As if it had a voice it cryeth to God for vengeance. y On which thy chambers are laid. z Confirms the charge against thee and that fabric can not be long a safe, or a beautiful habitation, whole stones and beams be shaken, with the strong cries of innocent blood, and families ruin'd by the oppression of the builder.

12 * Wo to him t that buildeth s a town b * Jer. 22. 13. by t blood c, and stablisheth d a city e by || Ezek. 24. 9. iniquity f. || Nah. 3. 1. || Heb. blood.

Thine arrows walked in the light, (which was miraculously continued) and thy spears walked in the brightness of the lightning, (as I venture for that once to read the words from the Hebrew) do dreadful was that day to the Enemy, joyful to Israel. a Pursuant of his Message the Prophet speaks of God as marching on to deliver his people, or it may refer to the Ark, a token or Cedi preterit before the people. b To complete the Salvation begun in bringing them out of Egypt, and carrying them through the Wilderness, and to be finished in setting them in Canaan. c Thy chosen people, the Tribes of thine inheritance. r This repeated for confirmation, and to shew us with the greatness of the mercy; f or for thine anointed, i. e. all Israel, or under the Conduct of thine anointed. g Ysaiah, Type of the Messiah, by whose hand all the great things were done. h Gave a deadly wound to the Princes, and Kings of Canaan, Enemies to Israel, who were cut off, and their Families utterly destroyed. i Royal Palaces, or ancient dwellings, and fortified habitations of which laughter of Canaanites Kings, Psa. 136. 17. 18. 19. x The Courts of these Kings were houses of great wickedness, for which they were destroyed; y raising the Foundations of their Power, and destroying all firm foot to head. z All which is to be heeded, and well minded.

14 Thou a didst strike through with thy flaves b the head of his villages c: they d t came, e as a whirlwind f to scatter f me: their rejoicing g was as to devour b the poor i secretly k.

a O God, b either meant of the slaves or arms of the Canaanites Kings which they lifted up against Israel, thereby provoking Israel to fight; in which being overcome, they perished by their own Arms taken from them, or it may be meant of the Weapons of Israhel, and Israel, called Slaves, for that they were Arrows and Spears, which are armed Slaves, or it might be translated Tribes; c (with the Tribes of Israel, the Tribes of Canaan anointed, or by them were these Canaanites destroyed, d all the Cities, and all the unvalued Towns; e for b destroyed the Daughters with the Mothers; f i. e. the Villages with the Cities. g The Inhabitants of Canaan, but particularly the five Kings. h 1st lit. f of whose conspiracy you had Job. 10. 10 which see. i With violence invading every side; j Tempest made up of contrary Winds and Exhalations, moving as violently as irregularly f to disperse and drive away from the Earth. k The joy they took was such as is the joy of men, who take the spoil of Enemies, and come to land, not fight. l They dreamt of nothing else but eating up God's people as they would eat bread. m Helpless and Friendless they seemed to be, poor Israel. n Either by secret Conspiring, or by secret execution of the Plot they laid against Israel.

a O God, or thou O Israel, notwithstanding all Plots and opposition. m Heldest on thy way, and walkest from thy resting on the East of the Land, to the West thereof from Beth Jordan, and Jericho on the East where they entered the Land that lay within Jordan. n Rather to, (as J. Th. and G. W.) the most Western parts of all the Land God gave, they took possession from East to West, to the great Sea, the West Sea, the nightest Sea the Jews of that time knew, called by way of Eminency the heap of great Waters, q Calde. Exod. 47. 10. 15. 19. 20. the great Sea, as Job. 9. 1. 6 was fulfilled what was promised, and they took possession of that was bestowed on them, Job. 1. 3. 4. I rather refer this 15 to 16 in this manner, then with most Interpreters to the last Sea, which is to me a repetition unnecessarily for to shew and elegant an enumeration of Gods wonderful deliverances, and blessings to Israel, from their leaving Egypt, to their setting in Canaan.

16 When I heard r, my belly t trembled; u my lips quivered at the voice v: r rotteneſs e entered into my bones w, and I trembled in my self x, that I might rest in the day of trouble: y when he cometh up z. unto the people a, he will || invade b them with his troops c.

a What dreadful desolations God threatened against Jews, chap. 1. ver. 5. 6. 7. 8. 9. 10. 11. for of those he now speaks, eth of and meditate on, having himſelf his elegant description of those wonderful works of God, to the great Sea, the West Sea, as a remembrance of comfort and hope. b Or Heathen, or Bowels, or inward parts, Prov. 20. 27. f An other effect and sign of surprising fears and astonishment a at the mere report. u A Consumption, and decay of all my strength; v languish of my Spirits, and a declining of my vigour, w a very effect of great fears. x I was all shaken, as with an Earthquake, no part was free or unshaken. y These fears were caused by my remembrance of that God, and those wonders which I have recounted, these fears have occasioned my search into this Myſtery of Providence, that understanding it, I might, a I do, berake my self to God, and his Covenanted Mercies, that I may rest in him who will make it go well with the Righteous, even with those righteous who shall live to see, and feel the troubles of those days. z The King of Babylon, with all his hitter and cruel Nations bent on violence and rapine. a Against the Jews, my people, with the Prophet b with mighty force, and cut in pieces, make most bloody war among them. c With numerous Armies and folk in Troops, where what one leaves, another will take; where none escape the fury of me or other in the Troops, see this accomplish z Kings, chap. 25.

17 Although d the fig-tree e shall not blossom f, neither shall fruit be in the vines g, the labour h of the olive shall i fail j? and the fields k shall yield no meat l, the flock m shall be cut off n from the fold o, and there shall be no heard p in the stall.

a To War foretell the Prophet suppoſe h Famine, and describe the most grievous, as indeed it fell out. b Which was in that Country a very considerable part of their Provision to live upon; f Nor give the least sign of bringing forth Fruit, g which were all the Riches, and Provision of those Countries, h Either labour bestowed upon the Olive, or the Fruit which the Olive brings forth, called here labour by an allusion to our labour. i Disappoint the expectation of both dresser and eater, k ploughed and sown l Corn for Bread. m Of Sheep kept out in the field. n Either by Wolf, Murrain, or by the wasting Babylonians, o where they were wont to be safe; now are in greatest danger, and that because they may be swept away all at once. p Greater Cattle kept in the stall for labour, or for feeding.

18 Yet i q will rejoice r in the LORD s: I will joy in the God t of my ſalvation u.

ZEPHANIAH.

THE ARGUMENT.

*T*his Prophet by somewhat larger account of his pedigree gives us ground to guess of what family he might be, the last name may possibly be the God King Hezekiah, the Names are the same in chap. 1. ver. 1. and 2 Kings 18. 1. by his freedom with Princes, and the Kings Children reproving them, ver. 8. and threatening them with the loss of his life, may fairly be admitted a conjecture at somewhat more than ordinary in his descent, but whether of Royal Blood or no, he came with a Divine Warrant, and with a Prophetic Spirit, sharply reproving all ranks of men for their sins, of which in particular, Idolatry, Apostasy, and neglect to enquire for the true Religion, and the sinful fashions of great ones in their habit, and the violent oppression of the great ones are named chap. 1. 5, 6, 8, 9. which sins, and many others which then abounded amongst them, are threatened with severe punishments, and with utter desolation, which had already befallen some of the neighbouring Nations named, and proposed as Examples to the Jews, to move them to consider, repent, amend, and prevent the threatened judgements, which unless they repent, will come suddenly. The Prophet therefore affectionately exhorted, and pressed them to Repentance, chap. 2. by Examples of those he mentioned, whose Impenitence added to their sin, ruin'd them. By promises; and encouragements to expect mercy upon their hearkening to his Counsel, foretells the coming of the Messiah, the calling of the Gentiles, the preserving of a Remnant of them amidst all the troubles, and wasting Judgments that should follow them, and a return of Captivity, with the re-establishing them as the Church and People of God, which promise elyeth his Prophecy, and for which he calls on them to be thankful to, and rejoice in their God, who in the midst of their sins, and his wrath for those sins, yet remembered his own Mercies and Covenant for them.

CHAP. I.

1 THE word e of the LORD f which came g to Zephaniah h the son of Cushi i, the son of Gedaliah, the son of Amariah, the son of Hizkiah, in the days of Josiah f the son of Amon g king of Judah.

a The Declaration of the purpose of God, either spoken audibly, or clearly manifested by signs. b God of Israel, here is the Divine Authority of this Prophecy with which the Prophets word is seconded. c The precise manner how it came, we need not enquire into; d Zephaniah did not hammer out his own brain any suchness, he received from God what he communicated to them. e By derivation of the Name, it is one hidden of the Lord, whom God doth hide, or God's Secretary, or else one that is Gods Watch-man, whom God hath set over the house of Judah, as Exek. 3. is said to be. f His Degree here gives us no certainty what his Progenitors were, whether as some think him the great Grandson of Hezekiah, the

g As for my part, I will, faith the Prophet r look for joy, expect matter of rejoicing in the Lord, j who will preserve a remnant and redeem them, who will rebuke Babylon, and will very strangely destroy it. k The Prophet renews his own Faith, and confirms ours. l All shall end in Salvation to him, and Believers.

19 The Lord GOD is my strength x, and he will make my feet like y hinds feet y, and he will make me to walk upon mine high places z. To the chief finger t on my t fringed instrumt.

a The Prophet had in his own, and in the name of all the Godly, made a full profession of his Faith, and resolution to behave himself with joy in midst of troubles, ver. 17. 18. now he gives us account on what ground he speaks so, 'tis not in his own strength, he can do so, but it is because the Lord God is his strength. y That I may escape to God my refuge, to that safe Mountain of Salvation, that I may at last fly from Babylon to Judah, to Jerusalem. z To your Native Country, to my Beloved City, and thy more Beloved Temple which were built like high places to that Mountain of Rocks, Eccl. 1. 32. 13. Job. 33. 16. My God will return my Captivity, and when I am set at Liberty as I shall be by Cyrus, my God will be my strength, that as a hind I escape, I may refer to the Mountains of Israel. t Let this be kept on record for publick use, this be pattern for others as well as 'tis declaration of my Faith, Hope, Desire, and Prayer.

Name being the same, or whether Prophets, or only eminent known men. f Before the Captivity he was then contemporary r with Jeremiah and Ezekiel, prophesied before the Captivity, and foretold much like what Jeremiah or Ezekiel did. g 1 Kings 18. 1. h 1 Kings 18. 1. i 1 Kings 18. 1. j 1 Kings 18. 1. k 1 Kings 18. 1. l 1 Kings 18. 1. m 1 Kings 18. 1. n 1 Kings 18. 1. o 1 Kings 18. 1. p 1 Kings 18. 1. q 1 Kings 18. 1. r 1 Kings 18. 1. s 1 Kings 18. 1. t 1 Kings 18. 1. u 1 Kings 18. 1.

2 I will utterly consume b all things front off t the land i, faith the LORD k.

a Heb. Gathering up. I will gather up, or take up, incriminating judges as end. particularly the manner how all should be consumed, b 1 Kings 18. 1. c 1 Kings 18. 1. d 1 Kings 18. 1. e 1 Kings 18. 1. f 1 Kings 18. 1. g 1 Kings 18. 1. h 1 Kings 18. 1. i 1 Kings 18. 1. j 1 Kings 18. 1. k 1 Kings 18. 1.

3 I will consume man and beast l: I will t consume the fowls m of the heaven, and the fishes n of the sea, and the || rumbling blocks o of the land, with the wicked p, and I will cut off man q from off the land r, faith the LORD.

a The former verse denounced the future desolation in general terms. This verse specifies what desolation in particular. b 1 Kings 18. 1. c 1 Kings 18. 1. d 1 Kings 18. 1. e 1 Kings 18. 1. f 1 Kings 18. 1. g 1 Kings 18. 1. h 1 Kings 18. 1. i 1 Kings 18. 1. j 1 Kings 18. 1. k 1 Kings 18. 1. l 1 Kings 18. 1. m 1 Kings 18. 1. n 1 Kings 18. 1. o 1 Kings 18. 1. p 1 Kings 18. 1. q 1 Kings 18. 1. r 1 Kings 18. 1.

God would bring upon the Land. Man shall be consumed for his own sin, and the beasts consumed for mans sake; Men by the Pestilence and Famine, the Beasts by Murrain, and devoured by multitudes of hungry Soldiers that shall make greater havoc than any Murrain ordinarily doth. a Riches by some unknown Disease among them, or else by a diffult at the very few appeared; inasmuch that it lookt as if it were all consumed. b By Sea, some underland Ponds, Lakes, or smaller Seas, such as that of Gomareth and Tiberias, the Waters whereof might be made of use to the fish by the streams of blood, and Carcases which might possibly be cast into them, or God might destroy the Fishes by some confounding Disease to which they were wont to be used. c The Heathen ways to do, who hath once said he will do it. d The Heathen Priests, and others who worshippe them. e All shall disappear. f Of Judah.

a I will also stretch out mine hand upon Judah, and upon all the inhabitants of Jerusalem, y, and I will cut off the remnant of Babylon from this place a, and the names b of the Chelamites c with the priests d.

a And I will, or, And I have, Heb. so Prophets speak of what shall most certainly be, as if already done. b This seems to intimate some immediate stroke from God. He speaks to Jer. 51. 25. Ezek. 6. 14, and 13. and 25. 13. a Babylon is included, though Judah only is named. c The universal destruction of them, either by Sword, Famine, Pestilence, or Captivity; both Citizens and Sojourners, all shall perish, or suffer by some or other of these ways. d Though Jews the Holy City beautified with the Temple of God, yet all should not secure it. Jer. 7. 4. and Ezek. 9. 6. b Whosoever remains of the Idolatry of Babel, both the Idols, their Temples, Sacrifices, Priests, Ornaments, and Worshippers, whether this refers to times after the Reformation by Jehoiakim, or to times before it, needs not scrupulously be enquired into. c This Idolatry had filled Jerusalem itself, both the persons, and the memory of them also, for names includeth both. d Either call it from their black Garments they were in, or from their fawny colour occasioned by the black smoke of Idols, which they were almost continually in, or Door-keepers, Sextons of Babel, or voluntary Servants; or such as the Popish Monks, some Ministers of Babel distinct from the Priests. e Either the Priests of Babel, or the Apostates of Aaron's house, who (though Priests by birth and Office) should have been steadfast to, but had fallen from the True God and his Worship to Babel and his Worship.

a And them \ that worshippe e the host f of heaven upon the house tops g, and them that worship, and that swear h by the LORD b, and that swear by Malcham i.*

a Those among the people that adhered to this Idolatry. b The Sun, Moon, and Stars frequently in the Scripture called the host of Heaven. c Openly, as the manner of those Idolaters was, either because they thought those Deities they imagined to dwell in the body of those Stars better far than, or were better pleased thus, or because these places were near to Heaven. On the flat roofs of their houses they were used to have their Altars and worship. d Or, to the Lord, (as the Heb. bears) persons that mix Idol Worship, and the Worship of the true God; that devote themselves to God, and Babel, or Malcham i called Alilcom, and Malcham, and Malcham, a 25. probably 'twas their chief Idol, fancied to be King of Gods and Men.

a And \ them that are turned back k from the LORD, and those that have not sought l the LORD, nor enquired m for him.*

a Apostates, who have forsaken the Lord and his Worship, or that are turned Atheists, or that in matter of Religion have taken upon what is purest and truest, but what is nearest and most in fashion. b Slightly neglected to examine pretended Religions, according to the Law which they might, and ought to have done. c Though the Prophets have preached against this Apostasy, and called the Priests and People to forsake the Idols, and enquire after God, yet they would not enquire, these also are here doomed to destruction.

a Thou that murmurst in discontent, or disputest out of cowardliness against God, his Worship, and his Government, cease all thy quarrels and disputes, stand in awe. b Who is Almighty, Omnipotent, who ruleth and will avenge. c A day of vengeance from the Lord, d The wicked among the Jews, whom he will sacrifice by the Chaldeans sword. e Summoned in Beasts of the Field, and Fowls of the Air, to eat the Flesh, and drink the Blood of Jews, whom the Babylonians slew.

a And it shall come to pass f in the day of the LORDS sacrifice i, that i will f punish the \ princes a*, and the kings children y, and all such b as are clothed with strange z apparel.

a It shall most certainly be fulfilled, what I threaten I will most surely execute. b Of slaughter to be made by the Babylonians, called here a day of Sacrifice, that we might see clearly the just and exemplary proceedings of God; that people in sin, making them a strange Sacrifice to his Anger. c The punishment shall appear to be from my hand, as he threateneth Ezekiel. d Nobles about the Court, the great ones, who dream of flitting better then others, but fell with the first. e Kings 25. 19, 20, 21. f Jehoiachin dyed a Captive in Babylon, King 25. 34. g Jehoiachin dyed on the way, or in Babylon, buried with the burial of an Ale, Jer. 22. 18. h Jehoiachin carried to Babylon before him, yet but little better; there he dyed a Captive: i As for Zedekiah and his Children, there were slain before his face, then his Eyes put out, and he led into miserable captivity. j Some say the strange Apparel of Idolatrous Priests, others say, and more likely, the garb of Forreigners, imitated by the Jews.

a In the same day a also will I punish all those that leap on the threshold b which fill their Masters c houses with violence d and deceit e.

a Not to be taken for a single day, but more largely for that time wherein God would visit and punish. b Idle men, and with rage break open the doors of such whose goods they seize, upon pretence of fortresses or fines, a fact that Ezekiel both taxed and threatened, chap. 8. 17, and 12. 13. and 14. c Either the oppressing Kings, whose Officers they were, or publick Officers and Judges, whole Servants thus did enrich their Masters) spoil the poor, and the oppressed d goods taken away by force, and kept as much against right, as if taken away without right e by false accusations, and by taken away evidence for proof, and by perjuries.

a And it shall come to pass in that day f, faith the LORD g, that there shall be the noise h of a cry from the fifth gate i, and an howling k from the second l, and a great crafhing m from the hills n.

a To assure us of the certainty of the thing. b The voice Heb. of a cry, i. a very great outcry and lamentation. c Which was on the west side of Jerusalem, through which Gate they brought in fells from Joppa, and other Sea Towns on the West Sea, or great Sea, now the Mediterranean, at which Gate the Jews who were first to enter into the City, when they took it thus, it will be a prediction, at what Gate the Enemy should enter. d The great, horrid, and confounding lamentations of desperate and undone multitudes crying out, and bitterly bemoaning themselves. e Gate which was in the second Wall of Jerusalem, which on that side was fortified with three Walls, or second part of the City, at the middle City, for 'twas divided into three parts. f Given them as a Proper Name and make it the School-College, or University, and to render the howling of the University, i. e. of Students either laughter or, or captivated by Chaldeans Breaking in pieces, or the noise of what is broken into pieces; possibly the noise of Doors, Windows, Closets, and Chests broken up, or burning in the houses of Chaldeans lived here to bills, or more literally in Gurion and Gurion, on which the Jews purified by the Chaldeans left what they carried with them, and their life too; so all places were full of miserable laughter, and our cries.

a Howl o ye inhabitants of Malcham p, for all the merchant people q are cut down; all that they bear silver r are f cut off.

a Cry aloud, and bitterly. b Some read it apollytury: The Mortar in which of old, before the Corinthians were known and used, they did pound and beat their Corn for Bread. They also pounded Spices: Others say 'twas the lower Town, or Valley of Cedron in Jerusalem, a deep Valley that surrounded the Mountain of the Temple, which fancied like a deep Mortar, they gave the name Malcham to it. c Who were wont to lodge in this place when they came to Tibet, or Tibet Merchants, trade there, which was much to the Land, whence the place pound and beat their Corn for Bread, and by the force, all trade is cut off, and many Merchants either slain or made fells. d That brought it with them to pay for what they bought up, and to enrich the inhabitants of this Malcham, all that traded and paid ready money, are cut off, as it is. e Others say, the Money-changers, or Bankers, here meant by them that bear silver, persons that furnish all sorts of people with silver, for Goods laid to pledge, or borrowed. f i. e. shall be as surely, as if 'twere already done.

a And it shall come to pass at that time i, that I will search u Jerusalem with candles x, and punish the men that are f setled on their lees y: that lay in their heart z, the LORD will not do good, neither will he do evil a.

a Thus day, ver. 10. which see lit. a. b God speaks after the manner of him that searcheth dark places with Candles in hand; c Gods Omnipotence lights all things, and needs no help for discovery, but by this expression foretells how fully he will search such discoverers, and punish. d It is like enough this would search discoverers, and punish. e Enter into the Vault, and Sellers, and lovers of Jerusalem for Men, or Goods hidden in them. f In allusion to Liquors which not being poured out from Vessel to Vessel to refine them, grow thick and felled; g men that have known none or little change of heart, or to flatter themselves into thoughts. h No providence to counteract the good, or to punish the bad: i No God, or none counteract the good, or to punish the bad: j No God, or none counteract the good, or to punish the bad: k No God, or none counteract the good, or to punish the bad: l No God, or none counteract the good, or to punish the bad: the Chaldeans, who shall rise up against you, and destroy, and spoil you, them my self in arms against you, as an Enemy you upon. † My fixed purpose, that which I have unalterably resolved † upon. † I will that they are subjects to the Chaldean Monarchy. † Which are Conquerors with, or tributary to the Chaldeans, these thus gathered, lifted and marshalled in a mighty Army. † The obstinate incorrigible, and impious Jews first. (Afterwards I will punish Babylon.) † b Which by their sins they have kindled against themselves. † The whole Land of Judah and her Cities d continued as if burnt up. † That jealous herewith Cities d continued as if burnt up. † Glory, for his Ordinances and Statutes, which Jewish people, princes, and their Prophets and their Priests had notoriously violated.

9 For then f I will turn to the people a pure language g, that they may all call upon the name of the LORD h, to serve him k with one consent l.

f Or then, afterwards, i. e. when my judgments have been executed, and have cut off the wicked. † g I will give them a pure way of worshipping me, in Prayer, Praises and the issue of a purified heart. † h Eccl. 11. 17, 18, 19, 20, and 36. † i Perform all Religious service, all Religion being expreſt thus by calling on the name of the Lord. † k The Lord their God not Idols, l With one heart and according to his own Law and Will, with one shoulder shall they bear the Yoke of the Law, allying to Porters that join shoulder to shoulder in carrying great burthens.

* 12. 1. 10 From m * beyond the rivers of Ethiopia n, my suppliants o, even the daughter p of my dispersed q shall bring mine offering r.

m The Coasts which lie beyond the Rivers of India, faith the Chald. paraphrast, but I doubt whether the Captive Jews were carried so far, n in Arabia, bordering on Egypt, whether 'tis easy to conceive many Jews might beake themselves, who are here called dispersed, or dispersion, somewhat distinguishing from Captives. † o Praying to me, faith one version. † p This explains who the suppliants is. † q The praying remnant of the scattered Jews, who had gotten into those parts of Arabia that were coasting along the Rivers which divided Arabia Cales from the rest of Arabia. † r Shall return to their Land and bring themselves an offering unto the Lord, which was done when Cyrus in league with these Ethiopians procured their favour for the dispersed Jews, that they might return to Jerusalem, meet the Captive brethren, and offer a gift to God.

11 In that day f shalt thou not be ashamed t for all thy doings u, wherein thou hast transgressed against me: for then I will take away out of the midst of thee them that rejoice in thy pride x, and thou shalt no more be haughty y t because of my holy mount z.

† When pardoned Captives and dispersed ones, shall return and serve the Lord with one consent mourning for their sins, and seeking the Lord. † t With a shame of reproach, and confusion, when sin is pardoned, and sinful hearts were purified, reproachful shame may well cease. † u 54. 4. 5. † Which are expounded in the following words, the Prophet speaks of the sins they formerly committed against the Lord. † v Hypocrites, proud formalists that placed all Religion in the gaudy outside, these removed, and those that worship the Lord doing it in sincerity gathered together, the Lord will accept and beautify them. † y Thoa O nation of the Jews, formerly full of haughty thoughts of your selves, your Sacrifices, and your privileges, here you shall no more boast, or glory, or vaunt your selves herein. † z Either the City, or rather the Temple on which proud Hypocrites did bear themselves high formerly, when they lived in notorious sins, and yet cried the Temple of the Lord, &c. † Jer. 7. 4, with p. 10.

12 I will also leave a in the midst of thee b an afflicted c and poor d people, and they shall trust in the name of the LORD e.

a The Chaldeans had spared none if the Lord had not preferred a remnant; 'tis he rather than they, which did leave a remnant. † b To return and dwell in Judah and Jerusalem. † c Or a people of a broken spirit, a meek, humble, spiritless people, instead of that proud heart was once among them. † d Not so much in outward respects as poor in spirit, such a people as the Lord can delight in. † e Not in City or Temple, but in whole Land and in his mercy, faithfulness, and power.

13 The remnant of Israel f shall not do iniquity g, nor speak lies h: neither shall a deceitful tongue i be found in their mouth: for they shall feed k, and lie down, and none shall make them afraid l.

† Preserved in captivity and dispersion, purified in the furnace of affliction, and now returned to their own Land g shall not commit the sins they formerly committed, nor provoke God with their abominations as before, it is not a prediction of a sinless, but of a reformed state, they shall be righteous, and taught of God, no more Idolaters. † h They shall love Truth, and speak Truth, or in larger sense shall be honest and upright among men. † i A false accuser or witness, like Deceit or Perjury's Evidences against Naboth, according to that, Psal. 15. 2. and 24. 4. † k Or, they shall feed also, &c. † l 'Twill be a blessing added as a Crown of their Piety and Truth; † Or, if you read it, for they shall feed, &c. it gives you a reason why they shall not be by frauds and lies, as formerly, † l Against one another. † They shall have a sufficiency by honest ways, and from Gods Blessing, and shall not be under any great temptations to dishonesty, and lying. † l Prigisms made David, Abraham, and others to forget truth, here none should fright them, and they should not fear to speak the truth: Their lips pure, &c. † they trust in the Lord, † Jer. 12. therefore shall not lie. † He's a cluster of Spiritual Promises with the Temporal.

14 * Sing, O daughter of Zion, shout O Israel, be glad and rejoice with all the heart, O daughter of Jerusalem.

For all these mercies the Church is enjoined to be thankful, and to rejoice, and it is trebled, sing, shout and rejoice, O Daughter of Zion, Israel, and Daughter of Jerusalem; the time periods, the time duty, but differently expressed, but the whole heart required in all.

15 The LORD m hath taken away n thy judgments, he hath cast o out thine enemy p: the king of Israel, even the LORD, is in the midst of thee q, thou shalt not see evil any more r.

m Who kills and makes alive, acquits or condemns, and none can reverse the judgment. † n A abolished, and put as to thy suitings, the judgments thy sins brought upon thee; He hath pardoned thy sins, and ended thy sorrows. † o Cast the Babylonians out of the Throne, and placed the Persian in it. † p The Babylonians who held thee Captive, and placed in his room Cyrus mine anointed, and thy friend who shall let thee go free. † q This is evident that the Lord who is thy King, O Israel, is with thee; that he taketh thy part, is ready to redeem, and govern thee. † r No more lush great evil thou shalt see; whilst thy carriage is as becometh thy mercy received, and my presence with thee, thou shalt neither fear, nor feel like evils.

16 In that day f it shall be said t to Jerusalem u, Fear x thou not: and to Zion y, Let not thine hands be slack z.

f The day or time of restitution, when the Captivity returned shall be settled in their Land. † By Prophets, or by Friends, congratulating them, or by each other. † u Inhabitations of Jerusalem, the place being by for the people. † x Disquiet on your selves with fears, though you may apprehend more dangers, from Sankhal and Tubiah, &c. though troublous times, n. 4. 1. 2. and Dan. 9. 25. † y In the work of the Lord, building the City, and Temple, and restoring the Worship of God, take heart, O ye returned Captives, for God your King is with you.

17 The LORD a thy God b in the midst of thee c mightily e: he will save d, he will rejoice over thee with joy e: he will t rest f in his love g, he will joy over thee with singing h.

a The Everlasting one, who changeth not, b Thine is Covenant never to be forgotten, or repeated. † c Can do all he will, can refrain, and destroy enemies, can support and defend his own people. † d From thy fears, and thine Enemies rage. † e Will greatly rejoice in thee. † f Will take content and satisfaction in this his love. † g The love he sheweth to thee shall be rest to him, nor thy loves, but his own love shall satisfy him. † h Shall shew greatest love, and joy in most affectionate manner, all expressions borrowed from the closest love of man toward dearest relations, Psal. 103. 11, 13, and Jsa. 62. 5.

18 I will gather i them that are sorrowful k for the solemn assembly l, who are of thee m, to whom t the reproach n of it was t h burden o.

i This promise removes an objection which might be made by dispersed ones, how can we return? I will gather you faith God. † k Mourning in their distance from the solemn Worship of God, as David, Psal. 42. that are far from Gods Ordinances troubled more then for any thing. † l Which three times every year in great solemnity they celebrated, but now far so years had wanted them. † m These longing mourners are thy Children indeed, Israelites in whom is no guile. † n The name of Enemies and Triumphs over God and Religion, such as Psal. 42. 3. 10. † o Heavily burthened or a sword in their bowels.

19 Behold p at that time i will undo q all that afflict r thee, and * I will save her k halteth halteth f, and gather her that was driven out t, and I will t get them praise, and fame u, in every land x t where they have been put to shame y.

† Mark well, q I will deal with them, do their work for them as we say, I will break their power and dissolve their Kingdom. † r Babylonians who afflicted the Jews, and who were undone by Cyrus and his Persians. † f Who is in great trouble and ready to fall, as Psal. 38. 15, 17, who is under greatest distress, and hath least strength to bear, or get out. † t By force of the Enemy, carried away Captives, and scattered into far off of the Enemy, vindicated them, as a people that are not rejected of their God, as the people of the God of Heaven, and of the Earth, as Psal. 121. 2. † x Among all people with whom they dwell as strangers who were scorned and reproached as slaves and abjects whose God could not, or would not, help them, or had cast them off, and none other would take care of them. But now gathered together by the Lord, shall appear to be still his peculiar people and his delight.

30 At that time will I bring you again, even in the time that I gather you: for I will make you a name and a praise among all people of the earth, when I turn back your captivity before your eyes, faith the LORD.

This verse is a repetition of the promise for the greater assurance of it, and seems to add but little to what was before promised, unless it be the speediness of what God doth for them, and the comprehensiveness of it, he will turn back their Captivities, † plur. whether under Manassah, or Jehoiakim, or Jehoiachin, or Zedekiah; all which is confirmed with the broad Seal of Heaven. Thus faith the LORD. Believe thou and rejoice in it.

HAGGAI.

The ARGUMENT.

Haggai is the first Prophet that appears in the name of the Lord of Hosts, to awaken, reprove, direct, exhort and encourage both the Governor, High Priest, and People, returned out of Captivity to the restoring and setting the Worship of God to the rebuilding the Temple, whose foundations, together with the Altar of Burnt-offering, had been laid seventeen or eighteen years ago, but the finishing of the Temple prohibited by Cambyles all the time of his being Vice-Roy to his Father Cyrus, and during his own reign; and neglected, near two years in Darius Hytaspis his time, through the covetousness of many, the coldness of some, and the cowardice of others among the Jews, who were all bent on their own private concerns, and pleaded 'twas not time to set about the building of God's Temple, and who in all probability would have deferred it much longer had they been left alone; now therefore the Lord doth in Zeal for his own glory, and in Mercy to his People send his servant Haggai to awaken them to their Duty, which was this, The Building the Temple, and Restoring the pure Worship of God, reproves them for neglecting this, tells them this sin was the cause of the penury and scarcity which afflicted them these fifteen or sixteen years past, assures them that so soon as ever they begin the work, their Ground, their Cattel, their Vines and Olives should wonderfully increase their store, prometh God's presence with them, and with it a supply of Gold and Silver which are his; and he will, as he did by the bounty of Darius, and the Contributions of others, bring into them. And though the external Glory of this Temple were left then that of the first Temple, yet this second Temple should exceed the first in glory for so much as their expelles, longed for, and the Blessed Messiah should appear in it. All which as they were weighty arguments in themselves considered, so through the co-operation of the Spirit of God they prevailed with his hearers who set about the work, and when opposed by their Enemies, who sent to Darius to solicit him to renew the prohibition, he on the contrary confirms and enlargeth their Charter, granted by the grand Cyrus, and annexeth severer penalties on all that dare hinder this work, all which particularly, and at large, are set down in the sixth and seventh chapters of EZRA, and so in four years time the Temple is finished, the feast of dedication is celebrated, and the final issue answers to the name of the Prophet who sent of God, set it forwards, Haggai, who hath his name from the word that signifies, A Feast, as if we should call him Festivus. He closteth all with a close prediction of many and long Wars, and Seditions to come among the Gentiles to the overthrow of the enemies of the Jews.

CHAP. I.

1 IN * the second year of Darius a the king b, in the sixth month t, in the first day of the month, came the word c of the LORD t by Haggai d the prophet e unto * Zerubbabel f son of Shealtiel g, h governor b of Judah i, and to Joshua k the son of Josedech l the high priest m, saying, a Of this name there were seven, Darius Medus, Hyaspis, Longimanus, Nubius, Ochus, Asimus, Colomanus, one before Cyrus, which Darius which is distinguished from the other by (Midas) the sixth, the next Darius was son of Hyaspis, and third King of Persia (five leave out Sardanides the cheat, who on Cambyse's death contrived the true Sardanides, slain by Cambyse his son, got into the Throne, but was discovered and slain at seven months end.) of whom the Text speaketh; unless you can think Zerubbabel High Priest through 144 years, and some considerable number of Jews to have lived 195 years, and the returned captives to have wanted a Temple for 112 years at least, which incredible things attend them who will have this Darius to be Nubius. b As being the greatest of that time, and by way of eminency above others. † t End answering to part of our Angels, and September. † e The command, or direction what they should do, and reproof for what they had omitted to do. † d We read nothing of his Parentage or Country in the Scripture, he is denoted that thought him an Angel. † e Inspired, sent, approved and assisted of God in his office. † f Whose name speaks either his birth in Babylon or his interest and power there as some figure, probably his birth in Babylon might be ground of trust in him with the Government of Judah, to which he had right. † g Adoptive son to Shealtiel, being of the Royal Line, probably he was the chief branch thereof, (Uncle to him) but by Nature, or by generation, son of Pdsajah, or else there were two Zerubbabels sons of two brothers, Pdsajah and Shealtiel. † b Appointed to this by the Persian King, under whose power the Jews were now fallen, and whose pleasure Governors were placed or displace d over the remnant returned out of Babylon, and once at last settled in the Land of Judah. † k A Type of the great deliverer, one Joshua leads them into Canaan, another restores the Temple. l Whose name did portend good to this people, and bespoke Gods righteousness, his Father Josiah was High Priest and and slain by Nebuchadnezzar. m By lineal descent according to the Law, chief of power in Church matters, as Zerubbabel was chief in civil things, to the Temple the Prophet is sent to stir them up to the building of the Temple.

2 Thus speaketh n the LORD of hosts, saying, This people x say y, The time is not come z, the time that the LORDS house should be built.

a By way of reproof, and to awaken the drowsie Jews: he who knew their heart tells them what they both thought and spoke. b Whom mercy preferred in, redeemed out of Babylon, and brought into their Land on purpose to build the Temple. This people whom Cyrus by Proclamation sent to do this, who seemed to long for a Temple when they were in Babylon. c Yet didst thou thus among themselves, and discourage all that were forward. d The proper fence of rebuilding the house of God seems to be not, for since the prohibition by Cambyyses in the days of Cyrus, and through all the time of Cambyyses and in the first year, and part of the second of Darius, we have no Commission to do it, but are required not to do any thing in this affair without further order, e Exra 4. 21.

3 Then a came the word of the LORD b by Haggai the prophet c, saying, a When the people were thus sluggish, made excuses and delayed doing their duty, then at that time. b Chap. 1. 1. lit. c Id. chap. 1. ver. 1. lit. d.

12 And the LORD I shall inherit m Judah n his portion o in the holy land p, and shall * chap. 1. 17. c choise Jerusalem again q.

I Jehovah, the God of Abraham, and of his seed, who had cast off Judah, and seem'd to give his claim in his ancient inheritance, by a diffusion of 70 years. m Claim, recover, possess, and delight, as a man doth in his paternal inheritance. n All his flesh, this Tribe mentioned, but all the rest included. o His Treasure and peculiar people; his lot and part. p Upon, Heb. holy, not by any inherent holiness, but holy and selected, and set apart for a holy people consecrated to God. q The Lord will be as of old choise Jerusalem for his seat.

13 * M be silent r, O all flesh z, before the LORD t: for he is raised up n out of his t holy habitation x.

* M be silent, you that love not Zion; dispute not, you that think these promises are too good, too great; but in silence, reverence, and adore God in all his Excellencies and ways; wait, and expect the accomplishment of all, by him who never utters more than he can and will do for his People. s Both Jew and Gentile; you are weak, rough figured, and worthless; you are flesh, be silent and wait. t The Wife, Mighty, Gracious, and Faithful one; who never suffer'd a word of his to fail unfulfill'd, nor will let any of these promises to fail. u He speaks to our capacity, God is said to be raised in allusion to men who get up, or rise up, and get about what they will do; so here God is on this work, say. z Either Heaven, or his Temple.

C H A P. III.

1 AND he a shewed me b * Joshua the high priest c standing d before the angel e of the LORD, and f Satan g standing at his right hand g to t resist him h.

a The Lord of hosts, whose Servant Zerubbabel was, and in whose name he presented to Zerubbabel. b In vision represented to Zerubbabel. c For that office was by hereditary right descended on him, and how mean to ever his state was, yet still he was that great Officer of the Church, d Either as accused, and to make his defence; or rather Ministering in his office, according to his Duty. e This Angel was Christ, whose Minister, or Servant the High Priest was, as well as Type of him. f That Adversary, as we might render the word, either Satan the Devil, or some instrument of his third up by him, Sabbath, or the like. g Either because the accusation was true, or to hold his work in hand from its work. h Joshua.

2 And the LORD I said unto Satan, * The LORD m rebuke o thee, O Satan: even the LORD that hath chosen Jerusalem rebuke thee: Is not this p a brand plucked out of the fire q?

1. i. Christ the great Redeemer, Reflector, Lord and Mediator of the Church. * The Great God Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who as Mediator rather choiceth to rebuke him in his Fathers Name, then in his own; though this he could have done. o He who was accused, was Gods High Priest, and to minister in the Temple at Jerusalem the City which God had chosen, in which respect it was sure that God would take cognisance of the Matter and Judge aright. He would prohibit Satan's attempts. p This man, this Joshua, q Like a brand half burnt, or all smoky with long lying in the fire of affliction? Rejoice him not for this.

3 Now r Joshua f was clothed with filthy garments, and stood * before the angel x.

a At the time Zerubbabel saw this Vision he saw also in what a mean, dirty, and tatter'd garb he was, who represented the High Priest. b It was the Hieroglyphick of Joshua, or Christ himself. c Emblem of a poor or sinful state, or a Vile, etc. d. i. e. The Lord Christ called, The Angel.

4 And he y answered z, and spake a unto those that stood before him b, saying, Take away the filthy garments c from him d. And unto him he t said, Behold, I have caused thine iniquity to pass from thee e, and I will clothe f thee g with change of raiment h.

The Lord Christ who purifieth his Church, who purgeth away her sin, and clothes her with rich and clean garments. z So the Holy, and to this Prophet speaks, though no question was before. It is an Idiom of that Language. a Commanded, b Some of the attendants, those Ministerial Angels, who were Christs Servants, and as such are represented standing before him. c Remove, or cause them to be removed, from him as altogether unbecoming his Person, Office and employment; These filthy garments those Angels took away, and another hand takes away what is signified, by this Emblem. d Even this high-priest Joshua. e Christ the Lamb of God. f What Angels could not take away, Christ did, he removed the filthy Sin, the guilt and stain of it. f Adorn and beautify, g o Joshua. b Clean and Rich, Emblem of Graces, and spiritual Excellencies given to him.

5 And I said I Let them k let a fair t mitre l upon his head: So m they fet a fair mitre n on his head and clothed him with garments, n And the angel o of the LORD stood p by.

i Zerubbabel takes the boldness to desire that for Joshua, which might add to his Veneration, and Authority, and he asks the thing of Christ, or rather Christ commanded it to be done. k Who Minister before Christ, i. a Rich and beautiful ornament for the head of the High Priest, nor a Crown, which is for Royal heads, but a Tirc, a Pontifical Ensign. m As they were commanded by Christ at the request of the Prophet. n All the Garments which did appertain to the High Priest, of which you read Exod. 28. q, which probably were put on though they are not expressly mention'd here. o The Angel who is the Lord Christ himself. p Withdrew not till all this was done.

6 And the angel of the LORD q protected r unto Joshua, saying, q The Lord Christ, r Solemnly declared, and aver'd it, gave him to know.

7 Thus saith the LORD of hosts z, If thou t wilt walk in my ways u, and if thou wilt keep m || charge x, then thou shalt also judge y my house, and shalt also keep z my courts, and will give thee t places to walk among these that stand by.

The Father whose will Christ reveals to us. t Joshua, a Obed the Precepts and the commands of the Law, b The special charge, and office of the High Priest. y Be Christ, the Ruler in the Temple, and in the things that pertain to the worship of God there. z Not as a door-keeper or Servant, but as the Chief, on whom others may wait, and give attendance, and at last shall have place among glorious Angels, Heb. 12. 21.

8 Hear now a, O Joshua the high priest, thou, and thy fellows b, that sit c before thee: for they are * men t wondered at d: for behold, I e will bring forth f * my servant the BRANCH.

a Hitherto thou hast been entertained with Emblems and Hieroglyphicks, now O Joshua hear what the Lord means. b The other Priests, thy Associates in the Priestly Office, the inferior to thee. c As Adversors or Conjurators in a Council, or Assembly, the High Priest as President, the other as Members of the Council face with him, to let them know what their Types mean. d The worldly, prophane, unbelieving and ignorant sort of Jews wonder at them, and their hopes at their labour and expenses in attempting to build such a house with so little helps to raise such a Structure out of Babylon. e God the Father f will bring forth a much more wonderful work. g Christ Messiah, the Branch, Isa. 4. 2. and 1. 1. Jer. 33. 15.

9 For b behold the stone that I have laid before Joshua: upon * one i stone shall be f seven e eyes, behold, I will engrave k the graving thereof; f faith the LORD of hosts, and I will remove l the iniquity of that land in one day.

Here is an Ensign, and to make it up we must repeat that of the 8th. v. 1. Hear now, &c. For behold, (pointing to a particular stone) that stone which I have laid, faith God, in the sight of Joshua, or which he saw laid in the building of the Temple. i On that one stone are seven eyes, and Joshua and his fellows are commanded to observe it, the meaning of which the Angel will suggest to them presently, it is not impossible this one stone might be a corner stone, and a principal corner stone, and the Eyes Engraven on it, so placed, that they might look many ways; so 'twill be a more exact Emblem of Christ the chief corner stone, and of his perfect knowledge and wisdom, fitting him to govern his Church, and provide for it. k The Engraving Engraved, i. e. most artfully, lively, and with excellent contrivance. l Or, I have removed, I have pardoned the iniquity of this Land at once. This the Emblem or Type, which I shall once more set before you in plain words, then those of our Version. Hear now, O Joshua, thou and thy fellows, for behold there is one stone, and on that stone seven eyes, most curiously Engraved, and this laid in thy sight, and in the sight of thy fellows: This learn by it, that the Temple, founded on such a corner stone, built by the wisdom of the chief Builder, guarded and watcht over by all-seeing Providence, is the blessing and honour of that people whose fins are all forgiven. The farther spiritual meaning discovers the Messiah, the chief corner stone, the Gospel Church founded thereon, guided by perfect Wisdom, and never by never crying out in their present, it is not impossible of all her sins, taken away in one day, by the Meritorious death of her Redeemer.

10 In that day m faith the LORD of hosts, shall ye call n every man his neighbour * under the vine o, and under the fig-tree.

m Of Building my Temple, when his faith, and in the day of removing the fins of my people, literally referring to the returned captivity Jews. Nuptially, to the whole Church in all good days, when Christ the chief corner stone, shall have purged away sin, and establish his Church. o Invite with love and peace, such as becomes Neighbours, who are partakers of the same Grace of God, and Blessings of a Redeemer. n To feast or refresh themselves under the pleasing shadow, and with the sweet delicious fruits of the Vine and the fig-tree, both which there were ever greatest fruit, and of choicest when the people of God; the Jews did obey, worship and fear the Lord, and long for the Messiah, and loved each other.

C H A P. IV.

1 AND the angel that talked with me a, came again b, and waked c me, as a man that is awakened out of his sleep.

a Christ, who for some time had left Zerubbabel, and besetw'd some time on new dressing and cleaning, and adorning Joshua, the High Priest. b This is the fourth time of Christs revealing his mind to this Prophet by Vision. c Either roused him out of a dream, fit, and bodily sleep, or out of an extasy, or wonder, that surprising him, he was as if asleep, or slaked him out of a sluggish negligence, or an observance of these things.

2 And said unto me, What seest thou d? And I said, I have looked e, and behold, a candlestick f all of gold g, with t a bowl h upon the top of it, and his seven lamps thereon, and || seven pipes i l to the seven lamps m, which are on the top n thereof.

a What dost thou discern, of that thou didst before half asleep, half awake see, but didst not observe? b Since awakened and roused; I have very differently viewed, and observed, and I see. f By Gods appointment there was a candlestick to be made, as a Utensil and Ornament of the Temple, Exod. 25. 31. c So was the candlestick to be for the Temple, all of pure Gold, Exod. 37. 17. b Or Basin, or round, and large silver, capable of so much oil, as would suffice to feed all the Lamps in the Sanctuary. d On the highest part of the candlestick, on the top of the candlestick on the top of the shaft, or on the head of the candlestick. e Either I saw many, because the Temple candlestick had just so many, or because of some perfection supposed to be in this Septenary Number. f One pipe to each Lamp, the mouth of which pipe joined to the Bowl or Basin, and received oil from it; the other end of the pipe, fitted to the Lamp conveyed oil into the Lamp. m So each of the seven Basins had a pipe reaching from the Bowl or Basin. n These Lamps were for set as stand somewhat higher than the Body of the candlestick.

3 And two olive trees o by it, one p upon the right side of the bowl, and the other upon the left side thereof.

a Some say Branches; better Trees, which well rooted, will continue, and perpetually supply the oil, and that will supply the Lamps. p More, or fewer than two. q So placed that the candlestick stood between them, and each Tree stood at distance from the candlestick, on the right, and left hand thereof; that they might distil their oil into the Basin or Bowl. All which is an Emblem of the Church, both what it is made of, pure Gold; what made for, to be light in the World; to shine as Lamps that continually burn, maintain'd with pure oil, distilled from the Olive Trees, not profited on by man but continually, freely, and abundantly dropping or flowing from these olive Trees.

4 So r I answered s, and spake to the angel that talked with me i, saying, What are n these my lord?

r After that I had seen and discerned. s See chap. 3. v. 4. lit. 2. s See chap. 1. v. 19. lit. a. and chap. 2. v. 3. lit. 1. s See chap. 1. v. 9. lit. h.

5 Then x the angel that talked with me y answered, and said unto me, Knowest thou not z what these be? And I said a, No, my LORD b.

x When the Prophet had enquired into the meaning of these emblems. y See chap. 1. v. 19. lit. a. z 'Tis not a question either to upbraid the Prophet as an Ignoramus, Christ did not reproach him for not knowing deep, and dark mysteries at first sight of them. Nor is it the question of one that was uncertain about the thing enquired into, Christ took the Prophet ignorant though he ask the question, but to excite him to attend and learn. a Zerubbabel freely confesseth he knew not, he pretends not to know what indeed he did not know. b He owns the greatness and sovereignty of Christ.

6 Then c he d answered and spake unto me, saying: This e is the word e of the LORD un to Zerubbabel f, saying, Not by || might g, nor by power h, but by my spirit i, faith the LORD of hosts.

c So soon as Zerubbabel had owned his Negligence. d Christ. e Or this word of the Lord is to Zerubbabel, 'tis particularly designed to him, and in an Emblem prefigureth what a Church, how precious as Gold, how full of light, how framed, how maintained it should be by God himself. This Hieroglyphick is a representation of what the Church should be. f The Government, on whose hand much of the care and trouble of building the Temple did lie; yet let him not be discouraged, for this work lieth on God. g Or by an Army, as the word bears, Heb. you may think you shall need an Army to defend you in carrying on this Building, which ill will of Neighbours about you hindereth, but I tell you there is no need of an Army, for Courage and Valour, all which makes Armes considerable, no need of this neither. Or might and power here may be of the same import; and added only for elegancy and assistance of the thing. i Which garnished the Heavens and can beautify the Church, which moved upon the darkness in the Creation, and brought forth a beautiful and mighty structure, and can do as much now; by spirit we may understand either the Third Person, Father and the Son; or by Spirit you may understand the power of God. Either is encouragement enough, and foreshews the future effect, and promise of a future state of the Church, pure and precious as Gold, full of knowledge in the Doctrines of God, as this Candlestick with seven Lamps full of Holiness from abundant measures of Grace, persevering in by continued supplies from the Spirit of Grace in Ordinances, &c.

7 Who art thou, O great mountain k? before Zerubbabel thou shalt become a plain l, and he t shall bring forth the head stone m thereof n. * Ezra 3. 11. with shoutings o: crying, Grace, grace p unto ||.

a The Angel having resolved the question about building the Temple, either himself doth deride all the power of opoters, or the Prophet doth triumph over it. who art thou? k Zerubbabel and Confederates, or Satan, or Babylon, or all put together what are you all? compar'd with the power of God the Lord of Hosts who by his Spirit will finish this work? l Thou standest in the way of my Servant, and thinkest his weakness, and poverty cannot remove thee, but if he cannot surmount thy height, I will bring it down and make thee as a plain, and my servant shall be easily go on with my work as a Traveller goeth over a way plain'd before him. t Zerubbabel as the Servant of Christ. m Shall, as is usual, affist at the laying of the last finishing stone, as well as he saw and affist when the first foundation stone was laid n of the second Temple. o With loud acclamations the signs of great joy, and satisfaction in the thing begun. p Praying, and wishing all prosperity, and a long continuance of it, to the Temple and those that are to worship God in it, as Grace and favour of God began, and finish, so may the same grace ever dwell in it, and replenish it.

8 Moreover q, the word of the LORD came unto me, saying, q Either at another time, or else at the same time was added what now Zerubbabel declares.

9 The hands r of Zerubbabel * have laid the foundation s of this house, f his hands x shall * and s. 15. also finish it; and * thou t shalt know n what t chap. 2. 9. 11. the LORD x of hosts hath sent me y unto and s. 15. you z.

Perhaps (as is customary) he did lay the first stone with his own hands, or rather his direction and command, and under his conduct. f In the second year of Cyrus perhaps forty years ago, likelier seventeen, but be those years more or less, he shall finish it, the Prophet expressly promitteth from the Lord, both continuance of Zerubbabels Life, Care and Power, as also his success in this work to encourage both him, and the Jews. x Whoever thou art, that dost hear me, both Zerubbabel and all among the Jews x shall be fully assured, and certainly know x God of Truth and Mercy, our God from our Fathers who remembers his Covenant, x commanded me to preach these things. z Returned Captives, and poor builders of this frailty and magnificent house.

10 For who a hath despised the day of small || for the things b d? || for e they shall rejoice, and shall see the t plummet d in the hand of Zerubbabel, with those seven e, * they are the eyes of || Heb. 12. 6. of the LORD, which run to and fro through the || whole earth.

2 Chron. 16. 9. Prov. 15. 3. M m m And whole Earth or a particular Commission to keep their rounds in the Land of Juda, and to take care of their affairs for the comfort of that people. b Christ who hath all power in Heaven and on Earth, c Stay no longer here, hasten to your charge, as you have desired, d do. e They obey immediately and do his Commands. These Bay horses are here represented as attempting, or making essay which at first seems to take little effect though at last by a full Commission empowered they do succeed in the attempt. This might give ground to suppose here is some Kingdom aimed at, which made some attempts to enlarge it fell through all the Earth but failed in one attempt, which no wonder since the Angels which were so afflicted were not Commissioned to walk through the whole Earth, and they keeping to their commission gave no farther help for want of which the design failed. How far this may concern Geth and Adada, or any more late Empires and Kingdoms, I have neither skill nor further to enquire. Nor yet to enquire whether these Bay horses were not emblems of Angels employed by the Lord, in the Government of the rest of the Kingdoms of the World remote from Juda, but not remote from Gods Wife and Sovereign Providence governing all the Earth. The known Empires here are supposed to have been managed by particular Angels represented according to the analogy between the colours of the Horses and the complexion of the Kingdoms. And it may seem likely that the rest of the World was not left without some to have care of them.

8 Then e cried he f upon me and spake unto me, saying, Behold, these that go g toward the north country h have quieted my spirit i in the north country.

a When the Prophet had been informed about the former vision. The Angel that talked with the Prophet, b c The Lord Christ spake aloud, and called to him. d Or are gone, for he speaks of what was already past, e I think he meant the Red horses. f Into Babylon. g Either by doing what I appointed them against the cruel Chaldeans in revenge of my peoples injuries, or bringing my people back out of Babylon into Canaan.

9 ¶ And e the word f of the LORD came unto me, saying,

h It appears not that this next thing hath any necessary connection to that which the Prophet last saw. i The direction or command for the Prophet to do something out of hand.

10 Take m of them of the captivity, even of Heldai, of Tobiah, and of Jedaiah, which are come from Babylon, and come thou n the same day o, and go into the house of p Josiah, the son of Zephaniah.

m Gold and Silver, of those that are come out of Babylon. Intely, to make their Oblation to the Lord, or to bring an Oblation of them, who yet were in Babylon, but remembered Jerusalem and the Temple. n Go fetch them if they lodge elsewhere, and bring them in thy company. o The same day in which they come, or else in the same day that I speak unto thee, delay not. p Some say he was a Goldsmith, others, that he was Treasurer for the Temple, and that these persons before named had brought a rich present to him for the Temple, and the service of the Lord.

* chap. 3. 5.

11 Then take silver and gold q, and make r crownes s, and set t them f upon the head of Josiah u, the son of Josedech the high priest.

q This reiterating the command, both confirms and explains the former command. r Two, the one of Silver, the other of Gold. s Put both of them, t one after the other. u Who now in this circumstance stands a Type of Christ, King and Priest for ever for his people, and this extraordinary Act was to represent something extraordinary in the Messiah.

12 And speak unto him v, saying, Thus speaketh the LORD of hosts, saying, Behold x the man y whose name is the BRANCH z, and he shall g grow a up out of his place b, and he shall build the temple c of the LORD.

¶ Cr. branch by your own will.

a Josiah but in hearing of others, and in the name of the Lord. b Consider through the import and meaning of this unusual Ceremony. y Thou Josiah art the Type or Figure, but he that is the man signified by thee, is that great person God hath promised, and who do expect, and who shall come. c Whom you know by the name of the Branch, who was called to long since, Mediasin David. This wonderful person is the man that is crowned, as King and Priest by Proxy, or in Effigy: Thou O Josiah art the Pourtrait he is the Branch it self, chap. 3. 8. d A Thought you may perhaps suspect the Root dry or dead, yet assuredly 'tis not, the Branch will spring up, Mediasin King and Priest will be born in due time. e Of the same Tribe and Family, and in the same place, foretold. f He is, though unseen, that stands by you, that build the Material Temple: Nether Zerubbabel nor Josiah, nor all the Jews, could do any thing without Christ in the present building, which is yet far inferior to the Spiritual Temple, which Christ will build, beautify and preserve, and dwell in for ever.

13 Even he shall build d the temple of the LORD e, and he shall bear the glory f, and he shall sit g, and rule h upon his throne i, and he shall be a priest k upon his throne, and the council of peace shall be between them both l.

d The promise is repeated to settle the Jews in the assured expectation of the thing. e Your Material Temple as Type, and the Spiritual Temple as Antitype. f Of both, Kingly Office, and Priestly, the glory of both those Crowns shall shine on him, the only person worthy of it. g Which speaks both of Royal Magnificence, and the Perpetuity of it. h Though he shall have many Attendants and Officers, yet he shall Rule, give laws, distribute Rewards and punish Offenders. i His by Birth, by Donation, by Purchase, and by Conquest, will undoubtedly be best Right. j The great High Priest, who made the great Sacrifice to God, to make reconciliation, to make atonement for his People; This is that meant by the crown set on his head, O Josiah. k The peace made for Gods People shall rest upon thee two, the Kingly and Priestly Office of Christ, by his Priestly Office he shall make their peace with God, by his Kingly Office he shall deliver them from Spiritual enemies, by his Priestly Operation he shall expiate our sin, by the power of his Kingly Office he shall extirpate sin, as Christ he was, as King maintains Peace; Purchase as a Priest, Protect as a King.

14 And the crowns m shall be to Heldai n, and to Tobiah, and to Jedaiah, and to He the son of Zephaniah, for a memorial o in the temple of the LORD.

m Those two crowns before mentioned, made of the Gold and Silver brought from Babylon, chap. 11. n These Persons we know no more of with any certainty, but their names, by their incredulity lay some, of their liberality lay others, these crowns were certainly to be memorials of the Messiah certain and speedy coming, and to be revered in the Temple, as a Memorial of this solemn Typical inauguration of Jesus, or Messiah in him.

15 And they that are far off p shall come and build in the temple of the LORD, and ye shall know that the LORD of hosts hath sent you q. And r shall come to pass s, if ye will diligently obey the voice of the LORD your God.

This verse hath certainly a double reference one to the Jews, and the building of the material Temple, which is the literal historical fact, the other mystical, and refers to the bringing in of the Gentiles. p Such Jews as do you abide in Jerusalem, and Perse, or other remote parts. q 'Tis also the church of the Gentiles, Acts 2. 42. r Eph. 2. 13. s The Jews did with their gifts, came to Jerusalem and built with their brethren, the Gentiles are come in and build the spiritual Temple. The accomplishment of this shall prove my words to be Gods word, and that I am sent of him. t The literal part shall come to pass in your day, if you will obey the voice of the Lord your God speaking by me. The mystical part shall come to pass also, and if you will believe and obey the Gentiles shall come in and be your Brethren, make up one Church with you, and help to build the Temple, the spiritual Temple. But if you obey not you shall be cast out and the Gentiles be taken in to be Gods people, and to build his Temple.

CHAP. VII.

1 AND it came to pass a, in the fourth year of king Darius b, that the word of the LORD came unto Zechariah in the fourth day of the ninth month, even in Chislev c.

a A most usual form of speech introductory to what follows afterwards is spoken. b When the Jews had now been two years in building the Temple, and probably travailed in good forebodings, c Son of Abdiashub about Isa. 36. 37, as Arch-Bishop Voss in his Annals. d Part of our New Testament and Deuteronomy half the time of building the Temple was spent.

2 When they e had sent unto the house of God f, Sherazer and Regem-melech g, and their men h to † pray before the LORD i.

e Either the Captives which still continued in Babylon, or the Jews returned out of captivity, but dwell in the Country at a distance from Jerusalem. f Temple, which now shall build be frequented by Priests and People, and where Haggai and Zechariah might be found true Prophets. g It appears not who these were, but no doubt they were eminent in dignity and piety. h Train either of Friends that accompanied them. i Or of Servants that waited on them. j In most solemn manner, and with Sacrifices no doubt, for the Altar was set up long ago. Now these come to increase the fire of the Lord by Prayer in the house of Prayer for pardon of what was past, and acceptance of them at present, and for answer to their enquiry.

3 And to speak k to the priests l which were m in the house of the LORD of hosts, and to the prophets n, saying, Should I weep o in the fifth month p, separating my self q, as I have done r these so many years s?

k To consult with. l They were to be the ordinary counsellors, and ought to be able, and ready to answer all cases of Conscience, as Mat. 2. 7. m Had their reverence in, or about the Temple. n These were extraordinary counsellors, who might be supposed able to justify the enquiry, if the Priests could not. These Prophets were Haggai and Zechariah. o i. e. Fast, of which weeping was a part. p Small chapter 1. 12, and Mat. 9. 15. q In sad remembrance of the burning of the Temple on the 10th day of that month. r From worldly cares and designs, and afflicting my self. s This intimates their former practice, and seems to include in it some little boasting of it. t It had been cause for them to have reckoned up the exact number of years, but they choose rather to express it thus, to greatness their performance.

4 ¶ Then e came the word f of the LORD of hosts unto me, saying,

g When their men had proposed their case, and expected the Priests answer. h An answer from God which follows in the 7th. and 8th. chapters of this book at large.

5 Speak unto all the people x of the land y, and to the priests z, saying, When a ye fasted and mourned b in the fifth b, and seventh c month, even those d seventy years e, did ye at all fast f, unto me g? even to me h?

i. e. Either by their messengers who came in their name, or to all the Jews that were at Jerusalem. y By which it seems to be not the Isotenes in Babylon, but the returned in Juda, that sent. z Some of these perhaps doubted; and others might overvalue, and do so their voluntary services, and needed as well as deserve, a reproof. a Who prescribed this your Fast? and since you needs would, for it was at liberty you might fast, and mourn) who was better for it? or did you do it to please me, when you displeased me by other, your sinful courses? b See Jer. 3. 10. c Isa. 40. 1. d For the murder of Goodness, slain by Humanity, Jer. 41. 1. e So many they were since Goodness's death to this time of enquiry, which is made now as many years after the return as Goodness was slain after the beginning of the captivity. f What ever was in it. There was very little in it from me, no command, no honour, as you ordered it, you pleased your selves in it, not me; g you were more for the inconveniences of the thing, than the usefulness of it. Had you fasted to me, you would have obtained more from me, which I forbid, than from meats which I did not forbid. h As if God had said, I put it once more to you, did you intend to fast to me?

6 And when ye did eat, and when ye did drink, i did ye not eat for your selves? and drink for your selves?

i Was as little minded by you in your Fasts, as in your Feasts, and I was as little pleased with your Fasts, as Feasts, felt was all in both, you looked no higher. Such fasting commands none to God, you had not been the worse if you had forbidden such Fasts, nor are you the better for such ill managed abstinence.

7 ¶ Should ye not hear the words g which the LORD hath cried h † by the former prophets i, when Jerusalem was inhabited, and in prosperity k, and the cities thereof round about her, when men inhabited the south and the plain l?

g You need not have thus enquired had you heeded the word written, should you not remember? Or have you not read what Isa. 38. 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, determines in this very case? h Openly and loudly spoken. i Who have given you the true value of obedience to the great, and momentous precepts of the Law, who have called for Repentance, and sincere love to God, and Man, and have on just balance thrust down light, and unprofitable formal services have been. j Did such observances preserve in its prosperity? Did they prevent the defilement of the Cities round about her? Were they sufficient to the plain? Did they, or could they do so good when things were all safe and well? Or do you fondly imagine they can profit you now all is in ruins? Can they restore a fallen state that could not support it falling?

8 ¶ And the word of the LORD came unto

9 Thus speaketh f the LORD of hosts, saying, * † Execute true judgment m, and mercy n and compassions o every man p to his brother q.

† Or did speak, i. e. to your Fathers, and thus he doth speak to you now. m God required former Judges, and the require present Judges, without hatred, prejudices, partiality, or bribery, to give true sentence. n Be kind and beneficent to each as need. Wrong none; you could do good to all that feels their miseries. o As this is every mans duty; let it be every ones practice. q i. e. to every one that needs you.

10 And * oppress r not the widow s, nor the fatherless, the stranger, nor the poor, and * let none of you imagine evil against his brother in your heart t.

r Do not first misreport their persons, their actions, and their cases, and on that pretence do them wrong, and oppress them; s is double oppression, to oppress by false information, and then condemn, the first is an oppression of Righteousness, the next is oppression of the Righteous. t A Catalogue of helples ones who are under the peculiar tutelage of God, Exod. 22. 21, 22, Deut. 10. 18, and 14. 29, and 24. 17, 19, Isa. 1. 17, 23, Eccl. 3. Neither think ill of, or wish ill to, nor plot evil against, one another.

11 But they refused to hearken u, and † pulled away the shoulder x, and † stopped their ears y that they should not hear z.

u They wilfully were ignorant would not consider nor understand. x Next they refused doing their duty, withdrew their shoulder from the yoke of the Law, Mat. 23. 2, 16. y And to make it more contempt, they applied their hands to their ears, and so turned their backs on God. z All this out of an obstinate resolution to be unacquainted with Gods will, and their own duty.

12 Yea, they made a their hearts a an adamant b stone, lest they should hear c the law d, and the words e which the LORD of hosts f hath sent in his spirit g † by the former prophets h: therefore i came a great wrath k from the LORD of hosts l.

a Though the heart of it self is far from taking impressions, and receiving kindly the Law of God, yet these desperate sinners think 'tis too pliable, they study how to harden it, and this was the fault of many of them. b The hardness of stone. c Which was peremptorily required of them, and they as peremptorily refused against it. d Of God by Moses, of whom they boasted, whilst they despised his Law, e Councils and Commands. f Which the Lord of Hosts their God spake, nay though they knew he spake they would not hear. g By his Holy Spirit in clear evidences, piercing convictions, powerful operation, and dreadful threatenings; yet they opposed and resisted, and sinned against his Spirit. h All of them acted by the same Spirit, and pressing them to the same duties, and foretelling the same miseries, and promising the same blessings, but all would not prevail. i For this great obstinacy, k which consumed the whole Land, and burnt against them 70 years together in Babylon. l In all which the land of the Lord was most evidently seen, dealing to them according to their ways. Such were your Fathers, such their ways, such their sufferings, all which is well known to you who start such queries, and mean while run away from the great commands of the Law.

13 Therefore m it is come to pass n that as he o cried, and they would not hear: so * † they cried o and I would not hear, saith h the LORD of hosts.

m This is the very cause, and 'tis just too. n My Spirit by the Prophets called, warned, intreated, and urged them to repent, obey, and live; but they would not; o by fasting and howling in their deep, but chosen distress, in the miseries they fell under after Goodness's death, yet I would not hear, for the Lord of hosts is not most just I should disregard their Tears for Goodness, when after his death they pretended to enquire that they might obey my word, Jer. 42. 3, with 5. 5? yet then they gave my Prophet the lie, and consequently refused to do contrary to my word by him, Jer. 43. 4. You thus know my remenances of your Falls held on with your sins, faith the Lord.

14 But I scattered them p with a whirlwind q among all the nations r whom they know not s; † Thus the land t was desolate after them u, that no man passed through, or returned x, for they y laid the † pleasant land desolate.

¶ Heb. Land of desolation.

¶ When

Or, there is strength in me, as in the inhabitants, &c.

their Enemies to confound and destroy them; and their enterprises, this eye of God open upon his people is his powerful, gracious Providence; so that they shall be as all of improvidence, and have as little foresight, as a stark blind man hath of sight to be by.

5 And the governors of Judah b shall say in their heart c, || The inhabitants of Jerusalem d shall be my strength in the LORD of hosts e their God f.

b The Counsellors and Rulers at home, and the Leaders and Captains abroad, the Maccabees and others every one for himself. c Shall think, believe, and reckon upon it, and be hearty in it. d Though but few, and poor, yet they shall be my strength, and shall fall be ready and forward to go forth against their Enemies, with an handful of men to encounter mighty and numerous Armies, because their strength, and help lyeth in the name of the Lord of hosts. e Not in their own Power but in the power of the Almighty Sovereign Lord of all whom can save by few as by many. f And because their God he will give them victory.

6 || In that day will I make the governors of Judah like a hearth of fire b among the wood c, and like a torch of fire in a sheaf d; and they shall devour all the people round about on the right hand and on the left: and Jerusalem shall be inhabited m again in her own place n even in Jerusalem o.

g See ver. 3. h b A hearth thoroughly on which fire is kindled. i The more is laid on, the more is consumed and burnt up, so the enemies of Judah and Jerusalem shall be, their multitudes shall no more save themselves than much wood cast on a great fire in the hearth can preserve it self. k Which immediately feeds the whole hearth on fire, and it is consumed. l The Governors of Judah with their handful of men shall thus surely and speedily consume their Enemies which set upon them. m As indeed it was and continued to till Christ's Death and forty years after, for of these times doth the Prophet speak, and not of times till to come. n Not built as Nineveh, Tyrus, Babylon, or Rome, in some place near to the old Cities of that name, but in the very same place where old Jerusalem did, shall be re-edified Jerusalem again. o So you shall find Jerusalem in Jerusalem, or thus shall Jerusalem fall that Jerusalem in which you ought to look, and where you shall find the old Typical Jerusalem which though it lye waste, and I fear must never be built, yet is in more ample manner built up in the Church, spiritual Jerusalem.

7 The LORD also shall save p the tents q of Judah r, that the glory of the house of David s, and the glory of the inhabitants of Jerusalem, do not magnify themselves t against Judah.

p Rescue from the power and rage of the Amicebus's; q says, subdue their Armies, and put them to flight before the Jews. r The unenclosed places, the open Country, the Shepherd-like Cottages, or Tents of Judah. s Before he saveth Jerusalem, before he put Jerusalem into arms, or bring her Inhabitants into the field, to fight, and help the Country, and its Inhabitants; first the weaker are saved next the stronger. t That the illustrious house of David, and to the glorious Citizens of Jerusalem. u Boast of their Power, Policy, Coarsage, and forwardness, and how much Judah owed to their deliverance: This would exasperate Judah, and provoke God, who would do all this, so that all might magnify their God none think guilty of themselves.

8 || In that day u shall the LORD defend the inhabitants of Jerusalem x, and he that is y as David z, and the house of David a shall be as God b, as the angel c of the LORD before them d.

u See ver. 3. v u As he had defended, and saved Judah, and the Tents thereof; so will he also defend Jerusalem, and its Inhabitants against all their Enemies, during the Triety, Gracian, and beginnings of the Roman Empire, during which days many Wars were raised against the Jews, but most visible was this, when the Maccabees succeeded so far, as to restore Religion, and cleanse the Temple. y Releeth through weakness. z A mighty man of valour was David, so these through faith of the weak became strong as Elia 11. 34. a A Thole of the Royal Line shall be for Prudence, and Providence in the Conduct of the Armies of Israel most excellent, as Expre 11. 34. b Or as Angels, g Elia is translated 11. 34. c g Elia is translated 11. 34. d g Elia is translated 11. 34. e g Elia is translated 11. 34. f g Elia is translated 11. 34. g g Elia is translated 11. 34. h g Elia is translated 11. 34. i g Elia is ### The ARGUMENT.

C Concerning this Prophecy some have thought, (but without good and sufficient ground) that he was an Angel in the form of a Man; where, think him to be Ezra; but as 'tis the plainer, so the surer Opinion that he was a Prophet of that Name, and a man distinct from Ezra, and sent the last of all the Prophets. His time of appearing among the Jews cannot be determined precisely, but 'tis best guessed, to have been about the times of Nehemiah's Reforming the frange Marriages, Nehemiah 13. 23, 28, with Malachi 2. 11. and when he Reformed the Sacrilegious detainers of Tithes, Nehemiah 13. 10, 11. with Malachi 3. 8. as Doctor Lightfoot observeth. Now this Reformation of Nehemiah was about the Anno M. 3519 as Doctor Lightfoot, or 3545 as Helvicus, or 3589 as Arch-Bishop Usher's Annals. Wherever was his time of appearing, 'tis certain he lived in a very curious Age, in which both Priests, as well as People were leav'd with either Perverse Thoughts of the Divine Providence, or Brav'd Atheisme denying the Deity and Providence, Contemptuous thoughts of the worship of God, Sacrilegious Practices robbing God of Tithes and Offerings, Shameless justifying their practices, Boundless or Monstrous unfaithfulness to their Wives, casting off Jewill to marry Gentile Wives, or else superincubating the Gentile women, and enslaving the Jewish to them, Casting off the Law of God, or which is equally bad (if not worse) wresting it to their own sinful sentiments. All which be doth severely Reprove, and requires them to Reform, and foretels the day of the Messiah's coming to sit as a refiner, and purifier; whose appearing, [such sinners and sin] would not be able to bear; and tell them of his forerunner, who in the Spirit, and power of Elus should come, and prepare a people for the Messiah: 'Till then, (as their Duty was) he commanded them in the name, and by Authority from God, that they remember the Law of Moses, which God commanded in Horeb; hereby intimating, some great change in the Law at the Coming of the Messiah: and intimating also, that they should expect no more Prophet till the Great Prophet himself should come unto them.

CHAPTER I.

THE burden of the word of the LORD to Israel † by Malachi c.

a See Zech. 3, v. 1, lrs. a. b. c. and Nab. 1, 1st lrs. a. usually it is impossible to dissent against those conformed in it, though the lrs. may be diverse, as in the Collage of Isaiah.
 b The lrs. of Isaiah may be divided into three, as the lrs. of Isaiah Authority was Divine on which this Prophet spoke.
 c Mellenger (faith the Lord) to Hbb. founds. My Angel as some, though they erre, who take him to be an Angel conveing with Jws in the form of a man, but Angel, taken in the grammatical sense i. e. Mellenger he was, and Gods Mellenger, the last of Prophets sent to Israhel before the great Prophet Messiah came. That he was Messiah or Elyas, as some conjecture, without good ground, or who he was, of what Tribe, or Family the Scripture does not recount, and we make no guesse. His Prophecie is Divine: Authority, and is cited by three of the four Evangelists, Mt. 11. to Mt. 1. 2: Luk. 1. 16, and by St. Paul, Rom. 9. 12.

2 I have loved d you e, saith the LORD f:
yet ye say g, Wherein hast thou loved us h? was not Esau i; Jacobs k brother? saith the LORD:
yet * I loved Jacob l.

4 God alerts his Ancient love, that which he had in many generations past; He'd I have time out of mind, yea, from before the time of your Father Yaakov, and in truth before Abraham was, delivered I have faithfully loved to thee. And from the time of Yaakov I have loved to thee, and from this delivered, what I have not found from you, a love exceeding foremost to mine; but instead of love, some are ready to say I have no such thing, or to dispute perversely in what it appeared. e Both personally considered and relatively as you were in your Fathers and Progenitors. f Their ingratitude enters this solemn profection, they should readily have known that I have loved you from the beginning. g And not put God to avow the love he had *h*ewn them. h Or, Alas you do querulously and with ignorance expose object to me, as I put me on to vindicate my love, and expose your ingratitude. i Whither, or for what I *h*ere not come carnal? do not Abraham's love deserve a carnal? this Velleitane? j Most perverse prides, for what have been Capricious proud under the miseries of it all our days till of late, by this route to us. k Since they are supposed thus to obstruct, by con-ing questions God will give them answer; Was not Eſau Jacob's brother? had they not one and the ſame grandfather? was not Abraham as near to one as to the other? did not one Father beget them, and one Mother bear them? did they not lie together in the ſame Womb? was there not as much of Abraham, Isaac and Eſau as of Jacob? or what of Nature, Conſanguinity, and outward privilege ſet there in one more than in the other? whatever that was, Eſau might claim for he was the Elderſt. In Eſau's Perſon his Progeny, as included in ſpiritual next veſty. & The younger Brother, your Father. O unthankful Yſrael! I I prefer'd him to the Birthright, and this of free love, before any merit could be dream'd of, I did love his Perſon, and have lov'd his poſterity, with an unparalleled love, and ſew'd it to all.

of the wilderness. Obad. 10: 8.

m I loved thee, Ego or his Pottery; as I loved Jacob and his Pottery; this Not loving is extravagantly less a feeling. God shew'd not the same kindness to the Twin-brothers, the one was more enrich'd with the fruits of Gods Love, and had cause to be thankful, the other had no cause to complain, for God did him no wrong. n Conaining his Pottery with him; for he loveth it, Amor turns fire into love, as the lacking of Jerusalem, as foretold by Ezra. The people were so dear to him, that he was forced to fly from the sword of the Enemy, their Cities were taken, plundered, and burnt. It is possible that they might meet with worse usage than the Jews met with herein, though their fate seems equal, and here is no token of unequal treatment. o He loveth thee, Amor turns fire into love, as foretold by Jacob's Captivity returned, and their Cities were restored, though never were. q Or Fachals or Owles, for the world is soiled and explain'd by some, or all these with Dragons, doleful Creatures, which delight in desolate places, by which the utter destruction and the perpetuity of the desolation of Ejha is figured.

4. Whereas Edom faith, We are impoverished & but we will return & build the desolate places & : thus faith the LORD of hosts, O o o z They

They shall build but I will throw down <sup>a</sup>, and they shall call them, The border of wickedness <sup>a</sup>, and The people against whom the LORD hath indignation for ever <sup>y</sup>.

<sup>y</sup> You Jews who are now returned from Captivity, and are blest with a Rehabilit Temple and City, who are led in Civil and Sacred concerns, your eyes shall see, some of you must needs, more vile, and all might observe what I have said, that my love is toward you whom I plant, build up, and prosper, while I root up, pull down and destroy your neighbouring Kindred Edom. <sup>y</sup> Ye should in point of duty, and some of you will take notice of it, and confess it. <sup>b</sup> Or let the Lord be magnified, let his name be great and his Praisé great for his free love to Israel, for his great displeasure against the border of wickedness, for his truth in both. <sup>c</sup> Let Israel from all his borders give God this Praisé.

<sup>m</sup> You through covetousness take any the people bring, whether such as the Law requires or no. If it answer not the perfection of the Law, yet you think me to serve me, through your contempt of me, and thus to serve your turn to feed you and yours. <sup>n</sup> Either by ill-managing, and misordering, which is good and allowable, or accepting what is disallowed and forbidden, because of its blemishes. <sup>o</sup> Either the shew-bread, of which Exod. 25. 30. or meat-offerings, Exod. 29. 41. Lev. 2. Numb. 28. 5. or in a more large Sense, all that was to be offered unto God, Sacrifices, and Oblations. <sup>p</sup> By this it appears bread is to be expounded here of Sacrifices, and not to be confined to the narrow bounds of this one kind, nor to stand upon their own justification, and proudly compare with God, either implying they did not offer such polluted things, or if they were defective, and in law fence polluted, yet that they did redound to God, or affect him no more than the perfection of them could add to him. <sup>q</sup> Perhaps in words, however by your deeds you speak your thoughts and judgment; you think so, and so act so. <sup>r</sup> Before I was Altar, now is Table, not to be opposed each to other, but comprehending both, and all that was offered unto God on both. <sup>s</sup> As if they meant'd Sacrifice and Oblation by the splendour, and Riches of the Temple and Altar, the first were more proper than the second, and these Priests probably thought they might share in the qualities of the offerings, as this Temple shared in its splendour, they continued this, and then concern their offerings.

† Who is there even among you that would shut the doors for nought? neither do ye kindle fire on mine altar for nought; I have no pleasure in you, saith the LORD of hosts, neither will I accept <sup>a</sup> an offering at your hand <sup>b</sup>.

† Some make this verse to be a kind of which, that there were some among them that would shut up the doors of the Temple, and keep out such Sacrifices, and Sacrifices, it would be less displeasing to God, 'were better not done at all, than to ill do, and so long as it is ill do, God can have no pleasure in it or them. <sup>o</sup> Others make it a reproach of the Jews upbraided for their prophane contempt of God, and for their inexcusable negligence while they are so well paid for all their service, be it ever so little, and inconsiderable as the lightning fire on the Altar, or shutting the doors of the Temple, inexcusable diligence to receive large Wages, and neglect your work! † I cannot be pleased with such Servants and Servants, or 'tis a Misfit, I am very greatly displeased with you, while you are thus prophane and contemptuous, I will therefore cease your gifts, but reject you and them.

<sup>11</sup> For from the rising of the sun, even to the going down of the same, my Name shall be great among the Gentiles, and * in every place incense <sup>a</sup> shall be offered unto my Name, and a pure offering <sup>b</sup>: for my Name shall be great among the heathen, saith the LORD of hosts.

† This verse is a very full and plain prediction or promise made on behalf of the Gentiles, that they should be a people to the Lord, and should exalt his Name, and Worship him as pure way, and well-pleasing to the Lord. † When he call eth off Ceremonial Services, and Carnal Ordinances, he will set up Spiritual and Heavenly, and all Nations from East to West shall submit to them, and sacrifice the Holy and Beating Name of God in them. † A Law term for a Gospel Duty, and under this Term is contained the prayers and praises, nay, the whole Gospel Worship is that Incense which shall be offered unto God, which is in the verse called a pure Offering. † Both sincere in opposition to Hypocrites, and holy in opposition to impurity, and purged from Superstition and Idolatry. The sum of this verse is contained in that Jeb. 4. 21. 23. 24.

† To those first before mentioned, the Priest chiefly, and the people with them added this also; that they openly complained of Gods Service. † What a roll and drudgery is it to observe every point of the Law about ordering our lives, and the Sacrifices! † In token of discontent, and that you thought it was all needless labour would not examine your Sacrifices, you should. † For want of value for the Ordinance and Patience in examining whether the Sacrifice were perfect, and according to Law, you Priests accepted and offered the torn, and blind, &c. which are expressly forbidden to be made Sacrifices, vid. cr. 8. It. † With such minds snuffing at its service, and with such Sacrifices, unfit for mine Altar, and unfit to offer a Sacrifice of the best, but pure God, off with the torn, &c. A perfect Male, such as God requires, and accepteth. † In Vows God required very perfect and unblemished Offerings, Lev. 22. 18, 19. but here are Jugglers that vow corrupt things, when they have what is perfect, and should vow that so solemnly sacrifice the worst, wholly unfit for acceptance. † Any thing, but the best, we have, is this corrupt thing for the best we have is justly commended, and that corrupt thing is acceptable to the Lord. † Very full of Majesty, and therefore will by no means be blighted. † Heavens Reverence this Name, and will do when Converted, and you Jews ought not to undervalue it.

C H A P. II.

† Either this which he had already minded them of, about the Sacrifices which it ought to be offered, and what refused, if the people brought defective Sheep or Oxen, they who were Priests, ought not to have admitted; they ought not to have offered them upon God's Altar; or this Commandment he now brings from God to them, and which is contained in this Chapter. † By especial Direction 'tis sent to you, and look to it that you obey it.

† This †, to the Prophet was dubious, but to God who sent the Prophet, 'twas not doubtful, but 'twas for mention to the Priests and Jews, and implied a condition of mercy if they would not hear, but an inevitable curse if they did not hear. † If you do not consider what you hear, to do the good, to forsake the evil. † By a due, and holy manner of sacrificing and offering Incense; in neglect of which you have greatly failed, and dishonoured me, and polluted my Name and Altar. † It is a comprehensive threat, many miseries in one word; it is a blast on their good hopes for, and 'tis payson in the good people, and when 'tis, as here, sent of God, 'twill surely do both, 'twill be a blast on hopes; 'twill be poison in what is polluted and should be enjoyed. † All, both Priests, and people, but especially on the Priests. † All the good, necessary supports of Life, and Comforts of your selves and yours. † You have so long polluted my Name, and would not reform, that I have already sent out the curse, and 'tis in fact it, and this is for evermore, of greater curies yet coming, unless you repent. † The first was great, in that you polluted my Name, but it becomes much greater when you add impatience to it, and harden your selves, and will not lay it to heart, therefore the curse is gone out with Commission from God to execute you.

† Note it well, and consider. † Take away the prolific virtue and strength of it, that it should bring forth new, yet little fruit; your seed you make plentiful, but you can not make your harvest so, nor will I, till you give me the Glory I contend for, and will have, 'ere I have done; I will rebuke, or check your seed, which will suffice to grow thence, then, your vines check, thrive fill; your seed for Harvest cannot grow up under my checks. † 'Tis an expression of greatest contempt cast upon a persons; it is a token of utmost indignity, and scorn, I will expose you, as you have exposed my Name to contempt. † Your most solemn days and feasts, which are by you accounted most holy, and in which you think you offer the most holy and acceptable Sacrifices shall be as loathsome to me as dung; and that shall make you, who offer them illegally, as polluted, unclean, and loathsome as if I had thrown the dung of those Sacrifices into your faces. † You shall be taken away with it, removed as unclean as the dung itself, as unfit as that to be in the Temple, as fit to be cast out to the Dung-hill; to contemptible shall you be, as if you lay it to heart.

† O Priests! † By fence and feeling, by woful experience, or know ye it, but what I speak now, and will do among you. † Admonition, reproof, and exhortation, to look more carefully for future, that you do not dishonour me, and make mine Altar and Sacrifices contemptible; but repent of what is past, and for time to come amend all, this I call for at your hands. † That you do not null the Covenant of Priesthood made with Levi, and which I would have continued in his posterity, in you, and your posterity, which I would not have your sins and high provocations should abrogate; but if you will not thus confirm, settle, and keep Levi's Covenant among you, I will make it firm, as to what is on my part so be done hereby, to punish the violators of it. † O God Almighty, Lord of hosts hath spoken this, and will do it.

† The Law of God which is the Truth, the Doctrine of the Law according to the true meaning thereof. † He did reach it to the people, he resolved all cases by this Law, Aaron, Elders, Priests, or as we must understand it, every one of those God's Priests or Levites, in what Age soever they lived, was as cr. 5. feared God, and were humble. They taught the people (as was their duty) first to know the Law of God, and then to obey it; this by their Example, the other by their Instruction. The Law of Truth was in his mouth, he pronounced it according to the Law truly, pronouncing that unclean which the Law determined unclean, and that clean which was clean. † He judged not with respect to persons, nor for bribe per-to their ways? / Who contrive, and then work wickedness; / who choose it, fludy it, and glory in it, as the whole of their life; are built up, are advanced to honour, and filled with riches, and have fair probability that all this will last to them, and theirs. And could this be, say these Priests and Jews, under the eye of a just and Sovereign Judge? were there God of judgment when all these disorders are every where seen? ¶ They that dare him to his very face, that do the high affronts to God, partly to prove whether he would or could punish the sinners amongst men. Those escape punishment though the Law and Prophets threaten them, and would you have us (say these men) believe there is such a God of judgment, when all is so disorderly carried in the World? That fit the proud behaviour of these against God.

16 ¶ Then u they that feared the LORD o spake often one to another p, and the LORD q hearkned q, and heard it r, and a book of remembrance was written before him s for them that feared the LORD u, and that thought upon his name x.

10 Then Atheism and bold conceits: of God was grown in 11 his, and was to plainly and faintly reproved by the Prophet
 12 o Those that were truly Religious that knew Gods Judgements 13 were a great deep, and that his wayes were straight: and 14 wayes as Heaven above the Earth, and Holiness and Widom in 15 Gods Mercy, and the manage of the Sons of Men; establish'd 16 another against the faults of such proud contemptuous dis-17 corders; encouraged each other to wait for God in the way of 18 Judgments. Though vs it said not what his wayes exceeded 19 reason to believe it was as good of God, as any thing exceeding 20 the discourse of man. The godly spake things
 21 which should become the wayes of God, as what the wise
 22 spake did disparage the wayes of an officitious, holy, patient
 23 and just God. g After the manner of man, the Lord is repre-24 sented as if he did listen to hear more distinctly, and as if he 25 incline his Ear. g Clearly, perfectly, and fully he is ob-26 served, and what he saith of him and for him. g to tread down those that fear God and are going to be not be so always; that word, Psal. 58. 10, 11, and thar 7: 56. 24, and that Rev. 18. 20. shall be fulfilled in the throwing of the bad, and in the Triumphs of the good. But particularly this treading seems to be intended of those who after the sacking and burning of Jerusalem, should return either to view the ruins, or to dwell there, and so should in going up and down, tread upon the wicked, either buried in the Ruins or consumed to Ashes. } By this it appears, that those preferred ones did not barbarously tread upon the entire Bodies of the wicked, but upon the alhes of those bodies by the fire consumed and turned into ashes, and mixt with the ashes of their Houses and Goods. ¶ Burn Jerusalem and the Temple with the Citizens and Priests whose carcasses were slain by the Sword, or their persons surpris'd with the Flames, shall be burnt upon

And so both this and much of the first verse may be literally understood, and was so fulfilled by Titus and his Souldiers, Acto Civilis, 73.

3. + ¶ Remember a ye the * law b of Moses c
10. my servant d, which I commanded unto him * in Horeb e for all Israel f, with the statutes and judgments g.

3 Now take leave of all Prophecies, for you shall have no more till the Great Prophet, till Shiloh come, and attend ye diligently to the Law of Moses, keep its precepts and directions. 4 In the full extent, the Moral Precepts, Rules of a Holy and Religious life for all. The Ceremonial Precepts; And of your Worship, for local use. The Temple shall stand, the type of Christ, and of the Church. 5 The Judicial Precepts; whilseth you have no Government, or power of Judicatures. By a due keeping this you may escape future Judgments and obtain future blessings. Lev. 26. Deut. 28. beside, by this attending to the Law, they might be enabled to see the Messiah, and own him of whom Moses is wrote in Deut. 18. 18. 19. 20. 21. 22. 23. 24. 25. 26. 27. 28. 29. 30. 31. 32. 33. 34. 35. 36. 37. 38. 39. 40. 41. 42. 43. 44. 45. 46. 47. 48. 49. 50. 51. 52. 53. 54. 55. 56. 57. 58. 59. 60. 61. 62. 63. 64. 65. 66. 67. 68. 69. 70. 71. 72. 73. 74. 75. 76. 77. 78. 79. 80. 81. 82. 83. 84. 85. 86. 87. 88. 89. 90. 91. 92. 93. 94. 95. 96. 97. 98. 99. 100. 101. 102. 103. 104. 105. 106. 107. 108. 109. 110. 111. 112. 113. 114. 115. 116. 117. 118. 119. 120. 121. 122. 123. 124. 125. 126. 127. 128. 129. 130. 131. 132. 133. 134. 135. 136. 137. 138. 139. 140. 141. 142. 143. 144. 145. 146. 147. 148. 149. 150. 151. 152. 153. 154. 155. 156. 157. 158. 159. 160. 161. 162. 163. 164. 165. 166. 167. 168. 169. 170. 171. 172. 173. 174. 175. 176. 177. 178. 179. 180. 181. 182. 183. 184. 185. 186. 187. 188. 189. 190. 191. 192. 193. 194. 195. 196. 197. 198. 199. 200. 201. 202. 203. 204. 205. 206. 207. 208. 209. 210. 211. 212. 213. 214. 215. 216. 217. 218. 219. 220. 221. 222. 223. 224. 225. 226. 227. 228. 229. 230. 231. 232. 233. 234. 235. 236. 237. 238. 239. 240. 241. 242. 243. 244. 245. 246. 247. 248. 249. 250. 251. 252. 253. 254. 255. 256. 257. 258. 259. 260. 261. 262. 263. 264. 265. 266. 267. 268. 269. 270. 271. 272. 273. 274. 275. 276. 277. 278. 279. 280. 281. 282. 283. 284. 285. 286. 287. 288. 289. 290. 291. 292. 293. 294. 295. 296. 297. 298. 299. 300. 301. 302. 303. 304. 305. 306. 307. 308. 309. 310. 311. 312. 313. 314. 315. 316. 317. 318. 319. 320. 321. 322. 323. 324. 325. 326. 327. 328. 329. 330. 331. 332. 333. 334. 335. 336. 337. 338. 339. 340. 341. 342. 343. 344. 345. 346. 347. 348. 349. 350. 351. 352. 353. 354. 355. 356. 357. 358. 359. 360. 361. 362. 363. 364. 365. 366. 367. 368. 369. 370. 371. 372. 373. 374. 375. 376. 377. 378. 379. 380. 381. 382. 383. 384. 385. 386. 387. 388. 389. 390. 391. 392. 393. 394. 395. 396. 397. 398. 399. 400. 401. 402. 403. 404. 405. 406. 407. 408. 409. 410. 411. 412. 413. 414. 415. 416. 417. 418. 419. 420. 421. 422. 423. 424. 425. 426. 427. 428. 429. 430. 431. 432. 433. 434. 435. 436. 437. 438. 439. 440. 441. 442. 443. 444. 445. 446. 447. 448. 449. 450. 451. 452. 453. 454. 455. 456. 457. 458. 459. 460. 461. 462. 463. 464. 465. 466. 467. 468. 469. 470. 471. 472. 473. 474. 475. 476. 477. 478. 479. 480. 481. 482. 483. 484. 485. 486. 487. 488. 489. 490. 491. 492. 493. 494. 495. 496. 497. 498. 499. 500. 501. 502. 503. 504. 505. 506. 507. 508. 509. 510. 511. 512. 513. 514. 515. 516. 517. 518. 519. 520. 521. 522. 523. 524. 525. 526. 527. 528. 529. 530. 531. 532. 533. 534. 535. 536. 537. 538. 539. 540. 541. 542. 543. 544. 545. 546. 547. 548. 549. 550. 551. 552. 553. 554. 555. 556. 557. 558. 559. 560. 561. 562. 563. 564. 565. 566. 567. 568. 569. 570. 571. 572. 573. 574. 575. 576. 577. 578. 579. 580. 581. 582. 583. 584. 585. 586. 587. 588. 589. 590. 591. 592. 593. 594. 595. 596. 597. 598. 599. 600. 601. 602. 603. 604. 605. 606. 607. 608. 609. 610. 611. 612. 613. 614. 615. 616. 617. 618. 619. 620. 621. 622. 623. 624. 625. 626. 627. 628. 629. 630. 631. 632. 633. 634. 635. 636. 637. 638. 639. 640. 641. 642. 643. 644. 645. 646. 647. 648. 649. 650. 651. 652. 653. 654. 655. 656. 657. 658. 659. 660. 661. 662. 663. 664. 665. 666. 667. 668. 669. 670. 671. 672. 673. 674. 675. 676. 677. 678. 679. 680. 681. 682. 683. 684. 685. 686. 687. 688. 689. 690. 691. 692. 693. 694. 695. 696. 697. 698. 699. 700. 701. 702. 703. 704. 705. 706. 707. 708. 709. 710. 711. 712. 713. 714. 715. 716. 717. 718. 719. 720. 721. 722. 723. 724. 725. 726. 727. 728. 729. 730. 731. 732. 733. 734. 735. 736. 737. 738. 739. 740. 741. 742. 743. 744. 745. 746. 747. 748. 749. 750. 751. 752. 753. 754. 755. 756. 757. 758. 759. 760. 761. 762. 763. 764. 765. 766. 767. 768. 769. 770. 771. 772. 773. 774. 775. 776. 777. 778. 779. 780. 781. 782. 783. 784. 785. 786. 787. 788. 789. 790. 791. 792. 793. 794. 795. 796. 797. 798. 799. 800. 801. 802. 803. 804. 805. 806. 807. 808

The End of the Prophets.

ANNOTATIONS

On the GOSPEL according to

St. MATTHEW.

The ARGUMENT.

THe whole Revelation of the Will of God to the Children of Men, is usually called The Bible, that is, The Book (for the word Bible derives from the Greek βιβλος or βιβλιον) with a note of Eminency, being indeed the Book of Books, so as Luther said well that he should wish all his Books burn'd if he could know, that men by them would be kept, from reading the Scriptures. And to distinguish this from other Books, we have (in the ordinary Titles of our Bibles, added Holy, with respect to the Authority, the Matter and end of it. This sacred Book with us Christians, is usually divided into the Old and New Testament, indeed the term Testament, doth not so properly belong to the Law and the Prophets, as to the Books of the Evangelists, the Acts and Epistles, &c. The Title of New Testament in Greek is, ΤΗΣ ΚΑΙΝΗΣ ΔΙΑΘΗΚΗΣ ΑΠΑΝΤΑ. That is the whole of the New Dispensation or New Law, or New Covenant, or New Testament. The word, Originally, and Primarily signifieth a Disposition of things: In regard, that amongst men, Things are ordered, or disposed, by a Law, or by Contract, or Covenant, or by Will and Testament, the word hath been used to signify any of these. But in regard, that until a Testator be dead, a Testament is of no force, Christ having not continued dyed, before all the Law and the Prophets were finished (I mean the Writings containing the Law, and what other Holy Men wrote by Inspiration from God, which the Jews call the Prophets, or the Holy Writings) it is not so proper (but that use hath now obtained) to call those Writings by the name of a Testament. Especially considering, that as part of them (which contained the Ceremonial Law) was abolished by the Testator's Death, and another great part of them, fulfilled, in his Coming and Dying. The name therefore of Testament, doth most properly belong, to the Books of the Evangelists, the Acts, and Epistles, which do not only contain the New Law, (so far as it is new, either in respect of the full Interpretation of the Moral Law, or in respect of the Law concerning the Worship of God under the Gospel, and the Government of the Church) but also the New Covenant which he made with Adam, first revealed to him. Gen. 3. 15. yet is more fully Revealed in those Books, and they are indeed the last Will and Testament, of our blessed Lord and Saviour. These Books do obviously divide themselves, into the Gospels, the Acts of the Apostles, the Epistles of the Apostles, and the Revelations. The Evangelists, or Gospels are four: Matthew, Mark, Luke, John, whose Books are called the Gospels, that is, Books containing The good Tidings (for so the word εὐαγγέλιον signifies) which was brought to all People; by the Coming, Life and Death of Christ, the History of which, as also his Resurrection, and Ascension into Heaven, they relate. So as they are not called Evangelists, as the term signifieth, such an extraordinary Officer (as is mentioned, Eph. 4. 11. such a one as Phillip was, Acts 21. 8. & Timothy, 2 Tim. 4. 5. But as they were Evangelical Historiographers, writing the History, as well as publishing the Mystery of the Gospel, of these, Matthew and John were Apostles, the other two only Disciples to the Apostles. In the account they give us of Christ, what he did, and what he said, we are not to expect either a full account of all he did or spake (we are assured of the contrary, John 21. 25.) Nor yet an exact account of every Speech in any one Sermon, or all the Circumstances of any of his Actions: We must conceive of them, not as exact Notaries, but such who wrote from their Memories (not without the Inspiration of the Holy Spirit) Hence it is manifest, that altho they do not Contradict one another (that indeed were incompetent with the Spirit of Truth, their common Guide) yet one Evangelist hath, what another hath not, and in the same piece of his History, one hath more Circumstances than another: And hardly any of them relates all things in the same Order of time, in which they were Spoke or Done, but set them down, as their Memory did serve them, keeping to the Substance, and being less careful as to Circumstances: So as where more Evangelists relate the same History, or Sermon, what all say must be taken in to Complicate the History, or Discourse, so far as the Holy Spirit thought fit Christians should be acquainted with it; which is the Method I have taken in my Notes upon the Gospel according to St. Matthew. Matthew was the Son of Alphaeus, Mar. 2. 14. called also Levi; his Employment he was a Publican, that is one who gathered Custom for the Romans (which sort of People were generally hated, and perhaps none of the honestest Men) Christ called him from the receipt of Custom to be his Disciple, Mat. 9. 9. 10. Mar. 2. 14. 15. He was sent out as one of the Twelve Apostles, Mat. 10. 3. So as he was both an Eye and Ear-witness of what he wrote, what became of him after Christ's Ascension I cannot tell, nor knowing what Credit is to be given to what Ecclesiastical Historians say in the Case, who wrote there or four hundred years after. The term of his writing this Gospel is as uncertain, some eight, some nine, the inhabitants at Nazareth. This is enough to have spoken of the time when the Wise Men came, viz. At what distance from the Birth of Mary, considering that nothing can be in the Case certainly determined: It is yet a greater Question, who these Wise Men were, and from what part of the World (here called the East) they came. The incertainties of mens Conclusions in this kind of Enquiry, rather than profit, let Conclude us in this manner. Men search for satisfaction, when God has hidden a thing from them. They cannot agree in the number of them men, some will have them twelve, some but three, and they undertake to tell us their Names, tho neither can they agree in it: So we will have them to be Kings, and the Papists make us believe they have their Sepulchres within the walls of the Temple; and by the number of the Towns then to this day at Colosse; and by the number of the Festivals for their king's number, and that Church hath a Festival for them (which is our twelfth day) and an hundred more Festivals there are about the N. The Scripture faith no more than Wise Men, and telleth us nothing of their number, whether they were near Abolgers, or such as were skilled in magical Arts, or more generally Philosophers, is vainly Disputed, only we have their observation of this extraordinary Star, together with what the Scripture tells us of the time, to think they were made of Astrologers, to guide us to the Country, for Astrology: Tho such as were Famous in their Country, for Astrology: Tho others think them Persons skilled in Divine, and Humane Laws. The Scripture only calls them Wise Men. Whether they came from the Eastern parts of the World, or that part of the World which lay Eastward to the City of Jerusalem, is another unprofitable Question; Pagans they were without doubt, whether Perfians or Arabians, or of some other Country, is of no great Concern for us to know, and almost impossible to determine. These were the first Fruits of the Gentiles owing Christ as King of the Jews, whilst he came amongst his own, and they received him not: Nor do I know any thing more worthy of our observation concerning them, those that think it worth the while to read what more is said concerning them may read enough in Spanhemius Lib. Evange. Henrichs his exercitatio Sacra et Polit Critica which I rather chuse to name than the Papists Writers, because in some of these he will find the Antidote against the Papists of those Fables and Discourses, and be taught a Pious warning of obtruding upon the Faith of ignorant People.

2. Saying, where is he that is born King of the Jews? for we have seen his Star in the East, and are come to worship him.

* Num. 24. 17.

Jerusalem was the Metropolis of Judea, thither they come, as to the most likely place, where to receive satisfaction. Of whom they inquired the Scripture faith not: It is observable that they took notice that there was a Person born, who was to be an Illustrious King of the Jewish Nation, they speak not of it doubtfully as to that. This Information they doubtless had from a Divine Revelation, for altho there was an extraordinary Star appeared, which might let them know that God had produced, or was producing an extraordinary work of Providence in the World, yet without a supernatural Interpreter, they could not have made to true and particular Interpretation of it, upon the sight of it to have come with such a Confidence to Jerusalem, affirming that there was a King of the Jews born, and that this was his Star, a Light which God had put forth to direct that part of the World, to the true Messiah. All agrees at the Nature of this Star, and the means how the Wise Men came to know that it was the Star of the Messiah, was born upon the sight of it, and its motion, are great incertainties, God undoubtedly revealed the thing unto them, and caused this extraordinary Star as at first to appear, to confirm what he told them, so at last to appear directing them to the very House in which the young Child with his mother were [and are come to worship him] whether Worshipping here signifies only a Civil Honour, which those Eastern Nations ordinarily gave unto great Princes, or that Religious Homage and Adoration which was due unto the Messiah, is variously explained by Interpreters, it is said, p. 1. they fell down and worshipped him, and when they had opened their Treasures, they presented unto him Gifts, Gold, Frankincense, and Myrrh. This might be upon a Civil or upon a Religious Account; and doubtless was according to the Revelation, which they had, concerning which nothing can be certainly determined.

3. When Herod the King heard these things, he was troubled, and all Jerusalem with him.

Herod was hardly warm in his Kingdom, and had taken Jerusalem by Force, and was therefore much concerned, to hear that there was a new King born, and supposing him to have been all his Life acquainted with the Jewish Writings and Records, was not to be of this World, but being possessed of the ordinary Notion of the Jews, that the Messiah should restore a Temporal Kingdom to Israel, he could not but be troubled at the News of one born, who was to be the King of the Jews, especially having a Confirmation of it by such an extraordinary means, as Persons coming from a far Country, and being directed to their Journey by some extraordinary appearance upon the sight of a new Star; which pointed to Judea, as the place to which it related; Herod upon this might justly think that his newly acquired Kingdom would not last long. And most People are quickly weary of Conquerors, yet their former miseries being fresh in their minds, and the renewing of them likely upon a Change in the Government, it is no wonder if the generality of the People, were also troubled.

4. And when he had gathered all the chief Priests and Scribes of the people together, he demanded of them, where Christ should be born.

In this perplexity the King Herod calleth a Synod or Council, which was made up of the chief Priests, and Scribes, the single Question which he propounded to them, was to resolve him. Where Christ should be born. It is most likely this was an extraordinary Convention of such of these Persons as the King thought fit, who were best skilled in the Law, and other Revelations of Holy-writ, not any ordinary meeting of the Sanhedrim, for the Question propounded to them was of meer Ecclesiastical Concern: and to be resolved from the Prophecies and Writings of the Old Testament. The thing of the Question to them, not Where the King of the Jews, but where Christ should be born, makes it manifest, that altho (as we read of) the Wise Men said nothing of Christ, yet Herod being presently conceived, that this King of the Jews, that was born, must be the Messiah Promised of Isa. 2. and in Dan. 9. he therefore desired to know of them the place, in which according to their received Tradition, and Sense of the Prophecies of Holy-writ, the Messiah whom they expected (that is Christ) should be born.

5. And they said unto him in Bethlehem of Judaea for thus it is written by the Prophet.

6. And thou Bethlehem in the land of Judah, art not the least among the Princes of Judah: for out of thee shall come a Governor that shall rule my people Israel.

It was (as it seems) to receive a Tradition, and Interpretation of Micha. 5. 2. that they gave him an Answer without any Hesitation, telling him. He was to be born in Bethlehem of Judea, this they confirm by the Prophecy of the Prophet Micha. 5. 2. So confirming the Son of the Virgin Mary (at unawares) to be the Messiah from the Testimony of the Prophet Micha. 5. The words in Micha. 5. foretelling very from those here mentioned, they are thus. But him, Bethlehem Ephratah, thou shalt be little among the Towns of Judea, yet one of thee shall come forth unto me, one that is to be Ruler of Israel whose going forth be reckoned of Old from Everlasting. We must know that the Writers of the New Testament in their Quotations out of the Old Testament, ordinarily quote only so much of them as makes to their purpose, and not always in the very terms in which they are found in the Old Testament, as here in the Sa. 2. That it is more than probable that the Evangelist keeps to the words, in which the Priests and Scribes delivered in their Answer to the King, for in this Relation he is but reciting their Answer. The sole Question propounded to them was, What the place was where the Messiah according to their Records was to be born: They Answer in Bethlehem Judea, they prove their Answer from the Testimony of the Prophet. If any object that the Prophet calls it Bethlehem Ephratah not Bethlehem Judea. The answer is that it is the same place for Bethlehem Ephratah was within the Tribe of Juda, it should seem by Gen. 35. 19. and 48. 7. that it was formerly in Jacob's time called Ephratah, for he thought that it was a Town within Caleb's portion, and called Ephratah by his second wife, whose name was Ephraim, or Ephratah, 1 Chron. 2. 19. so if it were not the same place only fortified anew. We read of other Bethlehem in Judea builded by Rehobem, 2 Chron. 11. 6. whether it had this Addition, from its old Name, in Jacob's time, or from Caleb's Wife, or to distinguish it from Bethlehem, belonging to the Tribe of Zabulon is hard to say, it is plain, that that Bethlehem is meant both by Micha and Matthaeus, which was in Judea, possibly in Track of time the Addition Ephratah was lost, but say some there is a Contradiction betwixt Micha and Matthaeus, Micha faith it was the least, Matthaeus faith it was not the least. Ans. Here is no Contradiction, consider Bethlehem it self, it was not a small City (if it were in Caleb's Lot. It is not manifest, but in other places it was not the least. It was of less Fame for one of the Judges, for Elinelch, Chab, Jesse, David, and now last of all for the Birth of Christ with respect to which the Evangelist calls it not the least, or if he recited the Scribes and Priests words, they might call it not the least with on the account of Boaz, Jesse and David, all which were born on David's, and particularly with respect to Christ, who was born there: The Prophet calls it the least with respect to its State in his time, the Evangelist not the least with respect to its State then, its State being magnified by the Birth of Christ. Micha faith amongst the Towns, Matthaeus amongst the the Princes. It is the same thing for Num. 1. 76. their Princes were Heads of Towns in Israel. The Jews would by no means have their Text interpreted of Christ, but either of Zorobabel or David, but as to Zorobabel he was born in Bethlehem not in Bethlehem, and David was dead long before this Prophecy, neither could the following words [whose going forth be reckoned of old even from Everlasting] agree to Zorobabel, or David: Zorobabel's name tells us where he was born, and we never read that Bethlehem was thus celebrated with reference to David, that he was born there, 1 Sam. 16. 1. 17. 58. upon which account it is called the City of David, Luk. 2. 4. The Prophecy certainly related to Christ, and not to David, and is interpreted by the Chaldee Paraphrast, who some think was one of this Council called by Herod in this Cause.

7. Then Herod when he had privily called the wife men enquired of them diligently what time the star appeared.

Herod having heard the Answer of the Priests and Scribes, did not think it to make any noise of it amongst the People, he knew the Jews were apt to presume much of their good a Conqueror had no reason to presume much of their good will towards him, he therefore calls the Wise Men privily, and takes no notice of any King they talk of, but only inquires the time, When this new Star first appeared, to what end he made this Enquiry, may be learned from Isa. 16. only he might be able to Govern himself in his bloody Decree, that he might neither destroy more Children than would serve his present Design, nor yet leave this Child behind.

8. And he sent them to Bethlehem and said, Go, and search diligently for the young child, and when you have found him bring me word again that I may come and worship him also.

He tells the Wise Men, that Bethlehem was the place, wherein his Wife Men had informed him, was the place, the Jews was to be born, and sends them thither with these Instructions: That they should go, and search diligently there, for the young Child, whom he doth not call King, thereby denouncing his bloody Mind, and making as if he had no jealousy of him, yet withal he suggests to them, that he was like to be a Great Prince, or else he would never have pretended that he had a Design, when once he knew certainly where he was, to go and pay an Homage to him. This Text lets us see the Malignity of Herod's Heart, and indeed of all wicked mens Hearts. Herod knew that the Messiah was born. The Extraordinary Star, and the coming of the Wise Men, the Priests and Scribes Answer to him could not but confirm him, that he was born, who was long since Promised, as a King and Governor to Israel, yet could he not obtain of his wicked Heart, to comply with the Counsels of his Heart, in thinking it was in his Power to frustrate the Divine Councils, and be too hard for God himself, nor is his self less remarkable, not tending any of his own Counsels to them, whom he might better have trusted than meer Strangers to have come back, and brought him an account, but whether it was, that he durst not trust any of the Jews, or that he was over cautious in trusting to the innocent Simplicity of these Wise Men, being not made acquainted with his intentions he saithest them to go alone upon this Errand, whom he might possibly think would be least suspected of Jefeph and Mary, so as at their return he should have a more full account of all Circumstances concerning him, than he could have expected from one who had been taken notice of, as one that belonged to his Court.

9. And when they had heard the King they departed, and to the Star which they saw in the East went before them, till it came, and stood over where the young child was.

They departed toward Bethlehem Judea, how long their Journey was we cannot tell, some wonder, that none of the Jews attended them in their Journey, coming out of their own Country upon such a Discovery, and impute it either to the Fear of the Jews under which they were, or to the blindness and hardness of their Hearts, for St. John tells us he came amongst his own, and they received him not; but it is possible that the Wise Men immediate Applications were to the Court, as thinking that the most probable place to hear of one that should be born King of the Jews; and it may be suspected, whether Herod, tho he called the Scribes, and the Priests, told them, that his Summoning of them was occasioned by the coming of the Wise Men, for the only Jews that were present to them, was where Christ was to be born, which they might have known without any Relation to the Wise Men's Question. Nor is it probable that Herod should have more open than needed in publishing the coming of the Wise Men or their Errand. Yet, the Text saying that not only Herod but all Jerusalem was troubled, suggests to us that Herod was not coming, and the Occasion of it, was noised abroad, more than probably Herod could have wished, but it is like that his Diffinition was so private, that if any of the Jews had had an Heart and Courage enough to have gone with them, yet they might not have had Opportunity. It is more admirable, that Herod sent none that he could securely trust with them. But the hand of God was in this thing. They had been led as Isa. 60. 1. The Star which probably had disappeared for a good time, while they were upon their Journey, to go to Emmaus (a place) they needed no Star to guide them, to go to Emmaus (a place) as soon as they were out of Jerusalem appeared again [and went before them, till it came, and stood over where the young Child was] probably, the Star appeared in the lower Region, and tho it could not point to directly that they should know the way, yet it might point to near as by inquiry, they might easily find it, especially by the influence of God upon their Spirits, which doubtless they did not want, whether their Wife Men, were of the Politeness of Baldam, who Promised, Nam. 24. 17. 19. of a Scepter that should arise out of Israel, that should Inherit the corners of Mosh, one that should have Dominion, &c. Or this Star had any Relation to the Star mentioned there, is very incertain: It is more probable that the Wise Men came a far further Journey, and that the Star they mentioned was not to be understood in a literal Sense, but better expounded by Simen, Luk. 2. 32. A Light to lighten the Gentiles, and to be the Star of his People Israel.

10. And when they saw the Star, they rejoiced with exceeding great joy.

Joy is but the natural Consequence of Desire satisfied, they had in their own Country seen an extraordinary Star, which according to the Rules of their own Art, they might guess to be an Indication of a great Prince born; or by a Divine Revelation they might know to be so. This kindled in them a strong Desire, to go and pay an Homage to him, upon this they take a long Journey to Jerusalem. When they came there they were more fully confirmed, from the Answer of the Priests, and Scribes, that there was a Christ to be born in Bethlehem Judea, thither they go, in their Journey, the same Star they had before seen, appears to them again confirming both their former Apprehensions, and by its standing over Bethlehem, and a particular House in it (to their Apprehensions) they were fully confirmed, that they had right Instructions from Herod and rejoiced in the Satisfaction of their Desire naturally, and possibly rejoiced Spiritually in this matter of Joy to all People, if they had (as is probable) a Spiritual Illumination, and believed that this Child was also Jesus, one come to save both Jews and Gentiles from their sin.

11. When they were come into the house, they saw the young child with Mary his Mother, and fell down and worshipped him; and when they had opened their Treasures, they presented unto him Gifts, Gold, and Frankincense, and Myrrh.

How long the Virgin Mary, and her holy Child had been there, is not expressed, tho'think, that that Wise Men came within six Weeks or so Months, Judge that Jefeph and Mary came thither from Jerusalem after that he had been there offered to the Lord, of which you read, Luk. 2. but they are forced to uphold this to interpret, Luk. 2. 39. which faith, That after they had performed all things according to the Law of the Lord, they returned into Galilee to their own City Nazareth: Of a considerable time after they had performed these things which seemeth something hard, and needless, especially considering Nazareth was Jefeph's own City, &c. The City where his fixed Habitation was: It is not probable, that they after so long absence, went right home, and if the Wise Men (which is said) found them in Bethlehem, they were gone thither again to visit some Relations. They find the young Child with Mary his Mother, under what other Circumstances the Scripture faith not, but questionless they were very likely, that they had a Spiritual Divine Revelation. That this was a King, whose Kingdom was not of this World, the true Messiah, and Saviour of the World, who would hardly have treated a poor Infant, in an ordinary House and no more attended, at the rate they did, for the Text faith [they fell down and worshipped him] an usual Homage indeed which the Eastern Nations paid to Princes. But they used then to have better Evidence of their Royal State and Dignity, than these Wise Men feared to have had, if they had not besides the Star a Divine Revelation, what manner of King this was to be. We may therefore either judge that they were of such a King as was not only the Birth of a King, but of such a King as indeed was the Eternal Son of God clothed with humane Flesh; and that their following Devotion and Worshipping him, is to be understood of a Divine Worship; they paid to him, as the Saviour of the World: And so they were the first Fruits of the Gentiles, owning, and believing in the Lord Jesus Christ. And that their following Offerings to him were upon that Account, for opening their Treasures, they presented to him Gold, Frankincense and Myrrh, the Gentiles of those, who of such a King offered him Gold, as to a King, Frankincense as an High Priest, and Myrrh to sweeten the place where he was, I take to be but the Product of Luxurious Fancies. It is not certain tain that thoſe Eastern People, ſeldom came to their Princes without in Preſents, and that their Preſents were actually of the moſt choice things their Country afforded, This is plain from Gen. 43. 21. and if what Naturaliſts tell us be true that Abyſs was only to be found in Arabia, and Eden only in Saba (a part of Arabia), and that Country alſo had Gold, which it ſupplies it had, from 2 Cor. 9. 14. it makes a very probable Argument, that theſe Wiſe Men came from Arabia, which was full of Men that were Aſtrologers. The Providence of God was wonderfully ſeen in theſe Preſents, by them providing for the Suttenance of Joseph, and Mary, and Jesus in that Exile which they were ſoon after to endure, for other Allegorical and Myſtical Significations of theſe Preſents they are but Conjectures, and the Emphaticneſs of theſe Fancies 12 And being warned of God in a dream, that they ſhould not return to Herod, they departed into their own Country another way.

Now the Wiſe Men began to deſert the crafty Counſels of Herod, whoſe bloody Hand he had ſtained, till he ſhould from the Wiſe Men have had a perfect Intelligence, concerning this new born King. God in a Dream appeared to the Wiſe Men and warned them to go no more to Herod. The Wiſe Men came with no intention to ſerve Herod's bloody Deſigns, but came in the Simplicity of their Hearts: This Simplicity, or ſincerity, Herod would have abuſed, to have made them Accuſers to his Guilt. God will not ſuffer it: He who walks ſincerely, walks ſafely. Thus the Integrity of Abimelech, ſaving him from the chief Priests and Soldiers, that they were not miſtaken concerning the Star and its Indication. 13 By ſpeaking himſelf to them, to keep them from any Guilt or being ſo much as Accuſers any way to that bloody Tragedy, which upon their departure he knew would be Acted: They took another way to go into their own Country, for we hear of them no more.

13 And when they were departed, Behold the Angel of the Lord appeared to Joseph in a dream, ſaying, Arise and take the young child, and his mother, and flee into Egypt, and be thou there, until I bring thee word, for Herod will ſeek the young child to deſtroy it.

How long it was before this Apparition to Joseph, the Scripture ſaith not, but admitting what is affirmed by ſome Geographers, that Bethlehem was but two days Journey from Jeruſalem, it cannot be preſumed long, for Herod had (doubtleſs) quick Intelligence of the Wiſe Men motions Here was a ſecond Translation upon Joseph, who was of great Quality, or Carpenter, and might have anxious Thoughts how he in Joseph ſhould maintain himſelf, his Wife and Child, but Joseph knew, that the Earth was the Lords, and the Fulſing thereof, the Egypt therefore was a Land of Idolaters, and he had no Wiſe way of Subſiſtence there, yet we ſhall hear that none of theſe things made him heſitate. Joseph was near to Paleſtina, and the Dominions of another Prince, within which Herod had nothing to do, Jeruſalem he ſtill thought: And ſhall there all the Death of Solomon: Gods preſent here, did not only indicate his Care and ſpecial Providence for, and over this His Child, but included a Promise of Stance and Support for it, and its Parents, and the Lord further aſſured Joseph, that he ſhould not dye in that Exile, for he would be wiſe to tell him the time when he ſhould come back. Chriſt's time to dye was not yet come, and therefore he would have him out of the way, for he who ſearcheth the Heart, and tryeth the Reins, and knoweth the Thoughts of Man as he ſitteth, did know that Herod would ſeek the young Child to deſtroy it, he ſhould but ſeek it, for God had reſolved to prefer him, but he would then the Malice of his Heart in ſeeking of it, therefore God commands him to go away, and directeth him whither to go. The certainty of an Iſſue, from the Divine Conſeſs, or a Divine Revelation, ought not to incourage us in the neglect of any rational, and juſt means for the obtaining of it. The God will provide for his Church and People; yet it is his Will they ſhould uſe all juſt, and Lawful means for their own Preferment.

14 When he aroſe, he took the young child, and his mother by night, and departed into Egypt.

15 And was there until the death of Herod, that it might be fulfilled, which was ſpoken of the Lord, by the Prophet. Out of Egypt have I called my Son.

True Faith, or aſſent to a Divine Revelation, always produces Obedience to the Precept of it. Thus it did in the Wiſe Men, thus in Joseph, thus every were in Holy-writ: By which we may learn. That they indeed believe not the Scriptures to be the word of God, who take no Care to live up to the rule of Life preſcribed in them. Joseph not only obeyed but readily, and perfectly obeyed: When he aroſe to seek the young Child, and Mary his Mother. The Poverty of our Saviours Parents is not obſcurely gathered from this ſtory of Joseph. His motion was not delayed for the Picking up of Goods, gathering in of Debts, &c. if he loſt any thing by his haulte, yet he carried with him, the Promiſe and ſpecial Care of God for him, and his; yet he moved Prudently, and therefore he began his Journey by Night, when leaſt notice could be taken of his motions. We are not to put God upon working Miracles for our Preferment, tho' he may ſometimes do ſo many ſure Promiſes, when it may be obtained in the uſe of means. They are Gods Security given to Creatures, when he hath indued with reaſon, and expreſs that we ſhould uſe it, while we yet truſt in his word. We are not told into what part of Egypt Joseph went, nor how long he ſtaid there: Some ſay fix or ſeven years, others, but three or four Months. The Text ſaith: He was there until the Death of Herod, ſome ſay that was before the Paſſal Solemnity that he ſtaid there all things are great uncertainties. It is certain he ſtaid there all Herod dyed, but when that certainly was, we know not, nor is it material for us to be Curious in inquiring. [That it might be fulfilled, which was ſpoken of the Lord by the Prophet. One of Egypt have I called my Son] That it might be fulfilled is a Promise often met with in the New Teſtament, to declare the Harmony of Scripture, and the Faithfulneſs of God, in fulfilling the Prophecies, or Promiſes of the Old Teſtament. Spoken tells us, the Scripture is ſaid to be fulfilled Properly, but not improperly. Properly two ways, either Literally or Myſtically, improperly, Secondly, when ſome ſuch like thing ſpoken, as was before foretold or ſpoken of, or an Example is brought Parallel to ſome former Example. Literally the Scripture is ſaid to be fulfilled. 1. When a thing before Prophecied, or Promiſed, cometh to paſs. Thus ch. 12. the Prophecy Isaiah 7. 14. was literally fulfilled, to Micah 5. 2. waſtally fulfilled, Chap. 2. 6. by Chriſt's being born in Bethlehem, to Zechariah 9. 9. waſtally fulfilled, Chap. 21. 5. Or de. 2. When the Type is fulfilled in the Antitype. Thus we read many Scriptures of the Old Teſtament fulfilled in Chriſt, ſeveral things about the Paſſal Lamb, the Braſen Serpent, Solomon, David, Jonas, &c. improperly the Scripture is ſaid to be fulfilled: When any thing is reported as done, which bear a Proportion to ſomething before recorded in Holy-writ, as Job or David, thus Chriſt applyeth the ſame thing to the Hyacinths which lived in his time, which Isaiah ſpoke of to him who lived in his time, Isaiah 29. 17. Chap. 13. 13. 14. Iſaiah 6. 9. thus Dives call a Fulfilling, per accommodationem, aut Transumptionem. The Queſtion is, whether this Scripture which is, Isaiah 11. 1. was fulfilled in Chriſt being carried into Egypt, Properly or Improperly: There is a great Variety of Opinions, thoſe poſſibly judge but who think that the Iſtaſet going into, and coming out of Egypt, was a Type of Chriſt's going into Egypt, being perſecuted Here and coming out again, Adrian ſaith the Scripture was fulfilled, whether Properly or Improperly, is not material for us to know, I have only added this much to ſhew my Diſcourſe hereafter where we ſhall meet with this Place.

16 Then Herod when he ſaw he was mocked of the wife men, was exceeding wroth and ſent forth, and ſlew all the Children which were in Bethlehem, and in all the Coaſts thereof from two years old and under, according to the time which he had diligently inquired of the wife men.

Herod now expounds what he meant by his coming and Weſtphing Chriſt alſo, which he talked of. 2. When he ſaw that he was mocked, &c. really mocked by their coming no more to him, not that they uſed any mocking Language, or deſigned by their Actions to deceive him, but probably intended to have gone back according to his Deſire, but that they were otherwiſe admoniſhed by God in a Dream. [He was exceeding wroth] as great Perſons uſe to be when they are by great Deſign, they have fruſtrated by their Inferiours [and ſlew forth and ſlew all the Children in Bethlehem, and in the Coaſts thereof from two years old and under] he ſlew forth Soldiers, or Executioners and ſlew all the Children, there is a Tradition that amongſt them he ſlew his own Son, and that Augustus Caſar hearing it ſhould ſay, It was better to be Herods Dog than his Child, becauſe the Jews will eat no Swines Fleſh. Others ſay that a Fable, for his Son died very few days before he ſlew from two years old and under. If we take theſe words as they ſeem to ſound, they would incline us to think that Chriſt was near two years old before the Wiſe Men came, but ſome very learned Men think they came within a year or little more, and that the term we tranſlate two years old, ſignifieth Perſons that had never fo little entered upon the ſecond year of their Age: So as if a Child were but a year and a Week old, he was Properly enough called Jesus, one of two years old, that is who had begun his ſecond year. Hence they think that the Star appeared ſome little matter above a year before they came to Bethlehem, and conſidering at how great diſtance ſome parts in Arabia were from Jeruſalem, they think that a year might well be ran out in their Deliberations about, and Preparations for, and diſpatch of their Journey. Thus they interpret the next words [According to the time he had diligently inquired of the Wife Men] that they had told them, that it was ſomething above a year, ſince the Star appeared firſt. This is now a middle way, betwixt thoſe who (very probably) think that they came within thirteen days, too ſhort a time doubtleſs for ſuch a Journey, and thoſe that think they came not till near two years, which is ſome ſeventh as much too long. I leave it to the Readers judgment.

17 Then was fulfilled that which was ſpoken by Jeremy the Prophet ſaying.

18 In Rama was there a voice heard, lamentation and weeping, and great mourning, Rachel weeping for her children, and would not be comforted, becauſe they are not.

The Text quoted, is Jer. 31. 15. this Prophecy was literally fulfilled when Judah was carried into Captivity: There was then to be ſuch a Nazareth, ſeparated to God, for the accompliſhment of our Redemption, and the true Nazir or Perſon ſeparated, ſhould be Educated at Nazareth, a poor Contemperate Town, Jo. 1. 46. Nazareth ſaid, can there any Good come out of Nazareth? That while his Education there gave the Jews an occasion to reproach him, as a Nazarene; becauſe born at Nazareth, he believed amongſt the Jews, might underſtand him to be the true Nazarene, understood in Joseph and Sanſon called by this name, as a Type and Figure of him who was to come, ſeparated by God to a more Excellent end, and from Men in a more Eminent manner. So that what the Prophet ſpoke of this Nature concerning Chriſt, they ſpoke of who were the true Types of Chriſt. Thoſe who will read Spanhemius, and Poſti Critica, will find large Diſcourſes about the Difficulties of this Text, but this ſeemeth to be Spanhemius his Opinion, improving the Notion of Mr. Calvin.

19 But when Herod was dead, behold, an Angel of the Lord appeared in a dream to Joseph in Egypt;

20 ſaying ariſe, and take the young child, and his mother and go into the land of Iſrael, for they are dead who ſought the young childs life.

That is, as ſome ſay, within three or four Months (for Herod they ſay no longer out-lived his bloody Act) and if we may believe Hieronymus, he was in his Death, made a dreadful Example of Divine Vengeance, but we cannot afford the juſt time how long he out-lived this bloody Act; when he was dead, God who had promiſed Joseph v. 13. to tell him by an Angel (as before) let Joseph know he might ſafely return: It is probable this Apparition was not immediately upon the Death of Herod, for Archelaus was reigning, who must be allowed ſome time to go to Rome, and to have this dignity conferred on him, but ſoon after he was Dead, this Apparition was, with a Command to him, to return into the Land of Iſrael, to which he ſoon yielded Obedience.

21 And he aroſe, and took the young child, and his mother, and came into the Land of Iſrael.

22 But when he heard that Archelaus did reign in Judea in the room of his father Herod, he was afraid to go thither: Notwithſtanding being warned of God in a dream, he turned aſide into the parts of Galilee.

The true King of the Jews being born, The ſingular Providence of God ſo ordered it, that there were no more contented Governors of Judea, under the Title of Kings, tho' they are ſaid to Reign, becauſe the Tetrarchs in their Provinces, executed a Regal-Power: For the Archelaus was by his Father Will declared his Succor in the Kingdom, yet the Emperor and Senate of Rome was to confirm him, who made Archelaus Tetrarch of Judea, as appears by this Chap. Another of his Sons, called alſo by his Fathers name Tetrarch of Galilee, Philip, another of his Sons, Tetrarch of Ituraea, and Lysanias Tetrarch of Abylene and Gad. A Governor over Judea which was Pontius Pilate, as appears by Chap. 1. of all the Sons of Herod, Archelaus is ſaid to be of the moſt fierce, and bloody Diſpoſition, which made Joseph afraid to go thither. His brother Herod Antipas alſo was of a much milder Diſpoſition, and more inclined to Temper; so Joseph not without the Direction of God went into his own Province which was Galilee.

23 And he came and dwelt in a City called Nazareth, that it might be fulfilled which was ſpoken by the Prophets, he ſhall be called a Nazarene.

It appears by Luk. 2. 4. That Joseph dwelt in Nazareth before our Saviour was born, and Luk. 2. 39. after Marias Purification it is ſaid, They returned into Galilee, to their own City Nazareth, and Luk. 4. 16. he was there brought up. Hence Job. 1. 45. he is called by Philip ſon of Nazareth, thoſe who follow the words of this Verſe afford as great Difficulties as any other in Holy-writ. 1. How Chriſt could be called a Nazarene, who apparently was born at Bethlehem. 2. How the Evangelists ſaith that was fulfilled which was ſpoken by the Prophet, he ſhall be called a Nazarene. When as there is no ſuch thing in all the Prophets. There is a ſtrange Variety of Opinions as to theſe Queſtions, Spanhemius ſaith that in that ſeemeth leaſt liable to Exception, viz. That Chriſt was to put a Period to that Order of Nazareth, amongst the Jews whole Rules we have Num. 6. 2. 3. of which Order Sanſon was, as appears by Jud. 13. 7. and Joseph was called WIZ Gen. 30. 26. the very ſame word which is uſed Jud. 13. 7. Both Joseph and Chriſt were eminent Types of Chriſt. And it was ſpoken of Chriſt by the Prophets (the Holy men of God who wrote the Scriptures) that Chriſt ſhould be called WIZ Nazir, as it is in the Hebrew, in that it was ſpoken of thoſe that were his Types; who are both expreſsly ſo called. The word ſignifieth an Holy Perſon, one ſeparated to God, and from ordinary converſe with Men, Chriſt was ſuch a Nazarene, ſeparated to God, for the accompliſhment of our Redemption, and the true Nazir or Perſon ſeparated, ſhould be Educated at Nazareth, a poor Contemperate Town, Jo. 1. 46. Nazareth ſaid, can there any Good come out of Nazareth? That while his Education there gave the Jews an occasion to reproach him, as a Nazarene; becauſe born at Nazareth, he believed amongſt the Jews, might underſtand him to be the true Nazarene, understood in Joseph and Sanſon called by this name, as a Type and Figure of him who was to come, ſeparated by God to a more Excellent end, and from Men in a more Eminent manner. So that what the Prophet ſpoke of this Nature concerning Chriſt, they ſpoke of who were the true Types of Chriſt. Thoſe who will read Spanhemius, and Poſti Critica, will find large Diſcourſes about the Difficulties of this Text, but this ſeemeth to be Spanhemius his Opinion, improving the Notion of Mr. Calvin.

CHAP. III.

IN thoſe days came * John the Baptiſt, preaching in the wilderness of Judea, * Mar. 1. 2. Luk. 3. 4.

That is, in the 15th year of Tiberius Caſar (as Luk. expounds it, Luk. 3. 1.) when John the Baptiſt, and Chriſt alſo were about thirty years of Age. Luk. 3. 23. for there was no great Difference betwixt the Age of Chriſt, and John as may be learned from Luk. 1. 31. 41. 57. In thoſe days while Joseph and Mary, and our bleſſed Lord dwelt in Nazareth, ſee Exod. 2. 11. This Place in thoſe days is the ſame with in 15th years. It is an ordinary thing in the Hebrew to confound the Words ſignifying a day, and a year, and the Greeks did the ſame, as appears by the twenty Interpreters. 1 Sam. 1. 3. 7. The Evangelists ſaith over with a great deal of Silence our Saviours Minority, only mentioning Luk. 2. 42. his Diſputing with the Doctors in the Temple. [came John the Baptiſt] John the Son of Zacharias, Luk. 3. 2. called the Baptiſt; either, becauſe he baptized Chriſt, or becauſe by him God inſtituted the Ordinance of Baptiſme, which before that time Jesus uſed in the Adminiſtration of his Preſbytery, [Preaching] according to his Commiſſion, Luk. 3. 2. where it is ſaid. The word of the Lord came to him in the wilderness of Judea] ſome parts of Judea, where Hoſtes and Inhabitants were very few: None might think that the History of the ſecond Chap. is continued in this, there was a diſtance of twenty eight or twenty nine years. The Evangelist deſigning not to ſtifle mens Curioſity, but only to give us that part of Chriſt's History, which might be Profitable to us to know.

2 And ſaying; Repent ye, for the Kingdom of heaven is at hand.

The Evangelist only gives us the Sum, and Scope of the Baptiſts Doctrine, the other Evangelists give us a more full Account of his preſſing alſo, Faith in Chriſt, Mat. 1. 29. Chap. 2. 29. 36. to Acts 19. 4. Repentance, Faith, and new Obedience ought to be the Subſtance and Scope of all our Sorrows. Repentance ſignifieth the Change of the Heart, and Reformation of the Life: A turning from ſin unto God [for the Kingdom of Heaven is at hand] That bleſſed State of the Church (foretold by the Prophets) under the Meſſias, wherein God will exhibit his Son, as the King in Zion, and exert his Power, and Kingdom, both Extenſively ſubſtaining all Nations to the Obedience of his Goſpel, and Intenſively in all the Adminiſtrations of his Government: For the Kingdom of Heaven, is not to be underſtood here of the Kingdom of Glory, but of the Kingdom of Grace, in all the Adminiſtrations of it; this Paſſage containeth the Argument, upon which the Baptiſt in his Sermons preſent. Repentance and Faith, and Obedience to the Will of God revealed.

3 For this is he that was ſpoken of by the Prophet Eſaias, ſaying, The voice of one crying in the wilderneſs, prepare ye the way of the Lord, make his paths ſtraight.

It is not much material, whether we underſtand theſe words, as the words of the Evangelist concerning John, as it ſhould ſeem by Mar. 1. 3. and Luk. 3. 4. or the words of John himſelf, for he thus ſpoke, Joh. 1. 23. As the words of the Liberty they are found, Jſa. 40. 3. The words are ſpoken of Liberty, but typically to denote Christ, and either theſe Princes, who were Inſtrumental in the reſtoring of the Jews to their Liberty from the Captivity of Babylon, or thoſe Prophets who incouraged them to their return, or upon their return to build the Temple, and City. But they are confirmed by all the four Evangelists, Mar. 1. 3. Luk. 3. 4. Joh. 1. 23. to have a ſpecial Relation alſo to John the Baptiſt, who was to come more immediately before Christ, and with the Fervency, and in the Spirit of Eliſa, Luk. 1. 17. and the Preparation, as the Harbingers of great Princes are ſent before them to call to Perſons, to remove things out of the way which may hinder their free Paſſage, ſo John was ſent before that great King in Chriſt, now coming forth to thee himſelf, and to ſet up his Kingdom in the World; to Cry fervently to all People by a true and timely Repentance, to caſt off thoſe ſinful Courſes, and to reject thoſe falſe Opinions, of which they were poſſeſſed, the holding of which, might hinder the Progreſs of this Kingdom.

4 And the * ſame John had his raiment of Camels hair, and a leathern girdle about his loyns, and his meat was locuſts and wild honey.

There are great and inſignificant Diſputes, about the Habit, and the Diet of John the Baptiſt. The Evangelists doubtleſs deſigned no more, than to let us know, that John Baptiſt's Habit was not of ſoft Raiment, like thoſe who are in Princes Houſes, but a plain Country Habit, ſuited to the Place in which he lived, and his Diet plain, ſuch as the Country afforded. In vain therefore do ſome contend, that John wore married Stuff, fine and ſplendid, as Art in our days hath improved Camels Hair; and others as vainly ſay, that he was habited in a ſoft skin robe, and uſed delicate Garment as is mentioned, Zach. 13. 4. uſed by the Prophets. Eliſa had much ſuch an Habit, 2 Kin. 1. 8. There is like wiſe a Variety of Opinions about theſe Locuſts, which John did eat, the moſt probable is, that they were true Locuſts, for Locuſts might be eaten, Levit. 11. 22. Nor is it to be thought that John did eat nothing elſe, all that intended is, to let us know that John was a man not at all Curious, as to his Meat or Clothes, but was Habited plainly, and ſat ſed ordinarily, as the Men of that Country ſat, if there were any Difference in his Habit, it was to Proportion himſelf to Eliſa, and the Habit of Prophets. In this the Evangelist teacheth us what the Miniſters of the Goſpel ſhould be, and do. They ſhould be Men continuing the Gawdery, and Delicacies of the World, and by their Habit and Diet, as well as other things ſet an Example, of Severity, and Gravity to others.

* Mar. 1. 5.

* Then went out to him Jeruſalem, and all Judea, and all the Region round about Jordan.

The Preacher being deſcribed, the Evangelist proceedeth to tell us how many came to him. The term all here twice repeated, is enough to let us know, that it is often in Scripture ſignificative, no further than Mary, for it cannot be imagined, that every individual Perſon in Jeruſalem, and the Region about Jordan went to hear John the Baptiſt, but a great many did: It is not to be imagined that there went out ſuch a Con-courſe of People to hear John the Baptiſt. 1. If it be true, that from Ezra's time till now, no Prophet had appeared: Our Saviour ſpeaking of John, who went you out for? A Prophet ? Seems to hint that a Prophet was a great Rarity amongſt them. 2. If we conſider the Severity of his Life. Our Saviour ſaid he came neither eating or drinking, that is as other Men. 3. If we conſider the new Doctrine he brought, and his Fervency in the preſſing it, he came to Preach the Meſſias, whom the Jews had long expected; to tell them his Kingdom was at hand. 4. Eſpecially if we conſider the new Rite of Baptiſm, which he brought in. For ſo ſo many that were Prophets in uſe before, yet he baptiſed Jews. He was ſent to Baptiſm with Water, Joh. 1. 33. So far from his time the Inſtitution of the Sacrament of Baptiſm muſt be dated, and he did Baptiſe many.

6 And were Baptized of him in Jordan conſeſſing their Sins.

A great part of thoſe who went out to hear John were Baptized, that is, Baptized in Jordan, but from hence it will not follow, that Dipping is Eſſential to Baptiſm: The waſh-ing of the Soul with the Blood of Chriſt (the thing ſignified by Baptiſm) being expreſſed by ſprinkling or pouring Water, as well as by Dipping, or being dured in Water, Jſa. 44. 3. Ezek. 36. 25. Coloss. 2. 12. whether they conſidered their Sins, Man by Man, by word of Mouth, or by ſubmitting to the Doctrine of the Goſpel declared, their Remiſſion of the Righteouſneſs of the Law, and their Ingreſſance into a Holy Life is not expreſſed. But it is moſt certain, that a Profeſſion of Faith and Repentance, was ordinarily required before the Baptiſm of adult Perſons. It may be admired that this new Practice of John (if it were wholly new) made no more ſtrike amongſt the Jews. Either (as ſome think) Baptiſm was in uſe before that time, as an Appendix to Circumciſion (tho Circumciſion only be mentioned) or they had ſome notion that Chriſt, Eliſa and that Prophet, when they came ſhould Baptiſe: For Joh. 1. 25. they aſked John? Why baptiſeſt thou then, if thou be not that Chriſt, nor Eliſa, nor that Prophet. That which ſeemeth to me moſt probable is, That before that time there was a Baptiſm in ordinary uſe amongſt them after Circumciſing the Child, beſide the Baptiſm of Proficients. And as in the other Sacraments, Chriſt left out the Typical Part, and Bleſſed the Bread, uſed at laſt in Administration, and made uſe of that for the Inſtitution of the Sacrament of the Supper: So as to the Ordinance of Circumciſion, he in the Inſtitution of that Goſpel-Ordinance, left out Circumciſion (which was Typical alſo, and retained only the waſhing of the Perſon with Water, and ſo inſtituted the other Sacrament of the New Teſtament. But yet there was ſo much new in the Baptiſm Practice (for he did not baptiſe by Proficiency only, but Jews, nor did he uſe it as an Appendix to Circumciſion proceeding, but baptized adult Jews) that if the State of the Jewiſh Church had not been declining, and their Power of Diſcipline very little (if any) they would more then have ſent to John, to know by whoſe Authority he Baptiſed: But they were under the Roman Power, and their Eccleſiaſtical Officers, were more Pragmatical, then multierious God in the Wiſdom of his Providence, having overlooked it, that the Change of Woſhip ſhould be at ſuch a time brought in, when it ſhould be leaſt poſſibly oppoſed.

7 But when he ſaw many of the Pharisees, and Sadducees come to his Baptiſm, he ſaid unto them, * O Generation of Vipers, who hath warned you to flee from * the wrath to come.

* Luk. 11. 9.

We ſhall often meet with the mention of theſe Phariſees, and Saducees. We will therefore inquire here a little more fully concerning them. There were three moſt eminent Religious Sects amongſt the Jews. The Eſſenes of whom we read nothing in Holy-writ, their other name Doctrine was Fate, they aſcribed all things to it. The two others are here mentioned, and often, in other parts of the New Teſtament, we read of the Phariſees and Saducees: The latter were moſt acceptable to the great Men amongſt the Jews, the former were more Popular, and acceptable to the People. The Saducees, were directly oppoſite to the Eſſenes, they aſcribed nothing to Fate, but maintained the Liberty and Power of the Will in the moſt Extravagant height, they denied the Immortality of the Soul, the Reſurrection, Angels, &c. all which the Phariſees owned, this we may learn from Mat. 23. 8. where Paul wrought his own Eſcape by ſetting theſe two Factions on quarrelling about theſe Points. In ſhort there were no better then Antichriſts (for what muſt they be leſs that day Spirits, and the Reſurrection?) The Phariſees as to their Doctrine, were much more ſober, they owned Spirits, and the Reſurrection, and ſo they held much of the Freedom of a Power in man's Will; yet they alſo aſcribed much to the Providence and Grace of God: They were the Interpreters of the Law, and as Mr. Calvin thinks, had their Name from thence, not from their dividing and ſeparating themſelves from others (as ſome think) they ſpent much of their time in Faſting and Prayer, but, 1. They held a Righteouſneſs by the Works of the Law, to be our Righteouſneſs, for ſuch we are accepted of God. 2. They made a very ſeigne Interpretation of the Law, as may appear from our Sermons Correcting it, Chap. 5. 2. They held many unwritten Traditions of equal Force with the Law of God. 4. Fourthly, they were very Hypocrites in their Practice, neglecting the weighty things of the Law, making long Prayers for a Pretence for their wickedneſs, and doing all they did, but to ſeem to Men. Some of theſe Saducees and Phariſees, came to John's Baptiſm; and no wonder, for Mar. 6. 20. Herod ſeſſed him, heard him, did many things, and heard him ſing, Luk. 7. 30. It ſaid the Phariſees were not Baptized of him. It is like they came out of Curioſity [He ſaid unto them, O Generation of Vipers] the very Language which Chriſt uſed to them, Chap. 12. 34. and 23. 33. The Viper to which he comprehends them, is the world and moſt dangerous of Serpents: We need give no Account of the Baptiſts treating them ſo roughly, becauſe our Saviour juſtified the term by applying it to them. Corrupt Teachers are the world of Men, and of all orders of Sinners, fewest of them Repent without, and their Hearts changed [I have warned you to flee from the Wrath to come] what comes in your mind, what think they

is no Repentation, no Hell, or who think you are ſo righteous that you need fear none, to do any thing that might terrify you are afraid of Wrath to come.

8 Bring forth therefore fruits meet for repentance.

You come here and thruſt yourſelves into a Crowd of Penitents, but this is not enough, true Repentance is not a barren thing, neither are your leaves of external Profeſſion a ſufficient Indication of it, you muſt bring forth the Fruits of Holineſs, Fruits that may anſwer the Nature of true Repentance. The proper Products of Habits, are called their Fruits, thus we read of the Fruit of Sin, and the Fruit of Righteouſneſs, Fruits meet for Repentance are Works that are the proper Product of Repentance, or juſtly anſwering an external Profeſſion of Repentance. As Faith, ſo Repentance without Works is dead.

9 And think not to faſt within yourſelves, * we have Abraham to our Father: For I ſay unto you that God is able of theſe ſtones to raiſe up children unto Abraham.

All Hypocrites bear up themſelves upon ſomething, upon which they Promiſe good to themſelves, and a Freedom from the Judgments of God. The Jews relied much upon their Deſcent from Abraham, as appeareth alſo from Joh. 8. 39. by which means they intitled themſelves to the Covenant, Gen. 17. extended to his Seed, as well as to himſelf, as alſo to the Name of the Church, Abraham's Poſterity by Iſaac being all the viable Church, which God had upon the Earth at that time: It is the great uſe of Miniſters to derive Hypocrites from their vain Conſciences. This John doth here, as if he ſhould ſay, I know what you truſt too, you think with yourſelves; that, becauſe you are the only Church of God upon the Earth, Judgment ſhall not come upon you, God would then have no Seed of Abraham, to ſhew Mercy to, and to keep his Covenant with, but multake not, God of ſtones if he pleaſe can raiſe up Abraham a Seed, to keep Covenant with Perſons, and Formaliſts have much the ſame Preſumption, tho' with this difference. The Jews were the true, the only Church of God, theſe do but arrogate the Name to themſelves.

10 And now alſo the Ax is laid to the root of the trees, * therefore, every tree which bringeth not forth good fruit, is hewn down, and caſt into the fire.

A Prediction as ſome think, of that dreadful Deſtruction, which within a few years came by the Romans upon the whole Jewiſh Nation. The Senſe is: The Vengeance of God is very near to be revealed, Men muſt Repent Now or Never, for every Tree which bringeth not forth good Fruit ſhall be hewn down, and caſt into the fire, Judgment now is as nigh unto Men, as the Tree is to falling, to the Root of which the Judgment common to all unbelievers, alſo that know not God, and obey not the Goſpel of Chriſt, as a Teſt, 1. 8. 9. or the particular Deſtruction of this Nation of the Jews. I ſhall not determine, tho I rather judge the latter probable. The latter part of the Text is made uſe of by our Saviour, Chap. 7. 19. in the latter part of his Sermon upon the Mountain. It leteth us know, that it is not Improper, nor Diſſimile to the ſide of John Baptiſt, and Chriſt, and others the moſt eminent ſaint Goſpel-Preachers, to preach Repentance, Faith, and Holineſs of Life, from Arguments of Terror.

11 I indeed Baptiſe you with water * unto Repentance, but he that cometh after me, is mightier then I, whoſe I ſoes I am not worthy to bear, he ſhall baptiſe you with the holy gholt, and with fire.

I am not the Chriſt, Mar. 1. 8. Luk. 3. 15. 16. Joh. 1. 15. 26. I am but the Meſſenger, and forerunner of Chriſt ſent before him, to Baptiſe men with the Baptiſm of Water, in Teſtimony of their Repentance, but there is one immediately coming after me, who is infinitely to be preferred before me, ſo much, that I am not worthy to carry his Shoes, or to unloose his Shoe-latchet: He ſhall Baptiſe men with another kind of Baptiſm, the Baptiſm of the Holy Gholt and with Fire, and ſanctifying their Hearts, the Holy Gholt working in their Hearts like Fire, purging out their Luſts and Corruptions, warming and informing their Hearts with the Senſe of his Love, and kindling in them all ſpiritual Habits, or with the Holy Gholt, as in the days of Pentecoſt, there appearing in them cloven Tongues like as of Fire, as Act. 2. 3. thus the term Fire is made Exceſſive of the term [the Holy Gholt] or with the Holy Gholt, and with Fire, changing and renewing the Hearts of thoſe that believe in him, by the Operation of the Holy Gholt, and conſuming and deſtroying thoſe, that will not believe, as with Fire.

12 Whoſe fan is in his hand, and he will thoroughly purge his floor, and gather his wheat into his garner: but will burn up the chaff with unquenchable fire.

Judas is at preſent Gods Floor, the only Church he lueth upon the Earth, but there is Chriſt upon this floor, as well as Wheat. Now he is come, who will make a Separation, between the Chaff and the Wheat: Who by his Preaching the Goſpel will diſtinguiſh between Iſrael, and thoſe that are of peccatory of the Meſſias who living in the true Expectation of him, ſhall receive him now he is come, and thoſe that by their not owning and receiving him, ſhall ſeparate them into diſtinct Hoſts, railing up a Goſpel Church, and ſhall at the laſt day make yet a ſtrict Dilemma, and throughly Purge his floor, taking true Believers into Heaven, and burning Unbelievers with unquenchable Fire, calling them into Toments like unquenchable Fire.

13 * Then cometh Jeſus from Galilee to Jordan unto John to be baptized of him.

* Mar. 1. 9.

Luk. 3. 21.

Chriſt who now was about thirty years of Age, Luk. 3. 23. cometh from Nazareth a City in Galilee where Jehſhiva, Luk. 2. 39. and whither he went with Jehſhiva and Mary, Luk. 2. 39. and again after he had Diſpoſed with the Doctors at twelve years of Age, Luk. 2. 46. cometh from thence to Jordan the great River, where John was baptizing Diſciples, offering himſelf to be Baptized of him. He thewed his Humility by going to him, and alſo made the Action publick. If any ask to what end Chriſt, who had no ſin was Baptized, himſelf gives us an Account, v. 15. To fulfil all Righteouſneſs (of which more we ſhall ſee hereafter) he thus owned John's Miniſtry and Miſſion to baptiſe, and confirmed the Inſtitution of Baptiſm by Water, and offered himſelf to that Teſtimony, which he knew his Father would give of him. He thus intimated himſelf in the Chriſtian Church, as by Circumciſion he had made himſelf of the Jewiſh Church, and ſo was both the Head of the believing Jews and Gentiles. He was not (as others) Baptized in Teſtimony of his Repentance, or for the Remiſſion of ſins, for he was without ſin.

14 But John forbade him ſaying, I have need to be baptized of thee and comelt thou to me?

He did not abſolutely repel him, but modestly excuſed himſelf for a time, knowing that Chriſt was already baptized with a more excellent Baptiſm, then he could Adminiſter to him, for God gave him the Spirit not by Manſure, Joh. 3. 34.

15. And Jeſus anſwering ſaid unto him, ſuffer it to be ſo now; for thus it becometh us to fulfil all righteouſneſs. Then he ſuffered him.

Jeſus ſaid unto him, Suffer it now to be ſo. The Queſtion is not whether thou art to be more Excellent: It is thy Duty to Baptiſe for thy Father hath bid thee to Baptiſe. It is my Pleaſure and Duty to be Obedient to my Father, whoſe Will I know tho it be hidden from thee. Baptiſm is a new Law of the Goſpel-Church, of which tho I be the Head, yet I muſt be conformed to the Members of it, concerning which my Fathers Will is, that they ſhould be Baptized with Water, as well as with the Holy Gholt, beſides that, I am to put an end to the Jewiſh Typification, and to put a new Face upon the Church, by Inſtituting another Sacrament of Initiation. It is therefore both Right and Equal that I ſhould be Baptized, (tho not for thoſe ends for which others, that are my Members, are Baptized, not for Remiſſion of ſins, but) for the fulfilling of all Righteouſneſs, in obeying my Fathers Will [So he ſuffered him] he that erreth through ignorance will correct his Error upon better Information. We may learn from this Example of Chriſt, That being Baptized with the Holy Gholt, will excuſe none for Conſent, or Neglect of Baptiſm by Water, becauſe it is the revealed Will of God, that all the Members of his Church ſhould come under that Ordinance, ſo that is fulfilling of Righteouſneſs in our Cafe, as well as in Chriſt's, tho in a different meaſure.

16 And Jeſus, when he was Baptized, went up ſtraight away out of the water, and lo the heavens were opened unto him, and he ſaw * the Spirit of God deſcending like a Dove, and lighting up-on him.

Joh. 1. 32. 33.

17 And lo a voice from heaven ſaying, * This is my Beloved Son in whom I am well pleaſed. Iſa. 42. 1. Ch.

This ſtory is alſo related by Mar. 1. 10. 11. and by Luk. 12. 18. 29. 32. Luk. faith that Jeſus ſaw the Heavens were Luk. 9. 35. opened. Mark faith cloven clouds. It is moſt probable, Col. 1. 13. that the opening of the Heavens mentioned, (tho poſſibly far more Glorious) bare a Proportion to that opening of the Heavens, which we often ſee in a time of great Lightning, when the Air ſeemeth to divide to make the fuller, and clearer way for the Light [unto him] that is unto John, and lighting upon him.] The Spirit of God is an inviſible Subſtance, and cannot be ſeen by Human Eyes, but the ſhape aſſumed by any Perſon of the Trinity may be ſeen, when it

16 The People which fate in darkness, saw great light, and to them which fate in the Region, and shadow of death, light is sprang up.

duced, and they have a Promise of being filled, Psalm 37. 6. but lie in no reason to conclude this, the Sense of this Text.

7 Blessed are the merciful, for they shall obtain mercy.

The Men of the World bless themselves, if they can take Care of themselves, let others do what they will, and as well as they can: But Tell you, that those alone are the Blessed Men, who are touched with a true Sense and feeling of the Wants and Miseries of others, and that not out of a mere Goodness, and Tenderness of Nature, but out of a true Obedience to the Will of God, and a Sense of his Love to them, and Faith in his Promises, and moved from these Principles, do not only Pity, and Compassionate them, and with them well, but extend their helping hand to them, fitably to their Miseries: For these Men shall obtain mercy, and that not only from Men, if they come into Straits and Distress, but from the hand of God. Psalm 37. 26. Psalm 112. 5. he doth not say they shall merit Mercy at Gods hand, but they shall be Merciful, they shall obtain Mercy.

8 Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God.

The Men of the World bless those who appear Pure, and Holy to men, and put on a Vizard, and Mask of Purity: Tho they be but painted Sepulchres, and their Hearts be as Cages of all unclean Birds: But those alone are Blessed, who being washed from their filthiness by my Blood, are of a sincere and upright Heart, tho they be not legally Pure, and free from all sin; yet are so Pure as that God will accept them, the bent of their Hearts being after Holiness. Who have not the heart of Faith, and in the Life to come, Face to Face, and as he is, 1 Cor. 13. 12. Heb. 12. 14. 1 Joh. 3. 2.

9 Blessed are the peace-makers, for they shall be called the children of God.

The World blesteth the boisterous unquiet Party of it, that can never be still, but are continually thinking of more Worlds to Conquer, and blowing up the Coals of War, Division, and Sedition. But they are Blessed indeed, who study to be quiet, seeking Peace, and pursuing it; and are so far from sowing the Seeds of Discord or blowing those Coals, that their great study is to make Peace between God, and Man, and between a Man, and his Neighbour, doing this in Obedience to a Principle of Love to God, and to God, and to Man: For those that do so, shall approve themselves like unto God to be his Children, and they shall be called. To be called, and to be is much the same, to what Moses said, Gen. 21. 12. is interpreted by Paul, Rom. 9. 7. 8. So what is said by Matthew, Matt. 21. 12. is interpreted, by Luke 19. 46. what was said by St. John, Chap. 1. 13. is interpreted, 1 Joh. 3. 1. for God is the God of Peace, 1 Cor. 14. 33.

10 Blessed are they who are persecuted for righteousness sake, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.

The Men of the World judge those Men very unhappy and miserable, whom their Rulers make the Objects of their Wrath and Malice, and pursue violently to the loss of their Estates, Liberties, or Lives: never considering the Cause, for which they are so pursued: But they are quite mistaken. For that Man who is persecuted by such Violence, and hunted upon this Account, because to please Men, he durst not in against God, but Labours to keep a Conscience void of offence, both toward God, and toward Men, Acts 24. 16. is a Blessed Man, and if he be hunted out of the Kingdoms of the Earth, yet he shall be hunted to Heaven, for to such Men be longed the Kingdom of God in Glory, James 1. 12. 1 Pet. 3. 14. & 4. 13.

11 Blessed are ye when men shall revile you, and persecute ye, and shall say all manner of evil against you falsely for my sake.

Reviling, and speaking Evil of Persons falsely, because of their Profession of Christ, and because they do not sin against God, is a species of Persecution. Gen. 21. 9. Gal. 4. 29. the lowest Degree of it. It hath been the constant lot of Gods Servants, David said, Psalm 25. 11. that false Witnesses did rise up, and laid to his Charge things that he knew none of. Thus John and Christ were reviled, Matt. 11. 19. Luke 7. 24. nor is it to be wondered, that those whose Consciences are so feared, that they cannot feel the Guilt of Persecuting others for Righteousness sake, should not feel the Guilt of Lying and false Slandering. But faith our Saviour, you are Blessed when these things happen unto you, 1 Pet. 4. 13.

Be so far from being troubled, as to count it all Joy, when you fall into these Trials, James 1. 2. Let it be Music in your Ears, to hear that the Drunkard makes you his Song. Rejoice in your Hearts, especially in your Lips, and Behaviours, for Isaiah 15. your reward, not of Debt but of Grace, for your light and many afflictions are not worthy to be compared with the Eternal and exceeding weight of Glory, where there is no Propotion, there can be no Merit: Especially, when it is given to us on the behalf of Christ to suffer, Phil. 1. 29. Peter upon this Argument faith, 1 Pet. 4. 14. The Spirit of God and of Glory rests upon us. Our Saviour adds: For so the persecuted Prophets before me. The Magistrates, and the Rulers of the Jews persecuted Elijah, Micah, Jeremiah, and the rest of the Prophets whom you succeed, not in time only, but in the same Office of revealing the mind of God to the People.

13 Ye are the salt of the earth, But if the salt hath lost its favour, wherewith shall it be salted? It is thenceforth good for nothing but to be cast out, and to be trodden under foot of men.

In our Christian Course we are not to trouble our selves with what Men say of us, and do unto us, but only to attend to our Duty of Holiness, and an Exemplary Life, which is what our Saviour preplainly, v. 16. and leads his Hearers to it by four Comprehensions, which he instructeth between them and four other things, the first we have in this Verse, ye are the Salt of the Earth. The Doctrine which you profess is so, a thing so opposite as can be to the Perverseness of the World, both in respect to corrupt Doctrine, and corrupt Manners (therefore by the way it will be wonder, if they resist it by Reviling and Persecuting you) you are the Salt of the Earth, through the Grace of God bestowed upon you, Mar. 9. 50. Col. 4. 6. If it were not for the thousands of found and painful Ministers, and Holy and Gracious Persons, the Earth would be but a stinking Dunghill of Drunkards, unclean Persons, Thieves, Murderers, unjust Persons, that would be a stench in the Nostrils of a Pious God. Look at it in the World, if the Salt hath lost its favour, its Acidity, which it opposeth Perverseness in Fifth, and Fleth, not the Fifth or Fleth itself will be good for nothing, but the Salt it self is infused (as it is in the Greek) will be good for nothing, but to be cast upon a Dunghill and trodden under Foot. So it is with Ministers of the Gospel, so with the Professors of it, if they have lost their foundations in the Faith, and Holiness of Life, they are no value, may they be worse than other men. Money is sold in pieces, and hath lost its usefulness as Cohn, yet will feed Dogs, Salt is good for nothing more are pretended Ministers or Christians, their Eyes in their favour, if that be lost, wherewith shall they be salted: Of what use are they, unless to cause the Name of God and Religion to be blasphemed. Such another similitude the prophet uttered, Ezek. 17. 2. 3.

14 Ye are the light of the world, A City that is set on an hill cannot be hid.

You that are the my Apostles, are so Eminently, but all you that are my Disciples are so also. Christ is the Light of the World, Joh. 1. 9. 8. so the Sun is the Light of the World, yet it doth not follow, that the Moon and the Stars also are not so, he is the Original Light, the great Light who hath Light from and in himself. The Ministers of the Gospel are the Lights of the World also, the Angels of Churches are Stars, Rev. 1. 20. and Holy Persons are Children of the Light, 1 Thess. 5. 5. A City that is set upon an hill cannot be hid. The Church is often called the City of God, Christ compares his People here not to a City, but to a City upon an Hill, so that all which our Saviour mentions a City here, for, is the Conspicuity of a City to build. It is as much as if our Saviour should have said: You had need be Holy for your Conversation cannot be hid, any more than a City can that is builded upon an Hill, which is obvious to every Eye. All Mens Eyes will be upon you.

15 Neither do men light a candle, and put it under a bushel, but upon a candlestick, and it giveth light unto all that are in the house.

You ought also to consider the End, why I have Committed of my Light unto you, it is in part the same with that of men, when they light up a Candle in a Room, which is to shed Light to all those that are in the Room, they do not use to light it up to hide it under a Vessel, or a Bushel: So I have Committed my Truths, or my Grace unto you merely for your own use, but for others use. It is said of John (by our Saviour) he was a burning and shining Light: So is every true Minister of the Gospel, yea and every true Christian; not only a burning Light, burning with Love to God, and Zeal for God, and Love to, and Zeal for the Souls of others: But also a shining Light, Communicating his Light to others, both by Instruction, and an holy Conversation. Others pretended Candles were never of Gods lighting.

16 Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven.

Our Saviour now plainly tells us, what he intended by the Comprehensions before mentioned. Let the Light of that Doctrine which you receive from me, and the Light of your Holy Conversation (the latter by the following words, seemeth to be here Principally intended) to shine before Men, be so Evident, and apparent unto Men: That they may see your Goodness, all sorts of Good works, whatsoever I have Committed, or shall Command you, and as I Command you, in Obedience to such Commands, otherwise they are no Good works, and Glorify your Father which is in the Heaven, you are not in your good Actions to aim at your selves, to be seen of Men, as Mark. 6. 1. nor merely to do good to others, the Good works, Tir. 3. 14. are to be maintained for necessary uses, but having a Primary and Principal respect to the Glorifying of your Father, for Joh. 15. 8. herein is my Father glorified, if you bear much Fruit: Not that we can add anything to Gods essential Glory, but we may predominate and manifest his Glory. Which now we can do by Gods own Will, if they proceed from me, power, and Liberty of our own Will, not from his special Efficacious Grace, is hard to understand. Our Father is said to be in the Heavens, because his Eternal Presence filleth all places, yet he is pleased there more than any where to manifest his Glory and Majesty.

17 Think not that I am come to destroy the Law or the Prophets, I am not come to destroy, but to fulfil.

There are many Adversaries, Jews, Papiſts, Socinians, Antipapists, Antisocinians, &c. That make their advantage of the Text, for the abolishing their several Errors, that I would require a Volume to vindicate it from their Exceptions. Those who desire Satisfaction may read Spanheim's Diss. Evang. 12. 3. The plain Sense of the Text is this. It would have been a great Evil with the Jews especially (who had a great reverence for the Law) if either our Saviours Enemies amongst them, could have persuaded People, that Christ came to destroy the Law and the Prophets: Or his own hearers had entertained from his Discourse any such Apprehensions. Our Saviour designing in his following Discourse, to give a more full and third Interpretation of the Law than had been given by the Pharisees and other Jewish Doctors, preface that Discourse, with a Protestation against his coming to destroy the Law, and averring that he came to fulfil it. It is manifest by his following Discourse, that he Principally spake of the Moral Law, tho he also fulfilled the Ceremonial Law, and the Jewish Dispensation, and the Law of that had that Complement, and real fulfilling and Accomplishment. Sixth he, I am not come to destroy, and put an end to the Moral Law. I am come to fulfil it, not to fill it up, as Papists and Socinians contend, adding any new Precept to it, but by yielding my self a Personal obedience to it, by giving a fuller and truer Interpretation of it, than you have formerly had, and by taking the Curse of it (so far as concerneth my Disciples) upon my self, and giving a just usage against Christ destroying part of the Law, and adding new Precepts to the Moral Law, is that about the Change of the Sabbath, but this is none, if we consider, that the Moral Law required no more than one Day of rest to be kept as a Day of Holy Rest, not this or that particular Day, for as Christians learn their duty from Christ's, and the Apostles Law, since. Nor is it any Objection against this, that the seventh day from the Creation is mentioned in the Law, to those who know how to distinguish between the Precept and the Argument, the seventh from the Creation is not in the Precept, but in the Argument. For in Deut. 5. 8. Now there is nothing more ordinary than to have Arguments of a particular Temporal Concernment used to enforce Precepts of an eternal Obligation, where the Precepts were first given to that particular People, as to whom those Arguments were of Force, as in instance of which is in the first Commandment, Force, are oftentimes used in the first Commandment, Obligation, upon a particular People for a time. Thus in the Ceremonial Law, we often find it is an Argument to enforce many Ceremonial Precepts. For I am the Lord thy God.

18 For verily I say unto you, till Heaven and Earth pass, * one jot, or one tittle shall in no wise pass from the Law, till all be fulfilled.

When I say unto you, so it is in the Greek, a Phrase as some observe never used, but by God and Christ himself who tho the Servants of God have sometimes used it, as an Adverb of willing. It is by most concluded a form of an Oath, and Lev. 24. 16. that is the Law is the certain and unchangeable Will of God concerning reasonable Creatures, and it shall never be altered in the least Tittle, nor ever be abolished, you may therefore be secure that I come into the World upon no such Errand.

19 * Whosoever therefore shall break one of these least Commandments, and shall teach men so, he shall be called the least in the Kingdom of Heaven; but whosoever shall do, and teach them shall be called great in the Kingdom of Heaven.

Whosoever shall in his Practice violate but one of the least, and which possibly are so, compared with others, and shall teach Men that they may do, as he doth; with false Interpretations of the Law, as they warrant such a Practice, he shall be accounted, of the least value, and Eldest in the Church of God, and shall never come in the Kingdom of Glory: But he who shall strictly and uniformly obey all the Commandments and teach others to do the like, by his Doctrine and Example, that Man shall have a great Renown, and Reputation in the Church which is the Kingdom of Heaven upon Earth, and shall have a great reward in the Kingdom of Glory hereafter.

20 For I say unto you, that except your righteousness shall exceed the righteousness of the Scribes and Pharisees ye shall in no case enter into the Kingdom of Heaven.

I am so far from giving a Liberty to the Violation of my Fathers Law, (as the Scribes and Pharisees may possibly suggest) that I assure you, that unless your Obedience to it exceed that Obedience, which the Scribes and Pharisees teach you, and themselves Practice, you shall never come in Heaven. What the Righteousness of the Scribes and Pharisees was, we cannot better learn than from St. Paul, who was himself a Pharisee, and bred up at the Feet of Gamaliel a great Doctor amongst them, Acts 23. 5. & 26. 5. Phil. 3. 5. That was a Righteousness of works, appearing from Phil. 3. and the whole Epistles to the Romans, and Galatians, and their own writing Christ as the Messiah: Nor believing on John. 7. 48. made it impossible that it should be any other, that they looked upon their mere Obedience to the Ceremonial Law as their Righteousness, cannot be proved, yea the contrary is enough Evident, by their Obedience to the Moral Law, according to the Interpretation they put upon it. But their Interpretation of the Moral Law was so short and jejune, that it is manifest that their Righteousness, was not only a Righteousness of Faith, but of Works; but Works that were very imperfect and short of what the true Sense of the Law required, our Saviour afterward proveth. That is to say, it was no Righteousness, for he that keeps the whole Law, if he be guilty in one Point is guilty of all, Ja. 2. 10.

21 Ye have heard that it was said by them of old time, thou shalt not kill, and whosoever shall kill, shall be in danger of the Judgment. * Ex. 20. 17. Deut. 5. 17.

22 But I say unto you, That whosoever is angry with his Brother without a cause, shall be in danger of the Judgment, and whosoever shall say unto his Brother, Raca, shall be in danger of the Council, but whosoever shall say, Thou fool, shall be in danger of hell fire.

The Pharisees in their Lectures upon the Law usually thus prefaced, It was said to them of old time, this faith Christ, you have heard, Thou shalt not kill: This was spoken by God in Mount Sinai, it was the sixth of the ten words then spoke, and whosoever shall kill, shall be in danger of the Judgment: This now was the Pharisees addition, for we read no such addition to the Law, as delivered, Exod. 20. 13. Thus they mixed their Traditions with the word of God, which possibly might be the reason of their saying rather, It was said to them of old time, than it was said by Moses: Or, It was said to the Ancients, they both comprehended the Law given by Moses, to the Ancient People of God, and also their own Traditions, and false Glosses, which they did not to Ancient as the Law, yet had obtained for some considerable time, in the corrupt State of the Jews: Shall be guilty of, or Obnoxious unto the Judgment, not to the Wrath and Vengeance of God, of that they said nothing, but to the Courts of Judgment which sit amongst them, to administer Justice in criminal Causes. As if this Law of God had been only intended to uphold Peace, and to preserve humane Society, and Civil order. Thou shalt not kill (that is, as they interpreted) thou shalt not without a Warrant from God, or from the Law, actually take away the Life of another. It appears by what followeth, that they extended not this Law, to unjustifiable Passions in the Heart, such as rash Anger, Malice, revengeful Thoughts: Nor to any opprobrious or revengful Words. But I say unto you: I shall give you another Sense of this Law. The killing here forbidden is as well, Rash and causless Anger, and op-

the power, and the glory, for ever. Amen. make me clean. The term Lord, will not conclude his Recognizing Christ as the Son of God, being a term used by Sarab to Abraham, and afterwards to Elijah. The words import his desire, that they be not a Form of Prayer, but an actual Election of the Power of Christ. The *Lep*er acknowledged Christ's Power, submitted himself to his Will, and so with the Life Breath declares his Faith and Moderly. He indeed declares no Faith in the Will of God, nor can any Person exercise any such Faith as to any Temporal Mercy, any further, than as God shall judge it for our good.

3 And Jesus put forth his hand, and touched him, saying, I will be thou clean. And immediately his Leprosy was cleansed.

By the Law of God, Lev. 5. 3. he that touched another, who was unclean, as the *Lep*er was, Levitic. 13. ch. 14. was unclean, how then doth Christ, who was subject to the Law touch the *Lep*er? Some say he did not touch the unclean *Lep*er. But it is a better Answer, that what Christ did as he was God, (such were his miraculous Operations) he could not contract any ritual uncleanness by; and Positively under the Law, the Priest was exempted from that uncleanness, for he came very near the *Lep*er, in his Office about him expressed, Levitic. 13. ch. 14. Nor do we read of any uncleanness contracted by Aaron, in his performance of his Office to Miriam under her Leprosy, nor by the Priests, 2 Chron. 26. 20. it to be said, They thrust out Uzziah. Christ by putting forth his hand, shewed his kindness to this miserable Creature: By healing him with a touch, he shewed his Divine Power, saying, I will be thou clean. He answered him in his own term, I will, and then Commands the thing. How acceptable is Faith to God? And immediately his Leprosy was cleansed, that is, removed, the word immediately confirms the Miracle. It was not only a thing done without ordinary means, but without the ordinary time, requisite for such a Cure.

4 And Jesus faith unto him, See thou tell no man but go thy way, shew thy self to the Priest, and offer the gift that *Moses commanded, for a testimony unto them.

*Levit. 14. 3. 4. 10.

Some think that our Saviour, only commanded him Silence until he had shewn of himself unto the Priest, and he according to the Law, Levitic. 13. should have pronounced him clean, lest their Envy upon hearing of it, should have caused them to have obscured the Miracle, by delaying to pronounce him clean; but it is observable that this was not the only time when Christ commanded those upon whom he had wrought Miracles to say nothing of it, see Chap. 9. 30. & 12. 16. & 17. 9. It is therefore more probable, that this Precept was not to be understood with that Limitation, but that Christ did it, either that he might not be thought to seek his own Glory, or rather, because Christ judged it not yet time by his Miracles to be publicly made known: But he sends him to the Priest, both to teach him Obedience to the Law, and that the Truth of the Miracle might by public Record be confirmed, he also Commands him to offer the Gift appointed by the Law, Levitic. 14. thereby both acknowledging his Cure to be from God, and Testifying his Thankfulness. Thou Moses Commanded, to shew that he came not to oppose Moses. For a Testimony unto them, that hereafter it may be a Testimony unto them, that I am more than the Son of Man, John. 3. 36.

*Luk. 7. 1.

5 And when Jesus was entered into Capernaum, there came unto him a centurion beseeching him.

6 And saying, Lord, my servant lyeth at home sick of the palsy and grievously tormented.

7 And Jesus faith unto him, I will come and heal him.

*Luk. 15. 19. 21.

8 The centurion answered, and said, Lord, *I am not worthy that thou shouldst come under my roof, but *I speak the word only, and my servant shall be healed.

9 For I am a man under authority, having soldiers under me, and I say to this Thou, Go, and he goeth, and to another Come, and he cometh, and to my servant Do this, and he doth it.

10 When Jesus heard it, he marvelled, and said to them that followed, Verily I say unto you, I have not found so great faith no in Israel.

Many think, that this story was in order before the other. It is related by Luk. 7. 1. with some larger Circumstances, there is only a Difference between the two Evangelists, Matthew seems to speak, as if the Centurion at first came in Person to him, Luke faith, that he first sent the Elders of the Town to him, then some Friends. But we are accounted our selves to do that which we let others work to do. There came unto him a Centurion, there came some Elders of the Jews first, then some particular Friends of one that was a Roman Captain, to him, to tell him that the Captain had a Servant at his house, that lay grievously sick of, and tormented with the Palsy. That which we usually call the dead Palsy, in which a fit of the Apoplexy utterly inteth, when it doth not, presently kill. Our Lord promised to come, and to heal him, therein shewing both his kindness, and how acceptable to him, the Humility of this Centurion to his Servant was. The Centurion by his Friends, as Luke tells us, sends to him, desiring him not to trouble himself to that degree, telling him, 1. That it was a favour of which he was not worthy. The best Man here always the meaneest Thoughts of themselves. 2. That he was needless, for if he would only speak the word, commanding the Dilettant, that was enough to effect the Cure. For he tells him, that he believed Dilettant were as much at Christ's Command, as his Servants were at his Command. They that came at Gods Command, wrought according to their Commission from God, and went of when God commanded them off; so that if he, tho at a distance, would Command off his Servants disease, it would be as effectual as his Presence; whether this Captain were actually Professed to the Jewish Religion, or no, is uncertain: It should seem by our Saviours next word, that he was not an Israelite; but it is most certain, that he had a right Notion of the Power of the true God, and it looks very probable, that he had a Revelation of Christ, as the true Messiah and Son of God. When Jesus heard this he marvelled. Admiration agreed not to Christ as God, but as man it did. And said to those that followed him, Verily I say unto you, I have not found so great Faith in Israel. That is, in the Generality of the Israelites, for if we speak of particular Persons, both Joseph and Mary had shewed a greater Faith. This Expression is enough to let us know, that the Centurion was no native Israelite, and make it probable he was not of the Jewish Church, which might be, tho he was so kind to the Jewish Nation as to build them a Synagogue upon which Account, Luke 7. 8. and the Saviour of the Jews pleaded with Christ for him. This made our own Prophecy of a further Conversion of the Gentiles.

11 And I say you, that *many shall come from the east and west, and shall sit down with Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, in the Kingdom of Heaven.

12 But *the children of the Kingdom *shall be cast out into outer darkness, there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

*Mat. 23. 12. 13.

In short, many of those who are now Heathen shall be saved, And many of the Jews shall be damned. Many shall not all, shall come from the East and West, from all parts, from the remotest parts in the World. Luke faith, East, West, North, and South, Luk. 13. 29. or Isa. 11. 12. & 43. 5. 6. and sit down with Abraham, Isaac and Jacob in the Kingdom of God, in Heaven where Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, the Heads of the Jewish Nation are, to whom the Promises were made. Or, in the Church of God, for the Church Triumphant, and Militant are both but one Church: They shall sit down with them, as Men sit down at Banquet, an Expression oft used, to signify, the Rest and Pleasure, the Saints shall have in Heaven, Isa. 25. 6. 7. Luke. 22. 29. 30. But the Children of the Kingdom, the Jews who boast much that they are the Children of Abraham, and think themselves the only Church, and the only Heirs of Glory, and who are indeed the only Church of God, as yet, shall be cast out into outer Darkness: Either, the Darkness of Error, Ignorance, and Superstition, the Gospel-Light shall not shine upon them, they shall be no more the Church of God: Or the Darkness of Hell, where shall be nothing but Pain and Misery, and Damnation for the Gospel, and the Grace of God, first offered to them, but unthankfully rejected by them, by which they judge themselves unworthy of the Grace of God, and of eternal Life, Acts 13. 46.

13 And Jesus said unto the centurion, Go thy way, and as thou hast believed, so be it done unto thee, and his servant was healed in the self same hour.

Luke faith, And they that were sent returning to the House, found the Servant whole that had been sick. Luk. 7. v. 10. so it is seen, that what Christ said unto the Centurion, must be interpreted to those whom the Centurion sent in his Name. Go your way, your Business is done, the Centurion's Faith hath obtained, it shall be done to him, as he hath believed; where believing must signify, A certain Profession of the Power of Christ, with a relying on his Mercy and Goodness. The proximate Object of Faith is some word of God. How far this Centurion was acquainted with the Oracles of the Old Testament (tho he lived amongst the Jews, and as appears by his building a Synagogue for them, Luk. 7. had a Knowledge for their Religion) I cannot tell. It is most probable, that he had some immediate Revelation of God concerning Christ, which is here said to have believed, and to have had a full persuasion of and trusted in. All Revelations relations of God are the Object of Faith, tho the Scriptures being now written, are to us that have them, the Texts, and Touchstones to try Faith by: As thou believest, not because thou art true. Our Faith is not meritorious of the least Mercy, but it is an Exercise of Grace which gives Glory to God, and receiveth the reward not of Debt but of Grace. The Miracle appeared in that the Disease was of an incurable Nature, and the Cure was wrought without Application of means, that in such a Moment of time as means, tho used, could not have wrought it.

14. And when Jesus was come into Peters house, he saw his wives mother laid, and sick of a fever.

15 And he touched her hand, and the fever left her, and the arofe and ministered unto them.

This Story is related with some further Circumstances. Mer. 1. 29. Luk. 4. 38. 39. Mark tells us, it was the house of Simon, and Andrew with James and John (it seems they lived there together) that they told him of her Sickness, after he had been there some time, That he took her by the hand, and lift her up, Luke faith, it was a great Fever that they brought him for her, That she stood over her and rebuked the Fever. There is no Contradiction, only some Amplifications of the Story. It is plain from the Text, that Peter was a Married Man, and continued so, tho called to be an Apostle, and that he had a Family. Fevers are ordinary Disorders, and often cured by ordinary means, but this was a great Fever. The Miracle here was not in the Cure of an incurable Disease, but in the way of the Cure, by a touch of his hand, or a lifting her up, and the suddenness of the Cure, it immediately left her, and her sudden recovery of Strength, that she could do it, argued her Cure Miraculous; that the did it, argues her sense of Christs goodness, and thankfulness, and cunctate ush use we should make of all Gods gracious Providences, to us, to make us better for the Service of God, and to employ ourselves in it, to taking the Cup of Salvation, and praising the Name of the Lord, Psal. 116. 13.

16 When the even was come, they brought unto him many that were possessed with devils, and he cast out the spirits with his word, and healed all that were sick.

17 That it might be fulfilled which was spoken by Elijah the prophet, saying, *Himself took our infirmities, and bare our sicknesses.

Mark hath made the same Ch. 1. 32. and Luke Ch. 4. 40. Luke adds, he laid his hands upon them, and healed them, we before Ch. 4. v. 24. shewed who were meant by Persons possessed by Devils. It is only observable that it is said, he cast out the Devils by his word, by the same power by which he made the World, and all things therein, Gen. 1. his Authoritative word, he healed all that were sick, that is, all that were brought to him, laying on of his Hands, was but an external Symbol, or rite used in blessing, in Miraculous operations, and in ordination of Ministers. The great question is, how that which the Prophet Isaiah said Ch. 53. 4. was fulfilled by these Miraculous operations. The words are, Surely he hath borne our Griefs, and carried our Sorrows, and v. 5. By his Stripes we are healed; and the Apostle Peter referring to the Text faith, 1 Pet. 2. 24. who bare our Sins in his Body on the Tree. The words neither seem truly quoted, nor do the Prophet seem the same, the Evangelist applying what the Prophet seems to speak of our Sins, to our Bodily infirmities, and his bearing them to his curing them, whereas Peter seems to apply it to his bearing our Sins, that is, the punishment of our Sins, in his Sufferings on the Cross. The only question is, How Mark observed here to be considered, that the Evangelists in their quotations out of the old Testament too often seem only concerned to keep to the Sense, not exactly to the Words (which is a liberty we ordinarily take in Quotations). As to the Sense, Grief and Sorrows, are Terms capable of Interpretation, as to whatever comes upon us, as the Fruit and desert of our Sins, so as the Prophet designed to express Christ's Suffering the punishment due to us for Sin, of which Nature are all the Afflictions of this Life, and Death itself, as well as the pains of Hell. The only question is, How Mark observed saying, he healed the peoples Diseases, and cured the Sorrows. This Scripture was twice fulfilled in Christ: 1. As to their Bodily Griefs and Sorrows, that is mentioned by Matthew, tho he bare them not all in his own Body, yet he did Compassion on Men with Reference to them, and shewed himself Afflicted in their Afflictions, by his putting forth his Divine Power to heal them, and he bare the Griefs that was the cause of their other Griefs, and Sorrows upon the Tree, as is said by Peter, and he therefore healed them, that he might demonstrate himself to be the true Messiah, Prophecied of by Isaiah, who was to come, who was to bear our Griefs, and to carry our Sorrows.

18 Now when Jesus saw great multitudes about him, he gave commandment to depart unto the other side.

When Jesus did these things before mentioned, he was in Capernaum, Ch. 5. but the Multitudes pressing him, he gave order to pass over the Sea of Galilee, otherwise called the Sea of Tiberias, John. 6. 1.

19 And a certain scribe came and said unto him, Master, I will follow thee whithersoever thou goest.

20 And Jesus faith unto him, The foxes have holes, and the birds of the air have nests, but the Son of man hath not where to lay his head.

We have the same Story, Luk. 9. 57. only Luke faith it was as they went in the way; and faith, a certain Man thus said unto him. Matthew more particularly describes the Man from his Office, or ordinary employment. Both agree in what he said to our Saviour, Master! (tho they usually called their Teachers, that is, I am relieved, or I am ready to follow thee, whithersoever thou goest). Thus men often take up sordid Reluctances, to walk with God and to be his Servants, upon terms that are to them particularly desirable, to be his Officers, or ordinary employment. power to forgive sins upon mens Exercise of their Faith and coming unto me. Now therefore believe, not because of my Word only, but because of the Sign I shew you Confirmative of it.

7 And hearof, and departed to his house.
8 But when the multitude saw it, they marvelled, and glorified God, which had given such power unto men.

Mark faith v. 12. And he immediately arose, and took up his Bed, and went forth before them all, inasmuch that they were all amazed, and glorified God, saying, We never saw it on this fashion. Luke faith Ch. 5. v. 25, 26. And immediately he rose up before them, and took up that whereon he lay, and departed to his own house, glorifying God. And they were all amazed, and they glorified God, and were filled with fear, saying, We have seen strange things to day. They all agree in Sense, tho not in Words. With Christs Word there went out a power, enabling him to do what he had commanded them. He immediately, and upon his Feet, takes up his Bed, or Couch, that whereon he lay (faith Luke) and went home in the sight of them all, so as none could doubt concerning the Cure. What else it hath upon the People: They marvelled, faith Matthew; they were amazed and filled with fear, faith Luke. There is not a Word of their believing and owning Christ as their Son of God, which was the great thing the Miracle wrought to bring them to, but blindness was upon them to it, so that they saw, and could not perceive. The Miracle wrought in them an Aw, and Reverence of him as an Extraordinary Person, and put them into a kind of Extasy and admiration: and the Text faith, They glorified God, but not might; they praised God not for sending his Son into the World, to save Sinners, but for giving such a power unto men, they would till own Christ no greater than a Man, tho a Man to whom God had given great power. No man can say Jesus is the Lord, but by the Holy Ghost; 1 Cor. 12. 3. truly to believe, own, and receive Christ as our Lord, requireth the Operation of the Spirit of Grace, working faith, Faith, and Persuasion in us.

9 And as Jesus passed from thence, he saw a man named Matthew sitting at the receipt of custom, and he faith unto him, Follow me, and he arose, and followed him.

Mark hath the same Story, Mar. 2. 14. only he calleth him Levi, and tells us he was the Son of Alphaeus. Luke also mentioneth it, and calls him Levi, adding that he was a Publican, and faith, That he left all, rose up, and followed him. Luke 5. 27, 28. This Matthew might have also the Name of Levi, all Interpreters agree him the same Man. All three Evangelists say, that when Christ called him, he was sitting in the Custom-house at the receipt of Custom. This Matthew was one of the 12 Apostles, Ch. 10. 2. and the first-man of this Gospel; his Father Alphaeus was honoured to have four of his Sons Apostles. James the less, and Thaddaeus (called Lebbaeus) Simon the Canaanite, and Matthew. He was a Publican, an Officer under the Romans, to gather the Public Revenue; it was an odious Name amongst the Jews, but Matthew to magnify the Grace of Christ in calling him, is not ashamed thus to describe himself both here and Ch. 10. 3. He faith unto him, follow me, and he arose and followed him. His Word carried a secret Power with it, which Matthew obeyed by leaving his employment, and going after Christ.

10 And it came to pass as Jesus sat at meat in the house, behold many Publicanes and sinners came, and sat down with him and his disciples.

Luke faith Ch. 5. 29. that Levi made him a great Feast in his own House, and there came a great Company of Publicanes, with others that sat down with them. Mark Ch. 2. 15. faith, they were many: and they followed him. Matthew touched with the Sense of the free, and infinite Love of Christ to him, maketh Christ a Feast: This speaketh him a Man of some Estate, he was unworthy to dine with him, but of them Publicanes, some noted Sinners. He designs Good undoubtedly to such as had been his former Companions, that they might also be the Lord, and be brought to follow him. Grace teacheth a Man to study the Conversion of others, and never dwelleth in a narrow Soul, nor studieth its Concealment from others.

11 And when the Pharisees saw it, they said unto his disciples, Why eateth your matter with Publicanes and sinners?

Mark hath the same Ch. 2. 16. So hath Luke Ch. 5. 30. only he faith, They murmured. The Pharisees having a perfect Malice to Christ, did not only seek all means to carp at him, but to bring him under a Popular Odium, this seemed a fair opportunity. The Publicanes being an order of Persons who both their employment, and perhaps also their ill Management of it, were abominated by the Jews, and reckoned amongst the more Notorious Sorts of Sinners. They therefore came to his Disciples clamouring against their Master, that he kept Communion with Publicanes and Sinners.

12 But when Jesus heard that, he faith unto them, They that be whole need not a physician, but they that are sick.

13. But go ye and learn what that meaneth, I will have mercy, and not sacrifice: For I am not come to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance.

Mark, and Luke in the places before mentioned have the same Answer, only leaving out these Words, Go ye and learn what that meaneth, I will have Mercy and not Sacrifice, quoted from Hefca 6. 6. Our Saviors reply to the Pharisees, to him that duly considers it will appear very faint. 1. They were a Generation that laid all Religion upon Rituals, Sacrifices and Traditions. 2. That justified themselves, Luke 16. 15, and thought they needed no Repentance. Such our Saviour, I am the Spiritual Physician. With whom would they have the Physician to Converse, but with such as are Sick? Those that are whole (as the Pharisees called themselves) think they have no need of my coming amongst them. By their Perverseness at the Acts of Mercy, which I do (and those of the highest Mercy too, healing Souls) they show that they do not understand, what Hefca (a Prophet acknowledged by themselves) long since taught them, That the Lord desired Mercy before Sacrifice (for that appeareth to be the Sense of no Sacrifice in that Text, but by the next Words, and the knowledge of God must burn burnt Offerings, and by the many Precepts by which God declared, that he did desire Sacrifices For I came not to call the Righteous: that is, those who are swelled in an opinion of their own Righteousness, but to call Sinners to Repentance. First to Repentance, then to the receiving Remission of Sins through me, and Eternal Life.

14 Then came to him the disciples of John, saying, Why do we, and the Pharisees fast often, and thy disciples fast not?

15 And Jesus said unto them, Can the children of the Bride-chamber mourn, as long as the Bridegroom is with them? But the days will come, when the Bridegroom shall be taken from them, and then they shall fast.

16 No man putteth a piece of ill new cloth into an old garment, for that which is put in to fill it up, taketh from the garment, and the rent is made worse.

17 Neither do men put new wine into old bottles, else the bottles break, and the wine runneth out, and the bottles perish, but they put new wine into new bottles, and both are preserved.

Mark hath this same History, almost in the same Words. Mark 2. 18, 19, 20, 21. 22. only he faith, that some of the Disciples of the Pharisees came with the Disciples of John. Luke also hath it varying little, Luke 5. 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38. only he faith, Fast ye often and make Fasters, and this is taken out of the new agreement with the old, and is addeth at last v. 39. No man also having drunk old Wine, desireth new, straightway, for he faith, The old is better. Which I shall consider, it plainly belonging to this History. Mark beginneth his Narration of this History with telling us Chap. 2. 18. And the Disciples of John, and of the Pharisees used to fast; which is implied, tho not expressed by the other Evangelists; for the Pharisees, it is plain enough from the Pharisees' boast, Luke 18. 12. that they fasted twice a Week. John also faith his Disciples to a fewer Discipline than Christ did of which we shall afterward hear more. It should seem that the Pharisees had a mind to make a Division between the followers of John, and the followers of Christ, and let on Johns Disciples to go and ask an account of this. Hypocrites are always hottel for Ritual things, as things most fit to raise a Division about. There was no Precept of God for any Fast, but once in a Year, tho indeed God left People a liberty to fast often, as their Circumstances more fitted, and called in that Duty. The Pharisees had set up themselves a Method, and would have imposed it on Christs Disciples; especially considering Johns Disciples complied with the Practice of frequent fasts, and seemed to suggest as if Christ fed up a new, and more Jovial Religion. (As if Religion lay only, or principally in Rituals, as to which God had let no Rule) The Pharisees are at this day the Pharisees true Successors in their Fast, Christ answereth them in two particulars. 1. He reprehendeth his Disciples were not as yet under such a Discipline, as that he fasted. 2. That his Disciples were new Converts, and to be brought on by degrees to the severer practices of External Discipline, and Goodness. This is the Sum of v. 15, 16, 17, 18. this he delivers in Metaphorical Expressions.

Can the children of the Bride-chamber mourn as long as the Bridegroom is with them? But the days will come when the Bridegroom shall be taken from them, then they shall fast. Your Master John hath come unto me as a Bridegroom, you know. These my Disciples are the Children of the Bride-chamber. It is as yet a Festival time with them. Fasting is a Duty intire to a Day of Mourning and Affliction. It is not yet a time of Mourning for my Disciples, they do not envy them. There will shortly come a time when, as to my bodily presence, I shall be taken from them: then they shall mourn, and Fast. The 2.d thing they faith, he illustrateth by two Similitudes. First (faith he) amongst Men no different Person will put in an Old Garment a new piece of cloth, for they will not agree together. The Strength of the new Cloth will be so Proportion to the Strength of the old, which by wearing is made weak, so as if the Garment comes to a Streis, the Rent will be the greater. So as to Wine, Men do not use to put New Wine into Old Bottles, that through much use are weakened for fear of breaking the Bottles, and spilling the Wines, but they use to put new Wine into new Bottles, to Proportion the thing containing to the thing contained. My Disciples are newly converted. Should I impose upon them the severer Exercises of Religion, it might discourage them, and be a Temptation to them to go back. For as Luke addeth, No Man having drunk Old Wine, desireth New, for he faith the Old is better. Custom is a great Tyrant, and men are not on the fudden brought from their former Practices, but by degrees. This is a Portion of Scripture which much Commendeth Prudence to Ministers, both teaching their People as they are able to bear, and also putting them upon Duties, with respect to their Nature, and Proficiency in the ways of God. Especially in such things as are but our free will offerings to God.

18 While he spake these things unto them, behold there came a certain ruler, and worshipped him, saying, My daughter is even now dead, but come, and lay thine hand upon her, and she shall live.

19 And Jesus arose, and followed him, and so did his disciples.

Mark hath this History Ch. 5. 22. And behold there came one of the Rulers of the Synagogue, Jairus by name, and when he saw him, he fell at his Feet, and besought him saying, My little Daughter lieth at the point of Death. I pray thee come, and lay thine hands upon her, that she may be healed, and she shall live. v. 24. And Jesus went with him, and much People followed him, and thronged him. Luke hath it, Ch. 8. v. 42. adding only that she was his only Daughter: Twelve years of Age. Two Evangelists faith she was at the point of Death, or dying, Matthew faith that she had been dead, (that might be according to his Apprehension) the way was now Death, that she concluded, that by that time was got to Christ, she was dead. Others observe out of Greek Authors that the particle et here used, doth not always signify a time past, but sometimes, a time near at hand. But the best answer is, That Matthew relates the Story Conspicuously. It appears from Luke 8. 49. That the dead did dye, Matthew reports that first, which the Messenger brought them the news afterwards, as we shall see v. 23. of this Chapter. By the Ruler here both Mark and Luke tell us, to be understood Jairus, not a Civil Magistrate, but one who was the Ruler of the Synagogue in that place, for in their Synagogues they had an order, there was one Chief to order the affairs of it, and they say the Interpretation of the Word belonged to him. [And worshipped him] with a Civil Worship, or respect, saying, My Daughter is but now dead or dying. One would judge the latter should be the Evangelists meaning of the Particle, because of what the other Evangelists say, come and lay thine hands upon her and she shall live. His Faith riseth not up to the Centurions Faith, who declared his Faith, that if Christ would but speak the word, his Servant should live. Jairus desires him to come and lay his hand upon her. And Jesus arose and followed him, and his Disciples. The Jews thrust Christs followers out of their Synagogue, he is more kind to the Ruler of their Synagogue, he presently goeth, and his Disciples followed him. There were to be Witnesses of his Miracles. Mark adds, much People followed and thronged him, which gave occasion to another Miracle, which Christ did in his way to Jairus his house, the Relation of which Matthew giveth us before he periteth the History of this Miracle.

20 * And behold, a woman which was diseased with an issue of blood twelve years, came behind him, and touched the hem of his garment.

21 For she said within her self, If I may but touch his garment, I shall be whole.

Mark addeth Ch. 5. 26. that she had suffered many things of many Physicians, and had spent all that she had, and was nothing bettered, but rather even worse; when she had heard of Jesus, she came in the press behind, and touched his Garment, &c. Luke faith, the Border of his Garment. In the Crowd there cometh a Woman, that had a bloody Flux twelve years. Inveterate Diseases are hard to be cured, nor had means been neglected, he had tried many Physicians, and had spent all her Estate upon them. She came behind him, out of modesty, and perhaps Shame, desiring not to be taken notice of. That which induced her to come, was the Fame she had heard of Jesus, and a persuasion she was in of his Heart, (doublet by the Spirit of God) that if he could but come to touch the Hem or Border of his Garment, she should be cured. In this she judged rightly, that Christ was all Virtue, and that his Virtue was not restrained to his laying his hand upon her. She believed that the Oyl poured on his Head, was like that power which on the Head of Aaron, which ran down to the Skirts of his Garment: But if she thought that he could thus cure a Cure, and that Christs Cures flowed not from his Grace and good Will, but a kind of necessity, herein she wonderfully Erred, and Christ afterward let her know it, tho he pardoned her Mistake.

22 But Jesus turned him about, and when he saw her, he said, Daughter, be of good comfort, thy faith hath made thee whole. And the woman was made whole from that hour.

Matthew relates this Story shortly, as he doth many others, being only intent upon recording the Miracles. We must here supply something out of Mark and Luke, Mark faith, Ch. 5. v. 29. And fraighingly the Fountain of her Blood was dried up, and she felt in her Body that she was healed of that Plague. And Jesus immediately knowing in himself, that Virtue had gone out of him, turned him about in the Press, and said, who touched my Clothe? and his Disciples said unto him, Thou left the multitude thronging thee, and Joseph there had done this thing. But the Woman fearing to be rebuked, knowing what was done in her, came and fell down before him, and told him all the truth. And he said unto her, Daughter, thy Faith hath made thee whole, go in Peace, and be whole of thy Plague. Luke reports the same Circumstances with little Variation, Ch. 8. 45, 46, 47, 48. Christ was not ignorant of Womens coming, and touching his Garment, he doubtless influenced her to the Motion, his inquiry was therefore only that the Miracle might be taken notice of, he knew that Virtue was gone out of him, and had healed the Woman, for he had commanded it to go to him, or he had not been healed, but he desired that the People might take notice that he was healed by his Grace, not by any Magical Virtue in his Cloths. The Woman is brought openly to come, and confess it, that she had touched his Cloths, and that she was healed. She feared and trembled, lest she should have offended. Christ comforted her, by assuring her the Cure, and telling her; That her Faith was an instrumental cause had effected it. We have met with Christ often before as well as in this Text, and shall again often meet with him, ascribing much to the Exercise of Faith. And the Faith to which he ascribeth so much, seemeth not to be justifying Faith, or that Exercise of Grace, whereby a Soul in the Sense of its lost Estate, by reason of Sin, accepteth of him as its Saviour, and relyeth upon his Merits alone for Salvation; for we read nothing of the Persons Repentance for Sin, nor reliance upon Christ for the Satisfaction of their souls, or any profession of any such thing. It is then for whatsoever an Act of Faith to believe that Christ is the Son of God? I answer. 1. The Faith in Christ be the only saving Faith, yet a Faith in God, being persuaded of his power and trusting him, is an Exercise of Grace, which God (as appeareth in Scripture) much rewarded with Blessings of this Life, it giveth God the honour of his Power, &c. 2. But secondly, the great truth that Christ was the Eternal Son of God, &c. was that, which God more especially aimed at to give the Worlds Affair unto, and Perfection of it at this time, and indeed Preliminary, and necessary to Peoples receiving of him as their Saviour, for Christ is he that trieth in Man. It was also the great truth which the Pharisees and the rest of the Jews did oppose. Hence our Saviour takes all occasions both to Confirm and to encourage this Faith, which was but a persuasion, that he was clothed with a Divine Power, and that which no Man could do, and that he had in him Divine goodness, ready to relieve many infirmities, according to that Power. 3. It is hardly to be said, that any should truly and seriously believe that Christ being apparently Man, and the Son of Man, should also Exercise a power, which none but God could do, and that they should not believe in him as the Saviour of the World, and be quickened to the use of those means, which he should reveal for their Salvation. For the reasons amongst others, we may conceive that Christ Permits this Faith so much in the 6 in whom he found it. This Miracle being wrought by our Lord in his way to Jairus his house, after the first notice he had of the Dangerous Sickness of his Daughter, the Evangelist now goeth on to give us an account of his perishing that Good Work.

23 And when Jesus came into the rulers house, and saw the minifrels, and the people making a noise, probably, is that no more is meant, than a Liberal reward. For fish will be the reward of those who turn to the Kingdom of Heaven. Dom. 12. 3. Those words [unto the Name of a Father] are both exclusive & of the benefit of this promise, whosoever a Minister of the Ministers of the Gospel, upon any old account than this, that they are the Lords of the House, or also encouraging to those who may discern, they have been mistaken in their Acts of Charity of this Nature; if they have been sincere in their Designs, and Actions, they shall not lose their reward, tho' the pretend Proprietor to entertain prove but an Impostor. And whosoever shall give to one of these little ones a Cup of Cold Water only, in the Name of a Disciple, He shall not lose his reward. Christ will not only reward those who love to his Precepts, but those who show kindness to his Members, whom the World counts Contemptible, and calleth little ones; nor shall those only be rewarded, who give them great Entertainments, and make them great Prefects, but (if it be proportionable to what they are able to do) tho' it be a kindness of the most Minute Consideration, but a Cup of Cold Water, they shall be rewarded. God rewards the love we show to him and the good Actions that flow from it. Here are three Persons mentioned, for whole Entertainment, and reception, God hath provided in this Promise. A Righteous Man, a little one. And a three-fold reward promised. The reward of a Righteous Man, and his reward. How to distinguish the Righteous Man, and the little one. I cannot tell, unless we understand by the Righteous man, one more perfect, more eminent in holiness, and by the little one, one that is innocent, tho' we cannot judge him to grow in Grace, and the knowledge of Christ. I find it understood no more in our Synagogues, synagogues, then Gods more particular Value for his Ministers, and for such as are more perfect in Holiness. While in the mean time he will not break the bruised Reed, nor quench the smoking Flax, and that every one shall be rewarded according to his Works. Which shall not be measured by the quantity of the Gift, but by the Obedience, and Affection, and Ability of the giver; Luke 21. 2, 3. Heb. 6. 16.

CHAP. XI.

1 And it came to pass, when Jesus had made an end of commanding his twelve disciples, he departed thence, to teach and to preach in their cities.

We never find our Saviour idle, but continually going up and down doing good, and we find him most intent upon Preaching, and Teaching, which doubtless is the great Work of the Ministers of the Gospel, of what quality lover they be, they can pretend to no higher than Christ. Nor did our Saviour think it enough to feed others in his Discourses, he went himself. Luke noeth Chap. 10. 1. that he sent the 70, two by two into every City, whether himself was to follow, or as it seems, he did not judge it enough, that one Preaching of the Gospel should be made to them. For those that think there is a Distinction to be made between Preaching and Teaching μαρτυρεῖν and διδάσκειν they may learn from this Text, that they are both the Works of Christ's Ministers, if they be bound to take Example from their Masters, and not think the Servant is above his Lord. Those that undervalue Preaching, as the least part of the Ministerial Work, do both forget this Text, and what Paul said, that Christ sent him not to baptize, but to preach the Gospel. That is, not so much to baptize, as to preach. If any think, that People are so to be instructed, that there is no such need of Preaching, they should do well to question their People a little, and they may discover their own great mistakes. Besides, that Experience teacheth us, that those who are best instructed are most desirous of that which delivereth the Name of Preaching, which lets us know that there is yet something further to be known, or that we had need have our remembrance stirred up, or at least our Affections quickened.

2 Now when John had heard in the prison the works of Christ, he sent two of his disciples.

3 And said unto him, art thou he that should come? or do we look for another?

The influence of this Text alone, is enough to convince the observing Reader of Holy Writ, that the Evangelists do not set down all things in that order, as they were done. We have heard nothing before of John's being cast into Prison in this Gospel, nor do we hear any thing here of the Story of it, till Math. 14. 6. when our Evangelist occasionally relates it something largely. He here tells us of something done during his Imprisonment, viz. his sending two of his Disciples to Christ, to be baptized, whether he was the promised Messiah, or they must look for another. Luke reports the same thing, Ch. 7. v. 19. Could he that was sent before Christ to prepare his way, and that had baptized him, and seen the Spirit descending on him, and heard the Voice from Heaven, saying, This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased, and who had followed Christ to his Disciples, John 1. 29, 30, 31. &c. doubt whether he was the Messiah? He doubtless no, but John saw how some of his Disciples, envying for his sake, as John 3. 26. or else unwilling to the Common error of the Jews about the Messiah, were something shaken with the Clamours of the Scribes, and Pharisees (who were far more favourable to John, than to Christ) that they might be satisfied from their own sight of the Works of Christ, he a little before his Death senteth them to Christ on this Errand, Are thou he that should come, in the Greek, who is coming which lets us know, that his expectation on the Jews generally had at that time of a Messiah coming. They desire only to be satisfied whether Christ was he.

4 Jesus answered, and said unto them, Go, and shew John again those things which ye do hear, and see.

5 *The blind receive their sight, and the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, and the deaf hear, the dead are raised up, and the poor have the gospel preached unto them.

6 And blessed is he whosoever shall not be offended in me.

We must imagine these Disciples of John to have said with Christ some time, and to have seen him work some of these Miracles, and to have heard him Preach, and from the great light of his Ministry, and then to have left him with this Answer. Luke therefore addeth Ch. 7. 21. And in that same Hour he cured many of their Infirmitates, and Plagues, and of Evil Spirits, and unto many that were Blind, began Sight. Then he repeateth the Answer which we have here, in that our Saviour referreth unto his Works, as sufficiently testifying of him, John 5. 36. 37. & 10. 25. 37. 38. we read that these Disciples saw & heard the occasion of their coming to Christ. The question is, how the sight of these things done by our Saviour, could be a sufficient Argument to confirm to them that he was the Messiah? Especially considering that his Apostles did the same things. Answer. First it was prophesied by Isaiah, Ch. 35. 4, 5, 6. That when God should come to save them, the Eyes of the Blind should be opened, and the Ears of the Deaf unstoppered, then shall the Lame Man leap as an Hart, and the Tongue of the Dumb bring forth as the Lamb. And in the same Chapter, Ch. 61. 1. That the Messiah should preach good Tidings to the Meek, that is, the Poor, Luke 4. 18. which Christ v. 21. applied to himself. So that the fulfilling of these promises assured, that the Messiah was come, and no other was to be looked for, whether these things were done by him, or by his Disciples. Secondly, The Disciples say yet had done no such things, so his doing of them plainly evidenced his Divine Power, the others did them but as the Disciples, by his Power and Authority. It is more than probable, that when the Disciples did these things, they used John's Form as Peter used, Acts 3. 6. In the Name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, arise and walk; we find Peter v. 12. very wary, that the People should not mistake in thinking, they did it by their own Power or Holiness. And the Poor have the Gospel preached to them. God's εὐαγγέλιον [Gospel], which may be Translated, The Poor Preach the Gospel in an Active Sense, as the Word is used, Luke 2. 10. or the Poor are Gospelized. Taking the Word in a passive Sense, as Heb. 4. 2. 1 Pet. 1. 25. & 4. 6. In the passive Sense it may be understood either of a more External Reception of the Gospel upon Preaching, or of a more Internal Reception of the Gospel by Faith. In all Senses it was true, of the times of the Messiah: The Poor Preached the Gospel; nor was this a mean Evidence, that the Messiah was come to feed poor Father-men at his Call leaving their Nets and their Friends, and following one calling them, to Preach a new Doctrine to the World. 2. The Poor had the Gospel preached to them, the Word. 2. The Poor had the Gospel preached to them, considering the Prophecy, Isaiah 61. 1. and the contempt of the Poor amongst the Jews. John 7. 49. But that the Poor, who commonly are the more ignorant, and rule forth of People should Vouchsafe to hear the Gospel, and be turned into the likeness of the Gospel upon Christ's Preaching to them, this was yet an higher Evidence. Many by Poor understand the Poor in Spirit. The binding up of broken Hearts, and bringing good Tidings to Souls filled on Spiritual accounts, is a great effect of the Divine Power. It followeth, that blessed is he who shall not be offended in me. It is not improbable that our Saviour here reflecteth on the Disciples of John, who out of a great Honour for their Master, took many occasions to be offended at Christ. One while because, his Disciples did not fast to often, as they and the Pharisees, as Ch. 9. v. 14. another while because so many followed him, John 3. 26. But these Words spoken here, further reference, than to John's Disciples. The Lord Jesus his Doctrine are to many a Stone of stumbling, and a Rock of offence, according to the Prophecy, Isa. 8. 14. & 28. 16. Luk. 2. 34. Rom. 9. 33. 1 Cor. 1. 23. 1 Pet. 2. 6. The Jews stumbled at the meanness of his Person, and Parentage, and the meanness of his Followers. The Gentiles not at these things only, but his Ignominious Death. At this day many stumble at the Sublimeness, and strictness of his Doctrine. Christ speaks here with reference to all, and pronounceth that man, a Blessed man, who shall be able to take offence at nothing, whether respecting his Person, his Life, or his Death, his Doctrine, or his Followers, as a defect, or disfigurement to him from embracing him, and believing in him, the Saviour of lost Sinners, that shall by Faith receive him.

7 And as they departed, Jesus began to say unto the multitudes concerning John, What went ye out into the wilderness to see, A reed shaken with the wind?

8 But what went ye out for to see? A man clothed in soft rayment? Behold, they that wear soft clothing are in Kings houses.

9 But what went ye out for to see? A Prophet? Yea I say unto you, and more than a prophet.

Luke repeating the same Story, ch. 7. 24. 25. instead of they that are clothed in soft rayment, saith, They that are gorgeously apparelled, and Live delicately, are in Kings houses. Our Saviour here doth tacitly imply, that the Ministers of the Gospel, should neither be ignorant, and inconsistent Men: Nor yet delicate Men, affecting splendid apparel, or delicate Diet, but minding their great work, viz. the Revelation of the Will of God. But the Scope of his present Speech here, was to confirm the multitude in their good Opinion of John, and to keep them from being scandalized, or altering their Opinion of him, because he was now in Prison. Ch. 14. 5. & 21. 26. All men held John as a Prophet. You went out (saith our Saviour) into the Wilderness to hear John Preach, and you did not so feel some idle Light-man such as a Reed shaken with the Wind. Nor yet to see a Man clothed gorgeously (the Wilderness is no place for such Persons, they are to be found in the Courts, and Palaces of Princes) you went out to hear one revealing the Will of God to you. Nor did you mistake. He was a Prophet. Not that Prophet, of which Moses spoke, Deut. 18. 15. But a Prophet. Yea, and more than a Prophet. One that taught you, what none of the Prophets ever could teach you. That is, the Messiah, as come, they could only tell you, that I should come.

10 For this is he of whom it is written, Behold I send my messenger before thy face, which shall prepare thy way before thee.

11 Verily I say unto you, amongst them that are born of women, there hath not arisen a greater than John the Baptist: notwithstanding he that is least in the Kingdom of heaven, is greater than he.

St. Luke hath the same, ch. 7. 27. 28. only he saith, There hath not arisen a greater Prophet, than John the Baptist, it was written, Malachi 3. 1. Behold I will send my messenger before my face, and he shall prepare the way before me. And the Lord whom you seek, shall suddenly come to his Temple, even the Messenger of the Covenant, whom you delight in. Behold, he shall come, saith the Lord of Hosts. The latter part was a Prophecy of Christ. The former part, a Prophecy of John the Baptist, and applied to him not in this Text only, but Mat. 11. 1. Luke 1. 17. Christ is let out as a great Prince, who sends his Ministers before him to prepare his way, and by John's Preaching we may learn the Ministers Duty, who are to prepare Christ's way to peoples souls, viz. To Preach Repentance and Faith in Christ. Verily I say unto you, amongst those that are born of Women, there hath not arisen a greater: That is, (as Luke expounds it) a greater Prophet. 1. e. Amongst all the Prophets of the Old Testament, God raised up none greater than John. But he that is least in the Kingdom of Heaven is greater than he. Mr. Calvin and many others think that by this Phrase is to be understood, the least of those who shall Preach the Gospel after my Resurrection, will be greater than he, that is, as to their Doctrine. John could only declare me to be come. They shall Preach me, as having died for my Peoples Sins, and risen again for their justification. Rom. 4. 25. The Death, and the Resurrection of Christ, were indeed great Points of the Gospel, which John could only Prophecy of, not Preach of, and declare us things in his time accomplished.

12 And from the days of John the Baptist until now, the kingdom of heaven lieth hid, and the violent take it by force.*

As John Baptist was a great man, to the Lord hath owned him as such, giving such a Success to his Ministry, that ever since he began the Course of it, men have been carried on with a great Ardor, and Heat, in hearing and receiving the Gospel, which is the Gospel of the Kingdom, and bringing the Kingdom of Glory. The Hearts of Men and Women have been inflamed with a Desire after the Knowledge, and obtaining of Heaven, and Heavenly things: They are great Persons who are ordinarily such as have some measures of the Spirit of this first Gospel Ministry, making the great things of the Spirit, or matter of their Discourse, and doing their Work, with a zealous Zeal, and Favour fitted to it. The violent take it by force: They are not Lust Whiffes, or Cold idle words that will bring men to Heaven.

13 For all the prophets, and the law prophesied until John.

It is no wonder, that there was such an heat kindled in the Souls of People, upon John the Baptists coming, for they understood that Christ typified in the Law, and only formal Law from his time began to dye, so all the Prophecies of Christ in the Prophets, began then to have their Complement. John shewed them with his Finger, him who before had been only darkly revealed under Types and Figures, and in the Prophecies of the Prophets: Men came to that time, that had not hoped, or waited in vain for the Salvation of Israel, [Prophecied] in this Verse, signifies made dark Revelations of Christ, to the Kingdom of Heaven.

14 And if ye will receive it, this is Elias which was for to come.

God had told the Jews, Mal. 4. 5, 6. that he would send them Elijah the Prophet, before the coming of the great and dreadful day of the Lord. And he shall turn the Hearts of the Fathers to the Children, and the Hearts of the Children to the Fathers, lest (saith he) I come and finish the Earth with a Curse. This Prophecy related to John the Baptist, as our Saviour here teacheth us, so Luk. 1. 17. it is confirmed by the Angel to Zachariah, and Mar. 9. 11. From which last Text it appears, that the Scribes had a Tradition, that Elias should come before the Messiah. Their mistake was that they looked for an Elias, to come in Person, when as God meant no more (as the Angel expounded it, Luk. 1. 17.) than one in the Spirit, and Power of Elias, as bold and free a Preacher, who should no more fear the Face of Men, in the discharge of his Duty, than Elias did (saith the same Angel) if you will believe, this John was that Elias, Prophecied of by Malachi.

14 *Hath ears to hear, let him hear. *Rev. 2. 7, 12. It is an Epiphonema, or Conclusion often used by Rev. 17. 29. & 36. Saviour (and by St. John in the Revelation) quickning up 13. 22. the hearers to a just Attention, and belief of, what in the Doctrine preceding he had revealed to them: Intimating that he knew, that what he had said would not be entertained, or believed of all, but only of such, whose Ears and Hearts God had opened, or should open to receive spiritual Mysteries.

But it was a matter of great Concernment, he therefore calls upon those, whose Ears God had opened to attend to it. So Chap. 13. 9. Mar. 4. 9. & 7. 16. Luk. 8. 8. 16 But wherunto shall I liken this generation? It is like unto children, sitting in the markets, and calling to their fellows.

17 And saying we have piped to you, and ye have not danced, we have mourned unto you, and ye have not lamented.

Luke telling us to see the same History, ch. 7. v. 31. 32. 33. 34. 35. teacheth it thus, v. 29. 30. And all the People that heard him, and the Publicans also, being baptized with the Baptism of John. But the Pharisees, and the Lawyers rejected the Counsel of God against themselves, being not Baptized of him. Which letteth us know that our Saviour by the term [this Generation] here doth not mean all the People of that Generation: But the Pharisees and the Lawyers, whom nothing could allure, or persuade to the receiving of Jesus Christ, neither the Ministry, nor Example of John, nor yet his Works. It is thought, that our Saviour doth here allude to some sport used then amongst Children, which we are not so well acquainted with, wherein Children were wont to liden, sometimes more Merry and Pleasant, sometimes more sad and mournful Songs one to another: And that he here liketh the Pharisees and Lawyers to a foolish set of Children, that let their Company sing what they would, but would not answer them. Ours

That all Erroneous, and loose Persons, ought to be Tolerated in the Church, till the Day of Judgment, forget the Common Rule in Diversity, that Parabolical Divinity is not Argumentative. We can argue from nothing in a Parable, but from the main Scope and Tendency of it. However it is bold Arguing from a Parable in a Parable, Expounded by our Saviour himself, when he hath omitted the Explication of that Parable. Nor can any thing be concluded, but that such multitudes are not Rooted out, as have such a Reference to the Root; from the outward appearance, that they cannot be Rooted out, without an Hazard of a mistake, and a Rooting up of the Wheat with them, but our Saviour reserves the point of the Ministerial Duty, in purging the Church, to another more proper time, he here saith nothing of that, but of his own Design to purge it at the Harvest, which he interprets, the End of the World, that is, the Day of Judgment. By the Resurrexers, he tells us that he meaneth the Angels.

40 As therefore the tares are gathered, and burnt in the fire, so shall it be in the end of this world.

41 The Son of man shall send forth his angels, and they shall gather out of his kingdom all things that offend, and them that do iniquity.

42 And shall cast them into a furnace of fire: * there shall be weeping, and gnashing of teeth.

43 * Then shall the righteous shine forth as the sun, in the kingdom of their Father * Who hath ears to hear, let him hear.

As in the Common practice of Men, when they have a mind to pick their Corn, and have it clean, when it is Reaped, to set Men to Clean the Wheat, and to pick out the Tares, and having tied them up in Bundles, to burn them, he saith he will do so. I will send my Angels at the Day of Judgment, and they shall out of my Church, take all impenitent Sinners, all those who in this World have been Sins, and Offences, and Mischiefous to my People, and who have made it their business to work Iniquity. And they shall cast them into a Furnace of Fire, where shall be weeping and Gnashing of Teeth. That is in the end of the world, in the day of Judgment, which the Damned shall feel there, is often in Scripture compared to Fire, as Chap. 25. 41.
and in other Texts, by which is only set out to us, the dreadfulness of the Punishment of the Damned, that is Proportioned to it, not far exceeding that of the burning living Bodies in fire. Having thus expell'd the punishment of gathering the Wheat into his Barn, viz. The taking of Righteous Men, who Heaven. Then saith he, shall the Righteous, those whom I have clothed with my Righteousness, and who have lived in obedience to my Will to that degree, that tho they be not perfectly Righteous, yet are sincere and upright, so as I have accepted them. Shine as the Sun in the Kingdom of their Father, an Expression much like that of Dan. 12. 3.
3. Significant of that Glorious State of the Saints in Heaven, which no Eye having seen, nor Ear having heard, no Tongue is able to Express. He concludes in the same manner, as he concluded the Parable of the Sower, exciting his Hearers to a diligent Consideration, and Belief of what he had said. Our Saviour adding no particular Explication of the two Parables, delivered v. 31, 32, 33. the Disciples not asking him to explain them, and the Evangelist having put the Explication of the first Parable after them. It is reasonable, that the I omitted the Explication of them in their proper place, yet I should add something here for the Benefit of those, who possibly will not be able to readily, to conceive our Saviour's meaning in them, without an Interpreter, as the Disciples might have thought to be the reason, why they asked no Explication of them. The one is the Parable of the Grain of Mustard Seed, v. 31, 32. The other, the Parable of the Leaven hid in three Measures of Meal, v. 33.
The Scope of both is the same. Our Saviour intended them both, to let his Disciples know the Success, that his Gospel should have over all the World, that they might not be discouraged at the little Success of it at present. To this purpose he comprehendeth it. First, to a Grain of Mustard Seed, which he faith, is the least of all Seeds, that is one of the least of Seeds, or the least Seed, that produceth so great a Plant, but becomes a Tree so high, that the Birds of the Air, come and Lodge in the Branches of it. Tho that small Seed with us, runs up to a great height, and produceth a Plant which hath Branches considerable enough to Lodge Birds, which fit low, yet we must not Judge of what grew in those Countries, by what growth in ours, there are strange, and altogether incredible Stories, told of that Plant by Naturalists, as to its growth in some hot, and fertile Countries. Christ by this foretold his Disciples, what following Ages quickly verified, that the Heathen should entertain the Gospel, and the seed of it should go to the Ends of the Earth. Notwithstanding its present small appearance. Upon the same Score he compar'd it to a little Leaven, which a Woman hid in three Measures of Meal, till the whole Mass of Meal was leavened. By these two Expressions, our Saviour allusively, know, the quick and powerful Nature of the Word. That Christ's words are (as he said) Springs of Life, and have an hidden and extraordinary Virtue in them. I do not think that he wille to inquire into the content of these alpha or Meas- ures of Meal, and why he mentioneth but three. They are Curiosities, the knowledge of which turneth to no account.

Our Saviour certainly by the Expression, designed only to hint the small number of the Jews, that believed in him, but foretold a far greater Harvest. The Law should go forth out of Sion, and the Word of the Lord from Jerusalem, as Isaiah Prophesied, Ch. 2. 3. But many People (after them) should say, Com ye, let us go up to the Mountain of the house of the Lord.

44 Again the kingdom of heaven is like unto treasure, hid in a field, in which when a man hath found he hideth, and for joy thereof, goeth, and * selleth all that he hath, and buyeth that field.

Whatever belongeth to the Kingdom of God, whether the Word, which is called the Word of the Kingdom, or the Grace and Favour of God, which he by me dispenseth unto the Administration of the Gospel, is like, it is, should be adjudged, esteemed, and used like a Treasure hidden in a field.
Men should do by it, as they would do upon the Discovery of a great Sum of Money, buried up in the Earth, in some Field, not yet their own. Suppose a Man had found such a sum of money, what would he do? he would rejoice at it, he would hide it, he would sell all he had, and buy that field, to should men do to whom there is a Revelation of the Gospel, and the Grace thereof. They should inwardly rejoice, in the Revelation, and bless God for it, and what ever it cost them, labour that they might be made partakers of that Grace. Earthly Possessions cannot be hid without purchasing, and those who have not ready Money to purchase with, must raise it from the Sale of something which they have, therefore our Labour, for the Kingdom of Heaven is set out under the Notion of buying. But the Prophet Is. 55. 1. 2.
lets us know that it is a buying without Money, and without Price, however there is some Reference, for as in buying and selling, there is a parting with something that is ours, in Exchange for something which is another's, so in order to the obtaining of the Grace of the Gospel, and the Kingdom of Glory, to which the Remission of Sins leadeth, we must part with something, in order to the obtaining of it. We have no ready Money, nothing by us, that is, a quid pro quo, a valuable Price for Divine Grace, we must therefore part with something that we have, and it is no matter, what it be, which God requireth. Where this Discovery is made, the Soul will part with all it hath, not only its old Heart, its unlawful Desires, and Lusts, but its Riches, Honours, Pleasures, if it can by any other means obtain the Kingdom of Heaven, that it may obtain it. Nor is it at all necessary, that the thing parted with, be of a proportionable value. Amongst Men, Wedges of Gold, have been purchased for Knives, and Rattles, &c. nor doth any thing we can part with, that we may obtain the Kingdom of Heaven, bear any better Proportion, yet it is a buying, because it is what God is pleased to accept, and upon the parting with, gives us this Heavenly Kingdom.

45 Again, the kingdom of heaven is like unto a merchant-man, seeking goodly pearls.

46 Who when he hath found one pearl of great price, went and fold all that he had and bought it.

The State of the Gospel Dispensation, is such, that Men in it, having a Discovery of more excellent things, than those they were aware of, Life and Immortality being brought in Light through the Gospel. 2. Tim. 1. 10. Grace and Truth coming by Jesus Christ, Joh. 1. 17. Men and Women coming to seek for these spiritual things, and the Discovery of Christ set upon seeking for these spiritual things, and the Discovery of Christ for goodly Pearls, and when God makes a Discovery of Christ, and his Grace to the Soul, it appears to them as a Pearl of great Price, of more value than all they have in the World, and they are ready to part with all, to obtain Christ, and his Grace. Both these Parables have the same Scope, and Tendency, viz. to inform us, that Christ and his Grace are of great and Transcendent value. 2. That under the Gospel, there is a clear Discovery of these things to the World. 3. That where this Discovery is effectually, and particularly made to any Soul, that Soul will part with all it hath, or it worth, rather than it will miss of Christ and his Grace and Glory.

47 Again the kingdom of heaven, is like unto a net, that was cast into the sea, and gathered of every kind.

48 Which when it was full, they drew to shore and

and fate down, and gathered the good into Vessels, but cast the bad away.

49 So shall it be at the end of the world: The angels shall come forth, and * sever the wicked from the just.

50 And shall cast them into the furnace of fire,
* there shall be weeping, and gnashing of teeth.

The Scope of this Parable is much the same, with that of the Tares, to teach us that whilst the Church is in this World, there will be in it, a mixture of good and bad, a perfect Separation of which one from another, is not to be expected until the Day of Judgment, when the Kingdom of Hea- ven. This term signifieth the whole Dispensation, and administration of the Gospel, both the Grace Dispensed in it, and the means of that Grace, which is administered under it.
I should here interpret it of the Preaching of the Gospel, which is called, the Word of the Kingdom, being the means by which Men are gathered in, both to the Church, visible, and invisible. This our Lord here compar'd to a Net, thrown into the Sea of the World, and gathering in of every kind, bringing in many to an outward Profession, all which shall not come to the Kingdom of Glory, nor which are included true Members of Christ, nor Members of the Church invisible, tho they be Members of the Church visible. When the end of the World shall come, and Christ shall have accomplished his Design in the World, then a Day of Judgment shall come, and there shall be a perfect Separation betwixt such as received the Gospel in Truth, and in the Love of it and others, the former shall be taken to Heaven, and the latter thrown into Hell, which he expresseth by the Parables, which he had before used in the Parable of the Tares, which need no further Explication.

51 Jesus faith unto them. Have ye understood all these things? They said unto him, Yea, Lord.

A Confident Teacher, will have a respect to the progress of his Hearers. Christ here setteth us an Example, asking his Disciples, if they had understood all these things, as well those Parables of which he had given them, no particular Explication, as those he had explained. They say unto him. Yea, Lord, we have understood them.

52 Then said he unto them, Therefore every scribe which is instructed unto the kingdom of heaven, is like unto a man, that is an householder, which bringeth forth out of his treasure things
new, and old.

Seeing you understand these things, Communicate your knowledge of them unto others, do not know for your selves alone. Every scribe that is instructed to the Kingdom of Heaven. The Scribes amongst the Jews, were not only Clerks, that were employed in Writing; but Teachers of the Law, such a one was Exra Ch. 7. v. 6. Our Saviour here by Every Scribe instructed to the Kingdom of God, under-standeth every good Minister of the Gospel, fitted to promote the Kingdom of God, to be employed in the Church of God, should be like a good Householder, that hath not his Provision to seek, when his Guests come; but hath a full freight Store-house, and hath nothing to do, but out of his Stock, and Store-house, to bring out all sort of Provision, according to the various Palates of his Guests: Ministers of the Gospel, should not be Novices, 1 Tim. 3. 6. Raw, and Ignorant men, but Men mighty in the Scriptures, well acquainted with the Writings of the Old, and New Testaments, and the Sense of them, Men that have a stock of spiritual Knowledge, able readily to speak a Word to the Weary, and to speak to Men and Women particular Cases, and Questions.

53 And it came to pass, that when Jesus had finished these parables, he departed thence.

54 And when he was come into his * own country, he taught them in their synagogue, inform, that they were astonished, and said, whence hath this man wisdom; and these mighty works?

Mark relateth this Passage, Ch. 6. 1. 2. 3. 4. Our Lord went up and down Preaching the Gospel, he having Preached unto the People in the former Parables, now he departed from the Sea-side, where he Preached as before, into his own Country, most Interpreters judge Nazareth, he was born in Bethlehem, but we read little or nothing of any time he spent there afterward. Nazareth was the place, where he was brought up, and therefore he was called Jesus of Nazareth.
There he preached in the Synagogue, or in the Synagogues of Galilee. Mark addeth on the Sabbath Day. Informeth that they were astonished. It is not said they repeated, or believed, whence hath this man this wisdom, and these mighty works? That is, a Power to do these mighty Works. Mark saith, whence hath this man these things? And what wisdom is that, that is given unto him, that even such mighty works are wrought by his Hands? Afterthought, and Admiration flow from Ignorance, and are no Indications of * Luk. 1. 16.

any spiritual faring Work upon mens Hearts; we shall see these Jews notwithstanding their Astonishment: are by and by scandalized, and offended at Christ.

55 Is not this the carpenters son? * Is not his mother called Mary, * and his brethren James,
* and Joseph, and Simon, and Judas? * Joh. 6. 42.
* Chap. 13. 55.

56 And his sisters are they not all with us?
Whence then, hath this man all these things?
Mark faith the same, Ch. 6. 3. Only he faith: Is not this the Carpenter? a Telah, which leadeth some to think, that Christ while he was thirty years of Age, wrought with Joseph upon his Trade, Luk. 2. 51. it is said, Thou art come to Nazareth, and art subject to his Parents. Joseph was an Artificer, that was certain. So Telah signifies, but whether a Carpenter, or a Smith, the word will not inform us; for the Brethren of Christ and his Sisters here mentioned, the most by them understood his near Relations. The Jews were offended at the manner of our Saviour's Parents, and Relations. They were offended in him, that is, these things made them inhumane at him, and not receive him as the Almighty, or a Prophet sent from God. How unreasonable is knowledge of his Friends and Education, should have rather led them to have concluded, that he must be sent from God, and more than a Man, seeing that he did not come by this Wisdom, by any ordinary means, nor work these great works by any humane Power.

57 And they were offended in him. But Jesus saith unto them, * A Prophet is not without honour, save in his own country, and in his own house.

58 And he did not many mighty works there, because of their unbelief.

Mark faith, Ch. 6. 3. 4. 5. 6. But Jesus said unto them,
A Prophet is not without Honour, but in his own Country, and amongst his own Kin, and in his own House. And he could there do no mighty Work, save that he laid his Hands upon a few sick Folks, and healed them. And he marvelled, because of their unbelief, and he went round about the Villages teaching. Our Lord here, gives another more External reason of their being scandalized at him:
that is his being so familiar with them, and conversing so long with them. Familiarity ordinary breeding Contempt, to this purpose he applyeth to them, a Proverbial Speech,
That a Prophet is not without Honour, but in his own Country. Men are ready to undervalue, slight, and dis-esteem those they have been brought up, and ordinarily conversed with, and amongst: He did not see many Works there. Mark telleth us he did some, but not many. Because of their unbelief. He saw them a People, whose Hearts through the just Judgment of God were locked, and shut up under unbelief; and therefore it was to no purpose, to do more Miracles before them, upon whom they would have no Effect, nor did this conlult with what he knew of the Councils of God, with reverence unto them. So he left them, and went Preaching about the Villages, or Country Towns in Galilee.

CHAP. XIV.

At that time, Herod the tetrarch heard of the fame of Jesus.

2 And said unto his servants, This is John the Baptist, he is risen from the dead, and therefore mighty works do [shew forth themselves in him.

This, and the following History is related by Mark more largely, Ch. 6. from v. 14. to v. 29. By Luke more shortly;
Chap. 9. 7. 8. 9. we heard before, that the Romans under whom the Jews now were, had altered the Government of the Jews from a Kingdom to a Tetrarchy, or Government of four Luke telleth us who were the Tetrarchs, Ch. 3. 1. Herod (as we read there) was the Tetrarch of Galilee. He had before this time put John Baptist to death, upon what Occasion, and in what manner, we shall hear by and by. He heareth of the fame of Jesus. Luke faith, he heard of all that was done by him, and was perplexed. That some said John the Baptist was risen from the dead. Others, that Elias had appeared: Others, that one of the Old Prophets was risen again. But Herod said, John hath been beheaded, but who is this of whom I hear such things? And he desired to see him. Mark faith, Ch. 6. 14. That King Herod heard of him, for his Name was spread abroad. And he said, This John the Baptist doth shew forth himself in him. Others said it was Elias: And others said, Is not a Prophet, or at one of the Old Prophets? But when Herod heard this, he said, Is it John whom I have beheaded, he is risen from the dead. So as it seems that others had various Opinions, yet Herod was fixed in this. That this Man was John the Baptist.

G 28 And

28 And Peter answered him, and said, Lord, if it be thou, bid me come unto thee on the water.

29 And he said, Come. And when Peter was come down out of the ship, he walked on the water to go to Jesus.

30 But when he saw the wind boisterous, he was afraid, and beginning to sink, he cried, saying, Lord save me.

31 And immediately Jesus stretched forth his hand, and caught him, and said unto him. O thou of little faith, wherefore didst thou doubt?

Peter by saying, if it be thou, shewed that his Faith was not so strong, as it should have been, after he had heard his Masters Voice, by his saying to him, bid me come unto thee on the water, he sheweth a jealous fronger Faith, and a Resolution to obey his Command, but his fear afterward, when the Wind began to rise higher; and he began to Sink, argued again the infirmity of his Faith. Thus Peter is a Pattern of the best believers, who tho they may sometimes think, that they could trust God in any State, or Condition, yet often mistake their own Hearts, and begin to shrink in an Hour of great Extremity, which lets us see what need we have to Pray, That God would not lend us by his Promise, hence into great Temptations, much more to take heed, that we do not throw ourselves into them. No Man knoweth how he shall find his Heart under a great Temptation, until he hath tried it. It therefore gives us a caution as against Condemning others, against Boasting, and too much Confidence as to our selves, and lets us see how much need we have, to keep our Eye upon Christ, and his strength in such an hour. And immediately Jesus stretched out his hand. God is never far off from his People, when extreme troubles are hard at hand. Christ saith Peter, but not without a Check. O thou of little faith, whither dost thou doubt? Doubting is directly contrary to Faith, yet it will not conclude a Soul to have no Faith, only a little Faith.

32 And when they were come into the ship, the wind ceased.

33 Then they that were in the ship, came and worshipped him, saying, Of a truth, thou art the Son of God.

They, that is Christ, and Peter, whom we must suppose, to have walked some way with Christ upon the Sea, Christ by his Company making his mighty Power more conspicuous, so as the Mind men had no reason to conclude, from Christs walking on the Sea, that he had no true Human Body, for sure Peter had, and they must ascribe little to our Saviours Divine Nature, that will not allow him to have had a Power, to suspend the Natural Motion downward, which we see in all Gravity, which is an attribute of all human Bodies. No wonder, if Christ come into the Ship, but the Wind ceased, in Testimony of his Homage to him, who bringeth the Wind out of his Treasures. Those that were in the Ship, came and worshipped him, paying a Religious Homage unto him, as he who had preserved their Lives from so great a danger, and they further owned him to be the Son of God. This was that great point, which God was bringing the World to the acknowledgement of, and we see it was done by degrees, his Miracles at first only procured a Veneration of him, and a Faith that he had his Power from God. Then he comes to be acknowledged the Son of David by the Blind Man. The Miracle of the five Loaves, brought many to acknowledge him that Prophet, that should come into the world. This is the first time we meet with so plain and open an acknowledgement of his being the Son of God, this was done not only by his Disciples, but by the Mariners, and the Passengers in the Ship, but was far from a steady Faith, as to that point, which the Disciples yet wanted.

34 And when they were gone over, they came into the land of Genesareth.

35 And when the men of that place had knowledge of him, they sent out into all that country round about, and brought unto him all that were diseased.

36 And besought him that they might only touch the hem of his garment, * and as many as touched were made perfectly whole.

* Chap. 9. 20. Mark 3. 10. Luke 6. 19. Act 19. 12. Mark relate the same, Ch. 6. 53, 54, 55, 56. with no difference considerable. Christ had been in this Country before, Chap. 8. and it wrought several Miracles, so as they had a former knowledge of him, altho as they had knowledge of his being again come, they express their Faith in him, and their Charity towards their Neighbour, in telling it abroad, and bringing sick Persons to him. I know why any should Fancy any Superstition in their desire, to touch the Hem of his Garment, considering how Mark expelleth it which we translate, if it were but the Hem of his Garment. It rather foundeth in my Ear, as a full Expression of their Faith, they believed there was such a fulness of Virtue in Christ, that it from him flowed to every part of his Garment. It was their Faith in Christ, not their touch of his Garment that healed them. I am sure our Lord for far Encouraged their Faith, that he healed all those who touched his Garment with that Faith, and Expectation. The Evangelist faith, they were made perfectly whole. Their Faith here plainly implied not only an Assent to his Power, but a Confidence in his goodness.

CHAP. XV.

Then came to Jesus scribes, and Pharisees which were of Jerusalem, saying,

2 Why do thy disciples transgress the traditions of the elders? for they wash not their hands when they eat bread.

Mark relateth this piece of History more largely, Ch. 7. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5. Then came together unto him, the Pharisees and certain of the Scribes, which came from Jerusalem. And when they saw some of his Disciples Eat Bread, with defiled (that is to say with unwashen) Hands, they found fault. For the Pharisees, and all the Jews, except they wash their Hands oft, Eat not, holding the Tradition of the Elders. And when they come from the Market, except they wash, they Eat not. And many other things there be, which they have received to hold as the Washing of Cups, and Pots, Brazen Vessels, and of Tables. Then the Pharisees and Scribes asked him, Why walk not thy Disciples according to the Tradition of the Elders, but Eat Bread with unwashen Hands? This Portion of Scripture cannot be well understood, without underlining something of the Jewish Government, as to matters Ecclesiastical. In which the High Priest was the Chief, Num. 11. 15. God addeth seventy Men more to Moses and Aaron, to be a share in the Government, these were called the Sanhedrim, and this was the Supreme Court of Judicature amongst the Jews, as to all things which respected the Laws of God, whether Moral, Judicial, or Ceremonial, and every one was bound to abide by their Determination. These sat in Jerusalem, but had their inferior Courts in other places, from which they appealed to the Sanhedrim, who finally determined, Deut. 17. 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13. It was the great business of this Court, to take care that there should be no Corruption in Religion. These were they therefore that for Messengers to Zion, when he began to Preach to inquire what he was, and by what Authority he Baptized, Jesus. 19. The Pharisees, (as we before heard) had charged our Saviours Disciples with Violation of the Sabbath, by picking and rubbing Ears of Corn, and himself also with the same Crime for healing the Sick. It is very likely that these were sent from the Sanhedrim, to watch our Saviour, or possibly they came out of their own Curiosity. They could find in our Saviour no Guilt, as to any Violation of the Law of God, but they pick a quarrel with him for some Rites and Ceremonies of their Church, which he, and his Disciples were not so strict in the Observation of. They say, why do thy Disciples, Transgress the Traditions of the Elders. The Word Traditions signifies only things delivered, and is as well applicable to the Law of God, as any thing else. Thus the whole Law of God, was but a Tradition, a Doctrine of Life, delivered to the Jews by Moses from God: thus the Apostle bids the Thessalonians, 2. Thess. 2. 15. Hold the Traditions which you have been taught, whether by Word or Epistle. But the Term of the Elders, is that which redreth it, for as the Papists in our time hold that besides what we have in the New Testament, the Apostle delivered many things to the Primitive Church only by word of Mouth, which have since that time been imparted to succeeding Churches, to the Observation of which Christians, are as much obliged, as to the written Word. So the Jews did formerly. For tho, for some Tract of time, they kept to the Divine Law, yet in process of time they abused that Text, Deut. 4. 14. to found a new invention upon it. That while Moses was in the Mount of God forty Days, and forty Nights, God in the Day time revealed to him the Law written in the five Books of Moses, and in the Night, he revealed to him several other things, as to which his Will was, they should not be written, for fear the Heathens should Transcribe them, but he delivered only by word of Mouth to the Sanhedrim, and he to them as much a Rule of judgment, as any part of the Law, which was written. By which means they gained themselves a liberty, of making the Law of God, what they pleased, for their Traditions were of several sorts. Some were Determinations of what in the Law seemed doubtful. Others were Determinations of what the Law left at Liberty, they called Septem Legis, Rules they gave unto people, of a Guard to the Divine Law. For the more Caution, they they might not transgress it. These things at first were not imposed as Laws, but commended by way of Advice and Counsel, afterward they came to be looked upon as Laws, and grew almost infinite. They tell us that Ezra was he who gathered those Traditions together, and made the Cabala in seventy two Books, which was kept by Gamaliel, and others till the Destruction of Jerusalem. An hundred and twenty years after they tell us, Rabbi Judas, the Son of Simon compiled a Book of them called Mishna. Three hundred years after this, they tell us R. Jehanan found more, and he and others his Colleagues, collected them into a larger Book, called the Jerusalem Talmud. And an hundred years after this, another Rabbi made a Collection of the Traditions amongst the Jews, that remained in Babylon, which he called the Babylonish Talmud, by which two the Jews are governed in Ecclesiastical matters, all the World over at this day. Their whole Talmud is divided into six parts. The Schich is about Purifications, it containeth twelve Books, and every Book hath twenty or thirty Chapters, all treating about the purifying of Houses, Cloths, Vessels, Human Bodies, and their several parts. The Jews after the Destruction of Jerusalem, were in such an afflicted State, that tho their Talmud was not perfected of five hundred years and more after Christ, yet it is probable, they added not much to what they had in use in Christs times. The Pharisees were very fierce as to these Traditions. The Sadducees kept more to the written Law. But the Pharisees were in far greater Credit, with the Jews, therefore Paul called them the first fruit of the Jewish Religion, Act 25. 5. The Jews have several ordinary Sayings, that shew in what Extrem they had their Traditions, as, If the Scribes say our Right hand is our Left, and our Left hand, our Right, we are to be believe them. And, There is more in the Words of the Scribes, than the Words of the Law, &c. These Scribes and Pharisees, accuse our Saviours Disciples, for the Violation of one of these Traditions, Mark faith, That the Pharisees and all the Jews, (that is the Major part of those that followed the Pharisee Faction) except they wash their Hands oft, Eat not. They thought it sinful to Eat, unless they often washed their Hands. The Foundation of this Tradition, was doubtless in the Levitical Law, God by that Law had declared him unclean, that should touch the Carcase of any unclean thing. Levit. 5. 2, 3. upon this, (as some think) they had superstitiously a Tradition of washing their Hands, Pots, Cups, Vessels, when they had been at the Market, or almost any where for fear, they or their Pots, Cups, &c. should have touched any unclean Person, or thing. In this they were guilty of several Errors, 1. Extending the Law to the touching of things and Persons, of whom the Law had said nothing. 2. In Cases where such Touches happened accidentally and were not made on purpose. 3. In thinking that the stain of sin could be washed away by a ritual Action, which God never commanded. We must not think that they Charge the Disciples here, with a neglect of a Civil washing for Cleanliness, but of a Religious superstitious washing. Mark faith, novis legem sed traditionem hominum. We translate it, Polluted, ye Act 10 14 18 18. Hands not first separated to God by the Religious Rite of washings.

3 But he answered, and said unto them, Why do you also transgress the commandment of God by your traditions?

Mark hath the same, Ch. 7. 9. a little out of the Order in which Matthew hath it. Full well you reject the Commandments of God, that you may keep your own Traditions. Our Saviour could have answered them, had he pleased more strictly to their Questions, but he must then, have incurred Danger, or Odium; he therefore chuseth to answer them by another Question, which struck at the Root of the matter. Admit, faith he, my Disciples culpable in not observing Traditions, which indeed you call the Traditions of the Elders, but are your own, devised by you, or some like you, merely to uphold your Power and Authority, and to keep People in a needless Subjection to you: I am sure you are far more guilty, in making Traditions contrary to the Law of God, or rejecting Gods Law, to keep your Traditions: And indeed this is the common Guilt of those, who are great Zealots for Traditions and Rites, not commanded in the word of God. The Jewish Rabbi Tale faith, He sineth as much, who eateth with unwashen Hands, as he that hath with an Harlot. The Papists make it a greater sin, for a Priest to Marry, than to keep a Concubine; and commit Fornication: They make it a lesser Transgression, than to Eat meat on a Friday.

4 For God commanded, saying, Honour thy father and mother, and He that curseth father or mother, let him dye the death.

5 But ye say, Whosoever shall say to his father or his mother, I have given to God, that which should have been given to me, he is free, Thus have you made the commandment of God, of none effect by your tradition.

Mark hath much the same, 7. 10, 11, 12, 13. Mark faith Moses said, which is the same with God commanded. God commanded by Moses, Mark faith: It is Corban (that is, a Gift) Mark addeth, v. 12. And you suffer him no more to do ought for his Father or Mother, which more fully sheweth their Crime, and expoundeth what Matthew had said more shortly. Mark addeth, And many like things do you. This is an instance, by which our Saviour justifieth his Charge upon them, that they had made void the Law of God by their Traditions. The Law he intended in the fifth Commandment, Exod. 20. 12. Deut. 5. 16, which the Apostle calleth the First Commandment with Promise, Eph. 6. 2. which God had fortified with a Judicial Father and Mother should be put to Death, Exod. 21. 17. Levit. 20. 9. he had also further threatened the Violators of this Law, Prov. 20. 20. By the way our Saviour here also lets us know, that the fifth Commandment obligeth Children to relieve their Parents in their necessity, and this is the Sense of the term, Honour, in other Texts of Scripture. A Law of God, which hath approved it self to the Widom almost of all Nations. Liberi Parentes autem ut venerantur. Let Children relieve their Parents, or be put into Prison, was an old Roman Law. Nor did the Pharisees deny this in terms, but they had made an Exception from it, which in Effect made it of no use, at least such as wicked Children easily might, and commonly did abuse it by: They had taught the People to say to their Parents, Corban: It is a Gift, by whatsoever thou mayst be profited by me: And in that Case, tho they did not give their poor Parents any thing wherewith they might relieve their Necessities, yet they should be guiltless as to the fifth Commandment. There is a strange Sense of Interpreters as to this Text. Some making the sense, That which I should relieve you with, I have dedicated unto God, and therefore I cannot relieve you. Others thus, I have dedicated your Estate to God, and that will be as much Good, and benefit to you, as if I had given it unto you. Others think that Corban was the form of an Oath, from whence they form other Senses. But the most Free, and unconstrained Sense seemeth to be this. The Pharisees were a very Courteous Generation, and had a share in the Gifts, that were brought unto God, for the use of the Temple or otherwise, thence they were very Zealous, and diligent in perswading People to make such Oblations, when any pretended the need that their Parents stood in of their help, they told them, That if they told their Parents, it was a Gift that they had vowed, such a Portion of their Estate to a sacred use, that would before God excuse them for not relieving their Parents; so as the Precept of Honouring their Parents, and relieving them in their neediness, obliged them not, if they had first given to God the things which their Parents might, or ought to have been relieved. Thus he tells them, that by their Traditions, under pretence of a more Religion, and expounding the Divine Law, they had indeed destroyed it, and made it of no Effect at all.

7 Ye hypocrites! Well did Isaiah prophecy * Mar. 7. 6. of you, saying, * Isaiah 29. 13.

8 * This people draweth nigh unto me with Exe. 33. 18. their mouth, and honoureth me with their lips, but their heart is far from me. * Col. 2. 18.

9 But in vain they do worship me, * teaching for doctrines the commandments of men.

The Greek is, οἱ δὲ δακτύλοις διδασκαλιᾶς, teaching Doctrines, the Commandments of men. Tu hypocrites, who put on an outward Vizard, or appearance of Holiness, but have nothing in your Hearts of true and severe Piety, Well did Isaiah prophecy of you, Isaiah spake to the Jews, that were then in being, but what he then said of your Forefathers, that lived in his Age, is true of you as they are their Children, saying, This People, &c. The Evangelist doth not quote the Words of the Prophet exactly, but his Sense, and Professors of Religion, he, and upon Men, if their Hearts be not right with God, and what they outwardly do, proceed not from an inward Principle of Faith, Love and Obedience, in and to God, they are but Hypocrites. In vain do they worship me, &c. That is, idly, and unprofitably, and to no purpose: I will not accept what they do. Teaching Doctrines, the Commandments of Men: He means in the Worship of God, for other Commandments of Men, are not the Preachers Texts, nor doth he here mean by Commandments of Men, such as backbiting, of which God had said nothing, as washing of Hands: Or such Traditions, as enervated the Commandments of God, such were the last mentioned.

10 And he calleth the multitude, and said unto them, Hear and understand.

11 * Not that which goeth into the mouth defileth a man, but that which cometh out of the mouth, this defileth a man.

* A. 1. 10. 15. Rom. 14. 17. 23. Tit. 1. 15. Mark hath the same, Ch. 7. 15. Our Saviour turns off his Discourse from the Pharisees and Scribes, who he found to be inobedient to the multitude, in whom he discerned a more teachable Temper; he useth, the Pharisee Han and unclean, as well known how they had been taught, and what an abundance of Error in Pious Duties. (As which he useth the same, and that before the Scribes and Pharisees (as will appear by the following Verses), was, That that which goeth into a Man doth not defile him, but that which cometh out of him. He speaketh not of a Levitical Pollution, for so he that did eat of an unclean thing, might by it be defiled, but even in such an Eating, it was not the Food of the unclean Bird, or Beest that defiled the Man, but his insinuating after it, and Eating it in Disobedience to the Command of God.

12 Then came his disciples, and said unto him, Knowest thou that the Pharisees were offended, after they heard this saying?

The Pharisees were without Question, at his making so light a Matter at their Washings, not that they understood our Saviour, as speaking against the distinction of Manners, which was established by the Ceremonial Law, not as yet abrogated. There's nothing doth more offend Hypocrites, than preling spiritual Worship and Homage to God, and the slighting of all external Rites and Actions, nor the tending with a subtle inward Hoag, and Fiction of Heart.

13 But he answered, and said, Every plant which my heavenly * Father hath not planted, * Joh. 15. 2. * Chap. 23. 14. 16. Luk. 6. 39. shall be rooted up.

14 Let them alone * they be blind leaders of the blind, And if the blind lead the blind, both shall fall into the ditch.

Every Plant, may be understood of Doctrines, Practices, or Persons. These Scribes and Pharisees, are a wretched Generation, that are got into the Sheep-fold, not at the Door, my Father never sent them, they are crept in at the Windows, they are Plants got into my Garden, which my Father never Planted there, and they must be Rooted up. Let them alone, they are incorrigible, and blinded by their own Interest against any Conviction, or Instruction, as Hose 4. 17. Ephraim is joyful to Idols, let him alone. So these Men are joyed to their Superstitious Traditions: I will not concern my self with them: They are pretended Leaders, I pity the Blind, Rom. 2. 19. but themselves are Blind. I pity the poor People, for whilst the Blind lead the Blind, they both fall into a Ditch. An ignorant and unfaithful Ministry is the greatest Plague God can send amongst a People.

* Mark 7. 17. 15 * Then answered Peter, and said unto him, Declare unto us this parable.

* Chap. 16. 9. 16 And Jesus said, * Are ye also yet without understanding?

Mark faith, His Disciples asked him concerning the Parable, Peter probably began, the rest followed. Or, Peter speaks in the Name of the rest, for our Saviour in his Answer, doth not say, Art thou, are ye. They did well, in that they desired to be instructed what the meaning was of the Parable, that is, the dark saying, which he used (for the Hebrews called all dark Sayings, Parables) as tending to the Destruction of the Ceremonial Law, about the difference of Meats. But that they were no better instructed, than not to understand a thing so plain and obvious, this was their Fault, and argued their inability to improve of our Saviours Company. God expects a proficiency in knowledge from us, proportionate unto the means he giveth us.

17 Do not ye yet understand, that whatsoever entereth in at the mouth, goeth into the belly, and is cast out into the draught?

* Jan. 3. 6. 18 But * those things, which proceed out of the mouth come forth from the heart, and they defile a man.

* Gen. 6. 5. 6. 21. Prov. 6. 14. Jer. 17. 9. 19 * For out of the heart proceed evil thoughts, murders, adulteries, fornications, thefts, false witness, blasphemies.

20 These are the things which defile a man: but to eat with unwashen hands, defileth not a man.

Mark hath this, with very small difference in Words, Ch. 7. 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23. only he specifies some more sins, than Matthew enumereth. The Sum of what our Saviour saith is this. That all sin proceedeth from Lust, some de-fires in the Heart of man after things forbidden in the Law of God. All the Covetings of our Hearts, with such Thoughts, all the Willings, and Desires of such things, they never issue in Over-Acts, yet desire, and pollute a Man, and from these inward Motions of the Heart, proceed these Over-Acts (mentioned by Matthew or Mark) of Murders, Adulteries, Fornications, Thefts, False-witness, Blasphemy, Deceits, Lustfulness, an Evil Eye, Pride, Foolishness, now these things take their in their Neck, which is the Heart, they defile, and pollute that. Take them in their passage through our Lips, into the World; they pollute that, take them in their Over-Acts, they pollute the Man. But to eat with unwashen Hands, a thing no where forbidden by God, only by the Pharisees, who had no such Authority given them from God, to command any such thing, this doth not obeying the Commandments of Men, but it must be than in things, in which God hath Authorized them to command, and to determine our Practice in, for the pollution lies in a Disobedience, to the Commandment of God, not of Men.

21 Then Jesus went, and departed into the coasts of Tyre and Sidon.

Mark Ch. 7. 24. addeth, and entered into an House, and would have no Man know of it, but he could not be hid: Some here make a Question, whether our Saviour did go to Phenicia (of which Tyre and Sidon were the principal Cities) or only into the Coasts of Palestine, as to 13 those that think he did not go into Phenicia, are misled by his Probation of his Disciples, to go into the way of the Gentiles, Mar. 10. 5. and the Consideration, that the time was not yet come, for his manifestation to the Gentiles. I rather incline to think, that he went into Tyre and Sidon; and that this was a kind of a Preludium to the calling of the Gentiles, and a Prediction of what should be done more fully afterwards: It is manifest he did not go with a design to make Men know of it, but for privacy withdrew himself thither, and shewed some of his miraculous Operations there, and 9. 22. Sought the Woman that came to him as a Canaanite, Mark faith, she was a Greek, a Syrophenician by Nation. Nor is here any Contradiction, for ever since the Grecian Monarchy, prevailed over so great a part of the World. The Name of Greek had obtained, for as they called all Greeks who were not Jews, Rom. 1. 14. 16. & 10. 12. a Syrophenician faith Mark by Nation: This is one that was allowed of that part of Phenicia, which is joyned to Tyre and Sidon. Matthew calls her a Canaanite, or a Woman of Canaan, by which some would understand one of Cana, yet as the Orthography will not agree, for Mark calling her a Greek, and a Syrophenician, inclines us rather to judge her of the stock of the Old Canaanites.

22 And * behold a woman of Canaan came, and lay at the feet of Jesus, and cried unto him, saying, Have mercy on me O Lord, thou son of David; * my daughter is grievously vexed with a devil.

23 But he answered her not a word, And his disciples came, and besought him, saying, Send her away; for she cryeth after us.

Mark faith, A certain Woman whose young Daughter had an unclean Spirit, heard of him, and came and fell at his feet. The Woman was a Greek, a Syrophenician by Nation, and she besought him, that he would cast forth the Devil out of her Daughter. But Jesus said unto her, Let the Children first be filled, for it is not meet to take the Childrens Bread, and to cast it to Dogs. Mark 7. 25, 26. The Woman appears to have been a Pagan, living far near Galilee, she had doubtless heard of Christ, both what he had done in casting out Devils, and also that he was looked upon as the Son of David, and usually called by that Name, by those who went to him for any Cures; he therefore gives him that Title: Others, think her to have been more specially enlightened, and to have called him the Son of David, not an usual Compellation given him, but as believing him to be the true Messiah promised to the Jews, & that impossible, for tho the Gospel at this time had not spread upon any considerable number of the Heathen, yet God in all times had his number amongst them, and this Woman living so near to the Jews, and so near to Galilee, where our Saviour hitherto had most Converted, and Preached, it is not improbable, that she might have received the Grace, as well as the found of the Gospel, for God might have kindled in her Heart, a true Faith in the Messiah. Our Saviours Commendation of her Faith in the following Discourse, maketh this very probable. Matthew faith, she answered him thus, a Word, Mark faith, that he said to her, Let the Children first be filled, &c. To the obeying Reader, this will appear no Contradiction. For by Mark it should appear, that the first came to our Saviour into the House, unto which he went, that he might be private, and there fell at his feet. Here Christ answered her not a Word; took no notice of her her at all, But it appeareth by Matthew, that Christ soon left the House, and the following after him upon the way. The Disciples said, Send her away, for she cryeth after us. Then it was that our Saviour said to her, Let the Children be first filled. His Disciples left interposing, saying, send her away, for she cryeth after us. How any of the Papists think that this Text Patronizeth their Invocation of Saints departed, I cannot tell, for these Disciples were alive, and we do not read, that he spake any use of them, to intercessors for her; it is certain they did move Christ on her behalf.

* Chap. 10. 24 But he answered, and said, * I am not sent, but to the lost sheep of Israel.

Our Lord by these Words doth not deny, but that he was sent as a Redeemer to more, but not as a Minister or as an Apostle, as he is called, Heb. 3. 1. The Apostle Rom. 15. 8. that Jesus Christ was a Minister of the Circumcision, for the Truth of God, to confirm the promises made to the Fathers. Our Lords Ministry was confined to the Jews, for the Apostles, Matth. 10. 5. Till I send thee after my Saviours Ascension, the Gospel was not Preached generally to the Gentiles, tho some particular Persons might, and did both in Christs time, and in the time of the Apostles, before they did go to the Gentiles, hear, receive, and embrace the Gospel, as we shall hear this Woman did.

25 Then came she, and worshipped him, saying, Lord, help me.

She here acknowledgeth his Divine Power, and impleth his Help. Thus shewing that he believed him to be the Son of God, and a rewarder of those that sought him, and continues her request after two Repulses.

26 But he answered, and said, It is not meet to take the childrens bread, and to cast it to dogs.

Mark faith, Chap. 7. 27. Jesus said unto her, Let the Children first be filled, for it is not meet, &c. By the Children, here he means the Jews, by the Dogs, he meant the Heathen. The Jews are called the Children of the Kingdom, by his Probation of his Disciples, Rom. 8. 16. & 9. 22. Israel is called Gods Son, in his first Rom. Exod. 4. 22. Israel is called Gods Son, in that they belong to the Adoption. By Bread here our Saviour means, the Publication of the Gospel, and the Miracles by which the truth of the Doctrine of it was confirmed, by Dogs, he means the Heathen, whom the Jews did count as Dogs, no Members of the Household of God, it was a Term of Contempt, 2 Sam. 3. 8. and 16. 9. 2 Kings 18. 13. When our Saviour saith it is not meet, he means it is not just, nor equal. Oh, how came it then, that the Gospel was ever preached to the Gentiles? Mark Expounds our Saviours meaning, or rather gives us an account of our Saviours Works more perfectly. Let the Children be first filled. It is not meet, &c. The Jews are Gods Children, a People whom he chose out of all the Nations of the Earth, to whom he gave many Privileges. It is his Will the Gospel should be first Preached to them, and then to the Gentiles. Gentiles are as Dogs, of whom God hath not taken such a care, but they shall have their share. Only it is not Consonant to my Fathers Will, that the Gospel, and the Miracles by which it is confirmed, should be exhibited unto you Gentiles, till it hath been fully Preached to the Jews, and they be first filled with the Sound, and with the Confirmations of it.

27 And the said, Truth Lord, yet the dogs eat of the crumbs, which fall from thy masters table.

Mark reports it to the same Sense, Chap. 7. 28. She goeth on after a third Repulse. The last of which was not without a reproach, for our Lord had implicitly said her this. These words are as much, as if he had said, Lord, I count the Jews are Children. I am a Dog, a poor Heathen, no proper Member of the Household of God, and it is Truth, that it seemeth unreasonable, that I being a Dog, should be served before all the Children are filled. Lord, I do not beg such a full Manifestation of thy power, and goodness for the Gentiles, I beg but a Crumb of Mercy for my self, and poor Child, and tho, we do not use to give our Loaves prepared for our Children, to the Dogs that feed under our Table, Crumbs of our Childrens Bread, as Mark expresseth it, yet we suffer our Dogs to gather them up. Lord, I know thou hast a plenty of Grace, and Blessing, the Children may be filled, and yet I may have some Crumbs. Three things are Remarkable in her Answer, besides her Faith to eminently expressed. 1. Her Humility, she owneth herself a Dog. 2. Her Modesty, she beggeth no more than a Crumb. 3. Her Fervency, and Importunity after three Repulses. By this we Learn our Duty in Prayer, to go to God Humbly, to implore him modestly, and to be instant in Prayer, going on in our Duty, tho we have not perfectly such an Answer as we desire. These things joyned with Faith, make an acceptable Prayer.

28 Then Jesus said unto her, O woman! great is thy faith; be it unto thee, even as thou wilt.

And her daughter was made whole from that very hour.

Mark faith, Chap. 7. 29. And he said unto her, for this saying, Go thy way, the Devil is gone out of thy Daughter. And when she was come to her House, she found the Devil gone out, and her Daughter laid upon the Bed. O Woman! for this saying, shewing the greatness of thy Faith. Be it unto thee, as thou wilt. Go thy way, the Devil is gone out of thy Daughter. And her Daughter was made whole that very Hour, as the understood, when she came home to her House, for the found the Devil was gone out of her Daughter, and her Daughter was laid upon the Bed. Thus the Words of both the Evangelists Compounded, make but one sentence and perfect Sense. The greatness of her Faith appeared in two things. 1. In that she had so little means, so small a Revelation, being a Pagan, the ordinarily had not heard the Gospel, nor seen so many of Christs mighty Works, Confirming the Truth of the Doctrine of it. Hence it is observed, that Christ admired the Faith of none but Pagans. Mark 8. 10. 2. That she would not give over, tho he gave her three Repulses. So as she said like Jacob, I will not let thee go, until thou bless me. And as he like a Prince, so he like a Prince, prevailed with God, and obtained the thing which he desired. But will some say, Where was her Faith? What promise? what Word of God had she to attend to? God doth not speak to us outwardly, but inwardly, as undoubtedly he had to this Woman, giving her some inward assurance, that he was the Son of God, and both able, and willing to grant her the thing she asked. Now a firm and fixed assent to any Divine Revelation is Faith: whether the Revelation be Internal or External. We from hence learn, the mighty Power of True Faith and Fervent Prayer.

29 And Jesus departed from thence, and came nigh unto the sea of Galilee, and went up into a mountain, and fate down there.

30 And great multitudes came unto him, having with them those that were * lame, blind, dumb, * maimed, and many others, and cast them down at Jesus feet, and he healed them.

31 Inasmuch that the multitude wondered, when they saw the dumb to speak, the maimed to be whole, the lame to walk, and the blind to see, And they glorified the God of Israel.

Mark gives us an account of this motion of our Saviours, Chap. 7. v. 32. and mentioneth a particular Miracle, which our Lord wrought, either in the way, or when he came to the place where he rested, which is not mentioned by the Evangelists, I shall consider when I come to that Chapter in Mark. Matthew only tells us in general, that he healed many, some Lame, some that were Blind, some that were Dumb, &c. such a general Account of the Miracles wrought by our Saviour, we had Ch. 4. 24. & 8. 16. & 11. 5. The Evangelist not largely setting down every particular Miracle wrought by our Saviour. And they glorified the Lord God of Israel. The Pharisees ascribed their operations to the Devils Power, but the poor People owned them as the Works of God, and gave praise unto God.

32 Then Jesus called his disciples unto him, and said, I have compassion on the multitude, because they continue with me now three days, and have nothing to eat, and I will not, send them away fasting, lest they faint in the way.

33 And his disciples say unto him, Whence should we have so much bread in the wilderness, as to fill so great a multitude?

34 And Jesus faith unto them, I have many leaves have ye? And they said Seven, and a few little fishes.

35 And he commanded the multitude to sit down on the ground.

36 And he took the seven loaves, and the fishes, and gave thanks and brake them, and gave to his disciples, and the disciples to the multitude.

37 And they did all eat, and were filled, and they took up of the broken meat that was left, seven baskets full.

38 And they that did eat, were four thousand men, besides women and children.

39 And he sent away the multitude, and took ship, and came into the coasts of Magdala.

Mark gives us an account of this Miracle, Ch. 8. v. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, &c. There is very little difference in their Relations, only that, Matthew faith, in the Coasts of Magdala, most think that was the same place which had two Names, for one time was the Name of the Country, the other, of the City or Town.

Town. Others that they were two Towns near together. There are no difficulties in this History, for no question how they could fast three Days, but the Text doth not say so, only that at that time they had nothing to eat, having spent what they brought with them probably in their Baskets, which Answers another question also, how they could get Baskets in the Wilderness. The Miracle was of the same Nature, with that which we met with, Chap. 14. Only there were 5000 Men fed with five Loaves, and two Fishes, here 4000 were fed with seven Loaves, and a few Fishes, thereby took up twelve, here but seven Baskets full. Our Lord wrought sometimes more, sometimes by means, and those differently proportioneth to his end, as it pleased him. The Miraculous Operations of our Saviour, are amongst his Miranda et Adoranda, not his Incognita. Those Actions of his, which we are in reading to admire, and adore, but are not concerned in imitating, yet everything we may observe from them, both for our Instructio and Imitation. For our Instruction, we may from this History observe the Extent of Christs Compassion to his Disciples, which tho it is most Eminently seen in what he doth for their Souls, yet reacheth also to their Bodies, and more External wants. It also teacheth us to trust Gods Word, and more External wants. It also teacheth us to trust Gods Word, and more External wants. It also teacheth us to trust Gods Word, and more External wants.

CHAP. XVI.

* Chap. 12. p. 3.

* The Pharisees also with the Sadducees came, and tempting desired him that he would shew them a sign from heaven.

What the Pharisees and Sadducees were, we have had an occasion to shew before in our Annotations on Ch. 3. v. 7. there was a great Opposition betwixt them, as we may learn from Acts 23. 7. 8. The Pharisees and Sadducees were great Zealots for their Traditions. The Sadducees valued them not. The Pharisees held, that the Scriptures and Traditions were both to be followed. The Sadducees denied all. But they were both Enemies to Christ, and Combine in their designs against him. They came to him Tempting, that is, desirous to make a trial of him, they desire that he would shew them a Sign from Heaven. Such a one as Moses shewed them, Job. 6. 30. 31. bringing down Bread from Heaven. They had seen our Saviour shewing many Signs, but they had taught the People, that these things might be done by the Power of the Devil, or by the Art of Man, therefore they challenge our Saviour to shew them another kind of Sign, a Sign from Heaven, that they might know he was sent of God. See Mark 8. 11.

2 He answered, and said unto them, When it is evening, ye say, It will be fair weather, for the sky is red.

3 And in the morning, It will be foul weather to day, for the sky is red, and lowering. O ye hypocrites, ye can discern the face of the sky, but can ye not discern the signs of the times?

You can, faith our Saviour, make Observations upon the Works of God in Nature, and common Providence, and from such Observations you can make Conclusions; if you see the Sky red in the Evening, you can conclude from thence, that the morrow will be fair, because you know that the Redness of the Sky at Night signifies the Clouds thin, and the Air pure, and on the other side, the Redness of it in the Morning, speaks the Clouds thick, so as the Sun cannot disperse them, or because you observe that generally it so proveth, tho nothing be more mutable than the Air, But you cannot discern the Signs of the Times: You are only dull at making Observations upon the Scriptures, and the Will of God revealed in them concerning me: you might observe, that all the Signs of the Messiah are fulfilled in me. I was Born of a Virgin, as was prophesied by Isaiah. Chap. 7. 14. in Bethlehem Judah, as was prophesied by Micah, Chap. 5. 2. At a time, when the Scepter was departed from Judah, and the Lawgiver from his Feet, as was prophesied by Jacob, Gen. 49. 10. That John the Baptist came in the Power and Spirit of Elias, to prepare my way before me, as was prophesied by Malachi, Mal. 4. 5. That there is one come, who openeth the Eyes of the Blind, and unlooseth the Ears of the Deaf, and maketh the Deaf to hear, as was prophesied by Isaiah, Isa. 35. 5. 6. all these are the Signs of the time, when the Messiah was to come, but these things you cannot discern, but like a Company of Hypocrites, who pretend one thing, and do another, you come and ask a Sign, that you might believe in me, when you have so many, and yet will not believe.

4 A wicked, and adulterous generation, seeketh after a sign, and there shall be no sign given unto it, but the sign of the prophet Jonas. And he left them and departed.

We meet with the same Answer, given to the Pharisees, Chap. 12. 39. you pretend you seek for the Children of Abraham, but you are Balaams rather than his Children; for I saw you Day after day, and rejected, you will not believe, that you see me amongst you, and at your Doors; be believed with any Sign, you will not believe, tho I have shewed you many Signs. You shall have no such Sign as you would have, the Sign of the Prophet Jonas is enough: But in our Lords former reference of them to the Prophet Jonas, he instanced in one particular, viz. his being three Days, and three Nights in the Belly of the Whale; here he fetcheth more generally to refer to Jonas, as a Type of him in some respects, which indeed he was. Chelmsitius reckons them up thus. 1. Jonas was thrown into the Sea by the Mariners, to whom he had betructed himself: Christ was delivered to Death by the Jews, to whom he was specially promised. 2. Jonas was willingly thrown into the Sea. Christ laid down his Life, and Man took it not from him. 3. Jonas by being cast into the Sea, saved those in the Ship. Christ by his Death saved the Children of Men. 4. Jonas after he had been in the Whale three Days, came again forth on dry Land: Christ after three Days, rose again from the dead. 5. The Ninivites, though on the Preaching of Jonas they made a shew of Repentance, yet returning to their former Sins, were soon after destroyed; yet were the Jews within Forty years after Christs Ascension. So as Jonas was many ways an Eminent Sign, and Type of Christ. Our Lord having referred them to Study this Sign, would entertain no more Discourse with them, but leaves, and departs from them. Mark faith, Chap. 8. v. 13. that he entering into the Ship again, departed to the other side, (the Ship which brought him to Dabanaatha, or, Magdala) and went into the Coasts of Galilee again.

5 And when his disciples were come to the other side, they had forgotten to take bread.

6 Then Jesus said unto them, Take heed, and beware of the leaven of the Pharisees, and of the Sadducees.

7 And they reasoned amongst themselves, saying, It is because we have taken no bread.

Mark faith, Chap. 8. v. 14, 15, 16. Now the Disciple had forgotten to take Bread, neither had they in the Ship with them more than one Loaf. And he charged them, saying, Take heed and beware of the Leaven of the Pharisees, and of the Leaven of Herod. And they reasoning amongst themselves, said, It is because we have no Bread. The Disciples went into the Ship, without taking a due care for Provision for their Bodies, which they were sensible of, when they came on shore on the other side. Christ happened in the mean time, to give them a caution against the Doctrine of the Pharisees and Sadducees, and Herodians, which he properly expelleth (tho Metaphorically) under the Notion of Leaven, this they understood not, but fancied that he had spoken this to them with reference to their want of Bread to supply their necessity, they should not go to the Pharisees, or Sadducees, or Herodians, for leaven; or that they should not go to buy any Bread of the Pharisees, or of the Sadducees. So dull are we to understand Spiritual things, and so foolish had they forgot the Doctrine which our Saviour had so lately taught them, Ch. 13. 17, 18. That those things which are Forraign to a Man, and come not out of his Heart, do not defile a Man, but those things only which proceed out of his Heart.

8 Which when Jesus perceived, he said unto them, O ye of little faith, why reason ye amongst your selves, because ye have brought no bread?

9 Do ye not yet understand, neither remember, the five loaves of the five thousand, and how many baskets ye took up?

10 * Neither the seven loaves of the four thousand, and how many baskets ye took up?

11 How is it, that ye do not understand, that I spake it not to you concerning bread, that ye should be ware of the leaven of the Pharisees, and of the Sadducees.

12 Then understood they, how that he had said them not beware of the leaven of bread, but of the doctrine of the Pharisees and of the Sadducees.

Mark giving us an account of this passage, Chap. 8. 17, 18, 19. sheweth some further Expressions, And when Jesus knew it, he said unto them, Why Reason ye, because ye have no Bread? Perceive ye not yet, neither understand, have ye your Eyes hardened? Having Eyes, see ye not, and having Ears, hear ye not? And do ye not yet remember? When I brake the five Loaves, amongst the five thousand, how many Baskets full took ye up? they say unto him twelve. And when the seven amongst four thousand, how many Baskets full of Fragments took ye up? and they said five. And he said unto them, how is it that ye do not understand? Our Saviour here charges them, with three things, Ignorance, Unbelief, Forgetfulness. Ignorance in that they did not understand, that his usual way was to Discourse spiritual things to them, under Earthly Similitudes, and by Leaven he meant understand something else than Leaven, which Men use to Leaven their Bread. Unbelief, That they having seen the Power, and Goodness of the Lord and Master, to feed four thousand, with seven Loaves, and five thousand with five Loaves, leaving a great remainder, and that he did this for a mixed multitude, out of a mere Compassion to the Wants, and Cravings of humane Nature, should not judge, that he was able to provide for them, also they had brought no Bread: Or, doubt whether he would do it or no for them, who were much dearer to him. 3. Forgetfulness, which is often in Scripture made the Mother of Unbelief and Disobedience. Deut. 4. 9. 23. & 25. v. 19. Psa. 78. 11. There is nothing of Difficulty in the terms, only in this History we may learn these things. 1. That God expecteth that he should, not only hear and see, but understand. 2. That he looks we should not only hear for the present time, but for the time to come; Christ expected that his Disciples should have learned from his Doctrine, about walking of Hands, that he could not mean the Leaven of Bread, but something else, which might defile them. 3. That he is much displeased with his own People, when he discerns Blindness, and Ignorance in them, after their more than ordinary means of Knowledge. 4. That former Experiences, of Gods Power and Goodness, ministered for us, or to us, ought to strengthen our Faith in him, when we come under the like Circumstances, and a disputing, or doubting after such Experiences Argueth but a little, and very weak Faith, and an hundred of them, that the Mercies of God have not made a just impression on our Souls. Then understood they that he said them not beware of the Leaven of Bread, but of the Doctrine of the Pharisees, and of the Sadducees. Mark instead of the Pharisees, hath, and of the Sadducees. Leaven of Herod, which he made some think, that Herod be to two Heads, Justification by the works of the Law, and these Works too according to that imperfect use of the Law they gave. 2. The Obligation of the Tradition of the Elders: Whole Traditions were also (as we have heard) some of them that Nature, that they made the Law of God of no Effect. The Doctrine of the Sadducees, we are in part told, Acts 23. 8. They said, there was no Resurrection, nor Angel, nor Spirit: These were Principles excellently fitted to Men of Atheistical Hearts and Lives, and is more than probable, that Herod and his Courtiers, and some of his Lords, and great Captains, had taken in some of these Principles, and these were the Herodians mentioned in Mat. 23. 16. & Mar. 3. 6. These Doctrines are by our Saviour compared to Leaven, not only because of the lower Nature of it, but also, because Heretics words (as the Apostle faith) as Leaven doth a Candle, and are of a Contagious Nature; Met. Our Saviour Ch. 13. 33. had upon this Account compared the Gospel to Leaven, because by its Blessing upon it, it should influence the World as we heard, Ch. 13.

13 When Jesus came into the coasts of Cefarea Philippi, he asked his disciples, saying, Whom do men say, that I the son of man am?

14 And they said, * Some say that thou art, John the Baptist, some Elias, and others, Jeremias, or one of the prophets.

This, and the following part of this Discourse, is related both by Mark and Luke. Mark hath it, Ch. 8. 27. And Jesus went out, and his Disciples, into the Town of Cefarea Philippi, and by the way he asked his Disciples, saying, Whom do men say that I am? And they answered, John the Baptist, but some say Elias, and others, one of the Prophets. Luke faith, Ch. 9. 18, 19. And it came to pass, as he was alone Praying, his Disciples were with him, and he asked them saying, whom say the People that say Elias, and others say, That one of the Old Prophets is our Saviour was going, viz. Cefarea Philippi: It is so called partly, to distinguish it from another Cefarea, which was built to the Honour of Tiberius King of Lebanon, and upon the River of Jordan. Mark faith, Praying, but as must there signify after, for we cannot think that our Saviour would interrupt himself in Prayer by this Discourse, nor could he be alone Praying, if his Disciples were with him, both which Luke faith, So that by the way I have observed, that the Disciples were certainly translated better. After he had been praying alone, his Disciples were with him, so that this Discourse might be (as Mark faith) in the way, before they came to Cefarea Philippi, whither he was going. He asked his Disciples, saying, whom do men (or the People, as Luke hath it) say that I am? Not that our Saviour who knew the Hearts of all, did not know, but to draw out Peters following Confession. And they said unto him, Some say, thou art John the Baptist, we heard before that Herod said so, others Elias. This is repeated the Prophecy, Mat. 4. 4. 5. the Jews had a Tradition, that before the coming of the Messiah, Elias should come, Job. 1. 21. Some say Jeremias, this is only in Matthew, or one of the Prophets. The Jews being Christ so much wonderful Works, could not relieve themselves who he was. Herod and his Court-party said: That he was John the Baptist risen from the dead. They had it seems, an Opinion of more extraordinary Virtues, or Powers, in such were risen from the dead. Many Interpreters agree that the Jews had an Opinion, that Good men Souls when they died, went into other Bodies, this made them guess that our Saviour was one of the Old Prophets.

15 He faith unto them, But whom say ye that I am?

16 And Simon Peter answered, and said, * Thou art Christ the son of the living God.

Mark faith, Ch. 8. v. 29. Thou art the Christ, Luke faith, v. 9. 20. Peter answered, and said, Thou art the Christ, that is, the Messiah; you that are my Disciples and Apostles, what is your Opinion of me? Our Lord expects not only Faith in our Hearts, but the Confession of our Lips, Rom. 10. 10. And Simon Peter answered, not because he had any Priority amongst the Apostles, but he was of a more quick, and fervid Temper than the rest, and lo speaketh first, they silently agreed to what he said. What his faith is but little, but of that Nature, that it is the very Foundation of the Gospel. Thou art Christ the anointed, the Person of old promised to the World, under the Name of the Messiah, Dan. 9. 24, 25. the Son, not by Adoption, but by Nature, for they believed John the Baptist, Elias, and the Old Prophets, the Sons of God by Grace: It is plain, Peter means more than that. Of the Living God. Our Lord had asked, Whom do Men say that I the Son of Man am? And in the same Sense he speaks to the Disciples: Whom do ye say, that I the Son of Man am? Peter faith Peter we believe, that thou the Son of Man art the Christ, the Son of the living God. Our Saviour in Scripture called the Living God, in opposition to Idols which had Eyes, and saw not, Ears and heard not, nor had any Life in them, Gen. 16. 14. Heb. 3. 12. & 9. 14. So as here we have a full and plain Confession of that Doctrine, which is the Foundation of the Gospel.

17 And Jesus answered, and said unto him, Blessed art thou, Simon Bar-Jona: for flesh and blood hath not revealed it unto thee, * but my Father which is in Heaven.

Our Lord appeareth here to be mightily pleased with this Confession of Peter, and the rest of his Disciples, (for he said observe in the Gospel, that Peter was usually the first in speaking, Ps. 6. 68.) He pronounceth him Blessed, and giveth the reason of it afterward. Simon Bar-Jona, that is, Simon Son of Jona, or as some would have it Son of John, (they think Jona is a Contraction of Johanna.) Our Lord gives him the same Name, Job. 21. 15. For Flesh and blood hath not revealed it unto thee, but my Father which is in Heaven. By Flesh and Blood, our Saviour meant Man, and the Region and Wildom of Man. Thus is often used in Scripture, Isa. 40. 5. Gal. 1. 16. Eph. 6. 12. Some note it always signifieth how when it is in Scripture applied to God. Thou hast not learned this by Tradition, or any Distances from Man, nor yet by any humane Recommendation, but from my Father which is in Heaven. This confirmeth what we have, Eph. 2. 8. That Faith is the Gift of God, Job. 6. 44. No Man cometh to the Son, but he who the Father draweth. Men may attain to things from the reports of Man; Or, from the evidence of Reason, but neither of these is Faith. Faith must be an Afflict to a Proposition, upon the Authority of God revealing it. Nor doth any Man truly, and savingly believe, that Jesus Christ is the Eternal Son of God, and the Saviour of the World, but he in whom God hath wrought such a perisolation; yet is not the Ministry of the Word needles in the Case, because of the Apostles Faith, Faith comes by Hearing, and Ministers are Gods Instruments, by whom Men believe. No Faithers are Gods Instruments, but that which is the Operation of God, make a Soul blessed, but that which is the Operation of God.

18 And I say unto thee that thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it. And I say unto thee also, Thou art Peter, Christ gave him this Name, Job. 1. 42. when his Brother Andrew first brought

And I will give unto thee ] Not unto thee Exclusively that is to say Power and no others; for as we now read remited unto them, and whose Saviour they retain, if they any such Power used by them, for our Saviours first Question, Whom think you that I am? Letteth us know, that his Speech, tho directed to Peter only (in who in the Name of the rest first answered) concerned the rest of the Apostles, as well as Peter.

Besides, as we know, that the other Apostles had as well as he the Key of Knowledge and Doctrine, and by their Preaching opened the Kingdom of Heaven to Men; so the Key of the Kingdom of Heaven was committed to the whole Church as understandable to him. Job. 20. 22, 23. Whose Jesus sever ye remitted unto them, they are remitted unto them, and whose Jesus ye retain, if they they are retained. [The Keys of the Kingdom of Heaven the whole Administration of the Gospel, both with reference to the Publication of the Doctrine of it, and the dependence out the Ordinances of it] We read of the Key of *Knowledge, which the Scribes and Pharisees took away, Luk.
11. 52. and the Key of Government, which the Key of the House of David, shall lay, and shall say, Shalt be said, shall be said, shall will commit the Government into his Hand, which shall be plied to Christ, Jer. 3. 7. The Scribe is Peter; I will be truth tell, and the rest of my Apostles, with the whole Administration of my Gospel; you shall lay the Foundation of the Christian Church, and Administer all the Affairs of it, opening the Truths of my Gospel to the World, and governing those who shall receive the Faith of the Gospel.
And whatsoever thou shalt bind on Earth, shall be bound in Heaven, and whatsoever thou shalt loose on Earth, shall be loosed in Heaven. Some very learned Interpreters have thought that our Saviour here speaketh according to the Language then in use amongst the Jews: who by Binding understood the determining and declaring a thing unlawful, and by Loosing, declaring by Doctrine, or determining by Judgment, a thing unlawful, that is such, as no Mens Conscience were bound to do, or to avoid. So as by this Text, an Authority was given to these first Planters of the Gospel, to determine (by Virtue of their infallible Spirit, breathed upon them) all things that were necessary to be done, and to be avoided. Thus in Jer. 38, it is said, they loosed the Gates the Observation of the Ceremonial Law. Some think, that by this Phrase our Saviour gave to his Apostles, and not to them only, but to the succeeding Church, to the end of the World, a Power of Excommunication, and Absolution to admit in, and to cast out of the Church, and promise to ratify, what they do of this Nature in Heaven, and that this Text is expounded, by Job. 20. 23. *Whose Jesus sever ye remitted, they are remitted, and whose Jesus ye retain, if they are retained, retaining that the Power of the Church, and of Ministers of the Church, is not more extensive than the Power of Christ, who is the Head of the Church, and who give, that the Church hath a Power in a due Order, and for just Causes, to cast Persons out of his Communion, is plain enough from other Texts. But that the Church, hath a Power to remit sins committed against God, more than Declaratively, that is, declaring that upon Mens Repentance, and God hath remitted, I cannot be founded in this Text. Certain it is, that Christ doth not here bind himself to constrain the Erroneous Actions of Men, either in Excommunications, or Absolutions. Nor is it to be thought, that the Actions of this Nature as they do, so to therefore, rather in consequence that our Saviour, by this Promise declared his Will, that his Apostles should settle the Affairs of the Gospel-Church, determining what should be lawful, and unlawful, and setting Rules, according to which all succeeding Ministers, and Officers in his Church should Act, which our Lord would commit in Heaven. And that the ordinary Power of Churches in Censures, is rather to be derived from other Texts of Scripture, than from this. And I deny, but that in the general it may be here included, but that it is not to be thought, that the Church hath a Power to remit sins, that the Sense of Binding and Loosing here, is Excommunicating and Absolving, but a Declinatory, or Judicial Determination of things Lawful, and Unlawful granted to the Apostles.
The not obeying, or living up to what Determinations and Decisions, may be intimated a just Cause of calling Persons out of the Communion of the Church: As the contrary Obedience, and Conformity to them, a good Ground of receiving them into the Communion of the Church. And as the Power granted to the Apostles is further Power than Agrees to any Ministers since their Age. I much doubt, and am very to believe that there is.

20 * Th<sup>e</sup> charged he his disciples<sup>es</sup> that they should tell no man, that he was Jesus the Christ.

We met with four Charges of this Nature before, given to those whom he miraculously Cured, that they should tell no Man of it, Matt. 8. 4. & 9. 30. but this fourth differeth from them. There he only forbade the Publication of his Miracles: Here he forbids them Preaching, that Jesus was the Christ, a Doctrine necessary to be believed, in order to all our Saviours particular Actions. I are we cure this by a Precept, but of a Temporary Force and Obligation, for we know that afterward they did sufficiently publish this aloud, as well for a time, he would not have it published by his Disciples. We cannot certainly determine whether he intended then. 1. Because they were not as yet fit to publish fo great a Truth. Or, 2. Because the time was not yet come, for the Publication of it. Or, 3. He would not have it published, till he role again from the dead, having Triumphed over Death, left People hearing of it before, should have had their Faith shaken by his Death; which seemeth very probable, because in the next Words, he begins to speak of his Death. Or, 4. That he might hereby (as much as might be) avoid the Odium and Envy of the Pharisees. Or, 5. That himself might publish first this great truth of the Gospel, and confirm it by his Miracles.

21 From that time forth began Jesus * to shew unto his disciples, how that he must go unto Jerusalem, and suffer many things of the elders, and chief priests, and scribes, and be killed, and be raised again the third day.

Our Lord taught his Hearers by degrees, as they were able to hear, and to bear his Instruction. He therefore first instructeth them in the Truth of his Divine Nature, and bringeth them to a firm, and steady Assent to this Proposition, That he was the Christ, the Son of God; left they should have this Faith of their's shaken by his Sufferings, and Death, he beginneth to instruct them, as to those things, that when they law it come to pass, they might not be offended, but wait for his Redemption from the Dead.

22 Then Peter took him, and began to rebuke him, saying, † Be it far from thee, Lord, this shall not be unto thee.

Peter took of Lord afide, as we do our Friend, to whom we would speak something, which we would not have all to hear, and began to Rebuke him with Anger to reprove him, as Men often do their Familiar Friends, when they judge they have spoken something beneath them, or that might turn to their prejudice, saying, Be it far from thee Lord, that thou shouldest be unto thee. The Words in the Greek want the Verb, do, leave us in doubt, whether we should translate them, Be Merciful to thy self, spare thy self, or be God, or God shall be merciful unto thee. The last Words expound them, This shall not be unto thee, God shall be Merciful unto thee, and help thee, this shall not betide thee. These Words were undoubtedly spoken by Peter, out of a good intention, and with a singular affection to his Matter, but 1. They spake him by any ignorance of the Redemption of Mankind, by the Death of Christ, of the Doctrine of the Crofs, and of the Will of the Father, to contrainct him, when he had but now acknowledged to be the Christ, the Son of God. Good Intentions, and good Affections, will not justify evil Actions, Christ takes him up faintly.

26 For what is a man profited, if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own Soul? or * what shall a man give in exchange for his * Soul? P.M. 45:7,8

Our Interpreters by Translating the same Word Soul, in the Verbe which had Translated Life, c. 23, let us know that they understood it here of that Effluential part of Man, which we call the Soul, in which Senſe it could not be understood in that Verbe, for it is impoſſible in that Senſe to loſe our Soul, for Chriſt's ſake. Some think that it hatn the True Senſe here, as in that Verbe, and that our Saviour argueth here, from the leſſer to the greater thus, Men will loſe any thing, rather than their Lives. Sign for ſign, and will not a Man loſe for his Life, and be liſt, and ſo forth. But ſurely, if a Man loſe his Life to get the World, what will the World gotten do him good? what can ope a proportionable Exchange, or Co-operation to him for that? Now if you value your Temporal Life at that rate, how much more ought you to value your Eternal Being and Exiſtence? It coſt much more to loſe the Senſe is plainier, if we take it as our Translators have taken it, for, otherwiſe part of the Argument is not expreſſed, but left to be understood, or ſupplied from the next Verbe. So as the Senſe is this, Beſides Bodies which may be killed by Perſecutors, you carry about with you Immortal Souls of infinite more value, and beſides a temporal Life, of which you are in poſſeſſion, there is an Eternal State, which awaits you. You are Creatures ordained to an Eternal Exiſtence, either in Miſery, or in Happineſs. Admit you could by playing your ſelves, denying God, and ſinuing the Croſs, declining a Life according to my Precepts, and Example proſe your Temporal Life, yet what will you geſt by it, conſidering that by it you muſt either loſe it, or you Eternal happy Exiſtence, for I ſhall then deny you both my Father, and his Angels, can any thing you can get or loſe in this World, be a proportionable Exchange for Eternal Happineſs?

three with him. How long he stayed there, no Evangelist tells us: The multitude, and his Disciples stayed waiting for his coming, probably not far off, some of the Scribes were got to them, and they were arguing together: The day after our Lord and Peter, James and John, were come down from the Mount; they got to the multitude, who received him with great Praise, and saluted him: He began to inquire what they were Discouraging about: But was by and by interrupted with a certain Man; who comes and falls down upon his Knees before him, begging Mercy for his Son, who (as Matthew reports his Condition) was Lame, and fore vexed, often falling out the Fire, and often into the Water. Mark faith, he had a Dumb Spirit, that it tore him, he often Foamed and Gnailed with his Teeth, Luke faith, That it was the Mans only Child, that he had a Spirit, that he cryed out, it tore him, he Foamed, and was bruised by it, &c. By the Description of this young Mans Disease, it appears to have been, what we call the Falling Sickness, wherein Men fall down, Foam and beat themselves, when this Disease the Devil joyed, to as at certain times of the Moon; This Disease took him, and the Devil acting with it, he was Dumb at least for the time, and fell sometimes in the Fire, sometimes into the Water, Foamed, Gnailed with his Teeth, tore himself: This seems to have been his Condition. The Father (during Christ's absence) had attempted a Cure by his Disciples, but the Text faith, they could not (the reason we shall hear afterward) upon this he cryeth unto Christ for his help.

17 Then Jesus answered, and said, O faithless, and perverse generation! how long shall I be with you? how long shall I suffer you? Bring him hither to me.

18 And Jesus rebuked the devil, and he departed out of him, and the child was cured from that very hour.

Mark relates this part of the History, much more largely, Ch. 9. 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27. He answered him, and said, O Faithless Generation, how long shall I be with you? How long shall I suffer you? Bring him unto me. And they brought him unto him, and when he saw him, straightway the Spirit tare him, and he fell on the Ground, and maddened Foaming: And he asked his Father, how long is it to thee, since this came unto him? And he said of a Child, And oft times, both cast him into the Fire, and into the Waters, to destroy him: But if thou canst do any thing, have Compassion on us, and help us. Jesus faith unto him: If thou canst believe, all things are possible to him that believeth. And straightway the Father of the Child cryed out, and said, with Tears, Lord I believe, help my unbelief. When Jesus saw, that the People came running together, he rebuked the foul Spirit, saying unto him, Thou Dumb and Deaf Spirit, I charge thee come out of him, and enter no more into him. And the Spirit cryed, and rent him, and came out of him, and he was as one Dead. Infomuch, that many said; He is Dead. But Jesus took him by the Hand, and lifted him up, and he arose. Luke relates this shorter, but addeth nothing to what is in the other Evangelists, Luk. 9. 41, 42. Then Jesus answered, and said, O Faithless, and perverse Generation. Christ here calls them, not to with respect to justifying Faith, but that Faith which respected the Divine Will, as to work his Miracles. Every Revelation of the Divine Will, is the Object of Faith, Christ had revealed to the Jews, that he was sent of God, and furnished with such a Power, that the Jews; and particularly the Scribes did not believe, the Faith of the Father of this Child, was but very weak in the Case; no more, as we shall see afterwards, was the Faith of the Disciples, so as he may be understood to respect them all, tho in different Degrees, he calls them Perverse, because they had to often seen, and experienced his Power of this Nature, yet their Faith was not clear, and strong. He biddeth that the young Man should be brought to him, and it was done. And when he saw him (saith Mark) straightway, the Spirit tare him, &c. Our Saviour could easily have prevented this, but probably he suffered it, that the Miracle might be more Evident. However it let us see, how hardly the Devil pervert with his Possession in us, in any Degree, and how ready he is to run to the length of his Line, in doing us Mischief. Christ asked his Father, how long he had to be so vexed, his Father tells him from a Child. By this also the Miracle was more Illustrations, which probably was the reason; why Christ propounded the Question: No Evil is too inordinate for Christ to remove. The Father reneweth his request, and in it sheweth the Weakness of his Faith. If faith be, thou canst do any thing, his coming to Christ, and Crying to him, argued that he believed, he could do something, his Saying, If thou canst do any thing, speaks the Weakness of his Faith. Christ tells him, If thou canst believe, all things are possible. Nothing yetth Gods hands, but his Creatures unbelief. It is said, That Christ could not in Capernaum, do many mighty works, because of their unbelief. Upon this the Father crys out, Lord I believe, help my Unbelief. Men may truly believe, and yet have a mixture of Unbelief. God rewards a weak Faith, to Souls Labouring under the Sense of their Weakness, and desiring an increase of Strength, Christ rebukes the Spirit (called a Dumb and Deaf Spirit, because it made the Person such that was thus affected, with it) Christ commands the Spirit out, and to come out, as we more to enter into him. The Evil Spirit roars, resist him, comes out, and leaveth him as our dead: Which still commendeth us in his Malice to mankind, he will do what harm he can, when he cannot do us the harm he would.

19 Then came the disciples to Jesus apart, and said, Why could not we cast him out? 20 And Jesus faith unto them, Because of your unbelief, for verily I say unto you, If ye have faith as a grain of mustard seed, ye shall say unto this mountain, Remove hence to yonder place, and it shall remove, and nothing shall be impossible unto you.

21 Howbeit this kind goeth not out, but by prayer and fasting.

Mark repeats only what we have here, Ch. 9. 21. The Realm assigned here to our Saviour, why his Disciples did not cast out this Devil; was their Unbelief, not their want, but the Weakness of their Faith. Christ here again lets us see the Power of Faith, and the mischief of Unbelief. I take the plain Sense of the Text to be this, That there is nothing, which may tend to the Glory of God, or to our good, but may be obtained of God, by a firm Exercise of Faith in him; whether our Saviour here speaks of a Faith of Miracles, or no, I will not determine, I rather think, that he speaketh here of any true Faith; I rather think, that the Power and Promise of God for his Object. The Promise of working Miracles by a Divine Power committed to them, was a particular Promise made to the Disciples, Mat. 10. and so was only the Object of their Faith. But I take our Saviours words to extend to a further Latitude, so as to Miraculous Operations; it was only applicable to them. There is nothing which God hath Promised to give or bestow on any, but Faith will obtain from him, if attended by a fervent Prayer, to which fasting is subservient, as preparing us to it. There are some things, which are obtained by a stronger Faith, and by more fervent and importunate Prayers than others are: A Mercy sometimes seems to come out of the Hand of God with more Difficulty, and Wrestling for it, but there is nothing which is the Object of a Promise, but is to be done, and obtained by the vigorous Exercise of Faith, and by fervent and importunate Prayer. The Apostles had yet but a weak and imperfect Faith, and they had not used such fervent and importunate Prayer in this Case, as they ought to have done, thence did this work appear so difficult unto them.

22 * And while they abode in Galilee, Jesus said unto them, The son of man shall be betrayed into the hands of men.

23 And they shall kill him, and the third day he shall be raised again, And they were exceeding sorry.

Mark faith, Ch. 9. 30, 31, 32. And they departed thence, and passed through Galilee, and he would not say unto them, what he said. For he taught his Disciples, and said unto them, The Son of Man is delivered into the Hands of Men, and they shall kill him, and after that he is killed, he shall rise the third Day. But they understood not that saying, and were afraid to ask him. Luke faith, Ch. 9. 44. he said unto them, See ye lest ye sayings sink down into your ears, for the Son of Man shall be delivered into the hands of Men. But they understood not this saying, and it was hid from them; that they perceived it not, and they feared to ask him that saying: It is said, That Christ taught his Disciples, as they were able to hear, Mar. 4. 33, 34. he tells them Joh. 16. 12. He had many things to say unto them, but they could not hear them at that time. Christ a long time concealed the Doctrine of his Passion, and Resurrection from the dead, from them, until he had confirmed them in the great point of his Divine Power, and his being the true Messiah; now he begins to deliver this Doctrine unto them, that what they should now soon see, might not weaken their Faith in him, as the Messiah and the Son of God: Partly, in regard of that inordinate Opinion, which had possessed the Generality of the Jews, that the Messiah should be a temporal Prince, and should deliver the Jews from that Servitude, under which they were, and had for a long time been: Partly, in regard of the Difficulty to conceive, how he who was the Son of God could dye. Once or twice before therefore he had begun to speak to them, about his Passion, Ch. 16. 21. My Son, and Elia, had some Discourse with him about it, Luk. 9. 31. The Text faith, They understood it not, It was hid from them. They perceived it not. They were afraid to ask him. They were Sorry possibly they were sorry, that they could not understand it, and reconcile it to the Notion of the Messiah, they had drank in, for it seems hard to assert, they were sorry for what Christ said about his suffering, because the Scripture faith, they understood it not, thinking our Saviour had not spoken plainly of a matter of Fact which should be, but that he intended something else, besides what his Words seemed plainly to import.

24 * And * when they were come to Capernaum, they that received tribute money, came to Peter, and said, Doth not your master pay tribute?

25 He faith Yes. And when he was come into the house, Jesus prevented him, saying, What thinkest thou Simon? Of whom do the kings of the earth take custom, or tribute? of their own children or of strangers?

26 Peter faith unto him, Of strangers, Jesus faith unto him, Then are the children free.

27 Notwithstanding, lest we should offend them, go thou to the Sea, and cast an hook, and take up the fish, that first cometh up, and when thou hast opened his mouth, thou shalt find Pence, it is a piece of money. That take, and give unto them for me and thee.

The Jews were by Gods Law, Exod. 30. 13. obliged to pay an half Shekel, which was for the Service of the Sanctuary, v. 16. this was paid every year, the half Shekel amounted in our Money to fifteen Pence, or thereabouts, and this was the Tribute Money here demanded, and paid; some doubt, and say that the Romans having the Jews now under their Power, imposed this payment upon their Head, as a Tribute to the Emperor, which being a Customary payment, they thought the Jews would less trouble at, tho it was changed from a Sacred, to a Civil use, from an Homage Penny to God, to be an Homage Penny to the Conquerors. The Agreement of this Sum, with what was required by the Law, together with what our Saviour faith afterward, will incline us to think, that this Tax was that Religious Tax mentioned, Exod. 30. and that the Collectors were some Officers, deputed for that Service by the Priests. When Peter came into the house, our Saviour preventeth his proposing the Question to him (for Peter had before told them, ye shall die) by asking him of whom the Kings of the earth use to receive Tribute, of their own Children or of Strangers? where by Children, we must not understand their Political Children, that is their Subjects, but their Natural Children for otherwise Peter would not have said of Strangers, nor would our Saviour have Answered, Then are the Children free, for there is nothing more ordinary than for Priests to receive Tribute of their Subjects. That which our Saviour seemeth to mean is this, This Tribute is gathered for my Heavenly Father. I am his Son, I am not bound to pay it. Notwithstanding lest we offend, Let us give them what we can to pay us the Law of God, Go thou to the Sea, (the Sea of Galilee which was near) and take up the Fifth, which cometh up first, and when thou hast opened his Mouth, thou shalt find Pence a piece of Money, to the value of about an half Crown in English. How this Money came in the Mouth of the Fish, is a very idle dispute, considering that he that takes, was the Creator of all things. And pay thou for me and thee. The Popples who think they have found here an Argument for the Primacy of Peter, because Christ paid this Tribute for him, and not for the other Disciples, do not only affirm what they do not know, but forget that Capernaum was the City in which Peter lived, (we heard before of Christs curing his Wives Mother there of a Fever) and that Peter was the only Man of whom this Tribute was demanded. This Portion of Scripture affords us this Instruction, That it is the Duty of Christians, to yield something of their own right, when they cannot resist upon, and obtain it without a Scandal, and prejudice to the Gospel, and the concern of Religion. If this were required in pursuance of the Law, Exod. 30. 12, 13. and our Saviour had refused to pay it, the Scribes, and Pharisees would have Clamoured against him, as Violating the Law of God. If it were required as a Civil Tax, they would have Clamoured against him, as being that went about to stir up Sedition, or Rebellion. Having therefore first asserted his right, and immunity, he departs from it, to prevent a Scandal. We must not depart with Gods right; but to depart from our own, is not only lawful, but oftentimes very advisable, and expedient. Our Saviour chooseth rather to Work a Miracle, than to give a Scandal, and by this Miracle he also confirmed his Immunity, that he was the Son of him, who is the King of Kings, and so not in strictness obliged to pay it.

* At the same time * came the disciples unto Jesus, saying, Who is the greatest in the Kingdom of heaven?

Mark who relates also the same History, Ch. 9. v. 33. more largely, faith, that this Discourse was in the House at Capernaum, and that our Saviour began with them, asking them, what they had been Discouraging of by the way? they told their Peace, for they had been in the way arguing one with another, who should be the greatest, they might at the same time also ask Christ the Question. Luke in whom we find the same History, speaketh of it only as a Question that had risen among themselves, Ch. 9. 46. It had been the matter of their thoughts in the way, and of their more private Discourse also, Luke faith, Jesus knew the thoughts of their Hearts. We had need tell the Lord at all times before our Eyes, for we are always in his sight. His incomprehensible all our Paths (as the Psalmist faith) in the way when we think we also cannot be overheard, he heareth us well, and will call us to account for our Travelling thoughts, and Discourses. They were at first amazed to tell the Lord, what they had been thinking, and discouraging upon, for Mark faith, v. 34. they held their Peace. But by and by they propounded the question to Christ himself, (so faith Matthew) what do they mean here by the Kingdom of Heaven? or what gave them occasion to such a Discourse? It is most probable, that they did not in this Question, intend the Kingdom of Glory, but either the Church, or Gospel dispensation. Or (which indeed is most likely) That Earthly Kingdom which the Jews thought the Messiah should exercise on the Earth, The General Error of their Nation, about a secular Kingdom, which the Messiah when he came, should exercise upon the Earth, reforming the Kingdom to Israel, as they think it, Acts 1. 6. Seemeth to have infected them, so as to in this they differed from the unbelieving Jews, that they owned Christ to be the promised Messiah, and the Christ the Son of God, yet they looked for a Temporal Kingdom, which he should Administer. Three times we find them in this mistake. Here, and Chap. 30. 24, 24, and at our Saviours Administration of the Supper, Luke 22. 24, and by Acts 1. 6. It should seem that till Christs Ascension, they were not fully instructed in the Nature of Christs Kingdom, but expected, that after his Resurrection, this Kingdom of his should have begun, and therefore they say, While thou art at this time reforming the Kingdom of Israel. Some think that that which at this time misled their jealous and carnal up their Ambition, was our Saviours promising Peter the Key of the Kingdom of Heaven, Chap. 16. and paying Tribute for him, Chap. 17. But neither of these could be, for had not the Keys been given equally, the Question had been determined, they needed have reasoned no more. He that had the Keys, was certainly to be the greatest, and for the paying of Tribute, it was too Minute a thing to cause such a jealousy, besides this discourse of theirs, was by the way to Capernaum, where now was, that was after he came to the House. But they doubtless fancied a temporal Kingdom of the Messiah, in which places would be bestowed, and Christ by his discourse about the Tribute, had alerted himself a King's Son; and they conceived that after his Death, and Resurrection, (which Christ had lately been speaking of) this his Kingdom would begin, which all agree with what we have, Acts 1. 6. they therefore thought it now time to speak for places. They had been arguing the point amongst themselves, and could not come to a Resolution. Some of them were Christs near Kinsmen (such was James, Gal. 1. 19.) One of them had more extraordinary parts, he Named two of them on this account, the Sons of Thunder. To others he had shewed a more particular kindness. John is called the beloved Disciple, Peter, James and John, were taken up to the Mount to see his Transfiguration. These things might cause some Emulation and Jealousy, they therefore came to our Saviour to be resolved. 1. How slowly do we conceive, and how hardly do we come to understand Spiritual things? we are of the Earth, and we are Earthly. 2. How prone are we to seek great things for our selves; neglecting our higher Spiritual, and Eternal concerns? This Text lets us see, that even the best of Men are subject to Earthly-mindedness, Ambition, Emulation, and hardly brought truly to understand, believe, and seek the things which are above. Let us now observe the Saviours behaviour himself towards his Disciples upon this Question, and what Answer he makes to it.

2 And Jesus called a little child unto him, and set him in the midst of them.

* And said unto them, Verily I say unto you, * Except ye be converted, and become as little * Chap. 19. children, ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven.

4 Whosoever therefore shall humble himself as * Cor. 14. 20. this

New Testament, for the general Notion of the Word, is only a Company of People called together, and in this Sense, The Church, is no more than tell the Multitude, make his Crime more publick: Now what that multitude was which our Saviour meant, would easily be understood, when the Cures came to be forned. But the next Verse will make it more plain, v. 18. Verily I say unto you, whosoever you shall bind on Earth, shall be bound in Heaven, &c. By the Church, then must be meant, those who had Power to Bind, and Loose. Now tho, at this time, there was no particular Church formed, yet there were some who had a Power to Bind, and Loose, Christ had given such a Power to his Apostles. These were the present Church, and at this time in being. These were afterwards to constitute particular Churches, which Officers were to be called. There are yet further Disputes, whether this Office and Contumacy, be to be told only to the Rulers, or to the Multitude. I say to the whole Church, but first to the Rulers, then by them to the Multitude, not to Judge of it, but for their Content, in citing a Person out of the Communion of the Church. Thus the infectious Person was first accused to Paul; then cast out by the Consent of the whole Church, 1 Cor. 5. 3, 4. For it is unreasonable to think, that People should have Communion to any, without knowing a justifiable Cause. And to no purpose, for the Rulers in a Church to cast one out of its Communion, with whom the Members will have Communion. If he will not hear the Church, let him be unto thee as an Heathen and a Pagan. That, is, let him be as a Vile Person, for so they esteemed all Heathens, and Pagan. How far this could reach beyond having an Intimacy of Civil Communion with them, and a Communion into them in the Sacrament, I cannot understand, for as Christians were Licensed to have Communion with Heathens and Pagan: So neither were they denied the benefit of their Prayers, and hearing the Apostles preach. I am very well satisfied, that the Primitive Church did not deny to Persons Excommunicated, Liberty to be present at the Prayers of the Church, but it was long after the Apostles times, and whether grounded upon any Practice of theirs, I much doubt. Christians had a Liberty to pray for any who had not sinned the sin unto Death. That they might not be present at such Prayers, I cannot learn from any thing in Holy Writ.

* Joh. 20. 23.
1 Cor. 5. 4.

18 Verily I say unto you, *Whosoever ye shall bind on Earth, shall be bound in heaven, and whatsoever ye shall loose on Earth, shall be loosed in Heaven. We met with this Sentence, Ch. 16. v. 19, where we observed that by Binding, and Loosing, was signified (according to the usage of the Jews of those times) declaring of Propositions, true or false, or Judging things Lawful, or Unlawful. Some think that it is no further import here; but it is the Opinion of Mr. Calvin, and other very judicious Interpreters, that it is here to be extended to the Confines of the Church: The Sentence of the Church pronounced justly in the Case of Offences, and is added, let Persons justly denied the Communion of the Church, should continue justly Censured. Christ affirms these Persons, that such Censures ought not to be lifted, for God would confirm them in Heaven, as also to their Absolutions, or Re-admissions of such Persons into their Communion, upon their sincere Repentance, an acknowledgement of their Errors. Not that our Lord by this intended to confirm all Sentences of Excommunication, or to patronize any Cheat or Hypocrisy in any, to gain an Absolution, or Reintegration to the Church. But only as to the first to assure stubborn, and impenitent Sinners, that he would ratify what his Church did, according to the Rule he had given them to Act by. It is therefore a terrible Text, to those who are justly, and duly cut off from the Communion of the Church, for Notorious and scandalous Sinners: Such as who committed, and doth not repent of, they shall never enter into the Kingdom of God. And as Comfortable to those, who being loosed out do truly repent, and are under Temptations, to be swallowed up of too much Sorrow. If therefore any be cast out of any Church, for profligacy, or standing in any Truth of the Gospel, or because he will not do what is sinful; we must not understand them bound in Heaven, tho they be bound on Earth, nor have any such Excommunications any Terror in them. How terrible are these Words, but also how comforting, what do they represent? The Church is not by this Text made inflexible, nor is the Holy God, by it engaged to defend their Errors.

* Joh. 20. 23.
1 Cor. 5. 4.

19 Again I say unto you, that if two of you shall agree on Earth, as touching any thing that they shall ask, *it shall be done for them of my Father, which is in Heaven. 20 For where two or three are gathered together in my name, there am I in the midst of them. Most Interpreters agree, a Connexion between these Verses, and those immediately preceding, as if it were a further Confirmation of what God had said concerning his Binding, and Loosing in Heaven, whatsoever they should Bind or Loose on Earth, and say, the Asking mentioned in this Verse, I suppose that no Church will adventure upon to Grave an Excommunication, without asking his direction in Council. Nor undertake such a thing as Absolution, without the like serious asking of God pardon for the repeating Sinners. Now faith's Let the Church be never so final, that to impetrate in Prayers on this occasion, what they ask of God be done. Whether it hath any such reference or no, or be an independent Promise of Christ's Presence with his Church, I shall not determine. Those who think this Text hath such a particular reference, yet do also grant, it is a more general Promise of Christ's Presence with his People. Whosoever they are met by his Authority, or upon his Account or Command, whether it be for Confession or Judgment, or Prayer, or the Celebration of any sacred Institution of his, he is in the midst of them, to Protect and Favour them: What they ask shall be done for them (that is, provided the thing asked be good, Chap. 7. 11.) and for a right End, James 4. 3, and in a right manner, Luke 18. 1. James 1. 5, 6, 7. Christ in this Text establisheth the Duty of Prayer in Communion with others. He doth not require of his People secret Prayer, Chap. 6. 6, but also pray in Company with others; the gathering together of his People for Prayer, whether in private Families, or more publick Congregations.

21 Then came Peter to him, and said, Lord! How often shall my brother sin against me, and I forgive him? till seven times? 22 Jesus saith unto him, I say not unto thee, Till seven times, *but Until seventy times seven times.

* Ch. 18.
* Ch. 18.

Luke hath something like this, Ch. 17. 4. but it seemeth to have been spoken at another time, and upon some other occasion, yet the Sense is much the same, and there are who think that Peter's mention of seven times, arose from the same command there, that we should forgive our Brethren, offering us seven times, when our Saviour by it intended us a certain and definite number, but a number uncertain, and indefinite. But it is a greater Question, What meaning? And what Forgiveness is here meant? I cannot think that our Saviour here speaketh concerning the Churches absolving scandalous Sinners justly Excommunicated, but of the private Forgiveness of injuries done to us; it is not the Church, but forgive him, for altho the Doors of the Church ought to be as open to a repenting Sinner, as the Doors of Heaven as yet methinks both the Purse of the Text, and the following Parable (which seemeth to me a Comment upon this Text) seems to lead us to the Interpretation of these Verses, as to private Wrongs or Injuries, they are properly sin against us, and such as is in every single Persons power to forgive. But it seems hard, that Christians should be obliged to forgive another his private Wrongs, so often as he doth them, if he will go on without end, multiplying affronts and injuries to us; we must therefore know, that our Saviour by this Precept doth not oblige any to take his Enemy into his Bed, and make him his intimate, or Confidant again; but only to lay aside all Malice, all Thoughts, and Desires of Revenge towards him, to put on a Charitable frame of Spirit towards him, so as to be ready to do him any common Offices of Friendship: Thus far we are obliged to forgive those that do us Injuries, so often as they stand in need of Forgiveness; the Apostle, Col. 3. 8. speaks of Wrath, Malice, &c. as pieces of the Old man, which every true Christian hath put off, and calls upon us, in Malice to be Children.

23 Therefore is the kingdom of heaven likened to a certain king, which would take account of his servants.

24 And when he had begun to reckon, one of them brought unto him, which owed him ten thousand Pounds.

25 But forasmuch as he had not to pay, his Lord commanded him to be sold, and his wife, and children, and all that he had, and pay the debt.

26 The servant therefore fell down, and worshipped him, saying, Lord have patience with me, and I will pay thee all.

27 Then the Lord of that servant was moved with compassion, and loosed him, and forgave him the debt.

28 But his same servant went out, and found one of his fellow servants, which owed him an hundred pence, and he laid hands on him, and took him by the throat, saying, Pay me that thou owest.

29 And his fellow servant fell down at his feet and besought him, saying, Have patience with me, and I will pay thee all.

30 And he would not: but went and cast him into prison, till he should pay the debt.

31 So when his fellow servants saw what was done, they were very sorry, and came, and told unto their Lord, all that was done.

32 Then his Lord, after that he had called him, said unto him, O thou wicked servant, I forgave thee all that debt, because thou desiredst me.

33 Shouldst thou not also have had compassion on thy fellow servant, even as I had pity on thee?

34 And his Lord was wroth, and delivered him to the tormentors, until he should pay all that was due unto him.

35 *So likewise shall my heavenly Father, do also unto you, if ye from your hearts, forgive not every one his brother their trespasses.

All these Verses (except the last) are but a Parable, which (as I before shewed) is a Similitude brought from the usual Actions of Men, and made use of to open, or apply some spiritual Doctrine. The main Scope, or the Proposition of Truth, which our Saviour designed upon this Parable, is that which is first and Principally to be considered, and intended, that as I before shewed, is to be known, either by the particular Explanation given by our Saviour, or by what went immediately before, or followeth immediately after. The Scope of this Parable is simply exprest, v. 3. So also shall my Heavenly Father do unto you, if you from your hearts, forgive not every one his Brother their Trespases. Nor is it obscurely hinted to us, in what went before, where our Saviour was instructing Peter in the Duty of forgiving Men their Trespases: This being agreed, as we use to say, Men Similitudo non ut non four feet, we are not to expect that all the Actions of Men mentioned in the Parable, should be answered by some Correspondent Actions of God, as Similitudes always halt, so never more than when by them, Gods Actions are exprest, and represented to us. The main points of this Parable instructeth us in are. 1. That it is our Duty, especially those, who have received Forgiveness from God, to forgive their Brethren. 2. That if they do not, they may justly question, whether God hath forgiven them, and expect the same Severity from him, which they see unto their Brethren. These being the main things for instruction, in which, this Parable is brought, and which we ought chiefly to Eye, as the things taught us by this Parable, nothing hindreth, but that it may all instruct us in few other things, we cannot raise a Proposition of Truth, from every Branch of the Parable, and some things be put in according to the Passions, and usual dealings of Men, which possibly are in them unwelcome, and Actions, we must therefore know, that our Saviour by this Parable means agree to the pure and Holy Nature of God. I will not open such terms in the Parable, as may be left intelligible to Vulgar Readers. The Kingdom of Heaven, My Administration of my Kingdom: I am come to purchase Remission of sins, and to dispense out Remission of sins, to those who are indebted to the Justice of my Father, but in the Application of my Blood, to Men and Women, for the Remission of their sins, both my Father and my self, will do as a King, that took Account of his Servants, &c. Men must look for Pardon from my Father, and benefit from me as their Redeemer, upon the following terms. Ch. 6. 15. [Ten Thousand Talents:] a certain, for an uncertain Number, a very great Sum. Those who have computed it, say it amounted to a Million, and Eight Hundred, seventy five Thousand Pounds: [He commanded him to be sold, and his Wife and Children, and all he had.] A thing which our Law will not suffer, but in use amongst other Nations, and amongst the Jews in particular, as may be learned from, 2 Kin. 4. 1. and he delivered him to the Tormentors: [that is, to the keepers of the Prison, to the next World's work teach, and the Greek Word often signifieth no more, tho it doth indeed sometimes, An Hundred Pence, v. 28. signifieth a small Sum hardly exceeding in our Money Fifty shillings.] This Parable instructeth us in these Truths. 1. That as Men by the Law of Nature, and God, and the Laws of Men, may be all Debtors, to our Reputation, to our Estate. So we are all Debtors, to the Glory, Honour, and Justice of God. 2. That it is a vast Debt we owe to Gods Honour and Justice; to which no Debt owing by us to Men, can bear any Proportion. 3. That we have nothing to pay to us, can bear any Proportion to our Debt. 4. That God hath a right to demand a full Satisfaction of us. 5. That God for Christ's sake, upon Applications to him for Mercy will forgive us our Debts. 6. That we are not to ready to forgive our Brethren their little Injuries, as God is to forgive us. 7. That our Difficulty to forgive our Brethren, after Gods Liberality in forgiving us, is a great Charge, or will be a great Charge against us, in the Court of Heaven. 8. That we ought to let before
